My Reincarnation Story

by

Evgeny Meshkov

I, Evgeny Meshkov, have released this book, “My Reincarnation Story”, to the public domain. This waiver applies worldwide. You may freely copy, share, and translate this book.

However, since I wrote in this book the truths about my life, morally you should not change or modify this book in any way that changes or distorts those truths. You will make an error if you distort the original meaning of this book.

According to the Universal Law, we people must suffer for our errors – in this life or in one of our future lives, but all mistakes we make will be paid for eventually.

This book was originally published in 2026.

The book “Thiaoouba Prophecy” by Michel Desmarquet (First published as “Abduction to the 9th planet”, ISBN: 0-646-15996-8) is sometimes used for references in this book.

Some of this document’s content may be for people who have reached the adult, legal age, which is often 18+, but some jurisdictions have set the legal age as 19+, 21+, and other ages.

I have to report the truth as it is: from what I see in my dreams, and what understandings I gather from my life’s experiences. The contents of this document are not propaganda of any illegal activities or illegal organizations even if such have to be mentioned.

Introduction

Dear reader, I had to quickly stop working on this book much earlier than I hoped in order to upload to the Internet what I have should certain events happen in my life. As the result, the Russian texts in this book haven't been fully translated into English by me. You'll have to use translation tools if you don't speak Russian. I'm sorry for the inconvenience.

I wasn't able to properly edit the Part 1 of this book too, leaving just my raw scripts I wrote for my videos. Part 2 also has an unedited script for a video I made.

It's possible the indexation (Lives Data Index) got broken here and there. Something that I wanted to look into later in order to fix any issues my translation might have caused.

But other than that, the book is quite finished as far as information is concerned. If you read it carefully and remember well what I wrote, the whole picture should be clear to you: you'll see how I came to know about Thiaoouba Prophecy book and how I learned it is a true book which depicts events that truly happened (I properly wrote about those experiences in a separate book "Simple Truths of Life" which you can download for free from various websites); how I came to learn about my past life of Vivien Leigh and found enormous number of things which prove it is my past life; how I used all that knowledge and understandings to then find many more of my past lives, as well as past lives of some other people.

If the main message of the dream I had on April 2, 2026 will not come true (other parts of that dream did already come true, making it yet another true dream in my collection), then once I collect my strength, I will be slowly working on editing this book so that later I can upload its proper version.

At first, I used 3-rd person when referring to myself in a past life before fully knowing I am Vivien Leigh, etc. Later I started using the 1-st person when referring to me in my past lives. Due to me having to edit out quotes and various other things, some paragraphs may contain both 1-st and 3-d person, indicating the time I wrote each sentence.

If you're someone whose past life I think I know, then you should have due diligence and seek information about your supposed past life – see if you have parallels, synchronicities, if you suffered in a way which might be considered suffering for some error you did in that supposed past life of yours. Ask your own Higher Self if in your past life you were or were not that person. Find as many confirmations as possible before fully committing to the idea that it is you in your past life.

It's possible that while my answer showed you are/were a particular person in you past life, it's possible that you have the 19% of electrons which used to be a part of the person. If it's so, then you are not that person as far as pure reincarnation goes. It's something I realized in August of 2026 and I don't have time atm to re-check my previous answers about the past lives of other people. This might be the case if during the night I got 2 indicators: that you both are/was and aren't/wasn't that particular person in your past life.

Reincarnation, the topic of this book, is highly important. In light of this I urge you to read the whole book because I provide proof some researchers may follow to confirm that I have identical spiritual knowledge, similarities and synchronicities with Vivien Leigh, as well as to confirm I was suffering or living in situations which closely match those in which Vivien Leigh made errors. This will be a huge step to proving that I'm at least telling the truth about these connections. And it would also be a huge step to proving that reincarnation exists.

If I wasn't 100% sure I was Vivien Leigh in one of my past lives, I would not be making this book.

A book called Thiaoouba Prophecy has played a major role in my life and I know from many experiences and research the book tells the truth. I talk about that in my other videos and in my free e-book Simple Truths of Life. And for the proof I'm telling the truth about my experiences you can see my telekinesis videos. The fact that I learned to do the thing considered by many to be science fiction should tell you a lot.

I got the confirmations that I was Michele Avila also. For simplicity and shortness of this video I'll be talking about the connections between my Vivien Leigh life and my current life only in this video.

Part 1. Finding My Recent Past Lives

True Dream

(--True_Dream--) Having found many synchronicities with Michele Avila & Vivien Leigh, I didn't know reincarnation was the reason behind them. I only saw it as an option, and in my thoughts, I felt that while that experience was very interesting and unusual, I could have been anyone else in my past lives. What are the chances one would find two of his past lives just like that on the Internet? And what are the chances that, out of billions of people, I was a once famous actress?

In fact, it's what I told myself before I went to sleep. That night, on September 4 after 4 o'clock in the morning I woke up from a dream in which I was at some type of past life regression, and the question was asked who I was in my past life. All of a sudden, I started to speak in 40-year-old Vivien Leigh's voice, saying: "But I already know the answer! I was the actress Vivian Leigh". (#Other_True_Dreams)

I've had multiple dreams since then, reconfirming I was Vivien Leigh in my past life. It's important to say, that I would ask my Higher Self to give me some answers about my past lives via dreams, and it did. In one such dream I saw a photo of Vivien Leigh after asking my Higher Self to show the photo of me in my past life if I lived in 1785; In another dream I heard myself say in Scarlett O'Hara's voice 'Oh Rhett!' after I asked my Higher Self if it was possible to view a glimpse of my past life of Vivien Leigh. I'll talk about other dreams in my video about my past life of Michele Avila, and you can also read about them from My Diary I'll share with you at the end.

Later I'd realize it's not about chances. Each action and decision has a consequence. Errors lead people to unavoidable suffering – in the current life, or in some other life. It follows then that our good decisions lead us to receiving benefits, which we may also get in another life. So, it's not surprising life can guide us to our past incarnations if it's what we have to discover in our current life. Apparently, this is what have happened to me, and as I continued to discover more and more of my past lives, it started to become more clear why this had to happen.

I started seeing new synchronicities with Vivien Leigh and shortly after I remembered about true dreams and that they can tell us our actual past life.

I knew if I was Vivien then there is a way to prove it by finding her errors linked to me suffering. We'd also have similar psychology since I've lived that life not so long ago, and psyche being part of Astral body doesn't die.

I decided to watch more movies with Vivien and in Waterloo Bridge I saw the almost exact reflection in the scene with Kitty and then with the bridge corresponding to one episode from my life with prostitute Natasha. This is where I knew I was actually Vivien Leigh and my dream was a true dream.

Movie/Play Reflections

In the movie, Vivien's character Myra finds out that her friend Kitty had become a prostitute. Shortly after, Myra decides to do the same to survive. It's shown that she has been doing it for the whole winter at least. (%Natasha)

In my case with Natasha, she told me her friend had become a prostitute first and then Natasha had to join her because she couldn't find work and her money had run out. She'd been doing it the whole winter; for 6 months in fact.

Both Natasha and Myra were unfairly fired by their bosses.

Much later I found another smaller reflection in that movie with the same episode of my life. It concerns Roy who wants to see Myra again but there are issues with the note. He decides to leave, but then Myra's friend Kitty runs out and says Myra wants to meet him. They do meet later.

In my case I wanted to see Natasha again for the second time because I wanted to help her. But there were issues delivering my request to see her. I was about to leave when a girl, who might have been Natasha's friend, came in and, having realized what was happening, ran to bring Natasha in. We did meet again.

Then I also remembered I was falling in love with Natasha during the same day I saw her. I realized upon second viewing of Waterloo Bridge that Myra and Roy fell for one another in one day also.

After this finding I watched all movies with Vivien Leigh in search of new connections. I did find several, and it's quite possible that after learning the details of my other lives I could find even more reflections.

I've noticed that I seem to have suffered for some of the errors of the characters I played in my Vivien life. At the very least there are similarities between those scenes and my life. For now, I think that maybe the characters people play should pay for their errors so that the actor doesn't have to pay the penalty himself. If I'm correct the reason may be in the fact that movies and plays are influencing people, and so if the message is wrong then it may make some people who watched it decide to make the same erroneous decision in their life, causing suffering to themselves or to someone else. (#tags)

Gone With the Wind

Scarlett realizing she doesn't love Ashley and then her returning to Tara which signifies her coming of age.

That is reflected in me realizing I don't truly want to go to live abroad and I'm okay living where I am. Then I started going to my village which I didn't visit for many years. When I first watched Gone With the Wind in English several years ago and didn't know I was Vivien Leigh yet, the connection was still very noticeable. In fact, this movie and Scarlett's ark moved me so much I thought it could help me ($1) live my life more peacefully. It did help for a while.

($2) At about 2:22:30 into the movie there's a close up shot of a check for $300 dollars, which Scarlett got after marrying Frank Kennedy by lying to him about her sister. The date of the check is 20th February. On 20th February 2020 I was almost scammed and cheated at a highly important moment of my life when I tried to publish my official translation of Thiaoouba Prophecy. The publishing company's employee, Michail, gave me a different contract to sign after I read the original which had no obvious issues. Thankfully the signed contract was illegal and so I managed to get them to destroy the copies of the contract.

In Alexander Walker's biography of Vivien, there are mentions of contracts situations, showing that Vivien made an error. Of note is the date – 20 December 1938. But then Walker also writes that Vivien was actually brought to court. So, as Vivien I did suffer somewhat for that error, and maybe this might explain why I got out of my current life's contract situation quickly if that was the suffering for my past life's error.

($Mischievous) Then mother writes about my mischievousness in her diary. I was about 1.5 years then. She writes I'd demand something, cry and wince, while looking with one eye – what is the reaction like? This reminded me so much of Scarlett O'Hara at 2:24:00 into the movie! Of course, it also reminded me of how it was said that during the production of 'A Yank at Oxford' my antics were seemingly paying dividends.

That Hamilton Woman

The dead face. "I know it. I knew that face. For 10 years it looked back at me from different mirrors. Must be me. But I always wait for the miracle. That one time just once [can't make out] it will be another face that looks at me again. A face I knew before, but that face must be dead"

(--Dead_Face--) This was exactly what I had been experiencing for some days after I realized I must have been Vivien Leigh after all – When I looked at Vivien Leigh in photos and videos, it was literally the face I knew before from my past life as Vivien, and since I now live another life in a new physical body that face is dead. (#syncs_Emma)

On top of that I try to use mirrors in dreams and lucid dreams to see the physical bodies I had in my past lives.

The ending of life theme is present in 4 movies with Vivien and I had so far exactly 4 episodes in which I thought about that same thing rather seriously.

The movies are: 1940 Waterloo Bridge, 1948 Anna Karenina, 1955 The Deep Blue Sea, 1961 The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone ($sude_movies)

And while watching The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone there was a very special synchronicity. At about 46:41 for some reason I touched with the fingers of my left hand my lower jaw. And as I was doing it – at exactly the same time, and at the same speed and manner - the character I played, Karen Stone, also touched the exact same spot with the fingers of the left hand on her face! I rarely touch my face and not in this manner!

That movie also mentions and implies a cut throat. I've had 3 dreams in which my throat was cut. One had theater; another had blue car which looked similar to Camaro, but it could have been something else; in the third dream I was on a city's square. Also, I had a somewhat prophetic dream about two people with slit throats.

I was called 'dog' – пёс – by two of my village friends because of my stutter.

I was not at all surprised to see the dog theme present in two of Vivien Leigh movies, just as I was not surprised to see very close resemblances to what I had to experience in my life in those scenes.

In Look Up and Laugh movie the boyfriend of Vivien Leigh's character, played by Tommy Fields, is stammering. In one of the scenes his speech resembles highly well my speech which I had in school when I couldn't speak normally. The other important detail is the fact that in the movie Tommy says he's lost a lot of money on the dogs.

($SimilarFaces) I will also note that Tommy's appearance at one point reminded me of the appearance of the same guy from the village who was the first to call me the above-mentioned word. And I have also noticed more than once that at some points in my past lives my appearance was similar to that of people whom I knew in my current life. These facts do not surprise me much, since it makes it possible to experience life from a different point of view - to experience life on the other side of the barricades, so to speak - and this is one of the reasons for the existence of reincarnation.

And in Storm in a Teacup the dogs play the major role now in the story. I play in Viven Leigh life the daughter of a local politician in Scotland who tries to break the reporter who wrote a negative story about him. At one point the army of dogs storms into the house of that politician and the chaos issues. People find out about the incident and during the politician's speech they ridicule him by making dog sounds. When I was watching that scene, I remember well how immediately I knew they do it in the almost exact way the two guys from my village did.

So the question is what did I do wrong to have stammer in this life?

Maybe the line I say in the movie Look Up and Laugh: "I like him tongue tied!" could be of some connection, but I doubt it's the main reason because that line has at least two interpretations, one of which simply means she likes him the way he is and she doesn't mind his stammer.

(--Stutter_Reasons--) Now, at the moment of making this video I've read two biographies about my old life in Vivien Leigh's body, and I've read a lot of articles also. On one hand I'm sad that I found nothing which would show the exact error I made which resulted in me having to deal with stammer from the early age. On the other hand, I found some hints. One of them has to do with the fact that the critic Kenneth Tynan, who would often write negative reviews about Vivien Leigh, had stammer. I know that I was sharp-tongued in Vivien Leigh life, and it's more than possible that in that life I said something bad about him and his stammer after reading one of his bad reviews.

But there's more. Recently I've got confirmations I was Emma Hamilton also – meaning I played myself in Lady Hamilton movie. It's a long separate story, and what's important right now is the fact that in Emma's life there was a moment when she treated badly a stammering painter whose name was Guy Head.

This led me to have a theory that maybe sometimes different errors in our different lives can result in one major suffering – meaning they add up just like two meeting waves' peaks will result in a large peak. ($stammer)

The Skin of our Teeth

Her asking the question about improving the world.

"In her role as resident pessimist, lacking vision, Sabina says, "That's all we do—always beginning again! Over and over again. Always beginning again." After each disaster, they just rebuild the world again. She also says: "Don't forget that a few years ago we came through the depression by the skin of our teeth! One more tight squeeze like that and where will we be?" And later she says,..."My nerves can't stand it. But if you have any ideas about improving this crazy old world, I'm really with you. I really am.""

I've been trying to share Thiaoouba Prophecy book for many years. I also was fortunate enough to make official Russian translation of the book. Since I know for a fact from my own experiences and experimentations that the book is true, and its knowledge is very important to all people because it can help the whole humanity greatly, I'd say I have several ideas on how to improve the world now, and I actually mentioned them in the Manifesto chapter of my free e-book Simple Truths of Life.

Since my early childhood I liked watching movies and probably have watched all significant films since the day of cinema birth. I have never encountered any reflections in any movies until I started watching movies with Vivien Leigh. This proves that this experience is of no coincidence.

(#MA_Life) There are also at least 2 reflections, and also synchronicities, with the life of Michele Avila, but I'll talk about that in another video.

Errors

(--Errors_Intro--) According to the Universal Law we have to suffer for all of our mistakes. I knew that if the dream was true and I was indeed Vivien Leigh then I'd find clear connections when reading biographies about the actress. Of course, the situations in our lives are influenced by many factors, and the consequences for our past mistakes don't have to be 100% identical to the error we made – nevertheless if you know you were that person in your past life you will probably spot a direct link.

You watching this video means I did find a lot of links between the errors I made in Vivien Leigh's life and different types of suffering I had to endure in this current life.

And you have to understand that chances of the following interconnections happening in the lives of totally different souls are very, very small.

I've already mentioned about the stammer.

Due to various reasons, I was not able to find a girlfriend. I have no family of my own. I wasn't surprised to learn that Vivien Leigh slept with other women's men. Even if the illness caused the elevated s*x drive, resulting in the aforementioned facts, it was still an error.

($Leigh_Holman_Alone) There's evidence Leigh Holman, Vivien's first husband, was suffering the abandonment, and since in Vivien's life I never experienced living without anyone by my side, it seems like I must pay the penalty for those mistakes in my current life.

I've had problems having sleep during quite a large amount of time in my current life. One of smaller reasons had to do with the neighbors upstairs engaging in loud adult activities. Aside from the woman's screams, their bed also would hit the walls very hard, making huge noise.

(#SB_Proof) It just so happens Scotty Bowers wrote in his book Full Service that Vivien Leigh screamed while the two of them were engaged in the same activity as my neighbors were. And he mentioned before that they needed to be silent because George Cukor was sleeping. Scotty writes that Vivien wailed deliriously: "I don't care if George hears us. I just don't care." My neighbors upstairs clearly didn't care either about other people. At that time, living without a girlfriend and with all the problems I had to face it was difficult to hear and realize someone has what you desire but seemingly can't have.

Then several biographies of Vivien mention how I in that life would, unfortunately, deprive Olivier of sleep. Larry himself in his Confessions of an Actor said he had lack of sleep due to all the partying.

The major reason I had serious issues with sleep had to do with the air conditioners of Sberbank attached to the wall near our windows. They also had iron mesh covering them too tightly, and that resulted in the air conditioners making huge amount of noise. They were working from 7 AM till the late evening or even night, and sometimes the air conditioners would be left working during the whole night too. The noise and lack of sleep almost killed me, but then the issue was found and resolved.

Since then Sberbank moved to another place, but the noise issue still continues – from neighbors and from other equipment which is probably in the basement.

Tamara Tchinarova only briefly mentions Vivien in her book, and yet the episode she described revealed several interconnections between my old life and the new one. In fact, the three of them were written by her in the same sentence!

Tamara wrote about Vivien's visit to hers and Piter's apartment, and then mentioned how Vivien complained their flat was too stuffy, opened a few of their drawers to inspect the contents, and finally commented on their cheap curtain linings.

Stuffy room. A woman from Roskomnadzor said my room was stuffy when they came to measure the noise made by the bank's air conditioners.

Opening and inspecting other people's drawers. Then, when I was about 15 years, a policeman, along with a woman, who might have been his girlfriend because of her casual clothes, came out of the blue to my apartment. I was home alone at that time. At one point that policeman opened the door to our bathroom without asking permission. He just looked inside, inspecting the contents. Both of them smiled at the sight of us having an issue with the toilet tank, which was open and a wooden stick had to prevent the mechanism from letting the water in until the repairs were done.

Curtains. When we were kids, my friend Anton visited our apartment once. For some reason he decided to mention our curtains. More precisely the fact we close them at night. And I think, if I remember correctly, he then mentioned that fact to someone else because somehow it was a funny thing to say in his mind. We live close to the ground floor, and so when the darkness comes and we turn on the light we have to close our curtains so that people from the street don't see what's inside; they lived on the 7-th floor where there was no need for such privacy; we were kids and maybe he just didn't know the purpose of curtains.

One episode in my Vivien Leigh life had led to three separate events in my current life. I actually can't remember if there were other events when somebody would mention something about my apartment or village house. These events of two lives seem to be direct matches, given the whole context, including the true dream.

Then Tamara mentioned Vivien's manic depression and how Vivien cut up all her clothes. I remember a situation in my current life when my winter jacket was cut by a knife. My school peers brought that to my attention. We quarreled with my mother days earlier and she cut it.

It leads us to Tamara mentioning how Vivien tried to attack her with a knife. During the same school period I just mentioned my mother did try to do the same. That period of quarrels is long over and we live more or less peacefully.

Then Tamara mentions several other details about what I tried to do in my past life - but that time to myself. I won't mention them, but I'll say that the window of the 9-th floor did appear in my mind before I found out the cause for stuttering, which dissipated that idea and helped me start changing my life. The taking of certain number of drugs also had a reflection in a situation with my mother. And the mention of the water related attempt did remind me of how I died in my life of Michele Avila.

Then Tamara mentions how Vivien laughed at her appearance. The length of her nose in particular. Later Tamara writes she underwent a cosmetic surgery because of that. I have several problems with my current physical body's appearance and I've suffered quite a lot because of them.

Vivien slept with Peter Finch, Tamara's husband. Tamara and Peter had a daughter, Anita. They eventually divorced because of the affair, which ironically came to an end after the divorce too. Tamara never remarried. Once again I see a reason why I have to live alone without anyone by my side in my life.

They say that Vivien bit one police officer on the finger. If I didn't pay for that error in my past life, then this could be one of reasons I've had negative interactions with police in my current life.

Also, when we were kids, my friend's dog bit me 2 times on my leg. But this episode might be the suffering for the error I did in another episode of my Vivien's life: as a kid Vivien bit her mother Gertrude on the leg when playing a lion a bit too realistically.

Alexander Walker wrote how one night during a party Lilli Palmer wished to go to bed because she went to bed late the previous night. Vivien agreed, but apparently she found it to be a lame excuse to retire while they were all enjoying themselves so much.

I remember how when we were making a bonfire near our village I would go early to sleep and I remember how 2 girl friends whispered something to themselves as I was walking off.

Vivien, in one of her letters home, compared The Reverend Mother in her school to a sour-looking cat, which was sketched in a postscript.

This reminded me of how I and other people were playing a game in which they'd describe the profile picture of the person who left the last comment. One person said 'a gloomy man' - I believe - about mine and that affected me for I wanted to have a bit of fun, not misery.

Walker wrote that Vivien bought an exquisite Boudin painting with money Leigh Holman gave her to buy a refrigerator. If the story is true, it may relate to me suffering when my father sold his mother's apartment for the fraction of the price and some portion of that money was wasted on alcohol – but he also bought himself a car, tv, a tiny house, and also a motorcycle for me.

From what I know, Vivien disliked Charles Laughton's gross body; she said she felt she could never get near enough to him. It's actually very similar to how Vivien's heroine in the movie 'Sidewalks of London' feels about Charles' character, and she never pays the penalty for the thoughts she expressed in the movie's story.

I have some asymmetries in my body. While I was said to be beautiful looking as a teenager, over the years I've changed in appearances. Some people clearly didn't like how I looked.

Vivien and Larry sailed for home from Wellington on 17 October 1948. Vivien probably had the manic phase starting to show itself, for she behaved quite hectically. The charades led to Olivier needing to rebuke his wife for 'humiliating' him by making up to one bold young man a bit too publicly.

I'll note that 75 years later, On 17 October 2023, I decided to tell my mother about me being Vivien Leigh and Michele Avila in my past lives.

Then I remember how in our village my mother, when I was very little, was 'making up to' Виталик - a guy who was older than us by quite a lot. I felt awkward and unsure at the sight; and the looks of smiles at me from my village friends didn't help either. If Olivier's rebuke did not have any results – meaning as Vivien I didn't suffer for my behavior in that episode -, then the episode with my mother was probably the suffering for that error.

In case with mother the reason for that episode was also in certain psychological problems, which are now gone, I'm happy to say.

Generally, in my Vivien's life I've had mental problems which impacted other people too. In my current life there were several people with mental problems around me, and their lives did impact mine also. I found several possible interconnections between my past life and my current one in regards to those problems. I mentioned them in the document I'll show at the end.

When Vivien was with Jack Merivale, she at one point went off with several men who said they were 'seduced by her beauty'. For the first time she didn't include Jack in the invitation. Marina in the village once had several guys flock around her and I was excluded.

Both Vivien's and Emma Hamilton's daughters were, during a certain period of time, left without their mother around.

I remembered how one day, when I was a little kid, my mother took me to my father's apartment and left me alone at his door. She went away… but I started to run after her and cry and beg her not to leave me… I followed her in tears for many minutes and through many streets, in front of many people's eyes. Eventually we drove together on the bus to our home and that was it.

I'll mention that I lived separately from my father in this life. In my Missy's life father also left the family after a certain point.

Potential errors shown in movies:

Laughing at Ceasar's bald head in Ceasar and Cleopatra. There's also a hint on prediction of death of Vivien and Michele in that film. It looks like I had to experience baldness for the first time living in my current body. It's been years since I learned to be more or less okay with how I look.

Face reference in Sidewalks of London. I've already mentioned the issues I've had in my life with my appearance. My facial expressions were also influenced by my problems during the low periods of my life.

There's also a possible reflection in Vivien's character being a pickpocket, thief, and me having to deal with scammers who took my laptop for repairs – but there were no repairs at all - and then they demanded money I didn't have to give them.

They say that Vivien in The Village Squire played a rather snooty Rose.

Snooty means "showing disapproval or contempt towards others, especially those considered to belong to a lower social class". It's interesting because I was at some points in my life in a reversed situation; I certainly belong to the lower part of social class as far as materialism is concerned.

Gone With the Wind. "If I have to lie, cheat or kill as God as my witness I shall never be hungry again!"

This could have a certain connection to why in Michele's life I was lied about, cheated, and killed.

The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone. The scene with the blonde character that Vivien Leigh played in the movie, who, as we assume, is killed by her throat being cut.

I've had 3 dreams ending the same way. The first had theatre theme going; the second showed a blue car which might as well relate to my past life of Michele Avila.

21 Days Together. The accused innocent man has heart attack. I've got problems with heart.

Then he's believed to be the murderer but he's innocent. I'm not believed by many people it seems like.

Psyche

(--Psyche_Intro--) Psyche, or psychic body, is part of our Astral body and so it never dies also. From what I understand our Psychic body gets filled with data during our lives, and that data influences our decisions and behavior during certain situations. Since Psyche doesn't die when our physical body dies, the data recorded in it stays with us when we are reborn in a new physical body and live a new life.

People from Thiaoouba made it clear that Psyche is very important, mentioning that it's in the area of the psyche that, on Earth, our greatest problems exist. Right now, people mostly take care of the physical body, and Thiaooubians said it to be a serious mistake. If the psyche is poor, it will influence the physical appearance accordingly. Since psyche is immortal, we may be reborn with psychological issues we didn't get rid of in our past life.

It should be noted that people also have Astropsychic body and psychotypical body. Since I've only recently discovered my two past lives, I haven't yet attempted to see if I can categorize the psychological similarities I found existing between my lives. So, they may relate to one of those three bodies.

Some say Vivien Leigh had s*x obsession. In this life I thought the same thing about myself; only it had to be masturbation due to many reasons.

In Vivien's life I had manic depression, signified by mood swings. In this life I've had highs and lows which would replace each other; I was depressed but managed to find the reason for my problems and so I also found the solution.

In Vivien Leigh's 1939 Screen test for Gone with the Wind I noticed that I – Vivien - turn my head and eyes in that video in similar way to how I sometimes still do in my current life.

It should be noted quite a few of people do that.

Scotty Bowers. Vivien said to him it was wrong and asked to leave, but then changed her mind.

I did a similar thing but in a different situation when I'd leave the groups about movies and tv shows and then I'd change my mind and ask one of admins – Venera - to add me back. This happened several times.

David Niven says that Missie – as he called Vivien Leigh in one of his books – harried him endlessly to play hide and seek.

In my childhood there was a silly moment when I'd beg my village friends who were older than me for many minutes - if not an hour – to play, I believe, hide and seek or another game with 2 teams where 1 has to catch the members of the other. I did play hide and seek with my grandmother in her 2-room apartment when I was little.

I was afraid of needles to various degrees in at least my three lives – Vivien Leigh, Michele Avila, myself.

And in my current life and in my Vivien's life I used to show signs of fear regarding some doctor appointments.

The director of Look up and Laugh movie, Basil Dean, wrote about Vivien in his memoirs: "She was so uncontrollably nervous that for a while she seemed unable to take direction, a circumstance for which I made insufficient allowance. I became impatient."

It was also said that Vivien was shaking during some other important moments of life.

This describes me during several moments of my life.

Vivien was, at one point at least, thinking too much about reputation or what was written about her in newspapers.

It's been difficult at first to reveal the truths about my experiences with people from another planet – Thiaoouba – because of what I was afraid some people would think or say about me.

Romantic experiences seem to have mattered equally both to Vivien and me.

The negative way both Vivien and I dealt with losing at certain games matches up.

Vivien and I are quite fastidious.

Vivien and I have made impulsive decisions in our lives.

Both Vivien and I share the love for gardening and Nature in general. Although this may relate to spiritual knowledge more than to psyche.

Vivien said: "Every single night I'm nervous. You never know how the audience is going to react."

I used to be, and sometimes still am, nervous, thinking of something I want to write to someone for example. In school I was often nervous thinking if I was going to be asked a question – stammer was the reason for that.

Spiritual Knowledge

(--Spiritual_Knowledge_Intro--) There's material knowledge, which gets erased when we're reborn (#mat_knowledge_erased), and there's also spiritual knowledge, which we get to keep in our Astral body for the rest of our lives we'll live in this Universe. The importance of spiritual knowledge is that as we obtain more and more of it, we do less and less errors, which means we have to suffer less. For example, when we say that a person has high morals, it means that person has gained some spiritual knowledge in the past.

In our case, the spiritual knowledge is another important element that can show if you could or couldn't be a particular person in your past life.

There are two points to consider.

First, what spiritual knowledge a person had in their past life must be present in their current life.

Second, if the person has a spiritual knowledge in the current life, but there's evidence they didn't have it in their past life, there must exist an event in or between those two lives during which the person acquired that spiritual knowledge.

If all the findings you get match these two points, then you could be that person in your past life.

In this regard I've also found many matches between my current life and my Vivien Leigh life.

I'll mention the examples of lack of spiritual knowledge also.

The very first thing I'll mention is the fact both Vivien and I at the very least believed in reincarnation. Of course, I know it exists now. This is very important, and later I found out I knew about reincarnation at least in first century – that is in my past life I lived during that time.

John Gielgud said that Vivien barely talked about her depression or ill health. I've talked about those things only when it was necessary.

John also said Vivien was always enormously interested in everything, people, places, changes of fashion - and she had friends of every different sort and kind in London, in her country homes, in America and Australia. The things mentioned do relate to me too.

Vivien and I are impatient and headstrong people. We both want some joy out of life. And Vivien said that Scarlett O'Hara had more courage than she'd ever have. I've already mentioned that I had to go through a lot before I could start not giving a damn about people's opinions about me – but not always, though. There's been other indicators that I lack courage in certain other situations.

Vivien hoped she'd never have selfish egotism. I've tried to help a village friend who had bullied me previously because of my stutter. I've also been sharing Thiaoouba book and my experiences and what I learned in my life with other people despite the fact it gives me nothing material or monetary.

In Vivien's life I was restless and had to be doing something. I'm still the same.

As Vivien I said: "Big picture contracts are good financially, but I advise young actresses to think twice about them." I agree with that statement. In fact, I remember how when I was dreaming about linking my life with movies, I thought that I don't want to have much more than I need.

Vivien said: "The snag in success is that the nearer you get to it the farther away you feel yourself to be. The world may call you successful, but in your heart you know that you never fulfil your own hopes. Which is perhaps all to the good, for complacency is a fatal state, though a very pleasant one, if you can remain in it. I never can.

Whenever I let myself feel thrilled and flattered by the approbation of other people self-criticism rears itself, like a snake, at the back of my mind and destroys the illusion."

No surprise that I agree with old self, because that's the way I pretty much am too. And there were moments when in TPXP group I was called 'genius' by some, but I knew it's not so, even if it can be pleasant to be thought of like that. But I know myself, and I know I've yet to learn a lot and then some more.

Vivien said: "So that is the first and most important lesson that success has taught me: to beware of self-satisfaction."

Following the above note of mine about Thiaoouba book – there were times, of course, during which I felt very happy that I know the truth. But I was cautious for the feeling not to get to my head. I was cautious to concern myself only with facts and truth.

Vivien: "They gave me that flexibility of mind which is so necessary to an artist, and taught me, I hope, understanding. Through knowing them I have always been able to recognize the characters I played, and love them."

I think that I'm understanding as well, sometimes being able to as if "feel" other people's lives and situations.

Vivien: "Sixteen years have passed since that first night of The Mask of Virtue when success came so suddenly that I distrusted it. I do still, but it no longer seems so important, for I have learnt many things since then. One is that to live in the fullest sense is worth more than to attain any material reward."

Again, I see the point.

In Vivien's life I would wear gloves to hide the 'paws'. I my current life I had to wear a cap to hide my balding head until I was okay with how I look – more or less.

Vivien says she'd prefer a smaller house. Me too.

Vivien: "I act because I like trying to give pleasure to people"
Interesting because it may be another reason that despite of the skepticism and casual hate towards me I still keep on going trying to spread the word about Thiaoouba; it can help people greatly – in a way, it's pleasure related because people's lives would become easier and so more pleasurable.

Vivien: "I am innately religious, but not in the church-going sense. I say my prayers and I'm a Catholic. I like the broad range, which is what the word catholic means. I like a great variety of people and things."
The last sentence clearly defines me; my views on many adequate religions, each having some truths in them, but also some unfortunate distortions; so we have to have knowledge to be able to weed through the false data in those texts.

Vivien about Brando: "He used to say to me 'Why are you so damned polite? Why do you have to say good morning to everyone?' and I'd say because it is a good morning and anyway it is a nice thing to say. So why not?"
I say Hi even to those who are rude to me - perhaps not always but I try to.

Vivien's feelings about Hollywood; she wrote to Leigh "All their standards are financial ones" and to her mother she wrote "I know I could not stay here without Larry ... I should go mad."
In the Manifesto chapter of my free e-book Simple Truths of Life I mention how society could live without money.

Selznick didn't cast Vivien to play in Henry V as Katharine. They say that Vivien, while remaining always friendly, never felt quite the same about Selznick thereafter.
Again, this is me. I've several people I try to remain friendly with, but I don't feel the same about them after the things they did to me.

Vivien usually was on time for rehearsals. I try to be on time too. I'd rather be a bit early than late.

Both Vivien and I like independence.

There was a moment in Vivien life, when she played a game, the name of which I will not pronounce. But it relates to the lack of certain spiritual knowledge, which I have evidently not had until a certain point in my life also.

Vivien would have her curly hair straightened fairly often.

I've had periods when I had curly hair and was teased about that fact by two school chums. I actually bought a hair straightener but it was faulty and I decided to just refund it and never bother about my hair.

Vivien was not paying attention to the fashion, and was wearing the clothes that suited her. It is similar to my tastes and views on what I want to wear.

Other Syncs

(--Other_Syncs--) During my research I've encountered many more synchronicities present in my two lives. I use the word 'synchronicity' for now, but I feel like there could be a direct link between many of the synchronicities I have. Meaning that the existence of the first synchronicity played a role in the appearance of the second synchronicity in another life. But for now it's not very clear what causes that or how exactly this phenomenon works.

To start with I'll have to talk about a peculiar synchronicity some of you might find disgusting – but it's just life and what I had to deal with because of my past life's mistakes. And it actually relates highly well to some of the errors I did in my Vivien Leigh life.

It concerns a woman by an alias Lora Black, who one can see in p movies. The thing is I've been interested for quite a while exclusively in the girls who didn't do a lot of bg scenes, which does not describe Lora at all. There was just something about her that was drawing my attention. You'd think it had to have been the looks… And it was absolutely unusual for me to return to watch more scenes of the woman I ended the past session to. This was some time after I had the dream saying I was Vivien Leigh. I was actively searching for proof it was a true dream and I was Vivien Leigh. And so, I discovered Lora also called herself Vivien in some of p movies she was in. I don't want to give here more credit than required, so I won't go into the details, but you have to understand that, as weird as this episode may seem, it was actually very important at the time.

Much later there was another episode when I had to go to certain websites again after the wild imagination working together with the sexual drive got the better of me. Out of the blue one of links led me to a video on a p website, and in that video, for some reason, there was shown Laurence Olivier's Star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. It was ironic that I had to be engaged in that particular activity because of the mistakes I made as Vivien Leigh, and some of them were done while being married to Laurence Olivier.

Needless to say, there's almost zero chance of happening to come across a p video showing Larry's star, when you're clearly searching for different types of material… unless, of course, I was called Vivien Leigh in my past life and Laurence Olivier was my husband in that life.

In A Midsummer Night's Dream Vivien played Titania who had fairy wings. It's a synchronicity with a young woman, Katya, who was drawing fairy wings onto the phot of herself. We met in Sokolniki park. There are certain similarities between her and myself.

Many years ago I was driving in a bus to my father. There was a woman standing near me and reading Gone With the Wind in English. It was probably the first and only time I could read a book along with someone in a public transport, and I did read some sentences.

Thao told me 'there are other joys in life' in a telepathic message. Joy by Jean Patou was my main perfume in Vivien's life.

I assume it was Thao who said 'Look!' to me when the clock of the tennis match I was watching displayed 33, and Vivien Leigh appeared on the cover of several Look magazines.

Sydney Carroll said: 'I took a big chance. But I just knew she was the one. A lot of other people claimed they discovered Vivien, but I was the one. I have a great knowledge of palmistry, and Vivien reluctantly let me read her hands. She was ashamed of what she called "my paws." After that reading, I decided the role was hers.'

I was a bit surprised to read this, because 3 times the palmistry played very important roles in my life. The Mask of Virtue made Vivien known – it was an important play in her life.

In July of 1957, Vivien was campaigning against theatre closures. That same year she loudly protested in the House of Lords against the demolition of the St James's Theatre. She said later in her dressing-room at the Stoll Theatre that when she spoke the peers "did not move a muscle."

Sadly, the history repeats itself, and I see a similar thing happening with Thiaoouba. Not many help me spread the message - even when I showed telekinesis is real, having learnt the basics of it. Not many people move a muscle it seems.

I also shared recently my latest discovery – that you can ask your Higher Self to show you some truth in the dream. It's how I was able to have many more true dream confirmations I was Vivien Leigh, and since the answer was always accurate, since then I also discovered many of my other lives I lived before being born as Vivien Leigh. And yes, when I looked into those lives, I discovered synchronicities and other types of connections with my current life, and with my other lives too, confirming that I was indeed those people my Higher Self told or hinted I was. It is a separate topic, though.

Then I found a photo of young Vivien. What caught my attention is the fact there's a figure to the right of me, and it looks like someone wearing a fedora. Reminded me of Freddy Krueger and my synchronicities with A Nightmare on Elm Street movie. There's another photo showing a shadow of my Vivien's hands, and the way the fingers positioned once again reminded me of my synchroneities with that movie. ($Nightmare_Photo)

($IT_Photo)

As for IT synchronicities, Vivien did dress as a clown once.

She also used 'it' instead of 'she', 'her' in her diary when writing about young Suzanne, her daughter.

And in Alexander Walker's biography of Vivien there's a photo caption that says 'it' instead of 'She' when clearly referring to Vivien Leigh overexerting herself in this Royal Variety Performance with Olivier and John Mills that brought on another miscarriage.

It's of interest, of course, to note that both movies would exist many years after my death in Vivien's life. Yet there's still a possibility that I have synchronicities with those movies in that life. Actually, the numbers 14 and 28 are present in what certain people say about my past life of Mary Magdalene; It's possible what those people say is wrong, but it's a synchronicity regardless.

My mother wrote in her diary on December 14, 1991, that I played a theatre at home. I drew some figures of kolobok, bear, wolf, grandpa and grandma. I remember almost nothing from such a young age; I was three years old then. From what I know it's rare for children to play as if in a theater at home, so I find this a very good connection to my past life.

They say that at one point 'the tiniest pin-prick of a pupil' were visible in Vivien's eyes.

(%Eye_doctor_visit) It's of great interest to me because in my current life I had episode when my pupils were so tiny that they almost weren't visible. You could see only iris, and maybe you could distinguish a tiny speck in the middle among the iris' black wavy lines. During that time my sight was as if 'very light' to the point I couldn't feel my eyes – so light they seemed to me, almost nonexistent… it's difficult to explain. I had to see an eye doctor because of that. Their eyedrops enlarged my pupils to the large size, and after that I've never had such tiny pin-prick pupils.

I don't know what was the reason behind me having such pupils in my two lives, but it is one of connections between them.

Outro

(--Outro--) There's a mountain of other synchronicities and possible connections to my past lives, but I can't make this video any longer. So, I'll just show the rough and unedited notes I made during my research into my past lives. If you're someone who's interested in reincarnation, some of the information I present may be of value to you.

Maybe I will eventually write another free book (#free_books) about how I found my past life and what ideas and theories I have made now that I know who I was. And I might do some more videos on the subject of reincarnation now that I have something to share.

Having said all that, what are the chances I have all these similarities, synchronicities, various movie reflections, errors and clear matching suffering for those errors, (#psyche_growth) almost identical psychology, I had two true dreams plainly stating I was Vivien Leigh, I've had other dreams in which I either was Vivien Leigh or there was some reference made to my life of Vivien Leigh, and yet despite all of this I wasn't Vivien Leigh? For me it's literal zero.

This is the time for me to say goodbye, and show you all of my current findings.

I will briefly say my thoughts, foreseeing one question some people will ask. Why I don't look and don't sound like an actor, if in my past life I was an actress who won 2 Oscars?

I think I've already answered the part of the question concerning appearances. I made errors in my past lives and according to the Universal Law I had to pay the penalty for them, living in such a body.

As for my voice - actually, when in school I started to talk perfectly and I was confident, I would read with expression in the literature class. It was like I lightly played the characters. And when I was watching movies, I would pay attention to the way actors were playing their characters – their mimic and mannerisms. It's so happened in this life I was destined to experience a different life, as you know by now. So, I have never trained my speech or acting abilities. It's one of reasons I don't sound the way I did in my past life.

Then – and I don't wish to return to this topic again and again, but these are facts – I have certain problems related to my health, sleep, and the environment of the place I live. All of that also affects my voice. I think that in my videos you could notice how I sound differently – sometimes better, sometimes worse. English being not my native language in this life is also a factor.

It's also important to note that I don't read fictional books here. I simply share my knowledge with you. I don't need to be an actor to do this.

The life path of my soul gives people an important lesson to learn from – nobody can be spared from suffering for their errors. It doesn't matter who you are, or who you think you are – the Universal Law is the same for all, and it's working perfectly.

You can be an Oscar winning actress in one life, and you might start stuttering in another life if that is what your payment for the error should be. In one life you're a skillful scammer, and in another you're the one who's the victim of scams. There can be many examples.

Life will find a way to teach a pupil a lesson.

Index for Text Cards

(#intro_text) – I will present all of my present day (~ May 4, 2024) findings regarding my past lives at the end of the video – all 250+ pages! In the video I'll only focus on a portion of the main evidence because otherwise the video would become way too long. And to save time I will not go into a lot of details and explanations during certain moments.

When you read that document, you'll have to keep in your mind that life had led me to realizing I have a bunch of synchronicities with Michele Avila & Vivien Leigh. Then I had numerous dreams saying I was Vivien Leigh, and also Michele Avila. After that I found out I could ask my Higher Self questions to answer in my dreams, making the part with the answer possibly a true dream – so far, every answer has led me to finding synchronicities and other confirmations I probably was the people my Higher Self (and in some instances maybe people from Thiaoouba too), via dreams, said I was.

At the very least this proves our lives are interlinked. If you know reincarnation exists then one of the possible reasons behind those links should be very clear.

There will be a lot of references to errors and suffering, because I have to mention those events as a proof of my reincarnation. I wish I didn't have to write about all that negativity, but it is essential to prove I was Vivien Leigh and that reincarnation is real.

Since it was my life, it's correct to say 'I' when referring to my past life. But because at times it may sound weird to people who don't know a lot about reincarnation, I'll be referring to my past self in the third person too.

Those people who don't believe me, can try to prove the existence of Higher Self to themselves, and once that's done, they could try asking their Higher Self questions about me. If you read My Diary at the end of the video you will know how exactly I ask my Higher Self and what answers I receive look like in my dreams.

(#HH) – Also, you can check my video on how to prove I'm telling the truth. One of the things I could try proving is resurrection for, as far as I understand, it requires communicating with Higher Selves. Only the dead person's Higher Self can resurrect that person by sending the soul (Astral body), which has not yet reached its Higher Self (I think it takes 3 days for that), back to its physical body, which the Higher Self has cured enough so that it can live.

Of course, the person and his/her Higher Self should be willing for the resurrection to take place. This means that some dead people will not return to their old bodies, and that's normal.

If just several people get resurrected it will prove that both resurrection and souls (Astral bodies) are real.

(#First_Person) - As I continued to find more and more clear evidence I was Vivien Leigh, I realized that it's madness to continue thinking of Vivien in the third person for it's the same as thinking of oneself in the third person. So, I started to break psychological barriers and started thinking as "me", "I" - in the first person – when reading or thinking about Vivien Leigh.

(#Other_True_Dreams) After I found all the proof I needed to know I was Vivien Leigh I had another true dream. I was in dungeon from Dark & Darker video game. I asked my Higher Self create a mirror on a wall, and then I asked my Higher Self to change my body in that dream to those I had in my two very last lives. First, I saw Michele Avila and then Vivien Leigh in the mirror's reflection and said those facts out loud.

Michel Desmarquet had a true dream about Thao's past life on Thiaoouba. This is how we know such dreams do exist.

I've had several prophetic dreams, and that experience proved to be enormously useful in my initial realization that the first dream with Vivien had a good chance of being true.

(#SB_Proof) – Some people say that Scotty Bowers invented the story about dead people who can't tell the truth any longer. But there are also people who confirmed Scotty's accounts. And in his description of Vivien Leigh I noticed a top A synchronicity, a psychic similarity with myself, and also an error for which I probably paid in this life. Because of all those connections I started to think his book must be truthful.

(#psyche_growth) – I think it's logical to assume that learning new spiritual knowledge can make some problems with our psyche go away. I've lived another short 17-year life since I lived Vivien Leigh life, and I've lived for 35 years when I found out I was Vivien Leigh, equaling to 52 years total – almost the age of me in Vivien's life (53 years). Some things did change over all these years as I was having new experiences on this planet.

(#free_books) – I strongly think that the knowledge which can greatly help people should be freely available to all people.

(#mat_knowledge_erased) – …meaning if a top NASA scientist has to be reborn and live his whole life in a tribe of uncontacted peoples, he will not be creating anything even remotely close to a rocket in that life.

(#dream_male_face) In the lucid dream that I had on 10/26/2023, I must have seen one of my past physical bodies. It was male body. The important thing is that in my face, which I saw in the mirror, I was able to recognize familiar features! By the look and style of his hair, that man was noticeably similar to Anton. And in some facial features, he was noticeably similar to the son of my mother's friend Anya, as well as to the streamer Scatman from Goodgame.ru.

(%Natasha) – We met in an apartment on Velozavodskaya Street, 11/1, Moscow. It was the 3-rd floor. The entrance is in the internal corner of the house (I can't say all the numbers, obviously, but their digital roots do relate to "the secrets of the Universe", as Nikola Tesla would say it). It was probably early June (or late May, but unlikely) of 2007. Later, in August of that year, there was a murder in that apartment. They said a guard (охранник) was killed. It's possible Natasha isn't her real name.

(%Eye_doctor_visit) - The situation with pupils existed around the year 2000 +/-. I don't know if this entry in my medical record was made when I went to the ophthalmologist because of my pupils since it's difficult to make out the handwriting. I remember that when I came, either because of stuttering and fear of speech, or I was of the opinion that if such tiny and almost imperceptible pupils are a problem, then the doctors will understand everything without my words. Therefore, you should not be surprised by the entry "no complaints." Perhaps, if there are ophthalmologists among the [Russian speaking] viewers, they will be able to understand what is written here and will say whether this entry is relevant to our topic of conversation or not.

Synchronicities - Part 2 (Michele Avila, Vivien Leigh)

Note of September 17, 2025. This section contains the script for the video I made regarding my findings and thoughts about synchronicities with Michele Avila and Vivien Leigh (later I learned it's me in my past lives) from the time when I didn't know about any of my past lives.

I include this document here because it's the first time I came across my past lives without truly knowing it is me in my past lives whom I was making the video about.

I didn't write, and maybe it's not important because it's about Vivien's heroine Scarlet who was said by some people to be a procrastinator – I'll think about it tomorrow. It's something that I do way to often, postponing things to do for another day, and then again…

It was very difficult for me to tell this story, because many things require a stop to talk about the details necessary to understand the whole picture. A story is like a tree that consists of many branches.

The things that are being talked about in this video make sense if the Universe was created by Intelligence. In this case, it is logical that we can receive teachings from different life events.

For example: Thao told Michel Desmarquet (from the book "Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet") how 3 Jews - Robanan, Levia and Dina - saw the significance of the events when first their ship exploded, and then the nomads tried to kill Robanan and take Levia and Dina for themselves.

I have not lost touch with reality; I understand the seriousness of this video, and I perfectly understand what some people may think watching this video: someone may find the material in this video creepy, or even disturbing; I myself have had red cheeks several times while working on this video.

But the fact is that society needs to discuss these topics in order to acquire new knowledge about the world and about us.

As I will say in the video - I wouldn't make this video if I didn't have experience with synchronicities, which showed me that they can really have some meaning, some connection.

This video is about synchronicities! But having such a synchronistic experience with Michele Avila and Vivien Leigh, I couldn't help but think of the possibility that I could be those people in past lives. Especially when you consider the fact that a lot of things indicate that in THEORY it really could be so.

IN THEORY! Remember this word, because I DO NOT claim that I was those people, but only consider such a possibility. I am well aware that there may be OTHER REASONS for such a synchronic experience with those two people - which I also briefly mention in the video.

In general, we still have a lot to learn about the universe, and shamefully hiding from embarrassing topics will not bring us closer to that knowledge.

Good day!

The theme of this video is synchronicities and interesting similarities that are 100% present between me and a girl named Michelle Avila, and also with the actress Vivien Leigh. Why I have them is a question I don't have a 100% answer to.

There can be many reasons why I have this experience, and reincarnation could be one of them, especially given the fact that Michelle and Vivien and I are really similar in many ways. I will reflect on this subject, but I am not saying that I was 100% those people - I do not know this, and it would be irresponsible to say otherwise.

We still have a lot to learn about the process of reincarnation, and about the possible connection between the different physical bodies in which the human soul lives in different lives.

In my early 20s, I learned from my own experience that we actually have a soul when I had a small but very significant astral projection experience; and I also learned that reincarnation really exists from Michel Desmarquet's book "Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet". You can learn about my experience with that book and the people behind it from my videos, as well as from my free book "Simple Truths of Life". It's too much of an experience to retell in every video - that's why, in part, I wrote that book.

I know that I live not the first life. Two things point to this.

First, we have to suffer for all our mistakes, and I started stuttering at the age of 5, when I seemed to be in the wrong place at the wrong time (* of course, in reality, according to the Law of the Universe, I was exactly where I was supposed to be). Stuttering ruined my life a lot - I suffered a lot because of its consequences. In addition to stuttering as a child, other problems fell upon me - one of which is a small homosexual experience that I had at about six years old. I'm straight, but those experiences haunted me from time to time until I was eighteen years old. If I had lived my first life, then I would not have had all those problems - after all, in childhood I had not yet had time to make big mistakes that could lead to those negative consequences.

Secondly, we can learn spiritually, acquiring spiritual knowledge that stays with us forever and passes into other lives (* at least it is stored in our Astral body (soul) as long as we live in the Universe). So I had several moments in my childhood when, as if from nowhere, I knew that something was morally and logically correct, and something was not. This is what we could call wisdom. I definitely did not acquire that knowledge in my current life, which means that that knowledge was acquired by me before my birth - i.e. in another life.

These insights are important to the theme of this video, as they should help you understand why I even think that there is a certain chance that my experience, which I will talk about, could be anything more than a mere coincidence. To be specific, there is some chance that in one of my past lives I could be the person who will be discussed in this video.

I wouldn't have made this video if I didn't believe that such synchronicities can be at least a little bit important.

This is where my synchronistic experience with the monster IT from the book and movies of the same name, as well as the movie A Nightmare on Elm Street, comes in handy. The events that took place during my last viewing of the first Freddy Krueger film made it very clear to me that synchronicities can indeed have a certain meaning - a concrete connection with us.

I have a video about that experience; it is kind of an intro to this video.

I want to note that I do not want to pour salt on the wound of the relatives and friends of Michele Avila. But given all my life experiences, synchronicities, and now these unusual similarities with that girl, I think it's worth sharing my experience. What if it will somehow help people in acquiring knowledge about reincarnation - which includes the knowledge that not always a feeling of some kind of connection with someone or something necessarily indicates that you were that person, or lived in that place in one of your past lives.

So, for example, there are people who believe that they lived on other planets. While this may well be the case, their accounts of why they believe this conflict with the known Laws and Functions of the Universe.

(*details in Michel Desmarquet's book "Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet").

How did I find out about Michel Avila?

About a year ago I found Mr. Ballen's channel on YouTube. Initially, I watched on his channel mainly the videos about incidents unexplainable by modern science. I didn't really want to watch his numerous videos about killers, but then I decided that this might be a good way to try to learn from the mistakes of people who fell victims of maniacs and other not highly spiritual people.

I watched a lot of these videos on Ballen's channel before I opened the video about Michelle Missy Avila.

Michelle was born on February 8, 1968, and was killed on October 1, 1985 by her former friends Karen Severson and Laura Doyle, who drowned Missy in a stream in a forest near Los Angeles. A fourth person, Eva Chirumbolo, was with them that day, but she did not see the murder itself, because she got scared and ran to the cars when two angry girls started pushing Missy to the creek.

Laura lied to Michelle's mother that she last saw her daughter with guys who had a blue Camaro. As for Karen, it is rumored that she almost lived with Missy's family in order to know about the progress of the investigation into the murder of her victim. More details of Michelle's life and death will unfold as I talk about the synchronicities between Michelle and me.

List of Synchronicities

I'll note that in themselves individual synchronicities would hardly carry any significance, but the fact that there are very, very many of them, as well as the fact that they are quite close to me, indicates that a connection is possible after all. And from the point of view of the Laws of the Universe known to me, I really could be that person - I will talk about this after I talk about all the synchronicities.

(* Plus, don't forget that the real meaning of my synchronicities with IT and A Nightmare on Elm Street was eventually confirmed.)

Looking at the Wikipedia article about Michelle, I saw that on July 26, 1988 - 4 days before my birth - Eva Chirumbolo decided to tell the police the truth about Missy's death. July 26, 2018 is the day my father died. That day was very significant for me, just as it became significant for Michelle's family exactly 30 years ago. Seeing this first similarity, I decided to look for more information about Michelle.

Laura came up with a story about two guys and a blue Camaro. I remembered how many years ago I had a dream in which I saw an old blue car. The dream ended with me being killed by an unknown person who quietly approached me from behind and cut my throat with a knife. This was the second dream of three, all of which ended in my death from a cut throat by an unknown person. I wrote about those dreams in my free book "Simple Truths of Life". I wrote in it that "the man got out of a blue car that looked like a Plymouth Barracuda." The thing is that the Camaro & Barracuda look kind of similar. There could have been a Camaro in that dream - I was just looking for a car model that looked similar to that in my dream. In addition, in my dream I saw that car only from the side, and could not see the shape of its headlights and other details.

I was thinking then, what if those 3 dreams were showing me my past lives? But then in the last 3rd dream I was in my body that I have now. Perhaps that last dream is a clue that other dreams showed me something else; that they should not be taken literally. Who knows…

 Of course, in case those dreams had a meaning. BUT, given that I had dreamed them on different days, and all of them ended the same way, it is quite logical to assume that there could be some meaning behind them*

Speaking of the first and second dream, it seemed that both the blonde and the man had been killed by their acquaintances from behind - as if betrayed by people who seemed to be friends and/or relatives. But in the third dream, where I was in my current body, it seemed that I was killed by a stranger who just happened to be on the same square with me.

I feel like mentioning that while typing the previous thoughts, I could not help but see some connection with Eva in the third dream. She wasn't as close friends with Michelle as Karen and Laura were. Eva could somehow try to help Michelle when that was still alive. Eva could have saved her life, but chose to do nothing - a decision that also affected Missy's ultimate fate.

Then there are the names. A girl named Michelle was the main character in one of my old scripts. So was Karen.

Laura and Eva also to some degree play a synchronistic role in my life. Eva means a willow tree in Russian. In our village, we could not cut down the willow tree, growing in front of our house, for a long time, until I finally cut it down when I was about 20 years old. My old village friends and I often spent time under that willow, playing different games. Then in Ignatovo, a village of my grandmother on my father's side, there was a willow, and the neighbor girl said something about that tree. I remember this, because that girl seemed to like me - judging by the things that she openly said to me and parents.

 By the way, Ignatovo also carries some synchronicity, because a couple of specific people from Moscow, who played a significant role in my life, have surnames similar in sound to the name of my grandmother's village.*

https://www.lifedaily.com/story/best-friendship-gone-sour-ends-in-terrible-tragedy-for-california-teenager/

These facts in themselves were interesting, but also seemed far-fetched... and then I read in an article how Michelle and Karen met at age of 8, and that they loved to sit under the willow that grew in front of Missy's house. They jumped on a skipping rope, and I also had a skipping rope as a child, on which I also jumped under the willow tree (photo of me jumping rope).

This article says the following: “Missy briefly dates Victor Amaya, a teen who attended a local Catholic School and sported a tattoo of a leaf with the inscription “stoner” across it. Their relationship was sexual but didn’t last. They break up and soon after Victor starts a relationship with Laura. Missy isn’t upset or at least she appears to be ok with it.”

Victor... my uncle was Victor, and the father of my childhood best friend was also Victor. In my book, I wrote about both of them, because both could help me at certain points in my life, could show me that I was making a mistake so that I could correct myself, but they chose to do the opposite. Both once called me a fool (* Дурак [Durak]). My uncle asked “I don’t understand, are you a fool or something?”, and my friend’s dad called me a fool when a girl, who I might have had some interest towards, asked “who is this?” when I passed by their company near the playground at my apartment building. There were about 5-10 of them then, and they were walking their dogs.

As you can see, Victors played a somewhat negative role in my life. To understand how Michel's Victor became another clear synchronicity between me and Missy, we need to read the following article:

https://jaxhudur.medium.com/lethal-jealousy-and-the-betrayal-she-never-saw-coming-e9dd4557e979

"[Karen] went back to the crime scene with a group of Missy's friends, including the one-time former boyfriend, Victor Amaya. There they found the words "Karen and Missy friends forever" carved onto a tree. They also found the names "Randy and Karen" with slash markings.

Karen, who had previously told her friends she had never been to the place, found it odd to see her name on the tree. She explained that it must be Randy who wrote and slashed the names and that he must be responsible for Missy's murder. This was Randy, the father of her unborn child whom she had aborted to spite him. She conned the friends to accept her story, and they plotted to kill Randy. Victor Amaya then beat Randy so severely that he left him for dead, and when they found out that Randy was recuperating at the hospital, a livid Karen demanded that they finish him off. They almost succeeded, only stopping from shooting Randy dead at the last minute."

When I'll be talking about Vivien Leigh, we will meet another Victor, who also plays a slightly negative role in her life.

There are some external similarities, which I couldn't help but notice. Some of Michelle's photos remind me a little of me... for example, where she closed her eyes during a flash - I often had problems with camera flashes, and there are quite a few childhood photos where I was photographed with my eyes closed. (Photo of me with my eyes closed).

Another black and white photograph of Michelle on Wikipedia reminded me of Natasha from Velozavodskaya street, house 11/1. It's a long story to tell about Natasha and why she's important to me; but I wrote about it in my free book, Simple Truths of Life, if anyone is interested.

Karen and Laura put on a show in the parking lot while Michelle and Eva were in their cars. Karen and Laura yelled at each other and then drove their cars like crazy to the place where they ended up killing Michelle.

I remember when I was very young my father got very drunk, and I don't know how and why, but my mother and I ended up being in his car with him drunk. I remember how fast he drove, and once, at a turn from the village's sandy road to the asphalt road, it seemed to me that the car was driving on two wheels - he turned around so sharply without slowing down.

https://youtu.be/MTtS9CqYfZk (Find the source. I saw it. Maybe it's in Source) Recalling her conversation with Karen when Missy was still alive, Michelle's mom says that Karen once called her daughter "a big flirt, taking everyone's boyfriends away." My first script I wrote and tried to sell was called "Telephone flirt".

Missy and Karen skipped classes when they were in high school. In the 9th grade, I started skipping school, but it was a short period; I only skipped a week or two. But in grades 10-11, I almost did not appear at school at all. Stuttering, fear of speech, and inability to talk to girls were the main reasons. I couldn't see how the girls I liked but whom I couldn't approach start relationships with other guys. They even wanted to expel me, but I still was able to stay at school. Missy and Karen were transferred to another school due to their absenteeism and poor grades - Laura Doyle begins to play a big role at this stage.

This article says: "She was a sweet-looking girl with long auburn hair and green eyes." Auburn hair…I remember when I was in school, my mother once pointed out that I had a beautiful shade of auburn hair. Appearance was very important to me then, and I remembered those words… Speaking of appearance, this was one of the reasons why I tried to avoid fights. I didn't want to get scars... As a result, my own erroneous decisions brought me both scars and suffering.

Karen led people to believe, and possibly herself, that Michelle slept with their boyfriends. Few people believed Michelle when she said otherwise. Sonya, Michelle's friend, beat her up for these rumors, and Michelle was about to sue her, but was killed a week earlier.

Few people believe me also because of my knowledge and my experience with Thiaoouba. And there was also a moment when the neighbors upstairs thought that I was yelling and knocking on the heating pipes, while it was my neighbor on the right, and I spoke and wrote them about this several times. They knocked on my ceiling, in response to my neighbor's knocks on the pipe. In the end, they learned the truth from the neighbor himself, who told them everything.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Big_City_Nights_(song) (screenshot of that Facebook post of the woman who posted about that song)

When Michelle's mother died, and her relatives were returning home in the car, the Scorpions song - Big City Nights started playing on the radio, and immediately after it, OZZY OSBOURNE - "Mama, I'm Coming Home" was put on the air. Speaking of Scorpions, Michelle loved their songs.

A possible synchronistic connection to me would be that the album on which Big City Nights came out is called Love at First Sting. Obviously, the expression Love at first sight was the foundation for the title of that album.

In my life, I experienced love at first sight 3 times, 2 of which I fell in love at first sight with the same girl, because didn't know the second time that I had seen her before. It's a long story that I wrote about in my book. But I have to say that I had my first experience of love at first sight at the age of 14, and the last when I was 28 years old - dates that are of great importance to me, and which are associated with my synchronistic connection with the film A Nightmare on Elm Street (photo of the house number on Elm Street)

Speaking specifically about Love at first sting, even this wording has something to do with me - which some people may find vulgar. The fact is that I fell in love with Natasha, whom I already spoke about, thinking about her in the evening after I left her. It's not too hard to guess what the word "sting" has to do with all this; but you can find out the exact answer from my book, or from my video "Psychological Barriers".

It would be interesting to note that in the 1st grade I had a rubber toy in the form of a scorpion. Once I brought it to school, and for some reason I put it on a chair for one of the students; he was frightened when he saw it there, thinking it was a live scorpion. It wasn't my best behavior. Regarding toys, you can count on the fingers of one hand all the toys that I had in my current life. If I remember correctly, there were three of them - the scorpion, a plush dog, which I called Toto, and a bear.

Then, after the disastrous acquaintance with Christina (* I wrote in detail about that experience in the book), I was walking by the fountain at VDNKh, when the song "Scorpions - Send me an Angel" began to play on the radio. I remember that moment very well, because it seemed kind of surreal due to the synchronization of the song with my feelings that I was experiencing at that time. Like that song was playing for me.

The LA Times article says that the girls carved their names and the names of their boyfriends into the bark of trees - "We love you Missy", under that inscription "85, Karen + Randy" is carved, and below is the inscription "Missy + Karen 4 Ever", that had the first name crossed out by someone.

As a child, I myself wrote "Zhenya + Yana" on a wooden ruler. Then I crossed out that inscription.

There are many numerological similarities.

Two "best friends" in quotes - Karen and Laura - spread rumors about Missy that she allegedly slept with other girls' boyfriends, for which the latter beat Michelle about a year before her death. Then the 2 future killers spread rumors that Michelle had slept with their own boyfriends, which was the introduction to their insidious plan.

I also had 2 friends in the village who mocked my speech, calling me one nickname, which, as I later found out, was given to me because of my stutter (* I could not understand for a long time what that word had to do with me. I thought maybe it was my appearance, or…).

Further, initially Karen was like a bodyguard for Missy. She protected her from being bullied at school. Get into fights for her. And then she began to hate Michelle and ended up killing her once best friend.

There is a reflection of my life here again. At school, there was a guy in my class who was more powerfully built - I was always thin - and he liked to intimidate a few guys whom he saw as weaker than himself. I was one of them. I remember we were playing basketball in gym class and that bully started bullying me. Then a friend from my class stood up for me and got hit by the bully. Many years later, when we were in the 9th grade, that friend was already pestering me himself along with another second friend from our class. For example, during a physics lesson, they, sitting at the desk behind me, drew a line with a pen on my clothes. And during the exam at the biology room, he just hit me in the face with his fist out of the blue. I didn't respond back, being a rather friendly person then.

In the article Karen says “Once I would have defended her. But now I joined in the cruelty.” - just like that school friend from my class - First he helped protect me, and then joined the cruelty.

The connection here is obvious - and my 2 school friends and 2 Michelle’s friends turned their backs on us and began to treat us badly. In my case, I don't know if that guy hated me, was jealous of something, or whatever. I remember only one time he asked if I used anything for the skin, because I didn't have acne and I always had smooth skin. He had them, as far as I remember. I knew him since the first grade, but because of my stuttering, I started withdrawing into my inner world in the 8th and 9th grades. He didn’t know this until he read my post in VK in which I wrote the truth about myself and my life a very long time ago; he wrote to me then that now many things had become clear, but some things remained unclear - perhaps he meant my experience with Thiaoouba, which I also wrote about in that post.

Further. There's a video game called Dread Hunger where 2 amogus (*The game calls them Thralls) have to sabotage an expedition in order to win - and killing civilians is one way to win. In doing so, the Amoguses can play the role of best friends before stabbing their friends in the back.

So, at first I didn’t want to watch streams of that game, not knowing what it was about, and then I watched Distortion’s stream, where he explained the meaning of the game, and I really liked that game. Now I often watch it on twitch.

In Michelle's case, her 2 friends were like amoguses.

Missy died when she was 17. I found out about her at the age of 34. I wrote in my book about Half Life, when two very important events of my life occurred when I was 14 and then when I was 28 years old. Both events are related to love and the search for a girlfriend. At the age of 14, I mistakenly chose to give in to my fears and did not approach the girl I fell in love with at first sight; at the age of 28, a similar situation arose, but only at that time I, with difficulty, but still managed to overcome my fears, and for the first time approached a girl.

 It may sound very strange, but such is my life. Still - better late than never.*

Then I began to actively approach women, and as a result I could calmly start talking with girls even among a crowd of people.

What's Half Life got to do with this? While playing the first episode of the game of the same name, I was very tense and bit my lip so that I was left with a scar for life. It was a very difficult moment in my life, especially considering that appearance played a very important role for me - and this is another connection with Michelle.

And of course, the numbers 14 and 28 have to do with my synchronicities related to the movie A Nightmare on Elm Street.

Next. On December 5, 2022, I received a message from Sberbank regarding their new apartment lottery for those who pay with their cards. The end date was 02/08/2023, which is Michelle's birthday. She would have been 55 years old.

 This is most likely very farfetched and not synchronic, but I will mention that the number 55 appears in Thiaoouba, where the year consists of 333 days. A day consists of 26 karses. A karse is a period of 55 lorse. Lorse includes 70 kasios. One kasio is almost identical to our second.*

Our soul can also live at least 500 years on a planet of the 1st category, and if we take 9 lives - and 9 is the number of the Universe - then we will get 55.5555... years (500 / 9 = 55.5555...), which people live on average in one life if my conclusions are correct (probably it would be more logical to have 50 average years (500 / 10)).

*I do not know if people can live less lives. For example, they are "lucky" (everything has its own reason) and they live more than 72 years in all lives, which allows them to reincarnate on the planet of the 2nd category after the 7th life. (7 * 72 = 504)*

Then it is known that Laura Doyle sent a condolence card to Missy's mother along with a 20-dollar bill. The number 20 means a lot to me (Screenshot of the Thiaooubian Numbers video), and today that money is equal to 55 US dollars.

Michelle was born in 1968 and I was born 20 years later in 1988.

Then I often noticed the number 8, reading articles about Michelle. She became friends with Karen at age 8. Karen started spreading rumors about Missy when she was about 16 years old - meaning Michelle lived half her life after meeting Karen. February 8 is Michelle's birthday; By the way, my mom's birthday is on February 9th and she is 17 years older than Michelle.

On the day of her death, Michelle told her mother that she would call her at 8 p.m. to tell her everything was fine...

I will note one interesting fact. Missy, leaving her house on that fateful day, turned around and said to her mother: "I love you". The thing is she usually didn't do this, and that day was destined to be the last in her life. I'm not sure if this is a connection/synchronicity or not, but I will say that in my childhood for some reason I sometimes asked my mother if she loved me...

8 plays a role for me too. It has to do with the Thiaooubian numbers, which I have already mentioned. Also, during some successful telekinesis practices, I was "drawing" (* "drawing") the number 8 with the tip of the string as I moved it with my mind.

It can also be mentioned that I was in the 8th grade when I started to have the sexual desire and due to stuttering, fear of speech, shyness and other life factors, I began to masturbate - this was one of my first serious mistakes that had a huge impact on my life.

It turned out that this video about my synchronistic experience with Michele Avila was the 8th of all the new videos that I record in 2023.

Irene, Missy's mom, said that on the day of Michelle's death, Laura picked her up at about 3:30 in the morning. I started seeing the number 3 a lot after I found Michel Desmarquet's book Thiaoouba Prophecy. (photo / video of the pages of my book, where I write about how I saw the number 33 and the word Look!). I know for a fact that there is more to this experience than just noticing a number — as when you notice a song playing in a passing car after hearing it recently for the first time. The first such experience was accompanied by the fact that I heard the word "Look!" at my right ear. Thao was most likely responsible for that experience. Then it was as if I was drawn to turn my head to a certain place on the screen where I saw the number 33. Or I experienced an electric touch at a very important moment in my life, which is associated with the aforementioned Natasha, and looking at the time, I saw 33 minutes there. I had a second such experience, when I again felt the electric touch, and the clock at that time showed 33 minutes. And when I came across the scammers and finally realized my mistake, the clock also showed 33 minutes at that important moment in my life.

Missy died at 17. For me, seventeen years were marked by the fact that then I, in fact, stopped communicating with my friends in Moscow. And alas, as it turned out later, they also said negative things about me to other people.

There are also other small, barely significant similarities.

At 8 years old, Michelle was looking for her cat and asked Karen if she had seen her. So they became friends. I've never had a cat, but there were some situations related to cats. For example, Christina had cats and it may well be that it was in that conversation that she realized that she did not like me - I have a reason to believe this because of the way that conversation went.

(* I wrote in details about the failed meeting with Christina in my book)

Then Michelle had 3 brothers. I'm the only child, but I remember how I wanted a brother as a child...

https://web.archive.org/web/20110714211420/https://www.dailynews.com/crime/ci_18459619

In the article, Irene, Michelle's mother, said, "I can't sleep. I can't think. I can't eat. It's been 26 years, it feels like yesterday," she said, her voice faltering at her kitchen table. "Not one day, not one minute, not one second, do I not think about Missy."

When I was 26 years old, I often thought about what could have happened if only when I was still in school I would have gone to an Internet cafe and searched on the Internet about stuttering. What if I found Roman Snezhko's website? After all, I could live a different life! I might not make the mistakes that I did.

At the age of 26, I could not let go of the past and live as happily in the present as I could already do then, having all the necessary knowledge. I was stubborn. While I understand Irene's pain, I think she, too, could not worry so much about the past... Tears and sorrows will not bring back those who are no longer with us.

Karen was overweight. They say this contributed to her envy of Missy. In my village there was a somewhat similar girl who once mocked me - then I had already gone into my imagination due to stuttering, and when I spoke my facial expressions were distorted. In general, such full girls are not to my taste.

I have always liked foreign music from the 80s. Missy was a Scorpions fan. But I myself like their later songs, released in 90s after Michelle's death.

The name Michelle has played a role in my life. Michel Desmarquet, who had to write the book titled “Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet”, has naturally played the most important role in my life since I was 20 years old – 14 years ago at the time of this writing.

Then, although I was very active in the Facebook group Thiaoouba Prophecy XP, dedicated to the book of Michel Desmarquet, I did not often communicate in private messages with people from that group; and the only person who I’ve talked with a lot is a woman named Michelle. At the time she left with her husband and children to live in China from sunny Florida. I used to be very drawn to the United States, and Miami was one of the cities I considered for a possible residence. Michelle's story partially contributed to the fact that I stopped wanting so badly to go somewhere - I began to appreciate the place where I was, despite its cold and dullness during winter.

There is another person named Michael who was a friend of Michel Desmarquet and with whom I also corresponded regarding Thiaoouba and my official translation of the book. Thanks to him, I was also able to learn some interesting things about life.

https://audioboom.com/posts/8136908-38-the-story-of-michele-missy-avila 11:00

This audio podcast states that when Missy's body was found, her teeth were chipped off. I was always afraid of fights because I didn't want something like that to happen. Like many people, I also had problems with my teeth, and I try my best to keep them. And there is a small chip on the side of one of my teeth.

https://www.facebook.com/photo/?fbid=2631629243543435&set=pb.100063496299548.-2207520000.

Daisies and puppies were some of her favorite things.

I already said that one of my toys was a little puppy name Toto. As for flowers, I love flowers and I often photographed them and also planted them in my village garden. I also like daisies; but I don't feel like I have any special feelings for them.

Finally, we can note the synchronicity with IT (* Minor spoilers!).

1984 and 1985 are the years in which Stephen King's IT book takes place. I have a lot of synchronicities with that book and IT - which I made a video about.

At the very beginning of the film, the monster IT tells Georgie, the little brother of the stuttering guy, that everyone floats in the sewers and so will Georgie. IT then kills the boy. Missy was drowned in the water on October 1st, and her body lay in it for 3 days until it was found on October 4th. According to the plot of the movie IT, Georgie was also killed in October.

Speaking of A Nightmare on Elm Street, in Part 4 Freddie drowns a guy in water in his own bed - How's this for a wet dream? But I don't feel it has any connection.

Missy was writing a diary since childhood. I myself wanted to write from early childhood and wrote poetry - but it's of almost no significance.

I can also mention a mini similarity, which is that I've always liked palm trees. The neighborhood Arleta where Michelle lived is full of palm trees. And in addition, I'll note that the northern streets of Arleta are located about 20 kilometers from the house 1428 from the movie A Nightmare on Elm Street; I already talked about my synchronistic experience with that film in the previous video.

Vivien Leigh

Before talking about the psychological similarities that I can see between me and Michelle, I need to talk about Vivien Leigh.

I would be embarrassed to write and talk about small synchronicities with actress Vivien Leigh - given that I perfectly understand what kind of thoughts such revelations can cause in some people. But the fact that I clearly articulated the theme of this video - synchronicities with dead people – helps me here. It is 100% fact that they do exist and as you've seen, I've had a lot of them with Michelle. Again, again and again I would find them. Having said that, I'll note that I began to read about other cases of similar murders, trying to understand if, perhaps, I would find a bunch of similarities there too, which would invalidate my conclusions about the possible significance of the synchronicities I experience with Michelle Avila. But no. I didn't find anything significant.

And with Vivien, I'm also talking primarily about synchronicities, which, especially after my synchronistic experience with Michelle Avila, can actually mean something big instead of just being unusual coincidences. Again, reincarnation is only one explanation for this phenomenon; I am fully aware that there may be other reasons for this experience, and that I could have been someone else entirely in my past lives.

So, a few years ago I decided to rewatch Gone with the Wind in the original English language. Before that, I had only seen that film in my early childhood, when I did not understand the main theme of that movie. Which is coming of age - a topic that is so close to me in this life, and which is one of the synchronistic connections between me and Vivien. I will talk more about this in the chapter about Psychological Connections.

After watching Gone with the Wind, I wanted to know more about Vivien Leigh. So, I noticed how she tilted her head to the side in one of the photos on IMDB, and I also had a strange habit of tilting my head in a similar way at that time. I even remember how one unknown girl seemed to playfully tease me when she tilted her head to the side, passing me on the street and looking at me.

The second movie I watched with Vivien was A Streetcar Named Desire, where Vivien gave another phenomenal performance - for which she won an Oscar. In her role, some kind of connection can be found with me in terms of going inside of your inner world of fantasies.

Then I watched the trailer for her latest fil -, Ship of Fools. I remember vividly the cringe feeling when I saw Vivien suddenly start dancing on the ship in that trailer. I seemed to see myself at that moment. Hence the feeling of cringe. It reminded me of my childhood, when I was doing something like tap dancing on my grandmother's wooden floor in the big room of her apartment - which, to some extent, could be the real reason for the cringe; but then why did I have that feeling about Vivien and not about myself?

Unfortunately, there is another strange connection. It is related to the title of the movie. You already know that in my life there were two Victors who decided to utter the word “fool” addressed to me.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ship_of_fools

The Ship of Fools is an allegory from Plato's Book about a ship with a dysfunctional crew. The allegory is intended to represent the problems of governance that prevail in a political system that is not based on expert knowledge. In a way, there’s also a connection with me here. It relates to my most important experience with Thiaoouba and the knowledge gained from that book. For instance, Thiaooubians give the people an example of how to choose the right leaders in the country in order to minimize the chance that they will embark on the path of dictatorship. Thao herself cited a boat as an example of the problems in our current way of choosing heads of states.

I'll be honest - then I had not the most serious thoughts on whether I could be Vivien in the past, but I dismissed them and soon forgot.

Everything changed after I had a lot of synchronicities with Michelle. So, one night, trying unsuccessfully to fall asleep in bed, I suddenly remembered one detail from Vivien's life, which connected her synchronistically with Michel Avila and with me.

Vivien Leigh died on July 8, 1967, 7 months before Michelle Avila's birthday on February 8, 1968. Vivien was ill with tuberculosis, which again made itself felt a few weeks before her death. She seemed to have recovered. But on the night of July 8, she was trying to get to the toilet when her lungs filled with fluid. Vivien collapsed and suffocated.

Michelle was literally drowned in water.

For me, for about 14 years I have been experiencing cardio-respiratory problems. I also remember when I was still in high school, I couldn't take a deep breath. Could not take a full chest of air. This was clearly visible when I was cycling in the village. Fortunately, over time, that problem went away.

It was after this realization that I saw that Michelle could technically be Vivien Leigh in her past life since she was born 7 months after Vivien's death. I remembered then how after the death of my father I had a kind of message (* In a dream if I remember correctly) saying that my father had already been born; and it seems to me that then less than 9 months had passed since his death. I mention this because it's not yet known exactly at what stage of the formation of the embryo the soul gets attached to its new physical body (* "new" if the soul has already lived in the Universe before), and it may well be that the soul should not necessarily move into its new body in the very first months of pregnancy.

So, I decided to look for more information about Vivien, and I found several synchronicities of different gradations.

Leigh was born in India. The connection here is that a very long time ago I talked on myspace with a virgin girl from India. She saw me on the X-Files group and texted me asking if my profile picture was mine. This was another girl who liked the old me when I still had all my hair, and a lot of people thought I was handsome - even some guys told me so! And I have to say, I liked being pretty… but we'll talk about that in the next chapter.

Leigh was married to Laurence Olivier for 20 years from 1940 to 1960. I have already mentioned the significance of that number.

She also wrote over 10,000 letters and documents in her lifetime. I myself from early childhood wanted to learn how to write - I remember that moment very well; then I was in our village's house. In my 20s, I thought about writing screenplays for movies, but life took me on a different path. Still, I made an official Russian translation of Thiaoouba Prophecy book, and I also wrote my own...

I have always been interested in acting. I remember how I paid attention to how they were playing their characters whenever I would be watching a movie, of which I have watched quite a lot in my life. And when I was 18, I was thinking about going to acting classes, but I decided to take the time to study English because of the life situation that I was in at that time.

Vivien was an actress who "made the decision to fly out to Los Angeles to try and convince producer David Selznick that she was right for the role - and she her paramour." https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-4931150/

Vivien-Leigh-Laurence-Olivier-love-letters-revealed.html

(It was about Vivien getting the role of Scarlett O'Hara in the movie Gone with the Wind)

After I learned about the real cause of stuttering at 18, I thought about acting, as I said earlier, since cinema played a big role in my life. What Vivien did reminded me of my own aspiration in those distant years when I was ready for such antics, but the situation in which I was in my life was completely different - I could not just go and buy a ticket to L. A. while I was in Russia. And I really wanted to go there...

Michelle Avila lived in Los Angeles - the place where I used to dream of going. It always seemed to me that I was drawn to the USA...

From a dailymail article I read about my Vivien's letters. Some concerned the studio firing the director George Cukor and bringing on Victor Fleming with whom I frequently quarrelled then.

Yet another Victor, with whom some negativity is also associated.

Then Vivien had mental problems. She used to walk naked in the garden, and would sometimes end up in bed with strangers.

When I was a very young child, I had a very short, thank God, moment in my life when I would get completely naked - I don't have a good understanding of why.

It is said that Vivien loved gardening. You've already heard earlier in this video that I love it too.

From a dailymail article I read that throughout my past life of Vivien I battled bipolar disorder, and was observed by the closest people to have manic highs and depressive lows.

Although no one diagnosed me with bipolar disorder, I had moments in my life when I experienced both depression and high emotional ups and downs, which could replace each other relatively quickly. Fortunately, that period of life is by and large over, and I'm relatively calm.

Further on the Wikipedia page for the film A Yank at Oxford it's written I developed a reputation for being difficult and unreasonable: due to dislike of the secondary role, and because the petulant antics appeared to bring in dividends.

I remember the following moments of my life very vaguely, but I had similar tendencies to make scandals in order to benefit from it - what I considered a benefit then, but now I no longer see it as such.

The Wiki article mentions I was plagued with insomnia. Olivier also noted my ability to "charm the press".

I often have difficulty sleeping. I often can't fall asleep quickly. Even in my youth, when my village friends would spend time outside until dawn, I went home no later than two in the morning because of the need to sleep.

Then the article says I believed strongly in the importance of working on Tennessee Williams's A Streetcar Named Desire, which contained a rape scene and references to promiscuity and homosexuality.

As a child, I had a small sexual experience with a guy about my age. I could not avoid it, which means that it was a retribution for a mistake, or mistakes made in one of my past lives. If I really was Vivien, then that play could be the reason for my homosexual experience, which I see as negative – although now I feel calm about that. In the end, I learned my lessons from it, and I like girls - everything is as it should be according to the laws of nature.

Then the article mentions the film critic Kenneth Tynan whose diatribe almost caused another collapse. According to the article I was terrified of failure and intended to achieve greatness, and I gave his comments too much attention while ignoring other critics' positive reviews.

Here we can see a possible direct connection with my synchronicities with IT and with A Nightmare on Elm Street, and with the lessons learned. I also reacted badly - and sometimes still react - to negative comments, but I understand that I am right by and large. And if I'm wrong, then I'm ready to learn from my mistake, even if that error was pointed out to me by a toxic person; And for the most part I have no resentment - why should I be offended by him if he is 100% going to be punished by the Law of the Universe for his bad words and attitude towards me?

Of course, this was not always the case. In fact, I realized those simple truths when I was 28 years old; approximately after the already mentioned first acquaintance with a girl. We can see here once more the interweaving of different synchronicities and similarities between our lives.

Later this business with Tynan reminded me of how Marced's negative and outright false comments about me made me rather ill for I spent way too much time dwelling and worrying because of her nonsense.

My first dream with a blonde in a theater. She was killed by a man in black.

The theater is a kind of connection with Vivien, who said that she loves theater more than cinema. Interestingly, the second dream in the dream series where I was killed by an unknown person could also be related to the synchronicities I have with Michelle Avila. Some interweaving is seen here again.

Psychological similarities, Lessons learned, Payback for mistakes

In this chapter, I will talk about the psychological similarities between me, Michelle, and Vivien.

The psychic body is part of the Astral body and therefore it doesn't die also. Also, if you carefully read Thiaoouba, you can come to the assumption that our psychic body is also capable of storing data, knowledge which remains with us when we begin to live in a new physical body. Thus, if I understand the process correctly, our unresolved psychological problems can stay with us during our subsequent lives.

I suppose that they can manifest themselves in the form of unfounded fears of something, phobias, if a person had a severe trauma in a past life which left a big scar in the psyche. Then a person may retain similar character traits, but at the same time they may be different. And even though material knowledge is not stored when re reincarnate, we could feel some connection to the places where we once lived in past lives - I think this may be possible by means of the data stored in the psychic body.

We also need to remember about spiritual knowledge, which, unlike material knowledge, is not erased from our soul when we are born again. This is exactly how the spiritual growth of a person takes place, who is able to acquire and maintain new understandings about the world in the many lives that that person will live.

Further, I will give examples that could indicate a possible connection with Michelle and/or with Vivien.

Michelle was drowned, and she did not die immediately. The people who discovered her body spoke of how a look of horror was preserved on her face.

I remember well how, as a child, I rushed from the water in the shower, when my mother and father tried to wash me out of the shower head. Then I didn't really want to swim, but I eventually learned to swim when I was completely alone in the pool. But I still swim only where my feet can safely reach the bottom.

I must say that Michelle, as far as I know from her diary, knew how to swim, and loved to do it. If I really was her, then this may explain why the very tragic and terrible experience with water that she experienced before her death didn’t carry such serious consequences that I had an incredibly strong phobia of water.

Karen Severson & Laura Doyle cut and pulled out Missy's hair before drowning her in a stream.

For a very long time I couldn’t come to terms with baldness... and it was a very big problem for me. I read that Missy really valued her hair - that's why the two killers decided to pull it out.

I often had the feeling that I was living for the first time in a body that was experiencing baldness. I didn't know how to live with it; I didn't want to lose my looks. In fact, I remember looking at my bald dad's head a very long time ago as a child, and I had a very clear thought appear that this would be the first time I would have to be bald. By that time, I had probably already heard the word “reincarnation”, but I knew nothing about it at all.

A 1988 LA Times article reports the following words from Michel's brother, Mark Avila:

“After the sixth grade, Missy and her friends started using drugs and often missed school. She fell in with a bad crowd. She had to have a low self-esteem to hang around with people like that.”

Mark, shortly before his sister's death, tried to reason with her so that she would find new friends, so that she would understand the possible consequences of her actions. But Michelle didn't want to listen to him. She was stubborn.

I’ll mention that children are approximately 11-12 years old in the sixth grade in the United States. The word “after” means that Missy could have been 13 years old. At the age of 13, I began to have a strong sexual drive, but due to stuttering and the fear of speech already existing at that time, I could not start dating; then I made my first serious mistake when I chose to start masturbating in order to suppress my sex drive - and not only because of this; back then I still thought that masturbation was not harmful, and, in general, I liked doing it. It wasn't until a few years later, when I was 17, as far as I can remember, that this activity became an addiction that greatly damaged my physical and mental health.

And the topic of low self-esteem also bears some resemblance to me. So, in recent years, thinking about my life, I sometimes thought, was it worth it for me to go to the village in my childhood, where two friends ridiculed me because of my stuttering? After all, I could spend summer time in Moscow. But, of course, there were other friends in my village who openly did not say anything bad about me, and it seemed that for the time being we had normal relations with them.

I can say that in the end I went my own way, because my friends and I had somewhat different interests. I'm fine with no friends. I think my negative childhood experiences may have played a part in this.

Further, I never wanted to smoke, much less try drugs - although I must say that while watching the TV series Beverly Hills, 90210 the scene with Kelly taking drugs in the car aroused in me a kind of strange interest towards that substance. I tried alcohol and regretted it greatly when I got very drunk once because of my stuttering and its consequences - namely, the inability to talk with the girl I liked then.

Regarding what Michelle’s brother said when he talked about Missy getting involved with the wrong people. What about me? I was in companies where no one smoked, didn’t drink until a certain point, and definitely didn’t take drugs. And when one of my village friends thought of leaving our company for another, where they drank vodka, I immediately understood why he wanted to go there and tried to reason with him, so to speak. But he did leave, and it didn't do him any good. If my conclusions about the reincarnation connection are correct, then we can observe here one of the lessons of life that I have learned during my lives.

As I've said many times, I've had a lot of synchronicities with both the monster IT, which is a figment of Stephen King's imagination, and with A Nightmare on Elm Street movie, which was created by Wes Craven.

Both Wes Craven & Stephen King began the work on their stories in 1981. Michelle was 13 at the time. The time when she made her first big mistake in life. Same as me.

https://humanmonstersca.wordpress.com/2021/05/20/kids-who-kill-part-3-the-murder-of-michele-avila/

“Missy, being a forgiving sort, was excited to have her best friends back in her life.”

To some extent, I also did not hold a grudge against those two guys who teased me, and, in fact, played no small role in ruining my life.

The LA Times article quoted Irene Avila saying:

“In elementary school, Missy was in a class for gifted children, but her grades started to fall in high school when she and Severson would skip class.”

I don't want to present myself as someone I'm not. And in fact I ended up in class «Г» - the last one. I was probably too shy then, or maybe it was my stuttering... But then I remember how I thought by the end of high school that if it wasn’t for stuttering, then I might have been a straight-A student - stuttering was taking a lot of energy and attention from me. In fact, I was a solid good student until I almost stopped going to school in 10th and 11th grades – just like Michelle.

Other facts are that I have learned a lot about life in my current life, and I have understood many things that are still little known to others. I'm talking now about Thiaoouba and everything that I wrote about in my book, and also talked about in my videos.

In the TPXP group, some people called me “genius”. Personally, I do not agree with them because I know myself better, but still.

Then, when I was looking for a job in 2007, one of the directors noted that I looked with intelligent eyes, unlike many other people who came for an interview. She didn't have any vacant jobs in the store at the time, but she wanted to help me find a job.

I think that there may be another similarity between me and Michelle.

Michelle was popular at school. I remember how, because of my speech problems, I could not say what I wanted to say. And I remember how I could not be who I could be and who, in principle, I wanted to be. I had a very talkative childhood friend who was popular at school, and I think I could be somewhere similar to him if my life took a different path.

Going further, I will mention my lucid dream in which I spent some time in a female body. I wrote in my book that both Marina and I were in our teens.

Then why was I in a female body at all? Shouldn't I have been in my current body? In my other lucid dream, when I was at school, I was myself, but my height was small - which I probably actually was in reality during that school time. After my experience with a lot of synchronicities with Michelle, I thought, what if in that lucid dream where I was temporarily in a female body, I was in the body that I had in a past life?

And it would be interesting to note that the body type of that female body that I saw in my lucid dream looked similar to that of Michele's.

Some people write that they have dreams where they have someone else's body. Some of these dreams occur in different historical eras, or in fantasy worlds. Some people speculate if such dreams could be fragments of their past lives. Who knows... we know from Thiaoouba that there is such a thing as True Dream. But it should be mentioned that some people say how in their lucid dreams they were famous people who are still living.

Also in my lucid dream, I was thinking about sex. There could be a connection to Michelle if some of the things her killers said about her were true...

Which brings us to the next quote from one person who left a comment about Michelle.

https://ripeace.wordpress.com/tag/eva-chirumbolo/

"Missy wasn't the sweet innocent angel she was portrayed to be, which she definitely WAS NOT. I grew up with Missy and I knew Karen in school as well. I never met Laura, but the few times I saw her with Missy and Karen, she gave me the creeps. As for Missy, she was one of the meanest people I ever knew. She was the worst bully I ever encountered as a child and I never saw any other side to her. She was just as awful as the friends that killed her. There were a lot of people who couldn't stand her."

It's important to note that anyone could have written that message - even, in theory, one of Michelle's killers. Then many people on the forum disagreed with the content of that comment.

I don't know if the comment is true, but if so, I include it, because, unfortunately, even this material has a similarity to me...

In my childhood, when I was under 10, I kind of pestered a village friend who punched me in the face. I think I cried then, and I remember him telling his parents about it.

There was another sad moment when I decided to make fun of one girl together with a guy who made fun of me - I already talked about him.

Then there was a moment in Moscow, when for some reason I started to wallow one guy in the snow.

I am ashamed of both incidents. I made mistakes then. And I'm glad those incidents weren't too wild.

Then I hardly defended myself at school from bullies. Only my acquaintances stood up for me... as in the case of Michelle.

I decided to show that comment of an unknown person because if I myself had not said about my bad deeds, then no one would have known about them. But in childhood and adolescence, I was always a calm, smiling person - which some people noticed when they said that I would not hurt a fly - and this, by the way, is also somewhat true. So, if that comment is true, then there's a possibility that other people who knew Michelle could see her possible other side, which, perhaps, was not so angelic.

And we need to understand that the opposite means that someone for some reason created an account just to write a lie - and the question is why would anyone need it? But then we must remember that different people have their own ideas about good and evil. What seems normal to one person may seem bad to someone else, and vice versa.

Summing up

As you can see, there are a lot of synchronicities and similarities between me and Michelle, as well as Vivien.

If - IF! - we assume that I could've been those people in my past lives, then personally I can definitely see why in this life I never had a girlfriend, and finding a soul mate already seems almost impossible due to numerous factors.

 Age; My Thiaoouba experience and public skepticism about related topics; current attitudes and demands of women towards men; etc.*

Vivien literally took her husband away from another woman, while she herself was married and with a child. She was married for 20 years, and although she did suffer a little due to her divorce, she still soon found a new partner, with whom she lived until the end of her days. What I'm saying here is that it doesn't look like she paid the penalty for her mistake in her life.

Regarding Michelle, most of the known facts indicate that she still did not sleep with the boyfriends of other girls. These were rumors started by Karen and Laura. But it's also worth not discarding that anonymous comment that says that Michelle might not be quite the angel she was made to be. I'll mention one story here when Michelle made out with her ex-boyfriend Victor outside his house after he dumped Laura Doyle; Laura herself saw them at that moment, driving past Victor's house in her car, and she said to Michelle that she was "going to kill that bitch", but unfortunately her words were not taken seriously. Of course, there is nothing criminal in the fact that Michelle was kissing the guy who at that time had no girlfriend. But I think that this moment may have some resemblance to Vivien, who, in addition to the aforementioned stealing of other woman's husband, also on occasions happened to end up in bed with other men.

It turns out that from what we know, Michelle most likely did not make such a serious mistake in her life as to be drowned on the 17th year of her life that had just begun. So why did she find herself in a life situation that for many other people would have ended in much less bloodshed? This means that most likely the mistake (* and maybe mistakes) was made by her before her birth in the physical body of Michelle Avila - namely, when she lived in her other lives.

 There is still much to be learned about reincarnation and how exactly we suffer for our mistakes. I am giving my opinions here based on what I know now.*

Assuming that she really was Vivien, then this could be partial retribution for her mistakes. After all, the words “slut & whore” that Laura and others called her do have certain reflections in Vivien Leigh's behavior.

I think I need to ask the obvious question myself. If we assume for a second that reincarnation is the real reason for my synchronicities with Michel Avila and Vivien Leigh, then what are the chances that with millions of people who lived in the last centuries and died before July 1988, I was lucky to find my two former lives on the Internet? What are the chances that both incarnations are famous people of some sort? One is known because she’s an actress; and the other because her death was written about in newspapers, books were written, films were made, and now people are making videos about her for YouTube and other similar websites.

On one hand, the chances are very, very small. But at the same time, I actually found on the Internet very important information about the causes of stuttering, and then I found one of the most important books - Thiaoouba Prophecy - which changed my life so much by teaching me a lot. And soon I learned during the Astral projection that the soul really exists, and this allowed me to stop being afraid of death.

So many unusual events have happened in my life, including all my experience with Thiaooubians. I have already talked about them both in the book and in other videos.

Personally, I wouldn't be surprised if it turned out that I really was those people.

After I found out that reincarnation is real, I often thought - “what if I could be that person, or that in my past lives?”. I understood that these thoughts were not the most serious and discarded them, but nevertheless this experience showed that I had a desire to learn about my past lives.

And considering all the rest of my life experience, the Universe could really give me such an opportunity.

History, as it turned out, knows similar cases. I am recording this addition to my video after I learned about the so-called “Greenbrier Ghost”.

The mother of the suddenly deceased daughter, Zona, wanted to know how she died, and after numerous prayers, the Universe answered her question, showing that Zona was killed by her husband, who strangled her by breaking her neck. An autopsy performed after the exhumation of the daughter's body showed that Zona did indeed have a broken neck, and there were the marks of fingers on her throat. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Greenbrier_Ghost

Then I had a moment when I thought about Stu from Wes Craven's movie Scream, and a few minutes later I saw a video on YouTube about the house, which, according to the plot of the film, belonged to Stu's parents. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=AyS8wDllozk

Whatever the reasons behind my synchronistic experience with Missy & Vivien, I am glad to have it anyway because it has reopened my eyes to what is the reason for my loneliness in this life. It lies in my own mistakes that I have made in this and past lives. I remembered again that I'm not the only one going through this. I saw a possible answer to my long-standing question - why am I living such a life? Whether I was those people in past lives or not, one can still draw some conclusions about what I could have done in my past lives, for which I was destined to live my current life. It's clear that in this case, in my past lives I should have had both love and sex.

 According to the law of the Universe, a person cannot suffer for nothing, or for the sins of other people. Therefore, the souls living the first lives, and who have not yet had time to make a mountain of mistakes, most likely have love relationships, families, etc.*

All this made my life easier again. And this may well be another explanation for my synchronistic experience.

This is where this story ends.

If you have had any experience with synchronicities, I would love to hear it in the comments.

Thank you!

Part 2. Findings in Books, Films and Videogames About Me

When writing the finds, I'll try to briefly explain why it's significant to me, what is the connection to me that I see. But I won't be able to repeat the same thing often. Additionally, some of the details can be found in my book Simple Truths of Life, which you can download for free from many websites (and for the preservation-sake I uploaded my books to some book stores which require the e-books to be sold for at least something).

To save on space I'll not be explaining why I mention that which I deem self-explanatory. Basically, if I don't mention anything, it means the thing in question describes me.

My Lives

As mentioned in another document (My Past Lives.docx) me mentioning something here doesn't exactly mean I think there's a 100% connection. There may be, and I totally understand that some of the similarities I mention may be of no connection with each other. I simply note everything I notice for further reference when I, hopefully, know more about reincarnation.

Isis

"Dog star" Sirius. It's called that because it's part of the constellation Canis Major. Latin for 'the greater dog'. "Dog days" expression refers to the period from July 3 through August.

Dog theme has been following me throughout many lives.

There's a university Sirius near Semenovskaya. I took a mental note of it long time ago because the teachings there are capitalistic, monetary.

Resurrection. I wish to show/prove resurrection is real by resurrecting a dead animal at least. So far it appears I have to learn a bit more about how to resurrect, and karma may be another cause I've not been able to resurrect anyone so far.

*The dream answer of 13.09.2024 showed I did not resurrect anyone in Isis' life.

As I continue find my past lives – many of which were absolutely unexpected – I understand more and more why as Emma I had my attitudes and just was a model for painting people who lived in the past… I either was those people or I was closely connected to the periods the legends arose from.

In Vivien's life there was a period when I was thinking that I'm a bird (The Elephant Walk situation). Birth themes relate to Isis, Cleopatra, Missy's (a school 'Byrd Jn High') and some other lives perhaps. Birds have played a role in my life too.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Isis

Lady Emma Hamilton by Flora Fraser. On page 159 there's a mention of Elizabeth Lady Webster dinning at The Temple of Isis in Pompeii.

Osiris, as the story goes, was dismembered. Same happened to my Hypatia's body.

There are talks of Isis's head replacement with that of a cow. Also a rape is mentioned.

Since it's all mainly a myth, it's hard to tell if the stories could have some influence on my further lives.

I'll say as Vivien I had cows. Blanche in Streetcar was raped too.

"more clever than a million gods".

I have some positive intellectual qualities (what is reported about my past lives, and my opinion about my current one). But also made silly mistakes in my lives.

Powers of transformation. Noting my werewolf dream with Thao. Thiaooubians can change their height but I don't suppose they can drastically change the appearance of their body – it'd require changing the DNA imho.

Isis creates a snake that bites Ra. A snake may have been the cause of my Cleo death.

Was connected with the rain. Water theme has been a part of my many lives.

They say that my Alexander's life activities put Greek and non-Greek religions close to one another. The cults of Isis and Serapis, as well as many other religious traditions, had also expanded across the Hellenistic world.

I read the article till the end. I spotted some possible connections, but since the story about my Isis life is mainly a myth, I won't be noting them here. Those who read my book Simple Truths of Life and read my previous notes on my past lives should spot those parallels.

There's also a parallel in the Possible Influence on Christianity section. It's related to Jesus alongside whom ex-Isis – then Mary Magdalene - used to be. The article mentions the similarities in "gods'" deaths and following resurrections. (People who read Thiaoouba Prophecy know who Jesus – Aarioc – actually was)

It's logical that myths about me and various rites don't seem to have any effect on me. Only my own decisions and actions should have the influence on what I'm to experience in my lives.

There's a mention of Apuleius' comic novel The Golden Ass, also known as Metamorphoses.

Lucius is the novel's protagonist. He was magically transformed into a donkey.

Reminded me of the two plays in my Vivien's life: Titus Andronicus (Lucius is Titus' son), A Midsummer Night's Dream (Nick Bottom has a donkey's head after certain events).

Lucius also wants to work as a lawyer (relates to VL life)

Moral purity, self-denial, and public declarations of devotion to the goddess reminded me of who I was as Hypatia.

The mysteries of Isis, among other similar cults, died out approximately in the beginning of the 5-th century.

I lived my life of Hypatia then. The Isis mystery cults might have died along with a new incarnation of Isis herself (Hypatia).

In the 18-th century the veiled Isis was a symbol of modern science, hoping to uncover nature's secrets. And there was time Isis was a symbol of opposition to clergy and Christianity.

I made it clear when I started doing my YouTube video series that my content is about science and knowledge.

7 is often mentioned.
14 has been seen in relation to my Nefertiti's life and others.
28 also. It's like the number doubles
56 was not seen a lot – if at all – in relation to my soul's life.

I'll note while reading about Seshat I spotted several things of resonance with myself.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Maat

'Ostraca' word. Have been seeing it lately reading about Isis and Nefertiti's lives. Maybe it's nothing, but that shard of pottery may have been used to kill me in Hypatia's life.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Inventory_Stela
The researchers say the stela is a fake made by priests.

I'll note this - Isis, Mistress of the pyramids. Recently I found out via my Higher Self I lived when Toth lived.

http://mariam-ancientegyptiancivilization.blogspot.com/2011/08/in-days-before-re-had-left-earth-before.html

Blessed the children and decreed they'd sometimes speak of things to come. Become psychic, basically. In my Vivien's life there were several times I know of when I said of things that would become true. In a dream I heard that Vivien – I – was psychic. I had many true dreams (of both past and future) in this life also.

13 places to claim to be burial places of Osiris.

Horus and Osiris talk reminded me of some episodes in Alex's life.

"Чудо в перьях" (letteral translation is "Miracle in feathers") was something that a teacher, I believe, in the first year of school, perhaps (maybe it was our dark-haired teacher), called me at least once.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Isis
In Vivien's life I was at that river.

Pisces

It's 03.03.2025 and I learned I was born in constellation Pisces in my Isis life.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pisces_(constellation)

There's a mention of the Babylonian constellations Šinunutu "the great swallow" and Anunitum the "Lady of the Heaven".
Swallow bird has appeared before.
Lady of the Heaven has reminded me of 'Lady Starlight' song by Scorpions (related to my Missy's life). Starlight itself now resonates with my soul's unexpected history.

One of the stars is Torcular ("thread"), Omicron Piscium (o Psc).
I use a suspended thread for my telekinetic practices.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_star_names_in_Pisces Okda, "the knot of the cord".
Reminded me of 'untying' the knot in Alexander's life.

Alpherg: "the beak-shaped spout (of the well-Bucket)".
Bird-related.

Isis - History and Legacy - Markus Carrabas

While reading the books on Isis – my past life – I do totally understand that it's mostly a myth, meaning many of the mentioned things never occurred. But I also know that myths can originate from real people and real events. With time the truths become distorted for variety of reasons. While some truths may have been lost (in writing), some may still be visible if you know how to filter out the fairy tales.

It's the same concept as with the Bible, which originally had many truths before being heavily altered by malicious priests. Still, if you have the required knowledge (e.g. Thiaoouba Prophecy), you can see what's the invention of the priests, and what probably actually occurred.

I understand that some points I read and comment on may be opinions of the authors and not the actual truths or facts.

Since it's mostly a myth, I will refer to Isis in 3-rd person often.

P 6. Isis was fundamentally a healer and a peacemaker.

This has connections with my other lives.

Protector of Egypt has some resonances with Alex's and maybe Cleopatra's lives.

Female trickster reminds me of Victoria character in the Thief video game. Never played it, but the 2 cutscenes with her have been imprinted in my memory; I sometimes rewatch them for they're so good (for their time). Vicky, a wood nymph, was an ally of a Trickster. She was able to transform her appearance at will, and did just that to look like a human female when talking to Garrett. Later her transformation was obvious… eye is also an object that plays a role here, and it does with the Isis myth (Osiris' hieroglyph was a throne, and eye, and royalty in general).

https://thief.fandom.com/wiki/Viktoria

Also, I did mention before the direct connection to me trying to resurrect someone and the myth saying I as Isis did just that (but my dream answer said there was no such event)

Helper goddess.

Clearly, I'm trying to help people now.

P 9. Egyptologist Peter Clayton. There's a member of TPXP by that exact name (obviously, a different person). Peter name has been often appearing in some of my lives.

Name Shaw is also of some connection. In fact, it the movie I was in – Ceasar and Cleopatra – was based on another Shaw's play (George Bernard Shaw)

P 18. Male aspect (frog). Female aspect (snake). Today (February 10, 2025) I was fighting a giant snake in my dream.

I'll note that as I'm reading the descriptions of the Creation according to Egyptian myths, I can see some elements of the truths I know from Thiaoouba Prophecy.

Of course, I also know that priests distorted the truths Toth brought from Atlantis (and Mu)

P 19. (About Isis) Instigator as much as a carer.

P 21. 17-th part of each period of illumination.

P 22. Pamylia and phallic processions. Maybe nothing. As VL there was a mention made of something looking like that (maybe in Egypt too)

On the 4-th day Isis was born in the ever moist regions.

Water has clearly been a part of my many lives.

9 deities representing the physical creation of the world

P 25. Horus spearing Seth. Isis looks on.

Reminded of the spearing episode from my Alex's life.

P 27. Isis discovering the fruit of both wheat and barley (пшеница и ячмень). Osiris devised the cultivation of these fruits.

I've already mentioned the later one. Also, reminded me of what Thao taught about Toth coming to Aranka (Egypt):

TP, p. 130: "…Improved plants, new techniques for raising cattle, new methods of cultivation, pottery and weaving were all introduced."

Today I got – most probably – the answer that as Isis I was born more than 10000 years ago. Don't know if I somehow connect to Toth… at this point anything is possible. Basically, if I did live during Toth's time and had a noticeable role to play, then the myth could be stemming from those real events. For now it's all just a speculation which could turn out totally wrong. I'll have to ask my HS a lot more questions.

P 28 follows up by saying both Osiris and Isis were basically pro arts and technological advancements.

What page 30 writes about may have also come from the events of 17000 years ago.

Of course, if so, the truths have been distorted.

Heracles is also mentioned. I've said before there may be some link (not just what I thought/believed of him in my Alex's life)

It looks like Osiris may be Toth. Maybe; maybe not. The descriptions match. If the Bible says what it does about Adman (Robanan) and Eve (who were 2 women actually - Levia and Dina), then a lot is possible in regards to Toth who lived about 5000 years before Hebrew people arriving to Earth.

It should be noted there were also Nagas, who explored the planet in the other direction. Some myths and names could originate from their people.

P 31. 72 conspirators.

P 34. Word 'Tanitic' definition: "Of or relating to a certain one of the 7 ancient distributaries of the river Nile."

Byblos has subtle connections with my other lives.

Sitting by a spring, all dejected and tearful…

That resonates with my Michele's life… that almost exactly what happened before I died in it... In fact, I may have seen a dream today (February 12, 2025) about me as Missy – at least there was someone who looked like me in that life. That girl said something about unraveling of… truths or some information… and the idea was that – in my interpretation – honest people have nothing to fear, for they've got nothing to hide.

The story of becoming intimate with the queen has parallels with my Emma Hamilton's life.

Swallow, I think I mentioned that bird before. In my childhood there was a dead swallow lying on the bench on my father's old plot of land between Sergey and Vlad. The spot where it lay on had a concave impression and it was black (maybe it was burnt before.) I remember that dead bird because I shoved it off from the bench – not a place to have a corpse on - and the girls didn't like that. I guess my action did come out as rude and in retrospect I had to clarify my reasoning, speak out, before acting out my idea.

Also, in one of my favorite videogames – Witcher 3 – Ciri's name derives from a word that means 'Swallow.'

Next the swallow story reminded me of how Thao dissolved and was flying around Michel in his Doko on Thiaoouba.

P 36. 14 body parts.

Pike fish. Probably nothing; just remember how mother told a story of seeing a sleeping pike on our river's bank (Sheredar'). She tried to grab it into her hands, but the fish was very slippery and slid away into the water.

My Michele's dead body was being… eaten by small fish… honestly don't know if there are any reflections here. Just reporting all that I notice, as before.

P 39. Tenacity. I can invoke that quality in myself.

P 40 talks about dynastic heritage. In one of the dreams I had today (February 12, 2025), it was mentioned about a long lasting line of heritage of some house; my note:

"Tudors? Single family name of many people mentioned by zegyltins in one sentence; line was shown."

A long line consisting of blueish blocks was shown. Close by were other blocks of other colors; some of them were as if branching out.

P 41. Mistress of [my] own fate. Describes my soul, I'd say.

P 44. There are similarities with Demeter's myth. It mentioned a goddess by name of 'Baubo.' That name made me remember the recent dream I had on February 8, 2025; It said something like '…obo dated Cleopatra…the 7-th…' I noted that was sure about the end of the name, and the fact that it appeared to have 4 letters. I thought 'F' might have been the first letter – so if it wasn't, it sounded similar to that. 'Au' sounds as single 'o', and 'b' may sound somewhat similar to 'f' when you're hearing it in a dream. (#curious) (Google voices 'Baubo' not with 'o', but with 'a-u')

On February 11, 2025 I also had a dream which showed a v*a of some woman. It says Hathor undressed and showed her private area too.

Undressing that made certain people/gods laugh, which led to breaking the stasis, reminded me of how in Vivien's life I burst into a room where Larry and Peter were having conversation and asking: "Which one of you is coming to bed with me?" All 3 laughed, and I guess maybe it helped to break the 'stasis' too (e.g. break the ice, lower any build up of tensions)

P 46 mentions Loki. A reminder of Katya from Sokolniki.

Cow-headed goddess. Maybe nothing; just note we had cows in my Vivien's life. Of course, living in Russian village, I also saw cows up close on many occasions.

P 51. (Off topic) Criminals were stripped off their names as punishment – as if they never existed. So no glorifying the criminals. It's something Thao made a point of when talking about some journalists who seek sensational news and reveal all the details of murders – including the name and face of the criminal. This shows people of ancient Egypt had some important things figured out (before it was mentioned how women had equality)

7 scorpions. 7 children of the scorpion goddess Serket.

Now that I think about it, this reminded me of the dream I saw on September 11, 2024. I asked my Higher Self then if I was Isis. Orange was indicator for 'yes.' I saw in a dream a little creature of orange color, and it appeared to be of scorpion's shape. I'm not sure if I knew anything about scorpions' connections to Isis then; maybe I did read a bit about Isis before asking if I was her.

Also Scorpions relate to me in my Michele Avila's life – a rock band I liked -, and in this life scorpions also played their roles (e.g. the rubber scorpion toy (it looked like a rubber toy; wasn't hyper realistic or anything) I brought to school in the very first grades and scared – not exactly on purpose – a guy from my class; I put in on his chair, and I did suppose some reaction would follow, but I'd never think he'd get scared like that… sorry about that)

P 58. A fresco showing Isis welcoming Io to Egypt. Could be nothing, but there's a band called 'iio'. It's not only that I like a couple of their most famous songs, but also that I mentioned one of those songs – At the End – to a girl Anna on Vk.com; and she later mentioned 'Streetcar Named Desire' was her favorite (or 1 of) play and that conversation played a big role in me deciding to watch 2 of my Vivien's movies I won Oscars for – not yet knowing I was Vivien Leigh -, and that's how I started finding synchronicities with Vivien Leigh, and then eventually I learned I am Vivien Leigh.

P 60-61. The knowledge of afterlife. I do possess some of the knowledge in my current life. As I did in my Mary Magdalene's life too.

P 62. Isis who created the world. There was a mention before of 'mother' of the world, I believe. It reminded me of what was written in 'The Dialogue of the Savior':

Mary [me] said, "Of what sort is that mustard seed? Is it something from heaven or is it something from earth?"

The Lord said, "When the Father established the cosmos for himself, he left much over from the Mother of the All. Therefore, he speaks and he acts."

Mother of the All…

P 63. Goddess of understanding.

Often saw true dreams relating to Isis' life.

Reflections. How many did I find? Do the stories about me as Isis the goddess have similarities in terms of reflections I spotted with my Vivien's movies?

Pagan portals - Olivia Church

Isis was called Aset (Eset) in Egyptian.

Pages 11, 12:

The God Atum-Ra had children Shu (male) and Tefnut (female), personifications of air and moisture.

Shu and Tefnut had children Nut (the sky Goddess) and Geb (the earth God).

Nut and Geb had children: Osiris, Horus the Elder, Set, Isis, and Nephthys.

Nephthys (pretending to be Isis) lay with Osiris, and Anubis was their child. (It's not original version, from what I understand)

Isis and Osiris had a child Horus.

P 4. I'll note again that the Graeco-Roman Period started with me as Alexander and ended with my death as Cleopatra. I played key roles in both the begging and the end of that period.

The image of Isis was heavily influenced by this period.

P 12. Knowing everything in the sky and on the earth – except for the true, secret name of Ra.

P 13. Was always seeking to learn more.

This describes me in my current and many other lives.

P 14. Secret name whispered into the ear. Reminded me of how I heard 'Look!' (Thao told me it, I'm sure) near my right ear while I was watching a tennis match and the clock was showing 33.

The secret name itself reminded me now of how 'Thiaoouba' (Yahweh) word is not spoken by many Hebrews because they think it's the true name of the God – but it is actually the name of a planet of the 9-th category in our galaxy, and the people from that planet have been guiding us. Another example of a myth having origins in a certain truth – the name actually exists but it's not the name of a God, but of a planet where highly evolved people (both spiritually and technologically/materially) and creatures are living. It's, of course, okay to pronounce that name too.

Poison… Never noted this, but may relate to my Cleopatra's life in which poisons, sadly, have also been used, I read.

P 15. "Heka" definition reminded me of Higher Selves, who are not only filters for the sensations produced by us, but they can also help us – "ward off the blow of events, Guarding them by day and by night".

Recently in my questions to my Higher Self I got the answer in my Cleopatra's life, in a certain moment, I knew I was Isis. I think that I knew about Higher Selves too. The knowledge came from Atlantis (and from Mu) and Toth brought that knowledge… and know I've learned that I lived when Toth lived, and we also knew each other to some degree (I was not Isis then) … I'll have to ask more questions, but it's possible I knew about Higher Selves in that distant life also. If so, it would be a link between my several lives.

P 17. Olivia writes about relationships of Isis and Osiris. How they completed one another in sexual duality and partnership. It didn't last long because Osiris was killed.

This could be some type of reflection in what actually happened in my Nefertiti's life. There are similarities in how we're (Akhenaten and I – Nefertiti) portrayed as a happy couple with kids and walking hand in hand, and then, after some time passes, Akhenaten gets poisoned by priests and dies.

Secrets of agriculture, as noted before, may relate to actual events when Toth brought knowledge to Egypt (Aranka) from Atlantis (and from Mu).

Set being jealous of Osiris' fertile land may have something to do with the war that broke out between upper and lower Egypt, but the reason for the war was different in reality (what Thao told Michel D.) Maybe it's about another conflict.

P 21. Isis and Nephthys transformed themselves into kites.

Kites is коршун in Russian. I remember how my uncle (I always called him uncle) Victor mentioned that bird flying high up in the skies. I saw it. Don't remember him ever drawing my attention to other birds. But he could whistle imitating [some] birds; he was great at that, I think.

Recently I wanted to photograph a kite in Moscow – I thought it was that bird – but never had a chance. I did watch them on YouTube, wishing to learn if it was kite whom I heard or some other bird (it was another bird).

Also, a kite is the toy people fly heigh up in the air with a plastic thread attached to it. I saw that thing too in person… I don't think I ever tried to use one of those things.

In Vivien's life there was a sad moment when I thought I was a bird – at least it's what they say in a book. It happened during the filming of the Elephant Walk.

P 23. The book says the earliest writings about Isis were found on the walls of a tomb which was built before the pyramid of Giza. From Thiaoouba Prophecy we know that pyramid was built around 17000 years ago by Toth – not around 4500 years ago as scientists think.

(They say they used radiocarbon dating method to determine the age of the Great Pyramid of Giza. So the dating was wrong. Still, there's a chance the writing was made about 17000+ years ago… if the radiocarbon dating was used on that wall and it gave wrong answer too. But if the dating showed the tomb was older than the pyramid, it could be the truth…)

P 30. There's a statuette depicting Isis nursing Horus on her lap. Again, reminded me of the depictions of Akhenaten and me (Nefertiti) showing us with children in a casual way not common to many other Egyptian depictions.

Triads of Gods. Today, 20.02.2025, I had a dream in which triads (3s) were of importance. The narrative in the dream pretty much drew my attention to that fact – maybe even outright said it. It's another instance when I see something in a dream, and later I read about it (in a book about Isis myths)

P 37. Makes mistakes and doubts herself. Is able to forgive and be merciful and compassionate.

Relates to me.

P 41. Sister and wife to Osiris. Reminded me now how as Vivien I stopped loving Larry but we were still living together – like sister and brother – and Larry noted how 'occasional acts of incest were not discouraged.' (Confessions of an Actor by Laurence Olivier, page 173)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sopdet

Dog Star.

P 45. Greeks knew Isis as Isis Pelagia, watching over those who travel by sea.

On October 28, 2024 I heard 2 names in my dream as an answer from my Higher Self (perhaps, other influences caused me to hear the first name): Пелагея (Pelageya) & Евдокия (Evdokia) – both the names of my great-grandmothers (on my mother's side). The later name later proved to be mine in one of my past lives.

https://www.behindthename.com/name/pelageya

Pelageya is Russian form of Pelagia. (#curious) It's curious because I asked my Higher Self then what name I had in my past life I lived right before my Emma's life. Recently I asked if Isis was how I was called in that life and the answer was yes – I don't remember hearing Acet or Eset, and I heard some other name repeated. I then asked why that was, and the answer was – my interpretations – that I get true answers but it may be a part of something it didn't/doesn't/won't belong during its time of existence. I heard Pelageya, and now I learn I was called a similar name.

Thao told Michel she was "an Easter Island statue" (Thiaoouba Prophecy, page 70, page 95). She was partially metaphorical, and a statue was created after her image in her past life. There could be, it seems, connections to the objects, etc., representing us; basically, the existence of something or someone around yourself may be attributed to that representation.

P 46. The Tree Goddesses (Isis, Hathor, and Nut).

I'll note as a child I built a small house out of stocks on a tree. There's a photo of me in Vivien's life visiting a tree house with Larry. Generally, we kids loved climbing trees – which maybe isn't that uncommon if you get to enjoy all summer and Nature in the village.

I'll probably need to mention "'Happy' Tree Friends" cartoon we watched at Dima's small house when we were teenagers.

P 47 says how Isis' mother, goddess Nut, was portrayed as a giant, star-sprangled woman, arching over the earth. https://isiopolis.com/2021/04/11/

nuet-the-secret-one/ This immediately reminded me of the very similar picture I once saw… "Alien life cycle tableau version 1, (1978) by HR Giger" http://alienexplorations.blogspot.com/2021/02/hr-gigers-alien-life-cycle-hieroglyphs.html

There are highly similar in the way the arching giant being/creature is depicted (maybe Giger used Nut as a base for his vision). The thing is I have certain parallels and connections with 'Alien' movies (I've noted it before in my diary and in my book). This is another interconnection between my life – or something surrounding my life (the myth [I assume it is] of Nut being my [Isis] mother) – and a movie I noticed I have synchronicities with.

The book further says many coffins were decorated with Nut or Isis inside the lid, arching over the dead body. (#curious)

While on this subject, I was thinking how I had a dream kinda mentioning I was IT (Pennywise). Got me thinking if I could find connections to Nightmare and IT movies too here. I realized how Isis is known to be able to shapeshift – and IT monster can do exactly that. Maybe this is the answer – partial one – to why I had that dream? Like we're sharing similarities… still, being similar with someone else doesn't mean you're them.

Isis association with Ma'at, goddess of truth and balance. 'Maa' in Egyptian was written with an eye hieroglyph and meant 'to see', and Olivia says it alluded to her ability to see the truth of all things.

It has a relation to me since I found some important truths in this life. I used to notice things in other lives too (e.g. Vivien Leigh). I should say I'm still learning – as all people – and I've suffered for errors when I could not see the truth - like when I was scammed, cheated, betrayed -, but I saw what happened after the fact and tried to learn from my errors.

P 48. Different names of Isis.

Phrygians - Pessinuntine, Mother of the Gods
Autochthonous people of Atica - Cecropian Minerva
Cyprians - Paphian Venus
Cretans - Dictynna Diana Sicilians - Ortygian Prosperpina
Eleusis Attic - Ceres

- Juno
- Bellona
- Hecate
- Rhamnusia

P 49. Herodotus identified Isis with Demeter; Osiris with Dionysus. I saw those names while reading about my past life of Alexander.

P 67. The Festival of the 2 Kites was taking place on the 22-26-th day of the 4-th month of the inundation, Khoiak (it's in winter). It's about mourning of dead Osiris and beseeching him to return.

Just noting this because of the day # 26 (of July). It's the day my father died, and it's the day it became known who killed me in my Michele's life; also, me noticing that date is what caused me to learn more about Missy, finally learning it is me in my past life. While the seasons are different, the similarity lies in the fact it's all about someone's death (rebirth, usually, follows the death).

P 73. The offering ritual took place 3 times daily.

P 85. Depicting something is like making them real. Reminded me of 'I am an Easter Island statue' words Thao told Michel when he had his true dream about Thao's past life. I remembered that episode often while reading this book about Isis.

Rachel from the Bible

I saved the pages of the Bible, Genesis, in which I'm as Rachel is mentioned. I had 7 chapters, and the name 'Rachel' is mentioned in 5 of them; so 2 in between have no mentions of the name.

I remembered right away about the dream of April 7, 2025 when I saw 'Amy Lyon' name I had in a past life, and the fact it had 2 vowels + 5 consonants = 7. The other night's word - "ВинЛайн" Вин + Лайн = 2 vowels + 5 consonants in Russian – also had the same number of letters but in Russian. There was something about 7, and maybe this is it; maybe it was a help given to me to make sure I do know I am Rachel who is mentioned in the Bible (perhaps the story is not exactly right, as maybe it was based on Jewish tradition, and tonight's dream showing me going into exile basically.)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rachel

Rachel weeping for her children in Exile.

I should note that the quote means not that Rachel was exiled, but that Jews were exiled and so Rachel weeps for them being in exile.

Today, on April 9, 2025, I saw a dream in which I left a group of people, who maybe were Jews. It did feel like I was in exile. Maybe because of an affair, s*x, with an engaged person. The first dreams, especially the one from April 3, 2025, I had about my past life mentioned in the Old Testament collaborate that idea. (#curious)

Weeping, crying, has relation to my recent lives for sure.

My diary entry of April 3, 2025:

Jacob had 2 wives, one of whom was Rachel. In the dream I saw 1 male and 2 women. Could be of some relation.

As I'm reading further, parallelism may indicate marriage within family – cousins. https://www.quora.com/How-old-were-Rachel-and-Leah-when-they-married-Jacob-How-old-was-Rachel-when-she-had-Joseph-How-old-was-Jacob-at-that-time

She was one of Jacob's wives. Jacob took Esau's rights as the firstborn. This again reminded me of something I experienced in my life. Anton, was born the day before me, and I remember clearly how he used to boast and remind me – friendly, I believe – that he was born the day before me. It's another clear parallel with that line of Hebrews but I no longer sure why I have those parallels in my life. Hopefully I'll have my answers.

Jacob served 7 years to have Leah, and then other 7 years to have Rachel. 14 years. Then 6 years to have the cattle. 20 total years.

Genesis 32:6 mentions 400 men. The number 4 has appeared here and there in my lifes.

Genesis 35:4 & 35:8 mention oaks.

Her son is Joseph, the dream interpreter, of whom I sometimes thought since I have to learn interpreting dreams in my endeavor to find my past lives via my HS and dreams. His story is the only one I fully read about when several days ago I checked the Bible.

Joseph 17 years. 37:2

4 people and x in the other dream, Rachel is 4th from Abraham through his brother.

Asian African. If I was Rachel then I had to have been of mixed race.

Jacob, the husband of Rachel, is often mentioned in the Qur'an as Yaʿqūb (Arabic: يَعْقُوْب).

Yaqub (Jacob) sounds very close to the root of the last name of a guy who used to go to school with me. He started behaving badly towards me at the end of school, but the issues I had to deal with made not pay attention to him; I did remember his behavior later in my years, and I can't say I like the guy because of that and some other things he had done to and with other people.

In VDNK, where I used to go often, there's a palace called "Yakubov's palace" (Дворец Якубова)

Jacob cursing whoever had the teraphim (who, according to the Bible, was me, Rachel) reminded me of how my mother cursed father for drinking (which resulted in all sorts of problems for us both) and then his dad, my grand father, died. She regretted saying the words which she thought might have been the reason behind my grand father's death. I thought about it back then – it was long before I found Thiaoouba – that it kinda makes no sense that someone can die because of someone else's words (curse, or whatever they call it); but now I ponder if synchronicities may be at play here.

My diary entry on April 1, 2025 (Mentioning them because they relate to me, and they relate to people who were of connection to me in the past life of Rachel):

I read the first chapters of the Bible until Sara's death. I noted this:

Дубрава Море. 12:6, 13:18 (oak forest, grove)

Агарь 16.1 (sounds like we call red ducks and I often use that word)

I met Christina in oak grove ear Ostankino. It was a big and frustrating moment of my life.

So once more I thought it's clear I was someone who knew that biblical Abraham.

"a lofty pyramid, built of square and polished white stone"

Noting this because reminded me of my dream I had on April 3, 2025. I was inside of a pyramid.

About the brass key which was about 15 centimetres long:
Could be nothing, but reminded me of my dream I had on April 6, 2025. I walked around 15 km, and my mother was near me.

Abram told pharaoh, and then Abimelech, Sarah was his sister, Isaac told Abimelech Rebekah was his sister.
Those people were relatives of Jacob, who, based on what Bible says, was my Rachel's life husband. I already mentioned before the young woman who said she was a sister, while she was actually a wife of another man.

Tobias

On June 23, 2025 I got the answer I was Tobias, the son of Tobit in the Book of Tobit.

Copied this text from my diary; slightly edited it:
. https://www.behindthename.com/name/tobias It's of interest.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Book_of_Tobit
There are several things I noticed. I might ask later if I was one of those people. The date of the story is 8-th century BC - close to my first Hypatia life, and where it could have been if Tobey was my second true answer tonight regarding my first life of Hypatia.
They say in the story there are big errors in geographical details. Just today I measured the distance between the 3 spots on tram tracks, and it was not what I initially thought it could be.

The Book of Tobit, English translation by A. Neubauer, 1878.

Blindness by bird pooping into the eyes. I actually made a point to not look up at pigeons for this same reason – except I didn't specifically think such an event could lead to blindness.

Ecbatana – I remember seeing the name of that city when I was reading about me in Alexander's life.

Sarah and Anna (Hannah) names.

Hoshea, the son of Elah.

Sarah had been given a wife to 7 husbands. All 7 died.

"my son, withdraw thyself from all uncleanness and from all whoredom…"

"ten talents of silver in the city Rages in the land of Media". Just noting that today I had two dreams about money.

"when I put the money in his hand this day twenty years ago."

"And he said to Tobiyyah, Thou shalt not depart from my house before fourteen days"

Nefertiti

Thutmose – court sculptor.

Just in case I'll quickly note some of the things I thought I noted in these files but can't find that information now. Maybe I only wrote about it in my diary.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nefertiti

Tey name is one of the links between my current life and my past life of Nefertiti.

Tey's title was: "Nurse of the Great Royal Wife."

Tey is also a streamer (on GoodGame.ru) who played a short, yet quite noticeable role in my life, changing one of its paths.

They show my Nefertiti bust on the cover of a history book about my past life of Cleopatra.

Long neck, left eye issue (it's missing) – are the features of my Nefertiti bust which found their reflections in my Vivien's life (long neck and eye patch I had to wear once on my left eye) and in my current life too (usually – due to muscle tension and other reasons - have blurred vision in my left eye).

Some of our – Akhenaten and mine – activities connect with my views on life (which show up in some other lives of mine also.) E.g. I know now the truth about the Spirit and reasons behind the creation of the Universe; as such I don't need to believe in gods or anything like that, and I've been trying to share my knowledge and experience with other people – as before (3000+ years ago), not many accept the simple truth even if you say some of the things I mention can be proven (by them)

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sLj1Ce74WxY

7:35 Bull cult. May have some connections to Cleo.

Nefertiti by Lange, Brenda

S at p 12 – 00:20

P 12 compare the long neck to that of a swan. In my Vivien's life my neck was also compared to that bird (Alex Walker's book, page 51)

Brenda also then mentions supermodels, and that word was also used by another author in reference to me in Emma's life.

P 13 the bust was discovered in 1912. Just noting as Angelo I died in that year.

Mention of 20-year period and 20000 subjects. The city of Amarna was abandoned after Akhenaten's death. What remained was buried by sands until 1912. Clearly, it was a rather negative thing to have happened to Amarna, and I have noticed how the number 20 is often associated with something negative or bad in my current incarnation – to the point I try to avoid it if I can.

P 16 painting depicting offerings to Aten (the sun-disk god). Reminded me of how much sacrifices and offerings were made in Alexander's life.

P 17 Akhenaten ruled for 17 years. Just noting I lived 17 years as Michele Avila.

Isis – goddess of the throne. Never knew that. Noting I've been a leader in 4 lives. (#curious)

From Google search: "the ancient Egyptians called her Aset. Her name translates to "Queen of the Throne" which is reflected in her headdress, which is typically a throne."

And it should be noted all those 4 lives were lived after my past life of Isis. Did my Isis' life had some influence on my fate in those 4 lives?

P 18 sun god Ra. There was The Path of Ra in Mu. Michel Desmarquet also said he saw people with animal heads depicted inside the pyramid. That caught my attention because it was understood people of Mu had some knowledge about the Universe; they knew about reincarnation. So why depict such creatures? What was the reason for that? My mind thinks of beliefs and symbolisms and art… but then, I'm reminded of those horses with the heads of females on Thiaoouba… and I wonder if some creatures from the pyramid's painting could be real too now…

P 32. 64 tombs were identified in the Valley of the Kings (KV1, KV2m etc.).

Chapter 3 had mentions of foods many of which appear in my life – of course. Barley, tortilla, etc. Clearly, it's not something too specific to me; but still, what we experience in one life can be met and experienced again in another. Barley had a role to play because I was feeding it to a pigeon who used to visit my window often; he really liked those seeds, making sure to peck them first; later I sometimes called him 'перловочник' because of that.

P 55. Many Ancient Egyptians we obsessed with cats and mummified them too. Just noting it because as VL I was mad about cats; could be of some relation, could be not.

While on this topic I'll say that Miker's wife Zhenya (my namesake) loves cats and one of them is called Бастет (Bastet), and I think some others are also called after Egyptian deities (Bes); I'd rather not say why Miker's wife has any importance here, but she does. I don't know her personally – in this life at least; never met her or him; maybe saw her once on stream. In case in my future life I read this document of my old self, I'll hint that it's about daydreaming; hopefully I'll have learnt my lesson and I'll no longer let myself use my imagination in a wrong way, and so I don't have to experience wild extremes of my current life.

P 56 says how Thoth was a god of the moon who had given to humans the knowledge of writing, medicine, and math.

In Thiaoouba Prophecy on page 138 it says:

"At this time, the Egyptians still had high schools which catered for a very limited elite, teaching some of the learnings Toth brought from Atlantis a long time previously."

I assume Thoth and Toth are the same person; and the truth later became somewhat distorted, and the person from another country became a god.

It's an important detail to note; may relate to my Isis life in which I was obviously a person of flesh and blood too.

P 57-58 some people – evil priests perhaps – tried to erase my Nefertiti's identity.

The subject of identity has appeared several times in my life. For one, me thinking of identity was the reason I realized long time ago that there cannot be nothing after death because if it was then we'd have no identity – we'd be robots basically, but we aren't. So intelligence keeps on existing regardless of the body (physical, astral, etc.)

P 66. Just noting my 3 past lives have been mentioned in this book: Alexander, Nefertiti, Cleopatra…

3 different physical bodies, but 1 soul that used to possess those bodies - me.

And from the Spirit's perspective we're all the same single entity – 1 Intelligence; so Brenda, the author of the book – in that perspective of the Spirit –, is also writing about herself when she write about me in my past lives. At least this is my current understanding. This can be a complex subject to explore and think about.

The book says Tuthmosis IV uncovered the Sphinx from sands based on what he was told in a dream. Since I've had many true dreams such things are of interest to me.

P 69. I feel like it's the author's opinion about the 'dreamer' part. From Thiaoouba Prophecy book it's evident Thao would not have mentioned Athnaton if his role was not of importance spiritually-wise. It's also known from TP what was going on in terms of priests who poisoned him. The change was necessary. There is a question of whether that change was forceful and broke the Universal Law in regards to free will/choice of people.

There's a story of what happened in Africa million years earlier when the main priest had to honestly say to people he did wrong and he had to undo his mistakes. It's an example of a non-forceful change in a nation. Thao also said earlier how people got used to follow their priests and it would have been an error for them to intervene directly, so…

 Athnaton could have stumbled upon the knowledge brought long time ago from Atlantis and Mu.

I'll note that I had different views – did not follow the flock, as they say – on life in at least these 3 lives: Nefertiti, Hypatia (b. in the 4-th century), Evgeny. In VL's life reincarnation was also something I thought existed.

P 73 some scholars think Athnaton had a vision of a disk that told him to pursue monotheism.

P 75 there has been a change in art. May have had some influence on my other lives (e.g. Emma Hamilton)

P 81 depiction of me (Nefertiti) holding enemies by their hair.

Could have some connections to Missy's life.

P 85 in ~ 14-th year of Akhenaten's rule references to me (Nefertiti) stopped.

P 93 Akhenaten lived for ~13-14 years in Amarna before his death.
About the mummy. I don't know who it was, but I did remember certain similarities with my Hypatia's death when my body was… torn apart and burned. I might try asking my HS if that is my old body or not.

P 96 Akhenaten ruled for 17 years.
As MA I lived for 17 years.

Movie Parallels

Queen of the Nile (Original title: Nefertite, regina del Nilo) (1961)

I watched the extended version of 01:44:24 runtime.

Don't like how they portrayed Akhenaten.

In this story my father forces me to marry Amenophis, while I'm portrayed to be in love with sculptor Tumos.
It does immediately ring bells of the real events which happened to me in my life of Evdokia Dioper.

5:30 he's all wet after swimming. If guards don't kill you the night's cold will – N says.
Cold was probably one of the factors that caused my death in Angelo Mario Rotta's life.

8:17-10:12 Stubbornness of disobedience are mentioned.
I'm still stubborn, and sometimes may be disobedient.

21:15 do you want me to be nursing an invalid? Mother asks. Cold air will touch your bones, she adds.
Maybe I remember my mother saying something of that nature (using invalid word).

35:50 I am your father. She didn't know.
Maybe of synch with my relatives in several lives who didn't know their true fathers, and with my Emma Hamilton life and daughter Horatia who also didn't know truths relating to her parents.

49:-- fighting lion scene

1:07:-- as Emma H. I'd sit while being painted. As Nefertiti I must have done a similar thing only for the sculpt.

1:44:-- In the movie I remain solo queen – not as in reality.
But it would become reality in my life of Cleopatra.

Nefertiti, figlia del sole (1994)

While not specifically stated, I feel like the movie has reincarnation as one of its themes. (The sculptor who knew later in 1912 exactly where the bust is located)

The actress by name of Michela is playing me.

The actress playing me distantly reminds me of Natasha from Velozavodskaya. I think her body is rather similar too.

5:55 father wanting N to marry the pharaoh. N loves another. Similar ideas of 1961 movie with the same Evdokia reflections.

6:22 I belong to nobody.

15:30 courtesans.

40:03 loving beyond the face.
It's what behind the appearances that's important.

Mom (Galay) thought to name me Alexander (same name as her father had) but grandma (dad's mom) once said she wouldn't call her son that name [again] because of her son Alexander who brought misery to them.

Alex's father, Phillip, was missing right eye (at the siege of Methone in 355/54 B.C.).
I've mentioned left eye before as one of syncs between my current life and my Vivien Leigh life, and it's also a sync with Nefertiti (for now I don't know if I was her).

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hellenistic_period
It's the time between the death of Alexander the Great in 323 BC and the death of Cleopatra in 30 BC. I have been both people...

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cleitus_the_Black Killed Cleitus by throwing a pike at his chest.

This reminded me of tuberculosis killing me in Vivien's life. It's additionally written somewhere I (VL) had weak chest (Alexander Walker p. 32, 142). May be a suffering for old (#error).

"Alexander grieved for the death of Cleitus". Killing him under the influence of wine.

Feast day for Dionysus is the god of wine-making, orchards and fruit, vegetation, fertility, festivity, insanity, ritual madness, religious ecstasy, and theatre.

Reminded me of my Mary M. dream in which the green grapes appeared in front of my eyes. The rest of listed things kind of apply to me to various degrees.

Alexander was now employing eunuchs.
Reminded me of Giuseppe Aprile in EH life.

Proskynesis was tolerated by Alex. Reminded me Labinola (Thiaoouba) and how people kissed her feet. Only this time I saw it as a possible error for Labinola to allow that. May indicate that I learned some (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding this life's situation since my distant life. But when and in what life?

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Alexander_the_Great

Won 20 major battles.
Was interested in knowledge and philosophy.

There's a story about a lion in a dream.

Here I'll add a memory of how I hunted a mouse in my apartment very long time ago. At one point I felt like an animal, which could have been a lion(ess) or something similar.

I'll note that I saw myself as Scarlett in the famous red dress when I got the answer that I was Alexander III of Macedon, and my character in the movie was going to the "lion's den" that evening.

Lived till almost 33 yo.
Date of birth may be of some similarity;
when he was 28 they say he fell in love at first sight with Roxanne;
carried his head to the left;
something girlish about his earliest portraits;

named a city after beloved horse, and I thought about a script about a horse and the title was the name of the horse; I also realized that the cloth I wore when I first came to Natasha (V. st. 11/1) has a horse on it (took a photo of it for history).

named lots of cities Alexandria and I had noticed problems remembering names long time ago;

if the reports of evil crimes are true then it's also may be of connection, sadly.

Noone left to conquer was brought up in my mind when I remembered about my stupid "achievement" of doing the thing to all the "girls" who did 1 (usually) bg scene (went through all the search on thenude)

August 2 is the date of the 1-st of the [major] won battles (others are November 5, October 1). It's also the date when I first got realization there's a good chance I was Alex and I openly asked my HS the question in the evening of that day.

During that day I also tried resurrecting 2 dead pigeons (to no avail), one of which was run over by a streetcar (13-th or 36-th) right in front of my eyes.

I lease apartment to people who come from the countries in which Alex won battles.

As of this date (04.08.2024) I might have lived in Arabic body in 2 lives (after Cleo and before Mary, and in 1650. If it's so, then now it makes a lot more sense that I'd living or someone from those countries.

Thao mentioned… me it looks like in Thiaoouba Prophecy

P. 140: "We observed that these people, following Solomon's death, were heading towards anarchy and allowing themselves to be influenced by evil priests. Alexander the Great invaded Egypt but, in the end, did nothing constructive for the world. The Romans succeeded him, building an immense empire that was oriented more towards materialism than spirituality"

Thao must have known what lives Mary Magdalene lived before and after her/my life. Whether Thao knew who Mary's soul will be in the next life is uncertain, but there are indicators in TP that it's possible they can know soul's future lives.

Upon reflection, 'nothing constructive' reminded me of the parable about the one who knows everything (material knowledge) but lacks withing (spiritual knowledge) lacks everything (because material knowledge gets erased but spiritual remains when we reincarnate). Of course, I probably had some spiritual knowledge in that life (from what I read so far it seems to be the case). But the wisdom of the parable can still be seen in my lives and what good or bad decisions I made in them, and what the consequences of them were.

Drunk. My father as drunk during the incident when I was 5 and got stammer. His drinking cause lots of problems after as well.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Demosthenes

Plutarch said Demosthenes had "an inarticulate and stammering pronunciation". He was then opposing me in my Alex's life.

There could be some connection too to my childhood problem - stammer.

Spear. In my childhood I made a spear (a stick with a sharpened nail driven into its tip). We jokingly wanted to go hunting a boar. Boar hunting was a thing in Alex's life.

Actually, I saw boars in my childhood near the well on our village's border.

Mesa was like a boarding school for Alex. EH, VL possible connection.

Persia was one of places I visited. May connect to why while playing The Prince of Persia I liked the designs and architecture.

"He appears to have believed himself a deity, or at least sought to deify himself."

Similar case as with Cleo and Isis. Might me another reason I have to deal with skepticism and many people don't believe me in this life when I tell the truth (not that I 100% lied in those other lives – I don't know).

Battles:

5 November 333 BC Persian Campaign Battle of Issus &
1 October 331 BC Persian Campaign Battle of Gaugamela

Relate to me because I was born as VL on 05.11 & died in the next life as MA on 01.10.

There's another interesting connection. Both battles were fought against the same man - Darius III.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Battle_of_Gaugamela

Siege of Tyre and the victory led to control of the Levant. The area played a role in my Cleopatra's life. Ceasar summoned reinforcements from Anatolia and Levant when we were under siege (Achillas).

Leonidas' review mentions how the author of the book on page 27 says that "Alexander's first sexual partner was Callixeina, "a beautiful Thracian prostitute"".

Callixena… obviously immediately reminded me of Natasha related experience and how that was the first movie reflection with my Vivien's film – Waterloo Bridge. (#curious) https://www.behindthename.com/name/kallixenos/submitted

"Derived from the Greek noun κάλλος (kallos) meaning "beauty, nobility" combined with Greek ξένος (xenos) meaning "foreign, strange" as well as "foreigner, guest"."

While reading this I couldn't help but remember Neferrtiti – The beautiful one has come (so probably a foreigner).

Curtius: "He scorned sensual pleasures to such an extent that his mother was anxious lest he be unable to beget offspring."

Just wanna remember it because it may connect other lives of mine should I discover them. Reminds me of my Hypatia life in which, reportedly, I was a virgin till the end.

I've also learned by asking my HS that I must be living my 44-th life and I've lived 30 of them in a female physical body. May explain the above statement.

They write it may have been due to self-control.

Reportedly refused sternly male prostitutes.

There's a story about spending 13 days with a tribe-leader of woman-warriors hailing from the Caucasus mountains.

Married 3 times:

Roxana of Bactria, (Her Afghan name was Roshanak, meaning ''little star'')

Stateira,

Parysatis, daughter of Ochus.

Had at least one child, Alexander IV of Macedon, born by Roxana shortly after my death.

As Cleopatra I also named a child Alexander (Helios)

Diodorus Siculus writes, “Then he put on the Persian diadem and dressed himself in the white robe and the Persian sash and everything else except the trousers and the long-sleeved upper garment. He distributed to his companions cloaks with purple borders and dressed the horses in Persian harness. In addition to all this, he added concubines to his retinue in the manner of Darius, in number not less than the days of the year and outstanding in beauty as selected from all the women of Asia. Each night these paraded about the couch of the king so that he might select the one with whom he would lie that night. Alexander, as a matter of fact, employed these customs rather sparingly and kept for the most part to his accustomed routine, not wishing to offend the Macedonians.”

Purple borders on clocks.

As for parading of women to be selected… took me a few seconds to see the obvious… I’ve already mentioned it somewhere. Having high s*x drive and having no girlfriend/wife sometimes I had to go to p sights. I did the thing usually on the girls who barely did any bg scenes, and sometimes who never did them. Most often it was the new never before seen female. Of course, some time would pass before finding that one new girl – e.g. selecting her. I’d say (#error) and one of payments (My VL’s activity is also at play here). It’s also in line with us looking at life from another point of view thanks to reincarnation, which gives us opportunity to learn more and more.

According to Plutarch, Alexander once sought a sexual encounter with Theodorus’s music girl, saying to him that “if you don’t have lust for your music-girl, send her to me for ten talents.”

Maybe nothing. Just noting that in Sarah Brightman’s videos recorded in Vienna (especially the video for Fleurs du mal) I took a note of two girls. One is the keyboard player, and the other is the blonde girl in the chorus.

Alexander brought an entourage of zoologists, botanists, philosophers, and other researchers on his expeditions deep into the east.

The story about Hephaestion makes me wonder if his soul lived as other people whom I knew (maybe quite well) in other lives, including my current one.

If Campaspe story is true, and the story about presenting Campaspe to Apelles (a painter who painted her nude), then it may be a cause of my Emma Hamilton’s life.

Richard Burton, Liz Taylor's husband, plays me in this movie. Liz played me in Cleopatra and she also picked up a role in The Elephant Walk, as well as played the character who was based on me (VL) in the movie VIPs.

If Alexander found a new species of flora or fauna or small animal, while on his campaigns, he would have it parceled up in moss and sent via way stations back to Macedonia for Aristotle to study.

Alexander to Phillip who because of his anger and the wine tripped and fell over. "Look at this man, my friends, who is preparing to cross to Asia from Europe, who comes a cropper crossing from one couch to another."

Maybe it's of no connection. Just noting for the last year I had to walk near my apartment building due to poor health.

Father's, Philip II of Macedon, 7-th wife was called Cleopatra Eurydice. What's more it's said Olympias, mother, was sadly responsible for the deaths of her two children and then that Cleopatra reportedly committed sude.

It's of note that some of my children in Cleopatra's life (Cleopatra VII Thea Philopator) met a similar fate. What's more, I also committed sude.

The case of Frances Kidder must be remembered. I had seen many parallels with the girl she drowned and with the details surrounding that case in general. Yet it turned out that she would become someone I knew in my Missy's life and that person would suffer for the other mistakes made in his Frances' life. So, it's possible people responsible for the deaths of that Cleopatra and her children were someone close to me in my Cleopatra's life. It's just a thought for now which needs to be proven or disproven by my Higher Self. I'd also need to make sure I had nothing to do with the fate of Philip's Cleopatra.

A thought about why I was poisoned (most likely). I was thinking if that happened because I did something good – so evil people killed me -, or because people with generally good intentions killed me for what they thought was evil?

As Alex I would often suffer from hangovers that lasted multiple days. It is a good description of my father… (#error) which gave not only suffering but also an opportunity to experience life from a different side.

I remembered how I noticed I some of my lives my father was either absent at some point or he died early.

In Cleopatra and Alexander's lives people had to fight for me. Many died on both sides. Many women and children were left without husbands and fathers.

Could be related. If so then it's (#error)

https://greekreporter.com/2025/07/26/alexander-great-diogenes-philosophy/

In Greek (Alexandros) means "defender of men". I can see a parallel here to my current life's work trying to share with people the truths I learned about life (Thiaoouba, my understandings, and now knowledge about reincarnation). If people know these things then such knowledge could greatly help people in their lives – e.g. defend them against ignorance, making serious errors and suffering.

Scouting, which helped win battles.

When I was teen and played a bit WarCraft 3 I think I thought about scouting and how important it is to win when you can counter anything your opponent does. But, of course, the opponent can do the same and then it's a matter of other knowledge, experience, and skills.

Page IX. 20-th century - From the model of English gentleman and idealistic believer in unity of mankind, to comparisons to Hitler and Stalin (the later might have been okay, while he also did some errors from what I know.)

I've written about the unity in my notes on my Cleopatra's life (Duane W.R.). I'll just say I as Vivien cried when the WW2 started. Then I went back home (England) and was witnessing the heavy bombardments destroying cities in the distance. For now I'll say it looks like the example of looking at life from another perspective in order to learn more and more.

Whether it was suffering for old error… it's possible but I'll have to read about my Alex's life first to draw conclusions.

Interest in science and exploration. Athletics and arts. Homer's Iliad about the Trojan War is compared to a Bible.

In my Vivien's life Gone with the Wind was my 'Bible'. In this life of Evgeny my 'Bible' is Thiaoouba Prophecy. (#curious) I downloaded Iliad book for later reading.

My views on wars and what it means to be valiant have drastically changed since those times. My e-book Simple Truths of Life may be a good source to learn about my current views on life; I think I've talked about the topic in some of my YouTube videos too.

P X-XI mentions The Seven Wonders of the ancient world. It occurred to me I've seen in my past lives many of them. What if I saw them all?

The classic Seven Wonders were:

1) Great Pyramid of Giza, in Giza, Egypt, the earliest of the wonders to be completed, as well as the only one that still exists in the present day. (Cleopatra,+)

2) Colossus of Rhodes, in the harbor of the city of Rhodes, on the Greek island of the same name. (Erected in 280 BC and collapsed during the earthquake of 226 BC. For now I don't know if I lived in that timeline; and some traces of the structure remained in the spot for centuries.)

3) Hanging Gardens of Babylon, in Babylon, near present-day Hillah, Babylon Governorate, Iraq; or Nineveh, Mosul, Nineveh Governorate, Iraq. (Alexander)

4) Lighthouse of Alexandria, in Alexandria, Egypt. (Cleopatra,+)

5) Mausoleum at Halicarnassus, in Halicarnassus, a city of the

Achaemenid Empire in present-day Turkey. (built between 353 and 351 BC - was destroyed by successive earthquakes from the 12th to the 15th century) (Probably saw it as Alexander)

6) Statue of Zeus at Olympia, in Olympia, Greece. (made by the Greek sculptor Phidias around 435 BC - The statue was lost and destroyed before the end of the 6th century AD.) (I could have seen it as Alexander)

7) Temple of Artemis at Ephesus, in the city of Ephesus, near present-day Selçuk, Turkey. (In the 7th century BC, it was destroyed by a flood. In 550 BC began reconstruction. Burned down in 356 BC – coincided with my Alex's birth) (I think I saw it as Alexander since I offered to pay for the temple's rebuilding)

P XIII Recited verses from Euripides' play Andromeda.
Could be of some influence on my other lives.
Reminded me As young VL I said – "I won't sing. I shall recite."

P XIV. Toast to 20 men present in the room (so 21 total I presume). It happened shortly before my death.

Those number do appear in my life and sometimes they as if augur something negative or end of something.

P XV. Ritual of incubation that concerns visions and dreams. It looks like their questions were answered.

It's interesting because I've experience visions (Thao, IT, etc.) and dreams have been used to find information about my past lives and other things (by asking my Higher Self, of course, to give me a sign.) In case of those people, it's possible that someone's Higher Self gave them that answer to leave me where I was – I understand that it was my time to die.

him: "To whom do you leave the kingdom?" he replied: "To the strongest." He is said to have added: "I foresee great funeral games after my death." Perdiccas asked when he wished divine honors paid to him. He replied: "When you yourselves are happy."

Conquered Persian Empire. I'll note here there was a person from Iran in TPXP group who was the source of many troubles (for me and for some others); who knows, might be related.

Page XX shows the Map Of Conquest and I've had some connections in other lives to many places I passed through as Alexander.

P 4. The monarchs had 7 bodyguards of select noblemen.

P 26. Mother in Alex's life changed her name several times: Polyxena, Myrtale, Olympias, Stratonice.

P 30. Leonidas: "Once you have conquered the lands that produce this spice you can be as extravagant as you like. Till then, don't waste what you've got."

Alex to Leonidas, after sending him half a ton of frankincense: "I have sent you plenty of myrrh and frankincense so that from now on you don't need to be mean to the gods any longer."

Lysimachus, a new tutor, referred to me as Achillas. Recently I watched Troy (2004) and found similarities between Achillas and Alexander.

P 32 tells the story about Bucephalas. They say the horse was afraid of its own shadow.

It's interesting. Shadows have been playing roles in my lives.

Philip, referring to me as Alex playing cithara (a kind of lyre): "Aren't you ashamed to pluck the strings so well?"

I understand the point – leaders have other matters on their hands. If you spend time learning to play a music instrument so skillfully, you probably don't have time to attend to the mater of people in your kingdom. But I wonder if it was still a little bit of error to drop playing cithara completely? (It's what a later sentence on that page leads me to believe happened)

P 33. 'Greedy consumer of data.' Describes me.

Violently impulsive nature.

No interest for s*x after puberty.

Resented and resisted direct orders. May have something to do with having been Nefertiti, Isis maybe.

P 36. Aristotle: "When therefore either a whole family or a single individual among people at large can be found, whose virtue is so outstanding as to outstrip all the rest, then it becomes just that this family should become royal and sovereign over all things, and that this one man should become king."

There's a hint of similarity to how in Mu they'd find their leader – based on his level of spiritual knowledge. I wrote about that method in the Manifesto chapter of my book Simple Truths of Life. (#curious)

Amateur doctor.

P 40. "Alexander the Great would not have become great if Xenophon had never existed."

Looks: 'He was short and muscular; his hair was blond "like a lion's mane." A straight nose rose to his forehead, which bulged slightly above the eyes; he had fair skin, and his chest and face would redden during exercise or under emotion; his eyes were heterochromatic, one being gray-blue and the other dark brown; his teeth were like small sharp pegs or nails. His voice was harsh and high-pitched, and early sculptural portraits give him a girlish air.'

What caught my attention is heterochromatic eyes. There was a girl named Nastya (Anastasia) from my class who had heterochromatic eyes; I remember noticing that fact when we were waiting for physical lessons and she was saying something to us guys.

As for girlish air – if I interpreted my answers correctly, I live my 44-th life, and it's 14-th life lived in a male body. If at that time the pattern was the same – I lived more lives in a female body than I did in male – then that could be one of reasons for the appearance.

Plutarch wrote of my neck which was tilted slightly to the left, and of a certain melting look.

Don't know if related or not. Tilt of the head was one of the things I noticed in common with Vivien Leigh when I didn't know it's me in a past life. I do tilt my head in similar ways in this life too.

Watery look… my eyes would sometimes become tearful to the point I had to turn my head off so that passerbies don't see me like that; one did notice it though and said to her girlfriend I looked like I was about to cry. (#curious)

P 41. Plutarch: "[Alexander] used to say that sleep and s*x, more than anything else, reminded him of his mortality. By this he meant that tiredness and pleasure both proceed from the same human weakness."

P 43. In Alex's life [official] education was over at 16 years of age, and the same happened in this life also.

Alex: "I slept safely for Antipater was awake."

P 44 talks of a rebellion by a Thracian tribe which was put down and people were driven out from their city and replaced with Greeks. The city was then renamed Alexandropolis.

I feel like driving people out from their city was an (#error); the book doesn't go into the details to tell if that was somehow justifiable action or not.

Alex: "My father will get in before me in everything."

I'll just say this reminded me of a childhood friend A.Sh. who was competitive. Might be a case of looking at life from another point of view (but then I've lived many lives since Alex's and maybe that relates (if it does at all) to another life).

And I'll say the quote does still describe me to some degree still (#psyche-data). There were times when I felt like I'm missing out on many things, or that others will be the first to achieve something that I've discovered, experienced, or understood – or just fantasized/wished of doing or achieving. I realized the error of that thinking and tried to let it all unfold naturally. My goal now is just to do my best to share with public what I've learned in this life, and let the fate decide what's gonna happen next.

('Fate' here means… briefly speaking, all actions have consequences and none of us know the result – at some specific point in 'time' and place - of everything which has ever happened in the Universe. We can make a prediction, and sometimes the general idea of it will be fulfilled, but there will be times when something completely unexpected (for us; but not for Higher Selves and the Superior Intelligence) will happen.

As I was writing that, the box with my Pro Clipper slid to the floor beneath me. It's the first time that ever happened, and as I was thinking about this event, I realized there's no explanation for that box just randomly sliding down on an even surface to the floor. I don't think I touched the box in any way, and it slid towards me anyway. If it was protruding before I'd notice it, or I'd feel it with my legs bumping into the clipper box. I tried moving it around and the friction is actually higher than I expected. The box doesn't fall or slide if I pull it ridiculously far out towards me. And when it slid it didn't hit the floor hard – it was as if gently put there. Don't know what happened there, and I'm wondering if it's related to what I was writing at the time about fate and unexpectedness. Kinda proves my point, I guess.)

P 49 talks about Alexander's oak (pitched a tent beside it on the night before the battle). Maybe nothing, there's a girl in our village who has 'oak' (дуб in Russian) in her last name's root. She's not related to me by blood but through marriage of our respectful relatives. Same guy(s?) who game me trouble would sometimes remind us of her last name's root, and so it stuck with me.

I tried planting oaks but none grew.

P 51. 7 rows in which skeletons were found.

P 54 Philip claimed ancestry from Heracles. Just noting this because I realized I share several parallels with the later.

P 60. Rode to Paeonia after the bastard incident during Philip's wedding banquet. Flowers I like are called that. Mother used to have them growing in our garden.

P 62. Was difficult to tame. (#psyche-data)? Because I can see myself here still, yes.

P 64 talks of actors, epilepsy and mental disabilities. I won't repeat what is said on that page, but it's possible it may have something to do with my troubles if the (#error) was done by me in that life of Alex.

P 69 I think it was an (#error) to order to murder of Attalus. Unfortunately, this is a reflection of my Cleopatra choices. I don't yet know what lives I lived between Alex and Cleo lives, but I clearly didn't learn my lesson in them. +1

P 70 Two of Aeropus's sons were immediately put to death. The same verdict. +2

P 71. "The father, bride and bridegroom all at once." I wish the hints of what might actually have been behind Philip's death aren't true. But part of me knows they can be… (+1)

P 72. Furious at Olympia's cruel behavior who burned Cleopatra's daughter in front of her mother and then forced the mother to hang herself. At least here I can see some notes of (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 76. Saunter around Pella. Maybe nothing; just reminded me of how due to poor health I've been sauntering around my apartment building for more than a year now.

Keeping watch over the omens may have some parallels to my current life too – but not in the way people may think. It's not about superstitions and beliefs, but rather about learning something about life and so gaining knowledge about our reality. The true 'omens' do have a reason for existing behind them; they are effects caused by something in connection to us (including us in our past lives).

P 77 Alex to envoys from Ambracia: "they had been only a little premature in grasping the freedom that he was on the point of giving them voluntarily."

Heracles is mentioned again as having played a big role in my Alex's life.

P 78 Me as Alex: "You can say what you like, but if I were not Alexander, I should have liked to be Diogenes."

There are parallels to Diogenes in my life (including other lives – e.g. Hypatia). He was the founder of Cynic school of philosophy, and Cynic means 'doglike' – without shame. In my life I [mostly] stopped being ashamed at my errors; I try to learn from them. And yes, it's another 'dog' synchronicity. (#curious)

Masturbation is also a possible connection to being like Diogenes.

"Can I do anything for you?" asked the king.

"Yes, you can stand a little to one side out of my sun."

P 83. Achieving the impossible. I think it describes me in how I'd like to prove the real existence of resurrection, for example, and I'd like to prove many other 'impossible' things which Are real. Of course, I realize that maybe I won't be able to do that in my current life and that's okay. (#psyche-data)

P 89. Impetuosity. (#psyche-data) because still describes me.

P 92 Alex: "Demosthenes called me a boy while I was in Illyria and among the Triballi, and a youth when I was marching through Thessaly. I will show him I am a man by the time I reach the walls of Athens."

Amyntas' murder was an (#error). (Although – reading other sources - it's not clear what exactly happened and who killed him)

P 95 …handed the decision to the council of the League of Corinth.

P 97. Set free Timocleia (and her children) who was raped by a commander and whom she then killed by stoning to death in a well. (#spiritual-knowledge) is what I consider this to be, and I actually felt proud and warmth inside of me for that decision of my past self.

P 98 pardoned certain people. Again, may relate to (#spiritual-knowledge), which is to be expected since I know I had lived a life of Nefertiti and Isis by that time; it's assumed that I had learned something during those and other lives I'd lived. Of course, there could be material reasons behind [some of] those decisions rather than spiritual.

P 99. I think I've already mentioned my thoughts about the desire to be the first (at something). My childhood Moscow friend used to be like that, and it seems like looking at things from another perspective type of situation.

Propitiating the god of the sea, Poseidon. Reminded me of how in Emma H. life I kind of made fun (mocked; p. 117 of Flora Fraser's book) of a woman – Teresa - who was praying, or invoking two saints of Naples. While making fun of might have been a bit of error, I think it shows the spiritual growth as far as believing in 'divine entities' goes. And now it's clear that pouring that drink offering into the sea from the golden bowl in my Alex's life did pretty much nothing useful.

"From the gods I accept Asia, won by the spear."

P 100. When asked if would like to see the lyre of Paris - "I don't care a jot for that lyre. Where is the one Achilles played when singing of glorious deeds?"

I was thinking if this may be of some familiarity. It is. As VL I referred once to my first movies as unimportant. But in this life I found ALL of them to be highly important (to me) – even those in which I had small parts. Paris' lyre – if the story about the Trojan War is true – was also important in its own light. Note: Obviously, our interests change with our lives somewhat; one of the points of reincarnation.

Military expedition to Asia had 2 Persian invasions as reasons behind it. Everitt also mentions divine circularity and supernatural ancestry.

Speaking of the later, I now know I was Nefertiti and ISIS by that time. Technically, those claims may not have been without a ground – on some psychic level I might have sensed that.

In my current life I was/am quite modest. I only accepted I was/am Vivien Leigh once I had solid proof (I think it was the right thing to do under the circumstances; starting to think I am VL right after that dream on 04.09.2023 would have been so irresponsible, given I knew almost nothing about her/me).

P 101 talks about Dium (Dion). I read about the village on Wikipedia and saw that there was a sanctuary of Isis Lochia (other Isis); it's flooded in the photos.

https://mt.wikipedia.org/wiki/Stampa:The_four-columned_temple_dedicated_to_Isis_Lochia,_Sanctuary_of_Isis,_Ancient_Dion_(69

Carole Raddato writes in the image description: "…In the 2nd century BC, Artemis was succeeded by the Egyptian goddess Isis. Alexander the Great held her in the highest esteem and he greatly honored her by personally designating the location of her sanctuary, when building his royal city on the Nile Delta."

(#curious) since not only it was my past life (at least I was the person from whom the whole thing started it seems like), but I also probably knew about it in my later life of Cleopatra.

P 102. Was the first to establish a public relations department - As far as is known.

"You should spare your own property, and not destroy what you are going to own." – the instruction not to plunder the territories.

P 103 Was determined to collect a vast store of information about botany, biology, geography, and zoology.

This has a connection to me in this life. Would take a long time to explain. Basically, I thought about making a 3D program which could hold data about all those things and create the required thing as needed, adding required customizations too. (#curious) There are other connections in the fact I think [almost] all the knowledge should be available free of charge to all people – everything we know (expect for the knowledge that can greatly harm if evil people get hold of it – e.g. creation of nuclear weapons, etc.)

https://theblissfuldog.com/blogs/news/91483011-alexander-the-greats-dog-changed-history-by-biting-an-elephant

I wonder if my synchronicities with the dog theme may have come from that loyal and brave dog?

Later piece about protecting peacocks from attacks resonates with me.

Then it's mentioned how the program (collecting information) had influence on science and lead to awareness about India. I have mentioned several times that the topic of Auras, telekinesis, reincarnation, etc., should be part of science because that's where they belong (with some small modifications to the definition of 'science'). Unfortunately, many people are still skeptical regarding these things and don't wish to even attempt to listen to someone who says they are real and can already be proven to exist.

P 104 talks about pillaging of fields and farmhouses. I'll note kids at least once did the same to our fields in the village (when I was little). Some of neighbors were also the victim. They didn't steal that much though (potatoes were the target).

And recently someone stole metal bath and old fridge (we used it to hold gas tank in it long time ago). Maybe something else was stolen. Could be suffering for (#error)

P 107 "It would be a disgrace for one who has been appointed by Greece to command the war, and who had inherited his father's unconquerable army, to sit around at home enjoying a marriage and waiting for children to be born." – about the reasons not to hastily marry.

P 111 "My inheritance from my father consisted of a few gold and silver drinking cups and less than sixty talents in the treasury [a silver talent was worth about 6,000 drachmas]. There was also about 500 talents' worth of debt contracted by Philip. I myself borrowed another 800 in addition to this."

I'll note after my father died I had to pay off the debts he had left.

Plutarch: ‘When he had shared out or given away all the royal property, Perdiccas asked him, “But, king, what are you leaving for yourself?” “My hopes!” replied Alexander. “In that case, then,” said Perdiccas, “those who serve with you will have a share of them too.” With this, he declined to accept the property that had been allotted to him, and several of Alexander’s other friends did the same.’

P 112. The description of fordable Granicus river reminded me of the shallow creek in which I was killed as Missy.

P 117. Greek mercenaries asked for a quarter but were refused. Many of them were murdered. Others imprisoned and sent to Macedonia for forced labor.

I’ll note this as (#error). It’s difficult to judge what’s right or wrong given I don’t know all the details about those times long gone. It makes me sad though about what happened…

P 118. Arrian: “showed great care for the wounded, personally visiting every one of them, inspecting their wounds, asking how they came by them and giving them the opportunity to boast about their exploits.”

P 121 knot of cornel bark. That bush is of the dogwood family. The knot was ‘undone’ in 333 BC in Gordium (modern Turkey), seemingly fulfilling the prophecy.

P 123 has an interesting story about rain soaking only the palace and nothing else.

I’ll note here that I was Macedonia in this life. There were certain various interconnections with Greeks. As Cleopatra and Evdokia, I was Greek. Probably of connection.

P 123. Dragging out from a temple and then stoning to death the oligarch, his son and nephew. A potential (#error). Dragging and stoning does actually correlate with what happened to me as Hypatia before I died. It is possible that in that event I suffered for two errors (Cleo’s and Alex’s) or at least partially paid for one of them. Arsinoe was killed on the steps of temple; she wasn’t dragged or stoned to death.

Arrian wrote: “prevented any further inquisitions and vengeance, knowing that, if given license to do so, along with the guilty the people would kill innocent men out of personal enmity or designs on their property. No other action won Alexander as much credit as his handling of Ephesus at this time.”

I agree with those views and can see the truth of those ideas in what I have to experience. Unfortunately, it’s still not clear if I was responsible for the death of that oligarch and his relatives or not.

P 124. Meeting the painter Apelles and commissioning him to draw a full portrait of me as Zeus wielding a thunderbolt.

Of course, I thought of George Romney in EH life and of all the painting that were done then. Many touched the topics on myths and legends. It turns out as EH I had already sat for painters to paint me in other lives.

Then there's a talk about talking about arts, without having specialist knowledge (Apelles: "Sir, please keep quiet, for the lads who grind the colors are laughing at you."), which followed by awarding the artist a fee of 20 talents and giving him the exclusive rights to the painting he'd done. The first reminds me of myself in my current life a bit, the later could be of connection to me getting exclusive rights to my Russian translation of Thiaoouba Prophecy. (#benefit)?

P 127. Philosophers of the times thought all material things were modifications of one eternal substance. And Thales thought it to be water.

The first part is pretty much what my thoughts are currently.

As for the second part, it depends on what Thales meant by water; there is an etheric ocean surrounding the Spirit. In the 'The Dialogue of the Savior' (I had a dream once referring to my words - Mary said, "I want to understand all things, just as they are!") Jesus said before the Universe there was darkness and water, and the Spirit upon water.

P 128. I didn't want to battle at sea. It's important information, I think, because in my later Cleopatra's life we lost the decisive sea battle at Actium.

To envoys who offered equal access to the walls and harbor of Miletus to both sides: "Go back at once inside the city, and warn your compatriots to be ready for battle tomorrow."

P 129. "Where were the men with bodies like these when the barbarians took over your city?" – pointing out the statues of athletes who won at Olympic games.

I'll mark (#error) selling other adult males into slavery. I still have to find out if I ever was a slave in my past lives. EAD's life had moments when I was chained and tortured. Could be related to some degree also to these past mistakes.

Pardoned mercenaries who were prepared to fight to their death, provided they'd sign up to my army. Given the mistake at Granicus, it's hard to know why that decision was made; maybe it wasn't because of spirituality, or maybe it was a sign I was trying to learn from my errors.

P 130. Disbanded almost all ships.

Again, a contrast to my Cleopatra's life. There was an option to fight on land too, but we didn't.

P 131. Had a taste for ladies of certain age. An exiled queen Ada is then mentioned. She'd be given the title of Mother and would send cakes and such often, until it seemingly became embarrassing.

"I do not need your chefs, because my tutor Leonidas provided me with better ones—a night march for breakfast and a light breakfast to give me an appetite for supper. This same Leonidas would often come and open my chests of bedding and clothes, to see if my mother hadn't hidden some titbits inside."

Ada is a character from Resident Evil 2+ video games of my childhood. There are some parallels to it.

Up until a certain age I did like females who were a bit older than myself in this life.

Cakes and sweets remind me of how some older people in village would give to me them too. I can understand the embarrassment, and to some degree I might have felt it too sometimes.

The author asks what Olympias had thought about Ada being as if a new Mother. There may have been a similar moment in my life, for which I'm a bit ashamed, although it wasn't done in any malice, just didn't realize how another person might be feeling. I was at my grandmother's (dad's side) apartment on holidays. At the end I think my mother and I (maybe father was there too) wanted to go visit my aunt Zina. From what I remember I might have been a bit too overjoyed at the idea. (#reflection-life) ?

P 132 tells a story about the foolhardiness of two people from Perdiccas' camp. Reminded me of Olya who said I wasn't manly enough in her eyes but I thought she only based that because I wasn't doing anything to show off, etc.

P 133 conflagration episode reminded me of burning of Atlanta in GwtW, and I was a witness to a fire in which a man died.

P 134. Good that I ordered civilians to be treated with respect (#spiritual-knowledge) maybe. But I'd still say it's (#error) to put to death the fire raisers (I feel like the whole campaign might have been a mistake. Who lives by the sword dies by the sword. Maybe it would be okay if our people were being attacked then and we had to fight back and after push the enemy all the way back, conquering their whole territory. Occupation? Ghandi has been a great example you don't need to use force to set yourselves free.)

P 137 tells of an omen involving a swallow who was chirping noisily and would refuse to fly away from me even when brushed off.

In a video game Witcher 3 – one of my favorites, if not the most fav – there's a swallow reference I took notice of. (Siri's story itself touched me).

I'm noting this because I've had synchronicities with movies and other video games that have played a noticeable role in my life.

Then it also reminded me of that pigeon in Sokolniki who wanted to sit on my head, I guess, and was refusing to fly elsewhere even though there was plenty of empty space around.

Alexander the Lyncestian was arrested and kept under guard for 3 years. It wasn't clear if he was guilty of assassination plot.

P 139 – luck in my Alex's life. I wonder if I had done something good in my other past lives to receive that 'luck' as a reward?

An old soldier to me (a matter of gratitude): "You have no time for Philip's men, but you are forgetting that if old Atarrhias here had not called back the younger fellows when they shrank from fighting, we would still be hanging out at Halicarnassus."

P 142 says about the illness after swimming in a river at Tarsus. Arrian: "attack of cramp, violent fever and persistent inability to sleep."

Cramps is what had my attention. In this life I had – rarely – fits of uncontrollable shaking; my teeth would smash against each other also. I don't know why that happened.

They say a malaria-carrying mosquito (Plasmodium falciparum) could have been the cause.

It's also of importance. In case of my Vivien's life I died from tuberculosis and in my current life there were connections to that disease; like I remember people mentioning that word and I remembered it so much I try to avoid people who cough because of that. The same goes for malaria and mosquitoes. Might relate to (#psyche-data-astro)

I will not that in that instance of being ill for 2 months I probably suffered for an (#error) done in the past (maybe in a past life) – mosquito bite isn't something you can easily avoid.

~ Here I had to use a .pdf file of the book because Amazon refused to let me get my Amazon account back, and I was not able to import MY Kindle books on my new PC. Page 143 – where I stopped – became page 155 in the .pdf version of the book.

At the end of the chapter Mr. Everitt writes about a certain Harpalus who absconded with money taken from the exchequer. Then a con man Tauriscus is mentioned.

This story reminded me of something that mother told me happened to my father who gave money to some acquaintance of his and that person then went abroad (at least that's what mom said long time ago) with the money. He was scammed by a con artist. It's something I might check later (if my father was that Harpalus; of course, as I've learned while reading about my past life of Emma, there could be other reasons for similar situations in different soul's lives).

The chapter mentions me as Alex sacrificing to gods, including local ones, to win their favor. Reminded me how as Emma I no longer thought praying to some saints is gonna do anything (yes, not gods, but still). Of course, after my experiences in Mary Magdalene and Hypatia's lives it's not a surprise. Just wanted to note how acquisition of spiritual knowledge affects our views on life.

P 161 brambles. These bushes have appeared in my current and other lives.

P 165 received a sword-graze to the right thigh. A dispatch to Antipater in Pella:

"I myself happened to be wounded in the thigh by a dagger. But nothing untoward resulted from the blow either immediately or later."

P 167 "Let's wash off the sweat of battle in Darius's bath." "No, in Alexander's bath, now," one of his Companions corrected, toadily.

According to Plutarch, when Alexander entered the bathroom he saw that the basins and jugs and tubs and caskets containing unguents were all made of gold and elaborately carved, and noticed that the room was marvelously fragrant with spices and unguents and then, passing from this into a spacious and lofty tent, he observed the magnificence of the dining-couches, the tables and the banquet which had been set out for him. He turned to his companions and remarked, "So this, it seems, is what it is to be a king."

Sending a staff member to assure Sisygambis, Darius's mother, that her son was alive, and allowing them to retain the style and titles of queen and princesses, may be a sign of (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 168 "Don't worry, Mother. You didn't mix us up. Actually, he is Alexander too."

About Sisygambis prostrating herself at Hephaestion's feet, taking him to be the king.

P 172. Decided to keep my copy of the Iliad (as my most precious possession) in a beautifully made casket, which was regarded by the keepers of Darius's treasure as the finest item of all.

It's interesting because now it would have been Thiaoouba Prophecy book. Books have played their roles in my lives.

P 173 admired Iphicrates, a military commander.

Barsine was beautiful.

I often had a crush on pretty females. It might relate to me being accustomed to them from my previous existences. I also have to experience baldness and other facial relate issues for the first time in my 44 lives. Given I have lived 13 full lives as a male, it's safe to assume I'd often have a woman who would be considered pretty.

Barsine also married her two uncles and had children from them. Noting this because reminded me of GWtW's Melanie marrying Ashley, her cousin. I'll vague say I'm pretty sure I'm not the one who had played myself in movies to various degrees.

P 174 "These Persian women are an irritation of the eyes." – upon meeting female captives.

Strongly objected to the sexual trafficking of slaves or prisoners, and was furious when Philoxenus offered me to buy 2 good looking boys. (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 175 "So far as I myself am concerned, it will be found that not only have I never seen nor wished to see Darius's wife, but I have never even allowed her beauty to be discussed in my presence." (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 176 Response to Darius' letter:

"It is for you, then, to come to me as lord over all Asia. If you are afraid I will harm you when you come, send some of your people to bring you back my guarantees. And when you have come you can ask me for your mother and wife and children and anything else you wish, and you shall have them. Whatever you persuade me to give shall be yours. And in future address any communications to me as the king of Asia, and do not write as an equal, but tell me as the master of all your possessions what it is that you need. Failing this, I intend to treat you as a criminal. But if you wish to dispute the kingship, stand your ground and fight for it. Do not run away, as I shall come after you wherever you are."

P 177 "How well were you able to endure poverty?" to which Abdalonymus replied: "I only hope I will be able to put up with power as contentedly. I had nothing, and I lacked nothing." He was confirmed the king of Sidon. I feel he was a spiritual person and the example of a person who'd be chosen to be a candidate for the king when using Mu's system of electing leaders (or 1-7 council members)

P 179 "I will either enter your city, or storm it." Tyre is the city which refused to capitulate.

P 180 “When we have conquered Egypt, we shall have no further worries for Greece or our own country, and we can then make our move on Babylon with security ensured at home, our reputation enhanced, and the Persians cut off from the entire sea and all the land this side of the Euphrates.”

Reportedly had a dream in which Heracles ushered me into Tyre. Prophetic dreams are commonplace in my in this life (they happen rarely, of course, but I’ve had many of them). The question is why Heracles? From an answer I had from my Higher Self there might be some linkage to him.

P 183. Noting the dispatching of the barbarians episode. (#error)

The author here also writes that it was the opportunity to act an episode from Iliad. This actually reminded me of a – thankfully – much more peaceful episode from my current life. In my childhood me and my village friend, who’s older than me by 2 years, once took into our possessions the crackers of our other village friends who were drinking (the 2 of us weren’t at that time), and so now they had little food to accompany their alcohol. We had to hide among the fields and ran away from one guy who tried to catch us in it, but couldn’t find. I was so emersed that I even went back home to change my white t-shirt to dark to be stealthier in the night. Now it seems so silly and unnecessary, but back then I had a blast. It Was like reliving an adventure story.

This may also be related to why I wanted to play Scarlett so much in Vivien’s life.

P 186. Enraged Macedonians (long siege and Tyrians’ behavior were among of causes) paraded Tyrians on the wall in full view and then cut their throats.

Maybe this may have something to do with what would have happened to me in my later life of Cleopatra if I didn’t choose to end my own life before that. An (#error) for which I maybe had to suffer then but didn’t. If so, then it means I either paid for it in another life or still have to pay the penalty. Sude is not a solution anyway, so by escaping the fate I only postponed it. It’s actually of interest now to me to learn if that error has been paid for and in which life and under which circumstances. Of course, I am reminded here of how I was dragged through Egyptian streets in Hypatia’s life (5 century AD); that event could be considered a public display, a cruel kind of parade, and possibly that was it – at least partially.

2 thousand crucified, and 30000 sold into slavery. (#error) (all later selling of people into slavery will be considered an error to, but I won’t mention those events here)

As mentioned before, probably a direct link to some of the things I had to experience and witness as Mary of Magdala.

Slavery makes me also sick. I do realize those were different times, and it's not a black or white situation too – who knows what those people could have done after the Macedonian army would leave for the east. In the beginning those people could have just allied themselves to Macedonia, given it was clear from the start they'd lose in the end at the cost of many people's lives. But still, there must have been a better solution to what to do with those people once the siege of Tyre was over.

The siege lasted 7 months.

P 189. Scab not yet forming on the wound. Maybe it's nothing, but in my childhood I hit a protruding rock in the road while riding my bicycle and the fall caused 2 injuries near my knee and near my right hand's elbow. The later would have trouble healing because it was so deep the scab could not form easily (every time I washed or swam in the river the wound would get soft).

Dragging of Batis tied to a chariot is also an (#error), of course.

I think this may remind me of some event of my life… There was that one time I for whatever reason dragged a guy in snow a bit (I regretted that outburst). Basically, unfortunately that incident from my past life doesn't surprise me.

It may relate to lack of spiritual knowledge in regards to temper; I do know I have this issue still and it manifests from time to time. Usually, I just say or think something negative and bad which I shouldn't have in my mind. It's a contrast to my other spiritual experiences and values.

Ordered to enlist young men fit for military service.

P 191 Sacrificing to the Apis. As Cleopatra I also didn't ignore that bull cult.

P 198-199 As Alex I never saw Alexandria complete. But I did see it complete and in several variations in at least two future lives of Cleopatra and Hypatia.

P 201 offered a special sacrifice to the divine personification of Fear

P 202 "I will not steal my victory." Rejecting the night attack

Staging of arts festivals may have had a direct connection to my future lives in which various arts were experiences (e.g. modeling for painters, acting)

The performers knew the political leaders and often acted as ambassadors between states. This reflects my lives of Emma Hamilton and Vivien Leigh, in which I experienced life from another perspective.

P 203 “I endorse the jury’s verdict, but I would have given part of my kingdom rather than see Thessalus defeated.” He was an actor, a performer, who lost a competition to Athenodorus.

Privately paid the fine of Athenodorus (for appearing at Tyre and breaking his contract).

There were some contract related issues – was even sued – in Vivien’s life. From what I remember I didn’t pay too large of a penalty and there’s a possibility the two events are related in terms of spiritual (#benefit)

P 205 Agreed to pardon the prisoners of war who fought at the Battle of the Granicus.

Harpalus was also pardoned and even reinstated as treasurer.

P 210 In response to Parmenion’s question how could I have slept so soundly before such an important battle:

“Why not? Don’t you see we have already won the battle? We won’t have to wander any more around endless burnt-out plains, chasing an enemy who never stands and fights.”

P 212 I haven’t had much interest in military tactics in this life, but bold plans do describe me. May relate to (#psyche-data)

P 213 As I noted before the highly important battle took place on the same day I died as Missy more than two millennia later – 1-st October of 331.

P 216 ‘Heading the Royal Squadron at the apex of the wedge rode the scarlet and silver Macedonian monarch on his enormous horse Bucephalas.’

P 220 ‘He had been king for five years and was only twenty-five years old. He had already changed the world.’

Reminds me of my 25-th year of birth. It was a turning point for me because I started to recover from my health problems and change my life’s path – slowly. I also felt something about that number of year I had lived; I wasn’t satisfied with many aspects of my life. In Vivien’s life I also had a breakthrough around this age (Playing in GWtW). May relate to (#psyche-data-astro)

A thought about turning numerical deficit to advantage. Long time ago when I played WarCraft 3 with Sasha (Alexander) in a training kinda way, I could not resist to make the main base on my expansion (we player on Echo Isles; I had the right side) when he was towering my main base on the top. I made it look like I’m loosing while undetectably building an army to win the battle.

Some time ago when watching a WC3 tournament I also thought – dreamed maybe to be more accurate – of similar ways to win certain tower rushes (or some other situations). Basically, I'm still thinking outside the box. (#psyche-data-astro)?

P 226 Roman historian Curtius about Babylonian degeneracy:

'The moral corruption there is unparalleled….Parents and husbands permit their children and wives to have s*x with strangers, provided this wickedness is paid for….The Babylonians are especially addicted to wine and the excesses that go along with drunkenness. Women attend dinner parties. At first they are decently dressed, then they remove all their top-clothing and by degrees disgrace their respectability until they finally discard their most intimate garments. This revolting conduct is characteristic not only of prostitutes, but also of married women and young girls, who regard such disgusting fornication as "being friendly."'

Herodotus:

'There is a great multitude of women coming and going; passages marked by line run every way through the crowd, by which the men pass and make their choice. Once a woman has taken her place there, she does not go away to her home before some stranger has tossed silver into her lap, and had intercourse with her outside the precinct; but while he throws the money, he must say, "I invite you in the name of Mylitta."…It does not matter what the fee is; the woman will never refuse, for that would be a sin, the money being by this act made sacred.'

Noted this because the topic of prostitution has been surfacing in my several lives.

If that wrong tradition was not stopped by me, maybe that's one of reasons for my experiences.

P 230 Comment on Antipater's victory:

"It would seem, my men, that while we were conquering Darius here, there has been a battle of mice over there in Arcadia."

I will note that I saw/heard the word Arcadia in the video game Final Fantasy XII (Archadia), and I took notice of it. May relate to the same feelings I felt (and can't describe) when I saw movies about Cleopatra (not yet knowing it's me), and similar sensations occurred regarding Vivien and Michele's lives of mine. (#curious)

P 231 An inscription from 330 or the early 320s BC says that there was a famine in Greece. I might have been a partial reason for it, so I'm noting this.

The Hellenic city of Cyrene supplied the cities with grain. That city would play a role again in my future life of Hypatia. And as Cleo I distributed rain during another famine.

P 232 Stephanus' story is awful. Not sure if I could have prevented it though; maybe. Could be an error.

P 233. I'll just note here a thought that occurred to me. I sacrificed a lot of animals in that life. Killed them basically for no good reason as I know now. (#error) I might have suffered somehow for those actions. And the might be reflections to be seen in my other lives regarding animals.

Christina who was walking shelter dogs near Ostankino comes to mind. I also lost 3 parrots when I was a child and in early teenage years (but me not taking the proper care for the last two of them because I was consumed by my own life's issues also contributed to that, of course).

P 234. I'll also note how in that time certain events were interpreted to bear a higher, divine even, meaning. A sing of something. There's a connection to my current life here. I don't look for any signs specifically. I know that all happens for a reason, I know about the Spirit and Higher Selves, and our souls, and about the Universal Law. But sometimes it may be hard not to see foreshadowing of certain events in the prior events that could be called 'signs' by some people.

P 235. The weaving story reminded me of the Spinstress painting of me as Emma H.

Of note is I apologized for the mistake which I accepted I had done. I can also admit my errors.

P 236. I'll note Uxii story here.

P 238 I'll mark (#error) right away the sacking of Persepolis – no matter the history of that city. Violence is not the solution most often.

Thiaooubians destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, yes, but they are of the 9-th category and they know what is error and when the force is the right thing to do. That was the later case as is clear from what we know from Thiaoouba Prophecy and Bible (I assume the story about those cities is [mostly] true).

In Persepolis' case vengeance was the driver for the city's distraction, and so I think it was a mistake.

I do understand the psychological reasons for the sacking of that city, though.

P 239 "Shall I pass by and leave you lying there because of your invasion of Greece, or shall I set you up again?" words spoken to a toppled statue of Xerxes.

P 239 – 240 ordering to slaughter males and prisoners was another (#error)

On a side note makes me curious if such orders may have played a role in why I have lived significantly more female lives than male? 30 vs my 14-th, and my next life, as I learned from my HS, will again be in a female body.

The burning of the city reminds me of other fires in my other lives.

P 242 says I came to regret what I had done (burning the city down). I'm glad to know that and it aligns with my current views.

P 244 Curtius:

[The king] "jumped from his horse and proceeded to make his way on foot through the snow and hard-packed ice. His friends were ashamed not to follow him and the feeling spread to his officers, and, finally, the men. The king was the first to clear a way for himself, using an axe to break the ice, and then the others followed his example."

Remember how when I was little we cut the long branches from the willow tree growing near our house. I tied a rope around one of those branches near its top and alone was pulling on it while someone else (mother maybe; there was no one else to help and the branches were endangering our house) was cutting the branch at its base on top of the willow tree. There were then people – my peers – watching and after some time one guy (I think it was Vovchik (Vova, Vladimir)) who eventually helped me pull on the rope. Basically, sometimes I am a man of actions – just as I was it looks like in the past. (#psyche-data)?

Plutarch: "It is astonishing that Alexander could find time to write so many letters to his friends."

Reminds me of my Emma H. and Vivien L. lives in which I again wrote many letters. (#curious)

P 245 says I let people decide the fate of a few tyrants. I was pro-democracy in that life it seems, and I'm glad for that.

"the people should decide whether or not they should be allowed to return; the people hearing the edict set up a court for them, in accordance with the law and the edict of king Alexander, and when speeches had been made on both sides decided that the law against the tyrants should be valid and that they should be exiled from the city."

P 246 I'd have to check the stories about Hephaestion with my Higher Self.

A joke in a letter sent to a Companion bitten by a bear:

"Now, you must write to tell me how you are, and whether you were let down by any of your fellow-huntsmen, so that I can punish them."

P 247 I will tag it an (#error) to help capture slaves who run away for their freedom.

P 248 desire for continuity by allowing old local authorities to keep their positions if they turn the side.

In my Manifesto, forgiveness is part of what I say is required in order to transition to democracy with as little casualties as possible.

P 249 the story about 2 conspirators putting on a show in front of Darius reminded me of 2 criminals I knew in my past life of Missy.

P 252 Plutarch:

"Alexander was by nature exceptionally generous and became even more so as his wealth increased. His gifts were always bestowed with grace and courtesy, and it is this alone which truly makes a giver's generosity welcome."

(#spiritual-knowledge) but right after it's revealed there could have been a dark side to that too.

P 253 Me saying this to a man trying to carry lots of gold on his shoulders:

"Hold on, keep going, and you can take what you are carrying to your own tent."

That event may have a reflection in my life. When we (me, Anton, and a couple of other guys our age) got Internet access we started playing "Ultima: Online". I remember how I used to farm seemingly all items I could get my hold on and I'd be carrying them slowly to the main base; I remember if you're overburdened in the game you can carry just for a bit or something like that – the point is I could not move quickly and too far; the whole process was very slow. (#reflection)

"Enough for you to accept, but not enough for me to give." Gave 50 talents to a Companion who said 10 would have been enough. It was help regarding dowries for his girls.

Olympias: "I wish you would find other ways of rewarding those you love and respect: as it is, you are making them all the equals of kings and enabling them to make plenty of friends, but leaving yourself without any."

Interesting.

And the author then makes a note that such a release of large sums of money into the marketplace is very inflationary. Have to deal with negatives of inflation at the moment.

Alex/me: "How can a man look after his horse, or keep his spear and his helmet clean and bright, if he has lost the habit of using his hands to look after his own adorable body?"

Took me some time to see this: I've struggled accepting my current body's appearance issues. 'Adorable' might have been ingrained in my psyche and would appear here and there. It's a complex mix though. As VL I didn't like people calling me pretty apparently; which may also have something to do with my current troubles.

P 255 the punishing pace which resulted in horses dying reminded me of what happened to that horse in GWtW.

P 259 a quick note about diadems and tiaras. There's a streamer 'sirenkahls' who I watched when she was playing Dark Souls games. I sometimes talked in her chat a bit and gained points which I used so that she'd wear a tiara for a bit of time.

Noting Darius' harem of 365 women for each night of the year. Historically it's not known what I did or didn't in regards to those people.

There's a negative thing I noticed about me is that whenever I allow my imagination get the better of me in regards sexual topics, there's often more than 1 female. Maybe it's just the consequence of me searching for a new p girl online when I need to have a release of at least some sort, but in theory it could be some echo of the past… who knows. I'd need to check on it with my HS if I can.

Parading prisoners of war has reflections in my next life of Cleopatra.

P 261 about Bessus and his friends:

"The moment our backs are turned, they will be after us" and would fall upon the Macedonians "as if they were so many women."

P 262 Justine wrote in the 2-nd century AD:

"maintenance was provided for the boys, and arms and horses were given them when they grew up; and rewards were assigned to the fathers in proportion to the number of their children. If the fathers of any of them were killed, the orphans notwithstanding received their father's pay; and their childhood was a sort of military service in various expeditions. Inured from their earliest years to toils and dangers, they formed an invincible army; they looked upon their camp as their country, and upon a battle as a prelude to victory."

8 people plotted against my past life. Of note is one of them was called Demetrius, one of 7 personal bodyguards. A childhood friend from village is Dima (Dmitri); thankfully, there's nothing negative to say about him though.

P 265 Philotas' mistress was called Antigone. She was prostitute or hetaira - a type of courtesan or prostitute in ancient Greece, who served as an artist, entertainer, and conversationalist in addition to providing sexual service. This has some parallels with me in Emma's life.

As Vivien I played Antigone character.

P 268 I will say there are parallels in how in that life people started to plot to kill me because of my Zeus Ammon claims (currently I don't know if those characters were based on real people and if I actually had some connection to them – as it turned out to be the case with Isis)., and my current life in which I shared the truth about my experiences, proved I can do certain things (telekinesis, Higher Self's answers can also be validated to be true by examining my past lives), and I'm having to deal with people who are against me (they either don't believe me; or maybe they are jealous; I'm interacting online with them, but who knows what they could wanna do if it was otherwise… my past life of Missy is the proof of where jalousies can lead to)

Philotas: "with Darius still alive, Parmenion thought the plan premature, since killing Alexander would benefit the enemy, not themselves, whereas with Darius removed the reward of killing the king that would fall to his assassins would be Asia and all of the East. The plan was approved and pledges given and accepted on it."

P 276 says about falling in love with a male (eunuch) Bagoas. It's such a long life that maybe it's possible. Besides, there was a eunuch teacher in my Emma Hamilton's life. The theme of homosexuality has also presented itself in my current life when I was little child and didn't possess important knowledge about life. Basically, part of me is cautious reading such stories about old me, but another part realizes it may be the truth.

P 277 Did not forgive 1500 Greek mercenaries. Reminded me of the number of people who died in the Titanic disaster (myself included).

I'm glad the Mardians' situation resolved peacefully. When I read what I said I'd do if my horse Bucephalas would not be returned, I felt uneasy.

Forgiving eventually the Greek mercenaries who joined Persians before the decision to go to war with Persia also may be indicator of certain (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 278 Eye infection. I had one in my current life also.

P 281. The cold and frostbites people experienced may have some connection to my death during Titanic disaster. I don't like cold when it comes to humans experiencing negative effects of it, and I think the way I died as Angelo may be the reason for it. The waters of the Atlantic were bitingly cold.

P 283 Ptolemy was both a friend in Alexander's life, and he also was a distant relative in Cleopatra's life. Interesting how one person can play many roles in a soul's life.

I'll say the treatment of Bessus – who was entirely stripped of his clothes, fettered, and tied to a post with a slave's wooden collar around his neck – was rather cruel. He was then flogged. When judged by me only, Bessus's nose and ears were sliced off. He may have been impaled (anus). (#error)

P 185 the story surrounding Branchidae and slaughter of all males is also an (#error)

Curtius writes:

"Neither community of language nor the olive-branches and entreaties of the suppliants could curb the savagery. Finally the Macedonians dug down to the foundations of the walls in order to demolish them and leave not a single trace of the city."

I'll note here the Issus sounds similar (maybe emphasis is on I instead of u) as Иисус Христос – Jesus Christ in Russian.

P 285 says I visited Maracanda (today's Samarkand, Uzbekistan).

People from that and neighboring countries pay rent to me. Maybe some relation.

P 287 Was hit in the head and neck and got concussed.

In this life I hit my head against ice and had slight sensation of spinning in my head. Probably had minor concussion.

(#error) for selling women and children to slavery. Killing all the males may be error also; it was war, those people started the attack themselves (against someone who took control over their country, but they were free people from what I understand); basically, it's all too difficult and it may not be a black and white situation because of this complexity.

P 288 "I would rather face the greatest possible peril than, as conqueror of virtually the whole of Asia, have the Scythians make a laughingstock of me."

Rejecting Aristander's bad omens and proceeding with the plan to cross the Jaxartes.

P 289 'The military historian J.F.C. Fuller writes that Alexander

"grasped the conditions which had hitherto rendered the Scythians invincible, and because he so shrewdly penetrated them, he compelled them to do the very thing they did not want to do—enter a circle of trained, disciplined, and better armed soldiers. They set out to circle round the Macedonians, then suddenly their imagined circumference became the center of a hostile ring."'

I will note here something. I know that as Vivien I could notice certain things some others could miss. In my current life I've been noticing many things too – mostly related to spirituality. It's clear that as Alexander I was also able to see, notice, things which would be of benefit. May relate to the (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 290-291 another (#error) – butchering the inhabitants of Sogdiana.

P 293 'Curtius describes a hunt on foot in Sogdiana when "the king issued orders for the animals to be beaten from their coverts throughout its length. Among these animals was a lion of unusual size which came charging forward to pounce on the king himself. Lysimachus [a somatophylax, or bodyguard] happened to be standing next to Alexander, and had started to aim his hunting spear at the beast when the king pushed him aside, told him to get out of the way, and added that he was as capable as Lysimachus of killing a lion single-handed."'

P 294 Cleitus: "Yes, of course, it was my cowardice that saved your life at the Granicus." Then he criticized me for disowning my then father Philip and claiming to be the son of Ammon.

Me: "You scum - Do you imagine you can go on saying things like this, stirring up trouble among the Macedonians —and not pay for it."

Cleitus: "But we do pay for it. We have to beg Persians for an audience with our own king."

P 296 "Here I am, here is your Cleitus."

Me: "Now go and join Philip, Parmenion and Attalus!" – reportedly the words said when plunging the spear into Cleitus.

I've already mentioned before this was an (#error)

They say I was set to die (by not eating or drinking). It lasted for 3 days.

Of note here is that this idea came to my mind in my life too when times were difficult; I obviously found reasons to go on living,

P 297 Anaxarchus criticized me for "lying on the floor weeping like a slave, terrified of the law and of what men will say of him. And yet all the time it should be he who represents the law and sets up the criterion of justice."

A contemporary historian, Ephippus the Olynthian: "[Macedonians at court] had no notion of moderation in drinking, but started off at once with enormous drafts before eating, so as to be drunk before the first course was off the table, and to be unable to enjoy the rest of the banquet."

P 298. Curtius said alcohol consumption ruined my fine qualities.

A similar thing was said of my father in my current life. He was good, kind person when sober, but when he'd drink too much… I started stammering when he almost killed my mom while being heavily drunk.

P 299 Curtius: "Alexander had some great natural gifts: a noble disposition…; resolution in the face of danger; speed in undertaking and completing projects; integrity in dealing with those who surrendered and mercy toward prisoners; restraint even in those pleasures which are generally acceptable and widely indulged. But all these were marred by his inexcusable fondness for drink."

Plutarch: "The impression that he was a heavy drinker arose because when he had nothing else to do, he liked to linger over each cup, but in fact he was usually talking rather than drinking: he enjoyed holding long conversations, but only when he had plenty of leisure. Whenever there was urgent business to attend to, neither wine, nor sleep, nor sport, nor s*x, nor spectacle could ever distract his attention."

Some characteristics are aligned with me – not surprising since it's me in my past life and I think it's the sign that I had some (#spiritual-knowledge) – talking about positive characteristics here, of course. I know that I had lived before – thousands of years perhaps – enough time to learn at least something in terms of spirituality.

P 300 surviving an electrical storm. No details are given, but I like lightning. I had witnessed a lightning storm when a new lightning would strike in the sky above almost each second; I was in Moscow.

P 302 psychological insight into the minds of people is important.

Rhoxane had nothing to do with the marriage arrangements. It was between me (Alex) and Oxyartes.

Immediately I remembered about my fate when I was Evdokia Andreevna Dioper; I suffered in that life for the error I made in my past life – that much is clear. If that episode from my Alex's life was the reason behind my Evdokia's troubles – being forced against my will to marry someone I didn't love or liked – is not known. The book doesn't say what Rhoxane thought about that marriage. Also, it's possible as Evdokia I suffered greatly for many cumulative errors, not just for one.

P 305 CHAPTER 13 A PASSAGE TO INDIA starts with an interesting story about Proskynesis.

P 307 The great Theban poet celebrates the winner of the boys' wrestling at the Nemean Games:

"Single is the race, single of men and gods; from a single mother we both draw breath. But a difference of power in everything keeps us apart; for the one is as Nothing, but the brazen sky stays a fixed habitation forever.

Yet we can in greatness of mind or of body be like the Immortals."

One thing to immediately draw my attention was the word 'Immortal'. Just yesterday (January 21, 2025), when I got the answer I was female in my past life of Jade (lived in 1530 AD), there was someone called Бессмертный (Immortal/Undying) who was after me.

P 308 (may be fictional words) Curtius has him say in a speech that the father of the gods "held out to me the title of son; accepting it has not been disadvantageous to the operations in which we are engaged. I only wish the Indians would also believe me a god! For reputation determines military success, and often even a false belief has accomplished as much as the truth."

Me as Alex quoting Iliad when I was wounded by an arrow:

"What you see flowing, my friends, is blood, not 'ichor, which flows in the veins of the holy gods.' "

Plutarch: [the king was] "not at all vain or deluded, but rather used belief in his divinity to enslave others."

P 309 flogging the page for speaking the boar I marked for myself was an (#error) I think in this case. Hunting itself – for fun, not to survive – is not something I think should be a thing anymore in my opinion now. I love animals and don't wanna hurt them.

Mother in this life would flog me a couple of times maybe when I was very little. Not too harshly though.

I already mentioned how in our village we – when we were teenagers - jokingly wanted to go hunting a bear with improvised spears.

The page, his lover, and 7 other pages conspired to kill me. Rota had to be altered so that all of them would work on the same night, and that took a month.

My last name was Rotta in my past life (died along with Titanic). Maybe it's just a coincidence.

The author tells of a 'mentally deranged' woman who seemed to be religiously inspired. First, it occurred to me many people might be thinking a similar thing of me also right now – and they're wrong. So I thought what if why she might have had some psychological issues (that she could resolve also in theory) she was also legit in at least some of what she said? And it appears her arrival and warning me synchronized with the actual assassination plot. (#curious)

Me as Alex: "The gods always give good advice." I obeyed and returned to the party. She saved my life.

The plotters were killed. Don't know if it's an error since they did wanna kill a man. Had the whole month to change their minds. Exiling them each to a separate place comes to mind, but I don't know/remember what the actual situation was back then; what good would that bring; there's also the question of [personal] safety.

P 311 Curtius: (Alexander speak against Hermolaus)

"I am foisting Persian habits on the Macedonians. That is true, for I see in many races things we should not be ashamed of copying. The only way this great empire can be satisfactorily governed is by our transmitting some things to the natives and learning others from them ourselves."

For the most part I still agree with my past self. I'd add this transmission should be done out of free will (if people think it will benefit them).

Saying this to Callisthenes: "Show us the power of your eloquence by criticizing the Macedonians."

Callisthenes reminded me of a guy in TPXP who mentioned the word 'eloquence' and it was clear he tried to practice it (he's from Iran. So English is his second language). Both spoke their minds bluntly without thinking of the consequences. I had troubles coming from him and eventually had to ban and block him for good.

P 312 Letter to Antipater at Pella:

"The youths were stoned to death by the Macedonians, but as for the sophist [i.e. Callisthenes], I shall punish him myself, and I shall not forget those who sent him to me, or the others who give shelter in their cities to those who plot against my life."

His fate is not known for certain. If something bad happened to him (basically death), then could have been and error which also might have resulted in the negative rumors about me in my later life of Hypatia (lived in Alexandria), eventually leading to my death.

P 313 story about mistakenly thinking the Indus was the source of the Nile, and then being lucky not to send the letter to Olympias before the truth was revealed to me, and then removing that passage, made me chuckle a little – especially because in this life I was in a similar situation at least once too. (#reflection-life) May relate to lack of certain spirituality and/or to psyche too.

Curtius' notes on India royalty has some parallels with my Cleopatra's lifestyle.

P 315 competitive to the last drop of blood. I think I must have mentioned that my childhood friend Anton was very competitive; how it now seems one of those situations when you behold, contemplate life from a different perspective.

The story on that page (Meleager remark) made me chuckle again.

P 316 Curtius: [Alexander] "pulled out the barb, had his horse brought up and, without even bandaging the wound, rode around fulfilling his schedule no less energetically. But as his injured leg hung down and, after the blood dried, the wound stiffened, aggravating the pain, Alexander is reported to have said that, though he was reputed to be the son of Zeus, he could still feel the damage done by a wound."

Cleophis has caught my attention. Note just because P 317. Killing all of 7000 Indian mercenaries. Not a white and black situation. Could be (#error) but alternatives could also lead to human deaths. The way I see it there was no business to go to India in the first place. That makes it more seem like that sad event was indeed an error.

Krishna was told to be reincarnation of Heracles.

The rock story reminded me of how in Vivien's life I went climbing another rock in Sri Lanka - Bible Rock (P 205 of 'Dark Star' (2019) by Alan Strachan). (#reflection-life)

P 318 looks to me like another (#error) – about killing the retreating tribesmen.

Arrian: "Alexander was now master of the rock which had defeated Heracles."

May have some connections to me having synchronicities with the King of the Hill.

P 319 mentions Bacchants. Could be a connection to my Emma's paintings.

I think it's the hymn to Dionysus:

"He spent all his time wandering through woody coombes, thickly wreathed with ivy and laurel. And the nymphs followed in his train with him for their leader; and the boundless forest was filled with their screams."

P 321 Arrian: "With his boats plying up and down, leather rafts being stuffed with straw, the whole bank visibly crowded with troops, cavalry here, infantry there, Alexander kept Porus unsettled and prevented him from selecting a single vantage point in which to concentrate his defensive capability."

P 322 Again there's mention that I used 'acting', or deception to be more precise (pretending to do something when your intentions are different), to win a battle. Could be the link to the end of my Missy's life when Laura and Karen pretended to quarrel with one another (to lure me going with them or something I guess). (#curious)

Possibly my written orders:

"But if Porus takes part of his army against me and leaves part behind in the camp with elephants as well, you must still not make a move. If, though, he takes all his elephants with him against me, with some of the rest of his army left in the camp, then cross as fast as you can. It is only the elephants which make it impossible to land the horses—any other part of Porus's army will pose no problem."

P 326 mind games relate to some of the ideas I had or have when watching people playing videogames on streams. I can see how deception can (potentially) win someone the game. (#curious)

P 329 Asked defeated Porus how he wished to be treated.

Porus: "Like a king."

Alex: "As far as I am concerned, Porus, I shall do as you ask. Tell me now what you would like for yourself."

Porus: "Everything is contained in my one request."

His kingship was confirmed and he remained loyal.

Makes me wonder if this granting of Porus' wishes had something to do with why I became again a leader in the following 2 lives (Cleopatra, Zhao Dun)? (#benefit)?

Sacrificed so Helios, a sun god.

Had a child in Cleo's life named Alexander Helios.

P 330 I'm noticing 17 is often mentioned in some form (17000, etc.). But maybe I'm only seeing it because of my age in Michele's life which stuck with me.

P 331 destruction of Sangala was an (#error). Polyaenus writes: "This act greatly damaged reputation in the eyes of the Indians, who considered him a bloodthirsty savage."

I'll note here as Vivien I was born on the east side of India which was never reached in Alexander's life.

P 332 "'All this land is yours, and you are its satraps." The men said nothing and hung their heads. "I must have hurt you in some way without knowing it," added Alexander bitterly. "You don't even want to look at me. I seem to be completely alone —nobody answers me, nobody even says no to me."'

The last sentence actually resembles my current situation. Only the reasons are different. Trust is also mentioned in the next paragraph. (#reflection-life) ?

Arrian has Coenus say, to loud applause: “You should not now lead forward a reluctant army. You won’t find them as ready as they once were to meet danger, when they have lost their will for battle. But, if you agree, go home with them to Macedonia, see your mother, settle what needs to be settled in Greece, bring back all these great victories to adorn your father’s house. Then, if you so choose, begin again from scratch—and launch another campaign.”

It’s page 333 and I decide to agree and go home. War is over.

P 336 it was early November when the fleet started to move out (to leave India). As Vivien I was born on November 5-th in India.

P 338 My speech about the quarrel and fighting between Hephaestion and Craterus: “By Zeus Ammon and all the other gods, these are the two men I love most in the world. But if ever I hear of them quarrelling again, I will kill them both—or at the very least the one who started the quarrel.”

Had many scars on my body.

Apparently, there was another battle ahead. The war was not entirely over. Perhaps another (#error) was made in regards to the villagers.

Siege of Multan was destined to be the last and 20-th battle. I don’t know yet what happened, but from the words of Everitt it looks something bad had happened to me in it. I barely survived. It’s not at all surprising now because 20 has often been associated by me to bring something negative, or some obstacle in my path. In fact, he writes that in this final 20-th battle I got my last and most dangerous scar, and it was remarkable that I recovered from it. (#curious)

P 339-340 Arrian writes about me getting hit by an arrow in the chest: “the blood escaping from the wound was bubbling with the air from his lung. As long as his blood ran warm, and although he was in a bad way, Alexander continued to defend himself: but when inevitably his breathing caused a massive hemorrhage he became dizzy and faint, and fell forward over his shield. Peucestas stood astride him as he lay there, protecting him with the sacred shield from Troy, and Leonnatus took his stand on the other side: these two were now the targets, while Alexander was slipping into unconsciousness from loss of blood.”

Curious if there’s some connection to Cleitus’s death.

P 341 Arrian: “I would guess that Alexander’s annoyance was because he recognized the truth of the accusation and his own responsibility in incurring it. Yet the fact is that in battle he was a berserker, as addicted to glory as men are to any other overpowering passion, and he lacked the discipline to keep himself out of danger."

(#error) in regards to Brahmins, the prince and other deaths.

P 342 strong winds threatening lives

P 347 "Alexander himself feasted continually, day and night, reclining with his companions on a dais built upon a high and conspicuous rectangular platform, the whole structure being slowly drawn along by eight horses. Innumerable wagons followed the royal table, some of them covered with purple or embroidered canopies, others shaded by the boughs of trees, which were constantly kept fresh and green; these vehicles carried the rest of Alexander's officers, all of them crowned with flowers and drinking wine."

P 349 Wedding of Alexander and Rhoxane as witnessed by Lucian:

"There are smiling Cupids: one is standing behind her removing the veil from her head and showing Rhoxane to her husband; another like a true servant is taking the sandal off her foot, already preparing her for bed; a third Cupid has caught hold of Alexander's cloak and is pulling him with all his strength toward Rhoxane. The king himself is holding out a garland to the bride and their best man and helper, Hephaestion, is there with a blazing torch in his hand. He is leaning on a very handsome young man—I think he is Hymenaeus."

P 351 had 27 satraps and 14 were, it seems, guilty of corrupt practices and were rebellious. 13, then, did not bring trouble.

As Thao said on page 112 of Thiaoouba Prophecy: "Violence does not pay, and never will." It's not a surprise for me now to know there were issues in the empire which had just a little bit of time left to exist.

"What good are your provisions to us then?" – after I threw to the horses 3k talents which the satraps of Susiana and Paraetecane had brought instead of supplies.

This is a good one.

Also, while on this topic, it aligns with my views on money I share in my Manifesto chapter of my Simple Truths of Life e-book. (#spiritual-knowledge) maybe?

I'll say right away that maybe some of the punishments (by death) of some satraps were in error.

P 352 A decree read out by a herald at the Olympic games of 324 BC: "King Alexander to the exiles from the Greek cities. We have not been the cause of your exile, but, save for those of you who are under a curse [i.e.

guilty of murder and other serious crimes], we shall be the cause of your return to your own native cities. We have written to Antipater about this to the end that if any cities are not willing to restore you, he may constrain them."

P 353 Arrian: [Alexander had] "become more inclined to accept as wholly reliable any accusation made to him against officials, and ready to inflict severe punishment on those found guilty of even minor offenses, in the belief that the character of a petty offender was equally capable of more serious crimes."

Curtius me (Alexander) listening to Bagoas: "his degeneration from his former self was so complete that, though earlier possessed of unassailable self-control, he followed a male whore's judgment to give some men kingdoms and deprive others of their lives."

P 357-358's story about Brahmins and my attitude to them is of interest. It may relate to the way of my Hypatia's (from Alexandria) life, and generally to me being okay with simple garments. Basically, meeting that man might have influenced my spirituality in some ways (little or not) in many of my lives.

Possibly getting naked to talk to Calanus is also of interest because there were certain events in my current and Vivien's lives involving being naked.

I'm afraid – even though I did not wanna do it – eventually agreeing to assist Calanus in his departure was an (#error) still. People will die when they're time has come, and they won't suffer longer than they have to according to their karma (what errors they did). Him suffering meant he had made an error – someone else suffered because of his actions maybe – and it was his time to learn the lesson, and he refused that by king himself.

"Drink deep with the king, whom I shall soon see in Babylon." – Calanus last words to me. I died in Babylon shortly after (Wikipedia says exactly 1 year after, in fact).

Also, this got me thinking… what lives I lived after my Alex's life? Have I lived in Babylon ever since and what if I met there Calanus in his new incarnation? Just a thought for now.

I also can't help but remember how in my Vivien's life I also said "When I die, I shall take you with me" to Cecil Tenant and that turned out to be a prophecy later – the death of Cecil Tenant in a car crash one day after my funeral. (#reflection-life) ?

P 358 The drinking contest was clearly an (#error) given people died from overdrinking (nobody forced them to drink more than they could take, but still. The contest was the reason they did it). 42 people in total are said to have died.

Plutarch: “He believed that he came as a heaven-sent governor to all, and as a mediator for the whole world. Those whom he could not persuade to unite with him, he conquered by force of arms. He brought together into one body all men everywhere, uniting and mixing in one great loving-cup, as it were, men’s lives, their characters, their marriages, their very habits of life… Clothing and food, marriage and manner of life they should regard as common to all, being blended into one by ties of blood and children.”

The author of the book writes this is the work of propaganda. But, since it is me in my past life – albeit way too distant – I actually see myself in that quote. So, maybe there is truth to Plutarch’s words. The issue is here – obviously – is I lack the knowledge – spiritual knowledge too - I’d get later in my Mary of Magdala and Hypatia’s lives, and now in my current life of Evgeny (thanks to Thiaoouba); so, unfortunately, lots of unnecessary force was used and many suffered as a result. I’ve already mentioned people have to unite (I believe it’s required because then all people will get access to all planet’s resources which then can be spread out as required to do beneficial work for all of people – obviously it’s a highly complex topic and there are multitude of other reasons; I’m mentioning this one because obviously resources someone else happened to have or live on/near were the reasons for many, many wars.) peacefully, out of their own free will, having access to all the knowledge available (e.g. no brainwashing or dumbing down of population to make them agree to anything), and this process may take a lot of time (even hundreds or thousands).

I was Nefertiti before being Alexander, and it’s evident I had some spiritual knowledge in that life also. I believe it is so at least; some people also say there could be some negatives said about me in that life. So again, maybe the quote isn’t too far from the truth.

P 361 Arrian: “He had become by that time quicker to take offense and the oriental obsequiousness to which he had become accustomed had greatly changed his old easy manner to his own countrymen.”

(#error) for executing those 13 men.

P 362 “And now it was in my mind to demobilize any of you no longer fit for service. They could return home to be envied and admired. But since you all wish to go, then go! Every single one of you!”

Again wanted to see nobody for 3 days and the tactic – as the author says it was – worked. This one reminds of Scarlett and how in my current life I used tactics of similar origins when I was little child. (#psyche-data)?

“So far as I am concerned you are all my kinsmen and that is what I will call you from now on.”

P 364 “Antipater doesn’t understand that one tear shed by my mother will wipe out 10,000 letters like this one.”

Arrian: “We hear of nothing Alexander said or did which could have invited the conclusion that his affectionate regard for Antipater had in any way diminished.”

P 367 Aelian: “On the fifth day of the month of Dius [October/November] he drank to excess at Eumenes’ [Eumenes was the king’s chief secretary or grammateus], on the sixth day he slept off the alcohol, and was sufficiently refreshed to get out of bed and give orders to his commanders for the next day’s exercises, saying that they should set out very early. On the seventh he feasted with Perdiccas, and again drank heavily. On the eighth he slept. On the fifteenth day of the same month he drank again, and slept through the next day. On the twenty-fourth he dined at Bagoas’s place about ten stades from the palace. The following day he slept.”

P 368 After the death of Hephaestion. Plutarch:

“As a token of mourning, he commanded that the manes and tails of all horses should be shorn [this was a Persian and a Thessalian practice], demolished the battlements of all the neighboring cities, crucified the luckless physician and forbade the playing of flutes or any other kind of music for a long time.”

(#error) for crucifying the physician who left Hephaestion unsupervised – why the later started eating heavy food and drank wine, and died due to complications that caused.

Diodorus: “Alexander collected artisans and an army of workmen and tore down Babylon’s wall to a distance of ten furlongs. He collected the baked tiles and levelled off the place which was to receive the pyre, and then built it in the shape of a cube, each side being a furlong in length. He divided up the area into thirty compartments and[,] laying out the roofs upon the trunks of palm trees[,] wrought the whole structure into a square shape.”

Extremely overdone funeral. (#error) The resources could and should have been used to help people instead.

Iliad and Achilles are mentioned again. Can’t help but remember GWtW book and how I wished to play Scarlett. Maybe some relation to psyche (#psyche-data).

P 369 (#error) in the way I dealt with the Cossaei tribe even though they were brigands.

P 370 letter to Cleomenes: “If I find the temples in Egypt and these shrines to Hephaestion in good order, I shall ignore your previous offenses and guarantee that any future offense, of whatever nature, will not meet with any disagreeable consequence at my hands.”

“Alexander used to wear even the sacred vestments at his banquets; and sometimes he would wear the purple robe, and slit sandals, and horns of Ammon, as if he had been the god; and sometimes he would imitate Artemis, whose dress he often wore while driving in his chariot; having on also a Persian robe, but displaying above his shoulders the bow and javelin of the goddess."

"Alexander also had the ground sprinkled with expensive perfume and sweet-smelling wine, and myrrh and other fragrant substances were burned in his honor, and everyone present remained respectfully silent out of terror, because he was impossible and bloodthirsty, and appeared to be un balanced."

The author says it may have been a costume party rather than a serious bid for godhood.

Given my HS questions revealed I was Isis – I don't know right now what the truth was.

The last quote reminds me of my Cleopatra's life.

Bloodlust, bloodthirstiness – I've mentioned somewhere, I think, that there were times in my life when 'bloodlust' (I knew this word long time ago from WarCraft 3 videogame) would appear inside of me. Thankfully for me I had my knowledge (Thiaoouba) and have now more spiritual knowledge (I'd hope) than I did 2000+ years ago. So I let the pressure drop and returned the thought in the front of my mind that force is often not a solution. Love is. And I need to be strong; need to remember what I know; that all those who hurt me will suffer without my revenge; and that I'm suffering in the first place because I myself made errors – maybe even the same (and someone felt because of me what I'm feeling now) – in my past lives. (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 371 I'll note here that I said about being someone else who lived before me – old incarnation – in my 4 lives:

Alexander (yet remains to be found out if I knew something, or it was a belief caused maybe by the actual sensation of closeness to some of my [other] past lives)

Cleopatra (Knew I was Isis)

As Vivien in the interview (Small World - December 1958) I rather seriously said that maybe I lived in the US south in my other incarnation and that's why I played and got Oscars for 2 southern belles

Evgeny – my current life. (Know about many of my past lives)

Arrian: "the delegates wore ceremonial wreaths and offered Alexander golden crowns, to all appearances as if these were official pilgrimages to honor a god."

P 372 An Athenian orator: "The practices which even now we have to countenance are proof enough: sacrifices being made to men; images, altars, and temples carefully perfected in their honor, while those of the gods are neglected, and we ourselves are forced to honor as heroes the servants of these people."

Interesting to note that some of those 'Gods' might have been human people of some recognition, and then the myth and legend became religion and God worship.

P 375-376 Diodorus writes I would "establish cities and to transplant populations from Asia to Europe and in the opposite direction from Europe to Asia, in order to bring the largest continents to common unity and to friendly kinship by means of intermarriages and family ties."

Was a mistake to wish that. Already said – free will – it all has to come out of free will. Using some kind of force, going against someone's free will - is an error.

This makes me wonder what types of lives I lived before Alex's that I wanted this unity.

"exercise kingship for eight years." Prophesy of Chaldean seers which, as may seem, was correct. I doubt animal murders can allow – somehow – to see future or get answers. I get answers from my Higher Self, and here the method is logical. If there were other seers… whose methods didn't hard anyone… who knows maybe their Higher Selves did give them some bits of information in one way or another.

Me: "The best of prophets is the one whose guess comes good."

P 376 A person by name of Apollodorus, a Macedonian from Amphipolis, was one of Companions.

Another Apollodorus played his role in my Cleopatra's life.

P 377 2000+ years later and I sill have to be grateful when someone just says 'unvarnished truth' to me instead of beating around the bush. This usually concerns my experiences with Thiaoouba and now with my past lives. Just today I had to deal with this topic… again.

P 378 A gust of wind that blew off a hat and diadem into the water and to some reeds. It should be clear what movie I'm thinking of here)))

Unfortunately, the story is followed by a possible murder of a man who simply put the diadem on his head to keep it dry… if the even did occur it was another (#error); and so was the flogging in the alternative version.

P 379. Same goes for the man who sat on the throne because an idea came to his mind and he acted on it.

Plutarch: "Alexander had become overwrought and terrified in his own mind, and now abandoned himself to superstition. He interpreted every strange or unusual occurrence, no matter how trivial, as a prodigy or a portent, with the result that the palace was filled with soothsayers, sacrificers, purifiers and prognosticators."

P 381 Hit Iolaus on the head with a stick for some mistake of his.

(#error) that could have been paid for by me in this life when I was in my early teens. Me and mother traveled by bus to father's house in order to go to village in his car then. It was early morning then, and the bus traveled to the edges of Moscow – meaning there were not a lot of people inside, and that is what I remember. So, I sat on a seat because people – elderly and women with children - could find a place to sit. (So, I was always conscious about elderly people and gave them my place to sit if I saw them walk into the public transport and there were no empty seats nearby.) We were in the back and I faced the back of the bus also; but I was aware there were places to sit in the bus. When it was our time to stand up and wait near the door for the bus to stop a grown up man hit me on the back of my head with his fist or hand; regardless, I felt the pain, and it was uncalled for (even IF there were people standing and somehow there were no empty seats, people could just ask for a seat to be given; he could have been sued in theory for his actions – I won't say the exact law he broke but his assault (of a kid-young teenager and behind his back too) did break some law I'm sure.) I will say I once remembered that person, and my daydream imagined the alternative version of the story where that man… probably better not to say… that event did have an impact on me; glad I have Thiaoouba to counteract all the darkness that sometimes may start brewing inside of me.

Summery – my suffering in the bus incident was not caused by some error I made in this life. It means I made some error in my other past life. Was it the event concerning Iolaus? I don't know. It could have been, or it could have been some other event.

P 385 was dying for 13 days

P 389 Curtius writes about… my corpse (6 days people didn't bury it): "Nowhere are more searing temperatures to be found than in Mesopotamia, where they are such as to cause the deaths of many animals caught on open ground—so intense is the heat of the sun and the atmosphere, which bakes everything like a fire….When Alexander's friends eventually found time to attend to his corpse, the men who had entered the tent saw that no decay had set into it and that there was not even the slightest discoloration. The vital look that comes from the breath of life had not yet vanished from his face."

Could have been a coma too – as author writes.

I'll note an answer I had about my past life I lived in the 19-th century AD – Lisa Hill. There was something which brought me to pondering if I could have been in coma in that life.

I had that dream on September 25, 2024. Interestingly, it had shown a ship and I first thought it was ancient times. Then it turned out that a movie was being filmed. Then I heard a woman say 'Philip' 3 times. Philip was my father, of course, in my Alexander's life. So that dream did refer to my Alexander's life. Later I did some research into 1800s and coma and found interesting things which find reflections in my life.

It's something I'd need to ask my HS about.

P 390 1 century BC glass coffin instead of the gold one (mentioned it elsewhere) … made me wonder if, somehow, I as Cleopatra could have seen… my past life's dead body…? Probably not realizing it used to be me…

P 393 held head to one side. I think I mentioned it somewhere before… anyway, relates to me in my current life and Vivien's.

P 394 Plutarch: "Alexander…taught the Gedrosians the tragedies of Euripides and Sophocles….Thanks to Alexander, Bactria and the Caucasus peoples worship the gods of Greece….He planted Greek institutions all across Asia, and thus overcame its wild and savage way of living….His enemies could not have been civilized if they had not been beaten."

Rough count of how many people were killed directly because of me in that life of Alexander. It may help to very roughly determine how many of those errors were paid for.

(Possible; I might ask my HS later if I)

Barsaentes side with Bessus and was put to death eventually.

Movie Parallels?

The movie showing me in A. & O. Mission Cleopatra had several parallels with my lives. So I'm checking out other movies about me (in other lives) to see if there are any similarities to be found.

Alexander The Great (1956)

00:14:17 and maybe someday one of us will write a book and be known as a pupil of Aristotle.

I did write a book (Simple Truths of Life; Vivien Leigh - Proof of Reincarnation - Preliminary Book; made a Russian translation of a very important book in my life - Thiaoouba Prophecy – Тиауба: Золотая Планета).

After I learned I was Alexander III of Macedon, naturally I learned that I was/am a pupil of Aristotle.

00:30:50 To trust no one and to learn how to be alone.

00:51:00 The speech and the surrounding details reminded me somewhat of what is happening in the country I was born in.

01:09:45 According to the movie executed several people. I will have to check historic records about that. The stoning to death did remind me of how I was killed as Hypatia… why it's obvious I (Hypatia) died for the error in Cleo's life, it's possible I could have suffered for other error(s) too then.

01:33:00 The speech about father – I am Alexander not my father! Reminded me how long time ago – before I knew about Thiaoouba – I didn't want to repeat the life of my father (parents in general) and then, some time after, I realized that I did exactly that – repeat their lives (of course, not in the exact same way).

01:37:00 The speech reminded me of Professor Dave's nonsense when he said to leave things for the adults or something like that. (I offered him to prove telekinesis is real, for one thing, and he showed his immaturity by calling me names and thinking himself an adult when he's acting like a child).

01:57:00 Crucifixion is shown of two men. I'm afraid I did actually use that awful thing in that life…

In Mary Magdalene's life I clearly was near Jesus who got crucified. I suffered too during that time – at least emotionally, psychologically. (#error)

02:04:00 Torture. Stretching of arms and legs. Again, reminds me of my Hypatia's death… one HS dream revealed to me I might have been aware of some things that were going on before I died.

02:13:27 Not yet! There's still so much to do…

These words are reflected in the similar thoughts I had whenever due to poor health I'd feel I could die at any time. At one time I wanted to finish my translation of Thiaoouba Prophecy; then I wanted to be able to finish writing my own book about my experiences with Thiaooubians; then I wished to be able to live till I finish writing about my experiences finding I was/am Vivien Leigh and how later I found many more of my past lives, which is very important because it shows how reincarnation works and that all of our actions and decisions have their consequences – good leads to good, and bad leads to bad events in our lives.

Throughout the movie the word 'boy' is used. I was once referred to by that word but in Russian – «мальчик». It was said in a negative way about me in the military checkup. Due to stuttering I was shy and awkward. That person made an error.

Alexander the Great (1964); 50 minute TV Movie with William Shatner.

9 minutes. The Persian leader quickly brought up the memory of the guy who resembled him in certain ways and who near Semenovskaya tried to ask for money (?) and he did that in a bad way as if I owed him something. I could have been hit by a car because of his destructions and because I didn't pay attention to the fact the green light wasn't on for me to walk across the other lane of the crossroad. (Светофор на Вельяминовской и Щербаковской ул.)

20-th minute. When we were little kids Anton and I used to fool around in the snow just like that. Throwing one another into the deep snow over our backs (don't know the word for it). I don't know anyone else (among the people I knew) who'd do that in Moscow or in the village.

38-th minute. "Boy King". The way it was said reminded me of the adult man who said «мальчик» (boy) about me in a way indicating 'too womanly' behavior (in his opinion; I was 18 then, and it was related to the army and health check up).

Alexander (2004)

35-36 minute shows a scene in which Philip and Olimpia have a fight in front of Alex (me) who screams for them to stop. Alex is 5 in the scene.

I was 5 when my father almost killed my mother and I got stutter. That scene quickly reminded me of that period and it's rather close (but also different).

2:50:-- Speech about libraries. I've give many Thiaoouba books to libraries in Moscow… if only they'd keep them…

3:08:50 A large ring was shown which reminded me of the one I saw in a dream that night (22.09.2024). The color represents the one I wanted to search for in the dream.

3:17:-- Talk about becoming fearless. It's a theme I noticed after publishing my book online; it had many truths about me which long time ago I wished would never surface – and there I was openly revealing them myself because I had grown stronger and wiser in certain aspects of life.

Then there's also talk about loneliness.

Then it's said the fires destroyed Ptolemy's memories of Alexander, along with other memories of ancient world, vanished. As Cleopatra I witnessed one of those fires.

Cleitus the Black killed in India in the movie. As VL I was born there. It seemed a bit peculiar before, but now it may start making sense.

Colin Farrell, who plays me in Alexander 2004, had an impact on my life long time ago. It was after I found out the truth about the cause of stammer. I watched a video (an interview maybe) about him on MTV(?) and he talked how he became an actor; how he used to watch all(?) movies – black and white too. I did the same thing and I remembered that. I also thought of acting back then, and it's another reason I remembered that video. He also talked about his relationship with a playboy model he met. In some way he may have added to my inspiration then.

Джентльмены Удачи

The notes from my diary on 31.12.2024 describe how I stumbled upon the first synchronicities with myself in this classic Soviet film.

А Демидова. Фамилия бабушки по маме. Лиза, сестра бабушки, тоже Демидова.

Евгений Леонов. Евгений

В начале фильма живёт с матерью.

8:35 Косой говорит. У одноклассника и школьного товарища была такая же кличка. Сейчас жалею, что иногда использовал её. Помойку его так прозвал мой друг А. из-за того, что промахивался забить футбольный мяч в ворота.

Говорит в проруби. Возможно, ничего особенного - недавно узнал в жизни Исиды родился где-то в созвездии рыб.

41:-- конный переулок д. 8. Возможно специально назвали так из-за Буцефалы.

49:-- квартира у отца тоже на четвертом этаже пятиэтажки и в том же месте.

01:07:-- «тоже учёный. 3 класса образования.» Было смешно.

Школа, 11 классов, но говорю про научный метод. Но я и не лезу туда, где точно знаний не имею.

Сцены на водоёме, где Доцентом был спрятан похищенный шлем, снимали на реке Македонке (приток Пехорки) в Раменском районе (с 4 мая 2019 г. — Раменский городской округ) Московской области. Возможно, специально выбрали реку с таким названием (Македонка и Александр Македонский) 49 дом и оказалось, что фильм имеет связь со мной.

Почему я вообще решил, что есть синхроничности? Да параллели были, но… Номер можно увидеть много где. Думаю, тут дело может быть в тех самых чувствах некой близости которые я испытывал видя название Клеопатра на imdb и читая про Александра Македонского, не зная в тех случаях, что это я.

Евгения Ивановича буквально заворачивают в ковер.

Тут очевидная параллель с моей жизнью Клеопатры.

Cleopatra

She was the second of Ptolemy XII Auletus's children. Her older sister, Berenike IV, had been born in Alexandria in 77 BC, probably to Auletus and his sister Cleopatra V Tryphaena.

Cleopatra VII Thea Philopater was born in early 69 BC (or late 70 BC), then three more children in close succession:

Arsinoe IV (born in 65 BC),
Ptolemy XIII Philopater (born in 61 BC) and Ptolemy XIV (born in 59 BC).

Ruler of Egypt (52–30 bce) [22 years], as well as of Cyprus (47–30 bce) [17 years],
Libya, and Coele-Syria (37–30 bce) [7 years]

The numbers representing how many years Cleopatra ruled over countries are found in several of my lives.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ptolemy_XIV_Philopator

Ptolemy XIII of Egypt died on January 13, 47 BC (aged 14).

Ptolemy XIV Philopator reportedly died on 26 July 44 BC. (exactly 2061 years after my dad died)

Both dates (13, 26) have played huge roles in my current life and in my others. (#curious)

I've had a dream in which it was said that Vivien Leigh was Cleopatra. There are many ways to think of that dream. Was it even true in any way? Anything is possible now that life has led me to my 2 past lives. So I'd like to see if some synchronicities can be found between Cleopatra and myself (Vivien Leigh, Michele Avila, Evgeny Meshkov + possibly Emma Hamilton if I'll have more confirmations I was her)

The problem is we live many lives to learn more and more. So if I continue to discover my lives, then it becomes harder to tell synchronicities from the fact that many people will be experiencing similar things in their lives. But maybe it's about chances. Like there are 365 days in a year, and 7 days in a week, and 12 months in a year – so what are the chances many people will have important events happening on Friday the 13 and in January?

Speaking of that dream. I had in on October 8, 2023. And after that dream on that same night, I had the dream in the mirror maze in which I saw myself as that dark haired woman with large breasts. Just thinking if the 2 dreams could be related… could that dark haired woman be Cleopatra?

Now, there's a bust of Cleopatra and on it Cleopatra's breasts could be of quite close size to the size of the breasts of the woman in the dream. The question is who made that bust and when, and how accurately it represents Cleopatra?

But then that woman appeared as rather good looking (not a model, but she looked okay), and I hear that people say Cleopatra had some issues with looks… I'd need to check on that. I'd also need to ask my HS in a lucid dream to show me again that dark haired woman. There's a Roman sculpture of Cleopatra and the face looks different to what I saw in my dream. It should be said the shape of the face of that sculpture looks different to what the dark bust with large breasts shows, which is also closer to how the dark woman looked like in my dream.

Then there's a painting of Cleopatra and she has red hair in it and face is clearly different to what I saw in my dream.

It should be said some say Cleopatra was beautiful. Others say something else. I think here I'll just have to rely on (lucid) true dreams.

Wiki says "Coins dated to the period of her marriage to Antony, which also bear his image, portray the queen as having a very similar aquiline nose and prominent chin as that of her husband. These similar facial features followed an artistic convention that represented the mutually-observed harmony of a royal couple.

I did think before if maybe the image on the coins was artistic for some reason (e.g. how statues of Thiaooubians in Mu were artistic rather than realistic. If so, then the fact that statues of Cleopatra look like her image on the coins could be explained by sculptures using Cleopatra's image on the coins. For now it's all just a speculation.

I played Cleopatra in VL life. I've also played Emma Hamilton and it seems like I could have been her in my past life too.

According to Russian Wikipedia Cleopatra was born around 13 of January in 69 BC. But English writes it as Early 69 BC or Late 70 BC. Died on 10 August 30 BC (aged 39)

Born in Alexandria. I could have been named Alexander. (13.10.2024 – As Hypatia I also lived in Alexandria.)

I'll mention there was a guy who had the middle name of Alexander (C. Alexander S.). His last name also corresponds to the one of the actress who played Ophelia in Hamlet alongside Laurence Olivier. The thing is he clearly didn't believe my Thiaoouba experiences and eventually he decided to go all in and openly wrote many nasty things about me, including wishing to do me physical harm.

Was Queen of the Ptolemaic Kingdom of Egypt (Ptolemaic Empire was an Ancient Greek state based in Egypt during the Hellenistic period). Was a member of the Ptolemaic dynasty. Her first language was Koine Greek, and she was the only known Ptolemaic ruler to learn the Egyptian language.

As VL I was interested in Greek mythology. In this life I was kinda interested in Egypt. Even thought about learning to read hieroglyphs but thankfully decided not to pursue that idea.

Cleopatra VII Thea Philopator (Cleopatra "father-loving goddess" | "goddess who loves her father"). "Theia" was the name I gave to the Rendering Engine in my application to build 3d models (I've stopped working on that project). The names are close and it's not the first time I encounter such things – e.g. in VL and MA lives.

"Theia was the Titan goddess of sight (thea) and the shining ether of the bright, blue sky (aithre). She was also, by extension, the goddess who endowed gold and silver with their brilliance and intrinsic value. Theia bore the Titan Hyperion three shining children--Helios the Sun, Eos the Dawn, and Selene the Moon. Her name was derived from the Greek words thea "sight" and theiazô "prophesy". She was also named Aithre (Aethra) "Blue-Sky" and Euryphaessa "Wide-Shining"."

People use the 2 words almost interchangeably https://www.reddit.com/r/namenerds/comments/do1kqu/baby_girl_due_in_2_weeks_thea_or_theia/

Maybe nothing. 'Time to Say Goodbye' by Sarah Brightman is the song I sometimes remembered when was thinking that I had done all I could for Thiaoouba and it was time to do something else. Then I found my 2 past lives. Sarah Brightman's Christine played Cleopatra in the music video of 'The Phantom of the Opera". Also Christine was extremely close to her father. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Christine_Daa%C3%A9

Кристина (Christina) is the name of that Ostankino girl who walked shelter dogs on her weekends. Dogs relate to my life, to Vivien life, if I was Emma Hamilton she was also portrayed with 2 cute dogs. (13.04.2024. There's a dream a person had about me (Cleopatra VII Thea) who gave a dog a drug and then killed it. https://www.reddit.com/r/Dreams/comments/6hpxbz/dream_of_cleopatra/ I found it of interest that of all the animals that person's dream just had to involve a dog – you should already know how that word, but in Russian, negatively affected my childhood. I'm curious if the dream could have been true… it could explain why I had all those synchronicities with dogs and later I was called by a certain word because 2 people thought my stuttering somehow resembled a dog's barking or whatever. Also, if the dream was true, it doesn't mean I harmed a dog in Cleopatra's life; it could have happened in another life of mine. In Michel Desmarquet's true dream about Thao's past life he also saw a statue resembling Thao and not her past life's physical body – which, I must note, did look similar to her present one).

Watched the 2004 movie 'The Phantom of the Opera'. Liked it. Gerald Butler plays the Phantom, who is really a man of flesh and blood. Some things may be very distant reflections of my life. Interestingly someone on quora.com compared the Phantom to Elliot Rodger, whose book I had to read to help myself better deal with my problems.

But, obviously, all of this can be just coincidences. But the reason I even mention such possible syncs is because I read that in the Ancient Egypt people believed or knew there were 2 souls and they believed or knew there is reincarnation, and so they said our lives were intricately intertwined – or something like that.

Cleopatra, then 14 years of age, would have traveled with the Roman expedition into Egypt; years later, Antony would profess that he had fallen in love with her at this time

Some people think that Octavian's (Augustus) narrative of Cleopatra as of a beautiful seductress may have downplayed her competence and significance as a ruler.

This bit reminded me of how in VL life I didn't like when people called me pretty, beautiful, because it as if took away from my intelligence and personal achievements.

In The Streetcar Blanche is compared to the queen of the Nile.

Caesar appointed Cleopatra's 12-year-old brother, Ptolemy XIV, as joint ruler with the 22-year-old Cleopatra in a nominal sibling marriage, but Cleopatra continued living privately with Caesar.

21-22 years is about when in VL life I started my theater/movie career.

Cleopatra's Gate in Tarsos (now Tarsus, Mersin, Turkey), is the site where she met Mark Antony in 41 BC.

Antony was 53 years of age when he died by killing himself after hearing the 'news' of Cleopatra's death. In VL life I died at 53.

Cleopatra told Octavian: "I will not be led in a triumph" (said to be the exact words of Cleopatra). Reminded me a little of my VL's words: "I won't be ignored".

Cleopatra's lovers Julius Caesar and Mark Antony.

There was a time I was walking outside in Moscow and heard how a mother called her child Mark. It stuck in my mind because it's a rare name to hear in Russia.

Gaius Julius Caesar Augustus (Гай Ю́лий Це́зарь Октавиа́н А́вгуст) was one of key reasons for Cleopatra's death on 10 August 30 BC. Maybe just a coincidence but when you have synchronicities leading you to your many lives anything is possible.

And Octavian died himself on 19 of August, 14 AD.

Purple color. Cleopatra had purple sails on her ship. There's a picture of Michele Avila, of about 9 years, in which I wear a purple garment with shapes. In this current life I like purple color and I have some purple cloths too. In my childhood I used to have almost full purple cloths too.

On 23 February 33 BCE, the Queen of Egypt, Cleopatra VII, issued a royal ordinance granting.

33. 23 of February is The Defender of the Fatherland Day (День защитника Отечества) in Russia, but I don't know if it's of any connection.

26.

At one moment in my life (it was May 27) I met with a girl by the name of Maria (Mary) in Tsaritsyno (Царицыно). Царица means a queen. It was a rather important event for me because before that I'd not ventured too far away from my house due to health problems – for 4 years, in fact.

Make up. People say Vivien Leigh could apply make up herself and was skillful. Cleopatra wore make up too.

Also, as mentioned earlier, it's been several lives ago that I stopped caring about make up too much.

From spiritual perspective it makes sense that after using make up you start to learn a thing or two about it and when to use it – if at all. (26.04.2024 – it's possible I lived a life before Cleopatra – around 1300 years before Cleo's birth – and I also wore make up then)

Since I decided to report everything I notice – no matter if it's related or not to reincarnation atm – I have to report that my first tenants threw out the furniture I didn't allow them to. When it was time for them to move out, they paid for that furniture by leaving me their carpets they bought and laid on the floor of my apartment (they also paid some money on top).

It remains to be seen if it's somehow related to the carpet episode from my life of Cleopatra.

Living in Russia, carpets did appear in my life here and there in other very minor and possibly unrelated episodes.

Apparently, my past life of Alexander had an impact on Ceasar who, at 33, decided to make the history remember him. (Julius Caesar crying in front of a statue of Alexander because he "would never be as great")

It's of interest because Ceasar would meet me (Alexander) as a new incarnation – Cleopatra who became his lover and bore a child to him. He didn't know who I was in the past life, of course. (#curious)

In a way, it's another instance of seeing life from a different vantage point. I was close to someone who had somewhat similar desires (there were many differences too, I'm sure) to what I had had just a couple of centuries ago.

Dresses as Venus in a painting.

As Emma Hamilton I was a model for painters and posed as many mythic characters. I even posed as my old self – Mary Magdalene.

As Vivien Leigh I played myself in Emma's and Cleopatra's lives (albeit the stories deviated from the historic truths at times)

Brother and sister marriages in Cleo's family.

TLDR, there's a streamer called Nastya. She once said the man she lived with was her brother – the way she said that didn't appear she was lying. It was part of reason I kinda got some feelings for her (it's silly to have something of a little crush on a girl you don't know but that's what happened). Much, much later it turned out they are not brother and sister, and were married, and now have a child.

The name Kiril also appears in my past life of Hypatia.

Cleopatra: The Egyptian Queen. The Entire Life Story

I will not be triumphed over.
I've mentioned it elsewhere.

They write she was beautiful and her name is synonymous with s*x. The dark-haired woman from the maze matches the description. But I do know some people say the description of Cleopatra can be wrong.

P 4: Her father was called Ptolemy XIII Auletus. There's an error, he was XII (12 not 13)
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ptolemy_XII_Auletes

P 11 talks about my interests and studies in my Cleo's life.
Noting I'm interested in many things. (13.04.2024. The same was in Mary Magdalene's life; In Hypatia's life I was, apparently, interested in quite a few sciences too.)
I had a strange dream about plague long time ago.

P 12. Cleopatra was the Queen of Egypt at 18.
In this life I found the truth about stuttering at 18. It changed my life.

P 13. Ptolemy XIII was about 8 years younger than Cleopatra.

P 18. People had antipathy toward Cleopatra. Ptolemy XIII and his regents were the source of that.
There's a light resemblance of a similar situation right now. In regards to some people in TPXP group who misunderstand me and think and spread (purposefully or not) false information about me.

P 19: Cleopatra was 22 when she first met with Ceasar (carpet). The next morning she was made a queen again by Ceasar.

22 is roughly the age when in my VL life my movie/theater career started. Both events played a big role in life.

If I was her, I can actually see myself doing something so unorthodox. In pursuit of sharing TP I made some unusual attempts. (#curious)

P 19. Plutarch: "interaction with her was captivating, and her appearance, along with her persuasiveness in discussing and her character that accompanied interaction with her was captivating, and her appearance, along with her persuasiveness in discussing and her character that accompanied"

P 19. The author speaks about courage and boldness of Cleo.

If I was her, then it's of interest to me. I had to gain courage telling the truth about my experiences with Thiaoouba – but it relates more to knowing I'd be not believed and so also lonely (no gf or family). But I was also afraid of certain situations and people. Of course, there are many reasons for all of that…

P 24. When Ceasar and Cleopatra were under siege (Achillas with 20k+ people) they had 4000 soldiers in the 4 legions.

20 & 4

P 24. Cleopatra suggests to Ceasar burning fleet so that wreckage prevents Achillas and his men from attacking from the water. Interesting.

Sadly, the wind fanned the fire, spreading it to the library at Alexandria.

https://www.quora.com/What-really-happened-to-the-Library-of-Alexandria

People don't know for sure who's to blame for the distraction of so many valuable texts.

I noted that I had to deal with libraries in my life, giving them copies of my Russian translation of Thiaoouba Prophecy. Many libraries got rid of them and the fate of those books is unknown. I understand the importance of keeping knowledge preserved and safe. Maybe there is something here if I was Cleo.

https://qr.ae/psTAvQ

Paul Kraase mentioned several facts about the Bibliotheca Alexandrina which opened in Alexandria in 2002. Its shelves can hold 8 million books and the main reading room covers 220,000 square feet.

I was 14 then and the date is important to me. 8, 2s & 20s can be observed again.

P 26. Probably nothing. Cleopatra ordered digging of wells in the city for Ganymedes (Arinsoe's tutor) was injecting seawater into the fresh water canals. Just reminded me of how in this life, when I was a child, I was digging dugout house and then at least 3 holes in the ground. Some of them were dug with my village friends.

P 27. Cleopatra showcases herself as Living Isis, mother of Horus, the sun god.

When I did my first and only practice of remote viewing, I had a warm feeling in my chest area. Then it turned out the picture was of the Pyramid of the Sun in Teotihuacan.

Pyramid could also be some connection to Cleopatra.

This is good time to note how in my childhood I saw the pictures of Anubis and I think they raised mixed feelings in me. There were some traces of fright too.

P 27. Cleopatra took 400 Roman ships, along with her own pleasure barque.

Maybe me thinking too much of it. Michel Desmarquet was taken by Thiaooubians on his journey on 26 June of 1987. There are 400 days between that date and my birthday on 30.07.1988. He returned 9 days after on July 5, 1987 – almost 20 years after my death in VL life (19 years, 11 months, 26/27 days).

26 itself has played a big role in my life. So has 27.

P 28. Cleopatra married Ceasar who already had a wife.

P 29. They mentioned the stigma of 'home wrecking' which stained Cleopatra's image. 'Home wrecking' are the words used by the person who generously shared what Tamara said about me in my Vivien life – which was of great help to me for it was yet another piece of evidence I was VL. (#reflection-life)

P 30. Caesareum.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Caesareum_of_Alexandria

There are 2 obelisks – Cleopatra's needles – which stand now in Central Park in New York City and on the Thames Embankment, in London. In VL life I lived in both cities. It's possible I saw those obelisks in person too then.

Nelson's name is written on the plaque of Cleopatra's needle in London, which was gifted in 1819 by Muhammad Ali - Ottoman Albanian governor and de facto ruler of Egypt from 1805 to 1848.

13.04.2024. I was killed at the steps of Caesareum in Hypatia's life; probably for the crime of ordering to kill Arsinoe IV.

P 30 Mark Antony fell under the spell of an actress.

P 34. Cleopatra wore cosmetics but also gauzy gowns. Reminded me of what Tamara wrote about my visit to her when I was Vivien Leigh. I had similar clothes on.

P 34. Cleopatra stayed in Rome for 2 years. Unfortunately for me she was carried in a litter by slaves. (#error) – was it paid for?

She was exotic, beautiful & one of a kind.

Also, she stayed at Ceasar's Greek styled garden estate. In VL like I was interested in Greek mythology.

She held frequent dinners. Brightest minds of Rome were invited to come and have philosophical debates. This reminds me of first of all myself who's interested in life; also about that philosophy woman near the Preobrazenskaya ploshad metro – near the statue. This would imply, if I was Cleopatra, that I already had some spiritual knowledge? So I had lived before and had several lives at least.

P 37. Cleopatra: "All strange and terrible events are welcome, but comforts we despise."

(This is too close to home in my current life… if I was Cleopatra then I've no surprises about my soul's lives)

P 37. Caesar, descendant of Venus. Had a friend Венера (Venus) on vk.com who was Russian and lived in London. She was the one whom I'd ask to add me back as admin to groups about movies and tv series.

P 38 may explain, if I was Cleopatra, why I had to be born in modern day Russia and have no means of leaving it for another country.

Monarchy, dictatorship, power etc. I may have tasted or was in literal arms' reach to those things myself and now live on the other side of the barricades, learning what it's like. (#error) if the speculations of scholars are true.

P 42 Ceasar had epilepsy. Reminded me of how my mother had to deal with it many years ago – before I was born from what I know (don't want to ask her and possibly upset or bring bad memories)

P 45 Cleopatra ordered to kill her brother Ptolemy XIV. He was strangled to death. (#error). As Vivien I suffocated. As Michele I was drowned. In this life I also had breath problems – still do. Could be connected to some of those events.

Noting - There was a dream in which Thao told me I killed my mother (in another life of course).

P 48 speaks of Tarsus, city in modern day Turkey. Mentioned it elsewhere.

P 48 It's often mentioned Cleopatra was reincarnation of the goddess Isis. Unless Isis was a real person it's impossible. It's just interesting I have found my past lives and know a bit about the actual process of reincarnation.

P 50. Mentions hosts. A theme common in VL life. Cleopatra told Antony he was a perfect host, simply presenting the true face of who he really was (when she accepted his invitation to come to Forum of Tarsus. It was the third day. On first two Antony would come to her pleasure barge)

P 53: Cleopatra: "Be it known that we, the greatest, are misthought."

I don't think of myself as greatest or whatever, but my experience with Thiaoouba and my lives are shining quite brightly. I am 'misthought' often by people who for some reason create their own versions or ideas about me. (#reflection-life)

P 53 compares Cleopatra with an actress.

P 54 mentions licentious parties that Antony and Cleopatra visited

P 58 Fulvia, Antony's wife, was ill and depressed. So, I was sleeping with other women's husbands long time ago before my VL life. But surely I must have paid the penalty for those errors in 2000 years?

P 60 mentions Cleopatra exchanged many letters with Antony. Possible additional connection to the fact that I wanted to learn to write when was a child.

P 63. Antioch, city which Cleopatra visited and where Mark also was present, is located now in Turkey. It's yet another connection to Turkey. I can also wonder atm how Natasha is related to all this; what lives did she live?

P 65 In his will Antony bequeathed everything he owned – including much Roman territory – to Cleopatra and their progeny.

This reminded me of how that one man - Sir Ernest Davis – whom I met in Vivien Leigh life bequeathed some of his possessions to VL (brewery shares worth of nearly 20000 pounds at the time) (#reflection-life)

P 67 says Cleopatra was beloved and loyal queen. She treated her subjects with fairness and open hand.

P 68 Cleopatra starts building 'House of Eternity' – a tomb in Alexandria. It was a tradition, but Antony's soldiers may have seen this as a sign of Cleopatra preparing to lose. Many deserted to Octavian's camp.

P 71. Cleopatra tried to keep Antony happy. Then she also had coming-of-age celebration for Caesarion, who was 16.

Coming of age relates to Gone with the Wind and my current life's experiences. In MA life I was 16 when I had a chance to see who Karen truly was.

P 72. Antony refused to kill Cleopatra to be pardoned, and Cleopatra did the same. They were loyal to one another.

P 75 Antony died in Cleopatra's arms after he tried to kill himself, thinking Cleopatra was dead. She went mad with grief, tearing hair and smearing herself with his blood.

Maybe nothing bad my MA's hair were torn before murder.

P 75. They write that a venomous snake bit Cleopatra on her breast. But some say it was poison.

P 78. Cleopatra improved lives of common Egyptians. (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 78. Mentions Cleopatra had reputation for sexual excess. It also says it's a lie because she had 2 husbands. Regardless, I did have sexual excess in my Vivien Leigh life; in my current life lack off s*x, while having high sexual drive, is one of main reasons for my troubles; it's possible in other lives I also had high s*x drives.

Cleopatra: A Biography by Duane W. Roller

(I'll have to learn a lot about the historic period before Jesus. I may return to my notes later when I have more knowledge; some opinions may get revised.

And as always, I'm noting all that I spot. Maybe some things I note are just coincidences and were not causes by some laws surrounding reincarnation.)

(The majority of the literary material comes from Plutarch, Josephus, and Dio.)

History, sir, will tell lies as usual. —GENERAL BURGOYNE IN GEORGE BERNARD SHAW'S The Devil's Disciple.

As VL I played in several of George's plays, including Ceasar and Cleopatra.

Page IX talks about the ceremony of 34 BC. I was 35 and ruled Egypt for 17 years. Ptolemaic kingdom – established 270 years previously by Ptolemy I, who was my companion in my Alexander's life – was restored to its former glory. We all know what happened 4 years later.

I was 35 when I found I was Vivien Leigh and then found many more of my past lives.

17 is the year I died as Missy. I was referred to as a 'queen' who was dethroned by Karen Severson in an interview (they cut my hair before drowning me).

27 number is one of synchronicities I have found with IT movie.

270 is 27 times 10. As noted elsewhere, the Ptolemaic kingdom started relatively shortly after my death in Alexander's life and ended with me when I was Cleopatra. (It's Hellenistic period which covers the time between my Alex's death and my Cleopatra's death.)

P 1. The two partners in that life were the two most important Romans of the period. It's a contrast to my Alex's life. (#curious)

P 2. My past life of Alex may have had an effect in molding my Cleopatra's life.

P 4. Parthian expeditions which were failures. Those territories used to be part of Alex's empire. As they say, you can't take it with you.

P 5 says I made attempts to flee to India. As VL I was born there. As Alex I reached the Hyphasis (modern Beas) river in India before turning back.

P 6. The author writes that I as Cleo did not approach Caesar wrapped in a carpet, was not a seductress, did not use the charm to persuade certain men to lose their judgment, and did not die by the bite of an asp. Father of Caesarion is also questioned.

The woman in my maze dream was Cleopatra. I asked many times that question. Unless the body I saw was a mix of several of my past lives – which I think is unlikely because the question to my HS was to change my body to that which I had in one of my past life (not lives; in one) – the seductress part must have been true. If so then the author is wrong here.

It's possible some other points may be true – which is something I might ask about my Higher Self later. I am interested to know the truth no matter what it is.

P 7 personal physician Olympos. Olympias was mother in Alex's life.

P 9. Bill Nelson drew maps (in relation to Cleo) for Oxford University Press. In Emma's life Horatio Nelson played a big role.

P 15 Ptolemy (the first) was my Cleo's great-great-great-great-great-great-grandfather, a childhood friend of me as Alexander, and also one of major advisors and a military commander.

9-th male tracing back.

P 21. Gold sarcophagus of Alex was melted down to pay Ptolemy's debts (Cleo's father).

P 23 meanwhile the romans

I don't find the series of events 'comical' (about Berenike IV). 2000+ years since those times bore its spiritual fruits.

P 24. I've stated before that '14 years of age' have played its role several times in my life.

P 27. Our titles were "new gods" and "loving siblings" (Theoi Neoi Philadelphoi).

P 29. The siege of Tyre took 7 months (Alex's life)

P 30. Alexandria was formally founded on 7 April 331 B.C.

8 years later I died in Alex's life.

I'll note that the book talks a lot about the time when I (Cleopatra) was Alexander, and it talks about me in that life too. One life influenced the other.

Monarchy being rejuvenating through my Alex personality. The attempts at democracy failed, the book says. I'll note that Thiaoouba book gave me new views on how the country should be governing itself (I wrote about it in the Manifesto chapter of my book 'Simple Truths of Life'). Again, I'm not surprised that I was all those leaders; those lives must have given me experiences and knowledge needed to see the truths of what Thao taught us via Michel Desmarquet about the best and only proper way to govern a country.

It's of notice the book says monarchy of proper sort. Technically, the method Thao talked about may be seen as a 'proper sort' of monarchy, for the King would often appoint a successor – usually his son (the council of 7 had to approve him). (#curious)

P 31. Cleopatra VII's acquisition of Levantine regions. As Mary M. I lived in that region and the events in that life were of great importance.

P 32. Alexander and the respect for the cult of Ptah. May have some connection to Nefertiti and/or Akhenaten.

P 43 Continued my father's attempt to restore intellectual prominence of the city. (#spiritual-knowledge) and aligns with my previous lives (before Cleo's).

P 45 Nikolaos of Damascus was the member of Cleo's court https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nicolaus_of_Damascus . I'm noting this down because Nikolay (Kolya), someone I know personally but very little, was recently found to be George Cukor – a friend from Vivien Leigh's life.

A medical writer. Maybe nothing but physiology was of interest in my Missy's life.

New Latin which could have been useful (the writer's assumption) in reading the transcript of the trial father's banker Rabirius Postumus and senatorial actions relating to the Egyptian kingdom.

I thought about, and actually started, learning Hebrew long time ago in order to read the Bible. Soon I abandoned the idea due to various reasons. Egyptian hieroglyphs were of interest to me also. In general, I'd like to learn more languages (if I have time and the knowledge will advance my spirituality somehow or will be of other uses). Greek could be one of them.

(Note: once, hopefully, I find all my past lives prior to Cleopatra's it'd be interesting to learn if in those lives I spoke the languages I learnt as Cleo; … of course, there are many reasons to learn languages that [probably] don't relate to reincarnation in a bit (and the book states those possible reasons); just curious).

P 49. Baldness and dandruffs – both have relation, unfortunately. It should be noted some people say it was another Cleopatra who wrote Cosmetics (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cleopatra_the_Physician)

P 51. It's said I'd take an almost sensuous pleasure in learning and scholarship.

The base idea of lust for learning defines me quite well (if we remove all the obstacles I've met in my life), and it's also describes me in Mary Magdalene's life when I said "I want to understand all things, just as they are!" (#curious) – for now it's not clear if it relates to spiritual knowledge, psyche, something else, or to many things in various degrees.

P 53, 58. The region of Thebes is mentioned. It played an important role for me in that life. That region also played its roles in the past life of Nefertiti.

Ptah is also mentioned again.

P 70. Suggestion of a parallel to Isis

P 71. Cicero had a dislike for me; [perceived?] arrogance is stated. Cicero never received the copies of books he wanted. Not sure what went down there.

P 72. Just in case I'll note Venus references and golden statue of me. Venus has appeared before in my studies of my incarnational path.

Subtly connecting Isis (me, as it turned out) to Roman religion. (Venus is again of subtle connection here)

Temple of Isis which Ceasar may have planned.

Anthony tried to place a royal diadem on Ceasar's head; suggestion I could be involved somehow in those events. If so, then it may be another connection why I have to live in modern Russian experiencing its serious issues caused by the current government. Could be looking at life from another perspective and also suffering the consequences of old decisions (#error)

P 74. Departed Rom in mid-April. Perhaps nothing; just noting in Angelo's life I died on 15 of April.

Killed Ptolemy XIV. Obviously huge (#error). They allege a poison may have been used. So far it's not clear if I have paid for that error. And I still have to find 27 of my past lives.

P 75 ships damaged by storm and seasickness. The later used to be a part of me in some other lives; but I think it relates to the physical body more than to anything else.

P 77. Hera and Zeus are mentioned. In Alex's life Hera's name comes up (because of Heracles). I was 28 then (when sailed to Tarsos; a major even in that life). Then it's written about occasional contact with Antonius for 14 years. 14 & 28 have appeared in at least several of my past lives and had a major role to play in the current one.

Theatrical sense (the way I sailed to Tarsos). I mentioned before the parallel to the lives of Emma and Vivien. Attitudes in Emma's life actually seem to be of big connection to that episode. (#psyche-data-astro)?

Acquitted charge of aiding Cassius. In this life there were moments when people thought I did something wrong/bad when it was someone else, not me.

Murder of Arsinoe was a huge (#error) I paid for – I'm sure due to many parallels - in Hypatia's life.

P 78. Agreed to release the priest of Artemis who acknowledged Arsinoe as queen.

A suppliant claiming to be brother Ptolemy XIII (who is said to have died at the end of Alexandrian War) was eliminated. (#error). It's the first time I learn of this.

P 81. A matter of heir. It's mentioned that for a king (male) it's small personal involvement. For a queen (female) it means devoting a better part of the year to that process; health could be not at its best and she'd be vulnerable to usurpation.

I thought of why in Mu they seemingly only chose males as leaders. Then they'd usually have the son of the King to be the next King (provided the council of 7 approves). I thought that pregnancy may be the reason why females were seemingly not chosen as leaders. Duane seems to have the same idea. (#curious)

P 82. 8 boars for a party of 12. Maybe nothing, just noting boars have played some roles in this life.

P 92 returning the Ptolemaic Empire to its maximum territorial limits.

Noting this because there can be a psychic connection here: (#psyche-data) or (#psyche-data-astro), combined maybe with psychotypical body (I assume for now that part of us gets populated with psychic data regarding the surroundings we find ourselves in our current life), for in this life I'd daydreamed sometimes about Russia being restored to its former (e.g. maximum) territorial limits. Also knowing I was Alexnader of Macedon it becomes clear where those ideas come from.

I must add my phantasies sometimes involved other regions (including the whole of Africa and its surroundings) and other planets; dreams of visiting other start systems were not missed also.

Some territories were leased from me. Don't know if there's any connection to how I have to lease my apartment to be able to have time (and some money) for my spiritual studies.

P 95 the revenues from the balsam and bitumen of Judaea.

(Today is October 15, 2024. Had a dream in which there was a narrative of me as Cleopatra)

Bitumen (битум) is another piece of synchronicity with me. In my childhood I noticed a large chunk of bitumen lying outside the fence of my neighbor in the village. It was in the backyard. I saw that chunk quite often because we not only walked on that back road quite often, but at pretty much the very spot where that chunk was I have experienced something quite important in my current life… I tried my best not to reveal the place where my first unorthodox sexually-oriented experience took place*, but I must report on my findings because such details may prove to be important in the study of reincarnation. (#curious) That sexual experience had a huge impact on the choices I'd make later in life and what consequences they brought.

While this episode may not seem much, I've actually had a lot of similar cases when I'd be close to something which played a big role in one of my past lives; I've mentioned them before.

*(because I don't wanna bring possible troubles to another person; but technically, it's that person who offered/asked/begged me try that, so… maybe he doesn't even give a dn if others know or not, I've no idea... At the end of the day, we were just kids and didn't have a good idea (true for me at least) what we were doing. Soon it was clear we like women – as it should be – and that's what important. In all honesty I should probably stop writing these clarifications here; given the treatment I received from those people it's amazing I care so much for their well-being… just as I did in my Missy's life and look where that [almost literally] led me…)

around late 37 or early 36 B.C. began to double-date the coinage with a new Year 1 equivalent to my (Cleo's) traditional Year 16.

Just noting it in case the numerology may be of some connection to my Missy's age.

P 96 has a very important information. It says another child of mine (3-rd son) was born in probably the summer of 36 BC.

The question I asked my Higher Self on 21.03.2024 (with an update on 24.04.2024) regarding the black-haired beautiful woman with large breasts I saw in my dream on October 8 of 2023 eventually revealed that I saw my past physical body of Cleopatra and the date in which I looked like that was 36 B.C (211 in the Ancient Egyptian calendar led me to that date and the two numbers actually play a big part in my current life). I was ~33 years of age then – my beloved and favorite number which has been a companion of mine not just in my current life of Evgeny (Zhenya).

The point of all this is that the breasts were quite roundish – perfect, in a way, for that large size (And it's my opinion, of course. I was looking at myself in the mirror, to give you some ideas about the angles and how I saw myself in that dream). I'd think sometimes if the breasts I had in that life always had that shape; then I thought maybe they were like that due to pregnancy – online search into the topic suggested it might have been the case and now I learn I did bear a child in that year. (#curious)

P 97 Brought money and clothing for Antonius' troops.

It's not about me, but I'll just note his mission was to avenge the death of Crassus and thousands of his men, and Antony lost even more. It relates to spiritually and the Universal Law of which both of us clearly didn't know in those lives. You can't expect good results (in the greater end) from bringing violence (Thao taught that Michel Desmarquet and I remember her words about Napoleon and Hitler quite well – "violence is not a solution"). Revenge is violence and so it's no surprise his expedition into Parthian territory had failed.

convenient tears, mood changes, and embarkation on a weight-loss program. It's what Plutarch had to say.

Not sure about the weight loss; in my dream the physical body was quite slim.

Tears and mood changes remind me of my Vivien's life and the character of Scarlett O'Hara.

P 99 has a lot of interesting content to think about, and many mentioned things may be of connection to my other lives I lived after Cleopatra's; I'll just mention me being dressed as Isis – playing myself basically in Cleopatra's life as I did in Emma's life (e.g. Mary Magdalene painting) and in Vivien's (Emma and Cleopatra). (#curious)

P 100. Took the title Philopatris ("She Who Loves Her Country").

P 103. attempted to restrain rapacious royal officials who were harassing farmers, and distributed grain from the royal storehouses. (#spiritual-knowledge) I presume. Given I had been a king and queen before it's not surprising I could act against those greedy officials.

accused of omitting the Jewish community of Alexandria in the program of famine relief. Duane writes it's hardly believable.

Don't know what actually happened. All I know is I was Mary of Magdala, a first category creature, living amongst Jewish people several dozen years after I died as Cleopatra.

P 104 Antonius set the task of eliminating piracy on me and Archelaos of Kappadokia. Results aren't well known.

Maybe it's nothing, but I'll note that I had to deal with piracy living in Russia. We had lots of pirated VHS tapes, CDs and DVDs. Later licensed disks started to appear slowly.

I had lots of pirated software too before I slowly replaced it with either the licensed versions (Windows 7, later upgraded to latest versions) or I started using free alternatives (e.g. Krita, Gimp in place of Photoshop; Blender instead of 3ds Max and Maya). Now I don't have any pirated software by choice on my laptop.

P 106 Year 1 (51 B.C.) to Year 22 (30 B.C.)

P 107. Chelidon was one of the court eunuchs.

In Emma's life one was training me in singing.

Theon was the official in charge of current business, a chief of staff. He implemented the royal orders.

I'll note my Hypatia's father was called Theon.

P 109 the Island of Pharos. Darks Souls games have been playing a rather large role in my life and the second one had item called the Pharros' Lockstone.

Reconstructed https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Heptastadion . Its length was about 1260 meters (180*7) (it says 1.2km in the article). It's the distance from the road to the start of my village. That distance is something I used to

(There's a map called "Plan_of_Alexandria_c_30_BC_Otto_Puchstein_1890s_EN". I overlay it over the Google Earth's view of my village, resizing the image for it to be to scale; it points north; I put the place I died as Hypatia about on top of my village house. It was interesting to get idea of just how large the city was back then. Just today I realized that the borders of Alexandria touch the borders of both Malie and Bol'shie Gorky – in 3 spots. Maybe it's nothing. And of course, Alexandria itself was much, much larger than those two villages.)

P 111 says that Alexander (me) marked out the temple of Isis (also me) in Alexandria. I as Cleopatra was buried near it. (#curious)

P 113. Parallelism with Isis. Child living with father absent. It may be of notice in some of my lives my fathers were absent at certain moments for one reason or another.

P 115. Attested as Isis from as early as 47/46 BC. That year in that life I became a single mother; same is said of Isis. (#reflection-life) but I do remember many things may be not [exactly] true in regards to Isis.

I was also 22/23 years old in that year.

The Shrine of Isis was taken over by swarms of bees.

Maybe nothing, but then it was Ira who had a bee stuck in her hair and I took it off, getting bit in the process by the bee. I'm writing this note mainly because a person of the same name – maybe written and spelled differently – was a lady in waiting who departed along with me as Cleo and Charmion.

P 116 lightning struck out statues before the Battle of Actium. It was seen as ominous sign.

P 117 This Herod the Great I as Cleopatra had problems with is the one who ordered the murders of 2606 children (Thiaoouba, p. 142)

P 120. According to Hero I as Cleo tried to seduce him to further the [territorial] needs… He evaded the solicitations (and considered killing me).

I'll say that ~2000 years later Kenneth Tynan – someone I also had problems with - would say I as Vivien tried to sleep with him; he refused. The two events match and could both be true; They actually match my somewhat frivolous attitude towards s*x in other lives, including my current life's earlier years too.

Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding s*x. (#reflection-life)

Later the books names 36 BC as the year that attempt of seduction might have taken place. I've already mentioned the significance of that year to me.

P 127 four children ranged in age from 7 to 17 at the end of the reign.

P 129 categorized along with Medea as a dangerous sorceress. There's a painting of me in Emma Hamilton's life portraying Medea.

The propaganda said the only goal was conquering Rome. Probably wasn't; but it may be the penalty for [possible] (#error)(s) done in Alexander's life (I haven't yet read my biography of that past life; I can't say atm if certain decisions and desires made by me in that life were justifiable or not)

This reminds me of my Missy's fate; when people accused and killed me eventually because of something I probably did not do in that life, but surely did in a previous one.

P 130 calling silver and gold table service 'ceramics'. 'Cleopatran feast'.

Possibly an (#error); the way I have to live now may be of connection.

P 131 killed siblings, plundered tombs, corrupted Antonius but eventually deserted him, and even refused to provide famine relief to the Jewish community.

The first one has been paid for (at least to some degree). Not sure about the rest – how true those words are.

Tombs plundering is the first time I hear of it (google search gave me nothing; maybe it was just propaganda/lies); But just in case I will say I wanted to start recording video game walkthroughs for YouTube to maybe better my speech (stuttering I had to deal with in my childhood which resulted in low social skills and difficulties in having conversations). The very first game I recorded a [brief] playthrough of was Tomb Raider of 2013. I also later had a déjà vu in connection to that video game.

I've already mentioned Jewish community and how I had to live among it as Mary of Magdala.

More info is then written about Antonius – that he was controlled by a woman basically. Recently I learnt I must have been Emperor Guangzong of Song. If so, then what I had to experience in that life may have been the suffering for that (#error) regarding Anthony – assuming the rumors are true and not just propaganda; In that case the life situation I had to deal in that life clearly reflects that alleged situation of Anthony.

Another connection to Alexander's life. It's no wonder they write what they do on that page because Cleopatra (I) was/am Alexander; so naturally I still had somewhat similar ideas. In fact, I still agree that international unity is the goal, but it should not be forced onto anyone. It has to be done out of people's own desire to be united – the freedom of choice, free will, is one of the most precious things we people have. If people will – very slowly maybe (centuries or millenniums) – conclude that being united with other group of people (countries, etc.) will be of benefits to them [both/all groups], they will do it out of their own free will in an open referendum. To act against someone's free will is the most serious crime.

P 132 says the dissolved pearl was a family inheritance. The story makes me sad now… because it was history.

Makes me wonder now if this could somehow relate why I played myself (Cleo) in Vivien's life in a movie which wasn't too historically accurate… (and I wish it was)

P 133. C. Calvisius Sabinus admitted he made up slanderous stories about me as Cleo.

Maybe it's nothing; just noting played Sabina in The Skin of Our Teeth.

It seems like Antonius would steal sculptures for me – since they'd be returned back after my death. Sigh… (#error) if true. And there may be a synchronicity here; there's a streamer https://www.twitch.tv/sofiko_sculpts whom I discovered after I started liking watching Dread Hunger streams. She does sculp sometimes. There are certain other connections to her. I wondered after discovering my past lives if people I somehow know or bump into were someone I knew in my past life/lives also. Could she have been one of those sculptors whose works were allegedly… who knows. Eventually I might try asking my HS about that – but I generally try not to search info about people who live right now unless life itself seemingly advises me to do so.

P 137 talks about Herod and Malchos' animosity which ended up in a warfare.

What was spoken of them previously in the book matches way too clearly the idea which was said of me as Cleopatra in a dream I had on 30.06.2024 (it's in My Diary); May have been a true dream about the past.

Ominous portents: milk and blood dripping from beeswax. Swallows being nests on the flagship.

The later does bring one swallow related episode from my current life. Me and some other village old friends – Yana was there for sure – picked up a dead swallow and they placed it on the indentation on the plank of a bench (it had that 1 plank only). For some reason in my childhood, I had an impression that indentation as if existed because of that bird. Anyway, I guess I brushed the dead bird off that spot and angered some people. I can't say I did too wrong because the bird could not be hurt anymore; but the situation could have been handled differently and I should have said we need to bury that bird and be done with it.

On page 138 it's then written that swallows are associated with Isis (me).

Now it looks like there's definitely some connection here happening due to reincarnation-related processes and Natural laws.

P 140. September 2 and 3-rd were life-changing for me in that life. On September 4-th of 2023 I had a life changing dream in which I said in my 40+ year old Vivien Leigh's voice I was her. There could be something here. And it's important to note the events of September 3-rd (don't remember about the 2-nd) led to that highly important dream.

I'm not sure it's the truth about killing wealthy citizens and the rest. I hope it's not. If it did, I'd probably have been killed in many of my past lives, but in what lives I've found so far I was killed twice, and in both cases I think that happened because of known crimes in my Cleopatra's life. something to ask my HS about later

P 146. Attempted to starve myself to… that idea did cross my mind on several occasions during tough times in my current life… (#psyche-data)?

P 147 "I will not be led in a triumph"

-P 148. Figs (инжир) are mentioned to have played some role in my death. As often happens, there might be some synchronistic connection here. A year or more ago I bought figs to taste them for the first time in my life. It's actually extremely rare that they are sold in the store I often went to buy food. I could have missed them because soon they were no longer there. In fact, I think I specifically went back to the store to buy them (but it's possible that event concerned another rare fruit).

P 156 Epilogue. "Cleopatra was a force not to be eliminated merely by death."

Brought me to tears, given what I've been experiencing…

Ancient Literary Descriptions

Plutarch, Antonius 27.2–4.

"Her conversation was inescapably gripping, and her appearance along with the persuasiveness of her discussion and her character, which affected those around her, was particularly incisive. There was a sweetness in the tones of her voice, and her tongue was like a many-stringed instrument, so that she could easily make use of whatever language she wished, and thus when she had discussions with barbarians she hardly ever needed an interpreter, but answered most of them without assistance, whether they were Ethiopians, Trogodytes, Hebrews, Arabians, Syrians, Medes, or Parthians. It was said that she also learned many other languages."

Plutarch, Caesar 49.1–2.

"Taking only Apollodoros the Sicilian from her friends, she embarked in a small boat and landed at the palace when it was already becoming quite dark. Since it was otherwise difficult to escape notice, she stretched herself out in a bedsack, and Apollodoros tied up the bedsack with a rope and carried it through the doors to Caesar. It is said that by this device he was first conquered by Cleopatra, as she showed her impudence, and through the charm of further conversation with her he reconciled her with her brother as joint rulers."

Plutarch, Antonius 26.1–3.

"She sailed up the Kydnos River in a boat with a golden stern, purple sails spread, the rowers pulling the silver oars to the sound of flutes, pipes, and strings. She herself reclined under a canopy adorned with gold, looking like a painting of Aphrodite, with boys like Erotes in paintings standing on either side and fanning her. In addition, her most beautiful serving maidens were positioned, like Nereids or Graces, at the tiller and the lines. Marvellous scents from innumerable incense offerings spread along the river banks. It was said everywhere that Aphrodite had come to celebrate with Dionysos for the good of Asia."

Plutarch, Antonius 85.

"Having bathed, she reclined and had a particularly fine meal. And someone came from the country carrying a basket, and when the guards asked him what he was bringing he opened it and removed the leaves, showing a receptacle full of figs. They were amazed at their quality and size, and he smiled and invited them to take some, so they trusted him and told him to go in. After the meal Cleopatra took a tablet that she had already written on and sealed, and sent it to Caesar [i.e., Octavian], and then sending all away except her two women closed the doors. When Caesar opened the tablet and found prayers and lamentations begging that she be buried with Antonius, he immediately knew what had happened. At first he started off to give aid himself, but then sent others quickly to investigate. But the incident had happened swiftly. They arrived at a run and found that the guards had not noticed anything, and upon opening the doors found her lying dead on a golden couch, regally adorned. Regarding the two women, the one called Eiras was dying at her feet, and Charmion, already fallen and heavy in the head, was arranging the diadem around her head. Someone angrily said, "This is a fine thing, Charmion." "It is most fine," she said, "and fitting for the descendant of so many kings." She said nothing more, but fell alongside the couch."

Horace, Ode 1.37.21–32.

"Seeking to die more nobly, she did not fear the dagger like a woman, nor did she seek a hidden shore with her swift fleet. She dared to look upon her fallen palace with a calm face, brave enough to handle the harsh snakes, so that she absorbed the black poison in her body, becoming bolder in her decision to die, unwilling to be led on hostile liburnians as a private citizen for an arrogant triumph. She would not be a humiliated woman."

Cleo Quotes

I will not be triumphed over.

My honour was not yielded, but conquered merely.

Fool! Don't you see now that I could have poisoned you a hundred times had I been able to live without you.

All strange and terrible events are welcome, but comforts we despise.

In praising Antony I have dispraised Caesar.

Be it known that we, the greatest, are misthought.

Is he a good man?" "Define 'good'.

Leave the fishing-rod, Great General, to us sovereigns of Pharos and Canopus. Your game is cities and kings and continents.

And make death proud to take us.

Movie Parallels

Asterix & Obelix: Mission Cleopatra (2002)

I watched this movie on 12.05.2024.

Битьё ваз в самом начале фильма напомнило мне, увы, как я разбил не мало посуды в нынешней жизни, пока не научился более-менее контролировать себя.

Глубокий вырез платья с задней стороны на 26:20 напомнило мне уже одежду, которую, как я помню, мне купил отец в жизни Вивьен Ли. Есть видео, где я в ней. Where a Young Prince Lived.mp4 – на повторном просмотре вырез, к счастью, не такой уж и глубокий – оно и понятно!

Ещё есть собачка, которая передаёт послание на папирусе Клеопатре.

Cleopatra (1934)

(I watched this movie on March 19, 2025)

Cleo in the film wants to capture India and then the world (this is not historically accurate.) Parallels with Alex life.

54:- throwing jewels to the floor. Reminded me of silly me throwing a candy to guys in village. It was an odd thing to do. There was another food offering of smaller weirdness before.

58- hiccup scene. Rarely have Hiccups and it's hard to get rid of them quickly.

28:50 They say - lovers listed more easily by number than by name.

...She chooses in the manner of a man rather than wait to be chosen after womanly fashion.

Reminded me of some of my errors done in Vivien's life.

34:45 I will not be told where I can go and where I cannot.

This reminded me of how I walked not far from Kremlin – maybe around Faleyevskiy Pereulok, 3. On the ground floor of the building, there's a passage to the yard. And there's a guard's booth to the left of it. I wanted to go inside but the guard stopped me, telling not to go there. There were no gates or barriers preventing me from going in the public space, but I decided to not cause a scene because of it. I did ask him for some directions, thought, and he did help me with that.

35:-- Being dressed properly for my presence.

Maybe nothing, but I remembered how Jack said I (Vivien) often used the word 'properly'.

35:17 Visiting tomb of Alexander.

They say I (Cleo) did visit the tomb, meaning I was close to my past body. In my current life I had ideas of visiting places I lived at in my past lives and potentially visiting my graves; the idea might come from the experience I already had, but I didn't know about it until now.

Used gold to finance war against Octavian. Which we lost.

Octavian visited the tomb to pay his respects, and little did he know he was, at one time, near Alexander in his new life of Cleopatra.

39:00 epilepsy.

Mother had that. My speech issues made one guy in village call me with that word once.

41:35 Caesar to Cleo: "have you broken out of your nursery to come irritate the adults?"

Pretty much identical synchronicity to what Dave said and what I saw in a movie about me as Alexander. Later I found Dave was Darius III.

42:10 knowledge is important to me just as is portrayed in the film. It's one of the most valuable resources humans can have.

1:11:-- Iras and Charmion walk with a child in front of people. Reminded me about that story about Nadya who was Iras: her mother, Katya, via court order received the house on Gorki where her father lived. Before that, she had to live with other people. After the court hearing, she solemnly walked with Nadya to their house.

1:18:-- there were times I was too hasty to assume something.

1:24:-- release of pigeons.

1:25:50 gold dress. My dream I had on September 18, 2025 about my Cleo fantasy showed gold dress.

2:16:56 necklace made of gold coins.

2:40:-- cutting of cloths and bedsheets with a knife dagger may be a synch with my VL episode of cutting cloths.

2:47:-- attempt to restore Ptolemaic Kingdom by acquiring lands may be a reason I live in Russia and experience the consequences of sanctions for actions which bear similarities.

Looking at life from a different perspective.

3:14:55 Maybe nothing; just noting reminded me of GWtW.

3:52:49 Apollodorus takes a fabric and breathes it. Assumes it's mine.

Reminded of Patrick Stewart's story when I, VL, sprinkled a handkerchief with a perfume (Joy) and gave it to Patrick, and for years he could breathe me in from it. I got curious if Patrick in his past life was Apollodorus, and on February 18 & 19-th I got the answer that he was.

4:04:55 "How strangely awake I feel… as if living had been just a long dream… someone else's dream… now finished at last."

The Spirit dreamed it all. We live out this dream. The thought is familiar.

Mary Magdalene

If Thao was Jesus (Aarioc) and if I could have lived during the 30-33 year A.D., then whom I could have been? Obviously just speculations but maybe I'll notice something. Whatever name I write here doesn't mean I think I was that person in my past life. Also, since my Astral body is probably of the 1 category, I could not have been a pure Jew. Still, I've found some interesting similarities in my life and in lives of some of people who were close to Jesus (Aarioc)

Mary Magdalene was from Magdala, a town on the western shore of the Sea of Galilee.

I remember how as a child I was reading a book. I don't remember if it was Bible – it might have been… And at one point I started seeing light around all black letters. Maybe it was yellow-white in color. Actually reminds me now of that yellow entity. That was the only such case when I saw a glow around letters. My mother was sitting near me to my left. I told her what was happening and she agreed I should stop reading and rest.

Honestly, https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mary_Magdalene seems to have some possible syncs.

Mary & in Russian people say Мария (Maria). I have syncs with Silent Hill game and the second part – my favorite – has Mary & Maria characters. Maria is manifestation of Mary.

Prostitution talks (even if untrue)

Name Mary (Vivian Mary Heartley. There's also mention of 3 Maries [Magdalene 1 of them]. 3 has played a large role in my life)

Wikipedia contributors write: "These texts portray her as an apostle, as Jesus's closest and most beloved disciple and the only one who truly understood his teachings."

I made a video about Gospel of Thomas. I think that I understood some of Jesus' teachings after finding TP and learning some things about life on my own.

Jesus exorcised "seven demons" from Mary Magdalene. In the first century, demons were believed widely to cause physical and psychological illness.

(Cleopatra VII)

John 20:11–18. "Don't touch me, for I have not yet ascended to my Father" or "Stop clinging to me, [etc.]"

In case Jesus actually spoke those words to Magdalene at one time or another... «Слушай ты… перестань говорить/повторять моё имя!» / "Listen, you... stop saying/repeating my name!" - These are the words that Thao told me. The second part has some similarities to what Jesus (Aariok) might have said to Magdalene.

They write Mary died in Ephesus, Türkiye. (of course that other person says she died in south of France)

If true, it's of note that Arsinoe (Cleopatra's sister) went to live in exile at the Temple of Artemis in Ephesus. Later she was killed in Ephesus by order from Mark Antony after that stayed with Cleopatra.

They say that there are several relics (bones) of Mary Magdalene on display in churches around the world…

One of them is skull.

Also left hand. There can be some type of sync here, for I noticed several years ago, when I was going to the open-air gym, that my left hand was stronger due to me having to use almost only it when certain [bad] habit reminds of itself.

And foot bone. In VL life I broke ankle and it led me to reading Gone with the Wind.

In about 2-2.5 km from my house there's a church dedicated to MM. Its address: Колодезный пер., 2А, стр. 7. The significance of this is that several years ago, several years before I found I was MM, when I was walking on the Колодезный переулок, a man asked me directions to a church. I thought he meant the one in the Sokolniki park, but from what he was saying I got the impression the church he was interested in was located somewhere among the buildings nearby – exactly where I now know there's a church dedicated to… me in my past life… it's a similar synchronicity to that which I had with VL when I saw a woman read English GWtW in a bus.

I should note there's another church nearby. And there's another a bit further back. It's possible he meant one of those. I don't remember the exact words he said. Regardless, that episode is very significant.

Another synchronicity – even if the story is not true – has to do with a person saying Mary was 14 at the time of crucifixion, and she preached the Gospel for 14 years until she was 28. Age 14 & 28 played a huge role in my life; and it's a synch with 'A Nightmare on Elf Street' movie – house 1428. That person also said she was born in the year 17 AD.

I have synchronicities with Silent Hill video game(s). In my dream I said 'Mary Magdalene. Maria Magdalene'. Maria is how people in Russia say the name of my past self. Mary and Maria are characters in Silent Hill 2 game – which is my favorite.

These are my words in Mary Magdalene's life (I say what Jesus told me but others do not know):

'18) When the soul had overcome the third power, it went upwards and saw the fourth power, which took seven forms.

19) The first form is darkness, the second desire, the third ignorance, the fourth is the excitement of death, the fifth is the kingdom of the flesh, the sixth is the foolish wisdom of flesh, the seventh is the wrathful wisdom. These are the seven powers of wrath.'

It is the 19-th episode of the 7-th season of The X-Files.

"Searching Hoffman's apartment, they find bombs and counterfeiting tools, as well as a forged gospel of Mary Magdalene".

The X Files series were one of my favorite and also the reason I started chatting with that young woman from India – later it became one of syncs with my Vivien Leigh life.

Found this post. Some answers have mentioned things which reminded me of my past lives. Is there some connection I don't know. Just reporting it for now.

Interestingly, the video screenshot of that page I did was recorded on this date and time: "Dream a person had about Mary 2024-03-16 14-28-02.mp4"

14 & 28 appear again when it comes to my life of Mary Magdalene. I noticed the numbers after I made the video.

Maureen O'Sullivan, VL's school friend, had a daughter whose name was Theresa Magdalena "Tisa" Farrow. Her other daughter's name is Maria de Lourdes (María de Lourdes is a Spanish feminine given name taken from Our Lady of Lourdes a title of the Virgin Mary). She had 7 children in total.

Addition to 25.02.2024 entry in the diary. I asked both my Higher Self and Thiaooubians (Thao, Biastra & Latoli) to show me the name I had in my past life when Aarioc (Jesus) walked on Earth. In the dream my attention to the green color was drawn at least twice (grass, grapes). I also read the name I had in that life twice. It got me thinking why twice? I used to think because it was the emphasize (and it was/is regardless) because that life is so, so important to me and one of main reasons I've had my experiences with Thiaooubians. There may be another reason –each instance (grass, grapes; 2 times reading my past name) may have been shown by different parties – one by my Higher Self, the other by one of Thiaooubians (if they did answer, it's clear only one of them had to give me a message in the dream; which is something they can do as written by Michel D. in his book).

Mel Gibson's The Passion of the Christ

Monica Bellucci plays me (Mary M.). She also played me (Cleopatra) in Asterix Obelix Mission Cleopatra (2002).

I've noticed before how some other actors played me in one way or another (Liz Taylor)

Watched some videos about Chiaroscuro and then about Tenebrism. At 2:26 the painting representing me as Mary Magdalene is shown, and the video's narrator says that tenebrism is derived from Italian word for 'gloomy'. I remembered how a very long time ago my black and white photo was described by that same word (gloomy) in a vk.com group.

Bible

Since I was Mary Magdalene, I will have to read the Bible to get an idea of the events I was, or might have been, involved with. Of course, I'll have to filter out distortions.

33 number is a big part of Jesus's (Aarioc's) life. It has been a big part of my life too. Numbers are important in spirituality. I wonder if I find something of interest in terms of numbers.

https://www.biblegateway.com/passage/?search=John%2019&version=NIV

John 19:23. It's mentioned how soldiers, who crucified Jesus, divided his cloth into 4 shares – 1 for each of them (so there were 4 soldiers).

4 has been playing a role in my life.

Mary Magdalene mentioned in all 4 Gospels as a devoted follower of Jesus.

Mary Magdalene is mentioned in the Bible in Matthew 27:56, 61; 28:1;
Mark 15:40, 47, 16:1, 9;
Luke 8:2, 24:10;
John 19:25, 20:1, 11, 18.

13 total. As I noted many times, this number showed itself during important events of my lives.

Gnostic Texts

'They said to him, "Why do you love her more than all of us?" The Savior answered and said to them, "Why do I not love you like her? When a blind man and one who sees are both together in the darkness, they are no different from one another. When the light comes, then he who sees will see the light, and he who is blind will remain in darkness.'

I can see myself here alright (#spiritual-knowledge). When I read Thiaoouba Prophecy book for the 1 time I knew 'inside of me' it was true. Now I know why I knew it. But it's important to note that I must have had some spiritual knowledge before the life of Magdalene. I know that as Cleopatra I listened to philosophers, being interested already in the world around me.

Dialogue of the Saviour

Mary Magdalene, Judas, Matthew, and the Lord are conversing with Jesus.

Mary said, "I want to understand all things, just as they are!"

This is so me! It's been a long time since I realized I was interested in many things. And I did try to understand the truths revealed about a number of topics in Thiaoouba Prophecy book – one at a time, of course. (#curious)

The Savior said, "The lamp of the body is the mind. As long as the things inside you are set in order, that is, [...], your bodies are luminous. As long as your hearts are dark, the luminosity you anticipate [...] I have [...] I will go

[...] my word [...] I send [...].”

Maybe it’s about Auras, which are dull when people are consumed by materialism.

Judas said, “Tell us, Lord, what was [...] before the heaven and the earth existed.”

The Lord said, “There was darkness and water, and spirit upon water…”

Just noting the “sensations pass through the immense ‘filter’ of nine Higher-selves before arriving in the etheric ‘ocean’ that surrounds the Spirit”. (TP, page 78)

First Word might mean the 1-st Atomic Force, but I’m not 100% sure.

Mary said, “Of what sort is that mustard seed? Is it something from heaven or is it something from earth?”

The Lord said, “When the Father established the cosmos for himself, he left much over from the Mother of the All. Therefore, he speaks and he acts.”

(Когда Отец создал для себя космос, он многое оставил от Матери Всего)

Movie Parallels

Jesus Christ Superstar (1973)

I didn’t see a lot of parallels with myself, but that Herod Antipas in his scene asking Jesus for just one miracle to prove himself immediately reminded me of Gustavo B. asking me to find me via my Higher Self just one word to prove myself.

I later told G.B. about this in case he’d like to ever see if maybe he was that Herod Antipas in his past life. There’s a chance, but this clear as day parallel to the curses experiment may have other reasons for its existence too.

I also mentioned to G. how Jesus was silent, not performing any miracles for a skeptic, knowing, of course, it would be an error to show miracles to a skeptic (imho this is why he was silent). I had a good feeling it would be an error too, but still decided to do the experiment and paid for my error.

Mary Magdalene (2018)

Under Water opening

Caesarian operation. Anton’s mother Yulia, I believe, had to go through with it.

10:30 “must be nice to have so much time on your hands.” Kristina words – “значит у тебя было время!”

16:-- shaving of head so that can be one man and obey each day. Me shaving head each new year.

18: being forced under water. Missy.

32: “I’m lost here.” Feels the same sometimes.

41:35 Judas – “everyone should be free to speak.” Maybe he in his current life said something similar in the chat.

44:17 me saying something and people not answering and proverbially leaving is something I experience from time to time

44:44 I often have to cover my face similarly by the blanket cover so that morning light doesn’t wake me up or that I can fall asleep it’s it light already outside

1:26:-- “perhaps you misunderstood, perhaps the Kingdom...” Judas says “no, faith is what makes miracles.” He doesn’t wanna listen. The same applies sometimes to him in his current life.

1:42:20 I tried to help Juda in his current incarnation. I try to be understanding.

1:49:59 “all I can do I hope that you’ve heard what I said. Prey that you see me as I am.” These words are pretty much good match to what I feel now about members of TPXP group, and some other people, who don’t understand me and my actions.

1:50:25 “I will not stay and be silent.” Another match of me. And today I wrote that thing basically - also used word silent - to Judas new incarnation.

Judas in the movie said something about music. (When me - Mary - and Judas first meet in the movie). Might be wrong, but I think Judas current incarnation’s work has something to do with music or sound production.

https://biblefilms.blogspot.com/2018/03/judas-in-mary-magdalene-2018.html

Article notices that Judas is smiling and open - it’s a match to the dark-skinned man (Judas’ new incarnation) I saw yesterday in my dream and who said he is Judas.

Then the article mentions Judas seeing the coming of Kingdom as a chance to reunite with his family, as the end of the world. I think that it matches the desire Judas in his current incarnation had to reunite with the Spirit in this life.

Article’s note of me, Mary, being understanding in the film is again correlates to my actions when I told Judas’ new incarnation who he was; and I was not judging him for anything.

The Greatest Story Ever Told (1965)

I was barely shown in this movie.

15:30 I knew it was about me in my Rachel’s past life.

2:22:22 Judas has just said Jesus is his friend. Judas’ current incarnation told me I could write “one of my guy friends” when I found a synchronicity we share and asked if I could write his name when writing about it.

Jesus of Nazareth (1977)

Herod is shown in a wagon. Given Herod's parallel with G.B. in Jesus Christ Superstar 1973, I remembered how G.B. mentioned he used to be on a bandwagon (meaning he believed some nonsense but then changed his mind) when we were trying to help flat-earthers see the truth.

Adulteress Mary is being scared by an explosive balloon. Reminded me of the firecrackers in A Killer Among Friends (1992) movie.

Presumably me as Mary Magdalene getting slapped on the cheek. Reminded me of GwtW and my real-life events of similar nature.

Hypatia

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hypatia

"Perhaps unrelated to anything concerning me too closely. Just a sad story." – This is what I wrote originally, when I first read that article not knowing I am that Hypatia.

My current understanding is this: We're – the intelligence - all one. All part of the Spirit, which is also called the Superior Intelligence. You look at someone else, and, from the Spirit's perspective, you're looking at yourself. But this is not how we view the world. We're usually seeing someone else and not ourselves in other people. So, is it surprising that you can come across your past life without immediately recognizing it's you?

13.03.2024 - actually... It would make a lot of sense if I was her and had to die like this for being the instigator of Arsinoe IV's death at the steps of a temple… both crimes shook the nations

It sure would have been poetic to be murdered for my own crime in or at the temple I myself conceived in Cleopatra's life.

As before, I'm writing my speculations only for now, and I simply ask could I have been Hypatia based on the known facts about her. To save space I won't be repeating words like "IF I was Hypatia this or that could be the reason or connection to this or that".

Born c. 350–370 AD
Alexandria, Province of Egypt, Eastern Roman Empire
Died March 415 AD (aged 45–65)
Alexandria, Province of Egypt, Eastern Roman Empire

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Neoplatonism

This makes a lot more sense than what the distorted Bible teaches. They believed in reincarnation too. It's possible Higher Selves and different categories of the soul could be part of their views also. Aftermaths of joining with the Spirit seem the same. Essentially, many views resonate with what Thiaooubians taught Michel Desmarquet.

Plato, who was mentioned by Thao as someone who'd report things accurately, plays the key role in this philosophy which is interpretation of Plato.

If I was this woman, it'd make sense my life was attached to this philosophy.

In Vivien Leigh's life I quoted Plato in my Commonplace Book. That quote concerns the question of how to choose rulers.

A lector Peter led a Christian mob who killed me, Hypatia.

Peter was one of Jesus' apostles and there was some kind of negativity from him towards me in Mary's life.

People by the name of Victor have played roles, sometimes negative, in my three lives: myself, Missy, Vivien.

The fact they were Christians may also have some deeper meaning.

Update of August 8, 2026. Two Peters - Peter D., Michel's son, and P.T. who's Peter I – played a negative role in my life too now. Well, I know the later's actions brought a lot of negativity into my Evdokia's life.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cyril_of_Alexandria

It's the same Cyril, who was the president of the Council of Ephesus in 431, where the 3rd important distortion of the Bible took place.

That council was held in the Church of Mary (who gave birth to Jesus), located it the city where some scholars say Mary Magdalene died. It's also the city where Cleopatra's sister was murdered.

Maybe nothing. Cyril died on June 27, 444. IT (2017) movie started filming on June 27, 2016, in Toronto. Number 27 itself is a sync with IT. Three 4s are of interest too.

Ostraka, which can be translated as "roof tiles" or "oyster shells", was used to kill me.

I collected small shells on the Ока river. I also used to collect oysters from the Тельвяково lake; we thought to eat them but then released them into a local pond near our village (or maybe it was local river). Roof tiles don't ring any bells; I had to repair roof of our house, but it wasn't covered with tiles of any kind.

She was a Neoplatonist philosopher, astronomer, and mathematician.

Philosophy played role in Cleopatra's, Vivien's, and my lives.

I like astronomy in this life. But in Vivien's life math wasn't my favorite at all.

Caesareum of Alexandria was converted to Christian church in the late 4th century – (for references, late 20th century typically refers to 1970-1999). So it happened during the time Hypatia definitely lived.

This could be a possible connection to Mary Magdalene.

It was also the time in the middle of the distortions of the Bible taking place.

20 is the difference between 350 & 370 (2 of possible dates of birth).

She wrote a commentary on Diophantus's thirteen-volume Arithmetica.

13

Theon, Hypatia's father, was the head of a school called the "Mouseion" (мусейон).

It sounds similar to «Музеон». It's located in Gorki Park.

Although Hypatia herself was a pagan, she was tolerant of Christians.

Bible was doctored with by that time. What exactly was removed in the 2 councils isn't known. But if the teachings about reincarnation were removed, then it would make sense that as Hypatia I wasn't interested in Christian religion, even though just a life before I was [probably] Mary Magdalene (according to an answer I got in a dream. Ideally, I'd need to reconfirm that at some point).

Seven letters by Synesius to Hypatia have survived.

Wikipedia contributors write: Synesius describes Hypatia as "... a person so renowned, her reputation seemed literally incredible. We have seen and heard for ourselves she who honorably presides over the mysteries of philosophy." Synesius preserves the legacy of Hypatia's opinions and teachings, such as the pursuit of "the philosophical state of apatheia—complete liberation from emotions and affections".

The Christian historian Socrates of Constantinople: "There was a woman at Alexandria named Hypatia, daughter of the philosopher Theon, who made such attainments in literature and science, as to far surpass all the philosophers of her own time. Having succeeded to the school of Plato and Plotinus, she explained the principles of philosophy to her auditors, many of whom came from a distance to receive her instructions. On account of the self-possession and ease of manner which she had acquired in consequence of the cultivation of her mind, she not infrequently appeared in public in the presence of the magistrates. Neither did she feel abashed in going to an assembly of men. For all men on account of her extraordinary dignity and virtue admired her the more."

Damascius writes that Hypatia was "exceedingly beautiful and fair of form".

Damascius states that Hypatia remained a lifelong virgin. Tried to soothe the lust of one man who tried to court her by playing the lyre. Then outright rejected him when he refused to abandon his pursuit. She said: "This is what you really love, my young man, but you do not love beauty for its own sake."

Reminded me of my Vivien Leigh life. Some people thought a beautiful girl can't act.

13.04.2024. It may also have been an (#error). Being a virgin for at least 30+ years (excluding the childhood and early teenager years) certainly means living at an extreme – and as I came to realize that's an error. If the prostitution rumors about me in Mary's life are true, then it would also make sense I decided not to have s*x in Hypatia's life. And this would confirm my ideas that we, people, live our lives by going from one extreme point to another until we reach equilibrium in the middle – in the perfect balance (The Delicate Balance).

I played lyre in my Alex's life.

Orestes frequently consulted Hypatia for advice. She was well-liked among pagans and Christians. She had an impeccable reputation as a wise counselor.

If I was her, this may relate to how in several of my lives I cared too much about the [negative] opinions of others.

It was believed that Cyril had ordered my murder. If not, then his smear campaign against me had inspired that it.

Hypatia wrote in Greek.

Greek was one of the languages I was interested in. But no time to learn it.

According to Mary Ellen Waithe, Hypatia used an unusual algorithm for division in the sexagesimal numeral system (which was standard then).

Damascius characterized me as nothing more than a wandering Cynic, and unfavorably compared with his own teacher Isidore of Alexandria: "Isidorus greatly outshone Hypatia, not just as a man does over a woman, but in the way a genuine philosopher will over a mere geometer."

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cynicism_(philosophy)

After reading the description of Cynicism: It may not be such a bad thing. Kind of makes sense if I was Hypatia.

The historian Nicephorus Gregoras described Eudokia Makrembolitissa (1021–1096) as a "second Hypatia".

Perhaps it's nothing, but only Hypatia's father is mentioned. Nothing is known about her mother. Since if I was her, I must have been murdered in the life for the crime done in Cleopatra's life, and so I should mention this meaning:

Cleopatra "father-loving goddess" | "goddess who loves her father"

In Greek, Cleopatra means "famous in her father." Her full name means "Cleopatra the Father-Loving Goddess."

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cyril_of_Alexandria

Hypatia had considerable moral authority and extensive influence in the city of Alexandria.

Was killed on the steps of a church.

"steps" word was in italics. Arsinoe was killed on the steps of a temple. This could be the most direct connection to the crime made in my Cleopatra life if I was Hypatia.

There's a description of how the killed me. It's a brutal sight. There's a mention of the "vilest criminals".

There was a dream – dream in a dream which could actually be a true dream relating to one of my Cleopatra's crimes – in which the words "convicted [murderer?/criminal?]" were mentioned.

444 years between my Cleopatra's and Hypatia's deaths. (Cyril died in 444.)

2014 years between my Missy's & Cleopatra's deaths.

1400 years between my Emma's & Hypatia's deaths, in both of which I died at the age of 49. My Emma's age of death was used in a dream to give me a hint how many years I lived in my Hypatia's life.

https://penelope.uchicago.edu/~grout/encyclopaedia_romana/greece/paganism/hypatia.html

The murder of Hypatia happened in the 4th year of Cyril's episcopate.

Synesius of Cyrene addresses seven letters to Hypatia and refers to her in some others.

Hypatia was killed by "ostrakon" – can be translated as "a tile or potsherd", but has been also translated as "shells". The words "oyster shells" has also been used.

Maybe nothing (especially if Hypatia wasn't killed by oyster shells), just reminded me of how recently I learned that Cleopatra liked pearls, which are made by marine oysters and freshwater mussels.

There's a story about the death of Mark the Evangelist.

It reminded me that Mark Antony and the person who actually killed Arsinoe IV had to suffer for that murder too – or maybe they haven't yet paid for that crime as of today. So it got me thinking if, perhaps, that Mark the Evangelist could have been one of them. But maybe he used to be someone else in his past life. It's just a thought I'm noting.

Seems to me Hypatia didn't write letters too often to Synesius https://www.nationalgeographic.com/premium/article/murder-hypatia-philosopher-alexandria

It says in the article that Neoplatonism combined spirituality and science, and applied math and astronomy to philosophy as means to understand the world, the universe, and the individual's place in it. They sought the knowledge of the One – the supreme being from which all things emanate.

I can totally see myself here. In fact, I might have hinted towards the same ideas in my videos and book. (#spiritual-knowledge) (?) for even though I was Magdalene several centuries ago, I wasn't inclined to attach myself to the already distorted Bible (I can only assume they removed the teachings about reincarnation by the time of my life as Hypatia).

It looks like Hypatia was not a devout pagan, did not practice theurgy, magic and oracles. Many other Neoplatonists did.

It's also said Hypatia stayed neutral while Christians and pagans clashed.

Maybe it's another indicator of (#spiritual-knowledge). I can totally see myself in this description. I guess now that I know I was MM, it's no surprise I had some spiritual understanding (*) present in my soul at that time.

* - regarding specific subjects, of course. Later lives of mine proved that I had still to learn some things about how to live.

Arian George of Cappadocia was killed in A.D. 361.

Proterius was killed in A.D. 457.

It's said in the article all 3 murders share similar patterns.

I'd need to read about those people. For now, I'll say this:

I used to ponder if the souls of Mark Antony and the person who actually killed Arsinoe IV already paid their penalties. I knew that 3 people were involved in it. It just so happens I know now for a fact I was Hypatia and I died in such a brutal way for the error I had made as Cleopatra. So, it got me thinking if Arian George of Cappadocia and Proterius could have been Mark Antony and the person who killed Arsinoe IV?

Maybe I'll ask my HS this question. (13.04.2024 – I did ask but I don't know if I got any answers. Maybe I'll ask it again one night.)

It's probably nothing and I was completely off, but I'll note my thought still: Sandra's Maria Magdalena song had the 1-st place for about 4 weeks. 2 in September (when I as MA was alive) and 2 in October (when I was not alive).

There were 4 significant distortions of the Bible "by the Roman Church during the councils of Nicein AD 325, Constantinople in AD 381, Ephese in AD 431 and Chalcedoine in AD 451. There were others too, but of lesser significance."

As Hypatia I was born c. 350–370; died 415 AD. As Hypatia I was living only during one of the distortions.

Page 2. Hypatia first appeared in European literature in 1720. I wonder if I lived then and if that publication had some influence on that life.

Voltaire wrote I was killed because I believed in Hellenic gods and also in the laws of rational Nature. The later describes me, and so does the piece about the capacities of the human mind free of any dogmas.

Hellenic gods were part of some of my past lives I had lived before my Hypatia's life.

P 3. M.D. writes that I was stubborn and intensely moral, no less a proponent of asceticism. Each characteristic describes me still to some degree.

P 8. 1888 Maurice Barres' short story about Hypatia: "La vierge assassinee"

There's a character called Lucius. It's of interest because there's a character of the identical name in https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Titus_Andronicus in which my character Lavinia gets mutilated.

P 9. Me as Hypatia having the spirit of Plato and the body of Aphrodite are mentioned several times for some reason.

I was bord as Alexander when Plato was still alive.

P 11. The free mind searching for truth in the material world versus superstitious religion. Describe me.

P 14. Hypatia has an inner dialogue. The inner dialogue is something I've experienced a lot of in this life; it's mostly the negative part of my life, but it can be used constructively also.

Inner voice: ''prepare yourself. Your hour is approaching."

Hypatia, weeping and preparing for death: "Let me cry a little while longer and then I will come to wherever you may call me."

Can see just slight traces of Scarlet O'Hara's "I'll think of that tomorrow".

And Synesius then says "Until tomorrow."

P 16. Claudio Pascal: "The torture killing of the noted philosopher Hypatia by a mob of Christians in Alexandria in 415 A.D. marks the end of a time when women were still appreciated for the brain under their hair."

I've always liked smart, intelligent women.

Molinaro's story says Hypatia married the philosopher Isidore, who tolerated her "many amorous friendships."

Reminded of my Vivien's life. Emma's life also may be included here.

P 17-18 Socrates Scholasticus' account: "It was at that time that envy arose against this woman. She happened to spend a great deal of the time with Orestes, and that stirred up slander against her among people of the Church, as if she were one who prevented Orestes from entering into friendship with the Bishop. Indeed, a number of men who heatedly reached the same conclusion, whom a certain Peter (who was employed as a reader) led, kept watch for the woman as she was returning from somewhere. They threw her out of her carriage and dragged her to the church called Caesarion. They stopped off her clothes and then killed her with broken bits of pottery [ostraka]. When they had torn her body apart limb from limb, they took it to a place called Cinaron and burned it."

P 18 In Damascius' Life of Isidore': "Cyril, the bishop of the opposing party, went by Hypatia's house and noticed a great throng at her door, "a jumble of steeds and men." Some came, some went; others remained standing. He asked what this gathering meant and why such a tumult was being made. He then heard from his retainers that the philosopher Hypatia was being greeted and that this was her house. This information so pierced his heart that he launched a murderous attack in the most detestable manner. For when Hypatia was going out as usual, several bestial men, fearing neither divine vengeance nor human punishment, suddenly rushed upon her and killed her: thus laying their country both under the highest infamy and under the guilt ol innocent blood. And indeed the Emperor was grievously offended at this matter, and the murderers had been certainly punished, but that Aedesius did corrupt the Emperor's friend: so that his Majesty it is true remitted the punishment but drew vengeance on himself and posterity, his nephew paying dearly for this action."

P 19. Edward Gibbon (8 May 1737 – 16 January 1794) wrote this: "He [Cyril] soon prompted, or accepted, the sacrifice of a virgin who professed the religion of the Greeks . . . Hypatia, the daughter of Theon the mathematician, was initiated in her father's studies; her learned comments have elucidated the geometry of Apollonius and Diophantus, and she publicly taught, both at Athens and Alexandria, the philosophy of Plato and Aristotle. In the bloom of beauty, and in the maturity of wisdom, the modest maid refused her lovers and instructed her disciples; the persons most illustrious for their rank or merit were impatient to visit the female philosopher; and Cyril beheld with a jealous eye the gorgeous train of horses and slaves who crowded the door of her academy. A rumour was spread among the Christians that the daughter of Theon was the only obstacle to the reconciliation of the prefect and the archbishop; and that obstacle was speedily removed. On a fatal day, in the holy season of Lent, Hypatia was tom from her chariot, stripped naked, dragged to the church, and inhumanly butchered by the hands of Peter the reader and a troop of savage and merciless fanatics: her flesh was scraped from her bones with sharp oyster-shells, and her quivering limbs were delivered to the flames. The just progress ot inquiry and punishment was stopped by seasonable gifts; but the murder of Hypatia has imprinted an indelible stain on the character and religion of Cyril of Alexandria."

I noted this because according to Gibbon I as Hypatia taught the philosophy of Plato and Aristotle. If its true Aristotle was – as it turned out – my teacher in Alexander's life. As Cleo I had Greek roots also. (#curious)

The theme of jealousy is also mentioned by him. Jealousy was the key factor in my Missy's fate.

The flesh being scrapped from the bones reminded of the state of decay of my MA body. I won't go into detail people can read from Karen Kingsbury's book, but they do have some eerie parallels. Of course, it's not clear (as far as I know) if that actually happened with my Hypatia's body.

P 31. Cyrus was Herculianus' brother who carried Herculianus' letters to Synesius.

Maybe nothing, just noting https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cyrus_the_Great was the person I'm said to have admired in Alexander's life.

P 32. A person by the name of Olympius was one of my Hypatia's students. (Synesius, Herculianus are others)

Again, many people have the same names, and many people wanna call their children after famous people; just noting that my mother in Alexander's life was called Olympias of Epirus.

P 33, 36. Euoptius – another student.

P 34. Ision (?).

P 35. Hesychius.

P 37. Synesius's uncle Alexander. (Alexander of Macedon). Theotecnus, Athanasius, Theodosius, and Gaius (Epp. 5, 16).

Gaius here brings memory of Gaius Julius Caesar in my Cleo's life.

P 37. Auxentius (?)

P 38. Orestes(?)

P 39. Simplicius(?)

P 40. Ammonius, Pentadius and Hehodorus (? For all)

P 42. Isidore(?)

P 36. Synesius: "the most holy and revered philosopher" … "in her oracular utterances."

Below on that pages there's a mention that students should make up a community loving one another like a family. Euclid's geometric principle: two things being equal to the same thing are also equal to one another. Brotherly ties.

This did remind me of what I wrote in my free e-book Simple Truths of Life. Paraphrasing, it was about the fact I had discords even in my own family, let along among people I knew. Later – especially in the Manifesto chapter - I also stated the fact that people should form a [strong] unit instead of being separated (political parties, religious views, money, etc.) as is happening right now (#spiritual-knowledge).

P 38. High officials in Alexandria reportedly would come for advice to me in that life. It's interesting that I was a ruler there several centuries earlier. In fact, as Cleo I used to listen to philosophers too in Rome. In my Hypatia's life the tables have turned and I was able to look at life from another point of view – a regular theme I'm noticing while studying reincarnation.

P 41. Socrates in his Ecclesiastical History on Hypatia's position in Alexandria: "On account of the majestic outspokenness at her command as the result of her education, she maintained a dignified intercourse with the chief people of the city, for all esteemed her highly, and admired her for her sophrosyne."

(Sophrosyne (Ancient Greek: σωφροσύνη) is an ancient Greek concept of an ideal of excellence of character and soundness of mind, which when combined in one well-balanced individual leads to other qualities, such as temperance, moderation, prudence, purity, decorum, and self-control.)

It does describe me when I get to relax and enjoy life. Obviously, that wasn't the case in certain periods of my other lives too.

Synesius asked me to aid two people Cyrene (Nicaeus and Philolaus) who lost their estates due to sordid schemes against them.

It doesn't appear the history knows what happened to those people; did I help or not.

For now I'll mention how my cousin helped me save father's apartment from the hands of people who it looked like also had sordid schemes in mind.

Just recently she helped me again, but to a lesser degree, with the tenants who, as it seems like, are waving some schemes.

If I did help, or at least tried to, those people, it could be the reason for me getting help. It's something I could ask my HS. For now I'll tag this as (#benefit)

P 47. A critic evaluating Synesius' work. I asked people to [adequately] critic my book in case there were errors I might have done.

I'd evaluate other people's works and books too to some degree. Being an admin in TPXP Facebook group I had to do it sometimes.

What is written next on the page matches up the soul who had just experiences what I experienced as Mary Magdalene.

P 52 Damascius concludes the story when I said the statement about beauty: "To the young man the shame and the astonishment in the indecent presentation brought a spiritual transformation."

This makes me also wonder if me falling in love, having a crash, with a certain woman may have been related to that event too? If so then the way I rejected that man may have been en (#error) to some degree. But it's subtle. Just a thought.

P 52 Damascius characterizing [my] virtues in terms of Aristotle's ethical theory. Aristotle was the tutor in Alexander's life.

P 54 ‘divine geometry’

“Astronomy is itself a divine form of knowledge.”

P 55. Relied on https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ptolemy for the explanation of mathematical truths and also in regards to astronomy.

Reminded me of the brother in Cleopatra’s life who had the same name: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ptolemy_XIII_Theos_Philopator

I’ve noticed long time ago how some names sometimes follow you throughout your lives.

P 56 Became skilled in erudition.

Damascius: “Donning the philosopher’s cloak [tribon] and making her way through the midst of the city she explained publicly [exegeito demosia] the writings of Plato or Aristotle, or any other philosopher.”

P 57. Flora says ‘esoteric circle’. Funny that Olay also used the word ‘esoteric’ to refer to my work (Thiaoouba, my book, etc.), and I’d protest that the word is misused and has little – at best - to do with my life’s work. It’s all about knowledge… simple truths of life some people just can’t grasp for some reason and think it’s some ‘magic’ (also not realizing there’s no magic… but there’s knowledge) or what not… maybe they’ve not enough spiritual knowledge atm…

P 59-60. There’s a talk that some of the students wanted to keep the knowledge gained from me (Hypatia) secret.

In regards to Thiaoouba some people wished the group TPXP to be a closed group. I was strongly against that because all people have to be able to access the important knowledge in Michel D.’s book Thiaoouba Prophecy. Yes, we mainly discussed the book and its teachings in the group, but still, I think if you know the book is true you won’t care much about the opinions of others (e.g. ridicule). It’s also about Jesus’s parable about the lamp which you do not hide but put so that it gives light to others (paraphrasing).

It’s not clear how – if at all – I in that life influenced their minds to keep the knowledge in secrecy.

Pythagorean Empedocles, Apollonius of Tyana: “Once I was both girl and boy.”

P 62: (Assumption of Cameron) Antoninus, Sosipatra’s son, might have initiated H. into the secrets of theurgy … the sources do not mention that Hypatia had been trained in the discipline of theurgica.

I noted this because of familiar names.

P 70. It's not surprising that I didn't have troubles studying as Hypatia, given my then past lives. It matches my 3 lives of Vivien, Missy, myself. As Emma I seemingly was able to learn new languages, and could adapt too to changes in life.

P 71. Hypatia interested not just in math, but in "all philosophy." Matches me.

"Commentary by Theon of Alexandria on Book III of Ptolemy's Almagest, edition revised by my daughter Hypatia, the philosopher."

P 74. Father Theon's short writings: "On Signs and the Examination of Birds and the Croaking of Ravens". During the last year, after I found some of my past lives, crows started croaking at me and they were trying to attack me and followed me around. It was strange. They did not do that to other people – even those who constantly walk their dogs under the trees where the crows sit. I did nothing to offend those crows. I was just walking around the area.

Then he also wrote "two essays on the function of the star Syrius and the influence of planetary spheres on the Nile."

Sirius is also known as the dog star and it relates to my past life of Isis.

P 76. The story about the grieving mother who lost her young son, swallowed up by the abysmal, cold sea, made me remember of my past life of Angelo.

H.'s rational attitude toward the world. Matches me. There were people in TPXP saying astrology is legit… the resulted conversation proved to be difficult. (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 77. Synesius' On Dreams dealing with predicting the future through the interpretation of dreams.

I've had prophetic dreams and I thought if I could predict the future before I actually realized I saw this or that event in my dream which turned out to be a true dream.

P 81. Neoplatonist Olympius. Just noting it's a similar name to my mother's in Alex's life.

P 84. Cyril was described as impetuous, power-hungry man. This may describe me as Cleopatra; in that life I made the error for which was killed as Hypatia – and Cyril might have been linked to that event.

P 87. Socrates writes 'that men "of the Christian population" started to spread a slanderous rumor that Hypatia was the lion in the path to a reconciliation between the bishop and the prefect.'

Lion theme has appeared here and there in my many lives.

P 90. Damascius: 'the whole city "doted on her and worshiped her."' She was also showered with civic honors.

P 97. Defamation against H. I've noticed some people want to spread lies about me in my several lives; the reasons vary.

P 102. As I've established with the help of my Higher Self, I was 49 years old when I died as Hypatia. So, I was born around 366 AD.

P 104. Cyril (if not Peter Mongos) in the first years of his rule obliterated the temple of Isis in Meneuthe near Canopus, and replaced it with the cult of Christian saints (Cyrus and John).

As I know now I – and so Hypatia – was/am Isis. It's an eerie connection… If the account is correct.

Mary (The Lady of Shalott; Elaine of Astolat)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Lady_of_Shalott https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Lady_of_Shalott_(painting)
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Elaine_of_Astolat

"I Am Half-Sick of Shadows". Reminded me of those human shadows moving on my wall during night (I always thought Thiaooubians created that). I saw then a shadow in shape of a human move through the door in my room after my dad died (he'd often stand right on that spot whenever he was visiting me and mother and talking to us).

Maybe it's nothing, but I'll mention that I "recreated" this painting in my imagination and it was so real! I could feel everything around me so clearly as if it was reality. Imagination is daily part of my life, but my fantasies are never this real. It's a big experience in itself, but I say maybe it's nothing in terms of reincarnation because maybe I just didn't try to "insert" myself into any other painting and get this level of realism… Still, it's the first painting that I have such an experience with. (No wonder I'm Maelle, huh?)

(While on this topic, and maybe I've mentioned it before somewhere: I can "paint" old black and white movies in my imagination to make them appear not only in color but also in "real" definition (resolution) in my mind. Sometimes I do that.)

Swallows. I talked about that in this page 137 note on W. Roller's book. The word often appears in The Witcher game, which is one of my favorites.

Candles. Maybe nothing, but I had to often use candles in this life. When I was little, we used to often have power outages – both in Moscow and in our village.

I tried using candles for telekinesis practices but it's proven to be too wasteful.

I also once did the experiment to see if I could get answers from my Higher Sel who'd move the candle flame… it was stationary except for one moment when it was flickering violently sideways.

Water theme relates to many of my lives – in various ways. I found parallels to Ophelia too.

Cursed to look at the world outside her window. Can only look at it through mirrors. I've already mentioned my experience with mirrors. And I've had periods in life when I can't go outside.

Poppy flower which is reflected but not present irl in the 1915 painting. It's subtle, but we had such flowers in our village garden, and they were like hidden from people's eyes who walked on the road. The reason being there were like these criminals who drove around and stole poppy flowers in order to make drugs from their seeds. So we could say the poppy flowers were there in our garden and yet they couldn't be seen (by some people).

Weaving. Subtle possible connection to some of my other past lives.

Chains which I let go. I felt like being unchained at least 2 times in my current life (in other words, when it felt like weight fell off my shoulders).

But still holding the chain. I dropped some chains off, but I still hold on to the chain of misuse of imagination.

I also went out of my room outside thinking if I die - I die -, but I got sick of living like that. For a while I got better and walked a lot and visited many places in Moscow.

John William Waterhouse finished The Lady of Shalott 1888 painting in time for the Royal Academy's summer exhibition, which opened in May 1888. In my Mario life I was born on May 1 of that year.

I learned I was born in Cheshire in my 29th life. Chester is the capital of Cheshire.

When I used to walk outside I did so for that exact reason. And so I barely was in my phone when I was outside; I wanted to be absorbed in reality of the world around me and not in the phone. I can't tell for sure if it was the only time that I was reading news in my phone while outside, but I it was the first time that I did that when I sat down on a bench near Prefecture of the Eastern Administrative District of Moscow. The article was about Chester Bennington's passing… Coincidentally, he died on July 20th and I'm writing this entry on July 19th.

Cheshire has connections to my other past lives: Emma, Vivien.
I was born there in my Emma's life.

Being insulted at the payment situation – I mentioned the parallel in my entry on July 16, 2026.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/La_Damigella_di_Scalot Tenant.
A crown is mentioned.

«A tutti i cavalieri della Tavola ritonda manda salute questa damigella di Scalot, sì come alla miglior gente del mondo. E se voi volete sapere perch'io a mia fine sono venuta, sì è per lo migliore cavaliere del mondo, e per lo più villano; cioè monsignore messer Lancialotto del Lac, che già nol seppi tanto pregare d'amore, ch'elli avesse di me mercede. E così, lassa, sono morta, per ben amare, come voi potete vedere!»

The English translation translates it as "To all the knights of the Round Table sends health this lady of Shalott, as to the best people of the world." I'll just note Yianna M. used to often write in WhatsApp messages that she hopes I'm well and staying healthy, and it's unusual to write such formal letters in that chat; might be a synchronicity.

November 12, 2024's dreams showed paint, which eventually was the key to finding this past life of mine, but it there was also Hiver pointing at my Vivien pictures hanging on my wall to the left from me.

Well, one of collages show me as Blanche DuBois and as Ophelia. And one image is showing the black and white scan of John Everett Millais' drawing of Ophelia who drowned in the stream. Many dreams about my 29th life showed water and "almost drowning" (May 14, 2026). I might be wrong, but I feel like some Lady of Shalott videos showed that drawing too. And there are other people who saw parallels between the two: https://musingsofaliterarysort.blogspot.com/2012/10/the-lady-of-shalott-ophelia.html

And the other collage shows the images of my Vivien characters who departed before their time. It's also reflected in the first dream I had on October 31, 2024.

“Thiaoouba prophecy/prediction” word may relate to the curse in the Lady of Shalott story which predicts something bad will happen to the Lady if she looks directly outside the window.

November 19, 2024’s answer.

If you search for “shalott” last name on myheritage, you’ll get many search results about The Lady of Shalott. Why it’s there on that website? I have no idea. And I can’t view those pages because I’d need to pay for their subscription in order to do that (Russians can’t pay them anyhow atm). But the information is actually there, and I presume that’s why I got that answer that night.

https://www.myheritage.com/research?s=OYYV7VIMJPFDI7NL7W2CORBANOBRCVY&formId=master&formMode=1+fnmo.1+ln.shalott+lnmsrs.false

November 23, 2024’s dream had me in a tower escaping approaching water. The Lady of Shalott story has her “imprisoned” in the tower.

May 21, 2025’s dream showed a court in Italy. Maybe I’m reaching here, but I’ll mention this Italian novellina https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/La_Damigella_di_Scalot.

March 26, 2026’s dream referenced the spring and water was then shown too.

July 3, 2026’s dream showed gallery. There were clothed… people or mannequins seen there, but still. At least some The Lady of Shalott are in galleries.

I saw the references to the “Lady of the Lake” before. It’s a character in The Witcher game too.

The Lady of Shalott (1833 & 1842 Versions) by Alfred Lord Tennyson

https://d.lib.rochester.edu/camelot/text/tennyson-shalott-comparison.html

1833 version is 20 stanzas long. 1842 version is 19 stanzas long.

Fields of barley. Pearl barley (Перловка) was something I loved feeding my semi-pet pigeon and he loved that fact too, it seemed. I often associate pearl barley with pigeons now because of that.

"But who hath seen her wave her hand?"
Maybe nothing, just reminded me of Sarah Brightman's song Captain Nemo in which she sings of raising her hand and waving goodbye. That song played a rather big role in my life, so there might be a connection of sorts.

"Full royally apparellèd
The Lady of Shalott."
"Though the squally eastwind keenly
Blew, with folded arms serenely
By the water stood the queenly
Lady of Shalott."
July 14, 2026's dream answer about this life showed a writing saying "you are the queen". I later remembered that there were probably other writings above that one on the board. And the quoted sentence is the last one with more sentences above it.
It's possible that dream's message was a reference to this verse.

"And by the moon the reaper weary,
Piling sheaves in uplands airy,
Listening, whispers "'Tis the fairy
Lady of Shalott.""
In Vivien's life I played a fairy Titiania in Midsummer Night's Dream.

"No time hath she to sport and play"
As far as I know I have not been a sportsman in my past lives, nor I am in my current one. Based on some of my dreams, my future lives of Vika and Maelle might revolve around sports.

"And flamed upon the brazen greaves
Of bold Sir Launcelot.
A redcross knight for ever kneeled
To a lady in his shield,
That sparkled on the yellow field,
Beside remote Shalott."
Greaves reminded me of shin-protectors I saw in the dream of February 7, 2026. And yellow field reminded me of this dream on July 6, 2026. One relates to a sport, another to… and there was that girl, Natasha, who compared s to a good sport…

There was a district knock when it was 7:29 PM and I was reading the ballad about my 29th life.

"As often thro' the purple night,
Below the starry clusters bright,
Some bearded meteor, trailing light,
Moves over green Shalott."

Purple is 1 of my favorite colors. A meteor, or a comet, appeared in my dream on November 4, 2024 to show me when I was born in this 29th life. Actually! I just re-read my entry of that day and I wrote that purple was in my memory when I woke up that night! It's yet another time when what I saw in a dream when asking about my 29th life is reflected in this verse about me! (#curious)

"She made three paces thro' the room"

"Outside the isle a shallow boat
Beneath a willow lay afloat,
Below the carven stern she wrote,
THE LADY OF SHALOTT."

I had synchronicities with willow trees (Missy's life).

"A cloudwhite crown of pearl she dight."
Pearl crown: There could be some connection to my Cleopatra's life.

"Knight and burgher, lord and dame,
To the plankèd wharfage came:
Below the stern they read her name,
"The Lady of Shalott.""

July 18, 2026's dream showed me that I did find my 29th life – The Lady of Shalott. It also showed a plank – something which was seen in several past dreams too.

The fear of leaving the tower due to curse finds reflections in my life also. After the first time fell sick, I was afraid to go outside and sat home for months or even years. After the second time that happened, I also barely go outside, and if I do go I don't walk too far away.

It's July 22, 2026 today. I'm happy to have found so many parallels with what I saw in my dreams while trying to find this 29th life of mine for nearly 21 months. Seeing all this brightened me up and brought my trust back to the old levels; I needed this after May 18, 2026.

This experience is very important!

The 12-th emperor of the Song dynasty and the 3-rd emperor of the Southern Song dynasty.

During childhood either suffered from bipolar or severe neurosis.

The first relates to me in my past life of Vivien Leigh; and the second one I'm sadly experiencing in this life… (#psyche)?

I'll add the VL bipolar episode started when I was playing myself as Cleopatra, and also after that accident resulted in miscarriage. I wonder if me having being rulers in several lives has some effect on me during certain moments – maybe difficult moments - of life?

Constantly accompanied father in tours and banquets.

Then became dominated by the wife Li, and becoming known as "henpecked weakling". (#error)

In Russian it would translate something like "подкаблучник слабак". It's interesting too because several years ago I hinted to a guy who used to be in TPXP group he was just that – подкаблучник. It's not a short story; tldr is he unfriended me for no reason other than his 'girlfriend' Marced did the same – and for also no good reason; I tried to help her become a better person, tried to show her mistakes she made and gave a few suggestions.

I feel like it may actually relate to (#spiritual-knowledge). And I was also experiencing living and observing life from a different point of view – I saw someone else make a similar mistake.

And I wonder if the fact I was living not many lives in a male body had something to do with why I allowed myself to be dominated like that.

Eventually, made up excuses in order to avoid father. (#error) There were several lives when father was absent at one time or another. Could be me paying the penalty in some of those moments of my lives.

Drinking was also an (#error). May relate to other past lives in terms of still lacking the (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding the alcohol consumption. In lives of Alex and Cleo drinking did play a role also (I've noted those instances before)

When the Retired Emperor Xiaozong became sick, Guangzong refused to visit him, upsetting Xiaozong and making Xiaozong's illness worsen.

This was sad to read… especially since an eerily similar situation occurred in my current life… my dad got sick and was in hospital. I wanted to visit him but due to my health issues postponed the visit. When I finally thought I'd be able to visit him – no matter what – the phone rang… my father was dead…

(#reflection-life)

Speaking of this tag – it's no surprise a similar situation is presented again. I think it's how you get tested – an examination of the Universe, so to say – if you've learnt your lesson and have acquired the spiritual knowledge. Of course, there may be something else at play here too.

The filial piety situation. They write I refused to wear mourning clothes. They also write about the abdication because of refusal to attend the funeral procession of father, influenced by the wife Empress Li Fengniang.

The clothes part yesterday reminded me of my role of Scarlet in Gone with the Wind. She didn't fancy wearing those clothes. People did say that I – Vivien Leigh – played myself (often). It's true.

And I actually think it's (#spiritual-knowledge) because I know that people reincarnate in new bodies (unless they reunite with the Spirit) and so there's no reason to feel that much sadness. Also, I no longer wear black in this life because it makes me feel noticeably worse (it relates to Aura; and it's noticeable if I get accustomed to wearing the colors I like).

As for refusal to attend the funerals. It may have been an (#error) actually. The dream which showed I was this person in my past life actually showed a man who resembled my current life's father a lot. I wonder if there's connection; if maybe I paid for that error in what I had to experience in this life around and after the time my dad died. I felt sick (heart issues due to… [self-identified; maybe some people would disagree] neurosis) to go to the funeral, but I somehow managed to do it.

Later I learnt Li suspected that the medicine his father had left me when I was sick was poisoned. They write it was the reason for not attending the funeral.

In a way it may have sense. I noticed that I may have been poisoned as Alex and as Cleo I might have been careful not to get poisoned again – feeling the threat due to [possibly] astropsychic data returning to me in Cleo's life. If that's how it works, then a similar situation could have occurred in this life of Zhao. So when I heard about the possibility of being poisoned the data from the astropsychic body was brought to the surface and the old 'memory' influenced my decisions. It still was an error not to go, but this may give an explanation into how [some part of] reincarnation works – I'd need to eventually ask my Higher Self if my ideas regarding the astropsychic body are correct.

I'll just note 'Li' pronounced the same as 'Leigh'. I've already mentioned there are connections to my past life of Vivien Leigh coming from this life.

On Wikipedia there's image of a Chinese 2 Cash coin from the Southern Song dynasty, struck during the reign of Guangzong.

In the dream in which I asked if I lived before or after Jesus in my China leader life, I saw coins in my palm giving me the answer – after.

Song dynasty. It maybe nothing, given the meaning of the work is different in Chinese. "Strong dynasty". In English it relates to music, though. I love music in this life, I loved it in my Missy's life, and as Vivien listened to music also.

There was internation peace during the short reign.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Li_Fengniang

Some things resonate with my other past lives.

Prediction of the future (now it doesn't matter whether the person could actually predict it or not)

Apparently I had concubines in that life and it matches other past and future lives of mine.

"In 1191, Empress Li allegedly had the emperor's favorite concubine consort Huang killed, which caused the Emperor to react so badly that he became sick and bedridden, leaving the empress to handle the affairs of state by herself"

Psychologically and spiritually I can see myself in that description. I've reacted badly too to some negative things… in fact, I got sick because of that and also bedridden for a long time… (#reflection-life) and [still] lacking of (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding how to deal with such negative situations in life.

But! There was a bright moment when I regained my health – around the time I published Thiaoouba Prophecy's translation in Russia (online stores). During that time I was mostly optimistic about life; if something negative happened I tried to keep my spirits high. So, I am making some progress.

I think the reason someone close to me had to be killed was the payment for one of errors made in a past life in which I may have done a similar thing to someone – directly or not.

William Armine

Воронеса (sometimes I call crow(s) (ворона(ы)) with this word)

Differently spelled last name.

Parliamentary cause

10 April. Titanic departure.

Birth date and age of death match the answers

28 November was created baronet

The names of all 2 wives and 4 (6?) children do connect to me. (Elizabeth Hicks; Mary Holcroft)

Refused to collect arbitrary loan and was imprisoned.

Lincolnshire, Linkin Park

1st wife was Elizabeth Hicks; her father was Sir Michael Hicks. Michael Biehn played Corporal Hicks in James Cameron's Aliens.

14 December 1619 - married Liza

28 August 1628 - married Mary. Her life is also of notice.

St. Martin's Lane.

Lived for 7 years there.

High sheriff.

In dream when I was asking for last name I'd was shown by a male. My complexion maybe. It may have been the way police shows id cards to civilians - been there.

The age dream had bandits and maybe police. Guns were involved I think also. A tractor played a role too.

Sister-in-law Gertrude Talbot Baroness Pierrepont Holme Pierrepoint died in 1649 at 68.

Evdokia Andreevna Dioper

Евдокия Андреевна Диопер. Greek.

Died in Russian Empire, Leningrad Oblast, Staraya Ladoga.

Father: Андрей Диопер. A Greek naval captain who served in the Russian fleet.

Had daughter(s) called Polyxena (Поликсена); But some say she did not exist; German Biography of Abram says the name was Evdokia – born in 1731 in Pärnu.

called Агриппина (Agrippina) who was born weak and soon died.

Places I was at:

St. Petersburg, Russian Empire.

Пернов, Эстония. (Pärnu, Estonia)

Васильевский остров, приход церкви св. апостола Андрея Первозванного. (St. Petersburg).

Новгород (Novgorod).

The Staroladozhsky Convent in Russian Empire, Leningrad Oblast, Staraya Ladoga.

http://uspenie-ladoga.ru/evdokia_gannibal/

As Cleopatra I was Greek too. Greece has connections to me in other lives too.

In Evdokia's life I was forced to marry against my will someone I didn't love - Абрам (Ибрагим) Петрович Ганнибал. (Abram Petrovich Gannibal).

The name Abram relates to Abraham – the name I probably had in my past life I lived when Queen Christina lived.

«понеже, арап, и не нашей породы» - «because he is a blackamoor and not of our race» is how Google translated the words they write I uttered when refusing to marry Abram. If so then I'll tag it as (#error).

"арап" could also mean "a servant" (usually of black skin) in those days

(albeit, in the houses of nobility, and from what I know father Dioper was not of nobility).

There was a dream in which I was a black skinned woman and there was a white man. I don't know atm if that female was me in my past life or not. Unless as Lisa Hill I had black skin, I had more or less white skin in all my lives I've lived so far after Evdokia's.

That life's father was a naval captain and I can only wonder for now if it had any relation to why in my very next life of Emma Hamilton the fate brought me to meet Horatio Nelson.

Polyxena was white and clearly not Abram's. I've mentioned before how throughout several recent past lives – and mine included – the topic of someone being someone else's child – or children not knowing their true father/mother - has been appearing.

That life's sister was married off to Bohdan Khalabiy (Богдан Халябий).

There was a person by the name 'Bohdan' living on the 6-th floor somewhere above me. We were of different ages to be friends. Several years ago, his mother approached me telling something about some help; which I did not need – rumors probably; still don't know what that was about. A comedic story, it's me who mentioned Thiaoouba Prophecy book that could give her great information; don't think she's read it.

https://mikv1.narod.ru/text/OpatovicGanRS1877.htm

Had sexual encounters with:

Александр Кайсаров (Alexander Kaisarov) (Before marriage. Thought of marrying him)

Abram Petrovich Gannibal

(After Marriage):

Яков Шишков (Jacob Shishkov) (кондуктор - воинское звание)

Абумов (Abumov) (apprentice of the Academy of Sciences)

Shishkov is compared to Don Juan.

This reminded me of "The Phantom of the Opera" movie I watched. 'Don Juan Triumphant' is how the Phantom is described there.

The reason I mention this movie is because I feel like I have certain synchronicities with it and the media surrounding it.

Sarah Brightman's song and music video led me to it – and Sarah have played a role in my search for my past lives several times. Sarah's fictional character Christine Daaé plays me – Cleopatra – in that music video (Andrew Lloyd Webber, Sarah Brightman, Steve Harley - The Phantom Of The Opera).

Christine is the name of the girl whom I approached near Ostankino and she played a small yet noticeable role in my life (Talked about it in my book ‘Simple Truths of Life’).

Then we discover how Abram Petrovich Gannibal, while still being married to me in that life of Evdokia, married a woman called Christine Regina Siöberg. (Regina is another name I noticed before, but maybe it’s nothing)

Shishkov was a conductor – warfare tittle. But now the word is also used to call people who check your tickets on public transport and trains.

I’ve had various interactions with them.

Some were negative.

Like when I, being probably a teenager, had my mother’s pass and had to ‘pay’ 500 or 1000 rubles to the conductor’s pocket so that he doesn’t report me. I was feeling bad about the situation, ashamed maybe, and never listened to my mother to take her free pass card – from what I remember she suggested I take her card. It was my fault, but I got off lightly.

Or when my ticket wasn’t registered by the faulty card reader – but it blinked green – and I had to go to annul the fine the conductors imposed on me. I was acquitted and paid nothing.

Some good stories involve when I was riding on a train back to Moscow from my village and I didn’t know how to get the paper that would allow then to pay. It happened twice for various reasons (once it’s either I board the almost leaving train or wait a long time for another) and the same conductor actually helped me by giving a 100-ruble fine but also stating on the paper I boarded the electric train at the closer station than I did (Pokrov), which resulted in me having to pay about the same or even a bit less. I’m thankful to that lady, because it also helped me re-realize that there are good people to be found among different professions.

Lost virginity to Kaisarov before (against the will) marrying Abram. I don’t consider it to be a huge error. It’s possible there are traces of it… it’s a complex situation.

People who forced the marriage clearly did wrong. And it’s important to know if Abram knew about the thought of marrying Kaisarov; if he did not, then the error grows largers.

What’s clear here is that I suffered for some (#error) I made in a past life – unless I never said for some reason that I had been thinking of marrying Kaisarov. If the former is correct, then it’s clearly something about forcing someone else to do something against their free will. Lives of Cleopatra, Alexander maybe the ones where such error was done.

A month after the wedding, Abram was sent from St. Petersburg to Pernov (Pärnu, Estonia). (Пернов in Russian)

As we drive to our village from Pokrov, we pass a village called Перново (Pernovo). Its boundary touches the road. Needless to say, over the years I’ve passed that village dozens of times, and we once drove through it.

Was married to Abram on January 17, 1731. Maybe nothing, just in case noting the number 17 since it appeared before in my lives.

Abram himself in 1717 was sent to Metz to receive an education in the arts, sciences and warfare from the highest institutes available.

3 rubles were given to Shchelkoldin (Щеколдин) for road expenses during which he had to bring me to the place of exile.

Don't know how true it is (under the circumstances could be). There was a rumor about me and Shishkov plotting to poison Abram. On 28 February he filed a complaint with the chancery.

Poison connects to my past life of Cleopatra.

But then there's my past lives of Mary Magdalene and Hypatia. Unless the situation was dire I find it hard to believe I could so casually suggest poisoning someone, having lived those grand lives in which I learned quite a lot in terms of spirituality I'd imagine. And the following piece from the book I'm quoting says that I, as Evdokia, did not actually plan to poison anyone.

(Русская старина, 1877. – Т. 18. - № 1. – С. 69-78.)

'Фабер под присягою показал, что, 26-го числа того же месяца [February], мещанка Морша говорила ему: «приходил-де ко мне Шишков и говорил, что капитан Абраам Петров болен и кабы капитанша была умна и послала в аптеку и купила чего и дала-б ему, Петрову, и он бы не долго стал жить». Тоже показала и сама Морша. '

('Faber testified under oath that on the 26th of the same month [February], the townswoman Morsha told him: "Shishkov came to me and said that Captain Abraham Petrov was ill and if the captain's wife had been smart and had sent to the pharmacy and bought something and given it to him, Petrov, he would not have lived long." Morsha herself testified the same.)

'Подав жалобу на своих подчиненных, Ганнибал принялся и за жену, и плохо стало бедной. Он приставил к ней крепкий, надежный караул и неоднократно брал ее к себе, в свои покои. Там, в стены, повыше роста человеческаго, ввернуты были кольца. Туда вкладывались руки несчастной и ея тело повисало на воздухе. В комнате заранее приготовлены были розги, батоги, плети и муж «бил и мучил несчастную смертельными побоями необычно», принуждая ее, чтобы она на суде при допросах показала, будто "с кондуктором Шишковым хотела его, Ганнибала, отравить и с ним, Шишковым, блуд чинила». При этом, в случае, если она покажет не по его желанию, «грозил ее, Евдокию, убить». После таких внушений, в канцелярию (где производилось дело о нарушении супружеской верности и где сам Ганнибал играл роль не маловажную), Евдокия все показывала по желанию мужа, чтобы только вырваться из его рук. Тем не менее, в течение месяца она жила у мужа и только в конце марта того же года взята была в канцелярию. Ее посадили на Госпитальный двор, куда обыкновенно заключались осужденные. Там, под крепким караулом, провела она пять лет «пока суды кончались». На содержание арестованных никто не обращал внимания и арестанты Госпитальнаго двора питались или на средства родных, или на доброхотныя подаяния христолюбцев. На содержание Евдокие Андреевне муж ничего не давал и сам нарочно затягивал дело, чтобы подольше продержать ее под караулом. Арестантке не раз приходилось страдать от голода, в ожидании милостыни. Нечего уже и говорить о других условиях быта в Госпиталъном дворе.

Вот, на основании документов, история разрыва между Ганнибалом и его женою. Здесь нет ни одного слова о рождении белой девочки. И во всем деле об ней не упоминается. Очевидно, ея и не существовало.'

('Having lodged a complaint against his subordinates, Hannibal took up his wife, and the poor thing became ill. He assigned her a strong, reliable guard and repeatedly took her to himself, to his chambers. There, in the walls, higher than a man's height, rings were screwed in. The hands of the unfortunate woman were placed there and her body hung in the air. In the room, rods, batogs, and lashes were prepared in advance, and the husband "beat and tortured the unfortunate woman with fatal beatings in an unusual way," forcing her to testify at the trial during interrogations that "she wanted to poison him, Hannibal, with the conductor Shishkov and commit adultery with him, Shishkov." Moreover, if she testified against his will, "he threatened to kill her, Evdokia." After such admonitions, Evdokia testified everything at her husband's request in the chancery (where the case of adultery was being tried and where Hannibal himself played a significant role), just to escape from his hands. Nevertheless, she lived with her husband for a month and was taken to the chancery only at the end of March of the same year. She was placed in the Hospital Yard, where convicts were usually imprisoned. There, under strong guard, she spent five years "until the trials were over." No one paid attention to the maintenance of the arrested, and the prisoners of the Hospital Yard were fed either by their relatives or by the voluntary donations of Christ-lovers. Evdokia Andreyevna's husband gave nothing for her maintenance and he himself deliberately delayed the matter in order to keep her under guard longer. The prisoner had to suffer from hunger more than once, waiting for alms. There is no need to talk about other living conditions in the Hospital Yard. Here, based on documents, is the story of the break between Hannibal and his wife. There is not a single word about the birth of a white girl. And in the entire case she is not mentioned. Obviously, she did not exist.)

Here the author says there was no daughter. For now, I'll assume there was. It's something I might ask my Higher Self once I hopefully reach the point when I have time to fill out the details about my past lives via my Higher Self.

Another thing of note is regarding the rings in the wall used to hold hands and the body being hung in the air.

There's a videogame I love – Final Fantasy VI – and there's a cutscene in the PlayStation version showing Celes Chere being held in chains by the rings screwed to the wall. Not so long ago – and before I found out about Evdokia's life - I rewatched FF6's cutscenes for nostalgia's sake and for the beautiful music, and that scene clearly moved me in a certain way… There's a good chance I experienced then the same thing as I found I sometimes do when I come across something that played a noticeable role in my other lives. (#curious) and may relate to (#psyche-data-astro)

I'll add Celes sings in the opera, and as Emma Hamilton I did sing and opera is of relation to the life too.

Just in case I'll note - When reading about my past life of Emma H. I came across a name – Celeste -, who was 'a superb actress and singer.' She sang in opera houses. Celes and Celeste derive from the same name – Caelestis.

(Locke Cole FF6 character reminded me of Loki Laufeyson character and Katya from Sokolniki who's unhealthily obsessed by him, but the names are quite different.)

Was basically imprisoned for 5 years while the trial was underway.

In this life I knew that I cherish my freedom too much, and I'd try my best not to commit any crime to get my freedom taken away. It's a long story and I mentioned those episodes of my life in my other book Simple Truths of Life. Basically, freedom is noticeably important to me – again, it was that subtle feeling inside of me, not just basic understanding if you do this or that you go to jail; so, I feel like that Evdokia's episode of my past life may have contributed to me not taking my freedom for granted. (#psyche-data) or (#psyche-data-astro). May relate to (#spiritual-knowledge) also.

And as for trial, in Vivien's life the first husband was a barrister. And courts and trials were part of several movies I played in during that life.

As for hunger… I'll only quote Scarlett O'Hara's line: "As God is my witness.... As God is my witness, they're not going to lick me. I'm going to live through this, and when it's all over, I'll never be hungry again…"

Again and again I see that indeed in Vivien's life I played myself (quite often, at least); many roles resonate with what I had to experience, endure, live through in my past lives.

…And of course there's that videogame 'Dread Hunger' about which I've talked before.

"Синод передал дело преосвященному Никодиму, епископу с.-

петербургскому, и, по распоряжению его, Евдокия Андреевна отдана на поруки и поселилась у своих знакомых на Васильевском острове, в приходе церкви св. апостола Андрея Первозваннаго."

(The Synod handed the matter over to His Grace Nikodim, Bishop of St. Petersburg, and, by his order, Evdokia Andreevna was placed on bail and settled with her friends on Vasilievsky Island, in the parish of the Church of St. Andrew the First-Called.)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Saint_Andrew%27s_Cathedral_(Saint_Petersburg)

The architect Nicodemus Tessin the Younger was asked to design a church resembling St Paul's Cathedral in London and exceeding 430 feet in length.

St. Paul's Cathedral is seen in Waterloo Bridge – a very important movie for me.

Also, a structure resembling that cathedral – and maybe it was exactly it – was shown in my dream when I walked thought the mirror maze and then saw my past body (later I learnt I had that physical body in Cleopatra's life). So that was an important dream too.

«такою же своею виною одержима есть, как и ныне имеется чревата»

At first the court of… old Russian "law" sentenced me in that life to be sent to work till the death to a Spinning yard. But I apparently managed to annul that sentence.

Could be nothing, but the story just reminded me of the famous and good portrait of me as Emma Hamilton: "The Spinstress (c.1784) by George Romney".

Anna Ioannovna was Empress of Russia during the first years the trial was brought to St. Petersburg. She helped materially in building of the Church of St. Andrew the First-Called.

They describe Evdokia as beautiful.

On 9-th of April 1731 (Easter) went to Морша (Morsha) and sent her daughter Maria Elizabeth for Shishkov.

"Сели играть в карты, в короли, «и когда он, Шишков, король был, то ей, капитанше, наложил, чтоб она его целовала, что капитанша и учинила»" - ('They sat down to play cards, kings, "and when he, Shishkov, was king, he ordered her, the captain's wife, to kiss him, which the captain's wife did."')

I was called Mary (Maria) in another life, and in the future (Mary Jane Kennedy). I'd also be called Elizabeth in my next life (Lisa Hill).

The quote reminded me my Vivien Leigh's 'You deserve to be kissed.'

(#psyche-data) and it could be lack of certain (#spiritual-knowledge).

http://pushkin-lit.ru/pushkin/mesta/granovskaya-esli-ehat-vam-sluchitsya/poslednie-gody-v-sujde.htm

The divorce process lasted for 21 years. That number has been appearing here and there in my various other lives.

The marriage itself lasted on paper 22 years (from 1731 till 1753).

The archival divorce documents has the number № 2,466.

http://uspenie-ladoga.ru/history/

Was exiled to the Staroladozhsky Convent in Staraya Ladoga where I died.

"«дабы оная, пребывая в покаянии, приходила в церковь к повседневному молитвословию, келейнаго правила не оставляла и, по возможности, в монастырских послушаниях обращалась неленостно»" - ("so that she, remaining in repentance, would come to church for daily prayer, would not abandon her cell rule and, if possible, would be devoted to monastic obediences without laziness")

As Vivien Leigh I had to study at the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Roehampton for several years. Then at some others.

My grandmother on father's side – Tanya – used to say prayers pretty much each day, I think. She burnt a candle too. There were many icons of Jesus and other people who are considered saints by the church. Could be related to seeing life from another perspective.

Also, as Emma I'd go to church and I attributed it to not knowing a lot about reincarnation. But maybe Evdokia's past life had something to do with it too – like the (#psyche-data-astro). In this life I'd also cross myself until I realized it's doing nothing and later found out the truth thanks to Thiaoouba Prophecy book.

Mary Magdalene and Hypatia's life are of interest here too. As Maria I knew the truth. As Hypatia I had no memory of the past life, but I still gravitated towards Neoplatonism which has reincarnation. As Evdokia I was forced to experience a monastery life (related to Christianity after the original Bible was distorted and many truths removed from it – e.g. reincarnation) – something I might not have done out of my own free will given my soul's history.

Деревня Хмелево. Женский монастырь. Мария Магдалина.

When I was little to teenager my father and grandfather (father's side) bought and built a small house for my grandmother (father's side) in the village called Ignatovo. I've already mentioned how this name has appeared in my other lives.

In order to drive there we had to pass through a village called Khmelevo (Vladimir Oblast, Russia).

Somehow, I remembered well how my parents talked about the convent that was sitting near the road we drove on. I looked at it too, of course. It needed some restoration done if my memory serves me right. It's called Skorbyashchensky Convent of the Village of Khmelevo (Скорбященский женский монастырь деревни Хмелево).

It makes sense now that my attention was drawn to the building similar to that in which I had to spend years of my life in my several past lives. As you might remember, it seems to be a common thing to be presented with something your soul (Astral body) has some connection to (I wrote about those events before – in connection to my Vivien, Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene's past lives)

But there's more. https://monasterium.ru/monastyri/namestniki/igumeniya-magdalina-lushina/ The Abbess of the Khmelevo Convent is called Magdalene. ("Patron Saint: Saint Mary Magdalene" / "Date of appointment to the post of prioress: April 5, 2001"). We have photos taken in Ignatovo in 2001 and I'm in them; so, we clearly passed that convent when Игумения Магдалина (Лушина) was a prioress there; she dedicated her life to the revival of the monastery. Obviously, it's another synchronicity – a complex interweaving - to my past life of Mary Magdalene.

But… there's still more. https://monasterium.ru/monastyri/monastery/skorbyashchenskiy-zhenskiy-monastyr-derevni-khmelevo/

In that convent's history it says honorary citizen of Moscow Ivan Mikhailovich Meshkov founded that monastery.

My last name is Meshkov. I've encountered my namesakes before, but rarely – 2 times maybe. So, this one might be the 3-rd.

Every year, before 1924 (maybe it's 1928) when the monastery was closed, three religious processions were held in the Skorbyashchenskaya community:
on July 26, the day the church was laid, on September 4, in memory of its consecration, and on October 24, the monastery's patronal feast.

My father died on July 26, 2018. And on July 26, 1988, Eva Chirumbolo came forward and told police about the murder of me in my past life of Michele Avila (Missy). In a way, it's the most important synchronicity, for if I did not see that date when something inside of me made me curious to learn more information about Missy (not yet knowing it's me in another life), then I would not find the other synchronicities with my past life of Michel, which would result in me not seeing the connections to my past life of Vivien Leigh…

and as a result, I'd probably would not have had that true dream on September 4, 2023 (in which I stated I was the actress Vivien Leigh) which led me to eventually learning that I am actually Vivien Leigh and later I found a lot more of my past lives, allowing to gain more and more knowledge about reincarnation. Of course, the later is very important to humanity.

Recently I finished reading about my past life of Cleopatra on October 23, and on the night of 24-th I saw in the dream 'Alexander III of Macedon' written and I knew it was me – people talked about me in the dream. I'm not sure if it's of any connection here, just noting.

Abram Petrovich Gannibal

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Abram_Petrovich_Gannibal

Abram Petrovich Gannibal was Russian Chief Military Engineer, General-in-Chief, and nobleman of African origin. Kidnapped and enslaved as a child by Ottomans.

Ottoman street is where I lived as Michele Avila. Turkey relates to me via Natasha in this life, and I've other connections to it in several other lives.

Petrovich – Petr. Petr is Czech form of Peter. It's the 3-rd time a Peter plays a negative role in my past life – others are Mary Magdalene and Hypatia.

I'll note here the name derived from Greek Πέτρος (Petros) meaning "stone". In Hypatia's life stone-like objects might have been used to kill me.

Петр Ильин (Petr Ilyin) was a priest who finally agreed to marry Abram with his second wife, Christina.

"Pyotr Ilyin explained that he could only marry using a "marriage memory" - a document that Ilyin did not have. It was necessary to obtain such a "memory" from one of the parish priests. They searched - and finally got it from the priest of the Nikolaev Revel Church, Ivan Filippov, and Pyotr Ilyin married Hannibal to Khristina Sheberg."

"Peter the Great decided to stop the evil by issuing strict laws against women committing adultery. The guilty were driven around the city with rods and then imprisoned in the Spinning Yard for lifelong labor. On January 8, 1744, imprisonment in the Spinning Yard was replaced by exile to Orenburg, but in 1751 the exile commission ceased its operations."

He's a great-grandfather of Alexander Pushkin, Russian poet.

In school I was briefly called 'Pushkin' by two school friends because my hair got so curly and wavy all of a sudden; which was interesting since before my hair was quite straight.

He came from Селенгинск (Selenginsk). It's in Kabansky District of the Republic of Buryatia. In Russian it's called "Кабанский район". "Кабан" means "a boar", and the person who called me a certain name which I revealed elsewhere, called another village friend of ours "кабан" – unfortunately, I also sometimes used that word to refer to him.

Provided it's not just a coincidence - To know the possible reason for this synchronicity one'd need to know if that village friend lived, and if yes then who he was, when I was Evdokia.

Abram was 33 when he met Andrey Dioper.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Eudoxia_Lopukhina

Peter I's wife was also Евдокия and she also lived in the same Staroladozhsky Convent in Staraya Ladoga.

А. С. Пушкин. Арап Петра Великого

I'm called Natasha, but the character is fictional mostly. Ref to October 31, 2024 dream.

She's 16.

Good dancer.

Fainted hitting the head on a chest containing her possessions. This reminded me of village's Large House big wooden chest I loved to sit on when coming to aunts – Liza and Klava – to get бутерброд (~sandwich) in the morning.

6-th chapter has me ask for how long I was sick and it's been 2 weeks; I thought only a day. Irl this happened to me too, from what I remember, when I was a child; I was so sick that I didn't know how long I was in bed – at least, this is a memory I think I have. Mother did say that in my childhood I was so sick that she thought I might die – maybe this is what I remember.

Emma Hamilton

12.04.2024. When I was writing these notes several months, I didn't know I was Emma Hamilton. How could I? It was some time later that I'd get hints and then confirmations I was Emma Hamilton in my past life also.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Emma,_Lady_Hamilton

Birth: 26 Apr 1765, Neston, Cheshire West and Chester Unitary Authority, Cheshire, England.

Death: 15 Jan 1815 (aged 49), Calais, Departement du Pas-de-Calais, Nord-Pas-de-Calais, France.

Burial: Church of St. Pierre Lille, Departement du Nord, Nord-Pas-de-Calais, France

I decided to read about Emma while watching the movie That Hamilton Woman with Vivien Leigh.

Interestingly, there were several things that caught my eye in terms of coincidences, syncs.

And yes, I do see this as the classic… when you perhaps find the right things but then get overwhelmed and overexcited, and apply the same concept to other unrelated or different things (e.g. the detective who said to learn his father killed Black Dilia and then went on to claim his father killed a lot of other people and was the Zodiac killer – who knows of course, maybe it is so – but some people saw it differently and turned away from him.)

Emma occupied many roles: maid, actress, s*x worker, model, muse, mistress, wife, diplomat, lover, mother and leader of fashion.

Was known as Emma Hart. Vivian Mary Hartley was Vivien Leigh's name. It is highly subjective but I wanted to include this.

Dame Emma Hamilton (born Amy Lyon; 26 April 1765 – 15 January 1815), known upon moving to London as Emma Hart, and upon marriage as Lady Hamilton.

She was born Emy or Amy Lyon in a mining village in Swan Cottage, Ness, Cheshire, England in 1765.

Cheshire cat is who I was compared to in my VL life (when I smiled like one, knowing I'd get what I wanted at the dawn of my acting career). Actually, some people believe the phrase 'grinning like a Cheshire cat' originated in the village Emma was born in.

Swan could be nothing, but for the record there's Swan Lake playing in Waterloo Bridge, which was the movie that helped me see I had to be Vivien Leigh.

Her mother's name is Mary – same as VL's middle name. (12.04.2024 – Mary Magdalene)

She married at the age of 26 Sir William Hamilton. (she was born on 26 April 1765 and died on 15 January 1815 (aged 49)). On July 26 my father died and also 30 years before it became known who killed Michele Avila. 26 has other connections to me in several of my lives.

At age 12 began work as a maid at the Hawarden home of Honoratus Leigh Thomas, a surgeon working in Chester.

Leigh – same name as Vivien took for her stage name, which was the middle name of her first husband.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Honoratus_Leigh_Thomas was born on 26 March 1769. He died at Belmont, Torquay, on 26 June 1846. Aged 77.

They say I (EH) danced nude on Sir Harry Fetherstonhaugh's dining room table.

Vivien would be seen naked in public gardens.

I'd fully undress during a brief moment of my yearly childhood life. (#psyche-data-?)

Described as: witty, intelligent, a quick learner, elegant and, as paintings of her attest, extremely beautiful.

Just a thought… Michele was in a class for smart children, Vivien is said to have been witty too. As for myself… I do know some things… (#spiritual-knowledge-?)

Set off for Naples on 13 March 1786, and arrived in Naples on her 21st birthday on 26 April.

Vivien appeared in 21 movies according to imdb. Also 26.

21 years between Vivien's death and my birthday

Since my first writing this I've found other 21 numbers in my lives.

Vulgar toilette, unaristocratic mannerisms and drinking. The Duc de Bourbon's remark on Emma drinking port during a dinner in Naples: "habit of hers as she did not become drunk after finishing two or three bottles".

Drinking was Vivien's problem at one point…

The clothing theme can also relate to some degree to me in VL life and my own.

She was a model (for painters). There was a time when at about 18+ I foolishly thought I could try modeling (of course no one was interested.) To be fair the fact that years before several people called me beautiful influenced that wish…

Also, in my VL life I was kinda modeling for a bit.

There are 98 years between her death and Vivien Leigh birth… I mean… one could come a full circle during this time…

The attitudes, portraying classical themes have some actress vibes. (#psyche-data-?)

She used to write many letters. So did Vivien and I wanted to learn to write in early childhood. MA had a diary and had notebook in which there's a little poem. (#curious-?)

12.04.2024. I could write in my earlier lives of Cleopatra and Hypatia too. Maybe in Mary Magdalene's also. Apparently, I was educated – to some degree or another – in quite a few of my lives.

Following Emma's advice, Nelson bought Merton near Wimbledon for £9,000. He borrowed money from his friend Davison. They lived there openly together with Sir William and Emma's mother. That ménage à trois fascinated the public.

… well…

Also, in VL life I watched Wimbledon on 7 July – hours before my death. The tennis theme was also a part of the October 1, 1985 – the day I died [as Missy]. In this life I watched a tennis match when I had a voice say 'Look!' near my ear (the word is connected to my VL life) (#curious-?)

Her daughter Emma Carew was at some point known as Emma Hartley.

– I almost cried out in a suppressed squeak seeing this - Vivian Mary Hartley is Vivien's name.

https://globalmaritimehistory.com/finding-lost-daughter-lady-hamilton/

She changed the name of Hart to Hartley/Hartly.

Nelson's sisters were Kitty (Catherine) and Susanna.

I'll note just in case Kitty is the name of Myra's blonde friend in Waterloo Bridge – movie, which made me realize I was indeed Vivien Leigh. (#curious-?)

Suzanne was the name of VL's daughter.

Joseph Farington wrote: "...she is bold & unguarded in her manner, is grown fat, & drinks freely."

She was about 36 years old. Vivien was, I think, 36 when playing in Streetcar (play; movie was short shortly after and then released after some months). The thing is it's roughly the time both were near the turning points In their lives (drinking for Emma, psychological problems for Vivien)

VL daughter's name is Suzanne Farrington (was born Holman). It's just 1 'r' more.

Nelson didn't visit his dad who became seriously ill. He celebrated Emma's 37-th birthday at home on that day when Edmun died. And he wasn't present at his dad's funeral.

I had health problems which prevented me from seeing my father when he was still alive… but I did find strength to bury him. That quote just reminded me about this event in my life.

Merton kinda reminded me of Tara in GwtW. Just slightly.

Jason M. Kelly summarized her: "In a world of aristocratic privilege and powerful men, her common birth and gender ultimately circumscribed her options".

She was accompanied by her mother.

I have to stay with my mom.

The Hamiltons lived, at one point, in William Beckford's mansion at 22 Grosvenor Square. Nelson and Fanny lived in a house at 17 Dover Street. Some time later Sir William lived at 23 Piccadilly, opposite Green Park.

Vivien Leigh played in the Piccadilly Theatre.

Also, the play The Skin of Our Teeth was played in the Plymouth Theatre (I thought the blue car in my dream could have been that). Scotty Bowers was photographed near a Plymouth car.

Emy Lyon's name was subject to several changes throughout Emma's life.

Amey
Emily
Emma Hart
Lady Hamilton

Vivian Mary Hartley had seen her name change several times also. (Vivian Leigh, Vivien Leigh). At 1 point she's said to have considered April Morn, Avril Maugham, and Suzanne Stanley for her stage name (http://vivandlarry.com/vivien-leigh/vivien-leigh-stardom-and-screen-image/) . Avril means April in French.

I used different names also in various websites until I became happy with who I am. (Steve Hudson, Sonny Hudson. And the names for not so important game accounts, or secondary social media accounts made for tests are: Anna Hudson, Anna Pierce, Anna Chilbin (or something like that; Vivien was in Manhattan, New York and must have seen Hudson River – the reason I wrote Hudson as the last name). (#curious-?)

It seems to me that both Viven and Emma weren't 100% the model mothers… Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge-?)

There's a mention of 21-month-old Horatia, when enquiries about her were made.

She started having diarrhea problems in the end of her life. That thing has played awkward roles in my life. There were 2 incidents in school. Also comes to memory the episode when the child was thrown out from someone's window. I remembered about reincarnation but diarrhea kept me home, unable to even try to approach the baby's mother and try to offer her potential help…

Just a note. Nelson was prematurely aged by years at sea. Vivien was prematurely aged by her psychological problems.

Okay. Emma showed bad example to society by having her affair with 2 men, by sleeping with someone else's husband. Not to jump to any conclusions, but in my life I saw the importance of high morals and values. I lived with my mother almost all my life because she found photos of my dad and red-haired Marina. I suffered from being rejected, and I saw how some people have harems almost, which is obviously depletes the available people to have romantic relationships with. And I tried to share those high morals and values with others via book and videos…

(#error-?)

She was imprisoned. My freedom is important to me and I'd never want to lose it. (#psyche-data-?)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Horatio_Nelson,_1st_Viscount_Nelson

Note about Nelson handing over hundreds of accused for trials and executions. There were, they say, pleas for clemency from both the Hamiltons and Queen Maria Carolina.

On IMDB a reviewer said an opposite thing, but I found that Emma probably was asking for clemency. I would too… (#spiritual-knowledge-?)

IF – if – this can be what, after actually finding out I was Vivien Leigh, I suspect this could have been – that Vivien Leigh, me, played herself – Emma Hart – in the movie "That Hamilton Woman". That is Vivien Leigh was Dame Emma Hamilton (Emma Hart)… I did remember that I was, probably still am, very stubborn. I wasn't able to get rid completely of daydreaming and PMO until I learned about Vivien… It seems to me the stubbornness can play a role here (in relation to s*x) IF the picture here is actually true…

The more I think about it the more I remember how I was surprised to see someone write a comment that Vivien was often playing herself (Streetcar, Wind, Waterloo, to name a few). What if there's even more truth to those words?

It'd show how you can be reincarnated and never know you play yourself… (#curious-?)

IF such is the case, then not young Emma's monologue (in the movie) is even more… fantastic! (when she speaks about the dead face in the mirror)

"Personal Memoirs", page 217-218.

"…for when the white flags were seen on the forts, and it was known that the patriots had obtained favourable terms, the ambassador's wife frowning said, "This will never do-we must have blood!""

I hoped so much this wasn't true… makes me wish I wasn't Emma….

On Wikipedia it says the Hamiltons were against the executions.

12.04.2024. I was Emma. But I was also Mary Magdalene and Hypatia, dying because of my error in Cleopatra's life. I'm sure I had to have gained some spiritual knowledge during Mary's and Hypatia's lives not to desire blood several lives later. Right now, I tend to believe Wiki because it matches the spiritual profile I must have had in Emma's life.

Another point: I've noticed that many people lie about me in my other lives – as well as in this one. It concerns my lives of: Missy, Vivien, and to some lesser degree [for now at least] my life of Cleopatra [but then if we remember the Roman propaganda about Cleopatra, the degree starts to be rather enormous indeed]. It's possible there were people who lied about me as Emma Hamilton also.

https://www.rmg.co.uk/stories/blog/emmas-mother-unseen-power

The author mentioned the ambition to escape the confines of class and not to accept the fate of my EH family.

Just noting it could be similar to 'headstrong' quality of V and me (wrote about it in GwtW section).

Also, in this life there was a time when I wanted both of those things. (#psyche-data)?

I'm wondering if people whose portraits were drawn also have some reflections in their next lives? As I do with the movies I was in as VL.

The portrait of Emma used for Lady Hamilton movie – but with VL on it – is showing 17 years old Emma. It was the first image I decided to save when I read the description. I was 17 when I was killed in Michele Avila's life. That number has appeared several times in VL life.

Also Emma is tilting her head in the portrait. The tilt of head is one of syncs between my current life and VL life.

"Lady Hamilton as Titania with Puck and Changeling, by George Romney, 1793" is one of portraits of Emma. In VL life I played Titania in A Midsummer Night's Dream, and in this life I had a reflection when I met a girl, Katya, who tried to draw fairy wings on the photograph of her. It turned out she was consumed by her imagination to a rather dangerous degree.

Since both Emma and Vivien were artists it's not that surprising to see this similarity. Could be nothing.

"Emma as a Sibyl, by George Romney, c. 1785" – another portrait.

Karen and Laura were ordered to stay at Sybil Brand Institute. There are possible syncs to Silent Hill which has a character with similarly sounding name.

The sibyls were prophetesses or oracles in Ancient Greece.

"Lady Emma Hamilton, as Cassandra, by George Romney".

It's somewhat related to Alexandra – the name which have played a role in my lives, and in this one my mother considered naming me Alexander.

The description on Wiki says that Cassandra was a Trojan priestess who uttered true prophecies but was never believed.

It reminded me so much of my situation. Only I don't usually speak of the future; merely about my experiences and findings – but I'm mainly not believed for some reason (since I also have some proof, and said to it's possible to get some proof).

"Lady Hamilton as Ariadne by Élisabeth Vigée-Lebrun, 1790".

Wiki: Ariadne is associated with mazes and labyrinths because of her involvement in the myths of Theseus and the Minotaur. In the first dream in which I saw myself asking my HS to change my body in the dream to the one I had in a past life I was among the maze made of mirrors.

There are several portraits depicting dogs and/or wolves. 2 portraits show dogs, and there are 2 Vivien's movies which either show or mention dogs, and both scenes are reflected in my current life.

"A contemporary caricature of Sir William Hamilton inspecting his antiquities. Lady Emma is depicted as Cleopatra and Nelson as Marc Antony."

In VL life I played Cleopatra. I also had a curious dream in which something was said about Vivien Leigh being Cleopatra.

12.04.2024. I was Cleopatra.

George Romney – Lady Hamilton as a Bacchante.

In this portrait Emma's face reminded me of Marina from my village. I've been noticing this theme of me in my past lives resembling someone I know in this life; and other people who played a role in my past lives also sometimes resemble people I know in this life.

George Romney – Lady Hamilton as The Magdalene.

20.02.2024. Just several days ago I found I have many synchronicities with Mary Magdalene.

Note: My Astral body should be of the 1 category, otherwise it'd mean I've stuck on this planet for some reason. And Magdalene was, reportedly, Jewish, and if she was 'pure' Jew, it means her Astral body was of higher category than 1. If the two points are true, it would be the first case in my life when synchronicities with another person who lived before me mean something other than reincarnation. If not, then it could mean I kinda played my old selves even before I was Vivien Leigh.

12.04.2024. I've had several confirmations I was Mary Magdalene. And when I asked my Higher Self to show me of what category Mary's physical body was, I was shown a battery charge which was almost drained; The charge level remaining would correspond to the 1 (at most to 2) if the 100% of the charge is equal to 9. Pure Jews are reportedly of the 3-rd category. If the dream was true and the charge was the answer to my question, then my Mary Magdalene's physical body was of the 1-st category.

Johann Heinrich Schmidt - Emma, Lady Hamilton.

In this portrait something in Emma's appearance reminds me of Dima from village.

https://www.english-heritage.org.uk/visit/places/kenwood/history-stories-kenwood/emma-hamilton/

At 13 she became a nursery maid for a local surgeon's family.

Emma may have worked conveying messages between Mrs Linley and the Drury Lane actresses.

Would be interesting if I was EH; one life you convey messages between actresses, and in another you are an actress - poetic. Sheridan last name appeared in VL life too.

Due to life circumstances had to work for a while at the brothel run by Mrs Kelly in Arlington Street. Emma later wrote to George Romney:

"you have seen and discoursed with me in my poorer days, you have known me in my poverty and prosperity … Oh my dear friend, for a time I own through distress my virtue was vanquished, but my sense of virtue was not overcome."

Tough to say, but if I was EH and Waterloo Bridge alone wasn't enough to manifest my prostitution experiences, then this could have been it. I mean I doubt EH suffered for her error given the high places she'd end up at later.

Apparently, Emma had ambitions. So did I in VL life. Even in this one I had a brief fiery desire to link my life with movies.

Emma was taught French, Italian, history and singing. Then she became a star hostess at Sir William's nightly parties; it was at those parties that Emma first performed the 'Attitudes'

In VL life I knew French; in this one I had a dream about learning French and actually bought a French self-teaching book. The last bit reminded me so much of the parties I reported had in my VL life…

Maybe nothing but I often fantasize to sing the songs I listen too on YouTube music.

Expensive tastes…

This is important because if I was EH and learned a lesson, then in VL life I had to live more modestly… I honestly feel like I did; The apartment on Eaton Square wasn't too large from what I know. Notley Abbey was Larry's idea. Tickerage Mill wasn't too large too, I guess.

On 21 October 1805 Nelson was fatally wounded. After his death Emma's friends and acquaintances abandoned her.

21 again.

I might find it of interest I don't feel too bad about not having friends. I attributed this to MA life, but of course experiences from other lives could have also prepared me for loneliness.

When Emma died at 49, her daughter Horatia was 14.

Sir William was 35 years older than Emma. 35 is the my age when I had the true dream telling I was Vivien Leigh and shortly after I realized I actually was.

Says Sir William studied volcanic activity of Vesuvius and tool me (EH) to study it close up too.

Well, it's interesting because I was/am interested in geology also (I'm interested in many things). Minerals are also of interest.

The website also mentions me as EH pressed the Queen to release supplies to the British fleet which played a role in the Nile victory https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Battle_of_the_Nile

Could be of connection to my previous life of Cleopatra, and also of Hypatia. In both lives I lived in Alexandria at least at some point.

The Angel Inn may have some sync connection to Mary Magdalene's life.

The article mentions The Nile Clumps https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nile_Clumps Maybe nothing, just noting 13, 14 and 17

Says about fleeting to France, Calais, from English debt collectors. I'll note I don't like credits at all and I don't want to be in any debts at all. It's possible that episode of my EH life may resulted in me acquiring some (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding this subject.

I stand near mimosa, which is an acacia tree. I tried planted an acacia in front of our village's garden, but unfortunately it wasn't a success. I do like those trees.

Mimosa is known as 'sensitive plant', closing its leaves when touched. There's a link to shyness, and I was shy in this life in my childhood.

Symbolic female figure (possibly Emma Hamilton) representing Freedom, releasing a dove.

I've gotten of the opinion animals should be free (but it's a complex topic). I liked the fact the pigeon who visited me daily (to get free food, of course), was free and I still got to enjoy his company in the mornings and whenever he'd sit on my windowsill. There are other whale connections in my life of which I probably mentioned in another file. (#curious)

'A Present from Egypt'

I'm, EH, depicted in profile (possible sync to Egypt and my Cleopatra's life)

Nelson in the image mentions a whale. Not long ago I found Sarah Brightman's album dive, which became one of my favorites. Several songs from that album say the word 'whale' and use whale's sounds. (#curious)

There's a dog smoking too.

Evanescence was the first band I bought a cd of. Amy Lee is its singer. The name is pronounced the same as Emy Leigh.

As EH when I returned back to Londo people started stay away from me because of my old sexual errors. In this life some people stay away from me too, but this time it's due to them not believing me or thinking me crazy/weird (which I'm not). I noticed that I could live without friends quite alright; loneliness didn't seem to be a huge problem as I know it is for some other people; but I do suffer from not having a gf. I thought maybe past lives' situations (like my EH's) help me acquire spiritual knowledge which helps me in this life with my current situation. Of course, MA's final day may have made me realize a thing or two also; and there are many other of my lives I still don't know about.

https://www.rmg.co.uk/collections/objects/rmgc-object-127769

Me (EH) as Thais. There was a companion by the name of Thais in my Alex's life.

It's interesting that I also played the people I knew in my past lives too (along with playing myself in my past lives).

https://www.wandle.org/aboutus/nelson2005/mertonplace.htm

Merton Place was in a village close to Wimbledon; and 8 miles from Westminster.

Wimbledon, and tennis, have connections to my current life and to some of my other lives. The championship itself has been held since 1877.

I bought and planted several honeysuckle bushes in my village's garden.

I found a link between my Emma's life and Michele's – Kidder who was then someone I knew in my Missy's life.

Upon reflection I realized there may be another connection. Horatia wasn't told by me who her mother and father are. She was withheld an important information about herself. And even though there are still many people who are alive and could tell me something about me in my past life of Michele (friends, relatives, etc.), I get nothing – silence (except for one person called Nina). And it's important for me to learn about my past life. The two events might be connected, in which case I'm paying the penalty here for that (#error) done in EH's life.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Henry_Fetherstonhaugh

Fetherstonhaugh. Fether sounds pretty much like feather. Birds has many connections to me and my past incarnations.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Frances_Nelson

Referred to Fanny (Frances Nelson) as that 'vile Tom Tit', while Josiah Nisbet was called a 'squinting brat'. (#error)

In this life I remembered quite well how I had serious issues while walking on the white gravel road in my village during summers and clear sunny days. I had to squint my teary eyes because I simply couldn't have them fully open due to bright sun reflecting into my eyes from the road. I don't think anyone in my village else had that issue. I had other episodes with me having this photophobia; I remember how I had to buy very dark sunglasses to be able to be outside during bright days. Perhaps it was a way for me to suffer for my error in Emma's life.

The bird reference might have also been suffered for. That "I'm a bird" incident in my Vivien's life comes to memory, and there are many more bird connections of various kinds in my lives.

Movies Connections

I Remember Nelson (TV Mini Series, 1982)

Episode 2:

10:50 Nelson tells a story about the bid who followed him even during the battle.

17:39 Emma wept for us all.

22:27 Pouring out a white milky liquid on Nelson's body.

27:40 Mentioning how in 1000 years they'll talk of them. Just like they do about Julius Caesar or Alexander the Great.

Book Notes

Emma Lady Hamilton by Flora Fraser

Info:

Emy Lyon's parents are Henry and Mary Lyon (later changed to Doggin, soon altered to Cadogan).

Mary Lyon's parents were Mr. and Mrs. (Sarah) Kidd. She had a brother, William, and three sisters: Mrs. Moore, Sarah Connor and Reynolds.

(I will note that I learned later one of my EH aunts was named Sarah Connor. There are several things in the Terminator movies by J. Cameron which resonate with me. The love scene did have an effect on a young and horny me too. The fact that Kyle is at first considered crazy but then Sarah and us learn he's telling the truth. It was the first movie, after Nostradamus maybe, that I watched, and it's one of my favorites.)

Apparently, EH was not exactly a prostitute – there's no evidence for that. I might have seen a different opinion and mentioned relayed that error in my first document and video about my reincarnation. Still, the theme of me playing myself isn't hurt by this because of other prostitute related stories surrounding my other lives.

P 3 (actual page). Henry was a smith. "smith of Ness", "smith of Denhall". In my dream with Jade name from my 1530 AD life I saw Will Smith's name too.

A person who called himself Don Smith contacted me via email to publish my paper about my Vivien Leigh reincarnation case in his paper. He never mentioned in the email the costs; also when I checked the paper it didn't seem to have large reader base to make it worth it.

P 4. The house Mary and Emy lived in after Henry's death was called The Steps. Reminded me of a music band name. Probably nothing.

It's also written it lay at the end of an old lane. When I looked at the drawing of that house, I saw that it may have been the Last House on the Left of that lane – maybe it's nothing, maybe there's details I don't know, but there's a chance it's a synchronicity with Wes Kraven's first movie. I've definitely had syncs with his other movies, so it's possible there's a connection here too.

P 4. Maybe at one time Emma stood by a donkey on the Chester Road, selling coal.

They say Jesus rode a donkey. But I don't know if it was so, and if there are some connections to Mary Magdalene's life.

P 4. They say Emma was a sweet young girl, and always very generous. Emma described herself in childhood as "wild and thoughtless".

I'd say it resonates with me on spiritual level. It's important to know because it shows Emma had some spiritual knowledge as a child. So it goes in line with other past lives of mine that I discovered.

P 4. Emma said her education began when she was 17. MA died at 17.

P 5. Emma roistered deep into the night with some other young people.

Reminded me of partying in VL and MA lives.

P 5 says in 1791, after marrying at 26, Emma stared “rapt” at an actress, Mrs. Jane Powell. Then other stories follow of them two. But Flora also writes it’s not clear if they’re true.

P 6. Maybe it’s of no connection to me. Just noting identical names of people I could have heard of in my different lives. Richard Brinsley Sheridan in EH life; and Clare Sheridan’s son Richard Brinsley Sheridan in VL life. Actually, I found out the first Richard is the great grandfather of the latter Richard.

Richard Brinsley Sheridan (30 October 1751 – 7 July 1816) ->
Thomas Algernon Brinsley Sheridan (June 11, 1845 - March 14, 1931) ->
William Frederick Sheridan (January 5, 1879 - September 25, 1915) ->
Richard Brinsley Sheridan (September 20, 1915 – December 1936) https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Richard_Brinsley_Sheridan https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Clare_Sheridan
Emma had penchant for theater, and the company of singers and actresses.

P 7 talks how Emma was employed to communicate between actresses and Mrs. Linley. And as Vivien Leigh I got to experience being an actress on stage (and also in the movies which were not in the existence during my EH life)

P 7 tells a story about 18-year-old boy named Samuel. He died from an illness. They say Emma attended Samuel assiduously, but not all believe the story actually happened.

They also say Emma was soft-hearted to an extreme.

It matches me across my several recent past lives.

I’ll note that people with the name Samuel have appeared in my lives. In the current Samuel introduced me to the idea to translate Thiaoouba Prophecy into Russian language.

Actually, I remembered Samuel from the story about https://www.encyclopedia-titanica.org/titanic-victim/reginald-fenton-butler.html . But I don’t know yet if I was that person or not.

“Reginald Butler lost his life in the sinking and his body (#97) was later recovered by the Mackay Bennett and buried at Fairview Cemetery, Halifax, Nova Scotia on 3 May 1912”. On page 4 Lord Halifax is mentioned. Just noting.

P 7-8 tells a story about a procuress named Kelly. If the story is true, then I’ll note when I was learning to write screenplays, I named one of the heroines Kelly.

P 8 at the end says Emma, according to the story, lost virginity to https:// en.wikipedia.org/wiki/John_Willett_Payne Just noting I played a video game Max Payne. I haven't played a lot of video games in my life, so who knows - maybe related, or maybe not.

That page also says Emma went to him originally to beg him to release her cousin who was press-ganged. It means forcibly enlist (someone) into service in the army or navy.

I remembered that in this life I didn't go to the army – against my will – because I stuttered. But most importantly, the first woman didn't believe me. But, thankfully, the one in the recruitment office understood the truth and she sent me to another person to check me out. Thanks to him I didn't need to go to the army. The two events may be directly related – I tried to help in EH life, and I got help in my current life – both cases concern the army.

P 9's story about Emma posing as Goddess of Health in Dr. James Graham's Temple of Aesculapius, or Health is not true as revealed later on the page.

But it did make me remember that unfortunate time I gave money to Health charlatans. The two stories are similar in their nature. I also remember the stories about Cleopatra's cures, which I don't think worked.

Maybe there are some reflections going on, or maybe it's just a coincidence.

P 12. Probably nothing. Just noting as EH I learnt to ride horses and as VL I could ride them to.

Called herself Emily Hart at the end of the liaison with Sir Harry. It's said Emma danced naked on the dining table at the Up Park. I've mentioned the possible connection here in another file. As VL I did run naked in parks; as me I did undress for some reason as a very young child (albeit and thankfully it was just one time that happened). There are clear similarities.

Of note could be this quote from Memoirs saying "her real character was known, and despised, even by those who were under the necessity of obeying her commands," when she was "nominal mistress" of the "noble mansion." Real character were the words written by Marced who clearly didn't know what my real character was; she wrote her own views and opinions resulted from her personal ignorance. Dancing on the table naked isn't a serious crime, but maybe it wasn't something which was necessary to do. Okay, I watched a girl on p website dance on a table; I wanted to get an idea of how it might have looked like in Emma's life, and I think now it is a rather serious error. Everything was definitely visible to all people. Now, people on Thiaoouba do swim and sunbathe naked. But it's different, I think. It's not done to show your private areas to others.

Then it's said Emma cheated on Sir Harry with Charles Greville. (#error)

"Impressionable all her life" – meaning easily influenced. Am I not like that sometimes? There were moments I was influencfed by people's opinions.

P 13 talks about EH sleeping with those who could support her guilty support. (#error)

Emma was pregnant and gave birth in March of 1782, shortly before turning 17.

Emma wrote 7 letters to Sir Harry. Unanswered.

P 14 suggests EH could have invented a husband to became "Mrs. Hart" – Emily Hart. And Hart itself may have been born out of the name of the village near Up Park - South Harting.

If so, this is of big interest in potentially and eventually learning how synchronicities work.

P 14 & 16 mention friends who looked cooly on EH. It's what's happening right now in my current life, but for the reason of them either no knowing I'm telling the truth, or them misunderstanding me; and I shouldn't forget those people didn't help me when I was down, and worth, some of them had caused that situation.

Subject of friends has shown itself in other lives of mine also. But many people have to deal with similar circumstances.

P 17 says some few days after January 10, 1782, Emma got the important letter.

There's no regular way of knowing if it could have been January 13. Other important events happened on that day in my current life and in my VL life. I need to note Jan 13, 1782 was Sunday, not Friday as was the case during the events I mentioned in another doc.

P 18 talks about Charles Greville and his uncle William Hamilton, both of whom were collectors. It's probably nothing, but I'll note my village childhood friend and me used to collect things too – like matchboxes which I still have.

Charles collected minerals. There's a little interest in the subject in my life – from the scientific point of view too. I'm noting this because as EH, I might have seen his collection and maybe it had some influence on me and on my current life's interests too.

P 20 mentions Sir William gave Charles a painting of Mary Magdalene by Cambiasi - "hairy Magdalen". So, he was given the painting artistically portraying Emma Hamilton's old self in a past life – Mary Magdalene. I wonder if as EH I saw that painting and what thoughts or feelings I had, if any? (#curious)

P 22 “the Paddington Road, No.14, Oxford Street.” (maybe it’s not 1;)

P 23’s story about mourning dress, which could have been a maid’s dress, reminded me of Scarlett O’Hara.

Emma spent 4 years with Greville.

Emma to Greville: “... you have made me unhappy by scolding me; how can you... when you know it breaks my heart to be scolded and speacily by Greville.”

Don’t like being scolded, but then not many do, I’d imagine.

The book also theorizes if that scolding could have some effect on nerves. If it did, it would relate to immortal psyche too, which could potentially be of some reason for my VL psychological troubles.

“self-abasement”. I’m making a note of it because it may fit me in several lives after EH.

P 24. Greville about EH: “capable of anything... grand, masculine or feminine.”

Can see it relating to me, adjusted for the other lives, separating EH’s life and my current.

(#spiritual-knowledge)?

EH had more than 300 sittings with George Romney.

P 25. EH sat 13 more times for Romney in 1782. Was it 14 total?

Then they the wolves in the Circe’s painting were painted not by Romney, but by a person who bought the painting after Romney’s death. He also painted a leopard on Circe’s left, but it was painted out.

P 27-28. In 1784 EH tells Greville about her daughter: “when she comes & looks in my face & calls me ‘mother’... Endead, I then truly am a mother, for all the mother’s feeilings rise at once & tels me I am or ought to be a mother.”

P 30 has interesting thoughts. Flora writes about Emma trying to acquire other’s characters. It’s of interest because it relates to my VL life and to my current one. I mentioned before in another document that I noticed I could think and behave like other people sometimes – vampiric quality as I sometimes called it. (#psyche-data) or (#spiritual-knowledge)?

Emma breathing ‘mea culpa’. Sometimes I say these words too. I learnt about them from Enigma's song of the same name.

Emma tried to improve herself. As Emma I said in 1786 to Greville my principal worry was the thought that I "should neither profit by [Greville's] conversation nor improve in any degree."

It describes current me very well. (#spiritual-knowledge) It's also in line with my psyche-spiritual profile in my past lives before EH's life.

P 34-35 say my EH's main amusement was walking round Paddington Green and looking at the duck in the 3 ponds there. Maybe it's nothing, but in this life I did walk round many parks in Moscow, and I've got many photographs of ducks (and other birds).

P 38-39 mention Hayley's poem The Triumphs of Temper, which I as EH admired greatly. Then Flora refers to it as 'bible'. I'd have to read the poem. For now just noticing GWtW and Thiaoouba Prophecy were my 'bibles' in other lives.

Temper theme is something which has been following me for many lives it seems like.

P 40. EH had 'ungovernable temper'. (#psyche-data) or/and (#spiritual-knowledge)?

Later in that paragraph there are mentions which could be of psychological connection. There also a mention about an important book 'how to bile that Bark' – boil that bark. It reminded me of the bark on which the names of Missy and Karen were carved out.

Peruvian bark – as revealed later. It was supposed to cure rashes.

As EH I had rashes on knees and elbows. Doctor's medicine didn't help, and I referred contemptuously to them as "those things". Could be of connection to my opinions about medicine and trying to not use it unless I absolutely have to. (#curious)

P 41. Just noting Emma's mother changed her name to Doggin, later altered to Cadogan.

'poor Emma', referring in one of letters to the daughter. Maybe nothing but reminded me how V.N. in the village said once 'бедный Женя' (poor Zhenya) referring to me; it was when my imagination overtook me and my 'friends' did nothing to normally tell me of the issue I could not see from my first-person perspective (until some later time).

Excerpts of letters are very important. First, I say I love little Emma. Then it's revealed that Greville used the agreements as a way not to have little Emma live with her mother at Edgware Row. As EH I agreed to put 2-year-old child to a boarding school Greville proposed. (#error) which, I'm almost certain, resulted in me as Vivien Leigh having to live without my parents nearby at a boarding school.

At the end it says because of dread and anticipation resulted in rashes all over my body and fever. As EH I was sick for 8 days.

P 42, "I dont think she is ugly," My EH's words about little Emma. I still don't know if such statements of facts are (#error) and to what degree if they are. Maybe it is. It kinda relate to my life because after what I had to experience, I don't want to think about people exactly like that; but then again, it is a fact some people's appearances are attractive and others' aren't. Thiaooubians prefer to have pretty faces, and for me it's another indicator there's actually a way to measure 'prettiness'.

Maybe it's another compound situation. This event, combined with some scenes from my VL movies, and now I have to deal with learning to live wearing not so pretty, anymore, physical body.

P 42-44, My EH's letter to Greville may reveal several connections to my current and other past lives.

'Would you think it Greville—Emma —the wild unthinking Emma is a grave thoughtful phylosopher.' May be of connection to my Hypatia's life.

I talk about errors too, and I clearly knew there are consequences for them. Same was in VL's life.

I also wrote many letters. It's what I did in other lives.

P 45-46's letters may have certain resemblances to my current writing habits.

P 47. "I received your kind letter last night & my Dearest Greville | want words to express to you how happy it made me, for I thought I was like a lost sheep & everybody had forsook me."

Loneliness theme.

"I was eight days confined to my room, very ill, but am, thank God, very well now…"

8 days of sickness again.

P 48 EH didn't take things hard.

Daughter Emma at the age of 28 wrote of her inability to desist from thinking Emma her mother—"my misfortune, my memory traces back circumstances which have taught me too much, yet not quite all I could have wished to have known."

P 53. Greville said I as EH had adaptability: "She is naturally elegant, & fits herself easily to any situation, having quickness & sensibility."

Greville about EH's pride and independence. "On the least slight or expression of my being tired or burthened by her" she would give him up and "not even accept a farthing for future assistance."

(#spiritual-knowledge) because it does describe me to some degree – given I'd live several more lives before my current one.

P 55. Greville asks William to extricate him from me.

Just noting for now this could be a reflection of my current life. Mom at one point wasn't too excited to live with me in one small apartment. Father paid some money to my mother when I was a child (#reflection-life)

I'm also curious if the sittings for painting paid anything me. Could I work somewhere and sustain myself and the child? The times were different then…

P 56 G to WH: "You would lose the greatest advantage from her disposition; she is not led by interest but by kindness, & she appreciates favours from the intentions. You would be like the prodigal, depriving yourself of the means of showing attention."

Kindness probably relates to (#spiritual-knowledge). May also be a sync to Blanche DuBois' kindness of strangers.

G thought he curbed [EH] of all desire for "giddiness & dissipation." It could also relate to the (#spiritual-knowledge) I already had then (maybe after my lives of MM and H, and maybe others I lived after).

P 59. (W.H. letter) Sir William seems like a good person. He also writes I, as EH, loved Greville (and yet he had other plans; but I – as written in the book - didn't know about them then).

The last part does make me remember how I loved my father despite the fact he was the reason (of this life) for my stuttering and he also made some other serious errors. I can see myself in that part. (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 60 (Greville about EH): "takes easily any hint that is given with good humour. I have often heard people say you may do anything by good humour, but never saw any one so completely led by good nature ... I believe she would die before she yielded to ill-treatment" (#spiritual-knowledge)

Then a note is made about EH's impetuous temper. (#psyche-data) or lack of certain spirituality for I clearly had this train in my life and in 2 most recent lives. The question is what is the reason behind me having that temper?

P 61. EH's mom had a stroke. My current life's dad had the same, they said, weeks before he died.

P 63. Greville mentions my EH's thoughts that I wouldn't profit or improve during his long absence by having no one to talk to.

Profits and improvements are indicators of (#spiritual-knowledge). In this life these 2 words have been my companions for a long time – definitely at least ever since I found Thiaoouba book.

P 63. Greville tells my EH's words: "she would certainly be grateful to you; but that neither interest or affection should ever induce her to change, unless my interest or wish required it, & that you could comfort her, altho' she made all the distinction of age, but that she had seen enough to value a real friend wherever she could find one, and that you had shown more real friendship to her than any person in the world beside myself, & therefore you was, after me, the nearest to her heart."

Friendship theme has played its role in several of my recent lives, including the current one.

It should be noted – as the book says – there may be a difference between my actual words and what Greville wrote to sir William.

P 64. My EH's letter to William Hamilton made me think of how as EH I did errors but was forgiven and I did improve myself (or try to at least).

In this life I made an error of putting out Michael Meanwell's short snippets of his interview with Michel Desmarquet. I put all the references that I could find to Michael. Still, he contacted me (S.Ch. probably told him about that interview business) requesting that I remove all interviews that I uploaded. I was shaking at first. Then, after explaining my actions and deleting the videos, he actually wanted me to have those interview on my channel (but at that time I strongly refused and said he should upload them on his - I gave him the link to download my rendered videos). Then he helped me with the contract to translate Thiaoouba into Russian, and we talked quite often via emails.

I can see here a possibility for (#reflection-life)

P 65 lack of avarice. (#spiritual-knowledge)

Apparently as EH I sent pretty much all my pocket money to "poor relations in the country, for whose care she professes herself grateful". Perhaps I was a bit on the extreme side of things there. It may relate to (#spiritual-knowledge) and also to certain lack of it. It certainly connects with some of my decisions in my future lives (MA sticking to friends; in this life I was paid 0 to translate and share the e-book of TP, and then I paid my own money to print several books and give them to libraries).

P 66. My last EH's sitting to Romney was on March 8, 1786.

P 67 I'll just note the trio. 3s have been a part of my soul's life for a long time.

P 70 it was my EH's 21-st birthday when we entered Naples. 21 can be seen here an there in my lives.

It also means I was 20 when I was sent away, not knowing about Greville's plans.

P 71 tells a little about the history of The Palazzo Sessa. Monks used to be in the building, but they were purged by Tanucci (then Prime Minister). It's possible there could be a sync to the life of Mary Magdalene and maybe of Hypatia.

P 72 Sir William's secretaries were Smith and Oliver.

Smith is the name I saw in the dream I learnt I was someone by the name of Jade.

Olivier (not Oliver) was my VL's husband.

Before on that page a polyp, Medusa's head, is mentioned. Probably nothing but I do notice how mermaids and other mythological creatures are showing themselves here and there in my lives. As Cleopatra I was Greek (nationality; born in Egypt).

William collected Greek vases.

I might ask HS if I lived in Greece in one of my past lives excluding the 6 I already know some information about.

On page 75 there are more mentions of other objects which might have been of closeness to me in my previous lives (sarcophagi, etc.)

P 76. Just wanna note my EH's words "He will never be my lover" for possible future reference.

EH's practical kindness. (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 78. Greville would not come in October. Maybe nothing but as MA I died on October 1st.

Later my EH's letter reveals I had deep love for Greville, not knowing about his true intentions. As MA I could not see the intentions of the 2 future killers whom I considered friends in that life. In this one I learned about the Auras and that we can use them to spot a liar or someone with bad intentions. I think this may be showing I lacked certain (#spiritual-knowledge) and it seems to connect with my other life.

P 80. Sir William gifted black Rubens hat with feather trim and sliding fans. They didn't change the mind to give in to his advances.

Maybe nothing, just noting a scene from GWtW when Scarlett says she won't marry Rhett just to pay for the bonnet.

P 81 mentions art dealing. I wrote of it before. Could be the start and reason for my VL's collections of paintings which I even took with me during my travels.

P 81 I as EH wanted to be "a little more improved." But later I'd question "what will it avail me" when I found out about Greville's plans. I'll note that a similar thing may have happened in my current life… only here I'd question "what for to improve myself" if I seemingly can't find a loving girlfriend? It looks like the lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding the subject of being able to live, learn, and improve for one's spiritual development. Of course, material knowledge about reincarnation and the purpose of life would help here too.

It's an interesting find, because they say as Hypatia I was virgin; but I do not exactly see a problem here because, as I realized, we tend to experience life by going from one extreme to another. I'd need to keep that in mind to see if I can understand more about the process.

Long time ago I also, in my search for a way to get rid of my negative habits, tried to change myself for Thao.

Generally, I feel like the mannerism of writing does bear resemblance to mine. I write something and then I realize something which may change a lot of things. Currently re-writing is easy on a computer. In the 18-th century I couldn't just change the already written piece.

I wrote 14 letters to Greville which were unanswered, and that was the start to think of a future without him. 14 has played a synchronistic role in my soul's life. I'll note that I still tend to write perhaps too much sometimes, and a similar characteristic was present in my VL's life.

P 82 mentions Angelica Kauffmann, a painter. Since I noticed many connections to Silent Hill, I'll have to mention it has a character by name of Michael Kaufmann.

As VL I was referred to as Angelica to in some letters to Jack.

Probably nothing, but Angelica Kauffmann died on November 5. In VL life I was born on that date.

Bishop of Derry. IT's story takes place in a fictional town Derry.

I'll also note Lord Hervey. Watched The Omen (which led me to a doc showing people in connection to it experienced movie reflections and synchs, showing that I'm not the only one- such things do exist and happen to other people also) and a man by the name Harvey Stephens plays Damien. Maybe it's nothing, just noting.

Lots of gentlemen gathered around EH. Reminded me of that Scarlett O'Hara scene at the barbecue. There's a potential for a (#reflection) happening here; but backwards – e.g. before it was a movie scene -> life; here it's life -> a scene in a movie. I wonder if that EH's period may have played a role in how I felt when playing Scarlett in that scene?

"I have a conversazyeone tonight & a concert." (a scholarly social gathering held for discussion of literature and the arts) May relate to VL's life.

EH and William attended opera most nights. Just noting Sarah Brightman's Phantom of the Opera features her Christine playing Cleopatra (me). I like that song and watched the movie because of it. I like Nightwish (with Tarja Turunen) because her voice reminds me of opera.

P 84. EH: ".for Oh if you knew what pain I feil in reading those lines when you advise me to Whore nothing can express my rage, I am all madness, Greville, to advise me, you that used to envy my smiles, now with cooll indifferance to advise me to go to bed to him, Sr Wm…"

"…nothing shall ever do for me but going home to you. If that is not to be, I will except of nothing, I will go to London, their go in to every excess of vice, tell I dye a miserable, broken hearted wretch & leave my fate as a warning to young whomen never to be two good, for, now you have made me love you, made me good, you have abbandoned me & some violent end shall finish our connexion."

I can see my distant self here.

"If it is to finish, but, Oh Greville, you cannot, you must not give me up, you have not the heart to do it, you love me I am sure & I am willing to do everything in my power that you shall require of me."

It reminds me of me as MA being still attached to people who clearly wronged me in some way, instead of seeing those people for who they truly are, trying to learn where I made mistake maybe, and just moving on to live my life, possibly encountering new and hopefully more spiritual people. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge)

P 85 as EH I wrote as if Greville was going to come after all. I think I might have experienced being on the other side of this situation, when I made up my mind about something but parents would tell their own narration of what I'd do. It is a very subtle memory though for now. Could be a little suffering for the (#error)

Later letter of my old self again shows signs of something I could see my old self writing.

Emma's ebullience and vanities. Have some relations to me still. Could be (#psyche-data) related.

P 86 Greville "she will have the good sense not to expose herself with any boy of family; she must look to one from 25 to 35, & one who is his own master."

Last time I gave a chance to dating websites I'd search in the range between 25-35.

"when her pride is hurt by neglect or anxiety for the future, the frequent repetition of her passion balances the beauty of her smiles"

Neglect and anxiety for the future were still present to some degree in my current life. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge). And it connects with VL and MA lives too.

P 87 mentions strong pride. Wonder if the past lives of Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene, and Hypatia could be the reasons behind the pride? Actually, as VL I had pride too. In this life I'd also not do certain things I didn't want to do.

Bombast & my EH's tendency to "fly at the mention of truth". I wish I could understand what Flora tried to say here and in the following sentence, but I can't. I'm noting it because truth is important in my life, and I noticed it played a role in my VL life.

Greville on EH: 'she has not a grain of avarice or self-interest. On the contrary, she has a pleasure in sharing her last shilling." (#spiritual-knowledge) as mentioned elsewhere.

Emma's belief in herself and competitive urge to outshine others in all fields. (#psyche-data) and could relate to the 3 lives of Cleo, MM, and H.

P 88 EH's "passion for admiration." "It is not troublesome, as she is satisfied with a limited sphere". (#psyche-data) and it could relate to the lives of Cleo, MM, and H. It reminds me of my VL words "I won't be ignored" and how I feel being ignored and learning to live without anyone's attentions of any kind in this life. So it could relate to the (#spiritual-knowledge).

Limited sphere reminds me of my recent thoughts that if at least some people would say nice things, or participate in the discussions regarding what I share, I'd feel better and the toxic comments wouldn't get to me as much as they do due to lack of goodness.

P 88 "She is capable of aspiring to any line which would be celebrated, and it would be indifferent when on that key whether she was Lucretia or-Sappho or Scaevola or Regulus; anything grand, masculine or feminine, she could take up, and if she took up the part of Scaevola, she would be as much offended if she was told she was a woman, as she would be, if she assumed Lucretia, she was told she was masculine." So Greville wrote.

P 89 harum-scarum style of life and first time making serious decisions. I can see some leftover traces of my past self in my present one.

EH: "wisdom teeth ... now," and "I will try to be ansome and reasonable."

I'll note I still purposefully use the word "try to" when referring to the changes I wanna make in myself. It's because I don't know the future, so I can't state with absolute sureness I will be a certain way from now on.

EH: "I have just received your dear sweet letter. It has charmed me. | don't know what to say to you to thank you in words kind enough. Oh how kind! Do you call me your dear friend? Oh, what a happy creature is your Emma!—me that had no freind, no protector, no body that I could trust, and now to be the freind, the Emma, of Sir William Hamilton."

I mentioned the friend theme before. I'll note that as MA I didn't like life being unfair and tried to be friends with those who were left out (Karen). Could it be that my EH's life situation gave me that (#spiritual-knowledge)? I might note the protector and the 'bodyguard' that Karen kinda was.

P 90. As EH, unofficially visiting Sir Williamm, I could not join the Queen and King on their royal parties. May be a sign of looking at life from different angle (Cleopatra related).

P 91. William would start sending me back to Naples to deal with business (nondiplomatic). They write this occupation was a great pleasure to me; because of the human interest it provided.

I'm interested in many things, and I was interested in them as Cleopatra and Mary Magdalene. It's related to the certain (#spiritual-knowledge) I've had in many lives.

Purest form of admiration is emulation. May be of connection with me, because traces of emulating others have shown themselves in my life too (what I called "vampiric")

"7 weeks in doubt" whether little Lord Brooke was dead.

P 92 say as EH I had mercurial, nervous disposition, and following Sir William's in sitting back and relaxing whenever opportunity presented itself was difficult.

(#psyche-data) or lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) because it's still me (and was me in VL life)

Long walks and music soothed me.

Still applies to me and my other lives between EH and myself (VL, MA). (#psyche-data) maybe. I used to walk a lot once I regained my health (for a while) and I like music also, and it does calm me down if I allow it to. I'll also note the soothing implies I did have some psychological issues as EH (it's evident from the previous entry).

At the end it say Sir William, in 1786, accurately meted himself 17 more years to live. He died in 1803. Just noting it in case it's of sync with my MA age.

P 94 – Savage winds coming from Russia. Then I experienced the cold Russian winds, and now I live in Russia itself.

"passion for admiration." Noted it before, but this time I remembered it may also relate to how as VL I'd check newspapers if we were absent from an event (did they write anything about us?).

P 95 talks that I had a tutor coming home to study Italian. It seems to me I learned it as quickly as I did English, and I also learned it by allocating some time to reading it.

EH was "so accomplished, so kind". Doe relate to me (in VL and MA lives too).

There's a mention of 2 historic figures (Don Filippo, Ferdinand's eldest brother and the natural heir to the Kingdom of Spain) having fetishes about hands. Gloves are then mentioned. Just noting it because if I, as EH, thought or said something negative about that, it may be the reason why I had large palms as VL, and why I tried to hide them behind gloves for some time. For now it's just a speculation, though. It could be nothing related, or it could be some other type of sync.

P 96. As EH I vicariously enjoyed Philip Hackert's intimacy with the King and Queen. Again, may be the way to look at life from another perspective (after the life of Cleopatra).

The I write he went to the Russian ambassador (Skarvonsky. Граф Павел Мартынович Скавронский (17 (28) мая 1757 — 23 ноября (4 декабря) 1793)).

There's a painting in which EH figures. "A Boar Hunt at Persano under Ferdinand IV". Maybe nothing, but I did see bears way too closely in my village as a child. I wasn't scared.

P 97. Just noting Lady Sophia Butler, of whom I might have heard as EH, or maybe even seen/talked to her. Could relate to Butlers in my next lives.

Ambrogio Curnier's landlord wanted to increase the rent. EH: "That fellow [the marchese, owner of the eponymous palazzo] must be the nastys creature living after all the benefit he has had from you, to go to impose on that poor man for the sake of a few ducats more."

I'm a landlord myself right now, and I think the price is fair – it's lower than other people's in the area because the apartment has old wooden window frames. I'd usually go on to meet the tenants' [adequate] demands and wishes too.

EH's letter on January 12, "the wind made me so sleepy that I slept till eight a clock, and was fast asleep when Vinchenzo brought your letter, and I read it in bed, and gave it a good hug… But I wished you had been there. But I gave it a kiss or 2… If you was to know how kind everybody behaves to me, you would love them"

P 98 The European Magazine, January 13, 1787. "For some days past we have had the wind blow from the North with great violence. Yesterday the country-and the mountains in the neighbourhood were covered with snow, and it has since frozen, which is very rare in this climate."

EH "Today it is impossible to keep oneself warm." Poor Emma – wrote Flora Fraser. Obviously the wind got my attention (GWtW; when I died as MA winds would start blow earlier than usual), but it's also of interest the word Flora used. The same was used by a guy in the village (бедный Женя – poor Zhenya), but he, I assume, didn't mean well by saying it because he chose to say that phrase instead of just bluntly saying to me I had some issues with my mimic and facial expressions so that I may try to figure out what is the root cause of that and become a healthy person again (it'd be a long story if I went into the details here).

P 98 a man called Ferrari is mentioned. Just noting it because in one of the first years of school I had a black sweater with Ferrari logo on it and some people would bring that to my attention sometimes.

P 99 EH about Costantina Coltellini painting which had some décolletage in the miniature she painted for a lid of a snuffbox: "it will be seen a great deal, and those beautys that only you can see shall not be exposed to the common eyes of all … Others may guess at them [her bosom], for the are sacred to all but you … I wish they was better for your sake … But I should not know how to mend them if I cou'd tho' you don't like sugar loaves,"

Decided to note those quotes of my old self after remembering the nude photos of me in my VL life. They meet the description of my EH wishes, for there's not a lot of nudity revealed in the side view of my past body, so "others may guess at them" (myself included since the material knowledge is gone … but maybe, if my HS [or however it works] shows my Vivien Leigh's body in the mirror, then I won't need to guess).

P 99 People about EH: "Look at her, there. What divine beauty. She's a Madonna."

musician Ferrari used the word "vergine"

P 100 says I as EH could sing and people liked it. As mentioned elsewhere sometimes when I listen to the music I imagine myself singing that. I also would like to try singing sometimes in this life.

Mr. Hart at whose veritable banquet I as EH was.

P 102 mentions Emma's philanthropy. I talked about it before. Matches up some of my current and other lives' choices.

January 14, EH tells Sir William angrily for not having written: "When I have no other comfort then your letters, yan should not cruely disapoint me ... I don't feil right without hearing from you.'

Flora writes before EH complaint had involved him writing to her/me only one or two lines.

Matches me to some degree. I've had people who'd ignore my direct questions or write too briefly.

P 103 says again as EH I used to take long walks (as I said I do like them still), and that after the walk I added some more lines to the previously written letter. It's exactly what I do still sometimes. I write something and then go for a walk, and maybe I think of something to add or change, and then I send the message/letter. (#psyche-data) maybe or (#psyche-data-astro)?

P 105. Poet Goethe: "Sir William Hamilton ... has now, after many years of devotion to the arts and the study of nature, found the acme of these delights in the person of an English girl of twenty with a beautiful face and a perfect figure. He has had a Greek costume made for her which becomes her extremely. Dressed in this, she lets down her hair and, with a few shawls, gives so much variety to her poses, gestures, expressions, etc., that the spectator can hardly believe his eyes. He sees what thousands of artists would have liked to express realized before him in movements and surprising transformations—standing, kneeling, sitting, reclining, serious, sad, playful, ecstatic, contrite, alluring, threatening, anxious, one pose follows another without a break. She knows how to arrange the folds of her veil to match each mood, and has a hundred ways of turning it into a head dress. The old knight idolizes her and is quite enthusiastic about everything she does. In her he has found all the antiquities, all the profiles of Sicilian coins, even the Apollo Belvedere. This much is certain: as a performance it's like nothing you ever saw before in your life. We have already enjoyed it on two evenings."

Says I was 20 (probably actually was 21-22).

Greek costume. As Cleopatra I was Greek.

Variety in poses, gestures, expressions may be of connection to VL life and becoming an actress. It may also connect to the experiences and possible data acquired in my previous lives before EH. Lives of Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene, Hypatia, had certainly their differences in character/identity. If as MM I had multiple personality disorder (which might have been my past lives' personalities), then it could also have something to do with being able to become "someone else".

One pose follows another without a break. Same as previous note. And they did say I could play Scarlett without any preparations.

P 107: Winckelmann could be writing of EH when he said of Juno: "She may be known ... by her large eyes and an imperious mouth … The beauty in the expression of her large, roundly arched eyes is like that of a queen who wills to rule."

As they say, it's not known of whom he said those words, but if it was me (EH) then that clearly relates to Cleopatra. In my current life I'd sometimes have fantasies of ruling.

Show called Pygmalion. There's a play of the same name by George Bernard Shaw, who also wrote Ceasar and Cleopatra.

A chest painted black is mentioned. Maybe nothing but in my village there's a wooden chest I liked to sit on as a child when coming to my aunts to eat bread with jam. I also had a black paper to see my Aura against.

P 108 says my EH attitudes is the pantomime. Reminded me of that unfortunate game I played as VL in which the players had to gesticulate the ways of getting rid of babies.

Goethe about EH on May 27: "Our fair entertainer, Seéms to me, frankly, a dull creature. Perhaps her figure makes up for it, but her voice is inexpressive and her speech without charm. Even her singing is neither full-throated nor agreeable."

They then say Professor Weitz argues Goethe may have inserted (invented) this entry later.

27 is of interest here coz it's been a synchronicity many times before.

P 109 tells a story about a Moorish girl who was a captive. I guess I tried to help her and free her, but the captain refused. They say I had a soft heart, and it's one of connections relating to the (#spiritual-knowledge).

P 110. EH: "I am so used to draw now; it is as easy as ABC." I drew a bit as VL and in my current life too. I liked watching Bob Ross' videos on twitch and YT.

P 111: EH: “I sung generally 2 searous songs & 2 buffos [4uffo, or comic]. The last night I sang fifteen songs. One was a recatitive [recitative] from an opera at St Carlo’s. The beginning was Luci Belle sio vadoro, the finest thing you ever heard, that for ten minutes after I sung it, there was such a claping that I was oblidged to sing it over again.”

P 113. EH to Greville: “T must tell you, I have had great offers to be first whoman in the Italian opera at Madrid where I was to have six thou- sand pound for 3 years … I should not like to go into Spain with out I knew people their & I could not speak their language … Tho I have not been persuaded to make a written engagement, I ceartainly shall sing at the Pantheon & Hanover Square [two celebrated concert rooms], except something particular happens.”

I refused the offer. I’m noting it because of recent Sarah Brightman related dreams, syncs, and me almost daily listening to some of her music now, which includes The Phantom of the Opera. I liked the movie of the same name also, and I liked the singing.

It should be noted I could sing, apparently, in my other life, and I was an actress in another. Two things I sometime imagine doing (when listening to the music or watching a movie). May relate to the (#psyche-data-astro)

P 114 mentions a skipper - Captain Finch. Of course, that name made me remember Peter Finch from Vivien’s life.

Soprano. There was the woman from TPXP who, I think, was soprano singer. We used to discuss numerology with her. Sarah Brightman is also soprano singer.

One of the pictures of EH was “going to the Empress of Russia”, who was Catherine II. It may be of connection because I went to Царицино to meet that girl Mary. After that I started going out and further than usual often. Later I’d visit the place again, only this time walking around the palace – which was built for Catherine II. As a child I went there also with my mother.

P 115. EH was “in a little fright” at the thought of performing with Brigida Giorgi Banti, a famous singer. “She placed herself close to me, but when I begun all fear whent a whay & I sung so well that she cried out, just God, what a voice, I would give a great deal foryour voice.”

It’s an important detail, because as VL I also was shaking at some important auditions. In this life fears and frights were also present at certain points. (#curious)

P 116. Commodore Melvile invited EH to a dinner on board his ship: “The 2 ships was dresd out so fine in all the collours, the men all put in order, a band of musick & all the marine did their duty."

Reminded me of how in Cleopatra's life I invited Mark Antony to the ship. Could relate to looking at life from another perspective (and so the 2 events of 2 lives are connected).

May also relate to (#reflection-life), based on the "mistress of the feast", sitting at the head of a table of 30 people + me (EH), so 31 total.

20 cannons.

"drest all in virgin wite & my hair all in ringlets reaching all most to my heals."

In this life, due to baldness, I wouldn't cut my hair for several years and they got quite long.

It probably was November 5 – my VL bd.

Had purple satin dress made. Purple is the color I've liked for many lives.

To P 117: the commodore and other officers "attended my box all the time and behaved to Surprising Transformations 117 me as tho I was a Queen."

P 117. I had maids (or servants) as EH, and also as VL and Cleopatra.

It's of great interest to me what happened next. The maid Teresa was a 'great bigot' and she fell to her knees at the sight of Vesuvius erupting, and she was saying some prayer. I (EH) mocked her by praying to a non-existing Saint Loola. Then there's a talk about my EH face looking like that of the Blesses virgins, and me not esteeming it as a favor.

I agree with my old self here. Prayers to the dead people won't make any differences (but asking Higher Self may provide some help if you are eligible for it – it's a long complex topic; and yes, I do ask sometimes Thao for some tiny help – but it's because she did help me already, and she is alive still as far as I know). As for the looks, if we live not the first lives, chances are they are the consequences of our own actions and decisions – God helps those who help themselves.

My soul's personality here also aligns with my life of Hypatia.

The virgin references (Madonna; Romney saw the likeness between Emma and Raphael's saints) is probably of connection to my Mary Magdalene life in which I was near that Mary.

(#spiritual-knowledge)

These are thought provoking chapters. It shows how some people live in fantasy-land instead of living her and now and using logic and common sense.

P 120. As EH I visited Rome, the city in which I was before as Cleopatra. It's possible I used to visit the places I used to walk in my past life too.

Sir William of EH: “She so long’d for diamonds that, having an opportunity of a good bargain of single stones of a good water & tolerable size, I gave her at once £500 worth.”

As Cleopatra I had lots of shiny thingies, as I heard. Technically it’s a sign of lack of certain (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding these items and different ways the money used to buy them could be used (like helping someone else, or helping oneself by buying something which could give us new skill, knowledge, and, hopefully, spiritual knowledge which will remains with us).

I’ll note that I watch Producer Michael on YouTube, and he sometimes has videos about diamonds which I like watching too. But I know in this life I don’t need the precious stones (unless they can help my spirituality somehow, but I doubt they can (at least in the form in which they are sold – as jewelry)).

It’s been 200+ years since I lived that life, and currently I’m thinking these things after having read Thiaoouba Prophecy many times and after arriving to my own understandings about life. It all connects. As VL I had some jewelry too.

It may also relate to (#psyche-data-astro) because being near a Queen and royalty, some data could have influenced my inner desires (for the diamonds in this case).

P 122. The tour to Puglia took 32 days. Sir William said EH took notes: “She is as clever as she is Beautiful.”

EH was a great reader.

P 125 at the end shows some of my EH’s wiles when I was piqued. I think it’s an (#error); it is written Herder became the laughing stock of Naples.

It’s possible I paid for that error later in the same life when returned to England.

P 128. Sir William’s letter: “…As it is, many seek Emma’s acquaintance, & we have the best company in Naples at our house. The Duchess of Argyle & that family doat upon Emma, & really she gains the heart of all who approach her. You would be surprised at her having learnt so much in 4 years. She is perfect Italian, begins to speak french tolerably, & sings certainly better than any English Woman I ever heard. I have enlarg’d upon this subject because I thought you wished I shou’d ... I can figure to myself your happiness in the family way.”

Many things can be noted here. One is obvious I wasn’t living my first life as EH. And 4 years is an important period for me, because in this life, sadly, it was 4 years (14 to 18) that I spent in my inner world rather than learning to live in reality.

P 130. Comte d'Espinchal imagines that if he was Sir Hamilton: "I would review all Olympus; I would see often Hebe and Venus and the Graces, sometimes Juno, very rarely Minerva. To vary my pleasures, a rich boudoir would offer me an impassioned and tender Cleopatra welcoming Mark Anthony and sometimes a woodland cabin would show Alcibiades frolicking with Glycera."

He didn't know EH was Cleopatra. I just find it interesting it's not the first time people compare me to my past self of another life without them knowing I was that person.

P 133 talks about a ball which had near 400 people, and also about the "small" parties of 50-60 men and women which happened every night. May be foreshadowing the partying in my next Vivien's life. 400 has appeared before in my lives too. (#psyche-data-astro)

P 139. Romney was moved by EH singing, but as for my acting, he found it "simple, grand, terrible, and pathetic." "The whole company were in an agony of sorrow."

Interesting. In VL life I acted quite well I'd say. With new lives we may learn the skills we never had a chance or opportunity to learn and explore fully in our previous lives.

P 142-143 – mention Nina (sung and acted the mad scene in Nina). I guess it's a play of some sort. I had no close people named Nina; Denis' grandma was called that and she sometimes came to our village house (during winter and spring holidays especially). But I noticed that it was a mad scene that I was acting in. Do I have, or did I have, a reflection with that in my current life or in my VL life? Madness is certainly something which follows me.

Nina Minster was the only person who knew me as MA and talked to me for a bit.

My soul relative – Greta Garbo – played Ninotchka (Nina) in 1939. The character's a USSR agent. The movie was funny to watch, me being a Russian in this life. It's clear they stretched the reality way too much, but that's one of reasons it was funny.

P 144 the marriage between Sir William and Emma was solemnized on September 6.

P 146 mentions the last painting Romney did of me from life - The Ambassadress, which also depicts fiery Vesuvius. As VL I had a possible synchronicity with fire when visiting the set of GWtW during the burning of Atlanta scene. Saw a house burn down as a child in this life and I still remember the orange painting my house's wall in orange. I might add the burning of the library in Alexandria.

Before I noticed water plays different roles quite often in my lives. Maybe fire has also some not so direct roles in my lives.

P 147 mentions how Paris' buildings and gardens of the Tuileries and Louvre and of the Champs Elysées were illuminated; and there was music and dancing.

Could be nothing, could be some reflection – in this life Denis and I traveled to Lakibrovo at night once, and there was music and dancing, and the whole scene was well illuminated. Maybe it was one of the august holidays. The scene looked enchanting.

P 147-148 Lord Palmerston: "She is certainly very handsome and there is a plain good sense and simplicity of character about her which is uncommon and very agreeable. I have seen her perform the various characters and attitudes which she assumes in imitation of statues and pictures, and was pleased even beyond my expectation though I had heard so much. She really presents the very thing which the artists aimed at representing. I have not yet heard her sing which I am told is very remarkably good in its way. I am to do that twice tomorrow. In the morning at the house of an Italian where she is to practice, and in the evening at Lady Sutherland's where there is to be a little music for her."

The first line relates to the (#spiritual-knowledge) and it's in line with the past lives I'd had before being EH.

P 148. Meeting the Queen, Marie Antoinette, may relate to looking at life from another perspective (after the life of Cleopatra).

P 148-149. My EH letter to Mary Dickenson reveals several connections to me:

"Dear Madam, a thousand thanks to you for your kind letter, indeed I feel as if I had not deserved it, but Mr. Dickenson will inform you of the hurry we were in, the last days we were in England, and believe me, the honour you have done me by corresponding with me, and the pleasure is such that I shall seize every opportunity of shewing my gratitude to you for the happiness your dear and instructive letters give me, and at the same time I hope to profit myself, for having lived five years in Italy and not having had the happiness to have had a dear Mrs. Dickenson to write to me and correct me, I am afraid at first I shall be a dull correspondent, but I hope I shall mend as I go on, and now I am so happy and feel so content, that I shall have a pleasure in writing to you, and believe me before the 6th September I was always unhappy and discontented with myself; ah Madam, how much do I owe to your dear Uncle. I feel every moment my obligations to him and am always afraid I can never do enough for him since that moment. I say to myself Am I his Wife, and I can never separate more. Am I Emma Hamilton? It seems impossible I can be so happy. Surely no person was ever so happy as I am. Yes Mrs. Dickenson is, but there are no more Mr. Dickensons and Sir William Hamiltons in the world, to advise me, and I know you will forgive me. From Naples my letter will be more reasonable. Poor Mr. D. how does he do? She was angry the horses were not ready and sent to the pastry cook's for some tarts and eat all the time still she got into the coach, and, believe me, smiled, when Mr. Dickenson, his face all bathed, could only kiss his hand ... people say that insensibility is a happiness; let those that have it enjoy it, I don't envy them, and Mrs. Palombi seems to have a good share of it. God Almighty has given you such a husband I believe there is not his fellow, but I would not have had you to have seen him at that time except it would have been to have given Mrs. Palombi a good scolding. Give our dear loves to Mr. D. and Louisa and tell them we hope to see them at Naples with you one of these days. ... From Naples I will write everything that I do and think, and make it into a packet and send it to Lord Greville's office, and desire it to be put into the post and then I shall not be afraid to write long nonsense. God bless you dear Madam. May you enjoy all the happiness you deserve and believe me your ever obliged your truly grateful and sincere, E. Hamilton."

Again, I wanted to profit, learn, become better.

Then I talk about writing long nonsense. Well, in this life I used to write long posts (TPXP, private messages, etc.) and I did notice that a long time ago, and I even jokingly mentioned that fact myself. (#curious)

I'd like to mention the "kind letter" and "the honour you have done me by corresponding with me". It's something my soul may be craving for being ignored, not believed, and just thought of as crazy. After getting negative comments on my reincarnation videos I thought about this very fact (not yet reading this letter of mine) – how if only there were also positive comments then I probably would feel better.

P 151. Noting the names 'Plymouth' and 'Serena' which have appeared in my life.

Sir William to his niece Mary: "…Emma very naturally told her whole story & that all her desire was by her future conduct to shew her gratitude to me, and to prove to the world that a young, beautiful Woman, tho' of obscure birth, could have noble sentiments and act properly in the great World…."

In this life I'd like to prove Thiaoouba is a true book. It expands into many other things required to be proven – would take long time to list; in short, all I wrote and talked about in my book and videos. (#curious)

P 153. Prince Augustus might have dined with me. Noting here this as a possible sync with my Cleopatra's life: Gaius Julius Caesar Augustus (born Gaius Octavius; 23 September 63 BC – 19 August AD 14), also known as Octavian.

He's also mentioned on page 242 as someone I might have met.

P 154. The mention of ‘scrawl’. I tried to write pretty and legibly in this life in school, but maybe it wasn’t always that way.

EH didn’t invite Prince Augustus’s flame, Lady Anne Hatton and told her the reason - She was too much of a libertine.

Note about my EH’s spelling – seeing the distinction between “except” and “accept.” In this life I suggest one woman (Marced) on Facebook to better her English grammar because otherwise there was a confusion in what she meant in her writing.

P 155 has a story about 18 murderers. It’s possible as EH I confused the date when the battle took place. It had been 25 years prior.

““suddenly rising,” Emma grasped Adéle by her hair. The child turned in fright, “which brought me precisely into the spirit of my part, for she was brandishing a dagger.”“

Sounds like could have been an (#error).

P 156-157. Sir William about EH:

“Lady H, who has had also a difficult part to act & has succeeded wonderfully, having gained, by having no pretensions, the thorough approbation of all the English ladies. The Queen of Naples, as you may have heard, was very kind to her on our return, and treats her like any other travelling lady of distinction; in short, we are very comfortably situated here. ... You can not imagine how delighted Ly H. was in having gained your approbation in England. She desires to be kindly remember’d to you. She goes on improving daily, particularly in musick & in the French & Italian languages. She is realy an extraordinary being, & most gratefull to me for having saved her from the precipice into which she had good sense enough to see she must without me have inevitably fallen, and she sees that nothing but a constant good conduct can maintain the respect “The Fatige of a Dinner of Fifty” 157 that is now shown her by every body. It has often been remarked that a reformed rake makes a good husband. Why not vice versa?”

Having no pretensions relates to the (#spiritual-knowledge)

Good conduct is something which relates to my life and to my 2 immediate past lives.

Later on the page Flora writes about the gardens, trees, and palm trees. I love all those things in my current life – even though in this life I never saw a real palm tree with my own current life’s eyes.

I know from other source as EH I’d later plant trees in England each representing a ship.

P 157-158 EH to Greville about Sir William’s illness. I wasn’t undressing, eating or sleeping for 8 days. Other mentions are of interest too. How I want to stay on the right path and not make the same old errors. It's what I'm still experiencing but due to another issue.

Lady Palmerston said EH was a very extraordinary woman. I think it may be because of the past lives and what roles I had to play in them, and what I learned from them.

53, 20, and 8 are mentioned then but it's probably not a sync or anything.

There's also mention of Lord Palmerston and his wife Miss Carter. I started watching https://www.twitch.tv/vika_karter more than a year ago, I think. Again, may be nothing unless I see more syncs.

P 159. Lady Palmerston reflected upon Emma: "T like Lady H. too well not to wish that she had never learned to sing, for certainly her talents do not lie that way. Her voice is powerful but perfectly without harmony and I am sure she has no ear. She is, however, a very extraordinary character, and by her conduct proves how much she merits her great reverse of fortune. Sir William went to the King, as is his constant custom, to play at billiards."

"Lady H. is to me very surprising, for considering the situation she was in she behaves wonderfully well. Now and then to be sure a little vulgarness pops out, but I think it's more Sir William's fault, who loves a good joke and leads her to enter into his stories, which are not of the best kind. She is vastly desirous to please and is very civil and good humoured to all her friends and her attention to Sir William is infinitely amiable."

In this life I was, and still am, a good humored person despite the difficulties and how I was treated by certain people. I did have dark times also.

There's mention of Temple of Isis at Pompeii, although it's not about my past life. Anyhow, my soul was close to it, and Isis did play a role in my past life of Cleopatra.

P 162 "the twin peaks of Vesuvius" made me finally realize that it may a synchronicity with Twin Peaks movie, with which my soul has many synchronicities.

P 163. The name Caroline (and its variations) is often mentioned. Just reminded me of the scene from Miami Vice, where Phil Collins' In the Air Tonight starts playing and at one point Sonny stops at a phone booth to call his wife Caroline. I used to listen to that music on YT and the line got imprinted in my memory.

P 164 June 2, 1793, Emma's letter to Greville: "I should have answered your kind letter sooner; but I have not had time to write to any of my friends these five months, which I am sorry for, as they may accuse me of neglect and ingratitude, which, if they do it, will be a wrong accusition; for I litterally have been so busy with the English, the Court and my home duties, as to prevent me doing things I had much at heart to do.

For political reasons we have lived eight months at Caserta, that is—making this our constant residence, and going twice a week to town to give dinners, balls, 8c, &, &c, returning here at 2 or 3 a clock in the morning after the fatige of a dinner of fifty, and a ball and supper of 3 hundred. Then to dress early in the morning, to go to court, to dinner at twelve a clock, as the Royal family dine early, and they done Sir William and me the honner to invite us very, very often. Our house at Caserta as been like an inn this winter, as we have had partys, that have come either to see the environs, or have been invited to court. We had the Duchess of Ancaster several days. It is but 3 days since the Devonshire family has left; and we had fifty in [our] familly for four days at Caserta. "Tis true, we dined every day at court, or at some casino of the King; for you cannot immagine how good our King and Queen as been to the principal English who have been here—particularly to Lord and Lady Palmerston, Cholmondeley, Devonshire, Lady Spencer, Lady Bessborough, Lady Plymouth, Sir George and Lady Webster. And I have carried the Ladies to the Queen very often, as she as permitted me to go to her very often in private, which I do. And the reason why we stay now here is, I have promised the Queen to remain as long as she does, which will be tell the tenth of July. In the evenings I go to her, and we are téte-d-téte 2 or 3 hours. Sometimes we sing. Yesterday the King and me sang duetts 3 hours. It was but bad, as he sings like a King."

The first paragraph is a kind of (#reflection) with what I have to deal in my life. I had no time to write to old buddies and some did think negatively of it, or that I should write to them after so many years had gone. There are other reasons, like the big difference in our interests and views on life after I discovered Thiaoouba book.

Lived for 8 months at Caserta.

Of interest here is also the fact I as EH had private conversations in the evenings with the Queen (Maria Carolina). A similar thing happened in my MA and my current life in which I'd talk with my mothers in the late evenings or at night.

I'd also note the setting kind of reminds me of the world Scarlett O'Hara lived in. Maybe my EH life had an influence on the way I played that character in GWtW.

P 165. Greville writes to Sir William his hope Emma doesn't follow others fashion. "Tell her that her own country cloathing is far more adorning than all the trappings of French milliners on awkward, inanimate damsels."

I made a note before about my VL views on what clothes I wear, which are similar to mine, of course. It may be that idea come partially from my EH life.

P 165-166 talk about the Queen making EH an intimate friend of the moment. Given I was by that time Queen Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene, and Hypatia, it's not at all surprising to me life had guided me to play that role, becoming so close to another Queen.

P 166. "We are in the Bay all night, becalmed, and nothing could be finer than the view of Mount Vesuvius." Nelson's letter written on September 11, 1793. It's 208 years before the NY terrorist attack. I watched live broadcast when the 2-nd plane hit the second building. I can only guess for now if the people who were in those buildings or planes (or involved with this tragedy in some other way) had/have some connection to my soul.

Also, before I already read about Vesuvius' twin peaks. May have some connection to the destroyed Twin Towers too.

P 167 "poltroon's court". Took me some time to have the courage to tell the truth. It's not yet clear to me why in Cleo's life I turned the ship around and left the battle.

I realize this time I was experiencing a war on the side of Itali, as opposed to my Cleo's life. Another instance of looking at life from a different perspective. And as Cleopatra I was Greek, as Emma I was British.

Of notice is that I lived during wartime that affected me, and wasn't a ruler (Cleo), in my 3 lives as far as I know today (July 8, 2024): Emma Hamilton, Vivien Leigh, Evgeny Meshkov.

P 170. EH about Vesuvius' eruption: "a violent diarea". From what I know later in life I'd have problems involving diarea. In this life the topic had shown up in several moments too. Might have been an (#error) to make such a comparison about a volcano's eruption.

As EH I wore a locket with Sir William's miniature, and also some of his hair "next the heart".

The hair mention reminded me instantly of how the detective carried my Missy's hair with her until the murder was solved. (#curious)

My mother keeps my hair from my childhood.

P 171. Just a note. William was shooting larks and then boars. I mentioned before I saw boars in our village. I was compared to a lark by Laurence Olivier.

EH Vulgar. VL f word use. Me also using bad words, unfortunately. Sexual innuendoes were part of my VL life.

P 172. 14 yards of fine muslin or "fine Leno. Ask any Lady what Leno is".

Apart from the number, it's funny how I knew what Leno is in that life, and now I have to google the word – asking what Leno basically.

EH's words about the Queen: "the best ... friend in the world. I live constantly with her, and have done intimately so for 2 years."

"we passed four hours in an enchantment."

A friend lent me a book by Gorani, "a vile French dog" … "Don't believe a word.... I have by reading the infamos calomny put myself quite out of humour."

It'd take a long time to try to learn the truths and lies revolving around that book and the Queen. I might note I called him a [French] dog. It might be of some connection to why I was called that in this life and why the dogs were present in my VL's 2 movies. Of course, I remember that dream someone had about Cleopatra (so about me) which involved a dog that I harmed for some reason.

That book episode may have other subtle connections too.

P 173. William had another health problem. As EH I wrote he "the quantity of bile he has discharged .. . is incredable."

Made me remember how in childhood I got sick, food poisoning, and I started to… discharge bile too when there was no water left in my stomach. I was sick for several days.

Then I said that the Queen was "as a mother to me," She'd write daily – several times even – and even offered to come and help with the nursing. "This is friendship."

P 174 "Is the Princess of Wales handsome? How can red hair be handsome?"

Interesting I should read about this on the day when I had a dream about a red haired woman (who might have been Olay. It's July 9, 2024 today). It might have been an (#error). And I might have paid for it when Olay didn't want to see me for the second time. She looked quite beautiful in the photo I first saw of her; so yes, red hair can be handsome, now I know.

"her candid open countenance & unaffected superiority."

Subtle reminder of the woman who said I was looking at her with intelligent eyes or something like that.

P 175 Sir William was a veteran of the Seven Years' War and pacific by nature.

Greeks colonized Naples' seaboard in the 7-th century BC.

P 177 talks about a possibly made-up story of EH slapping a Queen who did the same in return. Just noting this because in GWtW Scarlett slaps 4 people. I did just that, but very gently, in this life too not knowing what to do about the bullying and being quite small child still.

Then the book talks about another story, which is probably not true, that EH and Maria Carolina were in a lesbian friendship… I'll probably want to remember to ask my HS about these stories when I have time. Because again, Scotty Bowers must have told the truth; and people didn't know about my early sexual experiences too until I had to reveal the truth.

Maria Carolina had 17 pregnancies.

P 178 "…Pray do you never think on me. He is our Courrier; so, pray, do not spare him…"

I worked as a courier. Was I spared or not I'm not sure. One of 3 bosses did send me to buy him a Ceasar salad once, so… I'll write here this – possibly an (#error) and payment.

P 179 says I hated Jacobinism. I read about them and they used violence, among other bad things, to spread their authority. Maybe this is of relation to why in this life, when I proposed my views on how to govern in my Manifesto chapter of Simple Truths of Life, I also made sure to say the transition should be peaceful and gentle, taking its time when needed. Of course, I can't propose anything violent regardless, but still, I am and was on the side of pacifism.

P 180-181 Sir Gilbert Elliot about EH: "…excessively good-humoured and wishing to please and be admired by all ages and sorts of persons that come in her way…"

This may relate to (#psyche-data) and to my life of Vivien Leigh, in which at one point I cared too much about what newspapers would say, and in this life people's opinion's of me mattered also until a certain point. I talked about it before.

Good-humoured may relate to (#spiritual-knowledge).

The person's name may be of sync with several people I indirectly knew or came across in this life.

P 181 Sir William encouraged me in badinage and flirtation. Could be of some relation to my MA situation. As VL I flirted also.

Morritt: "scarce known her look the same for three minutes together ... she mimics in a moment everything that strikes her."

May relate to what I called 'vampiric' side of me.

Sir Willum: 'she makes my apple-pies.'

I did them in this life often. Шарлотка.

Water nymph

Eugenia Wynne and her sister Betsey. I used to visit them often. Eugenia was 17. https://www.amazon.com/Diaries-Adventures-Sisters-Napoleonic-Europe/dp/0192813048/

P 183 Eugenia Wynne about my old self: “the well known and much admired Lady Hamilton. She makes no secret of the meanness of her birth, and is so little intoxicated by the splendour of her present situation, that her mother is always with her... she loudly says ... that before she married Sir William she had not a gown to put on her back.”

Given I was Cleopatra, I guess my soul was accustomed to being in such royal situations. So I was so little intoxicated. Actually, it’s what’s happened in this life (perhaps not from the very start, but still). While the material side of that life interests me also, I mainly focus on what I learned in that life, how I lived, and what effects my actions had on my other lives since.

P 185. Flora writes how good it was for a carter’s granddaughter to be near three Royal Highnesses. Again, aside from the physical ties of blood there’s also the astral ties of reincarnation. But I should note that in Mu they chose their leaders from people who reportedly never did anything bad to anyone; those people would come from villages, city districts, etc.; and they’d be of different backgrounds and probably aren’t ‘famous’ or/and, as some could say, ‘royal’.

P 190 talks about me wearing a bandeau saying “Nelson and Victory”. Then something is said about parading willing captives (not real captives). Later writing in the book (same page) reminded me of how in Cleo’s life I had a type of triumvirate in Egypt. Could be of (#psyche-data-astro) connection. In this life I also thought of having a bandeau but never bought anything.

P 191 my EH letter to Nelson “…I am delerious with joy, and assure you I have a fevour caused by agitation and pleasure…”

May relate to (#psyche) for I’ve yet to have full control over my emotions. It can relate to the (#spiritual-knowledge).

P 192 I write “…not a French dog dare shew his face…” obviously referring to French people. Might be of another connection to my childhood troubles (name calling) in this life.

I’m noticing I often wrote “in short” as EH. Continuation of the topic of me writing long letters.

“How I glory in the honner of my Country and my Countryman! I walk and tread in the air with pride, feiling I was born in the same land with the victor Nelson and his gallant band...."

Noting it because I did live another life in England when I was Vivien.

P 195. Ass's milk was given to Nelson by me. It's a reference to Cleopatra. Could be a synchronicity of some sort.

P 196 Nelson about EH: "She is ... a proof that even reputations may be regained, but I own it requires a good soul."

At that time the soul had lived the lives of Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene and Hypatia. Mistakes were made in those lives too, but I also learned good lessons.

Nelson was now Baron Nelson. According to my old self he raged because he wasn't raised to the degree of viscount. They I wrote to his wife "Hang them I say!" Clearly, I didn't mean that literally. But still, could be an (#error).

P 197 I as EH acted as interpreter and translator for Nelson during sessions and negotiations (French and English).

I'll note Samuel Chong is an interpreter. There may be some syncs between us.

I tried to find work an English Russian translator on Freelancer to no avail. Maybe it's for the best.

P 199. EH: "For 6 nights before the embarkation I sat up at my own house receiving all the jewells, money & effects of the Royall familly & from thence conveying them on board the Vanguard [British sailors acted as porters], living in fear of being torn to pieces by the tumultuous mob who suspected our departure, but Sir Wm & I being beloved in the Country saved ous."

'Torn to pieces' reminded me of my life of Hypatia. From what I learned from my Higher Self I (as Hypatia) didn't register (so was probably dead already) that act taking place.

P 199-200 talk about royal family's escape and how I helped them. They took about half a billion $ worth (in today's money) of plate, jewelry and currency.

Unfortunately, I don't know if it was an (#error) on my part, and if it was of what magnitude. The book, while tries to explain minor details, doesn't explain all.

I'll note that some sources say I, Cleopatra, was in Rome when Ceasar was assassinated. I might have fled Rome. If so, then that EH episode may be another moment when I looked at life from a different perspective.

P 201 EH provided "her own beds and linen &c., and became their [the royal family's] slave."

Maybe another reference to Cleopatra's life, changing roles this time.

P 201-202 talks about a trouble at sea. Drowning was in the minds of some people on the ship.

P 202. Albert, the Queen's 6-year-old child, died in my EH arms.

One of mother's brothers died at a similar age. I'd need to ask her about the exact age.

P 203 EH: "Sir William and the King are philosophers; nothing affects them, thank God, & we are scolded even for shewing proper sensibility."

(#spiritual-knowledge)

P 205-206 Flora writes it was an unlikely event that I and Nelson would go out disguised to listen to rumors.

Well, it may be so, but it is something I totally see myself doing.

P 207. Sir William about EH: "…yet the roses on her cheek prevailed over the lilies, and gave hopes that her grief would not prove mortal…"

I asked for red roses and yellow lilies to be shown when I tried to get information if Scotty Bowers' story about me was true.

P 207-208 talks about a Turk messenger. He told a story how his weapon cut off 20 heads. Maybe it was me (Lady H——) who by means of a Greek interpreter flirted with the man. (if it was I could speak Greek as Cleopatra).

Of more importance is the account of my reaction to the man's story: "Oh let me see the sword that did the glorious deed!" Apparently, I kissed the blood covered thing…

Well, if the account is true, it's definitely some type of (#error).

In "The_Polar_star_being_a_continuation_of_T" it's written they were invalids and wounded soldiers from Egypt. He killed them because provisions and water were running short… it's actually so awful!

Unfortunately, I can see my old self doing something like this. So there are no contradictions to my other experiences. Alas, it's expected to come across errors of various degrees when reading about your past lives – especially rather distant ones.

I wonder if I paid for that mistake…

P 209. It's said as EH I put about the rumor that Cecilia was a Jacobin. Possibly was jealous of her dusky good looks and youthful figure.

As VL there was a moment of jealousy too (Duel of Angels, I believe (A. Walker, page 237); when we dined and I'd say bad things to a French actress… so France might be a connection here…). Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge). (#psyche-data-astro) might have also played a role in my VL episode because of France as a possible trigger.

(#error). Jealousy of my looks was one of reasons I was killed as Missy. Could be a connection here too.

Cecilia's husband name was Charles Lock. The Sokolniki Katay girl, who started cursing at people passing by, had/have a crash on Loki character. Maybe it's of no relevance.

I'll note there's a book about me (VL) and it has lots of lies. Might be related.

P 210. Lock talks about me having too much power over Sir William. I don't remember, of course, what was taking place, but he was a grown up man who would probably take the right decision if he thought necessary (for his health and age).

He talks about the situation his age and disinclination render him unfit for. Reminds me just slightly of my current situation. My mother is over 70. I help her, but my own health is poor too and I haven't walked too far from home for almost a year now. And she's stuborn too. I tell her not to over-exhaust herself (in the village) but she has her own mind. It's possible a similar situation was in my EH life and lock didn't see it. In my current life many people made wrong conclusions about me. It's possible the same was happening to some degree in my other lives.

P 213 Emma played the harp. Maybe nothing, just noting there was a harp in Ceasar and Cleopatra movie. My self-heroine touched it.

Harp Twins on YouTube. I used to watch their videos.

EH's soft heart.

In October Jacobins were executed.

P 214 tells the pig story about which I might have had a dream, giving me another hint I was EH.

P 215. 21-gun salute.

Baskets of gloves for EH from the Queen as gifts. Earrings of pearl and diamonds.

"just such a present as such a fine woman as Emma, for except for being a little fatter she is as you saw her eight years ago, could desire." 8

While on the topic of jewels I decided to see if there are photos of the items I had in EH life. The description of that image says "The plan was to make a spectacular entrance to diffuse any scandal surrounding her affair with Nelson and to win the hearts of the London press." It reminded me of Scarlett's spectacular entrance in the rouge dress. I played myself, as people noted (although they didn't think about reincarnation), and maybe there's some reflection going on.

P 216. Nelson accepted the dukedom of Bronte. It may be a sync with what I read about me as VL - A. Walker, page 108: "a small silhouette portrait of Emily Brontë cut out of black paper…" I pressed into Larry's hands. (#curious)

I'd need to ask my HS what I've thought about for some time - if I ever came across Larry's soul in my other lives – what was his name in that life?

It's mentioned on page 251.

"laurel wreath". Probably nothing. Blanche DuBois is from Laurel.

P 219. Lady Elgin tells what Nelson said about me as EH: "…her beauty was nothing in comparison to the goodness of her heart…"

Before she said about EH: "…quite in an undress…" reminded me of my VL behaviour at certain points in that life, but perhaps it's nothing. The climate is hot in Palermo and so no need for lots of clothes.

P 220. "I find it is a constant trick of Lady H. to make everybody she can, go undressed," Mary Elgin. (#curious)

P 220 talks about EH possibly taking (stealing) gold from the baize tables. Maybe it's a rumor. But I did have a ring stolen as VL, and maybe there was something else that was stolen from me/us in that life.

It should be noted as EH I had troubles in later years. That could have been my payment for that alleged mistake.

P 222. General Acton married his brother's daughter of 13 years. Sir William and I were witnesses in the royal chapel. The thing is she tried to escape before, clearly not wishing to marry her uncle who was 50 years her senior.

I think it was an (#error) to be a witness to that wedding. Don't know if I suffered for it. The age does remind me of my s*x drive which showed itself when I was 13; it's a long story I wrote in my book Simple Truths of Life.

P 223. Arthur Paget about EH: "It is not to be told the pains that were taken by Lady Hamilton to set the King and Queen & the whole Court against me, even before | arrived. I was represented as a Jacobin and coxcomb, a person sent to bully and to carry them bon gré mal gré back to Naples ... [this was his commission] . . . her Ladyship's language in general has been extremely indiscreet, representing Sir William as an ill-used man."

(#error) if true. Might be the reason some people have been turned against me by several other people in Thiaoouba Prophecy XP group.

P 224. In my EH's 35'th bd there was a notable event – going back home to England. In this life I found some of my past lives at 35 (including EH).

P 226. There's a connection to Russia. EH obtained several shiploads of corn for starving Maltese. Then I begged pardon for a seaman. Both stories are probably indicators of (#spiritual-knowledge).

The corn story reminds me of grain story from my Cleopatra's life.

"safe pony." May be of some little sync with my VL life.

P 227. There's a mention of Toto [Maria Antonia]. Toto was the name I gave to a toy dog when I was very little.

Nelson said the ship would reach Leghorn by 7. Then the ship plunged 3 times under the waves. Nelson became white and hurriedly existed.

I (EH) "…began to wail and to roll about on the ground."

(#psyche-data) maybe. Has parallels with VL life.

Several sentences after Flora writes that the 7 week-long pregnancy might have been a reason for that behavior. It's interesting if it's so because it may be one of answers why in Mu they seemingly didn't have male leaders. I thought that it might be because of potential for pregnancy and the vulnerabilities it may open during that period.

It should be noted that what other people would think of me – given the child wasn't Sir William's – could be the main reason for that behavior too. If so, then it's another link to my VL life and to my current life.

P 229. Keith's opinion: "Lady Hamilton has ruled the fleet long enough."

I giggled. And it could be of some sync connection to Cleopatra's life.

I'll note just in case in this life I got to be an admin on 3 groups, one of which is important to me (TPXP).

Cornelia Knight: "…Lady Hamilton . .. hates the sea, and wishes to visit the different Courts of Germany…"

P 230 -254 EH's speech to the crowd who had surrounded the Queen in the gov palace: "impropriety of violently surrounding an amiable and illustrious queen." … "positively declared that his lordship would not hold the smallest communication with them"

P 231. Traveled to Trieste in Russian frigates.

Fatima was a Nubian maid from Egypt whom Nelson brought to me (EH). If I'm not mistaken the same name had the wife of the second man who rented my apartment. A possible connection to Egypt since I lived there in at least 2 of my past lives.

Gasthof aller Biedermänner had gargoyle and a plaster Madonna (statues on buildings).

P 232. Kasperl is likened to Pinocchio – the word used by the village old buddy to call the girl I had a misfortune to tease too one summer.

"Madame Hamilton grandondon who holds his [Nelson's] hat." "Grandondon" was a nonsense word with courtesanly implications.

Kinder was used by an adult to, seemingly, refer to me once. We were in Панфилово near a store. There was Vova, Vlad and I. We arrived on an Izh motorcycle with a sidecar attached to it (I was in it I think). Vlad asked Vova what 'kinder' meant and he said 'ребёнок' (child) in German. It's then that I realized the grown up man who knows nothing about me uses not very good words to describe me. 'Not a sleepy baby' was something mentioned of me as Vivien Leigh; I do exhibit child-like traits but so did Thiaooubians when flying away from Michel's doko; there are times and situations when it's okay to behave in a certain way.

P 233. Danube angling of Sir William. Angling was a little part of my childhood life.

A Swedish diplomat Suerstolpe: "Muladi Hammilton, once considered the most beautiful woman in Europe ... wears the Maltese Cross so that she now has all the titles that can impress people. ... She is ... the fattest woman I've ever laid eyes on, but with the most beautiful head."

(was pregnant)

P 234. As EH I might have encountered Joseph Haydn who taught a parrot to say "Come to Papa Haydn, pretty Pollykins." Reminded me of VL life in which I tried to teach a parrot say "Fu$# oasis".

James Harris: "Lady Hamilton is without exception the most coarse, ill-mannered, disagreeable woman I ever met with. The Princess ... had got a number of musicians, and the famous Haydn ... to play, hearing Lady Hamilton was fond of music. Instead of attending to them she sat down to the Faro table, played Nelson's cards for him, and won between 300L and 4ooL.... I could not disguise my feeling, and joined in the general abuse of her."

People who think badly of others, and can't see their own bad manners. Jesus's parable about the log in the eye is brought to my mind once again. It is something I have had to deal with in this life too.

The Hungarian newspaper Magyar Hirmondo about EH performance of the cantata Ananna a Naxos: “[She] is a 35 year old, tall Englishwoman with a very handsome face, who knows well how to demean herself. One of her many rare qualities is her clear, strong voice with which, accompanied by the famous Haydn, she filled the audience with such enthusiasm that they almost became ecstatic. Many were reminded of the pictures of the Goddesses Dido and Calypso.”

Suerstolpe thought he would never again hear “anything so heavenly.” “In her are combined voice as well as method, sensitivity and musical knowledge, so as to bewitch the listener.”

Dido is a singer I used to like listening to (sometimes listen to her songs still) and Sarah Brightman has a cover – Here with Me – which I like. Calypso was a streamer on GG.ru, but I didn’t watch him (maybe a couple of times).

Of another note is that apparently I could sing in that life. It’s possible that in that life I also made an error leading me to having to experience stutter in this life.

P 236. Stayed at a hotel called Black Lion in Prague.

Sang “God Save the King”. Miss Knight produced the verses.

Hugh Elliot, Minto’s brother.

Melesina St. George Trench: “It is plain that Lord Nelson thinks of nothing but Lady Hamilton, who is totally occupied by the same object. She is bold, forward, coarse, assuming, and vain. Her figure is colossal, but, excepting her feet, which are hideous, well shaped. Her bones are large, and she is exceedingly embonpoint. She resembles the bust of Ariadne; the shape of all her features is fine, as is the form of her head, and particularly her ears; her teeth are a little irregular, but tolerably white; her eyes light blue, with a brown spot in one, which, though a defect, takes nothing away from her beauty or expression. Her eyebrows and hair are dark, and her complexion coarse. Her expression is strongly marked, variable, and interesting; her movements in common life ungraceful; her voice loud, yet not disagreeable. Lord Nelson is a little man, without any dignity; Lady Hamilton takes possession of him, and he is a willing captive, the most submissive and devoted I have seen. Sir William is old, infirm, all admiration of his wife, and never spoke to-day but to applaud her... . Mrs Cadogan, Lady Hamilton’s mother, is—what one might expect. After dinner we had several songs in honour of Lord Nelson, written by Miss Knight, and sung by Lady Hamilton. She puffs the incense full in his face; but he receives it with pleasure, and snuffs it up very cordially. The songs all ended in the sailor’s way, with “Hip, hip, hip, hurra,” and a bumper with the last drop on the nail, a ceremony I had never heard of or seen before.”

I’ll make a note I have to read people’s diaries to learn about my past selves. In video games you often read such diaries which even sound similar sometimes. In started learning English by reading and translating the diaries in Resident Evil game (1-st on PS1 and Remake, and some others I guess).

Ariadne. Ashes of Ariandel is the 1-st dlc for DS3. Some people misspell it as Ariadne.

Says I had dark hair. It's the same I saw in a dream when I asked my HS to show how I looked in my EH life.

P 237. Mrs. Trench: "Lady Hamilton loading me with all marks of friendship at first sight, which I always think more extraordinary than love of the same kind."

Love at first sight has happened to me and there's a sync involving it with MA life.

October 7-th, Mrs. Tench "saw her represent in succession the best statues and paintings extant. ... Several Indian shawls, a chair, some antique vases, a wreath of roses, a tambourine, and a few children are her whole apparatus. She stands at one end of the room with a strong light to her left, and every other window closed. Her hair (which by-the-bye is never clean) is short, dressed like an antique, and her gown a simple calico chemise, very easy, with loose sleeves to the wrist. She disposes the shawls so as to form Grecian, Turkish, and other drapery, as well as a variety of turbans. Her arrangement of the turbans is absolute sleight-of-hand, she does it so quickly, so easily, and so well. ... Each representation lasts about ten minutes. It is remarkable that, though coarse and ungraceful in common life, she becomes highly graceful, and even beautiful, during this performance. It is also singular that, in spite of the accuracy of her imitation of the finest ancient draperies, her usual dress is tasteless, vulgar, loaded and unbecoming."

Might see traces of duality of life; I've noticed the duality about me in this current incarnation too.

I dress the same I guess. Just wear what I want (but being a male the choices are not so diverse). Other known lives after EH also seem to agree with this.

Mrs. Trench's critique of Lady Hamilton. "She acts her songs, which I think the last degree of bad taste... To represent passion with the eyes fixed on a book ... must always be a poor piece of acting mangué."

P 238. Mr. Elliot's opinion of me (EH) was no kinder. Just noting it because there may be some sync with Elliot R.

"Poor Mr Elliot, who was anxious the party should not expose themselves more than they had done already, and wished to get over the last day as well as he had done the rest, endeavoured to stop the effusion of champagne, and effected it with some difficulty; but not till the Lord and Lady, or, as he calls them, Antony and Moll Cleopatra, were pretty far gone."

And once more Cleopatra's soul was nearby all the time but in a different physical body.

P 241. Mary Dickenson. VL read all of Dickens.

Wore satin dress. I liked dark blue colors in this life.

Lady Nelson fainted during the 3-rd act of the play we were watching - https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Pizarro_(play) It's a 1799 historical tragedy by Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

Sheridan last name has appeared in my VL life too; in fact, she's the wife of William Frederick Sheridan who's related by blood to Richard. (I mentioned it elsewhere)

Clare Sheridan's husband is William Frederick Sheridan -> his father is Thomas Algernon Brinsley Sheridan -> his father is Richard who wrote the play.

It's one of the top A connections/syncs between my lives of EH and VL. (#curious)

P 242. As EH I was sick into a basil (throwing up). Lady Nelson helped me probably not knowing the cause (being pregnant with Nelson's baby). It's probably nothing, but basin can be translated as 'таз' in Russian. It's also a bone (pelvis). That bone is something which I remember being jokingly mentioned by Victor, my friend's (Anton) father, when I was in his apartments (we were little kids then). I remembered that moment well for some reason.

I was sick in this life a lot and sometimes a basin was used too.

P 244 mentions a place, objects and figures which might have been a part of my dream with Thao in black robe; the one with werewolf.

Emma told in mime the entire sad story of Agrippina.

As VL I played that unfortunate game when the participants would mime a way to… get rid of babies…

P 245 sold diamonds and later said that did very badly from the sail (30,000 pounds). Just noting how I did badly from the sail of old pc parts to clear the room; it was a funny sight to be carrying all that in a bag in Budenovsky pc center.

120 items.

Nelson bought EH a mongrel puppy. As MA I lived puppies. Had a toy plush puppy Toto in this life.

It was named Nilus. All I can remember is a Nihlus character in 1 of my favorite video games Mass Effect.

P 245-246 “Tom tit and the Cub,” EH dubbed Lady Nelson and her son, Josiah Nisbet.

Very rarely we used to jokingly call each other щенок (‘a cub’) in childhood. Tit birds have been photographed by me many times.

One of DS3 characters is Horace the Hushed.

I (EH) had African parrots. Wanted a parrot as VL but was persuaded not to bring it back to England. Had budgies in this life too.

P 247. Nelson wrote to EH on February 8 (it would be my MA bd): “It is your s*x that makes us go forth [to battle], ... and you, my dear, honoured friend, are, believe me, the first, the best, of your s*x. I have been the world around, and in every corner of it, and never yet saw your equal... ,”

I’ll note here the obvious – as VL I did the same mistake of having a love affair with a married/taken person. It could indicate life either never punished me for that (#error) before (between me doing that error in EH’s life and before I was born as VL), or it did but I never learned the lesson.

I’ll note here also that while Horatia was probably Nelson’s, there’s also a chance it could have been William’s. Just that reference to my life in which some of father’s buddies said I wasn’t his child (which must be false).

P 249. As EH I asked Mrs. Gibson to look after Horatia Thompson (Nelson’s daughter born in secrecy at 23 Piccadilly). A sum of money was to be paid out for that. She had a daughter Mary. I apparently lied, telling the child was born in preceding October (but it was obvious the child was a few days old).

Debbie Gibson is the singer I sometimes listen to (several of her songs).

Mary was my name in a past life (Mary [Magdalene]), and it would be my middle name in Vivian’s life.

October would be the month I’d be killed in Missy’s life.

P 250 another lock of hair; this time Horatia’s.

At the end of the page there’s a mention of w—re. Reminded me of Waterloo Bridge.

One of Nelson’s ships was called ‘Elephant’.

P 253. Parker teased Emma about Horatia. “You do not mean to mention her for sixteen years, I suppose.”

P 255. Emma’s and Nelson’s (Battle of the Nile) pictures were to be hang in Merton. Just reminded me of Scarlett’s portrait in GWtW. (The house was Nelson’s by October; there’s a mention of me delaying putting the netting round the edge of the water.)

The stream near the house was christened the Nile. May be of connection with my Cleopatra's life. It may also be of some connection to my Missy's life.

Nilus, the dog Nelson gave EH in January, was lost.

P 256. I fitted/furnished the house (Merton). Interior design has intrigued me in this life. In VL's life there was something similar concerning furnishing.

P 257. There were many glass mirrors it looks like. Might connect with me wishing to use mirrors in lucid dreams to see my old physical bodies.

Actually, I read further and the mirrors were used to lit up the room. Dark Star book about my VL life on page 23 I used then mirrors to boost the illusion of space. (#curious) (#psyche-data-astro)

Nelson had sisters named:

Catherine Matcham (Nelson) (1767 - 1842) who was also known as Kitty

Susanna Nelson (1755–1813)

The first name is identical to Kitty from Waterloo Bridge (a very important movie in my life), and the daughter in VL life was Suzanne.

His brother was Maurice Suckling.

P 258. "Those filthy Boltons…" (#error).

Reminds me of how my aunt's daughter expressed her dislike for my family (me, mother, don't know if father was included). Lately when she called and I struggled talking she hang up without saying goodbyes or anything. Could be the payment for that error.

Lord Minto: "…not only the rooms, but the whole house, staircase and all, are covered with nothing but pictures of her and him, of all sizes and sorts, and representations of his naval actions, coats of arms, pieces of plate in his honour, the flagstaff of L'Onent &c…."

I hanged pictures in VL life. I did the same in mine after realizing I was/ am indeed Vivien Leigh (put the photos of my old self next to my bed so that it'd help rearrange my new worldview, so to say). (#curious)

P 259. EH: "We are very busy planting, and I am as much amused with pigs and hens as I was as the Court of Naples' Ambassadress."

P 260. I (EH) said if I was a Queen I'd essentially grant Nelson a very huge house. (#psyche-data-astro) in regard to Cleopatra's life?

P 262. When skating on the Serpentine I wore plain white "with a white satin cloak, trimmed with ermine, and lined with amber."

Some of my VL clothes had, unfortunately (if the animals had to do to give away their fur), fur of similar animals. Amber made me remember mother's amber; when I was a child she told a story about it (Vova, son of my aunt Zina, brought it with him from marine service).

P 263. William Hamilton died on April 6, 20 days before my EH birthday. He was 72.

EH: "Unhappy day for the forlorn Emma ten minutes past ten Dear Blessed Sir William left me."

P 263 William was correct in 1786 when he thought he'd live 17 more years (he died in 1803). It's also of interest because as MA I died when I was 17.

Nelson would die 2 years later.

800 pounds annual annuity, paid quarterly (so 200 per quarter).

P 264 double blow – losing a husband and a "husband of my heart".

P 265. The sentences after the 'girth' may have some reflections in Scarlett O'Hara (GWtW).

P 266 mentioned the Duke of Queensberry who had rheumy eyes and who dined with me in London often.

Just noting in this life I sometimes had rheumy eyes due to psychological issues resulted from my wrong actions.

household of Mr. Abraham Goldsmid at Morden Hall. Just noting it because Abraham name was mentioned in one of the dreams after I asked what my name was if I lived when Queen Christina lived (1650 +/-).

P 268. EH: "This sad sad widdowed anniversary what must my feeling be this day that Sir William used to keep as the happiest of his Life because it gave him Emma.... this day am I at South End forlorn & alone my Husband gone to a better world and Nelson our friend gone out to serve his Country I was kept with pomp splendour, every honner done to me as tho' born an Empress."

Just noting recently via asking my HS questions and finding my other past lives I learned I've had 4 lives in which I was a ruler of some kind (king, queen, etc.).

Of note is that "better world" indicates I thought about paradise rather than reincarnation. It's not out of line with my life because in this existence there was a period I even crossed myself hoping it'd do some good (obviously, it was long before finding Thiaoouba in my 20s). It shows that we will experience what we have to experience no matter who we were in our past lives and what [material] knowledge we had in them. Maybe as Emma I never knew about the full concepts of Buddhism and so reincarnation didn't become my belief in that life.

Nelson's sight was dimming. My mother has serious issues with her sight. Can barely see even with glasses and can read only large letters/numbers. Made me think if maybe there's a connection. I can think of a few possibilities.

P 269. Pension has been mentioned. It may be a subject to worry about in this life too given my circumstances…

Achievements and service for the county not being recognized may have a reflection with my current life in which I've met with skeptics, some of whom are rude and could even be hostile.

Had 3 children, of whom 2 survived. As VL had 3 pregnancies, 1 child was born.

Bevy of young girls to whom EH stood guardian.

Maybe nothing, but made me remember how in my childhood in my village there was a period I was in a company of 2 boys much younger than me (maybe 6+ years difference; One was Vlad who later joined out company). Generally, I was in a company where there was 1 girl 1 year younger than me, and others were 1, 2, and a bit more years older. I'm noting this also because Lena did mentioned this fact – asking something along the lines if I hang out with little kids now; this is why I remembered this period and now it's been brought up in my mind. Possibly a (#reflection-life)

P 271. I (EH) told Sarah Nelson that her daughter wore "a new dress of blue & white spangled and look'd divine."

Made me remember Scarlett O'Hara's blue and white dress (when she's seen with Ahley by India and others. That scene then leads to the "lion's den"). Clearly, that dress was also very impressive looking.

about Charlotte not yet being "fit to come out presentable at Court till next winter ... she must practise every day for 3 months coming in and going out with a Hoop...."

It's probably I don't understand the meaning of that 'Hoop', but it did remind me of how in the village I had an old bare bicycle metal wheel without any spikes in it (so it was like a hoop). Victor (a relative) showed me how to throw that hoop so that it'd return rolling back to me (basically you give it a good spin [towards you, coming from above] when throwing it forward).

Emma's free manners. Again, reminded me of Scarlett O'Hara.

P 272. Cathedral. Clearly Jesus' image was present in that place in one form or another. As Mary Magdalene it's interesting I was, apparently, singing in such a place and didn't know/remember (due to River of Oblivion) my history and connection to Jesus.

P 274 – 314 - Emma was organizing a birthday party for Anne Bolton and Horatia, whose

P 275: "What a sad thing it is to think such a man as him should be entrapped with such an infamous woman as that apothicary's widow.... Whilst I am free—with talents he likes, adoring him, that never a woman adored a man as I do my Nelson, loving him beyond this world, and yet we are both miserable . . . patience."
(#error)

P 276. Woo with gifts may have a connection with a similar thing in my childhood. Only the food was presents I'd give to childhood friends in the village. It was a bit strange now that I think about it and nobody else [almost ever] did that. (#psyche-data-astro)?

"That devil Tom Tit" who apperantly tried to turn society against me (EH). Noting the name in case I find other past lives near my Emma's life. In my other past lives some names (Peter, Victor) showed themselves constantly and had a certain degree of negativity (but there was good also).

Danced till 4:00 a.m.

Party with 7 tables.

Joseph Farington is mentioned. Could be nothing, but the daughter is VL life would become Suzanne Farrington.

a child actor called Young Roscius, or Master Betty. Just noting Betty Elms character from Mulholland Dr which has played an important role in my life. She aspired to be an actress also and was successful – just like Master Betty was irl.

P 277 mentions madness of my EH's cousin, Charles Connor, and how quickly he recovered from it. May be of reflection with Vivien's and my current life; there's madness but I can quickly recover and I think in this life I've learned a bit about psychology thanks to Thiaoouba and my reflections on life.

It's also mentioned I paid bills (in other instances also). In this life there was some financial help flowing to me. Could be the example of getting help for giving help. (#benefit)

Loans… I've made a serious error loaning a sum of money ($1000 +/-) to buy and trade cryptocurrency. Thankfully, I've learned my lessons from my mistakes and was able to make that some back, withdraw it, and still have some crypto left. Used to be lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding loans/ credits; now try to be very careful with these things.

P 278. "nettle rash". Some photos reminded me of bed bugs bites. Those insects were driving me mad sometimes; thankfully eventually we were able to get rid of them.

Mrs. Cadogan to EH: "My dear Emma, Cribb is quite distrest for money, would be glad if you could bring him the £13 that he paid for the taxes, to pay the mowers. I have got the baker's and butcher's bills cast up; they come to one hundred pounds seventeen shillings. God Almighty bless you, my dear Emma, and grant us good news from our dear Lord. My dear Emma, bring me a bottle of ink and a box of wafers. Sarah Reynolds thanks you for your goodness to invite her to Sadlers Wells."

I'll note 13 pounds, and that Butler from Titanic paid that same amount for the ticket (don't know if I was him yet, but the synchronicities are slowly piling up).

Clarges Street repainted which added up to my past life's expenses. Just today in the morning I was thinking of how the people who lease my apartment made a cosmetic repairs there. It cost a good amount and probably wasn't exactly necessary to do, given the same was done about 5 years ago and the house is to be demolished in several years anyway (if all goes as planned by Moscow's government). But I also thought how I no longer strive to have everything remodeled or repainted just because it would look much better. I try to live simple life and save money for something more important (these days you never know when money might be needed). I think I've learned something from this life and others in terms of (#spiritual-knowledge) regarding the way of life and spending of money. I try to think of consequences and that I don't know the future. Of course, sometimes I have to make certain repairs or buy some tool, item, furniture, etc.

P 279. Sir Peter Parker and Lord Minto. Since I decided to note everything I notice – even if most probably unimportant – I'll say that I've been to a cinema several times and one of the movies I watched wit Anton was Spider Man, the main character in which is Peter Parker.

P 281. Lady Bessborough reported about Nelson, "as one had always heard, he was perfectly unassuming and natural." Emma wanted him to give an account of his having been “Mobb’d and Huzza’d” in the streets. He stopped her. “Why, you like to be applauded—you cannot deny it,” said Emma. Nelson owned popular applause was acceptable to him— “but no Man ought to be too much elated by it ... it may be my turn to feel the tide set as strong against me as ever it did for me.”

Reminded me of how in my early childhood I wanted my mother to give an account – it is a strange story – of how she was walking in red coat in Sokolniki park and there was a man as if following her. Walking parallel to her; walking faster when she did; walking slower when she did. At the time there were news women in red were being killed. Mother got scared and walked back home. She didn’t like my idea and said it was a story she told to me only. She says it’s possible he just wanted to get acquainted with her (but was shy maybe).

P 282. “Lavinia, I think you will now agree that you have been to blame in your opinion of Lady Hamilton.”

As VL played a character named Lavinia in Titus Andronicus.

P 285. Marquess of Douglas was one of guests I was nearby. Just noting Kirk Douglas was someone I sat next to in VL’s life.

P 286. Julia, one of the maids at Merton. There was Julia whom I met in this life and who seemingly believed my Thiaoouba related stories; Some time after I had a dream involving her (when I asked my HS to show me a fragment of my Mary M. life. It was done, but in a different way than one could have expected.)

P 287: Emma described to her friend Lady Betty Foster the day when she learnt that Nelson was dead: “I sent to enquire who was arrived. They brought me word, Mr Whitby, from the Admiralty. “Show him in directly,” I said. He came in, and with a pale countenance and faint voice said, “We have gained a great Victory.” —’Never mind your victory,” I said, “My letters—give me my letters” — Capt. Whitby was unable to speak—tears in his eyes and a deathly paleness over his face made me comprehend him. I believe I gave a scream and fell back, and for ten hours after I could neither speak nor shed a tear....”

It happened on November 6.

P 287-288. Nelson’s last letter to Emma: “Victory Octr 19th: 1805 Noon My Dearest, beloved Emma the dear friend of my bosom the Signal has been made that the Enemy’s Combined fleet are coming out of Port. We have very little Wind so that I have no hopes of seeing them before tomorrow May the God of Battles crown my endeavours with success at all events I will take care that my name shall ever be most dear to you and Horatia, both of whom I love as much as my own life and as my last writing before the battle will be to you, so I hope in God that I shall live to finish my letter after the Battle. May Heaven bless you prays your Nelson & Bronte. Octr. 20th, in the morning we were close to the mouth of the Streights, but the Wind had not come far enough to the Westward to allow the combined fleets to weather the shoals off Trafallgar, but they were counted as far as forty Ships of War, which I suppose to be 34 of the Line and six frigates, a Group of them was seen off the Lighthouse of Cadiz this Morng, but it blows so very fresh & thick weather that I rather believe they will go into the Harbour before night. May God Almighty give us success over these fellows and enable us to get a Peace."

Numbers, Wind, Bronte have been a part in some of my other lives.

P 294-295. Hayley to EH:

"Believe me, my dear Emma, the most valuable of all victories are those we obtain over ourselves! Self-conquest is the summit of real heroism .. . you tell me you are most unhappy. No! you must not be so. You must allow your friendly Hermit to lead you to discover, and to enjoy, perhaps, the very sweetest of human gratifications. In a pilgrimage of threescore years on earth, I have learnt that the most soothing and satisfactory of all human pleasures may be found in discharging our-affectionate duties to the dead; and particularly in acting, upon all occasions, as the pure Spirits of the Just made perfect must wish their surviving friends to act. Now, dear Emma, you have abundance of such delightful duties ... to furnish you with the most animating occupation. I conjure you, therefore, to let no sort of trouble depress the native energy of your mind."

My reply:

"I was very happy at Naples, but all seems gone like a dream. I am plagued by Lawyers, ill-used by the Government, and distracted by that variety and perplexity of subjects which as you may suppose press upon me. I pass as much of my time at dear Merton as possible—and I always feel particularly low when I leave it. Mr Clarke has read me well, for I was leaning my cheek upon my hand, and very unhappy, but I did try and get a victory over myself and seem to be happy altho' miserable."

In this life I came to realize the same things as Hayley did. It seems like I tried Hayley's advice. Maybe it's a reason for why I came to the same conclusion in this life; so, some (#spiritual-knowledge) might have been gained there.

Ill-used by the gov. In VL life it was the opposite, from what I know. Might be one of reasons I lived yet another live in England.

P 299-300. My EH letter to Dr. Scott:

"My dear Friend—I did not get your letter till the other day, for I have been with Mrs Bolton to visit an old respectable aunt of my dear Nelson's [Mrs Rolfe]. I shall be in town, that is, at Merton, the end of the week .... I want much to see you; consult with you about my affairs. How hard it is, how cruel their treatment to me and Horatia. That angel's last wishes all neglected, but to speak of the fraud that was acted to keep back the Codicil; but enough!

when we meet we will speak about it .... It seems those that truly loved him are to be victims to hatred, jealousy, and spite. I know well how he valued you, and what he would have done for you had he lived. You know the great and virtuous affection he had for me, the love he bore my husband, and, if I had any influence over him, I used it for the good of my country. Did I ever keep him at home? Did I not share in his glory? Even this last fatal victory, it was I bid him go forth .... Did he not in his last moments do me justice, and request at the moment of his glorious death, that the King and Nation will do me justice? And I have got all his letters, and near eight hundred of the Queen of Naples's letters to show what I did for my King and Country, and prettily | am rewarded. Psha! I am above them, I despise them—for, thank God, I feel that having lived with honour and glory, glory they cannot take from me. I despise them, my soul is above them, and I can yet make some of them tremble, by showing them how he despised them; for in his letters to me he thought aloud."

Psychologically and spirituality I can see how and why I used the words I used (as EH) in that letter. In fact, I felt similar negative feelings at times in this life due to the already mentioned reasons, but I try to remember that all [those] people will have to suffer for their mistakes, and I myself don't have to make a mistake of allowing those people's negative thoughts and opinions of me affect me. As I came to realize in this life - it's actually our choice to become offended by someone or something. Gaining of (#spiritual-knowledge).

"Glory they cannot take from me". I wrote in a group chat once, when talking about skepticism towards my experiences in this life, that no matter what would happen next, the fact will forever remain that in my Evgeny Meshkov's life I did have this great experience of finding my past life (Vivien Leigh at that point). Nothing and no one will ever take this historic fact away from me. (#spiritual-knowledge)?

I (as EH) did make an (#error) of 'despising' them.

(#psyche-data) or (#psyche-data-astro) may be at play here too. Before finding my first past life (of Vivien Leigh) I did imagine quite often about becoming a leader – since I knew that my knowledge can greatly help people. Having the spiritual knowledge and the material knowledge from Thiaoouba I would try to do my best to do what is right. This could be a long story… what's important is that, as I now know, I was a leader 4 times in my past lives (Cleopatra, Alexander III of Macedon, one of Akhenaton's consorts, and someone else whose name I currently don't know). It may sound unplausible, but knowing what I know about myself it all actually makes total sense. Having lived those glorious lives, I can see how frustrated I must have been to not receive a lot of recognition for all the help I'd done as EH.

Flora wrote “black-doggish mood” to describe my EH mood of that time.

P 300. As EH drew excised the Connors from the will and drew attention to the insanity which ran in their family. It seems I told some stories which didn’t travel far.

To be fair I don’t know all the particulars of that situation… but it looks like this is a very good candidate to be the (#error) for which I suffered in Vivien Leigh’s life in terms of mental issues. Perhaps it concerns my current life also.

I might note that Sarah Connor character in the Terminator 2 is held essentially imprisoned in an asylum for mentally ill.

A journalist by name James Harrison is mentioned. As VL played alongside Rex Harrison in a couple of movies.

Oliver brings to mind Laurence Olivier, of course.

P 301. As EH I may have paid for Harrison’s 2-volume Life to be published. It’s interesting because I had to translate and publish (only online for now) Thiaoouba Prophecy in this life.

P 302. More thoughts about justice being made. I’ve already expressed before a thought that in VL life I got to experience the recognition from English leaders – something opposite to EH. This page made me think that while in Emma’s life my actions were not recognized, they did become recognized by the time I was born as Vivian Mary Hartley; the evidence of that is me playing myself in Lady Hamilton movie which would not have been made otherwise during the war and for the reasons behind its production. Perhaps it was life’s way to show that now the justice had been made.

P 303. Had a new apartment in Bond Street. Bond is the name I have in one of my email addresses. It may also be a synchronicity with the Terminator movie and its filming locations.

Harp and viol resounding from that apartment.

P 304. 3:30 a.m.

P 307. Fell very ill with jaundice (желтуха). Brings to memory that girl in Sokolniki. She had noticeable yellow tint on her skin near her mouth area. That small episode made me realize important and simple truths about life. (#curious)

Mrs. Cadogan, EH’s mother, died on January 14, 1810.

Just a note: Several important events happened on January 13s in my soul’s life. As EH I’d die almost exactly 5 years later on January 15.

P 307. Chapter 20 – the final - “Toujours Belle” (Always Beautiful).

I'll note here that as EH I occasionally refer to myself in 3-rd person in the letters. In this life I do this sometimes when I try to motivate myself speaking out loud [to myself] – e.g. "Zhenya, do this or that".

P 308. Mrs. Denis, one of the singing Lind sisters. A guy by name Denis (Денис) was a village friend.

Absence of 4 years.

Incommunicado is a parallel to my life.

P 309. As EH I'd change place of residence almost next to my old place several times. In VL life I noticed my places of residence in London were also not that far from each other.

It connects to how I feel in this life. I wouldn't want to move out too far from the area I'm used to (and which I like). (#psyche-data)?

I've also realized the houses I lived in in Emma's life are maybe ~2 km away from Eaton Square where I lived in my Vivien Leigh's life. And maybe ~3 km away from Durham Cottage on 4 Christchurch St. (#curious)

"Cleopatra's Needle" stands not far from those places either.

I looked at the map of London and it's enormous compared to this little area of interest. To me it's a sign it all may not be just one coincidence following another and then repeat. I feel it's related to [my] reincarnation.

Lady Cork's kleptomania & lion-hunting.

P 310. Some people I knew to some extent in Emma's life did what I did in my Cleopatra's life to escape the seemingly unavoidable difficulties or fate. Curious if there could be a connection.

P 313. As EH had "a lively conversation" with Lord Montgomery's uncle. In Vivien's life I've met several people whose last name was Montgomery.

The situation regarding Cecilia Connor isn't clear. Maybe errors were made, maybe weren't.

In 1811 went to see a historical play The Royal Oak, at the Haymarket.

~131 years later, in 1942, as Vivien Leigh I'd visit that theater again. Only that time as an actress, playing Jennifer Dubedat in The Doctor's Dilemma (directed by Irene Hentschel). (#curious) and it's another example of looking at life from a different point of view.

Also, in 1931 I went to the cinema in the Haymarket to see A Connecticut Yankee. Maureen O'Sullivan played in it.

As EH saw references to Nelson in the ballad's description and was overcome. Was brought home in a fainting condition.

Miss Wheatley, the singer performing the ballad, then came to my EH house. I'd listen to her song several times. In this life I sometimes listen to a newly found song I like very much many-many times.

P 314. Comfortable sitting by the fire. I liked to sit next to a fire in the Russian stove of my aunts' house (the house adjacent to ours).

As Emma I still was eager to assist others in spite of my financial difficulties.

P 314. Samuel Rogers.

P 168. Sir Gilbert Elliot.

Life brought me to discover a person [on the Internet] whose first and last names are identical to the last ones of those people. I had to read his… 'Manifesto' in order to learn from his mistakes and relieve me from the pressure that had being building up inside of me due to almost completely being ignored and rejected when all I wanted is to help others and have a normal life and some understanding from people. Obviously, the failed attempts to find a girlfriend was the major source of that pressure build up. The reading did help me; his errors were very, very obvious to me.

P 315. My Emma's claims "to be heard only as they can be proved; and being proved, may I hope for what I have now desired." It's about the service and recognition of the services.

(#reflection-life) can be seen here with what I have to deal trying to prove to people Thiaoouba Prophecy, my experiences with Thiaooubians, and now my experience finding my past lives are real.

P 316. In 1813 was arrested and brought to https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/King%27s_Bench_Prison. Did not have to live withing its walls, though.

Wiki says Charles Dickens' David Copperfield Mr Micawber is imprisoned for debt in it. Read all of Dickens in Vivien's life.

Also, Louisa Kidder-Staples' murder case had earie similarities to my Missy's death.

Louis Simond – a French painter I assume – described what the prison looked like.

P 317 says I (EH) had written another memorial.

P 318-319. Emma to Horatia:

"Listen to a kind good mother, who has ever been to you affectionate, truly kind, and who has neither spared pains nor expense to make you the most amiable and most accomplish'd of your s*x. Ah, Horatia! if you had grown up as I wish'd you, what a joy, what a comfort might you have been to me! for I have been constant to you, and willingly pleased for every manifestation you shew'd to learn and profitt of my lessons, and I have ever been most willing to overlook injuries. But now 'tis for myself I speak & write. Look into yourself well, correct yourself of your errors, your caprices, your nonsensical follies, for by your inattention you have forfeited all claims to my future kindness. | have weathered many a storm for your sake, but these frequent blows have kill'd me. Listen, then, from a mother who speaks from the dead! Reform your conduct, or you will be detested by all the world, & when you shall no longer have my fostering arm to sheild you, whoe betide you! you will sink to nothing. Be good, be honourable, tell not falsehoods, be not capricious, follow the advice of the mother whom I shall place you in at school, for a governess must act as mother. I grieve and lament to see the increasing strength of your turbulent passions; I weep & I pray you may not be totally lost; my fervent prayers are offered up to God for you; I hope you will yet become sensible of your eternal wellfare. I shall go join your father and my blessed mother, & may you on your death-bed have as little to reproach yourself as your once affectionate mother has, for I can glorify, & say I was a good child. Can Horatia Nelson say so? [am unhappy to say you cannot. No answer to this?—I shall tomorrow look out for a school, for your sake & to save you, that you may bless the memory of an injured mother. P.S. Look on me now as gone from this world."

The contents of the house on Bond Street had to be sold by order of a sheriff. The inventory of the house contents lists a magnificent seven-foot bed with rich chintz hangings, pianos, a mahogany Canterbury (or music holder), yards of lace, the Worcester tea set Baxter had painted … She had built up a considerable collection of china—all of it was to be auctioned. Bidet frames, ewers, even board games like draughts and Pope Joan were up for auction.

P 321. "Can anything be more rediculous than the Russian and Spanish ambassadors not meeting, nor did Russia go to Guildhall because Little Spanish insists on token place for their ancient monarchy whi Russia is anew born thing Their has been more battles lost and kingdoms gone for a Trifling form of Two little ... fellows wishing to walk before the other than for any just cause."

P 322. EH to Horatia after the later made some misdemeanor:

"Horatia,—Your conduct is so bad, your falsehoods so dreadfull, your cruel treatment to me such that I cannot live under these afflicting circumstances, my poor heart is broken. If my poor mother was living to take my part, broken as I am with greif and ill-health, | should be happy to breathe my last in her arms. I thank you for what you have done to-day. You have helped me on nearer to God, and may God forgive you. In two days all will be arranged for your future establishment, and on Tuesday at 12, Col & Mrs Smith, Trickey, Mr & Mrs Dénis, Dr Norton will be here to hear all. Every servant shall be put on their oath, for | shall send for Nany at Richmond—Mr Slop, Mrs Sice, Anne Deane—and get letters from the Boltons and Matchams to confront you, & tell the truth if | have used you ill; but the all-seeing eye of God knows my innocence. It is therefore my command that you do not speak to me till Tuesday, & if to-day you do speak to me, I will that moment let Col & Mrs Clive into all your barbarous scenes on my person, life and honnor."

Horatia was accompanying them to the Magdalen, or reformatory. Horatia says Lady Hamilton took a great interest in it. About twice a month Emma would assuage her charitable zeal by a visit there or to the Blind School.

Named after me – Mary Magdalene – I'm sure. In VL life and in my current life I did come across that past life of mine also. (#curious)

P 323 mentioned my EH weakness in the first 3 months of 1814 may have been caused by cirrhotic liver. This was the cause of death of our village neighbor Igor; it may be of some connection because of the circumstances surrounding my finding that out and what followed.

P 323-324. EH about 'The Letters of Lord Nelson to Lady Hamilton' book.

"I have not seen the book, but I give you my honour that I know nothing of these letters. | have now been nine months in Temple Place & allmost all the time I have been very ill with a bilious complaint, brought on by fretting & anxiety, & lately I have kept my bed for near twelve weeks, nor have I seen any person except Dr Watson & Mr Tegart, who have attended me with kindness & attention, & to whoes care I owe my life. About four years ago my house in Dover Street was on fire, & I was going into Sussex for 3 months, & I left part of my papers in a case with a person to whom I thought I cou'd depend on. Weather this person has made use of any of these papers, or weather they are the invention of a vile, mercenary wretch, I know not, but you will oblige me much by contradicting these falsehoods ..."

The book was published despite my EH protests, and apparently I raged and broke some china (cost £13.4s.11d.). This is me alright. But I Am glad Now that the book was published because it gives me information and insights into one of my past lives, which gives me knowledge about reincarnation. Moreover, as was said many times already, I was able to start openly telling the difficult truths about my life (Simple Truths of Life book) and face my errors to learn to become a better human being.

P 235. 250 pounds.

P 326 says EH was instructing Horatia in German and Spanish. Neither were ever mentioned before to be a part of my repertory. Reminded me of how in Cleopatra's life I spoke many languages. As Vivien I spoke several languages too.

““We read English, Roman and Grecian History, but it is a great fatigue to me as I have been eight months ill and am now in a state of convalescence.”

EH about the farmhouse: “a fine garden, common, large rooms. ...I have an ass for Horatia, as she wants, now she is fourteen, exercise.”

P 327: Emma about Horatia: “She is good, virtuous and religious. We go to the Church of St Peter’s, and read our prayers in French, for they are exactly like our own.”

P 328-329. Horatia about EH:

“With all her faults—and she had many, she had many fine qualities, which, had she been placed early in better hands, would have made her a very superior woman.

It is but justice ... to say that through all her difficulties she invariably till the last few months expended on my education etc, the whole of the interest of the sum left me by Lord Nelson and which was left entirely in her control.”

P 329. On January 15, 1815, at one in the afternoon, my soul left my Emma’s body.

One in the afternoon is the time my father died on July 26, 2018. (#curious)

P 335. EH: “I love to surprise people.”

Her name (last name) changed several times too.

CHECK LATER. There's something about real mother? But I've missed the original meaning it seems. I could pay attention to it if I watch videos about Emma Hamilton and her daughter.

I noticed it because there were some silly talks about me not being the son of my father – which I highly doubt given what my mother has told me about their meeting.

She long struggled to procure an existence by teaching the English language.

I tried to do the same (it was a mistake because native speaker should be doing it)

Emma Carew died on the 26 March 1856.

Died in the Titanic disaster (15th April 1912)
Body Not Identified

Angelo Angelica (Emma, Kaufman; Vivien; Silent Hill 2)

Mario – Maria

St. Martins Lane – 1938 movie of the same name after 26 years of my previous body's death.

1912 + 23 = 1935 – start of my movie carrier which was a significant even of my life.

Sarah Brightman's song and Italy. Reference to when I had that dream about Alice and Beatles' drummer.

Alexander Walker's book on my life, page 37. I said "You deserve to be kissed" to a young waiter in Munich's hotel and acted on the impulse. Gertrude slapped me for that behavior.

4:25 - Wallace Hartley was an English violinist and bandleader.
Hartley left school and started working with the Craven & Union Bank in Colne.
Reminded of Wes Craven.
His status of a crew member changed to a second-class passenger. As Angelo I might have seen him.

Eva Hart was on Titanic and survived to tell the story of the Titanic splitting in two. Perhaps a coincidence – just noting Emma Hamilton had a last name of Hart at some point; And Eva Chirumbolo was the key witness in MA murder case

There are actually some numbers associated with Titanic which have been a part of my life, and also became connections between my other lives.
Ordered 17 September 1908
Yard number 401
Way number 400 (400 night club I visited in VL life. 400 days between 26.06.1987 (Michel D. being taken to Thiaoouba) – 30.07.1988 (my birthday)).
Identification UK official number 131428 (13 has been present during important events in my lives. 14 & 28 is a 1 of syncs with Mary Magdalene, and it's 1 of syncs with Nightmare movie) Fate Struck an iceberg at 11:40 pm (ship's time) 14 April 1912 on her maiden voyage and sank 2 h 40 min later on 15 April 1912; 111 years ago.

The ship was equipped with only 20 lifeboats (capacity was 48). 14 were regular lifeboats. 2 were cutter lifeboats. 4 were collapsible lifeboats.

Vivien Leigh

vivien-leigh-birthday-ftr.jpg

https://parade.com/219763/iraphael/100th-birthday-vivien-leigh-rare-photo/

There are 3 birds – budgies, I think. I've had 3 budgies in my childhood.

Lavinia's fate in Titus Andronicus may be another instance of me kinda playing myself because there are some parallels to what happened to me in Hypatia's life. But I don't know if there are direct connections or it's just a coincidence.

I noticed I, playing Scarlett, bite my lips – but gently. Just noting it because I bit my lip and got a lifelong scar. Is there connection – I don't know.

GWtW 00:38:00 - "Just like a spider". Maybe nothing, just noting spider is IT's form which is as close to IT's true form as one can comprehend.

GWtW 00:30:35 - Scarlett: "Oh, why don't you say it, you coward—you're AFRAID to marry me! You'd rather live with that silly little fool who can't open her mouth except say "Yes" and "No" and raise a patch of mealy-mouthed brats just like her!"

I remembered that because of shyness and stuttering in my childhood I actually would say «да» / «нет» (yes/no) when someone would ask me a question. Yet I've much to tell if I know the subject. I'd say it another instance of me suffering for the (#error) done by the character I portrayed in the movie and who never suffered for it in the same film.

Then there was a moment (I was about 18 +/- maybe) when I wrote to a girl on a dating site. On one of her photos she was exercising on a home near something like шведская стенка - Swedish wall. I had the same at home. We briefly talked about that and maybe some other trivial things, and then there was nothing to say on my part. She noticed that and bluntly wrote that fact to me. (И это всё? (And that's it?) – was something close to her message; maybe it was different). My mind was blank; I didn't know what to talk about, having no experience talking and socializing in this life. But later – much later – I did realize that you just need to live, experience life, and then you will have something interesting to share and talk about… unless people don't believe your experiences are real. I'm noting this because in my previous life and did talk and did socialize; so maybe somehow the knowledge and skill I got from those experiences helped me in this life's situation to come to understandings about the simple truths of life.

Scarlett also flirts with other women's beaus. It reminded me of the accusations in MA life I did the same thing. Big flirt. Could be a connection here.

Writing\0 Vivien Leigh\Photos\Places\Tickerage-Mill-Cottage-Sussex \Vivien-Leigh_George-Douglas-5.jpg
I sometimes touch my neck in a very similar fashion.

The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone. At 1:33:00 I say "The Romans conquered Egypt, you know." And they did that when I/VL was Cleopatra. I said those words in the movie without, probably, realizing I was Cleopatra (why would I?) and I played the key role in those historic events.

http://vivandlarry.com/guest-post/a-letter-from-france/
Says in 1520 Olivier's ancestors fled to England to avoid Catholic persecutions. Could be nothing but in 1530 I lived as someone named Jade.
Then they write I had a long list of things to do while in Paris. I wanted to see in 4 days what would have taken 2 weeks other people!
First, I'm noting making of lists to do – something I still do in my life.
Secondly, the 4 days part reminded me again of the movie Asterix and Obelisk: Mission Cleopatra, in which I found potential close to home similarities with my soul's life, and this is another one, because in the movie Cleo wants to build the temple in just 3 months, when it should have taken years to do. (my other notes are in my diary)
"She was forever cast as a courageous Scarlett, fighting to her last forces, in order to retain the aura and legend of a time forever gone."

«Какие люди в Голливуде». Мне кажется, в детстве кто-то говорил мне это в шутку. Я точно помню упоминание этой фразы. Не думаю, что я говорил её кому-то.

I'll not just in case that in The Happy Hypocrite I as VL played Jenny Mere. She was a singer. As EH I could sing. It could be another instance of me playing myself in my past life.

On photos '2_ris._viv_en_li.jpg' & '0 hi res 2.jpg' - the ones where I wear black. My hair is parted sideways from the middle. The hair looks similarly to what I saw in the mirror dream on the woman who then turned out to be Cleopatra. The hair's parted the same way, and it's also black. Cleo's face looked a bit different though.

My Missy's mother, Irene Avila, was born in 1939. My current life's mother, Galya, was born in 1951. As Vivien I won 2 Oscars for the movies which were released in the respective years. It's the only Oscars I won.

In GWtW there's a scene at 00:24:46 in which my character shows a tongue to her sister.

In Things are Looking Up (1935) at 00:06:02 the schoolgirl I play shows the tongue to the teacher who has just went out.

Noticing it, I started thinking if in the eye of the Universe it's also an (#error)? Generally, it's not a nice behavior and my characters never paid the penalty for them. I remembered how because of my bad stuttering there were moments in school when I couldn't say a single words when trying to talk to my peers. I'd try to force a word so hard out of me that my tongue would show and I know it not just because I could feel it, but because one of my school buddies, Alexay, actually stared down at my tongue during one of those awful moments.

If it was the payment for the error of that movie, then it becomes obvious that one penalty for one error (starting to stutter) created the conditions for me to pay the penalty for another error (showing a bad example by showing the tongue in movies). Of course, stuttering did lead to me not having a girlfriend or s*x (payment for other errors I did as Vivien); and then the path my life was taking because of that did lead me to trying to publish Russian Thiaoouba Prophecy translation and life led me to those scammers with the 2020 reference which later would appear in GWtW too as another error of Scarlett.

In short, one payment [for one of your errors] leads to another and it's all a logical chain of cause and effect.

I think the same goes for the consequences of the good deeds we do.

9336 Washington Blvd, Culver City, CA 90232, USA was the address of Selznick International Pictures studios where the majority of the filming for GWtW was done.

I'll also note Irving Pl near that address because today (14.08.2024) I read about Patrick Kennedy who sailed on Washington Irving ship.

So far (15.08.2024) in 3 of my past lives there was someone (e.g. a relative) who didn't know about his/her parent(s).

Emma Hamilton – Horatia (daughter).

Vivien Leigh - Xan' who was officially named and baptised Alexander Percival Feilman Wallace (cousin).

Evgeny Meshkov – Alexey T. (T.) (двоюродный племянник – 1-st cousin once removed) https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mount_Lee Just noting.

https://theankler.com/p/gone-with-the-wind-the-explosive

Margaret Mitchell's GWtW became the bestselling book (in USA) at the time. Second only to the Bible in book sales.

Got me thinking because Alexander of Macedon and Mary Magdalene are mentioned in the Bible, and of course as Mary I was quite close to Jesus.

Scotty Bower – Full Service. Since my past life was linked with him at one point, and since in this life his book is one of proof I was/am Vivien Leigh, I decided to write down the things that would interest me. It's possible I'm a bit biased in what I notice in his book.

He says he was about 5 feet 10. It would be about 177cm – about my height in this life.

He was a teetotaler. I tried to be the same; I rarely drink alcohol.

'Ménage à trois' is used by Scotty several times to describe the obvious activity. Ménage à trois was in my Emma Hamilton's life, but I'm not certain the meaning was exactly the same…

He became a member of the 28-th Marines of the new Fifth Division.

In Chapter 9 "Into Battle" Scotty describes how a marine told him the particulars of Scotty's brother's death and moments later the marine would meet almost the same fate. I'm noting this because it reminds me of the 'reflections' I've noticed between my lives and also in the movie The Omen.

17-year-old trick, Barbara, for Katie H.

At 28 decided to reassess his lot in life. Resigned from the gas station.

He had to try to learn French.

Spencer Tracy's wife was Louise Treadwell. They married in 1923 when Scotty was born. Spencer died in 1967. As VL I played Mary Treadwell in the last movie.

He writes about me and Larry in the 17-th chapter.

I was about 7 as Missy when George directed Larry for the first time along with Kate Hepburn in Love Among the Ruins (1975).

He bought a Volkswagen Bug for his daughter Donna. It was late 1960s. Laura D. had the red one. Donna then died due to botched abortion. She was 23. It's sad, but I need to note that among many thoughts this event brings up in me, I see in it the punishment to Scotty too for his errors. It's 27-th chapter, and Scotty then says his ma gave birth to him at 23; his brother Donald, after whom he named his daughter, also died at 23. Clearly it's not a coincidence.

28-th chapter is called 'Kew Drive'. Made me remember the word 'кюкв' I wrote in a lucid dream. The pronunciation is different though.

Lois Broad was a professional speech therapist.

Lois and Scotty got married on July 8, 1984. Almost exactly 17 years after my death as VL.

Betty slipped and shattered her hip. Made me remember how my mother slipped on the street and broke the bone in the hip area.

Scotty writes I was a "highly strung person". Somehow I've never noticed it before. It's how I am, unfortunately, in this current life of mine also. (#psyche-data)?

Have been eyeing each other for the whole evening. Another thing that never rang any memory bells before. Consciously or not, I was doing a similar eyeing thing in this life too. Nastya who asked me if I wanted to be her bf; the blonde girl I fell in love with at first sight was the constant victim of my stares whenever I'd spot her; the woman in the office where I worked as a courier; and some other cases. Granted, this happened mainly because of the stutter and its consequences on my social skills, fears and shyness. (#curious)

Apparently, we did it on the first floor in the guest room near the pool. 9166 Cordell Dr. There's a photo of that part of the house. The resolution of the image is not too high, and maybe its just my imagination, but I can almost see '33' next to the door to that guest room.

Perhaps I've noted this before, but I'll make a quick note here that my 180-degree turn-around – when I said "this isn't right' – I attribute to the (#spiritual-knowledge) which was gained in my past lives; Mary Magdalene's life and maybe in Hypatia's too (and who knows, maybe in others also) are the most obvious candidates.

https://www.thescarboroughnews.co.uk/news/spook-hunter-claims-hes-found-liz-taylors-ghost-2486423

Liz Taylor, Scarborough, James Bond, 'grumpy', 'panic attack' – all has a connection to me.

It's said in the article that my "grumpy" ghost complained about the removal of my painting and then had a panic attack.

I did have quite a lot of those panic attacks in my current life. I was 27 when the article was published – August 27, 2015.

If it's true it means that the 19% of the electrons that detached themselves from my dead VL body haven't been fully reutilized by Nature yet… unless there's more to this process than I know about.

https://www.hnoc.org/publications/first-draft/these-10-historic-pieces-tell-story-behind-streetcar-named-desire

Williams' letter to Kazan written from New Orleans on April 19, 1947, describing Streetcar as "a tragedy with the classic aim of producing a katharsis of pity and terror, and in order to do that Blanche must finally have the understanding and compassion of the audience. This without creating a black-dyed villain in Stanley. It is a thing (misunderstanding) not a person (Stanley) that destroys her in the end. In the end you should feel—'If only they all had known about each other!'"

I saved that article because I noticed long time ago that misunderstanding place a big role in my life. Many don't understand me, and sometimes I may not understand others too. The reason being people don't know me, and – possible because it may be too difficult to realize my experiences are true however wild the topics may seem – they don't do their part to follow up on my experiments to prove the truth of what I've been saying all along… (#reflection)

My grandmother on father's side was born on January 13, 1929 (died on 01.06.2003)

http://jamesgrissom.blogspot.com/2012/03/vivien-leigh-steps-must-be-gentle.html

Tennessee Williams said I flirted with Kazan. Matches what was said about me in Missy's life.

He also says I was unable to trust. Trust word has been flying around me in this life – Trust No 1 from the X-Files did ring some bells. But! I feel like I'm quite trustful – and also careful (sometimes). Granted, trust issue did come to the dramatic end in my past life of Michele, and I was hurt by friends and 'friends' in this life too – why I'm careful now. Basically – and obviously we're talking about Tenn's opinions here which could have been off – trust may be of connection to me still.

He also didn't think I had the gift of friendship; was not capable of that intimacy. Could relate to me. But! Again, it's important to remember what happened to me in the last past life and in this life in terms of friends. It's quite understandable if I don't feel like making strong connections with anyone for now.

Competitiveness is also a generally dormant quality in my life.

John Gielgud said I as VL sensed calamity and treachery at every corner.

Now that I've found more of my past lives it kinda makes sense that my psychology developed that way – in fact there was a moment in my current life when I was just like that. I've had to experience quite a few troubles and certain deaths which might have affected me (#psyche-data) and/or (#psyche-data-astro).

'short bolt' – pretty much describes my soul's life path. I've had many short-lived lives which the history still remembers.

Oscars 1940 video of me (VL) arriving at the ceremony and walking among people, and being escorted by David Selznick.

Today I was walking back home in the corridor of my apartment building and I held my open (or maybe I just held it out of habit) jacket with my left hand. Right away I had the same feeling of 'knowing', 'feeling', it's how I felt and behaved in my past life of Vivien Leigh in that very moment captured on video. I watched the video again just to be completely sure I walked in the exact same manner then as I did today.

I mentioned it somewhere already – tldr, I'm sometimes able to as if like sense or know what I was feeling or in what mood I was during certain moments of my past lives (Vivien, Michele, Emma) captured on photo (and paint in case of Emma). (#curious) It's very clear and unique feeling/sensation/experience/awareness/knowledge (due to lack of words I have to use several to try my best to describe my experience) which I've never experienced before finding my past lives. I as if get in tune with my old self during those moments; and since material knowledge was erased and memory of those lives is no more, maybe it's why I feel this uniqueness about this new experience; reincarnation being a relatively new subject for me may also be the reason – I do experience finding my past lives for maybe the first time (I'd need to ask my HS if I knew about my past lives in some other lives) in my soul's lifepath.

My hair, when it was rather long, behaved sometimes in similar way as my hair in Vivien's body did: it was relatively uncurly at the top portion, but it would get quite wavy in the bottom half.

Birthday photo of me (VL). There are lions on the cake I'm cutting.

Idea - as VL I slept little. Means in my 53 years I lived longer in my waking hours. Compensation for often dying at a young age? Or/and there's another reason?

http://vivandlarry.com/vivien-leigh/vivien-leigh-through-jack-merivales-lens/purchased a 35mm Stereo Realist camera in the 1950s.

In this life I tried taking several anaglyph (stereoscopic) images with a single lens camera by moving it slightly to the side and then combining the two images in Photoshop. And I watched several movies in such anaglyph 3d. It was an interest for me, and still now to some degree (I have a lot of things to do currently). I will write (#psyche-data) for now.

Was willing to be manipulated in order to get the perfect shot.

Maybe a psyche connection to Emma Hamilton sitting for painters for long hours in different poses.

Fiddle Dee Dee. A streamer, Nastjadd, whom I mentioned before. 'dd' sounds identical to 'Dee Dee'.

Several photos of me in Vivien's life:

"Vivien Leigh leaves St Mary's Church, Cadogan Street, Chelsea, after attending the wedding of Mr Tarquin Olivier, son of Laurence Olivier and his first wife, actress Jill Esmond."

"The Oliviers with Gertrude Lawrence and Alexander Cadogan in New York, May 1946."

Mother in Emma Hamilton's life became Mrs. Cadogan – p. 24 EMMA, LADY HAMILTON by Flora Fraser.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Alexander_Cadogan

"Sir Alexander Montagu George Cadogan (25 November 1884 – 9 July 1968) was a British diplomat and civil servant."

I had Alexander and George names too in past lives.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/George_Cadogan,_5th_Earl_Cadogan

His father was born in the city of Durham.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Henry_Cadogan,_4th_Earl_Cadogan

His grandfather briefly lived in St Petersburg. Was Member of Parliament (same as I in a past life of William Armine).

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/George_Cadogan,_3rd_Earl_Cadogan

His great-grandfather died a full admiral in 1864 in his London home in Piccadilly.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Charles_Cadogan,_1st_Earl_Cadogan

His great great-grandfather.

I saw some more things which brought up memories but didn't record them. Again, maybe there's no direct connections here; maybe there are; maybe my mother in my Amy Lyon's life changed her last name because she heard of at least one of these Cadogan's who lived before the 19-th century AD, including their ancestors whom I did not linked here; or it could relate to her past life in some way.

From the book of Gavin Lambert – Natalie Wood: A Life

I, in my past life of Vivien Leigh, fascinated NW above all other actresses. Of note is another parallel in between our lives I didn't know existed. It's about a "wrist problem" we shared. I thought (as VL) my wrists too thick and often wore bracelets or long sleeves to conceal them. It's the first time I learn this fact about me in my past life of VL.

My VL's favorite theater role was Marguerite in The Lady of the Camellias.

I started having psychological issues in around 1945 while shooting Cleopatra movie – playing myself and not knowing it. Miscarriage was one of triggers for those issues. I had a nervous breakdown about 8 years later in early 1953 when I was still 39 as VL. It's the age I died as Cleopatra. I thought myself to be a bird during that episode, and that, of course, relates to my past life of Isis. As Cleopatra I said (and I think I knew it actually) I was Isis in my past life.

Ways to ... Babies. A baby was thrown out the window above my apartment long time ago. I thought someone threw out garbage (as it did rarely happen before) at first, but then saw an ambulance drive away, and later an old lady asked someone in the window about a baby dropping from an apartment. Later the child's mother let out a piercing scream when she came down to the place where… her bf, or husband, was arrested by police that day; one of the policemen hint his leg by his foot. I wished to try to resurrect the child but I had upset stomach and it was too late and I wasn't sure if the mother did actually work at 5 (Пятёрочка) near my house. (#reflection-life)

I was called Elizabeth Hill in my past life.

Gavin Lambert's book – Natalie Wood: A Life:

Natalie Wood asked Gavin Lambert if I - Vivien Leigh - ever consider a face-lift? He said I did but decided against it, "because if you've been famous for your beauty, everyone knows."

Vivien Leigh and film director Walter Mayo celebrating their birthdays on the set of That Hamilton Woman.

I think there could be another connection to Natalie Wood. In The Silver Chalice (1954) an actress called Virginia Mayo played the adult Helena, while NW played the young Helena.

Moio last name relates to Natalie's future life of ER. It's of interest if Walter lived when I was Emma, and if he lives now. Was he somehow connected to Natalie in her past and future lives?

Photographer A.V. Swaebe took this picture of VL and Richard Brinsley Sheridan (not the playwright), Shane Lesley, and Clare Sheridan during the opening of "Rivals!" by Richard Brinsley Sheridan. London, October 1935.

A different Richard Brinsley Sheridan is mentioned by Flora Fraser in Emma, Lady Hamilton book on page 6. I noted before that the last name 'Sheridan' appeared in my both VL and EH lives. This synchronicity is even more curious.

Trained as ballerina in Vivien's life. Could be the reason – or one of – why I as if gracefully danced when turning and walking in buses when I worked as merchandiser.

"Mr. Bird" (in English) was how I sometimes called the pigeon who I used to feed. Addition to all those bird syncs.

Here I write the things I realized/found after making the video.

This is a highly unexplored subject and I understand that sometimes it seems like I just fit together things that only have the apparent meaning… but then, I'm reminded, it's what synchronicities are all about… and yet I have proof from my IT and Nightmare on Elm Street synchronistic experience the there may be a meaning.

Note: I started watching the below video, and so wrote the above paragraph, after I had the dream in which I in VL voice said I was her in a past life. I didn't yet know that dream was true and I was indeed Vivien Leigh.

https://youtu.be/pKnSpU6cwsM?si=I-OB1t6CluQxFaAs

On around 35:25 they say that Laurence didn't want to argue back with Vivian. This is something I came to know in my life when I stopped responding to my mother's remarks which before would have led to a quarrel.

Before that time in the same video, they say that Vivian had exquisite taste (she furnished her house). It reminded me of my thought to try to make an app for creating 3D models.

29:29 into the video it's said that Vivian said "Who have I hurt? Who have I embarrassed? Who do I need to write to, to apologize?" Well, I think I know the answer… having asked "why?" myself on numerous occasions in my life… past errors.

Around 39:30 it's said Vivian claimed to be pregnant again (3rd time) and later said she had a miscarriage. Some people speculate if she did that for publicity/attention… I don't seek attention, although I'm lacking it sometimes, and it makes me a bit sad that I'm ignored even though I strongly think I'm doing the right things the best I can… (Later I found the pregnancy was real.)

Also a note about possible lie by me in my past lives. Long time ago a streamer, Nastya, said that Kiril was her brother; yet after many years it turned out they're married and she's pregnant – turns out she lied about their status for some strange reason, but that lie did influence me, thinking that I'm not the only one who has no partner and the life he actually wants… I helped me then emotionally, and I'm feeling okay now regardless of that streamer's unnecessary lie.

40:19 She wears an eye patch over her left eye. My left eye sees everything in blur (after something snapped in it when I was too tense and couldn't relax) at the moment of writing this (07.09 (September) .2023)

We're both (very) thin people.

3:33 around that time they say she was the only one to take ballet. It later made me remember that on vk.com one of few (2?) women who were interested in my experiences was taking ballet classes; her name was fake – Сирена Сказочная.

Probably nothing, but I'll note that when I watched the video it was 7 years since it was uploaded on Jun 26, 2016. I was 28 then. At first, I thought it was July (the upload date), but then looked more carefully.

One of the commenters, @iamnoone6446, wrote 3 years ago that the documentary didn't talk about Vivien's great kindness and compassion for others. That person gave example of when Tennessee Williams came to stay with VL, and she insisted his boyfriend be allowed to stay too. The boyfriend was shy and uncomfortable about his sexuality and Vivien was extremely kind and sensitive toward him.

After watching that documentary, it made me realize that Vivian really could get what she wanted (2 husbands and the part of Scarlett); not only that, she'd tell people she'd get that and then she actually did. It mirrors my life in which I made mistakes of telling people I'd do something and I'd fail at that… again, I can see here a connection and learning to live on the other side of life. Also, the fact that she did get a least 3 very important things she wanted and told people about that is very unusual and exceptional. My experience with Thiaoouba is kinda unusual and extraordinary too I feel…

She was lonely when she came to Britain. Then she used to throw parties all the time, surrounding herself with people; she had attention. She didn't want to be alone. Michelle Avila was loyal to her friends who did betray her before and she knew it – did she not want to be alone at all cost too? Me? I'm okay with having no friends; as for attention, I don't think I want to get attention that I don't deserve, meaning I'd like my work, my help I give to people, to be more recognized and discussed; but I feel it's mainly for the reason of the underlying knowledge being able to help humanity of which I am a part.

0:22 Apparently many in Hollywood thought Vivian 'was possessed by a demon'. Then the author says that people at the time didn't know about the bipolar disorders etc. Well, in my life I came to understand that not only there are no demons in the sense that people imagine them, but also that psychological problems are the consequences of our wrong decisions, which we make essentially because we don't have the right knowledge to make the correct decision which will lead us to happiness instead of suffering. I was able to remove many psychological problems, but I wasn't able to stop all sexual fantasies, which would lead to PMO, and which led me to losing health and composure again… this last part reflects Vivian's s*x addiction; but, living at the time that she lived, she was able to get s*x regardless of her problems. I couldn't. Again, this is so, so similar… both she and I have high libido it seems. I've got the exact opposite life in this regard and it could be me suffering for my past mistakes of taking other people's partners and then sleeping with random? People; or cheating…

Also, despite her having psychological problems, which, to be fair, wasn't known right away, she was able to keep Olivier around her, and on top of that she had s*x with other people who knew about her problems – while she was married and after she parted ways with Olivier. By contrast, Katya, whom I met in Sokolniki park, said she doesn't want to see me again because my many psychological issues were one of main reasons. It was the reason for some of other rejections and coldness towards me I'm afraid. I wasn't able to find a gf.

6:45 Leigh's first husband, Herbert Leigh Holman, was 13 years older than her. Well, the first girl who agreed to get acquainted with me and who actually was kinda curious about telekinesis and other things like reincarnation was 13 years younger than me (it was august of 2020. I was 32, and she was 19). We never met again, but we did text each other for some time after meeting in Gorki Park near the fountain.

11:11 (number 27 is seen on the table near Vivien and Laurence) just a note: 27 Has some meaning in my life. A book I thought of writing was titled 27. 27 plays role in my other synchronistic experience with IT.

11:25 jealousy… (it's said about Olivier) I don't think I ever had deep jealousy of someone's achievements. I was kinda jealous in my childhood when girls I liked had boyfriends. It's possible some guys in school could be jealous of me for having my looks (some people said I was beautiful, and also some people noticed that I had clean face – and so I had no need to use any facial products)

Remembering my synchronicities with Michele Avila, I'll note that her 'friends' that killed her clearly were jealous of her.

17:30 She was crying for hours in her dressing room, needed sedation… sad to say, but the reality is I was always inclined to cry… a lot more than other males do I'd imagine. Even today, being 35, I was watching videos about the Titanic disaster, and tears would find their way out for the people who lost their lives in the more than a century old tragedy.

https://youtu.be/tz2lNlSdyJ8?si=MzegTtCbkwNp_l89 3:12 hysteria and tears.

17:40 for 3 months Olivier locked up Vivien in an asylum… Later it reminded me that hospitals isn't the place I'd like to spend time at. I try to avoid them.

According to the provisions of her will, Leigh was cremated at the Golders Green Crematorium and her ashes were scattered on the lake at her summer home, Tickerage Mill, near Blackboys, East Sussex, England.

Just a random thought and probably unimportant. Black boys are the trees mentioned in Thiaoouba by Thao. They were changed to be called 'grass trees' in the book, and the botanic name is Xanthorrhoea.

During that video the author quotes Vivien says that her beauty secret is the ability to relax. I found a screenshot of the article http://vivandlarry.com/vivien/articles/vivien-cites-ability-to-relax-key-to-beauty/ I copied the image into a new folder about Viven in the synchronicity Michele Avila folder.

Several things to note:

I started having problems with sleep and relaxation after 18 years old. But then I was able to quickly pull myself together, having discovered the power of meditation, and I was able to fall asleep quite quickly, having disciplined myself not to think or daydream of something. Similar things are mentioned by Vivien Leigh in the article.

She also mentions a thing about her 'long' neck and that you should not 'be self-conscious about it – just pretend it's lovely and others won't seem to notice it'. Kinda made me remember that I didn't worry about the indentation on one of the sides of my nose, since it was always part of me.

Her not paying attention to the fashion, but wearing the clothes that suited her is similar to my tastes and views on what I want to wear. (#spiritual-knowledge)

While watching the video about Vivian, a thought appeared in my mind that if I was her, when I look at her I don't feel strong familiarness… but then I remembered how Kristina near Ostankino said she totally didn't believe in reincarnation, yet from what I know about her there's a good chance she wasn't living her 1st life. Then Michel Desmarquet also felt attraction to the sailor when they were looking at Mu disaster, but that was because MD reunited with his astral body in that man… (in itself it's interesting to note that Michel was living during that disaster in Mu, I assume, and later he was able to see his past life with Thiaooubians)

And, most importantly, we live in various bodies: male, female, thin, big, short and long, etc. When we possess those physical bodies we may feel ourselves differently in them. Michel lived in various such bodies; and from what I understand from his book before his Thiaoouba experience he didn't know if he lived other lives, and yet he had lived 80! Which kinda surprised him.

Then I want to add that despite the photos, sometimes I feel like Vivian… like I tend to smile like her sometimes I feel like..

It's 7:33 PM as I'm sitting and looking at Vivian's b&w photo at 1:06 (of this video https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jAavDQ8ck90). I asked myself can it really be so simple (me finding my past life via my synchronistic experience with Michelle Avila which led me to Vivian Leigh), and then started to say that all this synchronistic experience isn't actually so simple, when I heard a knock in the kitchen (the one I often hear in response to my thoughts). I as if knew it might be 33 minutes and when I looked at the clock it was (7:33 PM). Note: shortly before that I was asking my Higher Self (and Thao, Biastra, Latoli in case I don't bother them) to give me some sign if I'm correct in my conclusion about me possibly being Vivian in the past life.

Vivien's Scarlett wanted to go back to Tara, her house? Because at the time I wanted, and was indeed able, to go to my village as often as I could. I stopped trying to chase big dreams, in a way, and just wanted to live here and now. What's more, the movie Gone with the Wind, and Scarlett's fate did influence me quite a lot. It made me once again become enthusiastic about getting rid of old negative habits to finally 'become of age'. Vivien Leigh was the source of that influence, and that's how I initially started reading about her, but superficially, and that's when I saw first similarities between us, but I correctly decided that with the population of several billion chances are quite low that I just had to be this famous woman… so I stopped playing around with the thought that I was Leigh. In fact, reincarnation being a topic of interest for me, I came to terms that I'd probably find out who I was in my past lives on the planets of much higher spiritual categories, on which people, imho, could study their past lives as part of their (spiritual) education. My synchronistic experience showed me that, perhaps, there is a chance for me to find who I was and why I have to suffer in this life so much… all things considered it raised the chance of me being Leigh quite a lot.

And Scarlett's words "After all, tomorrow is another day"… while beautiful and giving hope, they resonate somewhat with how sudden Vivien and Michele died – not to see another day. I did a video on Jesus' parables, and one of them speaks of a person who made huge plans on future and then he died.

I'll add that I was like Scarlett in some major ways, trying to achieve something out of a whim (but if I was Leigh, then it could be sort of past life memory, which made me interested in movies and led me to want to be a part of that industry), because I wanted to have something (unattainable for me) not paying attention to my heritage. That's another reason the last scene in the GwtW moved me to literal tears, realizing just how similar Vivien's Scarlett is in regards to me.

(it's from a 1:33 minute long audio note I made at 13:33) I've found that if I was Vivien then it actually makes me more happy, focused and excepting my fate, because I know the exact reason why I have to endure some of the sufferings in my life. By contrast, if I think I wasn't her, I was someone else, it makes me less happy for the reason that I don't know again what EXACTLY I have to suffer for; even though my knowledge should be enough to accept that I probably made serious mistakes (similar to those made by Vivien, for instance), which means I had some relationships, love and sexual experiences in the past (lives).

So, it seems it's very important to me to know who I was in the past.

Also, it reminded me of belief vs knowledge. Some people believe in their religions, and some of the texts could have been distorted; so, some of those people may believe in what is not entirely the truth, and yet the main message of their religion (if it was initially based on the truth) can make them do the correct decisions in life, which leads to a happier life with less suffering (because they don't do many mistakes).

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Suzanne_Farrington

I learned that Vivien's daughter was born a month prematurely – so Vivien carried her 8 months in her womb. The number 8 again. She was also born in 1933. And this shouldn't matter, but I'll mention Leigh's daughter had 3 children.

After marrying Larry, Vivien had little contact with her daughter until 1950…

It means her daughter was 17 years of age, same as Michele Avila…

Addition from January 29, 2024 [almost 5 months have passed since I wrote these notes]: Michel Desmarquet wrote in his Nature's Revenge book that a soul inhibits a new physical body when that body 6 weeks old. If MD is correct, then it means I could only be Michele Avila – and now I know I was her – if she was born prematurely at 8th month. In Karen Kingsbury's book there's a mention of 8-month period but it's never said at what month Michele Avila was born.

She got bored with family life, wanting to do something, to have a career. Boredom kinda plays a role in my life. But I have to stay with my mother; help her if I can. So, and I hate to think of it like this, in a way I was forced to live a family life without having my own – and I did want to go to USA long time ago, and I wanted movies to be part of my life. The situation with my mother made me appreciate more the place where I am (it's a long story). So, it could seem as me learning to live on the other side of the barricades.

She wasn't around her daughter much during her acting career, and only during the later years they started to meet more often. In my life my father was living mostly separately from us (me and mom).

Was married to Leigh Holman for 8 years.

https://www.latimes.com/local/obituaries/la-me-vivien-leigh-19670709-story.html

Ernest E. Hartley, VL's dad, was a stockbroker.

For a very short time I traded cryptocurrency. And I started to slowly learn French.

https://www.wikitree.com/wiki/Hartley-1113

Vivien died before her mother died, but her father passed away 8 years prior to his daughter's demise. Michele had her mother and brothers when she died. I'm writing this because after my father died I sometimes get afraid to lose my mother and become completely alone. I almost feel that I don't know what it's like to live absolutely all alone. If my suspicions are true, it may be because in my past lives I never experienced how to lose all parents and how to be alone. Both Vivien and Michele were surrounded by family and friends.

Leigh was not Vivien's name given at birth. She was Vivian Mary Hartley. She changed her stage name for it to be more catchy – Vivien Leigh (Vivien with 'e' for it to sound more French). Well, there was time I used a pseudonym (Steve Hudson and later Sonny Hudson) because I was unsecure about my real name. But later, as I was learning new things from life, I came to terms with my real name and I no longer hide it; or hide who I am, in fact, after publishing my book and videos.

Vivien would lash out at people. I was not aggressive towards anyone, but I did my share of screaming being frustrated with life and when playing video games, being frustrated more at myself than at the game for not living but playing.

Vivien was cremated and her ashes were scattered over the pond near her summer house. Michele was drowned in the creek. And I had my little phobias with water (and I still won't swim into deep waters)

Another thing to add about possible psychological connection to Vivien in case I was her. In my childhood I noticed a thing about me which I once called 'vampiric'. It had to do with me as if absorbing someone else's personality traits; I could as if feel like being them. Well, Vivien was an actress and she played many characters, possibly becoming them while acting. It's possible I inherited the ability to become like some other people from her.

I watched GwtW as a child. If I was Vivien why I was never drawn to her? Well, trying to almost unsuccessfully share Michele Desmarquet's book with people, I realized that many of them, who are very skeptical, have lived before, but they simply don't realize that. Kristina said to me she completely didn't believe in reincarnation and yet there's a good chance she lives not her 1st life. So me not feeling a lot of familiarness with Vivien in childhood isn't really showing anything. But on the other hand, before my synchronistic experience I seemingly did feel something about Vivien…

Vivien had to go through electro shock therapee. I'll just note that I never enjoyed being shocked by electricity; when in village my friends were eager to touch starter's wires while repairing motorbikes, I preferred to stay as far away as possible from those wires – even though the voltage was safe.

I also remembered how I felt Electric touch several times in my life.

I was 26 years old when Vivien's only daughter died (march of 2015). Vivien was 26 yo during GwtW production. 26 has been showing up in my life several times. And when I was 26 yo myself, I got thinking about my life, my past, what I did wrong, what I could have done right, and where I could be…

They say Leigh had heavy drinking problems sometimes. Psychologically it relates to me because I don't feel the need to drink, as there are other ways to deal with problems… it was imagination for me for a long time, but the knowledge I got from Thiaoouba also helped a lot, making imagination no longer required. So, I could have done all of my drinking in past life(ves).

Me feeling maternal instincts and feeling feminine when imagining a dress that women were wearing (with puffy things on the shoulders). Vivien definitely wore those during the making of GwtW,

I remember how when I was working as a merchandiser I was at one point in a dancy kind of mood when I went into a bus (or trolly – doesn't matter), and I sort of span around as I went towards the back of the bus. I write it here because someone in the comments on YT mentioned that it was Clark Gable who could tame the fire that came off of Vivien during the production of GwtW.

She was also ballet dancer (e.g. Waterloo Bridge)

She danced in the video https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YHwENst4Mxo Vivien Leigh and Byron Mitchell. 'Tovarich.'

(When we were little kids, in village, Yana (whom I had a crash on – possibly even a somewhat of a reflection with Scarlett and Ashley) was a dancer and she, at one point, wanted to teach us dance. I remember I refused? Due to me thinking what my two older male friends would think – the opinions of others mattered to me then, and now I know that was also the case in my life as Vivien Leigh. Now I've learned to care much less about negative opinions – but I can also learn from them if I actually made an error)

https://www.dailymail.co.uk/tvshowbiz/article-1305341/Vivien-Leigh-bisexual-adulterer-according-new-biography.html

This article claims she used to pay to male prostitutes…. Well, sadly, I did make mistakes of doing that with 3 female ones (went 4 times – 2 to one girl).

Addition from January 29, 2024: 'Damn You, Scarlett O'Hara' is said by many to be full of nonsense written because the dead person can't correct any possible lies claimed about them. If true, the content of that book should probably be ignored. The prostitute synchronicity still holds regardless because of me in VL life playing pretty much that role; and now that there's more evidence I could have been Emma Hamilton too, who was exactly that at one point, there's even more sense now for my sad experience and these similarities…

Leigh's casting as Scarlett was announced in January 1939. She was 25. 25 played a big role for me, but for different reason (Natasha)

Speaking of, I probably mentioned it in the video, but Leigh is said to even be nymphomaniac. "S*x was a sickness with the one time Scarlett O'Hara" as her lover Finch said after Vivien's death.

Safe to say at some points I became as if obsessed with s*x, but since could not get it, I used pnography, which resulted in masturbation. Michele also had s*x (wasn't sleeping with anyone's bfs, but did it with several people as mentioned in Karen Kingsbury's book). Again, in terms of errors and penalty, as well as psychology it all matches up.

Also, Vivian stopped at nothing to get the part of Scarlett. It did remind me how I just keep on trying to make people aware regarding Thiaoouba the best I can; including making telekinesis video.

About 3 separate dreams in which my throat was cut. I made a point that perhaps the 3rd dream, in which I was in my current body, was the key to show that those two dreams shouldn't be taken literally.

The thing is that the male near the blue car and bar clearly had to live during Michele's time. And I can't be both Michele and him at the same time.

But here's a thought. What if those 3 dreams were true dreams to some degree? What if I did live in those 2 bodies (the blonde girl and the man), but the surroundings were not from their time but from Vivien's and Michele's? That is there was some merging of different events and ideas happening. After all, all of those people (Blonde young woman, the man, Vivien, and Michele) had the head full of hair (it's important because as a child I realized that it would be the first life I'd have to lose hair; and when I did I was greatly suffering, not knowing how to live with baldness).

Why didn't those dreams show Vivien and Michele? Obviously, it's all just a speculation, but maybe because it was known that in the future I'd have my synchronistic experience, which would lead me to realize that I could have been those two females.

After all, the blonde girl did kind of played a tiny, but important role in my life (Natasha's coworker who worked as prostitute; and there's a chance she could be her friend)

Another thing I noticed. The blonde girl was standing in a kind of theatre – which relates to Vivien Leigh. The man was near the blue car which resembled the one Laura lied about seeing; so, the second dream relates to Michele Avila. The third dream simply relates to me. That's why I have the theory about possible merger of different lives of mine in those two dreams…

And it's important to note that in those two dreams (blonde and man) nobody said to me that I was those people; rather, the "camera" changed the point of view from third person to first person; and I did feel what it was like to be those two people mentally, so…

Continuing thinking about this… in my lucid dream, in which I was having a female body for a while, I also was in my village, where, I'd think, I had never walked in my past lives. If that body was my own from my previous life, then it is an example of the fact that sometimes different ideas (e.g. past bodies) can be merged into/with others in dreams (like places – e.g. village, theater, blue car)

A NOTE after reading Scotty's book [when I in Vivien life mentioned] – As far as VL is concerned, Scotty only wrote about him having s*x with VL. Noone else was mentioned doing it with VL in his book. There were lying people writing all sorts of things; it's possible that the disinformation came from them.

Scotty's, a Los Angeles brothel [1]. It's where Vivien allegedly picked up men for s*x.

In the video here they found Scotty Bowers [2]. There's a Plymouth car pictured in the vid (but I'm not sure now what the make of the blue car in my dream was)

The gas station was located in about 20 km from Arleta (if we measure from the middle).

(It should be mentioned that some people indicate that all the people Scotty claims were his clients are dead and can't refute his claims. So it is a possibility that he could have been lying about Vivien too.)

https://youtu.be/BsYJixUcLi0?si=YjtlKjUpGhI0XDIa&t=836 at 13:56 says while Olivier was with a man he, Scotty, was with Vivien……. (Scotty name reminds me of that 'detective' in Heavy Rain video game); again, should be taken with a chunk of salt.

Also the vlogger tells a story of Carry Grant who played up to the rumors he was gay but never actually was with a man – as he told his gf. So either he lied to his gf for some reason or it's Scotty who's lying.

https://www.ranker.com/list/hollywood-memoir-of-scotty-bowers/melissa-sartore

Scotty Bowers wrote:

"We screwed as though the survival of the world depended on it. Vivien could not control herself. She was loud. She would squeal and holler and laugh. She had [spasm] after [spasm], and each one was noisier than the last. She yelled and called out louder and louder... this was one of the best f*cks I had ever had."

To be transparent and fair – there was a relatively recent moment (months ago from October 2023) when I saw p video of a red haired woman having [spasms] and I wanted to see more of such videos; more than that this [spasm] theme was usually part of the phantasies which were the reasons for many of my relapses (let's be honest – all of them). The described scene doesn't\t actually surprise me based on what I know about my Vivien Leigh past and what I know about myself, so…

BUT – it was known well Leigh had a liking for s*x… lots of s*x. So it's not like one has to have a lot of imagination to concoct some story about f---ing her to multiple [spasms]

It seems to me there are way too many people who Scotty claims were at his place. I don't know... but then I've also a lot of spiritual experiences and I'm sure that could also be a reason for someone to think that there's no way a man can have this many experiences which now also includes finding his past life as actress Vivien Leigh, so… not really a solid proof of anything.

https://ladailymirror.com/2019/10/14/scotty-bowers-1923-2019-liar-to-the-stars/

This website lists some more evidence that Scotty lied.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Scotty_Bowers

But then here's Support of claims; some people seemingly mentioned him..

I found Scotty Bowers' book Full Service and here's the interesting part:

He describes how after s*x, which he knew was felt good by both, I was brushing hair and said without looking at him:

"Why are we doing this, Scotty? This isn't right, you know."

"What isn't?" he asked.

"This is all wrong. We cannot do this anymore. Please leave. I don't ever want to see you again."

"You sure?" Scotty was quite shocked at the 180-degree turnabout.

“Yes. Absolutely. We can’t ever see each other again.”

I went into the bathroom and refused to come out. When he was leaving, I (VL) flew out of the bathroom, throwing myself on him and saying, “Oh, darling, darling boy. I’m sorry. Can you come around again tonight?”

Why I found it of interest? Because that’s exactly how I behaved in my life... but the situation was totally different. It involved me leaving the groups of TV Series/Movies and then I’d change my mind and would ask the moderator girl (Venera) to add me back as a moderator – I did that several times… it was silly but that’s what it is.

I know I was VL, and this is one of connections between us – but that means Scotty Bowers was telling the truth about his experiences with me, and other people probably too… doesn’t it…?

(#psyche-data)

Scotty also then mentioned that “You seldom get a roll in the hay the way you did with Vivien Leigh.” Just wanna note in this life we (friends and me) used to sit on hay in the village. I also had some s*xual fantasies which involved hay and some of my female friends. Ironic how in this life I have to suffer for my past lives’ errors, and there’s no longer “roll in the hay” because once upon a time in another life I “rolled in the hay” with people who weren’t my partner/spouse.

I also want to note something else from his book. Scotty, after the passing of many years, was wondering where were all his departed friends now: Kate, Spence, Judy, Tyrone, George, Cary, Rita, Charles, Randolph, Edith, Vivien… “Do you look down at me from wherever you are and chuckle as you watch me mulling over how our lives intersected?”, he asked, and then more questions followed.

As a new life of Vivien Leigh, I am actually looking at you, Scotty Bowers, on my screen, and I am mulling over how our lives – all lives – are intersected not only in one life but in all of our reincarnations…

I asked my Higher Self – if possible and profitable (knowledge wise etc) – to show me red roses in a dream today if some of what Scotty wrote about Vivien is true, and yellow lilies if all of what he wrote about Vivien Leigh is not true. (had dreams in which I was VL, buy I was so mentally tired that I don’t remember details or if any flowers were present. Will try again)

https://youtu.be/1S460gCmoRI?si=n2Vo_RaqjSWYr1MM watched this video; noticed it’s not in color; remembered how during night I thought that the blurry dreams I have with Vivien were as if black and white… maybe there’s a connection – like a prophetic dream of some kind. This video did prompt me to go search for Scotty’s book and I did find a psyche-related connection with Vivien – if the story is true; but now I tend to lean more towards it being truthful…

Scotty said that VL screamed; and before that they needed to be silent because George was sleeping

"I don't care if George hears us. I just don't care."

I had neighbors upstairs who had s*x and their bed would hit the wall to make huge noise. Then the woman was also screaming. Being without a gf and with all the problems I had to face it was difficult to hear and realize someone has s*x and you don't. (#error)

VL screamed and 1 time watching erotic movie on tv I for some reason decided to vocalize 'pleasure' (masturbation shouldn't be called that)

Scotty writes Vivien was very sexual and very excitable, requiring full satisfaction once she got going, and during s*x it was as if the survival of the world depended on it.

(#psyche-data) In my life I once thought I had s*x addiction because I thought about s*x so much that it consumed me all. I'm also very excitable which is one of reasons it's so difficult for me to get rid of masturbation for good. Knowing I was Vivien I'm not at all surprised to read this about my old self – this is totally me.

Reasons behind me finding my past lives other than to teach me how reincarnation works? Well, it has a potential to show other people the wrongness of the current decisions to allow wrong ideas relating to s*x to become a norm (gays, etc). In that Scotty article he's praised as some savior of gays, whom he allowed to "live authentic lives". But if I was Vivien then it's clear what the consequences of that "authentic life" were. Those people don't realize they're making the error for which they'll have to suffer (obviously, it's their choice to make, but, having knowledge, it'd be error for me not to speak out…)

It did help me again to stay calm when seeing happy couples. Now I have a good idea what I did to be lonely.

Later search ‘Vivien Leigh stutter/stammer’ and search if she had any paranormal or spiritual experiences.

Read about several men and women who lived and died before my birth. TRY to find similarities.

Elizabeth Taylor. Died when I lived. Watched a video about her.

8 was mentioned a couple of times.

Natalie Wood. Died before my birth. She drowned in dark water.

Rita Hayworth. Died before I was born.

Sophia Loren. Still lives. Could not take a deep breath due to panic attack due to her making 35 movies in just 5 years!

Grace Kelly. Died in 1982.

Clark Gable. Died in 1960.

Sharon Tate. Died in 1969. Was shy. Died at 26.

Roman Polanski. Still alive.

James Dean. Died in 1955.

Judy Garland. Died in 1969.

Gene Tierney. Died in 1991. She started to have concentration problems.

Marilyn Monroe. Died in 1962. Started stuttering at some point in life?. By 1946 appeared on covers of 33 magazines. Her ex husband would send flowers to her grave for 20 years.

Audrey Hepburn. Died in 1993. She liked to walk.

Jennifer Connelly. Still alive.

Brigitte Bardot. Still alive. Has eye problem which impaired her left eye vision.

Katharine Hepburn. Died in 2003. Was ‘side chick’ for 27 years.

Hedy Lamarr. Died in 2000. (I feel like I liked her the most out of all the actresses I watched on KarineAlourde’s channel)

Ingrid Bergman. Died in 1982.

Frank Sinatra. Died in 1998.

Merle Oberon. Died in 1979. Was born in India (relating to the myspace girl from India).

Ava Gardner. Died in 1990.

Elizabeth Short. Died in 1947. Had raspatory problems.

Remember that many different people have to experience the same situations in order to learn. It's totally logical that some things will be similar. But it's a brightly shining light in the dark when those similarities just keep on going, and you as if suffering for the mistakes which could be the same as the person you have synchronistic connection to.

Read about Margarette Mitchell. She died being hit by a car, the driver was drunk; and my father would often tell me to be careful going across the road, which was a bit peculiar. Anyway, I remember how from ancient Egypt they said that we live many lives and they're interconnected. Who knows…

9th September 2023 is the date I last PMOed. I'll try to live without sexual daydreams and PMOs until 10th October 2023. Not that I'll jump right back to P after… I just want to try and ask my Higher Self and Thiaooubians again to please tell me somehow if I was or was not the actress Vivien Leigh in one of my past lives, and if I was or was not Michele Missy Avila in one of my past lives.

Link to 'the last p actress I pmo to?". The entry about Lora Black, who also called herself Vivien in several of her moviesю

Also read about Lora Black (pn star) since she called herself Vivien and… it's during my Vivien searching for the answers time that I found her. And it's been several years, or more, since I started to PMO almost exclusively on those p women who only did 1 or several bg scenes; and recently I often did that to those who did none. So me ending the session on the woman who did a lot of bg scenes was extremely unusual… as well as me still wanting to see her scene for the 2nd time to PMO to… and that's when I saw she called herself Vivien in several of her movies.

I did it 4 times in total (PMO). I ask myself that this will be it. I just need to be focused – I can be now that I know the reason.

https://www.behindthename.com/name/vivien-2 Alfred Tennyson used this name for the Lady of the Lake in his Arthurian epic Idylls of the King (1859). I just found it interesting that it relates to water.

And Vivian relates to the Latin word “vivus” – “alive”.

“But I already know the answer! I was the actress Vivian Leigh”. Those were the words in my dream I had on September 4 2023. I wasn’t expecting it because I thought quite the contrary – that while my sync experience is interesting, I could have been anyone. I wasn’t priming myself for that dream – e.g. as it probably is with mass hallucinations (from Thiaoouba) when people must expect to see ‘the elephant’ to actually hallucinate it.

She said Clark Gable has bad breath due to his false teeth. I do have problems with teeth and there were times I had bad breath in the morning. At the moment of writing this I have slight problems with teeth. Teeth and dentists do play a memorable role in my life, so… might be penalty for not only failing to brush my teeth properly in this life, as well as eat healthy food, but also for the past life mistakes.

http://vivandlarry.com/vivien/articles/drugs-chaos-and-gone-with-the-wind/

Crossed the Atlantic in 1938 on an ocean liner.

It’s funny how after my sudden fascination with Titanic I was somewhat sad to learn that currently there’s only one ocean liner remaining – Queen Mary 2 – and I’d probably never get a chance to travel on it.

Note: In another interview Leigh herself says she flew to Hollywood. So, I guess I’d need to check on this http://vivandlarry.com/articles/what-success-has-taught-me/

“As I had a few weeks before rehearsals began I decided to fly to Hollywood where Larry was making Wuthering Heights.”

Addition from January 29, 2024: Other books say different name for the ship I traveled to the US on. And once there I flew from New-York to LA on a plane – that’s what I (in VL life) was referring to in the interview.

The story about the fire, phoenix and the breeze which opened the coat is of interest.

Selznick: “Her tests showed that she could act the part right down to the ground, but I’ll never recover from that first look.”

Clearly it says legend has it, but in case there’s some truth to it my life is full of sort of similar, almost otherworldly, or supernatural, episodes.

The article says I, VL, adored flowers.

I’ve already mentioned that I kind of love flowers in the video. Here Vivien’s love for them is just emphasized more, I think.

GwtW book played a huge role in Vivien's life.

In my life it was Thiaoouba Prophecy that has played a huge role.

I'm not obsessed with Michel Desmarquet's book Thiaoouba Prophecy, since I'm promoting it due to me having knowledge it's a true book.

HERE'S THE TLDR:

I've had synchronistic experience with 2 movies and that experience turned out to have a meaning – me growing up and stopping being afraid (in the wide term); I'll allow myself to note that it could be said it was the coming of age story (GwtW reference).

I've synchronistic experience with Vivien Leigh and Michele Avila. If coming of age is the theme here also then I guess it can mean spiritual growth by acquiring spiritual knowledge via lives we live in many physical bodies that allow us to learn more and more.

I thought that even though these synchronistic experience are highly interesting, I could have been anyone – and that's when I had the dream in which I said in Vivien's voice: "But I already know the answer! I was the actress Vivian Leigh". It made me go watch more videos about Vivien and I found more similar or synchronistic things between us.

In terms of suffering for old mistakes I could have been Vivien Leigh.

In terms of psyche I could have been Vivien Leigh.

I had that one lucid dream in which I was in a female's body. She had small breasts which kind of line up with Vivien (or Michele?)

I felt the maternal feeling and also the feeling of being feminine.

I knew in my childhood that it would be the first life in which I'd have to be bald.

I have to mention Lora Black who also called herself Vivien in several of her P movies. Me finding her was important (as described elsewhere).

Both of us kinda obsessed with s*x from high s*x drive. She could get it, I couldn't.

Correction: in my video I expressed the idea, answering the question of what are the chances of me finding my past lives on the Internet, that I also found Thiaoouba and Roman Snezhko's understandings on stuttering.

What I now think I should have added is that I also had numerological and synchronistic events happen in my life: like when I first approached a girl, Marina, there were lots of numerical significances surrounding that acquaintance; and also her name and color of her hair.

So, second question is what are the chances that life had brought me to meet that red haired woman named Marina on January 13th who was married at the time for 13 years. And of course before that I fell in love at first sight with a blonde woman (never mind that I fell for her previously but understood that later) and that last time that I fell in love at first sight was when I was 14 years old, 14 years ago. And then 14 28 played a huge role for me in the movie… essentially I could retell the whole script for my synchronicities (#1) video.

So, since those are facts and I do know that these things happen in the Universe (TP, Thao talking about Jews recognizing that they were indeed on the planet they don't belong to). It means that there is nothing THAT unusual about me just happening to stumble upon my probable past lives on the Internet and realizing, thanks to all the similarities we share, that I could have been those people in my past lives.

It's literally the same as me happening to exist my apartment door right when the blonde woman was also leaving the apartment, and then me looking at her to fall in love at first sight. (I have never seen her around here since)

It's literally the same as me happening to walk near Marina, noticing her (even though we live close, during other time I could have not noticed her)

It's literally the same as me meeting that Rita woman who turned out to be lying about her work (and other things) and wanted to eat and me to pay for it. 2020 numerology showed me then clearly that something was off – and life later proved that to be correct.

It's literally the same as me falling to the scammers while trying to publish Russian translation of TP. There were also numbers present: "20.02.2020" which reminded me about ZOZO.

The list could go on… the bottom line here is that I had had synchronistic experiences long before me realizing that lots of things in IT and the Nightmare of Elm Street relate to me; and then, of course, me finding Michele Avila and realizing the same thing. I just didn't call those experience with this word (?) back then.

So yes, I was Vivien Leigh and that dream wasn't some sick joke of the Universe. It must have been a reward given to me (perhaps because I was not jumping to conclusions that I was 100% Vivien Leigh just based on synchronistic experience alone. Perhaps that I had been trying to share Thiaoouba book. Perhaps that I suspected correctly the reason for why I've no gf and romantic relationships in this life. Perhaps that while I excepted that I'd probably never find out about who I was while living in my current body (e.g. I'd find out about my past lives when I'd be living on the planets of higher categories), I still longed deep inside of me to learn it in this life – to understand once and for all why I have to suffer…)

Addition from January 29, 2024. Later I remembered another simple fact – we have to suffer for all of our errors and it means life somehow leads us to a particular situation in life, which will be our punishment for our past mistake(s). There's no escape! So, this feature of us finding what we have to find (be it reward or punishment, or anything else) in this world is well established! So, it's no longer about chances of us finding our past lives just like that, on the Internet – it's about whether we must find them as a logical consequence of the decisions we've made in the past (including all of our lives). I do think that I must have done something good in another life/lives since I had that experience with the Yellow Entity in my village when I was around 5 years old… or me finding Thiaoouba and then having experiences with Thao, Biastra and possibly some others from Thiaoouba, proving/ showing me Michel Desmarquet's book is true; and now me finding at least 2 of my very past lives. There must be a good reason why I've had all these experiences!/

differ quite a lot. Siegfried paid for alcohol instead of buying beans for his 8 children, while Labinola cared about other people (the best she could, I guess. I don't agree with all of the things that were happening in the palace – like people kissing their feet).

Also Michel clearly lived after his life as Labinola (never mind when exactly that life happened) and he was a gardener and served in the army. Not exactly the life of a queen. And all of those lives varied – something Thaora noted to Michel.

So the fact that Vivien was a well known actress and me… well, depends on who you ask, I guess, but generally I've struggled a lot in this life. And almost no one cares about my experiences, discoveries and knowledge. While we have lots of similarities, certain things do vary – a lot. And that's totally okay.

TP, page 34: "They had to start from scratch and we guided their progress, either by dream or telepathy". As with true dreams, dreams can have factual information, ideas, or why else would Thiaooubians use it "to guide progress"?

Speaking of dreams… I search for the word 'dream' in TP book and Michel used to ponder if his space journey was a dream quite a lot. Yet, he had lived 80 lives before, some of which he lived on other planets! Of course, since we don't know what his lives were on those planets, we could assume he never actually experienced space flight before, or did but the experience was short. Also it should be noted that his mind "was already open", so he must have known some Universal truths in his past lives for his "mind already awakend and open". So it's okay if I'm cautious regarding my dream about Vivien.

TP, page 78: "'It isn't only the cerebral canal which is able to conduct messages between the Higher-self and the Astral body. Another channel exists sometimes in dreams - or, I should even say, in sleep. At certain times during sleep, your Higher-self is able to call your Astral body to itself and, either communicate instructions or ideas, or to regenerate it in some way, replenishing its spiritual strength or enlightening it in regard to solutions to important problems"

I also noticed that the issue of me sometimes having trouble processing all of this might be because Vivien became a very talented and famous actress…. Or I just don't know… Maybe I need time for all of this information to settle in…

Edit to my original thought: it's so, In a way, cliché that you was a famous person in one of your past lives. It's something that one'd expect to hear, for obvious reasons and also not so obvious… and yet, famous people ARE people, who are influenced by the same Universal Laws as everyone else, and it's absolutely logical that a lot of famous people who died are probably living right now on this planet and may not even be aware that they not only lived before, but also were/are famous and well known.

Another thought: Me being the highly famous actress Vivien reminds me of times when I just learned that Thiaoouba Prophecy IS a true report of events that ACTUALLY happened to Michel Desmarquet – in both instances it was clear what many people would/will think of my life's story. So, there is some burden of knowing what's probably to come – even more skepticism directed at me.

Thoughts about the proverbial wheel (from TP). I don't know if you can be first at the top of the wheel, and in the very next life live at the very bottom. If reincarnation is also based on vibration (and wheel, or a circle, is related to vibration – in short, sinusoid can be traced as a circle) then, following the logic of the material world, in which the Earth can't just jump ahead from May to September's position around the Sun, the reincarnation process could be also somewhat smooth. While I write this – because, assuming I was Vivien and Michele, Michele's whole life wasn't as "high" (on the wheel) as Vivien's, but at the same time Michele's life was higher on the wheel than mine (in terms of relationships, happiness, etc). Is my life at the bottom? I don't know. I's been tough, but I guess it could've been tougher still. So, I guess I hope that it is the bottom of my wheel cycle… if not, then I'd better prepare for the next life ahead of me, for I'll need all the spiritual knowledge I can gather…

В фильме Waterloo темноволосая Вивиен вынуждена/решается заниматься проституцией после того, как они с подругой – блондинкой, Китти – остались без работы. (Искать основной текст у меня в дневнике)

I thought I talked about it in the video but apparently not. It's about how Scarlett's O'Hara last scene – the scene of her coming of age – is also a reflection of my life.

She hears a voice talking about Tara and then Scarlett is seen standing alone under the tree and looking at Tara. She started to come of age…

During around that time I started to come to my village often. I no longer wanted to leave the country and chase wild dreams of mine. Which didn't mean I totally gave up, no, I think I just became more grown up. During that time I clearly saw the connection between that scene and what I experienced in my life. And the same happened with Waterloo Bridge movie…

Vivien Leigh (and I'll include Emma Hamilton in my mind) reportedly liked the public attention and were prominent people. I think it's safe to say she liked what people thought of her. Adding that a similar thing was said about Michele Avila in K.K.'s book)

When I first started masturbating, I clearly thought that people are better not find out about it. When I learned TP has to be a true book and had all my experiences with Thiaooubians I knew what people would think of me – I was scared to share those truths with people, but I was trying to and made progress… Later in life I was able to tell the truth about my life in my book Simple Truths of Life, knowing well that many people will not believe me, will think I'm crazy etc. I knew that I was right and that it would be an error for me to be silent; I knew that after all those sceptics will one day have to pay the penalty for them turning the back on the truth – perhaps hard to believe truth, but it is still the truth, which they even didn't care to try to verify.

So, I can see here an arc of me conquering my fears… which is the theme of my synchronicities with IT and Nightmare on Elm Street… This means that both synchronistic experiences are connected to one other (no surprise, since they're both about me, but…)

Also: About Viven Leigh possibly being Emma Hamilton (just speculating). Her antics could have been influenced by her past life…

This concerns Emma Hamilton whom Vivien (and I) could have been – again just a theory for now. So, Emma was in open trio relationships with William and Nelson. The last scene I watched (which hopefully will be the last and I never open p site for the old reason again) with Lora Black involved 2 males and 1 Lora, who at least once called herself Vivien and who does play a role – a bit weird role, but still.

Tbh, me watching so many p videos in my life is a punishment – no question about it – but I always thought for me being not very strong willed when it comes to pleasure. It could be also punishment for old mistakes… who knows.

But it is strange how just recently I found my life as Vivien Leigh – something I thought I'd never find in my current life; then I suppose Michele Avila has to have been my past life also; and now I've got even more synchronicities with a woman who lived in the 18-19th century, and technically it is a possibility that I was her too… but there could be something else – reincarnation is a science which has not been studied sadly.

I remembered how long time ago when I was a little child me and my mother were standing near father's house in Moscow and there was a lot of water around (either after rain or snow melting, don't remember). Then I remembered how one day around that time my mother took little me to father's apartment and left me alone at his door. She went away… but I started to run after her and cry and beg her not to leave me… I followed her in tears for many minutes and through many streets, in front of many people's eyes. Eventually we drove together on the bus (or trolly) to our home and that was it.

The thing is both Vivien's and Emma Hamilton's daughters were almost left without their mother around… (#error) Might have been me paying (perhaps partially) for old mistake.

Just my speculations. It's known that Vivien could play the role of Scarlett down to the ground. And I remember how I knew that she wasn't right for the role of Rebecca. It makes me think, if she was Emma Hamilton, she could have seen part of herself in Scarlett and that's why she thought of O'Hara as her paramour. (#psyche-data-astro)?

Vivien was called "Lady Olivier" and Emma is known as "Lady Hamilton". Nothing out of the ordinary though.

Vivien was said to be possessed by s*x which she had a lot of. Assuming in other lives I had s*x. In this one there were numerous times when I couldn't believe and come to terms with the fact that I don't have s*x etc in my life – 1 of sources for my depressions. Makes sense that I didn't know how to live a life of solitude. Just like I didn't know how to live a life with balding head. Just like I didn't know how to live with a face that was asymmetric and not considered pretty..

I remember how I screamed playing Dark Souls, hating myself for wasting time but being yet unable to free myself. Vivien had her share of mood swings

There's a point to be made about army. When it was time for me to check health I knew I couldn't stand being in the army… now, it was because of freedom of choice, but also because my life had almost no meaning at the time. I thought about ending it if I was to go to the army, but due to my stutter I didn't go.

The point is if I was in women's bodies in many lives, then it makes sense I'm not very inclined to be involved with matters of the army or war (also for spiritual reasons).

Vivien and Emma had daughters. I always thought that If I were to have children, I'd be more comfortable having daughters than sons. In my fantasies that was probably always the case.

Living on the other side of barricades (my realization; also wheel from TP) can be seen in Vivien's life.

Her traveling to USA and getting the role of Scarlett – me wanting to do similar things but being unable to.

Her having lots of sexual experience with people – me having none.

I remember my unusual dream about trains. I died in a gun shootout in that dream. Then a light from heaven (Higher Self?) said to me something about life as a train driver or something, and I was shown as I drive in a train – driver's space of the 1st wagon.

Vivien Leigh, I noticed, has made several movies that train theme can be seen in: Streetcar she won an Oscar for, and I'm yet to watch Anna Karenina. In Waterloo Bridge Myra meets Roy at a train station.

Then, right after my dream when I in Vivien's voice said I was her, I had a dream in which I was riding on a train as well…

Her speech was perfect as far as I know, but I stammer (due to my mind not being fully focused on the thing I need to speak about; and there were/are times when my speech was perfect)

But there are cases when people experience being as if a different person/ I'm no exception; I used to ride on my bicycle a lot and also walk – then I was unable to walk several meters from my house. It's all consequences of our choices. And I would not have believed as a teenager that something like this could happen to me down the road…

There are actors etc too who were in accidents and were unable to live the life they used to live.

I remembered the photo of young Tanya – mom's sister. She seemed rather beautiful in it. But I only knew her as a person with psychological problems, and her physical appearance was no longer that of the girl in the photo.

Started watching Anna Karenin with Leigh today (25.09.2023). Her voice was noticeably different from her voice in Waterloo Bridge, for example. People change (or does it relate to acting?). I think I just like seeing Vivien more young (who wouldn't?) She's about my current age in the movie (35 years old)

Curiously, watched today this video and it's just so happened to have a story of a doppelganger who happened to be in the same prison and who actually committed a crime, and not the other innocent and similar looking man. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vj_auGTlcLA&t=69s

Addition: I had red cheeks once in a while during making of my 2nd sync video about my syncs with Michele Avila and Vivien Leigh. It was kinda cringy at times, especially since the experience was so new to me and I didn't know what I was getting myself into. Concerning Vivian, clearly I saw her mostly as an actress from a very famous movie of the last century; of course, in my thoughts I saw her as a human being just like any other. But the point is that time will be required before the risen dust will settle down, and I'm seeing myself in her all the time, and not when I find a new big connection/ synchronicity.

Picturegoer November 26 1955.

I watched Anastasia animated film shortly after learning I am VL and the story had an impact on me.

"I think very often an actor is credited with faults in a performance that aren't due to him at all."
I came to the same conclusion before I knew about my past lives.

*

Given I did ballet in V's life, I decided to watch first ballet lessons, as it's probably something I was doing in my V's life.
https://youtu.be/FD6bB3Mz7q0?si=Op3_TbObIEaBrhzq&t=75
At 1:15+ The very first lesson. I immediately felt this rather strong feeling of familiarity the origin of which I couldn't pinpoint. I don't think it was déjà vu; It felt like long time ago I might have done the same exercise "out of nowhere" and never paid much attention to it (and so I can't locate in my memory if I actually did it, and when and where).

Vivien Leigh Quotes

https://vivien-leigh.info/quotes/

"My parents were French and Irish and our family even has Spanish blood-and I do so love the United States and consider myself part American."
I was drawn to USA – I always thought that to be the case coz of movies; but after I found TP reincarnation was also on my mind.

"I will not be ignored (1935)".
Lo and behold, I am ignored now when I've got something useful to share (TP, etc)!
Then I remembered how when I was made mod/admin in tv series and movies groups some females were sending me friend requests (asking if my photo was mine too). Then I used to constantly write something in posts to make myself visible; it was a while till I realized I just sit in font of laptop's screen, enjoying the pixels – sure, the comments came from real person… miles away and whom I'd probably never see. I did not receive a lot of social skills (had trouble approaching women). All in all, I wanted attention at one point - didn't want to "be ignored", but I learnt the lesson – perhaps I went to the extreme and completely stopped communicating (probably so).

"When I was at school at Paris, I had special lessons from Mademoiselle Antoine, who was an actress at the Comedie Francaise, and I was taken to every sort of play - which the other girls weren't allowed to go to - and so I felt very grand."

Don't want to brag, but the truth is it kinda reminds me of my Thiaooubians experiences. It seems to me not a lot of people had them (but some wrote me they did).

"Classical plays require more imagination and more general training to be able to do. That's why I like playing Shakespeare better than anything else."

Imagination was/is big part of my existence.

"Every single night I'm nervous. You never know how the audience is going to react."

I used to be, and sometimes still are, nervous, thinking of something I want to write to someone for example. I know it's not a wise thing to do, but… In school I was constantly nervous thinking if I'm going to be asked a question in school (stammer was tough on me) (#psyche-data)?

"I don't know what that Method is. Acting is life, to me, and should be."

A agree with her 2nd sentence. It's what I thought about acting too.

"People think that if you look fairly reasonable, you can't possibly act, and as I only care about acting, I think beauty can be a great handicap."

"In the English language are two words I most detest - "pretty" and "beautiful". I think I'd hit anyone who called me that now."

Hmm… here I am, learning to live in a not so beautiful physical body. Was that thinking as Vivien the direct reason for my symmetry and other things people don't find beautiful? Now, I think I'd care not what others mistakenly think of relation between beauty and acting abilities; the two have no direct correlation imho; it's more in the area of spiritual knowledge I'd say.

"Shaw is like a train. One just speaks the words and sits in one's place. But Shakespeare is like bathing in the sea - one swims where one wants."

"When I come into the theatre at night, I get a sense of security... I get in early - an hour and a half before curtain-up. I say the part over myself every night, however well I know it - not aloud, just to myself... Sometimes I dread the truth of the lines I say. But the dread must never show. That is the wonderful discipline of the theater. I love the theater for that discipline, because outside I'm not disciplined at all. I'm imulsive..."

I was impulsive too and not disciplined. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge)?

"You know the passage where Scarlett voices her happiness that her mother is dead, so that she can't see what a bad girl Scarlett has become? Well, that's me."

Oh dear me…

About Scarlett – "She could take care of herself when she had to. I think I could, too...

I went to school for a time in Germany. That meant that being a girl I had to learn what every Hausfrau should know, and hated it. That was one of the things that helped me make up my mind to become an actress... I hope I've one thing that Scarlett never had. A sense of humor. I want some joy out of life... And she had one thing I hope I never had. Selfish egotism... Scarlett was a fascinating person whatever she did, but she was never a good person. She was too petty, too self-centered... But one thing about her was admirable. Her courage. She had more than I'll ever have."

Instead of learning English (which I wanted to learn) I was in German class.

I'd like some joy in my life too…

I don't think I ever had selfish egotism – actually I tried to help a friend who bullied me. So that spiritual knowledge (#spiritual-knowledge) checks out too.

Courage. This also checks out; (#spiritual-knowledge). I didn't have courage in my life, being afraid if people would find out about my masturbation habit, and when I had my experience with Thiaooubians I knew very well what was in store for me – how people would see me and what they'd think of me. But I was gaining that courage slowly – post after post – until I wrote my book and published it. After that I have almost no problem telling the truth – no matter what others would think.

This courage theme also connects my syncs with Vivien with syncs with movies where the theme of conquering fear – or acquiring courage – is what those movie syncs led to.

"I want some joy out of life". This rings many bells. Thao said that word in her telepathic message to me too.

"I'm a Scorpio, and Scorpios eat themselves out and burn themselves up like me."

I copied this for a different reason, but later remembered Michele Avila was listening to Scorpions (probably nothing; just a thought popped up in my head).

"I cannot let well enough alone. I get restless. I have to be doing different things. I am very impatient person and headstrong. If I've made up my mind to do something, I can't be persuaded out of it."

Restless and have to be doing something too. I'm still to master those things… (#spiritual-knowledge)

"I do not worry about my looks because beauty is not a thing of age but of spirit."

Psyche is important because it never dies being part of our soul. She was also beautiful long enough not to worry. I started losing looks too early.

"I'm not a film star, I am an actress. Being a film star is such a false life, lived for fake values and for publicity."

"A lucky thing Eva Peron was. She died at thirty-three. I'm already forty-five."

Be careful what you wish for… she died at relatively young age of 53. Also 33. I'm 35 at the moment of writing this.

I feel like this statement could be the reason for my poor health. I certainly don't feel lucky, and knowing about Peron's death I don't think she was either.

Vivien, me, clearly did a mistake by saying those words… (#spiritual-knowledge)

Peron had cervical cancer. I've been having pains and unpleasant feelings in my right testicle (reason I masturbated thinking it would help somehow – because that act does alleviate painful sensations usually and I feel better). There was a dream long time ago showing my right testicle all swollen up and a voice saying it means cancer… I hope that dream won't become prophetic.

Again, I see here a cause and effect chain, knowing now that I lived the life of Vivien Leigh and some of my choices as her affected my current life.

For full transparency I need to add that there were sad moments when I played Hearthstone and raged at people (I was so stupid) and, most abhorrently, I wished cancer to some… I immediately regretted the words, apologized and asked the Universe for forgiveness… those were dark times for me. (Слово не воробей, вылетит – не поймаешь)

"Classical plays require more imagination and more general training to be able to do. That's why I like playing Shakespeare better than anything else."

"I felt too young to be the mother of a child, and very lacking in the qualities of restfulness and serenity which a mother should have. How many times since then Scarlett O'Hara's line, in speaking of her mother, have sprung to my mind! "I always wanted to be like her, calm and kind. I certainly have turned out disappointingly." But I was not cast in the mould of serenity, and in any case, although you may succeed in being kind at twenty you cannot be calm, with all your life still before you, and your ambitions unfulfilled."

I'm very restless (as is the case at the moment of writing this note). This could be the sign of lacking spiritual knowledge regarding how to live in terms of rest

Up until I started going back to my village I did have certain ambitions boil up inside of me; yet I knew that with such health, and with my body not being beautiful, I'd probably have to pass on them; it was uneasy to realize that you can't have something you desire, that you can't live the way you wish to. And it's interesting because this is chained to the reflection of what I saw in Scarlett at the end of GwtW (Waterloo bridge and Hamilton Woman connection).

"Like everyone else I dreamed of an immediate engagement in the West End, but all I got was a succession of small and unimportant parts in films."

Funny, but while I see the point, now I kind of wish I could find and see those "unimportant parts in films". They have become important. But I guess 2 of her movies are lost.

Also, while I don't know which exactly movies she was referring to, but some of her earlier roles made an important impact of her future life in my body (stammer, for example). This again shows how we learn; first we think something is of no importance, but then we realize what the actual consequences of that actions are.

"I made my first appearance on the stage at the Q Theatre as Guista in The Green Sash. I am sure I was not good in the part, which was a long one and far too difficult for anyone as inexperienced as I was. But Charles Morgan — the only critic who turned up on the first night (God bless him) — gave me two, not too scathing lines in The Times, with the result that Sidney Carroll was interested, and came to see me in the part.

As it happened he was just then planning the production of The Mask of Virtue and looking for someone to play Henrietta. He asked me to come in for an audition. I can still remember my excitement when I went along for it, and my absolute despair when the actual moment arrived. When Sidney Carroll handed me the script and asked me to read the part I literally shook with fright. But Lilian Braithwaite, who had been invited to the audition, gave me a smile of friendly encouragement, and somehow I managed to find my voice."

The similar things would happen to me, when I was literally shaking from different motions.

"From the moment I read Margaret Mitchell's novel, Gone With The Wind I was fascinated by the lovely, wayward, tempestuous Scarlett. I felt that I loved and understood her, almost as thought I had known her in the flesh."

As I wrote before, some reflection with me finding Thiaoouba Prophecy book can be found.

"Scarlett has always been my favourite film part, although I have loved others, too, especially Lady Hamilton, in which Larry played Nelson, perhaps because it was the first film we made together after our marriage in California."

It's just a speculation still. If somehow in the Universe she and I were that Lady Hamilton, then it's of no surprise that she loved that role.

"Another character who gripped me, though in a very different way, was the pathetic Blanche Du Bois in A Streetcar Named Desire. So many people have condemned the play for its sordid theme. To me it is an infinitely moving please for tolerance for all weak, frail creatures, blown about like leaves before the wind of circumstance."

When I'll be writing about the possible error here. That I agree with her words, but we still should say that those sexual deviations aren't Natural (etc). I'm talking here about homosexuality – check on that also to be sure.

"Sixteen years have passed since that first night of The Mask of Virtue when success came so suddenly that I distrusted it. I do still, but it no longer seems so important, for I have learnt many things since then. One is that to live in the fullest sense is worth more than to attain any material reward."

(#spiritual-knowledge)

Again, I see the point.

"I have learnt too that love is the greatest gift that life can offer, and that no price could ever be too dear to pay for it. I have grown to appreciate friendship, while remembering that it has obligations, and that it you want to receive it you must cast your bread upon the waters freely."

(#spiritual-knowledge)

"I believe sincerity and a fixed aim are essential to success, and that the greatest assets you can bring to a marriage, are imagination and a sense of humour. Most of all, I have learnt to say, from the bottom of my heart, that I would gladly live every moment of my life again."

And here I am, reading all things I can find about my old self, as if relieving the life of Vivien Leigh.

By Kendra Bean.

After playing in a play called The Mask of Virtue and becoming an overnight sensation, the press wrote: "Theatre Cheers Miss Cinderella! A new Cinderella of the London stage has emerged from an obscure but — in this case — elegantly furnished chimney corner. Overnight – literally – she found she had stepped into almost incredible fame and potential fortune—enough to make her welcome on anybody's stage or movie lot."

I copied this text because it reminded me of how I discovered Thiaoouba Prophecy book, which changed my life very, very fast. And when I had my first interaction with Thiaooubians it was an overnight change, for at that moment I knew the book was true.

"Big picture contracts are good financially, but I advise young actresses to think twice about them."

(#spiritual-knowledge)

I remember well how when I was dreaming about linking my life with movies I thought that I don't want to have much more than I need. Of course, it also means that she probably had that spiritual knowledge from her previous lives.

Modeling for Vogue, etc.

I mentioned this in my book Simple Truths of Life: I kind of thought of modeling also but I was so afraid of speech that I couldn't come to the young guys who were also extras (or something) for the Checkova show. My path swayed away from movies and modeling, but it led me somewhere else (Thiaoouba).

Russell Birdwell: "Her hair, too, is like Scarlett's, brown with a definite reddish tint, all of which will be seen in natural color, since the film is to be entirely in technicolor."

Reddish tint… references to chestnut (каштановый) hair color, which my mother mentioned I had when I was in school, and Michele also had a similar situation.

Selznick sent a memo to Henry Ginsberg, Vice President and General Manager of Selznick International, detailing his plans to transform Vivien into Scarlett O'Hara:

"Vivien Leigh should report regularly at nine or nine-thirty, at the latest ten o'clock each morning: work at least two hours on her accent, then report for fittings, then report for rehearsals with Mr Cukor and for any photographic tests that may be necessary; then two hours more on her accent. Photographic tests should be made that will include experiments with her hair. Strict orders should be given, however, that nothing should be done that cannot be remedied: In other words her hair should not be cut or the color changed, nor should her eyebrows be plucked in any way.

I should like the photographic tests to include various experiments with ways of making up her eyebrows to make them look more natural and more in the period; different make-ups; experiments with her figure, including particularly her bosom."

He had to work on her accent 2 times a day for 2 hours, making it 4. Since numbers do have some connection, I decided to note this. I did have the dream with Vivien saying I was her on 4 September, and it could have been even 4 o'clock.

Freelance… first of all I did work as a freelancer and I loved being relatively independent. When I worked as a courier I realized I didn't want to sit in an office all of my life (I do sit in my room, though).

Had a severe nervous breakdown during the filming of Elephant Walk in Hollywood, and started to be considered a liability.

(#spiritual-knowledge)

It reminded me first of many quarrels we had with mother; but firstly of an episode when I was doing a freelance work, programming Action Script 3 app. I had pretty much a nervous breakdown because I was behind schedule, and I almost fainted from screaming out. I was able to get a hold of myself and did actually finish the job.

So this is something she never learned to fully control, didn't learn how to live with these things, and that lack of knowledge overflew into my life.

Note: I watched Elephant Walk with Liz Taylor and Vivien's character would have stayed with her husband had she finished the movie. From what movies I've watched so far with Leigh it's rather different situation.

And she would have been in 20 theatrical released movies if she did finish this one.

Kendra writes lots of people in the movie business liked me, VL, as a person.

Won 2 Oscars, two New York Times Film Critics Circle Awards, a BAFTA, and the coveted French Crystal Dove Award. John Kobal said in 1981, "It took the camera to get to the heart of this woman, and make the need that drove this lovely, lonely spirit all the more appealing for asking nothing for itself except to be allowed to get on and do her work."

Dove award. I had a semi pet pigeon who I fed for many years. That bird helped me live through my difficult years of depression. Interestingly, that pigeon, as well as the other who I fed too, stopped visiting me after I started to get my life together, searching for a girlfriend, etc. (I doubt it was because I often was outside).

The favorite role - Myra Lester from Waterloo Bridge (1940).

Had obsession hiding her large hands. Owned more than 150 pairs of gloves to cover them up. Of note is that Scarlett O'Hara in the book GwtW had extremely small hands.

As of 24 October 2023:
1 of 7 actors who have a 2-0 winning record when nominated for an acting Oscar.

Regarding the affair with Peter Finch and mental issues:
Just wanna note they attribute V's sexual behavior to mental problems but in this life, having experienced and learned what I did, I tend to disagree. Perhaps libido got high but it's no excuse to sleep around and cheat – it's still a mistake.

They say I, VL, used one of the Oscars to doorstop the bathroom door.
Funny if true.

At age 19 gave birth to the only daughter named Suzanne Mary Holman (later Suzanne Farrington) October 10, 1933.
I'm 99% positive it's nothing. Just remembered how I had a dream about Natasha showing up at my apartment with 2 twin boys of about 10+/- years old. There's extremely tiny chance she could have become pregnant but I doubt it happened. But if she actually somehow did get pregnant and kept the baby, I'd be 19 years old when she'd give birth. It would be February of 2008. MA's bd is February 8.

Father gave the nickname of "Vivling", which is a mix of "Vivian" and "darling".

Loved cats, especially Siamese.
My current mother had a Siamese cat.

Liz Taylor played me, VL, in the movie The V.I.P.s (1963), which was based on the incident when in that life I was about to leave Olivier for Peter Finch, but Larry managed to woo me back, as they say.
Elizabeth Taylor plays in that film. She also replaced V in the Elephant Walk and played Cleopatra – as did Leigh.

https://www.dailymail.co.uk/home/books/article-6555437/After-youve-bed-Vivien-matters.html
Peter Finch: 'After you've been to bed with Vivien Leigh nothing else matters'.

Signoret: "They were cooked by a real Cordon Bleu chef. She was as beautiful as she had been at the time of Scarlett O'Hara; she had fabulous memories of this town, and she clung to them. At the end of the evenings the phonograph played the theme from 'Gone with the Wind'; it made her sad, but she did it deliberately. From one moment to another she was scintillating or desperate."

Memories which were erased in the River of Oblivion… now I'm searching for them, hoping to learn something new about myself and reincarnation… interesting.

Gertrude Hartley spending 15 minutes each morning gazing at the Himalayas believing their astonishing beauty would pass on to her soon to be born child.

I was born beautiful in VL life.

Also, 17:15 (5:15 PM) was a time when I was born in this current life, and it's about the time when Eva told the truth about who killed me in my Missy's life.

Was the 14th actress to receive an Academy Award.

She and Joan Bennett were often considered look-alikes of Hedy Lamarr.

I liked Hedy from the first time I saw her in Karine Alourde's video – not only for her looks but for her intelligence too.

https://www.dailymail.co.uk/home/books/article-6555437/After-youve-bed-Vivien-matters.html

Wrote to mother sometime after being punished in class for talking: "Don't you call it beastly? I do think it's simply the BUN! Mother Bruce-Hall said she hoped I had tribulation — she said it would do me a lot of good."

Leigh Holman was 13 years older than me in my Vivien's life. When told he was taken, I, VL, said: "That doesn't matter. He hasn't seen me yet."

Strachan mentioned "a world of alcohol-fuelled casual promiscuity".

This I didn't know. I hope it's based on facts for it means this promiscuity started long before bipolar problems.

Yana, whom I met in Gorki Park, is 13 years younger than me.

Oliver wrote to Vivien such things as: "Oh I love, love, love, love, my lambkin." When being apart: "I really am in Hell, my love . . . the valley of the shadow . . . I keep crying."

Larry wore one of the carnations, sent to him by VL, in his underpants. He said they used to make love 3 times a day.

Vivien: "I don't think I've ever lived as intensely since . . . I don't remember sleeping . . . I imagined, like the very young always do, that everything lasts for ever."

About mental issues which became serious: Don't know how true it is, but they say VL would stay out all night, having s*x with strangers in London parks, returning home at dawn "bedraggled, covered in mud".

Maybe nothing. Just reminded me of streamer Dinablin whom I liked but then saw her stream when she said to 3 other girls she had s*x near a fountain (an possibly on a bench in a park? Fountains are in a park). Maybe a synchronicity.

Aside from walking, liked gardening, doing the Times crossword, playing hostess at parties, collecting modern art and Dickens first editions.

I like gardening;

In childhood I did crosswords and liked it also;

Definitely like walking (if I'm feeling healthy) and visited a lot of places in Moscow.

In Dark Star: A Biography of Vivien Leigh book it's mentioned several times that VL had met other people who liked crosswords: Anne Wilding, David Horne, Isabel Jeans, Alan ("Jock") Dent.

http://vivandlarry.com/larry/articles/confessions-of-a-real-actor/

Larry: "My late wife Vivien was too much affected by the parts she played, and if she got ill, which she certainly did, dreadfully had a great deal to do with playing Blanche Dubois, being ill in the same way."

Larry: "I can't tell you why I stayed with her so many years. I did. I didn't know what else to do, but to stay along and suffer. I couldn't have been in love with her all of the time, possibly. But you develop a very deep feeling if you have the determination to go through a terrible lot to be together in the first instance, as we did, to go through scandal, to receive awful letters from the public, to have people spitting at you in the street. It breeds in you a great determination. And that will outwear a lot of bad weather; it will stand constant in the teeth of the gale and in the drenching of the flooding rain." … "Wish you'd talk about something else."

https://www.sothebys.com/en/articles/a-shared-passion-for-painting-vivien-leigh-and-winston-churchill

I've saved the image of the painting. And in my childhood years I kinda liked painting sometimes. Once I gifted a painting of a woodpecker on an elm (I believe it was elm because it's the most prominent tree in the village and I remember it when thinking about that painting) tree to Yana on her birthday. No idea if it's survived… In school I kinda liked painting also.

About the determination to save St James's Theatre.

Reminds me of my determination to share Thiaoouba related materials – no matter what. Of course, as long as I have something to say. I did want to turn the page and do something else in my life after I thought I learned pretty much all I could in terms of spiritual-material knowledge and did all I could to promote Thiaoouba and my experiences and findings … then I learned I was Vivien Leigh and the wheel has started turning once again…

When I, Vivien, spoke, the peers "did not move a muscle."

Kinda happens with Thiaoouba – sadly, not many help me spread the message (even when I showed telekinesis is real, which could be a good start…) no one moves a muscle it seems (Literally. Had a big discussion with a woman in TPXP about that tiny little 'share' button under the post – the least people could do to help share the evidence of telekinesis.)

Vivien's letter to Jack:

"My Darling Love,

I am on my way to you with a beating heart - and the only point of this little scribble is that it makes me feel nearer. I wonder every minute if you are awake. I was at 5.00 this morning…

This has been a most extraordinary week. I think the most extraordinary of my life. Alone and yet so infinitely close to you. Sweet dear love, I ache and long to see you"

Probably nothing. Just reminded me of how I said to Olay (ginger; from 9th floor) that I'd lately wake up at 5.

Vivien Leigh to Jackie Kennedy after the assassination of JFK:

"Nov 23rd, '63

Dear Mrs Kennedy,

May I please add, personally - my thoughts & prayers to those of millions.

Although I am not a citizen of your country - as an...a personal and never to be forgotten sorrow.

Thank you for all you both stand for in the world.
Yours sincerely & in deepest sympathy
Vivien Leigh"

From Vivien to Jack Merivale. May 28th, 1967. Tickerage Mill.
"My Darling one - this is to tell you that you are going to be wonderful - Please try enjoy it dear heart
- All my thoughts and love are with you every minute. You are only wicked not to allow me to share tonight with you. I love you.
Your Angelica."

Just a note https://www.behindthename.com/name/angelica
Means "angelic" (angelicus) in Latin. Related to Greek ἄγγελος (angelos) which means "messenger".
Mayb nothing but angels (Thiaooubians) are part of my life since I was 20 (maybe even before but I never knew it? – e.g. the yellow entity is still a mystery).

From Vivien to Cindy Dietz. July 2nd, 1967.
"My darling - I am so silly and outraged to the eyeballs these days - I cannot remember whether I answered your angelic cable. Isn't this a fair beast? So unexpected, too. Everyone has been angelic. The play is only postponed, not cancelled. I study it all the time in the hope I might understand it all one day. Forgive this more than usual dreadful handwriting, but the drugs they give me make me sillier than ever. He writes me a lot but I think he is going through hell. Noël is here, which is a joy. Jack has made a whacking success in The Last of Mrs. Cheyney at Guilford. They soon come into the Phoenix (He seems rather pleased with himself - for him!) My love to you both my darling Cindy – Vivien"
Several days before the death on 7-8 July.
The play she talked about is The Delicate Balance. I wrote about it briefly in Plays Reflections section. Had found some possible similarities (CHECK MORE THE PLAY's PLOT)

Loved Tickerage Mill.
I always loved being in the village, among the Nature.

The story about me, Vivien, loving to sit on a stone bench in the middle of a crescent-shaped hedge and catch the last rays of sun.
Made me remember how I tried to learn if sun gazing has some merit to it and had to wake up before sunrise by asking my Higher Self to wake me up. I like sunrises too btw.

Looking at photos I thought to myself that I like the brick texture of the house. I always wanted to have a house like that – when thinking of how I'd remodel my village house, I'd usually arrive to it becoming a brick house of the texture similar to Leigh's or some of the houses in USA.

https://vivienleighlegend.com/the-double-life-of-vivien-leigh/

They say my VL breakdown had more than one parallel with my role in A Streetcar Named Desire.

In my life as Vivien, I also had already had some interesting synchronicities (parallels) happen.

Piccadilly has been mentioned before. Connection to Emma Hamilton.

Vivien: "Psychiatrists cause more trouble than any other people in the world. I don't believe in them."

I wouldn't phrase it like this with the knowledge I've got, but there is a part of me which agrees with my old self.

The other part watched videos and read articles on psychology; I even thought of studying it in Uni.

The thing is I'm pretty sure I was able via self-study to learn quite enough about psychology. After all I was able to dig myself out of the whole full of psychological problems, I was in years ago. One of the final problems I had might be cured by me finding out my past life – the reasons for some of my sufferings. My life has become healthier and calm already now that I know I was Vivien Leigh (some dust is yet to fully settle, though)

They say John Buckmaster, an English actor, taught me, VL, Yoga.

There was time yoga helped me. So did meditation.

They write that the mental issues I had in my Vivien's life caused the erasing of my identity as Vivien Leigh…? The "new" identity was that of the nymphomaniac in Streetcar — including the sultry southern accent.

I wish they wrote more details. It reminded me of how after realizing I was actually Vivien, there was a moment when I felt her personality could overpower me. I realized it and took certain measures to take things in slowly… But thinking of myself as of a soul, experiencing living in different bodies, and having experienced living in Leigh's, does seem to be the right way of mental self-image.

http://vivandlarry.com/photo-essay/12-mustsee-vivien-leigh-locations-in-london/

Lived in flat D in 54 Eaton Square, Belgravia, from 1958 to the end of life. About 9 years.

D must mean the 4th? This number pops up here and then; 4th September and around 4 o'clock when I had the fateful dream with Vivien.

Then it says that Durham Cottage, were we lived in that life too, is number 4 on the right. It has a bright blue gate.

The picture (I have a pdf of the page) has number 4 on the door…

For what it's worth the digital root of my apartment I lived all my life is equal to 4.

https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-1186755/A-Scarlett-lady-Sexual-adventuress-Vivien-Leigh-shocking-secret-leading-man-Clark-Gable.html

They say about "stamina" and "appetite"… Probably, I will have to mention my two time 9 something hour PMO and that I usually did those sessions for hours…

So here's another similarity between us…

And Natasha (Velozavodskaya 11/1) once said that s*x is a good sport ("cc хороший спорт"), if I remember the adjective correctly.

And this is also 1 of reasons why I suffered so much being deprived the s*xual experiences with girls.

(At least at one point in time) Only Bible has sold more copies than Margaret Mitchell's Gone with the Wind.

I find it interesting that me, my soul, has connections to both of those books, considering Thiaoouba Prophecy's origin. And later I learned I am Rachel, Mary Magdalene, and Tobey, all of whom mentioned in the Bible.

Olivier called me 'Puss".

It's opposite of dog (in a weird and cliche way). It also kinda sounds like Russian «пёс» for dog (I'm probably reaching here).

Peter Finch: "I loved Vivien. But once she set her sights on you, you were a gonner, mate... her affection was lethal.

Sex was a sickness with her. It was not only a powerful stimulant for her, but as addictive as any drug. I was a young man then, and it was like Christmas every day - but poor Larry. Poor Larry. She must have been killing him."

"She had sexual fantasies that distressed her, believing that if she were left alone at these times she might be moved to pick up a stranger on the street, bring him home and seduce him."

Then the mention a taxi driver. Reminded me finally of that story I wrote about in my book SToL. Woman had s*x with a taxi driver, which opened her psychological barrier about not having s*x after the death of her partner. Interesting synchronicity…

"The appointment was for four o'clock. I waited and waited. She finally turned up two hours late - dishevelled, her stockings torn, buttons missing from her blouse.

But looking very happy. God knows where she had been, but it was obvious what she had been up to."

There was a woman on sw*nglife who said she needed s*x several times a week; why she'd went to those swing clubs in Moscow.

Also 4 o'clock and 2 hours late.

I could ask Michele Avila's friends etc about some unknown but prominent details about her life. Maybe mistakes she made? Her moral (spiritual) knowledge? Maybe she had to suffer in her childhood somehow? Her psychological profile – was she kind, bully, lash out at anyone? It could help determine if I was really her… but how would I even ask them this?

If I have the book, I could contact the people who have fan websites about Vivien. Could share it with them – expecting nothing.

Also to Anna who was an influence on me to watch Vivien's movie.

Try to find interviews with Vivian. Because if she learned spiritual knowledge, understandings about life, I should have that knowledge and understandings also. E.g. when as a child I said some wisdom to my father and he said «я был не в него» ("I wasn't like him") or something like that.

So far we do have similar views clothes. (#spiritual-knowledge)

During GwtW she lived in North Camden Drive, Beverly Hills. Later I might look into it just in case.

Beverly Hills, California, USA 11th September 2021 A general view of atmosphere of Actor Lawrence Olivier, Actress Vivien Leigh, Actress Hedy Lamarr, Actor Leslie Howard, Actress Harriett Deutch's Former home/house at 606 N. Camden Drive on September 11, 2021 in Beverly Hills, California, USA.

Hedy Lamarr – write her words from the beginning of the video (channel that I linked to above).

Someone on youtube's comments said Vivian to have been pigeon breasted, but I was unable to find any supporting evidence of that. I feel like all was okay with her chest area.

Now that I accepted that I must have been Vivien I could watch and read about Laurence Olivier. He died on 11 July 1989.

Circumstantial evidence could be the word for synchronicities alone when talking about the possibility of reincarnation.

The word 'serendipitous' can describe my experience with Marina and with me finding syncs with Michele and Vivien.

(#reflection) many are present below:

3:11 - "Vivien Leigh had gumption"

I saw in this saying a possible another reason why Thiaooubians could have helped me. I've already had made bold moves before…

3:55 – Convergence of 3 people who had gumption. I find in this another sign, showing that the Universe was created and everything is happening for a reason; sign of spirituality; etc.

4:28 – no less than 202 million went to se GwtW. Again the number 2 & 0.

4:45 – 81 years. Another thing I noticed is that in 2020 it was 81 years since 1939. 81 has a big meaning in Thiaoouba book. 2020 was a huge year for me (published TP translation; wrote my own book and published it; had a lot of interactions with people; I grew stronger)

6:36 – she (Scarlett) lives in the past to cope with the massive change in life (personal and community). Same as was, to some degree is, with me (it was clearly seen when I was in 10th grade)

7:05 – she spends so much time wishing things were different. – could have been, or, perhaps, should have been (in her mind). Again reflects my own life up until certain point. We both have lived in the past.

7:40 – Scarlett seems so self-absorbed and inept. Like she could use a good hard dose of reality. She gets it and surprises us repeatedly. Again, it's a reflection of my life. I did manage to get my health back at one point; the books is another surprise; my understandings I feel like as well.

8:20 – this brought tears to my eyes. "She realizes she's been living in the past and chooses to stop". Reflection of me.

9:15 – dreams play a role in GwtW. Same as in my life – In fact, it was thanks to a dream that I found out I was indeed Vivien Leigh in 1 of my past lives.

Safety is the topic there. I think I found my safety in Thiaoouba and the actual knowledge I gained in my life through my studies and experiences. And now I also found additional safety in knowing 1 of my past lives – Vivien Leigh.

Stubbornness is repeated many times in the video. I am stubborn.

After the dream with Vivien playing her old life as Cleopatra – literally (and her, and me, possibly being Emma Hamilton) – I see how those books by Steve Hodel (Black Dahlia) are coming closer and closer to become synchronicities with my own experiences of finding 1 life 100% and possibly more lives… which, if actually mine, are also famous people – and so many people will not believe me for it's too grand of a claim…

From my short audio note: V shake me shake Nancy Thompson defeat Freddy. I think my thought… had something to do with the idea of fear and then gaining courage and finally defeating the 'enemy' being a possible link, connecting my IT/Nightmare on Elm Street synchronicities with my Vivien Leigh/Michele Avila synchronicities.

Both me and V were shaking in our lives. To some degree I came over some of that fear (don't know the future; but I've got no problems sharing the "unbelievable" truth about myself)

17 years, the age of Michele Avila, is between Vivien's death and the release of A Nightmare on Elm Street, with which I have syncs.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Vivien_Leigh_on_stage_and_screen

Her star was placed on the Hollywood Walk of Fame on February 8, 1960.

For what it's worth I liked drawing 5 edged stars in early childhood.

It's funny how many pictures of V's star are from stock websites; I used to upload some of my photos to stocks too and even got paid a bit of money

27 book was about reincarnation – my views at that time on the subject.

I wanted to write another book featuring the theme of rebirth.

I found 1 of my lives. Can this be the link between Vivien and IT/ Nightmare cyncs?

Ruthie was a dear friend of Vivien, and she also mentioned her in one of her autobiographies:

"Vivien Leigh could choose flowers. She asked us to do a heartrending favor for her and sent us masses of pale straw-colored daffodils and black tulips. Little Vivien! She knew what to do about everything except find a reason to live."

Vivien also named her cat Jones, after Ruthie's son.

Me finding I was VL gave me a very good reason to live; Jones was the can in Alien but I've no cyncs with that movie – just remembered it – but I was also kind of scared to watch that movie as a child, and… well, actually there was that one time I watched Alien, thinking it's no longer scary since I watched it so many times, but then I had the most scary dream in my life – with that white faced woman right in from of my face – when I woke up screaming for the first and only time to date, and I was all covered in sweat; that dream taught me not to watch scary movies – even if I think differently – right before going to sleep, and after that I'd watch either comedies or something else before sleep… it worked and I had no nightmares.

https://www.quora.com/Why-didnt-Marlon-Brando-pursue-a-relationship-with-Vivien-Leigh

Brando perfectly imitated Olivier's voice which highly entertained Vivien.

There's a silly fantasy in which I imitated other people's voices. It's Dread Hunger related.

https://youtu.be/fcFktR9mGws?si=bOYABTHtn_tWJT8h&t=993

Onion sandwiches that Clark ate and V hated the smell. Well, there was a moment when I was riding on the train to or from my village. There was a couple who ate those onion sandwiches and the smell penetrated deeply into the car… it was bearable but I wished they'd eat something less that smell more pleasant…

I always felt like west way of life (in housing) is more to my liking. Now it's clear why.

Vivien lived in New York while she was working. I remember a dream in which I was in a brick building with windows on all 4 sides – so I had complete 360 view of the city. I wonder if that dream could be related somehow to my life as Vivien? Was she ever in such a building?

Pleiades on Thiaoouba Prophecy book (I've no clue why it's there). Vivien' character mentions them. Also there was a woman in the comments on my YouTube video saying she was from Pleiades (I don't think so because she never said the exact reason for her thinking so)

I was thinking what if 1 of reasons Thiaooubians helped me was because many of my sufferings have the roots in the movies and plays I did as Vivien Leigh? Because I clearly didn't think it was a mistake to play a particular character in a movie/play. Turns out even the roles in movies are important and can greatly influence the actor's future life. And so their help in presenting themselves to me via visions, telepathy etc was to alleviate some of that suffering? Well, maybe I'm wrong here. Just a food for thought.

The truth about stuttering; Thiaoouba book; and now me finding my past life – all happened in 1 apartment. No wonder they say you don't need to go to any special temples/places to achieve spirituality.

A note on movies/plays and errors made by actors. It's one of those details - I forgot to mention it, but in my past comments I was talking about the roles in which the character played by an actor wasn't punished for the errors he made in the movie. So, it appears as if the character did a bad thing and got away with it - as if it was the right decision/action but in reality of the Universe it wasn't.

It appears to me the Universe considers that to be an error - and it's actually logical; I don't know how things were in your schools but in mine there were some bullies who would wrap their hands around the necks of the ones they bullied and almost tried to break it... I bet they watched movies with Steven Seagal, Schwarzenegger, Stallone etc (and I also loved those actors as a kid) - you know the actors whom I bet Thao knew from the violent movies.

So, actors, screenwriters, directors etc need to be aware of that. Mistakes have to be suffered for and movies/plays are not exception to that Universal rule it seems to me.

https://https//screenrant.com/gone-with-the-wind-movie-vivien-leigh-patrick-stewart/

Patrick Stewart:

"I was sitting on one side of her and her gorgeous boyfriend [John Merivale] was sitting on the other side of her wearing a fabulous expensive suit. I saw that she was touching her face quite often, and then finally she turned to me and she took my hand and she said “Patrick, I’m going to have to leave. This is so upsetting. You see, so many of these lovely people I worked with are dead and it’s upsetting me so much. So, thanks for sharing this. I hope you enjoy the night.” And she got up and she and John walked out. I was so touched. She could have just left. She didn’t have to say thank you for coming and it’s very good of you and explain to me why she was crying.”

As a kid I learned about my grandpa’s passing and I cried. I would sometimes think about death and wonder if there’s something else after death. Now I know.

In general, I cried quite often in this life. Sometimes I shed tears watching movies that sync in with your emotions.

The fact that V explained to Patrick why she was crying and leaving has no direct reflection in my life (I haven’t been around people much) but I think it is something I could have done; I do remember how I tried to advise my village friend not to start drinking in other company (it was girls related). That friend actually was the one to start calling me пёс so I could’ve just said nothing to him, given no help, but I did despite of all the bad things he did/ said to me.

Then Patrick says she [VL] was a super star of her day and Connan agrees. Then he says there was no one bigger. It was warming to hear.

Then Patrick says a story how after the end of one play the flowers were presented to the actors and to VL; before that the actors near her said something and she hit her with that bouquet of flowers across the face.

(I can see myself in that description – except I try to behave, knowing that the Universe will take care of people who make mistakes; my goal is that I make no errors myself – try to; I)

6:30 Patrick says he was celebrating his 21 bd, threw a party, and VL came to it. None of the other producers did but V did come.

It is sweat. But in my life I remember how Natasha – village friend – called me to her bd but at the time I was so afraid to speak because of stutter that I simply couldn’t bring myself to go… I regret it. It was one of turning points which led to me becoming alone.

She wore only 1 perfume, as Patrick says, called ‘Joy’ by Jean Patou, which was launched in 1930.

https://www.fragrantica.com/perfume/Jean-Patou/Joy-1436.html

Top notes: Bulgarian Rose, Ylang-Ylang and Tuberose.

Middle notes: Jasmine and May Rose; base notes are Musk and Sandalwood.

JOY has a unique concentration of 10600 flowers of jasmine and 28 dozen of roses.

28. And the Red Rose is what I asked my HS to show me in a dream if Scotty Bowers’ story about me was true. In general, I like roses.

Some say the perfume was reformulated and no longer smells like the original which VL had.

'There are other joys in life' – the words Thao told me telepathically. I think it's a (#reflection) at 26:-- Jean Howard says V was schizophrenic and had split personalities (usually I heard bi polar used to describe V's problem). Maybe it's nothing but when I learned and had the evidence I was actually VL there was a moment I thought V's personality could overtake me (I even went to read about split personalities just in case and it helped me to come to my senses); so I took it all easy, allowing the new unexpected truth to penetrate me 1 step at a time.

Possible (#psyche-data) and I mentioned this elsewhere.
There's a reply to a comment on that video:
@ThePiratemachine said they knew someone who knew me, VL, and I was ultra-sensitive, vulnerable and strong.
Once again describe old me (my present body of teen years) perfectly. Relates to 'courage' and the lessons I learned when I was 28+ years (reasons not to get offended).

VL experienced “shivering fits” and “foulmouthed tirades.”

Maybe totally unrelated but there were several times when I was shivering uncontrollably in my body. My teeth were also hitting each other loudly.

As for swearing (in a video about V it says she swore profusely when Oliver slapped her and she slapped him back – when she refused to go on stage because she had no shoes) it reminds me of that rainy day when my motorcycle got broken down in Panfilovo and I’d swear a lot under the rain in front of my village friends. I feel ashamed.

Just a note about the dream on February 1 2011:

It interests me know because some people thought Vivien Leigh was possessed by a demon. NOTE – I was not able to find evidence of that (maybe some people on Youtube just invented it for views?)

https://www.anothermag.com/design-living/10042/a-portrait-of-vivien-leigh-through-ten-treasured-possessions

But I found this regarding the casting of Scarlett O’Hara: The director George Cukor declared that “the girl I select must be possessed of the devil and charged with electricity.”

So it may connect to that dream; more interestingly is the fact he speaks about “charged with electricity” – makes me remember those several instances when I experienced “electric touch”.

On a side note: Later I’d find out that George, in his past life, was one of people who distorted the original Bible, introducing to it such fairy-tale nonsense as Devil, so…

Alice Cooper’s – Poison song reminded me a lot about Vivien’s s*x life and how it affected other people (writing this after I read Tamara’s story about Vivien and Peter Finch).

Interesting that the model’s name in the music clip is Rana Kennedy. Scarlett O’Hara had a last name Kennedy, and I later found out in one of my lives I had that last name also.

Before I knew I was VL. “C.U.C.K. Effect” was the title of a silly idea to have a video game parodying Mass Effect, and also showing ridiculousness of some current social constructs and ideas. A giant pigeon the height of a human would be the main hero – Shepard. Sadly, V did make certain people …. And that's sad.

Stutter/stammer

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kenneth_Tynan
Died 26 July 1980 (aged 53).
It's 8 years before Eva Chirumbolo would tell the truth about Missy's death.
It's 38 years before the death of my father who died on 26th of July.

Dark Star book says that, it seems, Tommy Fields – the actor in Look up and Laugh had stutter, https://www.imdb.com/name/nm0276362/?ref_=tt_cl_t_12 but most noticeably https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kenneth_Tynan ,the critic whom Vivien had trouble with, did also stammer!
I'd need to ty to know more – what if V, being annoyed at him, said something bad regarding his stutter? Could explain the reason I had to stammer…
https://www.sothebys.com/en/articles/a-wedding-gift-from-katharine-hepburn-to-vivien-leigh Screenwriter Garson Kanin: "They [Vivien and Larry] started quarrelling rather bitterly. She was sharp-tongued, Larry was tough as hell. They were scrapping all the way…"
So I was capable of potentially sating bad words (and there are lots of other evidence of that of course)

https://www.google.ru/books/edition/The_Diaries_of_Kenneth_Tynan/U3Tfwl_70vIC?hl=en&gbpv=1&dq=The+Diaries+of+Kenneth+Tynan+vivien&pg=PP9&printsec=frontcover it says that essentially - Later, she came to his bedroom and fondled him through his Y-fronts. Alas for Leigh, Tynan worshipped Olivier and couldn't have risen to the occasion even if he'd wanted to. Nothing daunted, Leigh promptly jumped into bed with Tynan's then wife, Elaine Dundy.
If true (who knows; he was a hardcore critic in regards to Leigh) then I did have a homosexual experience in my past life. Could give additional reason for me having such an experience in this life too – only this time it was more like punishment, not pleasure (which I guess it was in my life as VL).

Tynan wrote some not very good articles about V which he later redacted but the damage was done. Damage can be different. Maybe people believed in the false idea; maybe the person about whom the message was said got depressed.

Anyway this reminded me of how I have to deal with people in my life who also write hasty comments about me, making their misunderstandings of me reality, which can damage me and I think it already did. (#reflection-life)

Finding I was Vivien Leigh is the greatest plot twist of my life.

Fights between VL and LO. Drank father beat up my mother -> I had stutter.

Vl, Michele Avila and I – all have had diaries at some point in our lives

What if I had unresolved psyche issues from life as VL, and also had psychological inheritance from my new biological family? Mom had problems and before I knew about reincarnation I thought if that could be the reason…

There's a video of VL golfing. Also her mother was a "proficient golfer".

I had golf game on Sony-Ericson and played it in GTA5. I liked it. Just noting.

My mom has a book about India written in 80s or 90s. I read it in about the time I had syncs with Michele and VL

Noel Coward and Lawrence Olivier visited VL on 2nd July. Larry wrote in his diary: "Vivien was sitting in bed looking pale but lovely, and smoking, which she shouldn't have been doing. She was gay and enchanting as she always is."
There are times in my life when I was also in merry mood during dark times. (#psyche-data) or (#spiritual-knowledge)?

Being seriously ill, spent an hour a day out of bed - mostly tending to the plants and flowers.
(#curious) because I still like plants and flowers.

Shortly before I died, I and Jack Merivale watched tennis – Wimbledon, Men's finals on television.
I watched a tennis match (don't remember which tournament it was now) when I heard “Look!” near my right ear and the clock on the tennis court was showing 33 minutes! (#reflection-life)?

That tournament was the 81st staging of the Wimbledon Championships, and the 3rd Grand Slam tennis event of 1967. John Newcombe and Billie Jean King won the singles titles.

I noticed that in the pictures from that apartment that there were chintz on the walls. It’s of interest to me for I hang two pieces of fabrics on my wall near bed once to see if maybe the colors can interact with my Aura (sadly, I knew that without clear understanding about my primary colors in the Aura I’d probably achieve nothing). It’s also a good idea(!) to use fabric instead of paint in case you choose the colors wrong. You’d just have to hang a different fabric and that’s it! (#reflection-life)

VL was left alone in Britain for some years. That was suffering for old mistake I think. It’s just so happens that Emma Hamilton’s daughter experiences a similar fate, so… need to have those lucid dreams…

VL was said to be sharp tongued. Her character in Look Up and Laugh said she liked her bf tongue-tied and somehow I was (sometimes am) that very person.

VL wanted to get married as soon as she could fearing she’d never be able to marry. Due to my errors and my life situation (skepticism) I could not find a gf even though I approached more than 100 women. There is a certain (#reflection-life) going on.

Sergey O. from parallel class in school. I remember I was outside with him and he was normal. Then I guess we went to his apartment for some reason and his mood changed. I felt danger from his behavior and left. He would harbor negativity towards me later. I remembered this in relation to what A. Walker says in his book about VL – when she and Jack were playing Chinese chess and VL got mad at losing. (#error)

John Gielgud: “Of course she was restless and drove herself too hard. Although she seemed so astonishingly resilient, she often suffered ill health and fits of great depression, but she made light of the fact and rarely admitted to it or talked about it to other people. Her courage in the face of personal unhappiness was touching and remarkable.” …

“As she grew older she acquired a new kind of beauty, without any need of artifice, and she seemed to harbour no resentment against the competition of younger beautiful women. She was always enormously interested in everything, people, places, changes of fashion - and she had friends of every different sort and kind in London, in her country homes, in America and Australia.”

VL & MA (if I lived that life) had some issues but generally were made to be good people – angels almost. I’m glad for that since it’s about me, but the truth and objectivity is important. The point is in my current life I am almost an angel like in some attributes, but people don’t understand me and conclude false about me. Skepticism is at play here of course.

Since I write down almost all – small and large – I'll just mention I provided links for possible donations if some people wanted to fund my work (free Youtube videos, free book, etc).

The first and only Pn movie we bought and watched on ps1 was called "Рандеву с незнакомкой / Rendezvous with a stranger" (don't remember the exact name but that was how we referred to it) & kindness of strangers in Streetcar movie which influenced me so much in VL life that I fell into madness and was, apparently, sleeping with strangers.

It's possible there was a blue car in that video; or maybe there was a car but it was the blue dress of the actress…

In 2013 Victoria & Albert Museum acquired the archive of Vivien Leigh.

2013 was a very important year for me. I was 24-25 years then and it was then that I remembered the truth about Natasha and it was then that after several years of not being able to walk long distances I finally went almost to the other side of Moscow in search of answers.

Some thought only a Southerner could play Scarlett in GwtW, and yet British VL proved them wrong. It does kinda relate to reincarnation because it's the soul the matters and not the appearance or physical body's origin. Of course, the actor must resemble the character he/she is playing to some logical degree.

The Vivien Leigh archive video.

10 minutes. Trader Faulkner says that VL had to say 'Stella, Stella, Stella', looking for her sister – she wants her sister - and VL said to him she was saying 'Mother, mother, mother'.

Could be a sync to me in MA life saying 'I love you, mom!' in the final day of my life;

In this life my mother has played an enormous role also as I mentioned elsewhere.

ActorSteve (or something similar) was my nickname on 1st twitter account (cringe). But it's interesting I was an actress and it shows once more how deep inside of me I had a wish to be actor (again, as it turned out).

Korda wanted to sign a 7-year contract by which Selznick could make 2 films per year with Vivien, and London could make 1 film in a year.

2 movies per 7 years give 14 movies total. Plus 7 London Films give 21 total movies. 14 has appeared many times in my life and it's an important number for me. 21 is the number of movies listed on VL page on IMDB.

In "Vivien Leigh Scarlett and Beyond (1990)" documentary (in the second video I've got) there's a brief video of me in VL life water skiing (or whatever the word is for when you have a broad ski). Don't know if it's some type of a sync or not Cukor: "She had this great talent for creating beauty around her, she made these exquisite gardens…"

In my childhood I had some dreams about creating a beautiful garden. I tried it too, but now the evidence of that is gone after my long absence in the village. (#psyche-data)?

After VL and Cukor leave Cole Parker, who had his leg amputated: “Then she turned around and I saw she’d been weeping, her eyes were full with tears.”

Just reminded me of how my eyes got tearful seeing Anton with a red eye after his cross on his neck hit him in the eye. He got recovered fully as far as I know.

Small World Interview

At 6:13 Tynan asks VL why I think I get cast so often as southern belles. And I say: “I can’t imagine. I must have lived there in some incarnation or [can’t make out] or something, you know?”

I found it interesting because there’s evidence now that I (and so VL) could also be Emma Hamilton, but there’s also a chance, if I was living in southern States of US in the 19th century, I could have been someone named Kennedy and then Butler. It’s a small chance and I need to verify it via lucid dreams – if I can – but there is a chance.

It’s also of interest to me that I as VL in that moment was rather serious when saying that possibility of past incarnation – and now I know for a fact reincarnation exists and I even know I was VL in my past life… (#curious) could relate to (#spiritual-knowledge) also.

Part 1. 7:55. I as VL say a star to me is somebody who makes me think I don’t quite understand what they are doing, but I feel sort of magic about it. I say Garbo certainly [unintelligible to me], Bridgit Bardo has it.

I made a note to listen to that part again because in this life I noticed long time ago I tend to follow those streamers and youtubers who have something special about them… or more like I feel on the same level with them. Obviously, some interests must match if you want to follow someone’s work, but sometimes I feel it’s more than that… just was curious if maybe there’s a connection here in who I defined as a star and who I choose to watch now on the Internet.

Part 3 of the interview. Around 1:30. In VL life I said the peaks Orson Wells had reached are worth many mediocre peaks other people reached.

There is a chance such working could indicate an (#error). I’m not sure. In terms of spirituality (Thiaoouba and now reincarnation) I’d say I’ve reached quite a high peak when factually compared to other people for many of whom these things are mainly beliefs. In terms of personal life or work the peaks are none existent (I had, and still have, to allocate my time into studying TP and now I clearly need to study my past lives in order to learn about reincarnation from this grand experience.).

16:00 Apparently, I had a diary about Suzanne (similar how my mom had a diary about me?) and I didn't use 'she', 'her', just 'it'. Obviously, this one reminded me of my syncs with IT. There was a photo in a book on which VL was referred to as 'it' too. Maybe that was the payment for not using proper nouns? (#error)

19:35 – in VL life I felt lonely in the first school

33:00 – it's said that Jill couldn't help but like VL even though I was the reason for the break up of her marriage. This reminded me of how in Michele Avila's life it seemed many people liked me. As a woman who went to the same school as Missy told me, MA was almost tyrant sometimes but people still liked her ('for all wrong reasons') (#curious)

38:33 – Larry couldn't relax when in VL life I was in the manic state. Maybe nothing but reminded me of how I've issues relaxing in this current life.

1:02:33 – It's said VL wanted to be better and better, and was looking for something to help with that. It relates to me but mainly after I found the truth about stuttering (so from 18 years onward). Before that I was going down and down. Still, it could relate to (#spiritual-knowledge) for when I learned the truth one of the immediate thoughts was how could I have made that awful decision to dream my life away back when I was 14?

1:23:00 – In VL life I said what I dreaded and would have found impossible to face would have been to be alone. This is exactly what I've faced now in this life, and I sometimes dread to become completely alone if my mother dies…

Vivien Leigh - A Delicate Balance (2000)

4:08 - I played cello in VL life. The photo on that time mark reminded me of how in my school, maybe in the 1 grade, Sergey and Georgy were playing musical instruments in the class on the first floor (going from the front door right forward and it's the door on the left just before you go down the stairs and then down corridor to café and sports area). One of them, I think Sergey, played cello (виолончель). I've noticed that sometimes we're presented with objects, ideas, names, etc which played some role in our past lives. Same goes for ballet as mentioned elsewhere.
4:11-4:13 - Face pareidolia

Around 33 minutes Elia Kazan says in his opinion VL didn't have great talent but had a great determination.
As far as determination goes I think I have it if I want to achieve something. I learned English even though I had difficulties in life; and same goes for some other things. Determination sure surrounds Thiaoouba related activities in my life. (#curious) 43:45 – 3 months after VL's death the ashes were scatter on the lake at Tickerage Mill. (Sunday, 8 October, 1967 – exactly 4 months after I was born as Michele). My MA dead body was found on October 4. From Kingsbury's book it seems like the funeral took place on October 7 (Monday).

Miller Lide tells a story about meeting VL. In the 4th part he says a funny thing about the 'rubber' which I asked to use to erase markings on paper, but he at first thought 'rubber' as a condom and not an eraser.
Just recently I had to go to store to buy and eraser because I made some errors in my photo album and didn't have anything to erase to pencil with. It also reminds me of how I am sometimes misunderstood in this life.

I can't make out if Irina said whom exactly I said those words…) There was like an evil presence in the room, Irina says. Cecil Tennant died in a car crash on the day of VL's funeral.

This story raises a lot of thoughts. One of them concerns my Michele Avila life, in which I'd say things that could have been prophecies of my death in that life.

After I had the dream saying I was killed by a bear with its paws, I remembered how in my Vivien's life I called my long hands 'my paws'

April 1951 Everywoman article "What Success has Taught Me," Vivien Leigh.

The article's text can be found here: http://vivandlarry.com/articles/what-success-has-taught-me/

VL: “I have always believed that if you want something with all your heart and soul you get it.”

Not gonna lie, I did want to know the reason for my suffering, who I was and what I did to become lonely INCEL. It’s not surprising now that she said those words and I found them.

VL: “The snag in success is that the nearer you get to it the farther away you feel yourself to be. The world may call you successful, but in your heart you know that you never fulfil your own hopes. Which is perhaps all to the good, for complacency is a fatal state, though a very pleasant one, if you can remain in it. I never can.

Whenever I let myself feel thrilled and flattered by the approbation of other people self-criticism rears itself, like a snake, at the back of my mind and destroys the illusion.”

(#spiritual-knowledge)

No surprise that I agree with old self, because that’s the way I pretty much am too. And there were moments when in TPXP group I was called ‘genius’ by some, but I knew it’s not so, even if it can be pleasant to be thought of like that. But I know myself, and I know I’ve yet to learn a lot and then some more.

VL: “I think this is partly due to the fact that I arrived at the top too soon, and too easily, instead of by the hard way, like Larry and so many others. It all happened — literally — overnight; a dream that left me rubbing my eyes and saying: “This just can’t be true” but with the fixed determination to never allow myself to be deceived by it into letting up on my own standards.”

(#spiritual-knowledge)

I’ve written about it before. This makes me think of how relatively easy it was for me to know/see that Thiaoouba Prophecy is a true book and Michele Desmarquet was writing the truth in it.

VL: “So that is the first and most important lesson that success has taught me: to beware of self-satisfaction.

(#spiritual-knowledge)

Following the above note of mine about TP book – there were times, of course, during which I felt very happy that I know the truth. But I was cautious for the feeling not to get to my head. I was cautious to concern myself only with facts and truth.

VL: “Scott Fitzgerald, who is one of my favourite authors, says: “The compensation for very early success is that life becomes a romantic matter.” I have certainly found it so, but perhaps I was biased by an Irish mother, who was blessed with an imagination that could turn ordinary, everyday happenings into an exciting adventure, and make you feel that there was always something wonderful waiting just around the corner. She created a dream world for me, filled with so many imaginary people that, although I am an only child, I never knew the meaning of loneliness."

I found it interesting to note because of the topic of imagination.

VL: "My father and mother loved to travel, so we spent far more time wandering around the Continent than in England. I was sent successively to schools in France, Italy, and Bavaria, and this erratic education was a great help afterwards.

Apart from the fact that I learnt to speak several languages more or less fluently, and had the opportunity of studying diction and the theatre in many countries, I met people of all types and nationalities."

I remember how at one time I was watching a travel program on TV and thought how wonderful it is to travel all over the world and see different people.

VL: "They gave me that flexibility of mind which is so necessary which is so necessary to an artist, and taught me, I hope, understanding. Through knowing them I have always been able to recognize the characters I played, and love them."

(#spiritual-knowledge)

I think that I'm understanding as well, being able to "feel" other people's lives and situations.

VL: "In the summer we generally went to Ireland, or to the English Lakes. It was while we were staying in the Lake District that I met my first love in the theatre — George Robey.

I was already an ardent fan, even to the extent of having seen him in Round in Fifty no less than sixteen times, and when I discovered him seated at a table in the dining-room of our hotel, prosaically putting away a big plate of eggs and bacon, I could not take my eyes off him. In the end my unblinking stare caught the attention of his wife, Blanche Littler, who was sitting by him, and she nudged his arm, looked in my direction, and whispered something. He turned, and favoured me with a broad smile that almost took my breath away, and a moment later — oh, joy of joys — the two of them stopped at our table on their way out of the room! I was so overcome with emotion that I could only murmur: "I adore you.""

Just a possible synchronicity, or maybe just a coincidence. Leigh played Blanche DuBois many times in plays and also in the movie Streetcar for which she won an Oscar.

VL: "I began my training for the stage by studying in Paris under Mlle Antoine of the Comedie Francaise. She was a most inspiring teacher, and I owe a great deal to her care in correcting my diction, and to her encouragement."

When I attended the first acting get-familiar lesson we all had to say something about ourselves in front of all… it was a nightmare for me because I still had some remaining of fear of speech. I was shy and awkward - to laughs of some people - when it was my turn to say my part. I remember how the acting teacher said something about "correcting [my or the] diction". Apparently, it's not the first life I've got this problem, if you want to think of it that way.

VL: "But lives are not so easily planned. What actually happened was that I went down to Devonshire to stay with friends, met a barrister from London, and Vivian Hartley became Mrs. Leigh Holman."

I'd like to note that there was a period I watched many live court cases from US.

VL: "I was under nineteen when I married, and not quite twenty when my daughter was born."

It's of interest to me because the event with Natasha, which later I found a reflection of in Vivien's Waterloo Bridge movie, happened when I was literally under nineteen. I was not quite twenty when I decided to leave my last work and go down my own path of freelancing and self-discovery.

There was a dream about Natasha and 2 children of about 10 years. But it could be 'just' a dream…

Actors Talk about Acting, Lewis Funke, John Erlanger Booth

Lewis Funke, John Erlanger Booth, Actors Talk about Acting. Vivien's Interview.

In VL's life I "came back to England" when I was 5. Was the youngest child in the convent school. Was allowed to take cats to bed. "I've always been mad about cats."

5 years is when I started stammering after father got drunk and beat my mother. There were cases when I was one of youngest in certain groups. My friend was older than me by 1 day and often reminded me of that fact.

"Came back to England" drew my attention, because as far as I know the last time I was in England was in my previous life (Angelo. In my other lives of Mary Jane, Emma, William).

A cat played a key role in my MA life when I met Karen searching for my cat.

VL learned French at an early age.

There was a dream in which the idea was that I already know many French words from English and Russian, and so I could learn it. It was the reason for me to buy French self-teaching book but I've no time to study.

VL: "Actual beauty - beauty of feature is not what matters, it's beauty of spirit and beauty of imagination and beauty of mind."

Lots can be discussed here, but I'd point out Leigh had developed imagination – something which is a good part of me too.

Reminds me of what I said to the courting man in my Hypatia's life too.

Intended to play Scarlett O'Hara from the moment I read the book. "I was laughed to scorn on it."

Had discipline.

Often, I was younger than others. I did prefer older girls when I was in school – for the same reasons Vivien liked older people, which is their wisdom.

Said that acting can not only give pleasure, but can also teach you.

I remember how I wrote, after my initial Thiaoouba experiences, that even though I'd suffered a lot, I still learned many things too and I liked the later.

From what I remember when I was thinking about acting (movies) I also thought that it's a chance to learn many things by being other people.

Now I know that thanks to reincarnation we can literally be "other" people and look at life from variety of perspectives.

Liked dancing, riding, and swimming.

In VL's life I didn't like the telephone. Absolutely hated it.

In this life, when I was in school, I used to be afraid of telephone calls because of my stutter.

As VL I loved walking, and I do love walking in this life too. When my health got better, I've walked in lots of places in Moscow.

In VL's life I tried to learn a sonnet a day when I was ill for long periods of time in that life.

A sonnet is a 14-line poem.

As stated before, in this life I also been ill for long periods of time.

Preparing for the role of Cleopatra, I, Vivien, read Dover Wilson's book, as well as anything I could get hold of on Cleopatra – not knowing then it is me in my past life.

And now I'm reading anything I can get hold of on Vivien Leigh, my old self. Later, when I learned some of my other past lives are also known to history – including Cleo -, I read lots of material I could get hold of on them too.

David Lewin Interviews

Article from The Sun-Herald, October 2, 1960. Page 33.

33 played a role in my life many a time

Michele Avila died on October 1, but at one point the tomb stone wrongly showed it was October 2. It would've been 25 years since the publication of this article – another important date in my life which relates to Natasha (Waterloo Bridge reference)

Then the article is continued on page 72. In Thiaooubians' numerals those two digits are related in terms of the angles.

Says VL seldom took tea. I love drinking tea. It's the only thing I drink now.

Pelmanism. VL says it helped with memory, languages and accents. There were moments when I tried to train my memory and that helped me. But I stopped later.

I had a dream relating to Pelmanism. I noticed that certain items in the room I was in (for the first time ever) were in the wrong place. That dream also had references to Scream movie because there was someone behind the man interviewing me and I stated that fact.

VL says 'actors are shy people as a rule'. I was shy. I mentioned it elsewhere.

The article says VL, after watching Gone with the Wind, sent a telegram to David O. Selznick: "Dear David, I have just seen 'Gone With the Wind.' Congratulations on a wonderful film. Love, Vivien."

"Back came 20 red roses from Selznick – one rose for every year that has passed since Vivien Leigh was first seen as Scarlett O'Hara."

Vivien: "I signed the contract on a Friday the 13th."

It was January when the contract was signed.

20 number again.

Friday the 13th of January 2017 is when I first approached a girl in this life when I was 28. She was red haired Marina, and that event has been full of synchronicities. The other significance is that both events of both dates were turning points in my lives for me.

https://www.timeanddate.com/date/durationresult.html?d1=13&m1=1&y1=1939&d2=13&m2=1&y2=2017

it was 78 years since my signing of that contract in another life

It was 936 months… the numbers, but not in order, which I said to Marina in village lucid dream. Those number have a big meaning in the Universe)

Perhaps nothing but I asked my HS to show me red roses if Scotty Bowers's story about VL was true.

(#curious). This is a top A synchronicity but I've no tag for it VL & LO got married in the middle of filming Lady Hamilton (which took 6 weeks)

VL calls Katharine Hepburn 'Katie'. Just noting it's how I named my 3rd female budgie parrot. (mentioned it elsewhere)

VL had 3 wedding rings (in LO marriage).

Vivien Leigh's Own Story.

VL says she'd prefer a smaller house. Same as me, so (#spiritual-knowledge) was already there.

VL: "In life the important thing to do is to have a job, a profession which can run alongside being in love. When it does everything is wonderful. When it doesn't it is agony."

Then I talk about wanting to have more children. It's funny that when I met Marina I said to her about my realization that I was already 28 and had no children (always thought what that had to do with anything if I first need to find a gf…)

The quote is interesting coz in this life I learn to live without a job (or I simply wouldn't be able to translate and then write my own book, and later attempt to spread the knowledge from Thiaoouba – the most important book in my current life). I've no profession for I was so depressed that I got expelled from university; later I realized I'm interested in many things and didn't know what to study or what to do; then I lost health and found Thiaoouba.

I have no love but the subject was very important to me and I was glad that I got at least to fall in love at first sight with that blonde girl (#psyche-data)?

(#spiritual-knowledge)

VL about wanting to be a great actress: "If I weren't, I would like to write or paint"

I have written a book, now thinking to write another… about my life as VL. Before I found I was VL I thought of writing a fictional book. In my childhood I wanted to learn to write in the village. (#psyche-data)? (03.03.2024 – I wrote poems in my Missy's life; And I did the same in my current life when I was a child)

"I act because I like trying to give pleasure to people"

Interesting because it may be another reason – (#spiritual-knowledge) – that despite of the skepticism and casual hate towards me I still kept on going trying to spread the word about Thiaoouba; it can help people greatly – in a way, it's pleasure related for people's lives would become easier and so more pleasurable.

I also painted in childhood and now I'd like to learn to paint faces for my lucid dream experiments. (mentioned it elsewhere)

VL: "…sometimes the lines I have to say mean so much. It is strange how they do. In 'Duel of Angels,' when I have to talk of separation and a house divided, they have such an intimate personal meaning."

Noting it because I've had many reflections in my life from my movies I did as VL; also plays are reflected in my life. If I was indeed MA (99% I was her at this time) then I had reflections in that life also from VL's movies. It appears this theme was slightly showing in my VL's life already.

VL was at Roehampton Convent school from 6 to 13.

VL: "My school reports used to say 'Must concentrate more' and I can't really add six and four."

(#psyche-data)? Since concentration is still my problem usually.

Then article says VL's figure was trim like a young girl's and her weight stayed around 105 pounds. It's close to how MA weighted (97 pounds according to her mother), being a young girl in her 17.

Then article says VL swam strongly. It was one of her favorite sports. Again I feel something had to have happened during the death of VL and my birth (21 year) for me to be afraid of water in my childhood and still not being able to swim in deep water. (mentioned it elsewhere)

VL loved dancing. (I mentioned elsewhere how I almost danced in a bus)

Then VL says she can't ski or ride a bicycle. I can do both. Also MA had a bicycle which she rode (from Karen's book) but it's not clear how she learned to ride it. In my life there was nothing special about me learning to ride a bicycle – I just sat on it one day and just rode it as if I could always do it (if I was MA perhaps the skill somehow got stored somewhere? But where? Astral body, psyche, or…)

Later VL says she loves water – its tranquility and colors and peace. She said she preferred rivers and lakes.

VL: "I swim between happiness and misery and I cry easily".

Still close to home.

Getting to Know Brando, Quite a Mimic.

VL says she takes 'The Gardener's Book', among others. I like gardening as mentioned elsewhere. (#psyche-data)?

Other books:

Bible (which is interesting, given my Thiaoouba related experiences)

VL: "I am innately religious, but not in the church-going sense. I say my prayers and I'm a Catholic. I like the broad range, which is what the word catholic means. I like a great variety of people and things." (#spiritual-knowledge) could be at play here for I must have known a thing or two about spirituality (I still don't know the main reason Thiaooubians helped me [03.03.2024 – I was Mary Magdalene and my good decisions in that life must have allowed Thiaooubians to help me without going against the Universal Law – they didn't do any errors by helping me]), and I had some knowledge not to be imprisoned by religion also.

Catholic word meaning is "including a wide variety of things; all-embracing". This clearly defines me/VL; my views on many (adequate) religions, each having some truths in them, but also many unfortunate distortions; so we have to have knowledge to be able to weed through the false data in those texts.

VL: "Everyone said I was mad to try it. They are often saying I am mad to try things". About playing Blanche in the play.

Now many people think I'm mad because they don't believe my spiritual experiences can be the truth – I did write how I learned all of that, and they have to do is simply repeat my experiments… but it's so difficult for them for some reason (skepticism which simply doesn't allow a thought of those experiences being real to penetrate their minds) (#reflection-life)

Then I, VL, say how people in London had awful reaction – perhaps because of sexual repression. This has a (#reflection-life) again since Thiaooubians taught us via Michel D. book that s*x is normal and natural – provided there's love & spiritual affinity between two people (of natural opposite s*x imho).

VL on Brando: "He used to say to me 'Why are you so damned polite? Why do you have to say good morning to everyone?' and I'd say because it is a good morning and anyway it is a nice thing to say. So why not?"

(#spiritual-knowledge) as I say Hi even to those who rude to me (perhaps not always but I try to)

Then I talk about manners and hosts.

VL: “I think on the whole I prefer women. They are more loyal and reticent and they don’t gossip as much as men. I hate gossip. I think it is cruel and generally inaccurate and I won’t listen to it.”

(#spiritual-knowledge) in regards to gossip.

(#psyche-data) in regards to preferring women; I feel like it’s easier for me with women than men.

I say about Churchill’s painting (of rosebuds) in front of my bed. I saw them when I’d wake up. Interestingly, I thought about printing screens from VL’s movies in which I have reflections in my life so that I always remember the 1 of reasons why I was living the life of VL.

Possible (#reflection-life) if I do print that. (03.03.2024 – I did print them and have them hanging on the wall near my bed, where I see them each time I wake up)

I’m noticing a pattern. In these articles I often talk about ‘truth’:

‘It is a play [Duel of Angles] about truth’;

‘But Blanche is such a real part, the truth about a woman with everything stripped away.’

Alexander Walker’s book (The Life of VL), page 45: “Sometimes I dread the truth of the lines I say.”

In this life I found truth in Thiaoouba Prophecy book – the most important book of my current life.

In my book Simple Truths of Life the words truth is not only in the title, but everywhere in the book (regarding my experiences of course). The truth is very important to me too of course. In TPXP I was trying to make sure there are no distortions of TP etc.

That’s the Man I Am Going to Marry!

This article is almost identical to the one from Australian newspaper I broke down earlier

The Judge Said: ‘Man and Wife – Bingo!’

This article is almost identical to the one from Australian newspaper I broke down earlier (#spiritual-knowledge) when VL says about not being swept by success of GwtW at 26 or at 19 when Mask of Virtue go V sudden fame. Of course that knowledge had to have come from life experience in another life (reminds me of Emma Hamilton).

Faith: Something Wonderful Will Happen

VL: “If I have a philosophy I suppose it is ‘Let’s get on with it’, or ‘Use all gently’, which was Hamlet’s advice to the players, although I don’t always follow that, or perhaps it is ‘Something wonderful will happen’

VL: “I’m scared the first night of any play, but I get the determination to go on from my mother…”
(I talked elsewhere about this)

VL formed her own company, Vivien Leigh Lrd., to produce plays. First investment was “Roar Like a Dove” and it was an outstanding success.
Pigeons (we could say doves) did play a role in my life when I was depressed.
Other investments:
‘Taste of Honey’
‘Make Me an Offer’
‘The Hostage’

VL’s mistakes according to her:
Film ‘Anna Karenina’
‘The Deep Blue Sea’
Appearing in the farce ‘Look After Lulu’ which was totally embarrassing.

The parts VL learned the most:
Shakespear’s ‘Cleopatra’ &
‘Lady Macbeth’ ‘Streetcar’
Antigone,
The Sleeping Prince,
Skin of Our Teeth (VL’s fav play)

VL said she didn’t like seeing new moon through glass. This reminded me of my silly dream when I asked Thao about werewolves. Maybe it’s not connected in any direct way.

VL: “My horoscope was done for me three months ago and it said ‘You’ll be lonely’ and look how right it turned out to be”
I don’t think horoscopes have any truths in them (based on TP), but… as far as synchronicities go, there could be something – I was not lonely in VL life after all, having met Jack with whom I was till my death. But I am lonely now, so… I can only guess if there’s some connection or it’s just a coincidence.

Then VL says about nervous breakdown in the ‘Elephant Walk’ and how it was over-dramatized. She thought she could continue doing the film after 2-3 weeks.

It actually has (#reflection-life) in my life because of my findings about simple truth of life (starting with stutter) but yet many people don't know/see how simple some things are, they don't yet see the simple reasons for those issues which are taking root in our erroneous decisions (including inaction). I'm very happy to have found that quote from my old self, confirming my current ideas. I actually thought similar thing – about possible over-dramatization.

Then VL says how during total depressions she's like a thing, an amoeba, at the bottom of the sea. Only friends can pull her up. Currently I've no one but myself to pull myself up.

VL: "I do not worry about my looks because beauty is not a thing of age but of spirit."

First I agree.

(I should've written this paragraph about VL saying beauty can be a handicap.) But then I clearly wasn't ready to lose hair and have scars, asymmetries and deformities on my face in this life. That brought me down into deep depression. It's possible that was an (#error) due to lack of certain life experience and (#spiritual-knowledge). I'll note that Thiaooubians, 9th category people, say they prefer having pretty faces rather than unattractive – so there's nothing wrong with that. Perhaps I had to learn my lesson (of course, it's compound life situation; I'm not suffering just for that sentence alone of course)

VL: "I learned not to worry about my hands from a book by Ellen Terry"

VL: "I read a book called 'The Martyrdom of Man'".

VL underlined a passage: "And the artists shall inherit the earth and the world will be as a garden"

It actually reminds me of what Michel D. saw on Thiaoouba (garden), and my thoughts of how people are like actors (artists) playing different roles in different lives. (#curious)

In Dark Star there are several mentions that certain things written in other books were wrong. (I started writing here after 287th page)

P 287 says how VL never met with LO and Joan Plowright (all 3 of them) but some other books do. Joan says that never happened.

Numerology

Maybe just an interesting coincidence: If I add the year of death of Michele Avila to her age when she died then I get:

1985 + 17 = 2002. I was 14 years old and it was the year in which I made a huge mistake of not approaching the girl I fell in love with at first sight. I started actively use my imagination to squelch the emotional pain and I only started recover when I was 28.

Then, if we add the year of death of Vivien Leigh with her age at death then we get:

1967 + 53 = 2020. That year was very important for me too. I published Russian translation of Thiaoouba Prophecy; I wrote my own book; and I just was able to meet a lot of people that year.

(Maybe nothing, but the age of VL in reverse – 35 (also the year I found my past life of VL) + 1967 = 2002)

Also I just noticed that both numbers have ZOZO theme (20s being present in it). This number has played several times very big role in my life also… so now I'm not so sure anymore if it's 'just a coincidence' 2020 and 2002 share the same digits only a bit rearranged.

I might add that 1912 + 25 (year Butler on Titanic died and his age) gives 1937, the year in which I in VL life slept with Larry almost in front of his wife Jill, while we were doing Hamlet in Elsinore; that may connect to why I had to be drowned in a creak. Just noting it in case it'll turn out I was that person also…

Michele Avila was born on February 8 1968. Assuming the pregnancy lasted 8 months, the pregnancy happened in the first days of June. I think around this time, but in the future, I met Natasha. Movie reflection with Natasha is what made me finally realize I was Vivien Leigh; also black and white photo of MA reminded me of Natasha's looks.

Vivien Leigh was born on November 5, 1913. Subtracting 9 month gives us first days of February. The days Michele Avila was born.

Emma Hamilton was born on April 26, 1765. Subtracting 9 month gives us the very last days of July. The days I (Evgeny Meshkov) was born.

Subtracting 9 months from my bd on July 7, 1988 gives 30 October. So far that date means nothing. But it should be noted it is very close to November 5, the day of my bd in VL life.

Vivien plays prostitute (sometimes literal) type of girls in several movies. I went to 3 such women 4 times.

Emma Hamilton (with whom Leigh has certain similarities, as well as me) was called to be "penitent prostitute and kept-girl of the minor aristocracy". (GWtW takes place in aristocratic south – it was said in Small World interview)

For what it may be worth - 17 and 53 (age of MA & VL) both have digital root of 8.

She was awarded a Star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame at 6773 Hollywood Boulevard in Hollywood, California on February 8, 1960.

of interest is that Michele Avila was born on February 8, 1968 – exactly 8 years after; just a note – 8 has appeared a lot in my cync experience https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/104559465/herbert-leigh-holman

I'd later find that Leigh Holman died on February 8, 1982. He was 81 years old. It was 14 years after Michele was born, just noting.

He was born on November 3, 1900 (2 days before VL's bd) and so he was 13 years older than VL.

This video shows the photos from VL childhood

1:44 VL Is 8th from the left.

5:52 Maybe nothing but it looks like there's a figure to the right of me (reflection or something?) and it looks like someone wearing a fedora. Reminded me of Freddy Krueger and my synchronicities with A Nightmare on Elm Street movie.

Since my birth on 30th July 1988 and Olivier's death on 11 July 1989, 11 months and 11 days had passed (346 days total). He died 3 days after the day VL died (7 or 8 July) but in another year of course – 22 years after my VL death.

2, 4, 13, 17 are the floors of buildings in which live or lived my relatives, and where I used to spend time when I was a child.

Movies Connections

Curious if some of the characters Vivien played influences her and her future lives somehow. After all, I do have syncs with It and Nightmare, so…

Waterloo Bridge – her choosing to become prostitute. Natasha. Michele Avila's appearance reminded me of how Natasha looked; not exactly similar but that's who I remembered. Also there was that lucid dream with a man having features somewhat similar to Anna's son – and then there was that leak in the dream which also occurred irl with that same Anna. Maybe there is something…

As I suspected – all of our lives are known already – so if Michele (an I was her) looked similar to Natasha who would in another life be a part of the reflection of my favorite Waterloo Bridge (as VL) then I'm not surprised at all.

Roy sends a note to Myra to join him after the performance. The tyrannical Madame Olga, the mistress of the ballet troupe, gets a hold of the letter and forbids Myra from having any relationship with Roy. They meet regardless. Roy proposes marriage, but due to wartime circumstances they can't marry right away. He has to go to front, but assures Myra that his family will take care of her until he's back. Madame Olga learns of Myra's defiance and fires her, and also dismisses from the troupe Kitty who scolded Olga for spoiling Myra's happiness.

Natasha's boss asked her to have s*x with him and fired her when she refused. She couldn't find a job an chose to join her friend in the brothel… I can see certain subtle similarities here. Both Myra and Natasha made a noble choice – one went to say goodbye to Roy, going to war; another refused to have s*x (now, sadly, I don't know the exact reason behind Natasha's choice, it's possible she didn't like him and, perhaps, would've agreed to have it with a boss who looked differently. I hate this thought but I have to at least consider it; it's healthy; means I learned something from believing in good in people and then getting scammed, lied to, and even killed [in MA life])

Also, I realized I was falling in love with Natasha (btw, maybe it's not her real name) during the same day I saw her. I realized upon second viewing of Waterloo Bridge that Myra and Roy fell for one another in one day also. Now, this could be another reflection I've got with this movie I did in my VL life 18 minute. Kitty runs out and says to Roy that Myra will meet him. Before that Roy read a letter, which Myra was made to write, and he was about to leave. It reminded me how when I came to see Natasha for the 2-nd time, having desire to help her maybe, but Natasha was nowhere to be seen, and eventually I was about to leave when that blonde girl ran in (she may be Natasha's friend) and then she went out to talk to Natasha who after that came in. This does look like it could be another reflection with this old movie of mine.

That Hamilton Woman – the dead face

The Skin of our Teeth – Her asking the question about improving the world

The Deep Blue Sea – She tried to overdose and so did my mom 2 times at least 1961 The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone – The scene with cut throat of blonde character that Vivien Leigh played in the movie.

1935 Look up and Laugh – the stammering guy who plays VL's bf. Dog theme 1937 Storm in a Teacup – Dog theme again is clearly seen and it affects V's character who's the daughter of the laughed at politician.

1938 Sidewalk of London – Possible reflection in V's char being a pickpocket, thief, and me getting that laptop and scammers situation.

Then a reflection in how V's char treats the man who wanted to marry her. She made a note of the way his face looks. I've got a scar and asymmetries.

1940 21 Days Together – the accused innocent man has heart attack; I've problems with heart.

Then he's believed to be the murderer but he's innocent. I'm not believed to by many, even though I can give some tiny proof (telekinesis)

Ship of Fools – In my cyncs video I talked about it; how in Thiaoouba there's a talk about boat; and I made some other points (check later)

Caesar and Cleopatra – V laughs at Caesar's bald head. There's also a hint on prediction of death of Vivien and Michele.

I thought very seriously about sude 3 times.

1 – I saw a dot appear on my palm's life line and I decided to live – the dot was gone.

2 – Stammer. Before going to 9th floor's window I decided to sleep and had a thought in the morning to search in Yandex browser, finding the true reason for stuttering.

3 – Auras. I wanted to see if Auras are real and so there's something more to live for

4 – I consider it more on the whiny side; when I wrapped a plastic bag around my head and then my body as if by itself cut it open using my fingers

So, there are 3 movies in which the character I played committed sude:

1940 (1937) Waterloo Bridge.

1948 Anna Karenina

1955 The Deep Blue Sea is the movie in which my heroine survives but she did attempt to commit sude, and we actually see it (in first 3 movies it's only implied and off screen…)

1961 The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone
(numerology: maybe it's nothing, a coincidence:
8 = 1948 – 1940
7 = 1955 – 1948
6 = 1961 – 1955)

1951 A Streetcar Named Desire – Broken bottle reflects Karen threatening Michele 10 days before they killed her.

Blanche advises Stella to essentially break up with Stanley. Michele advised Karen to break up with Randy.

From TP I know what Thao taught about journalists and how important it was for them to study psychology; not to make heroes out of criminals. Of course, she also mentioned popular actors in the violent movies.

Is the same thing applicable here? Well, I think it's obvious yes.

In fact, I remember how I myself was influenced by movies in a strange way when I was as if mimicking some of the characters (for due to stammer I had little experience talking and never fully found my own self in this body – the way I want to be and act). So people can be influenced by movies; In school too there were bullies who would put their arms around necks of those they bullied as if trying to strangle them just like the 'heroes'? (now I don't know if they're heroes or what…) did in the movies – an influence.

So special care should be taken when making movies and stage plays so as not to influence the audiences in negative way. So that all negative actions in the movie/play are suffered for by characters in that movie/play, showing that the action is wrong – otherwise the actors, directors, screenwriters etc will probably suffer for that mistake themselves, as I did in my life for certain little actions I did in my movies when I was Vivien Leigh.

I'm also noting here that in plays and also movies there were touched interesting topics regarding the workings of society. I feel like this is where some of my spiritual knowledge could have come from, and this could also explain why I realized so many truths about life while living in my current physical body.

Things are Looking up (1935)

Maybe nothing, but: I was watching tennis on the day of my VL death in 1967. Tennis was in my first ever movie. 32 years had passed between those two dates. It was the age I died in my Alex's life.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has a lion in its logo. MGN sometimes written on my Vivien's photos.

3:50- Court proceeding again. I was one of the Jurors.
In about 2020 there came a letter to me in mail asking me if I wanted to be a juror - or at least apply to be in the jury.

18:-- geometry problem.
In 3d and programming projects that I worked on I often had to deal with geometric problems. The parallel universe business I might have been involved with in one or some of my first lives might be in synchronistic connection here also.

20:-- Lions and elephants are mentioned.

34:45 Cicely Fytte is accepted to play at Wimbledon.
There are several syncs with tennis and Wimbledon. Was my 1-st movie; died shortly after watching a Wimbledon match.

Gentleman's Agreement (1935)

Movie is lost, but a bit about the story can be found here:
https://vivien-leigh.info/movies/gentlemans_agreement/
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gentlemen%27s_Agreement_(film)

Picturegoer, 9 October 1935, on "Gentlemen's Agreement": "Aimless and crudely planned story of a down-and-out and a spendthrift who change places, the former being suspected of business acumen in consequence and the latter finding romance with an out-of-work typist. The pace is very slow, and it is all so obvious and artificial that it fails to entertain very successfully."
From the book Dark Star: "Vivien in a flatly written part as an unemployed typist."
My mother worked as a typist. I have an old photo of her working at a typewriter.

In the film there are 2 men who trade places: The rich one gets poor and discovers the joy of the simple life.
This reminds me of the plot of the book I wanted to write when a rich girls is born into a poor girl's body. Then it's my understanding that we reincarnate to, and it's one of reasons, feel what's it like to live a different life; to learn and learn.

Look up and Laugh (1935)

(#reflection)
Just started watching and wanted to note there's a stammering man in the movie. And his stammer is similar to what I had. He is the bf of Vivien's character; but he says he broke it off because of… dogs… (меня в детстве один парень, старший меня на 2 года, называл псом, псяркой, тяфой, тяфалкой и схожими словами из-за того, что казалось со стороны словно я лаю, видимо…). He lost $ on them; he doesn't like them.

Vivien's introduction suggests she likes him. So far so good…

At 25-th minute she says she likes him tongue tied and something else. Says she's gonna marry him. Then she leaves on her father saying she's going to get a job in the market. So far so good again.

From one way of looking at that sentence, I don't see any problems with it – she likes him the way he is. Clearly nothing bad about that; she was able to see something in him past his speech problem.

There could be another interpretation – the unforeseen message (similarly how journalists don't realize they help to create new mass shooters by making heroes out of the old ones, talking about their crimes for many days, or weeks sometimes) - which is as someone who's stammering he doesn't have to seek the reason for speech impairment if people like him like that. If it's the case then I can see how this scene resulted in me having stutter. But it's so subtle… if true.

(to be fair in school there were moments when I talked perfectly. But my imagination, my worries, and the village nickname made me fear that I'd be speaking with stupors. I mean that the reason I started stammering clearly comes from some even in one of my past lives; and maybe it's several events (see below – about Emma Hamilton). But later I could potentially live without stutters if I decided to live my life in a different way… I thought I'd never find a girl I wanted if I stuttered… it's true only for those who have little spiritual knowledge – but I knew nothing about that back then.)

At 26:30 they, but not Vivien, mimic the stammering guy – "so-so-so will he!" Vivien's reaction isn't shown.

(So far I see little reason why the guy has to be stammering. It's not a story about him learning to live with his speech problems. In can be so to show that Vivien's character is really good (so far it's how she looks), but her walking out on her father to work in the market, as well as tell the workers there her father's plant, is enough to show her goodness.)

Vivien is part of the movie.

So far I see a highly direct 'top A' synchronicity. What are the chances I was called dog for stammering, and the stammering man, who played Vivien's bf, had some dog problem?

If I see nothing in the movie about stammer maybe there was something said off screen… but why would I still suffer so much if the impact wasn't high?

Pryse Lockhart Gordon, Personal Memoirs, 1830, II, p 384: "1798 Painting by Guy Head. Emma threw a palette at the artist as he tried to explain with his stammer that her foot was too large for a sandal and he was therefore giving it a slipper."

Only applies if Vivien (and I) was Emma Hamilton…

My feet have been said to be large, btw. I usually buy 44-45 size – almost the largest.

The main theme in the movie is essentially competition due to money. Something I talked about in Manifesto after realizing certain truths about life.

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0044081/locations/?ref_=tt_dt_loc

Bradford, West Yorkshire, England, UK was 1 of the filming locations for Look up and Laugh, and New Orleans, Louisiana, USA was 1 of filming locations for Streetcar.

I have to mention a woman whom I know as Brook Bradford; born in New Orleans, Louisiana, United States. She's one of several such models whom I remembered well. And in some images of her she appeared to me to look reminiscent of Yana from Gorki Park.

Also, Brook means a small stream, a creek.

https://www.behindthename.com/name/marjorie

The name of the character I played related to Margarita, etc. People with such names played their roles in my lives.

Billy Nelson as Alf Chirk. Reminded me of Nelson from my Emma's life.

77 pounds owed to the lender by Tommy' character. A possible synchronicity with Constellation of Pisces, 77 Piscium Binary System.

24:35 "I like people who are pitiful." I'd rather I didn't have to mention this, but I must report the truth, and so I'll say that some people may see me like that. Somehow, I totally missed this phrase during my previous viewings of the movie. (#reflection-life)

Fire over England (1937)

https://www.quora.com/Did-Vivien-Leigh-sing-by-herself-in-Fire-over-England

Vivien Leigh did not sing herself in this movie. Her singing voice was dubbed by Olive Gilbert, a professional singer.

Curiously, I've a book by Elizabeth Gilbert – Eat Pray Love.

Michael is the name of V's character's lover.

3:16 a pearl from the Queens dress was lost. My character is searching for it. Cleopatra pearl possible connection. Queen owns 3000 dresses but wanna wear the one with the pearls.

29:-- wrong shoe, and wrong foot when putting on a shoe. Then the queen slaps Cynthia. Reminded me of that shoe related episode in my Emma Hamilton's life.

42:-- will you take my hand? I was asked by 1 elderly woman to help her cross the Bol'shaya Cherkizovskaya Street next to Khalturinskaya. I helped her.

There was another woman whom I helped carry bags, if my memory serves me, to the playground near my house.

Anton and I were asked once by an old woman to help her to the hospital and we did so 43:-- to pay for everyone's mistakes. The fact we pay for our own mistakes only often had to be stated by me in this life.

44 minutes. She says everyone has the right to be happy. True, but – same old song – if mistakes are made, suffering will follow.

47:40 this scene reminded me of one of my favorite scenes in a video game that I never played, but watched a playthrough – Thief (the original). It was the scene with Viktoria, Garrett and Constantine.

47:20 seek merciful corner to cry in. Don't remember about crying, but I did spen some time playing in the corner when I was a child. I do live in a corner of my apartment.

56:00 Henry the VIII song Green Growth the Holly reminded me of how Vika Karten, who won Oscar for playing Henry VIII in her past life of Charles L., likes color green. But green color is also used by her friend Orkpod. I wonder again if one of them was Henry VIII in their past life.

Dark Journey (1937)

29.03.2024 – In Vivien's life I played Madeleine Goddard in this film. The name Madeleine is the French form of Magdalene – Mary Magdalene whom I was in my other past life. So, in a way, I played myself again by playing a character whose name exists because of my past incarnation as Mary of Magdala.

https://www.behindthename.com/name/madeleine
I will note I noticed that on 28.03.2024 shortly after I watched 12 Monkeys with Bruce Willis and Madeleine Stowe.

Vivien was about 24 years here. In my 24 I removed the block about Natasha.

5:33 Order to remove the life belts.
Mario titanic

Anatole is one of the characters played by Eliot Makeham.
Relative of the same name.

At 6:15 she's in her room number 25.

6:45 the business was going on for 3 years.

10:52 encoded information.
I had ideas about ways to hide information in day-to-day objects and or media.

11:30 Naval Blue. I had my chakra spin long time ago when I laid down in deep blue colored (which can be a naval blue shade) bedsheets. I liked that type of color and that's why I bought that particular bedsheet set.

17:50 has been with them for 3 years

Baron Karl Von Marwitz. William life

Then the film takes place in Stockholm, Sweden – the country of Ela. I had a dream about him and Happy Hobbit the night I had the dream with Vivien saying I was her.

37:33 she says 13 evening since. (or 30? Probably thirteen).
37:40 he says discovered the secrets of my dark soul.

46:18 I have a feather in my fat. In childhood I sometimes picked up feathers; I liked how they felt to the touch.

1:06:45 she's escorted into the room #12.

50:28 Mission to find out who's the head of section 8. I say, isn't it Doctor Miller?

57:57 I point at the spot near Smolensk in Russia.

3s were mentioned many times in this movie.

As Vivien I was 23 when Dark Journey 1937 came out (and maybe I was during some of it filming). There are many scenes taking place on a ship; and in the beginning I put on a life vest – this is what made me wonder if I had one as 23-year-old Angelo (my body was not found, so maybe I did not or something happened to it during the sinking of the Titanic).

Storm in a Teacup (1937)

Her char's name is Victoria. One of my fav names. It's also the name of Thief game char; and in that game there's a scene showing shadows – just like in Fire over England (but Vivien isn't in that scene)

At 3 minutes she sits on a little girl's lollipop, which was on the bench, that many people had been sitting on. Then the girl eats it… nobody says it's dirty… with germs… it's disgusting.

Then she tries to tidy her skirt.

Shame to say, but in school I had 2? Moments when diarrhea got the better of me…

Note: I see myself in Vivien if I forget she's Vivien Leigh, the famous actress – it's hard to explain. E.g. if I see a person, with no psychological barriers or prejudices, then I can see myself and it's natural.

She's playing a politician's daughter. I'm yet to watch full movie, but politicians do play a role in my life (Manifesto, Thiaoouba's talk on them, how politicians often (trying to be polite here) screw over life for people, etc)

He says at 9:20 if I pull this off the time may come when I shall be the lesson to by the whole world. Well, remembering my Thiaoouba experiences, understandings from the book and my life, and finally discovering one of my past lives – all of this has a potential to be a lesson for the whole world…

Her father is a typical politician.

There's a woman whose dog is gonna be put down. Vivien's protecting her; trying to pay for her (I think; hard to make out words).

It's the second movie I notice a dog in V's movies.

31 minutes. V's character is defending her father, actually.

After she says something about the idi*tic business about that dog.

He says oppression is never small, parrying V saying the matter's so small.

She replies that he'll lose job etc all because he got sentimental about the silly old woman and her mongrel dog.

This escalated quickly. She was a nice girl and now she's not. Even though she should know it's important…

He says that too; I can't make out V's answer.

NOTE: Stories told in movies, books, etc require to have characters of different values to show the point. I don't think there's a problem.

36:55 it's Scotland. He wears skirt. The skirt (Shean Connery) was one of the main influences on me realizing the truths about clothes and psychology associated with it.

37:40 someone is making a sound of howling dog.
38:05 all public barks like dogs.
Okay, this is a clear synchronicity. But again it's not clear if this is connected to me stammering and having to deal with being called "пёс".
39:30 V's char going away with her father.
41:37 still barking
46:50 she says to dad she told him to be careful; and she thinks the truthful journalist is quite right.
50:15 She asks him to make withdraw if her father does good to the woman with dog. I think it's a mistake to withdraw because it's like rewriting the past. The politician made a mistake and has to live with it; if he's learned his lesson and it shows then people will change their minds about him as a person.
At that time mark she's also with the truthful journalist.
1:00:35 she says she never wanna see the journalist again. It's after the dogs overrun the building.
At about 1:07:00+ the movie takes place in a courtroom. I've noticed it's sometimes present in V's movies.

As expected, the father realized his error and admitted it. V gets married to the journalist. Happy ending.

Verdict: there's a new synchronicity with dogs. There's even a joke at some organization with all Fs in the words (FFF…) and it sounds like stammering when people pronounce it.
But again, I can't see a direct reason for why I had to stammer and deal with being called "dog" in Russian for my speech. Maybe it's compound: the result of many mistakes leading to those events in my life…

(After finding many of my past lives I rewatched the movie)

7:-- Jessie who didn't approve. Reminded me of Jessie Walsh and other syncs relating to that name.

William Gow. Elizabeth. I had these names in my past lives.

48:07 The look on my Vivien face reminded of a similar Maelle look right away. It's another subtle, yet grand link between my lives. I've often felt like my future self, Maelle (that psychic-like connection when I know what I felt in my past life, only here it's related to the character and/or my future life – it's all still very knew to me and I don't know how best to describe this experience of mine), and it's elevating to see a connection with that future life in one of my past lives.

1:01:36 "Don't touch me." Reminded me of my Mary Magdalene's life, and in my current life I've heard the similar words (in Russian) also.

A Yank at Oxford (1938)

Playing Elsa Craddock. Wasn't sure if I should mention this one, it's just hat Elsa from Frozen appeared here and there in my life.

The title and the fact that Yankees play a role in GwtW, I remembered how in the screenplay I wrote (Telephone Flirt) there was Yankee stadium present at one scene.

Vivien is flirting in this movie too. That word is mentioned.

There's 440 written at 2:15. Just made me remember 440 that were shown on the water counter.

32:50 Magdalen Tower is being shown.

35:15 Just found it funny how the main character, Lee, says he's reading Gone with the Wind – only half through – and he's playing alongside future Scarlett O'Hara.

36:10 Lee asks his interlocutor what's his opinion of Cleopatra. It's the second mention of me in one of my past lives.

At 37 Lee drives his bicycle on the right side, which is 'wrong' side. It funny how today there was that strange incident with me walking on the left side; and then that probably prophetic dream I had about two people (October 1, 2023).

39:-- Elsa asks Lee to help with a flat bicycle tire.

I've had several bicycles in my childhood and I had to fix flat tires on many occasions.

39:55. Elsa's husband and herself keep a book shop.

Noting this due to the importance of books in my current life.

40:05 Elsa's husband is much older than she is.

Possible played myself situation, as this reminds me of my past life of Emma Hamilton when William was much older than me. Also today, May 24, 2026, in a dream I saw myself as Vivien and I thought of my Emma's past life – could have some connection to this parallel I saw.

40:50 Elsa says her husband is really clever and sometimes sits and reads all night long. Lee jokes he thinks the guy is crazy. Elsa laughs.

I haven't sat all night long reading books, but I see some parallels to me.

59:40 "Nut Brown" written on a sign above.

Maybe it's nothing, but I'll note that sometimes I'd jokingly refer to dogs “Doggy Brown” and to birds (pigeons mostly) “Pierre Nuttych” (Пер-натыч).

1:00:-- I wonder if telling Paul to go for Lee in the fight had something to do with real fight in my Missy’s life.

1:13:10 River Isis (the traditional name for the upper reaches of the River Thames as it flows through Oxford in England).

This is yet another (3rd) mention, or reference at least, of me in my past life in this film!

1:21:54 – I stand near the sign which reads “THE ‘ISIS’”. It’s on the door of the book shop.

It also says “TWINS BORN IN O.U.D.S.”. I’ll just note I was born in Isis’ life in a binary start system, as the answers have shown. Many binary star systems act as cosmic twins.

“THREEPENCE” is another word on the sign.

1:34:07 Simple truth.

Here Vivien’s got a much older husband. As in her life at the time of filming that movie. And she’s flirting with Lee, so…

Later she’s going to London with a guy; asks her husband to make her go, and apparently she’s done that before with someone else.

Her husband is bald. She’s running her finger down his head.

Sidewalks of London (1938)

Cinematographer is Jules Kruger. Close enough to Krueger.

Libby (Liberty) is V’s character name. Nothing of importance, but I remembered one pretty P model from Russia with similar name.

Libby is short for Liberty. Freedom.

I will note here for now that VL was restrained and made to go through shock therapy. My freedom was always very important to me, and it was 1 of reasons I tried to calm down my feelings during the difficult time so as not to do anything irreparable. Could be (#psyche-data) related.

She’s trying to steal a coin from the hat of the performer. Gives him a slap (probably missed in reality)

There’s a dog. Nothing special so far.

13:-- Dancing. Before Libby said she’s a dancer.

Based on my HS answers, maybe I was a dancer in my 8-th life.

16:58 I'll note the half circle window. Maybe it's nothing, but there's a building at Krasnobogatyrskaya Ulitsa, 89, стр.1, Moscow, and in my childhood I was curious about its circled windows. It's rare to see such windows.

21:00 Black and white pussy (cat) looks very similar to the black and white cat which got under car and survived (this summer of 2025). That b&w cat was running with a grey cat who was run over by the car, and I tried resurrecting that grey cat but nothing happened. I often see the b&w cat being alone.

22:17 Charles opens up an old (now) sewing machine. Just recently (today is June 13, 2026) I made a note about my grandmother's old sewing machine which I still have in my dad's apartment. I kept it for memories sake.

Libby says she never saw a man sewing. In my childhood I sew at my grandmother's (nothing to write home about), and I've had to sew some other things later on in life.

(#reflection) ?

23:55 something about not fooling yet. Okay, for now it's nothing, but I just remembered my moments when I was fooled by charlatans into given money. The thing is that was mistake made in my life - I should've known what world I live in. But then that moment with laptop was different; I thought there was something strange about the 1st company; so I hang up the phone. Then events led me to finally give the laptop to discover later I was duped.

26:11 she throws earthware(?) into the door. Happed to me too in my life. Just a note.

30:21 The knock… I feel like I heard someone knocking just like that in my life.

30:53 Libby writes 40, but Charles is 39. Then Libby tells him she went through his papers and found his birth certificate.

Was difficult for me not to remember I died at that age in Cleo's life, but I also remembered how I wonted to help Natasha by having her live at my place until she'd found work and her own place. It was later that I realized my and mother's important documents are in our apartment. I don't know Natasha well and I don't want to say anything bad about her; just saying it's the fact that it can be dangerous to have someone you barely know be able to go through your personal documents.

31:58 Charles imitates a nightingale by whistling.

Uncle Vitya in village would whistle imitating birds. Was a nightingale one of them – I can't recall for sure now – but when I listened to a nightingale bird sing, I felt that Vitya's whistling was similar to the bird's song.

35:30 she kinda plays guitar. Father took his guitar which was in mother's apartment, and I never learnt to play.

37:45 Libby gives an interview.

There were moments when I could have given interviews but I requested that the interviewer asks me all the question first and I record them on video - so that if I stammer, I can re-record my answer. Don't want people to see and hear me like this. No one agreed and it's not a big loss. I said almost all I wanted to say in my videos.

39:07 She takes the flute. I had one in village as a child. It was a toy more than an instrument. I remember how I made a mistake of 'singing' into Dick's (dog) ear; he was roaring angry, and I learnt my lesson.

41:17 Lady Selena. Could relate to Cleo's life.

"Kodaks". Mother had several Kodak photo cameras. And I had a few dreams taking place near the building where their store used to be.

52:14, 18 "What's up?" WhatsApp is the app many people know about and use daily. I'm not exception. I wouldn't have paid attention to this line if I wasn't scammed on WhatsApp (my own fault, of course (although if the app didn't allow messages to be deleted for all parties, I'd have the evidence to go to police with)) and my character Libby stole money from Charles and that cigarette case from Harley in the film. The app was of help many times also.

52:47, 44:37 I'm sitting here about the same way I do in my past life of Missy (https://youtu.be/JPHnF3rowqs?si=WLnRzlIjLyUhGPjv&t=187 3:07) and I did sit like that in my life too – many guys sit like that. But then many women wearing trousers sit like that also. It's of interest to me to note how I behaved in my past life, how I moved, etc. I do find similarities.

(#reflection)

55:27 after Charles reveals he wants to marry Libby she says if he's out of his mind. Then she says something you're better looking {} frying pan.

There was some bump on my nose all my life; it didn't bother me though coz it was natural, so to say, part of me.

Then I had bitten my lip and got a scar – that bothered me a lot and was a source of depressions and tears for lost beauty. I could suffer for mistake of not getting rid of the habit to bit my lip. So it could be unrelated.

Due to my daydreaming habit sometimes my facial muscles get tense (but this is suffering for my mistakes to continue daydream – to be 100% clear here). Once a girl in Gorki park was repulsed by my appearance. Again, it's unrelated.

Also I remember how in school the ОБЖ teacher (who used to teach music too; forgot his name) noted once to the whole class how I was all asymmetric. Now, that is true and it is something I don't like – I suffer. So this could be the suffering for that line in the movie

Needs to be remembered that poor psyche can influence the appearance of physical body (but how exactly?). Vivien had problems. Michele was reportedly ok, but then there's that comment about her bullying some people…

57:29 Beauty and the Beast. I think mother gifted me this film on VHS. Later I re-watched it in English too, of course, and I love this movie.

1:10:41 I sometimes didn't answer the land phone too (many scammers call you in Russia now; when stuttering was the big issue answering the phone was the last thing I wanted to do being terrified of having to talk and being unable to say a single word because of stammer).

1:13:05 chairs on top of the table reminded me of the scene I saw in my dream on December 18, 2025. I was left alone in the room. There might be a parallel to S.Ch.'s motives.

1:17:-- making a statement about the frying pan face. She's saying she didn't think it. It appears she said that not because of his DNA look, but of him not taking care of himself.

1:05:20 noticed the door number is 3

1:12:20 around that mark Harley says he won't marry Libby for he doesn't want to be another Charles.

1:13:-- She's told the truth about her nasty choices to leave friends behind.

Verdict: movies ended on a good note, I think. The face comment was resolved by her saying she was referring to another thing, to him not taking care of himself… I'd need to think more about that scene.

Gone with the Wind (1939)

Problems?

6:30 – a description appears and perhaps it can be said that there is some glamourization of slavery. The text could have been done differently to address that. ("…of Master and of Slave" line got my attention here).

1:58:07 – Same. "grace and plenty" were built partially on slavery.

Gone with the Wind – Her returning to Tara. Coming of age.

"If I have to lie, cheat or kill as God as my witness I shall never be hungry again!"

Provided I was Michele Avila - This could be a link to why Michele was lied about, cheated and killed. This could be the error and following suffering.

From my mother's diary when I was little.

Then mother writes about my mischievousness. She writes I'd demand something, cry and wince, while looking with one eye – what is the reaction like. This reminded me so much of Scarlett O'Hara at 2:24:00 into the movie! Of course, it also reminded me of how it was said that during the production of 'A Yank at Oxford' my antics were seemingly paying dividends.

00:10:45 - "Melanie Hamilton. She's a pale-faced mealy-mouthed ninny, and I hate her." - Scarlett.

Mealy is pale. Had that policeman say I was pale.

Ninny is a foolish weak person. Written about it in my book Simple Truths of Life.

00:12:07 – Scarlett's father calls her 'Missy'. Michele Avila used to be called the same. Missie is how David Niven called VL in his book.

00:15:00 – Praying.

As Evdokia A.D. I was forced to pray at a monastery. So, I see reflections here and playing myself again.

00:15:30 – now I know we must suffer for our sins/errors, and that's the 'remission'.

00:14:44 – Scarlett pulling on Suellen's hair.

Reminded of the hair situation in Missy's life just before death.

00:17:25 don't eat too fast. Lest it all come back again. Unfortunately had 2 moments in this life when I did eat way too much food - liquid after meal - and it did come back again...

00:31:00 slap in the face. Did the same to Sergey who kept bothering me. He's 2 years older than me and it was obvious when we're were little. Besides I'm not hostile and don't like violence Never hit anyone in the face.

00:32:00 passion for living

00:35:40 – 14 June 1861 is the date of the letter informing Scarlett her husband is dead.

00:38:08 – "MONSTER BAZAAR". Probably nothing but made me think of Freddy Krueger and IT monsters. I've got syncs with them after all and there must be a reason for that experience…

00:39:-- Scarlett isn't in the mood to mourn. After the reflections with other V's movies maybe it's an error too that she's not in gloomy mood… but then I remember how in Mu people were joyous when heard that King had died for they knew his soul would proceed further down the path (they say it's rejoined the Spirit). So I'm on the fence now here… (the thing is Scarlett doesn't know about reincarnation. She's not mourning for other reason – this is important)

But what the scene made me think of is how I often cried after my father died… I wasn't prepared for that (even though knew about souls, reincarnation, etc) for I wasn't expecting that.

00:44:55 with that courage you can do without a reputation

00:48:-- Guess I'm in need of kisses to. But it's due to off screen behavior mostly in my life as Vivien. (#reflection) ?

00:56:29 – Scarlett: "Oh you mustn't say that! It's bad luck. Say a prayer, quickly."

00:56:38 – V says say the prayer quick! When Ashley "if I were killed". Same as with previous prayer for remission… HS' can help us though, but if the error is done we must pay for it.

01:04:30 amputation. Nelson had no arm. I think Scarlett made error to walk out on the responsibilities she agreed to.

In the next shit we see people taking their possessions with them - harp and a parrot.

1:06:-- here I'll need to check historic records. For now, it doesn't appear black people were fighting against Yankees.

1:10:28 – could be an error. Thinking of it, Vivien did have a miscarriage…

1:12:10 – poor Scarlett. A village friend called me "poor Zhenay" (бедный Женя). I believe he did that after I collapsed into my daydreams and it was shown in my facial expressions – and no one said anything to me so that I knew I made a mistake and, possibly, changed myself. They chose to gossip for their own amusement instead of helping me.

Maybe it's no sync.

1:13:53 Scarlett washes Melanie's arms and face. It reminded me of how they say Mary Magdalene washed Jesus' feet.

1:14:-- this scene reminded me of an episode in my life when I was working as a courier (Маспекс Восток). Once I went to the wrong place and essentially wasted time - mine and companies since I wasn't doing anything useful. I mostly just walked that day… Well, one of the directors reprimanded me for that. (#reflection) ?

0:30:59 – Scarlett slaps Ashley.

1:17:48 – Scarlett slaps Prissy. Prissy has lied and that was her punishment. Perhaps it's too severe, but her lies wasted time which could have been spent more efficiently. The issue here is that V, as far as I know, actually hit the actress who played Prissy (as I note elsewhere, I might have paid for that in this life)

1:30:32 – she slaps Rhett

1:51:27 – she slaps her sister Suellen

As I said, I gently slapped Sergey in village when he kept bugging me.

1:22:00, 3:45:40 Rhett gives Scarlett a handkerchief to blow her nose. It's October 7th of 2026 now and I know Olya was Clark Gable. There was a moment when Olya and I were walking near the Cherkizovsky lake (between the lake and the metro tunnel, I believe – the place which appeared in a few of my dreams, including the too-good-to-be-true one) and I took out my handkerchief and silently blow my nose (I had to do it for my nose became runny while I was waiting for her in the cold). She looked strangely at me then and I kinda knew there won't be anything between us.

1:25:40 Covering the eyes of the horse reminded me of eagles and such birds with head covers. I saw one such bird out of my window and there's such a bird in VIA Gra's music video.

1:27:26 – similar ideas on war

1:43:-- as I noted elsewhere, the line about lying, cheating, stealing, killing was wrong and if I was indeed Michele Avila then I partially paid for that.

1:54:15 – difficult to say if it's error or not. Did the movie show her life was in danger to justify murder? He did come to ransack the house after all and he had a gun… but so far he was after the valuables… on the other side she'd endanger the lives of the people living at Tara if this clearly mean no good man was to take her gun also leaving them defenseless. Tough situation…

2:05:33 – Ashley tells Scarlett she faces realities and doesn't wanna escape them as he does. But then Scarlett says she does wanna escape.

In this life I've escaped several realities of my life, but there were also times when I faced those realities.

2:08:30+ Tara. Something to fight for…

"Then there's nothing left for me. Nothing to fight for. Nothing to live for."

Also made me remember my own words which were sounding eerily similar (but in Russian) to what I say in that scene. My words were actually said when I was depressed and started thinking about ending all this… then I remembered reading about Auras and I thought that maybe if I prove they are real then it would be there is more to life than is generally believed and so there is something [for me] to live for. (#reflection)

2:13:00 Going to Atlanta looking like a queen.

2:22:30 – It's 20th February.

From my book "Simple Truths of Life": "When I was writing the date — "20.02.2020" — I immediately remembered about ZOZO. I felt that it was a sign". Later it turned out those people tried to scam me by giving me a different contract to sign. Thankfully I was able to nullify that illegal contract. It was a highly important moment of my life.

(#error) (#reflection). For now I feel like we have to somehow suffer for the errors of the characters we play in theater/movies. This is at least a top A synchronicity and I'm sure there's a connection between that date in the movie I was in; and my character did a bad thing to get $300 (and Scarlett never really paid for that error).

2:24:13 – this scene is good (#reflection) with events of my current life. From my mother's diary about little me; Entry from 17.02.1990. I was born on 30.07.1988, so I was one and a half year old:

"Начал баловаться; что-нибудь требует, плачет, сморщится, а одним глазком посматривает – какая реакция."

"Started to play around; He demands something, cries, frowns, but looks with one eye – what's the reaction."

02:24:39 doesn't lift a finger. Had to say that several times about Gustavo B. Interestingly, I think I had issues with Ashly's actor. Reincarnation is a thought that visited me but there's nothing else to seriously consider that.

Ash-ley. Saw dream Alien. Again, it led to G.B.

2:26:50 – cheap labor from convicts. Maybe nothing but as a courier I was paid little. Same for other jobs.

2:27:20+ now I know money isn't the most important thing in the world

2:27:45 – "I know what they're saying about me and I don't care". In real life of VL I actually cared about critic's opinions; and I did care about what people think of me for having my Thiaoouba related experiences. Now though I feel like I am similar to this Scarlett for I almost don't care – and most importantly because I know I'm telling the truth and doing the right thing to help others, and there's nothing to be ashamed of for me; if I give people evidence, ways to prove my findings & experiences and they choose to think badly of me then it's definitely their error and not mine.

02:51:44 your stupid Ashley. Reminded me of some people whom I mentioned earlier.

2:52:33 – diamond ring. I started watching Producer Michael on YT and sometimes they makes videos about diamonds etc.

2:55:-- she won't buy present for Mammy.

2:55:--+ right after there's a scene in which Scarlett has a nightmare which ends up being a prophetic dream in the end. I've had prophetic dreams in my life – many of them. But also in VL's next life – my life in Michele Avila's body – I started having nightmares about the ocean even since the bad experience in water. MA dreamed of getting drowned. Those nightmares proved to be prophetic also when MA was killed by being drowned in a creek. (#reflection)

Also later I realized what if there's some connection to Nightmare on Elm Street synchronicities also? But so far it's just the word 'nightmare' which is a possible link…

02:59:05 Eugenia Victoria. My current and past names.

3:00:38 – 20 inches

03:40:28 dreams and only dreams with you but never common sense. Reminded of G.B., but only during and after the experiment.

Later talk that Ashley should have said he didn't love Scarlett instead of his talk of honor may also reflect with G situation but in different topic of saying he believed me at first and then it turned out to be the opposite.

3:40:40 – the button thingy has a person riding a bird portrayed on it. Just reminded me of my little pigeon obsession I had ever since that one pigeon flew to my window and I started feeding him for many years. In VL life there were some pigeon connections also.

3:41:-- When Scarlett runs through the fog/mist. It's the prophetic dream come true. Also it can be a sync of sorts to Silent Hill and MA. I wrote that her brother moved to live at a lake called exactly as the one from the videogame. I had a lucid dream in which the environment reminded me of Silent Hill 3 game.

3:45:30 – saying sorry can't correct the unpaid mistakes. But it can show others you're admitting them and so you could change.

03:46:-- where should I go? What should I do? Reminded me of my Amy Lyon letter asking God what should I do.

Vivien Leigh was right to play Scarlett in GwtW, and I was in the right place and time for Thiaoouba.

In general fictional Scarlett, real Vivien and I all share similar character traits – we are headstrong. I was having health issues still when I went to try to find Natasha; give books to libraries; Vivien went to USA to get the role of Scarlett and she also got her men but that was error in case of married/taken men. (There are lots of other similarities between V and Scarlett)

https://youtu.be/ShcAmG2G7hQ?si=1vwG3CAadHnXF6H8&t=166

In the vid they say how Scarlett does what she wants and not what she's told. See myself here in my jobs as courier and others. Also there was time when I had an idea and then mother (?) would say that exact idea and I'd lose interest because I'd be doing it because someone else told me that and not because I came up with that (weird old me. I think I grew out of that)

https://youtu.be/ShcAmG2G7hQ?si=vEKuchOeCoFe0ZTt&t=1120

Crying to get her way. Remember how I would stand barefoot on cold winter floor in the kitchen to get sick and not go to school – fear of speech was brutal on me… I don't remember exactly but my Vivien Leigh psyche data might have caused some instances when I… cried? Maybe? I definitely cried on purpose to get my mother buy me the second budgie – can totally see Vivien/Scarlett in that old self. But were there other similar instances..?

29.02.2024 – there were. Reference to 2:24:13.

31:-- Scarlett says about envy to those who were mean to her but she was also mean to others.

Watched a video from Karin on GwtW, and she said how Scarlett is left with no body. It made me tearful, for that's almost who I am. Is this another (#reflection) in that movie?

Scarlett slaps Prissy. I remember how a man hit me in the back of the head when mother and I were going to father's house. I sat on a seat because there were other free seats, but that… man hit me which was uncalled for. So it must be something I did in a past life – could that scene be it?

https://www.classicmoviehub.com/facts-and-trivia/film/gone-with-the-wind-1939/page/8/

About the scene where Prissy says: "Oh Miss Scarlett! I don't know nuthin' 'bout birthin' babies."

George Cukor told Vivien Leigh to actually slap Butterfly McQueen for realism, and he instructed McQueen to scream. McQueen broke down in tears after many takes, complaining VL was hitting her too hard. Later McQueen stated she "bargained" with others that she'd scream as loudly as she could only if VL's hand would not actually hit her, and she wouldn't scream if she got hit.

She also said that "Prissy should have been slapped often, because she was horrid!"

I wrote about it elsewhere: The man in the bus hitting me; Maxim hitting me near biology class.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Scarlett_O%27Hara

Scarlett's daughter's name is Eugenia Victoria "Bonnie Blue" Butler (she names her that). Eugenia is female version of masculine Eugine, which is Evgeny/Zhenya (my name) in Russian. Victor is masculine for Victoria (I've talked how Victors have played their role in my and Vivien's life)

Then Scarlett has three children in the book – one from each of her marriages. She has a boy named Wade with Charles, a girl named Ella with Frank, and another girl named Eugenie Victoria (Bonnie Blue) with Rhett.

I'm noting this because on the night a had my true dream with me in Vivien's voice saying I was her I also had a dream about the streamer Elajjaz who's often called Ella. Also I mentioned him in my StoL book for he realized the truth behind stammer but dismissed it.

There's also a Russian streamer Boni (bonivur) whom I sometimes (not almost never have time to) watch.

Scarlett's full name is Katie Scarlett O'Hara Hamilton Kennedy Butler.

I had a female budgie in childhood and I called her Katie.

Most importantly, I never knew she was Hamilton… (her 1st husband is Charles Hamilton, but I never paid much attention to that until now) this is exactly the name of Emma Hamilton, and I've discovered many synchronicities between Emma and Vivien (and myself). I carefully theorized if Vivien could have played herself in That Hamilton Woman movie… and now there's another synchronistic connection between them and me. If true, in the whirlwind of life's events Vivien could have played herself in many more ways than I have theorized – by having the same name in the characters she played.

Scarlett O'Hara: The Southern Lady as New Woman by Elizabeth Fox-Genovese, page 400.

"The essence of the public responsibility of being a "lady" is flagrantly disregarded because of her commitment to survival. Thus, she is ostracized from her peers."

I see similarity with me here. Having knowledge about Thiaoouba I went on trying to share my experience with people – at the cost of being ostracized from my old friends and society in general. Of course, there's no other option for me for hiding the truth is a mistake, and I'd like to suffer as little as possible, having been through a lot.

Eva Hart was on Titanic and survived to tell the story of the Titanic splitting in two. Perhaps a coincidence – just noting Emma Hamilton had a last name of Hart at some point; And Eva Chirumbolo was the key witness in MA murder case.

I'll note that Scarlett marries Frank Kennedy for money. Maybe it's not connected, but my father was cheated after his mother died. His 'friends'? made him sell my grandma's apartment for fraction of its cost (assuming to another 'friend') and then held those money, given only portions to father. He did buy a car and tv and some other things with it, but the value of 2 room apartment was lost. I also lost that apartment, being father's only son. There were hard moments in my life when I remembered those old events. If he continued to lease the apartment then his life would have been better in terms of money… mine possibly too. Is this a reflection of something my past life's character did or not I don't know.

I need to note that in my class there was a boy of black color. I set with him during certain classes. We exchanged PlayStation video games sometimes; but he never became my friend. I think I found his vk profile but he never accepted my friend request.

Just thinking if there could be some reflections too with V's GwtW movie.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rhett_Butler

Regarding Rhett praising Scarlett's ability to steal her husband under her sister's nose:

Michele Avila was actually accused by her killers of stealing other women's boyfriends. From what we know that was a lie. Syncs with Leigh proved to show that I was actually Vivien, I know it now, there's not question. With Michele I've had a lot of syncs also. This is another possible connection between Vivien and Michele (#reflection even). I know now that some of the scenes in V's movies were reflected in my life, and for some of those scenes and topics shown in her movies I even had to suffer. Would be not surprised if I was actually Michele Avila also after all I had to find out about Vivien Leigh and myself.

To be clear – provided Michele was Vivien, then she was killed mostly for Vivien's own sleeping and stealing of other women's men. But this scene in GwtW could have also manifested (or added to the killing too) itself in certain words that Michele's 'friends' uttered or implied about her.

I'd like to note the fact that after watching GwtW in my 33 for the first time in English, and after being rather deeply influenced by the movie, in some cases I was mimicking Scarlett in her attitude – e.g. when she enters the "lions' den" she at first alarmed but then in just a moment becomes so very calm and composed… this is what I did – after finding myself going too deep into my mind I'd remember that scene and I'd do the same thing that Scarlett did in it – I was replaying Scarlett again in my life then having no idea yet I was actually Vivien Ligh who wished so strongly to play that character. (#curious)

Vivien played Russians in: Anna Karenina, Tovarich, Ivanov.

When I downloaded all but 2 movies with Vivien Leigh the size of all movies combined was equal to about 33 GB. (Sep 6, 2026: since then I downloaded movies of better quality and the total size changed.)

Knowing what I know about Vivien Leigh, I start seeing possible – possible – reasons why I've played my role in Thiaoouba. It was a hard journey, but I did not stop (there was a moment when I could, but meeting Yana and then Ulya helped me find new strengths).

In my childhood mom for some reason bought for me Jouranals or something which had women's dresses – like you could outfit women or something. Maybe me being Vivien, a woman, and possibly other women, it could be related.

I wanted to know about reincarnation, to know why I suffer. I got the answer. This also provides me with material to study more about reincarnation process.

Vivien Leigh could swim in pools – as seem from photos. I don't dare going near deep water. It sort of gives more points to me possibly living the life of Michele Avila too, who was drowned.

When Vivien Leigh died my mother was 16 and my father 8 years old. The numbers and half-life…

There was a moment I rode in a bus to father's apartment (don't remember if he lived or not at that time. Perhaps he did) and I saw a woman read Gone with the Wind book in original English language. It took my interest, and now I feel like it could be one of those sync moments when you just happen to be at the right moment at the right place.

Vivien said that if you wish something it'll happen (it's in one of the pdf articles I saved up). Part of me sort of wished to find who I was (it's possible I already wrote about it before)

Vivien Leigh hated typecasting in the movies, but to be fair she played characters with similar fates quite often. And I did notice she wasn't right for Rebecca for it was clear to me she tried to be Rebecca rather than being her during the shooting test.

The thing is while I didn't want to work in the office I still sit among 3 walls and a window (as Olya noticed). I did write about this somewhere else.

Before I knew I was Vivien I noticed the way her name sounded when I was little and Russian announcer pronounced her name in Унесённых Ветром.

When I learned about Vivien's personal life when I saw a comment saying she played pretty much herself.

There's a rumor that Vivien lied about being pregnant again miscarrying. If true, and if I was Michele Avila as well, then it could also be the reason for why Michele's friends spread lies about her which resulted in her first being beaten up, and then murdered.

I feel like I'd need to note that Olivia de Havilland died on July 26, 2020 at the age of 104. Exactly 2 years after my father died, 2 years before I found synchronicities with Michele Avila in 2022 thanks to that very same date of July 26.

Then,

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Melanie_Hamilton

Hamilton – same last name as Emma Hamilton

Both of highly important finds related to spirituality happened while I wanted to write screenplays (found Thiaoouba) and then to write a fiction book (found I was Vivien Leigh).

https://www.imdb.com/name/nm0722265/quotes/?ref_=nm_dyk_qu

Alicia Rhett: "Vivien Leigh was delightful, an indefatigable worker, and just as pretty off stage as on."

Indefatigable = persisting tirelessly. It does describe me in terms of my Thiaoouba related work.

https://youtu.be/mEWWxAVthyA?si=PJe15p8EVT5-TEYt

6:42 – It's a reference to the note in my video. Stardom in Hollywood gave her little control over her own carrier. Why she left for London and played in the plays she enjoyed. This reason actually modifies what I said in my video. Yes, I like movies more still, but at least now I see why I said I liked theatre more than movies when I was Vivien Leigh – and I'd do the same thing, which means it's another spiritual knowledge that I already had in my life as Vivien. (#spiritual-knowledge)

10:45 – As Blanche Leigh keeps reality at an arm's length, retreating to illusions for self-preservation. Same thing happened to me when at 14 I had to retreat to daydreaming to save myself. (#reflection)

16:41 "… we had considered 'Anna Karenina' a big deal. 'Streetcar' broke the barrier".

This reminded me of the omnipresent s*x theme in my book Simple Truths of Life. Some people didn't like it. Of course, the reason for that theme existance is different – it's history, the reasons for some of my suffering and what lead me to finding Thiaoouba Prophecy.

In 33 years I watched GwtW and Streetcar. After I read about Vivien I thought that I might have been her. In 34 I had my synchronistic experience with Michele Avila and Vivien. In 35 I had the dream in which I talked in Vivien's voice that I was her.

The man (Sorin Cerin) who wrote the article about Vivien probably wrote it in about 2022 (it says "Text published in French, in the journal Destine literare No. 62, February-March 2023. Still, timing is close to shrug it off). This is the year in which I had my sync experience with Michele and Vivien.

I enjoyed watching all of Vivien Laigh's movies – no matter the rating. It's very rare that I like 6.0/10.0 movies. I think partially it's because I'm looking at myself; I know that story sometimes is basic, with problems, but it's okay with Vivien's movies.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sgwXi-epe5I

23:10 Olivia says Clark played a battleships board game with Vivien while waiting for the lights to be set up.

In school we sometimes played battleship game on paper.

Then Olivia says how Vivien could just get up and go play Scarlett while she had to have 20 minute notice before the scene. This again follows the talks that V often played herself.

After Olivia says how she'd get one with Melonie. It's interesting to note because after finding I was actually Vivien there were moments when I could feel myself her. In a way I'm becoming one with her as I learn more about my past life. It's very interesting subject foe me – psychology, self-identification

https://youtu.be/29aGR_8euQA?si=ExniOZun7byF1y8c

At 20:20 the author of the video says "The story woven into public domain was the Leigh shared a blood line with the character she portrayed – the indomitable Scarlett O'Hara."

It's a myth. But it's interesting nonetheless.

At about 24:30 it's said I did not dance myself in the movie and a dancing double was used

Seeking that person who's spiritually similar to you. This is what the movie made me think of when I re-watched in in October of 2026.

48:40 Pennsylvania. Gettysburg. StarCraft Kerrigan betrayal cutscene there's a New Gettysburg sign she steps on. I had a dream about her on January 22, 2026, which maybe was prophetic. I also 3D modeled Nova and used screenshots from that cutscene to have some references of the suit.

Tavia was born in Pennsylvania, in around 80 km from that town.

Waterloo Bridge (1940)

The majority of the notes are written in the introduction where I explain how I found my past lives and how I know for a fact it's me.

31:-- When I was re-watching this movie, knowing I am Vivien Leigh and seeing myself during the entire film, Kitty touches me on my waist in the movie during this scene. And at that exact moment I felt the feeling of being touched at that same spot on my waist as in the film. It is one of extraordinary experiences which are important and precious to me in this life. (#curious)

1:13:50 Roy asks Myra that she's been through a lot. – I nodded when I was rewatching the film on August 29, 2026, only I was thinking about all the skepticism, rejections and nerve-wracking I had to experience in this life.

Myra and Roy say It's been pretty tough. – I nodded again.

Then Roy says it's all over now. And he's gonna help, basically.

At that moment I had already written my question to ask my Higher Self if Yana S. (from Gorki Park) was Robert Taylor (the dream of April 26, 2024 hinted on such a possibility). And Yana did help me then since she was the first person who, I think, believed me. She was interested in meditation too at some point. And it was because of her that I recorded my first more-or-less successfully enough telekinesis session. Meeting her was a big deal for me.

The dream answer showed she probably was Robert, but it needs to be further verified just to be sure.

1:44:-- Roy says he'll look for Myra and he'll never find her.
I looked for Natasha and could never find her.

21 Days Together (Released in 1940. Shot in 1937.)

21 is the number of films on V's imdb page.

In the movies V's apparently cheating on her husband with a lover (Olivier)

5:20 she asks Larry is he's been waiting long, and he answers 33 years 5 months.

5:49 walking in front of a car. There were moments I could have been hit by a car because I wasn't paying attention to reality – but the error is in my current life, I think. Just noticing the scene.

6:26 she gives him an icon to pawn? I think they need money for food.
The next scene reminds me of my current life. Doing nothing (in terms of making $) but somehow living. It's subtle.
(15.03.2024 – maybe a sync with Mary Magdalene's life)

8:05 I think Larry asks if they have that superstition in Russia too? Wanda's husband is Russian.

9:15 V's husband says it must be 3 years since he saw his wife…
He then says in his country wife works for the man…? He's after her money, if she's got any.
A man has to pay for his pleasure, hubby says, and asks 20 pounds.

10:21 April 26, 2024's dream had references to this film, and I was thinking about taking a taxi, and I thought about metro (underground).

15:51 "Please do not write to me any more…"
It's what I wrote in an email so S.Ch. after he suggested I remove my Russian translation of Thiaoouba book from the Internet. Peter D. has no termination clauses in our contract and so I shouldn't remove anything.

18:33 courage. Just wanna note it. V said she didn't have it, and I had to learn to acquire some of it. No syncs here, I think.

29:29 glove is evidence. Glove and strangulation mentioned in Thiaoouba, but it's nothing, I think.

35:43 Wanda says her father was killed in Russia.

40:-- once again there's a trial in court in Vivien's movie.

46:-- Wanda would ask not for 3 week, but 3 months. 3 years, 30 years.

Number 3 plays a role here and it's so related to Thiaoouba book (333 days, seconds etc)

Larry asks what people do in 30 years.

She says people meet, make love, marry, and then… die together.

This reminded me of my 30 years. Lots had happened, but none of what V's char was mentioning…

50:00 still left 2 weeks and 6 days = 20 days. And he says that it's 20 times as much ahead of them (1 days has already passed). So number 20.

54:23 number 4. Royal Eagle.

G.B.'s word for that "Secret" group chat experiment was "Eagle".

56:40 the body was in the archway of Glove Lane.

1:07:-- that man (K(C)arl) can't pronounce certain letters. I had trouble with R, but I lay in bed and practiced pronouncing it until I got it rrrright. Then I had/have trouble with l/v. (лодка – водка)

(#reflection)? Or sync?

Larry is stopped on the steps of the station by Wanda, chasing after him, who has learned that Evan died from a heart attack on his way to jail.

This is dark. And I had hart problems pretty much all my life, but it only became noticeable about after 17 years. This feels like it… the suffering for yet another error made in a movie. (BUT: 1 – I did have heart pounding when orgasming in childhood – Vova jerking me off at the elm tree – elm, huh? It didn't feel normal to me. Then when running I had heart pounding. Later problems arose from me masturbating, daydreaming, getting tense, etc. So it is important to note which part exactly I might be suffering here in.)

Why? The characters are fictional, but… the man had to suffer in jail, which could cause the heart attack for he blamed himself for stealing the ring from dead body. Then Wanda and Larry return happy, thinking about their life, but not of the dead man's. They also enjoyed themselves while the trial was in progress.

The bottom line here is that the message of the movie is a bit off; it was self defense to begin with – should've just called the police and told them the truth and that would've been it.(a reviewer on imdb said of the murder: "which because of circumstances would appear as murder to most". Well, calling the police would give him a credit.)

Then there's another issue. The man is innocent but nobody knows it; people think of him as of a murderer. They have wrong conclusions of him – isn't that what's sort of being happening to me? That many people don't believe me? Call me names?

Emma, Lady Hamilton (1941)

04:02 - Mary Smith. Mary Magdalene. Vivian Mary. Smith relates to Emma Hamilton's life.

11:11 - 3 months, 3 days

12:55 – Fish. It's probably nothing since fish is common food. Just reminded me of how my first lives were lived at another start in the constellation of Pieces.

19:55 – Sore throat. Reminded me of how my cold was cured instantly by my Higher Self, I presume, and all was left is that residual feeling in my throat.

21:12 – "Boom!"

A village female friend had a nickname "Boomochka". She became part of the company in the later years, having come from Ulan-Ude or a place nearby. Of course, when I started telling the truth about my spiritual experiences to, hopefully, advance humanity's knowledge about the reality we live in, she unfriended me. She was the one V was whispering something about me (why they called me a certain way); he took her virginity later on. I kinda liked her… until the unfriending.

24:05 – Agamemnon. I lived in Troy in a distant past life.

32:-- Desire to learn.

42:-- Nelson: "This is the 3rd time you've helped me."

1:04:21 - Invitedto Cairo.

1:20:55 – Standing in the shadow. Might relate to the Lady of Shalott life.

1:29:30 – just noting that Frances name of Nelson's wife reminded me of Frances Kidder. Both were called Fanny.

When I went to double check on the names, I reloaded twitch to see who's live and what they're playing. Dist was playing "Deadly Premonition: Director's Cut", and in the title he wrote "The Deadly Casting of Francis York Morgan" – the name of that game's main character. He's been live for just several minutes when I saw his stream. And Ela was playing "The Casting of Frank Stone". Frank is male form of feminine Frances.

Mrs. CadOgan – Oliver calls her that – with emphasis om 'o'.

Caesar and Cleopatra (1945)

https://archive.org/details/caesar-and-cleopatra

The movie is not very historically accurate. While, as always, I liked the movie and feel warm feelings towards a Vivien's film, I wish it was more serious and focused on real events of great historic significance.

What made me write this note after watching the movie is me seeing a contrast in how I love the fact that TP is so accurate and I tend to correct those who misquote its text, distorting the original meaning. I also only read Gospel of Thomas of all Bible related books because it should be undistorted. (I did read the Bible but not whole). So in this life the undistorted original content means a lot for me. I tried to write SToL truthfully and with no embellishments (this word in TP played its role in all of this).

I started watching the 2:01:41 video

9:28 (9:45) there's talk about reincarnation; whether a cat could be a relative. Now I know people reincarnate only to physical bodies of people.

Later she asks about magic and that I know about too (knowledge, no magic).

17:-- (18:--) she's beating up a slave (all of the is bad). Is it the scene doing which V miscarried?

Just wanna note she was about 32 during that time, and she's live for 21 more years.

30:30 (32:10) – Cleopatra throws her brother off the throne.

Reminded me of an episode in my childhood when my mother's sister Tanay was not happy I sat on "her" seat and almost tried to make me leave. Zina scolded her and I kept sitting.

Here I started to watch this version with better colors and sound (the 2:08:06 long movie.) https://archive.org/details/caesar-and-cleopatra 27:10 Ptolemy says that me, Cleopatra, with the help of the witch Ftatateeta cast a spell on Caesar.

Note of September 6, 2026: I was rewatching this film this evening and remembered a dream I had hours before. In that dream I was a witch or maybe attempting to see if it's possible to brew a potion to curse P.T. for what he did in TPXP. I used some herbs, and I remember there was a piece about a dead bird required for the brew potion and I didn't want to harm a bird. So I found a dead one and used its legs, I think, for the brew. I remember I had a liquid of some color in a vial. And I had to drink the brewed potion maybe, or maybe I thought of doing it. Maybe someone was with me; Maybe it was their or my thought about the dirt, impurities in the brew, but I also knew the final product, so to say, would be clean for consumption.

I thought about incarnational possibility here. Only I know now that Caesar is Kirill. I wonder if P.T. is Ptolemy… He did remove me from TPXP (for no good reason other than his ungrounded fears) until all was resolved and I got back my admin position; and then he didn't do the right thing and didn't ask Gustavo and other imposters to leave their admin posts in that group and return me mine admin rights in the group I did so much for and a lot was done by me alone in there. P.T. didn't do anything but save his own hide by prostrating before the imposters in fear they'd remove him from the admin position should he even hint they did wrong (and I don't remember him ever doing anything of significance for the group and he himself told me he didn't wanna post from his account in that group - so he had nothing to lose).

It looks like there are some parallels here between Ptolemy and myself as Cleopatra (in this movie at least: see my previous note about throwing him off the throne) and P.T. and myself.

Btw, I'll repeat I don't suffer at all from what had happened to me in TPXP as I was expecting a treachery. I only stayed in that group for Thiaoouba and Thiaooubians' sakes, naively(?) thinking my work to keep common sense in that group (a group created within of a social network) is something important (well, in a way it was… it was a good learning experience for sure). Just stating the facts here for maybe my dream was a true one and revealing someone's past life – someone whom I know now and whom I knew in my Cleopatra's life.

Edit of the following day: the answer showed P.T. is Ptolemy.

(https://youtu.be/PtZNYPxuHmI?si=Fyx3upp6-ML3d65F&t=548 9:11; I have to report that I watched UK's Millionaire Hot Seat, Series 1, Episode 8 in late evening, and a question asked about witch's brew in Shakespeare's Macbeth. My dream might have a connection here too. I had no time to fully read any of the plays I was in in my VL's life. I don't know what the story's about.)

46:-- they talk about baths and V's saying she should die of it.

It's pretty much prophetic of the way she died. Michele, assuming I was her too, was killed in the water.

(#reflection) ?

57:20 V discovers Caesar is bald and laughs at the fact.

I don't think it's required for the main story. So probably another little mistake I've got to suffer for greatly.

He tried to hide his baldness and didn't like being bald. It's quite similar to what I experience, making it a candidate for the another reflection.

1:04:50 Apollodorus is asked if Ftatateeta is his wife. He's quick to say no. V smiles at that (it's probably direction but still, previous movies have shown that such things can influence the real future life of the actor). This could be yet another reason (after the scene in Sidewalks of London) which made me look not very attractive after certain age and events.

1:09:-- pigeon eggs

1:24:-- there's a talk about laughing. Do they laugh at Cleopatra or Caesar? She says she lets them talk in front of her so that she could learn about them.

This reminded me of my situation regarding Thiaoouba and what things some people say about me. I learn about them too (for usually they're wrong in their opinions).

And I can learn from my mistakes (I try to)

1:25:17 – Cleopatra touches the harp and later wants to learn to play it. There was a time when I found the YouTube channel of the Harp Twins and I enjoyed listening to their covers of various songs. I followed their channel. https://www.youtube.com/@HarpTwins

At one point V's char orders Pothinus to be killed. It's not historically accurate; Pothinus was not killed by Cleopatra's orders.

So again it's not very clear why there was the need for this fake version of history in the play and movie?

1:54:-- about this time there's a talk to V that killing by the cut throat would not cause the man to call out as it did when he was stabbed.

Anna Karenina (1948)

Fictional character Anna Karenina
https://ru.wikipedia.org/wiki/%D0%90%D0%BD%D0%BD%D0%B0_%D0%9A%D0%B0%D1%80%D0%B5%D0%BD%D0%B8%D0%BD%D0%B0

Some of the story takes place in Moscow, the city I was born and grew up in.

Я ради прикола, наверное, брал себе псевдоним Anna Hudson, когда играл в Leage of Legends. Да и свои фейковые тестовые профайлы иногда называл Anna. Одно из моих любимых имён.

There's a character Kitty in Anna Karenina. Kitty is also friend of Myra in Waterloo bridge.

People turned away from and don't risk talking to the «преступной женщиной» ("criminal woman"). Her life is difficult.

Светская княгиня советовала Анне Аркадьевне: «Видите ли, на одну и ту же вещь можно смотреть трагически и сделать из неё мучение, и смотреть просто и даже весело. Может быть, вы склонны смотреть на вещи слишком трагически».

Anna saw signs of fate in all events. She sees death during childbirth: «родами умрёте, матушка». She constantly thought of death and no future. But fate gives her a 2nd chance.

Dmitry Nikolaevich Tolstoy was ascetic, strict, and religious; his family nicknamed him Noah. Then he began to carouse, bought and took the prostitute Masha.
Маша = Мария = Mary.

Anna is an intelligent, well-rounded woman. Her worldview is much broader than that of those around her, including Vronsky.

Толстой писал А. А. Фету: «скучная и пошлая Анна К. ему противна… Моя Анна надоела мне, как горькая редька».
Почему-то меня рассмешило это… возможно из-за того что и я скучный и пошлый, а тут ещё куча синхроничностей ото всюду прут на меня (этому я рад, но голова может пойти гулять кругом).

Каренин был «человеком очень добрым, целиком ушедшим в себя, рассеянным и не блестящим в обществе, такой — учёный чудак».

Сына Анны зовут Сергей. Как моего папу.

Вивьен должно было быть около 35 лет, когда она снималась в Анне Карениной. Та героиня жила в Москве, России. Мне 35 лет, и в этот год я имел тот самый сон.

В фильме на 01:35:38 Вивьен выходит из двери номер 20. К этому моменту становится ясно, что репутация Анны уничтожена, и она не сможет вернуться…

В конце фильма снег играет свою роль тоже (как и в Waterloo Bridge)

35:05 Anna has a shadow following her.
1:36:00 “It is I who must stay in the shadows.”
Reminded me of Lady of Shalott.

36:45 Anna believes in dream. She has a recurring nightmare too.

38:05 They have a seance.

1:47:59 Maybe just a coincidence, but I whispered “Klin” (Клин) at the same time I say that in the movie, and I didn’t expect to hear anything.

This reminded me of how I touched my face at the same spot as I did in The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone.

There’s a saying in Russian: “клин клином вышибает”, and in English it’s “fight fire with fire”. The literal translation would be “to knock one wedge out with another wedge.” I often remembered this phrase as I felt it described how I made myself learn English. It was difficult for me to learn words but I was persistent and read and read books in English, spotting the words I encountered before – some words’ meaning I’d remember, some were forgotten and I had to look into the dictionary - and slowly the meaning of almost all English words became wedged into my memory (If only the same could be said about grammar).

A Streetcar Named Desire (1951)

The movie takes place in New Orleans. I remember reading forums and seeing awful comments of people regarding the damage hurricane Katrina had caused to people of a different country. Maybe there’s a subtle connection.

8:-- she won’t go into hotel. She needs to be with people, can’t be alone… for she’s not well.

10:-- around this time they talk about losing a place (Belle Reve is the name of the family plantation in their hometown of Laurel). https://express.adobe.com/page/3JXrnFwz6iadU/

Not lost anything. But the village house is crumbling… no health or time to deal with it atm…

10:22 – the train’s engine can be heard when Blanche is stressed out (my interpretation – check).

It reminded me of how I often tend to go into fantasies when… whenever it seems. No wonder they say this play/movie played a role in Vivien’s mental problems…

(also I notice that often when I reopen this file it says it’s been 33 minutes since the last time it was open)

The engine’s heard again on

47:37 says she's not wanted

13:25 she teaches English. I created a website to teach English grammar but it was a failure; I learnt from it though – about the capitalism etc (it's in my book StoL)

Probably nothing but Emma Hamilton's daughter was teaching English at one point.

16:21 Be sure to say something nice about her appearance.

Relates to my appearance situation in this current life.

28:42 Flirted with Stella's husband.

Might have a connection to my Missy's life flirting situations.

36:-- Blanche DuBois means "white woods". Like orchard in spring.

I love this time of year and I love seeing white flowers on fruit trees. There's a link to a daydream I had, when I was getting better and started visiting village, to come there in spring to live for some time and see those white flowers in the orchard.

Also, in Half-Life 2 there's a resistance base called White Forest.

52:12 V's asking Brando what sign was he born under. This reminded me of how that girl on vk started speaking about this topic and this was when I decided to slow down communicating with her… because of various reasons. She realized that and soon that was it.

54:-- around this time she asks about gossips. A bit reminded me of how I came clean about my life's mistakes (homosal exp with a guy at young age; mastation; pros*tion; pnography addiction). It became much easier to live with no secrets.

1:11—there's a talk about Mitch's mother being seriously ill – months to live. Mitch is not settled and will be alone if his mother dies.

Mitch has friends – I don't. But in terms of having a gf/wife we're similar.

1:18:-- they talk how Blanche is famous but neither party is on her side.

I don't know if people talk about my Thiaoouba experience or not. I feel like they do because I heard some things toward me when passing total strangers on the street.

1:18:50 'A seventeen-year-old kid she got mixed up with - and the boy's dad'.

Vivien was destined to be born as Michele Avila in the next life, and die at 17.

1:20:-- Stella asks what would Blanche do after finding out the truth about her promiscuity. Stanley says her future is mapped out for her.

It's true in terms of Vivien's soul. I'm lonely, no gf/wife etc. All due to my past lives' mistakes of cheating and sleeping with random people.

1:26:15 Nerves and anxiety – familiar topics in my life.

1:28:-- Blanche was tender and trusting. But abusing people forced her to change.

1:41:30 Blanche wears a tiara.

Again, it reminded me of a seemingly random event when I redeemed channel points on sirenkahls' twitch channel for her to wear a tiara out of many other things I could have chosen.

1:42:-- just noting that I was in awe when first saw this scene. The acting was superb. Now that I know I was Vivien maybe there was something else?

1:45:55 – beauty transitory, but beauty of the mind, richness of the spirit, tenderness of the heart – Blanche says she's got all of those things. I feel the same about me; I do have moments when negativity rises up, but my knowledge from Thiaoouba helps me return to calmness and forgiveness and positivity (tenderness).

1:48:42 – queen of the Nile. I was the queen of Egypt in 2 lives: Nefertiti and Cleopatra.

1:52:05 – broken bottle.

Karen Severson threatened Michele Avila with a broken beer bottle, and then pushed and slapped her.

Then Vivien as Scarlett O'Hara slapped 4 people in the movie (Ashley, Prissy, Rhett, her sister). (#reflection)?

Blanche advises Stella to essentially break up with Stanley.

MA broke off relationship with Randy because of his constant partying. Soon after Karen started dating Randy, and eventually started living together. At one party Randy pulled Missy onto his lap, and Karen saw it. MA told Randy she wasn't interested in rekindling relationship, and she advised Karen to break up with Randy. Karen got angry and stopped talking to Missy.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/A_Streetcar_Named_Desire

From the play: Stanley gives Blanche a 1-way ticket back to Laurel by Greyhound Bus.

Dog theme.

Out of all characters Vivien played Blanche DuBois is the most similar to me.

Blanche says to Stella she needs to live Stanley. She didn't say try to change him for the better and if he stays the same then live.

I've a video in which I say how people could try to see if the person can change, or want to change, and if he's not then seek someone else as a partner. It could be connected to the fact that many women reject me without trying to know me better, ask more details about my life, see if I can change (if I make an error) – no, they just reject me.

At 0:2:25 the streetcar 'Desire' arrives and its number is 22 (922 is the number of the car itself, I presume).

On July 2, 2025 there were 2 groups of 22 people in each. It can be a reference to my Half Life synchronicities, my 44 total lives I've lived so far, and just to the numbers 7, 14, (21?), 28, etc. I was Cleopatra in my 23-nd life; it was the first life in the 2-nd group of 22s.

The Deep Blue Sea (1955)

Vivien's character is unhappy in her passionless marriage. She leaves her husband for a younger and more ardent lover.

This theme is played by her again

«Слишком творческий». I doubt it because it was our first meeting with Katya and she even herself kept talking about some temple…

Then in the beginning she apparently overdoses to take her life; she takes 7 pills and opens the gas valve. She later almost about to try it for the 2nd time.

This reminded me of how my mother attempted to take her life by overdoes 2 times (Zina helped and then when I discovered the truth about stammer)

I was scared for her…

And sudal thoughts (3 serious times) is a link to me finding Thiaoouba.

Interestingly, me finding out I was Vivien Leigh made me want to live again (the year was difficult for me) and regain my health as much as I can.

The sude attempt happened at 27 Weybridge Road.

Her husband is a judge in court. I've already mentioned before this possible court link in relation to Vivien's first husband and me watching court cases.

6:21 Hester's first husband she left is called sir William. Reminded of my Emma's situation with sir William.

14:21 Freddie Page was a test pilot. It seems I was a pilot in my first life.

58:10 Freddie tells Miller anyone else would've punched him in the nose for what he said. It's clear there's no hostility or a threat here. Just an advice of sorts to maybe chose words carefully with other people who might not be so forgiving.

When Marced kept pestering me and lying about me in their chat room I told her a very similar thing as an advice to let her know if she'd be a guy and said that to someone else (in person), she could have been easily in a fight; it was just a way to let her know how wrong her words and actions were. She and her buddies twisted the truth and slandered me later by telling a lie about that event (later Facebook, in its infinite wisdom, deleted all group chats along with all the evidence). (#curious) 58:53 Miller wears his sunglasses to protect his eyes against the light.

When I was 19 and worked as a merchandiser (basically, my job was to visit certain stores and put the company's product on the shelves), I had to buy sunglasses for I could barely see sometimes in the bright sunlight. With them the light became totally bearable. Later in life I didn't need sunglasses anymore and was ok in bright sunlight.

1:00:10 Meeting sir William at 3:30.

Maybe it's about the time I left house on my last day in my Missy's life.

1:25:-- White Angel.

I'll note the movie Deep Blue Sea (1999). Anton loved sharks and he had that film on VHS. I remember him talking about that movie (which had Russian title, I think). I watched it 2 times for sure in my life.

The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone (1961)

It's shown that Vivien's char Karen Stone is in "As you like it". I quoted Shakespear in my book Simple Truths of Life and it's almost the only quote of a book other than Thiaoouba Prophecy. And it's so fitting to reincarnation theme I think!

Vivien liked Shakespear too!

The movie takes place in Rome,

Just wanna note one of temporary friends who unfriended me after my Thiaoouba topics was a girl who lived in Rome (I think) for some time and then moved to USA I think. Her name was Olga.

1/3 of Elizabeth Gilbert book takes place in Rome too. I bought that book after writing my own and noticing Liz's book when researching things. Another third of the book takes place in India, btw.

The movie deals with gigolo… male prostitute pretty much…

The husband in the movie is 20 years older than Viv's character.

Maybe just a coincidence, or me reading the movie, but at about 46:41 we (me and Vivien's character) both touched the exact same spot with our left hand on our face at the same time and at the same speed and manner! (#curious)

(#reflection)

At about 1 hour 22 minutes into the movie there's a talk about middle aged women found dead with their throats cut from 'ear to ear'…

She says later that after certain number of years a cut throat will be a convenience…

In the end of the movie she throws the keys to the man who's been stalking her. There's v.o. implying he's the killed they talked about earlier. He enters the room and starts approaching her… until his cloth cover the view and we fade to black…

This reminded me so much about my first of 3 dreams when my throat was cut. I wrote about them here on September 20, 2015.

Vivien's hair is blonde for the most part of the movie (and she's not blonde in most of her films). She liked playing in the theatre more than doing films; and in the movie she's also an actress who played on Broadway – in a theatre. She's not young in the movie, though. But I was her and I was that blonde woman in the dream…

Again, the problem here is that she gave up on life and pretty much killed herself. Movies do influence the world. So the message here is wrong – sude isn't the option, as I know now… There's no graphic scene and it's only implied that she's murdered; I wonder what suffering for this will be? Was that dream it? Or there's more..? In the third dream it was me who was killed on a plaza.

...

I'd like to note her car was blue, but with white roof. In my second dream all of the car was blue. The make and model were different too anyhow (which is logical since at that time the car mentioned by Laura Doyle wasn't manufactured yet. So maybe there is something here..).

About the dream of mine. Technically, I always thought that the blonde woman was young. But I never saw her face (I don't think). In the movie at 35:55 Vivien's turned with her back to the camera and perhaps she could be considered younger than she was if the observer didn't know her age. But, I'm just playing with this thought…

The man in my dream probably wore leather cloth (that was the "idea" I had anyway). And the man in the movie wore… doesn't look like leather to me (I'm not good at this).

Karen Stone. In MA life Karen killed me. Stonehurst park had played a large role in that life. There was also a large rock near the creek I died in MA life; I was forced to sit on.

2:42 – I think Meg says Russians but not sure.

There is a red-haired Russian madame Contessa Magda. Magda is a short form of my name Magdalene https://www.behindthename.com/name/magda-1 It's the second film of mine (VL) in which a character has the name which comes from my Mary Magdalene name.

6:-- Karen's husband dies from a heart attack. It's the second film when someone dies from a heart failure.

15:-30 10000 swallows flying away to the south.

1:05:25 swallows again.

32:11 & 32:45 The hand clenched into a fist.

The pigeon I used to feed had his leg clenched into a fist. And I had to make my hand a fist during several emotional moments of my life.

32:50 Karen's husband was 20 years older than her.

36:00 Karen was married to Tom for 20 years.

1:02:00 – It was a mistake to lie like that. And I wonder if there might be a connection to my death in Vivien's life.

Karen later asks herself why she made that lie.

1:15:15 Paolo di Leo shows off the present, a watch with 38 jewels. It's my current age (September 4, 2026) when I'm rewatching this movie. Noting this just in case.

I might be totally wrong, but I feel like there was someone who was like a gigolo living off of some of my relatives with money.

1:32:55. Cleopatra talking of Egypt, not remembering her past life.

1:35:38 Lying Paolo pushes Karen and says he dislikes her dishonesty (she didn't give the money to the scam). She did nothing too wrong; he just wants money and lied to her.

Just reminded me how not so long ago I wrote to Y.M. I don't like dishonest people (her) before blocking her.

1:36:20 so called friends turned out to be amoguses.

1:38:-- before all your bridges are burnt.
I've burnt some bridges, but I also realized I need to keep some bridges intact.

Ship of Fools (1965)

My character name is Mary Treadwell. My VL birth name was Vivian Mary Hartley. So it was the last film role I was in, and my name was Mary. Tread-Well is interesting too.

Movie takes place on the sip sailing on water. Michele died in the water.

1:06:00 she wishes there was someone to watch clouds with her (she's alone).
She wanted someone to love her forever. (Olivier left her; I'm alone)
She says she chose the wrong man. Since she went from 1 husband to Olivier, can she be playing herself again?

1:30:-- she says something about lynching the neoes
Transcript says (https://clip.cafe/ship-of-fools-1965/what-do-got-against-the-jews/):
"Maybe you were too busy lynching neoes to take time out for the Jews"

1:58:50 she says about make up. And that wouldn't man want to know what they were kissing. Agree with her. (I think I said about this in video)

2:07:30 she says she's not young. Later she says she's hiding a 16-year-old heart behind those eyes. Then she asks if this is what men really find attractive (I guess now I know what I personally find attractive in women)

She's in cabin number 14.

As I now know I died in the Titanic disaster in 1912. Ship of Fools was my last movie in 1965. 53 years stand between those two dates, and it's the age I died at as Vivien.

(#reflection) with Michele?

The Mask of Virtue (1935)

https://vivien-leigh.info/theatre/mask_of_virtue/
More than worldly wise.
In terms of Thiaoouba and spirituality this could describe me.

Sydney Carroll: "Vivian" - it's neither one thing nor other. It'll confuse people. They won't know if you are a man or a woman. Will you agree to spelling it "Vivien"?
"I changed my name again today," Vivien Leigh told Leigh Holman that day.
Zhenya is also both male and female name.

Sydney Carroll: "I took a big chance. But I just knew she was the one. A lot of other people claimed they discovered Vivien, but I was the one. I have a great knowledge of palmistry, and Vivien reluctantly let me read her hands. She was ashamed of what she called "my paws." After that reading, I decided the role was hers."
I was a bit surprised to read this, coz 3 times the palmistry played very important roles in my life. Of course it a top list synchronicity. The mask of virtue made V known – it was important play in her life.
(#reflection-life)
Also I'll note here that VL would wear gloves to hide the 'paws'. I had to wear cap because I was ashamed of my balding head until I was okay with how I look – more or less. (#spiritual-knowledge) & (#psyche-data)?

Cedric Belfrage: "A ravishing stage debutante whose beauty will the talk of the town. Miss Leigh was the success of the evening. Her charm is matched by rare intelligence."

http://vivandlarry.com/vivien-leigh/vivien-leigh-in-the-mask-of-virtue/
"An actress of uncommon gift; she succeeded through her sincerity and naturalness".
Maybe nothing but made me think about 'gifts'; what's the reason for them? What if they come from past lives? If so, then I'm again reminded of Emma Hamilton who kind of played her portraits (forgot the name). In my life there were times I read poetry with expression (must be inherited from my life as VL?).

02.03.2024 – in my mother's diary I read that as a little child I had a theater and I played characters; I also sang and wrote poetry.

The play touches on topics of prostitution and redemption.

The first one relates to some of my past lives. And so does the second one.

On April 3, 2026 I realized my previous answer was about a movie in which the main hero seeks redemption.

From Alexander Walker's book The Life of Vivien Leigh:

"The part was that of a young eighteenth-century prostitute who is presented as a girl of unblemished reputation and rank in order to compromise a French aristocrat."

This description bears resemblance to my Emma Hamilton's life I was living during the same 18-th century. (#reflection)

I was thinking about it and remembered how one girl said 'I was discrediting myself' or something by truths I wrote in my book. I don't think so, but some people do, and it's possible my experiences with prostitutes (can't believe I did that…) could make some people stop reading my book etc.

Richard II (1936)

She plays a composite character. Not the actual queen.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Anne_of_Bohemia have some numeric similarities.

The Happy Hypocrite (1936)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Happy_Hypocrite https://vivien-leigh.info/theatre/happy_hypocrite/

Vivien Leigh's letter to Gliddon: "I can't help feeling that this play is of tremendous importance, firstly because it's essential I should work again and quickly, and that it will be a wonderful experience which is just what I want."

Made me remember how in TP they say we're closing in on moral and spiritual catastrophe. Through my life's experience I think I can see why they said that. It's interesting I thought that play with moral implications to be of tremendous importance.

Lord George sees Jenny's reflection in the stream, leaps across the stream and proposes marriage to Jenny. She accepts.

Michele Avila was drowned in a stream. The theme of deception links the two also.

But the play ends on happy ending; George returns the money to those cheated; donates to charity and they live a modest life. (actually, it's very close to my moral standards, I think). No wonder in my life as Vivien I thought this play to be of importance (I feel like I had spiritual knowledge before I was born – Vivien had them too probably for that life is very close to my current one).

V plays Jenny Mere.

Maybe nothing but a p actress by name of Jenny Lee (Jenni Lee) played a role in my life; especially when I learned she became homeless and had substance issues. That was one of moments I thought to say goodbye to pmo.

Lee even sounds the same as Leigh https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=se41YciICgE

17:25 "You are my queen."

18:-- flowers are often mentioned. Vivien and Michele loved flowers.

September 15, 2026: Jenny would forget the names of flowers she loves if George doesn't love them for she must be like him in all things. Again, I see similarity to how Nikki in Obsession tries to mimic that/those which/whom Bear loves in order to get him to love her.

20:-- it's said Jenny has disappeared.

21:-- George returns money he won gambling etc. Maybe nothing but reminded me how I removed all movies and tv series I uploaded to 2 groups in vk.com

24:50 - La Gambogi says his wife's mask is even better than yours

(George). Jenny asks what does she mean. I think the scene means Jenny is also wearing a mask; and either pretends she doesn't understand La, or doesn't remember she's a mask. It means Jenny has also her own skeletons to hide. Interesting.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=e6p1XD_fd4A

http://vivandlarry.com/vivien-leigh/backstage-with-the-happy-hypocrite/

Flowers and mirrors. "Anyway, the mirror will always reflect a flower – my wife's face."

It's mirrors that have played their role in my life: I had a prophetic dream (where my distorted reflection told me it'd never let me come out from myself); now I probably saw one of my past lives in a mirror in that dream I wrote about in My Diary (October 8, 2023); and mirrors in lucid dreams is what I'm planning to try to use to see the physical bodies I used to have in my past lives (yet to have LD)

(#reflection) it's possible that dream with distorted face is a direct reflection of that event during the backstage as Vivien Leigh – for, sadly, in life of VL I did cheat and did steal other women's bfs/husbands – and those are not the actions of a 'flowery' person. Then in the play Jenny is wearing a mask also – another similarity to V's life.

Note of September 15, 2026. Upon re-listening to this play I realized the main idea is just like the movie Obsession. This might be another reason why I have al those parallels with that film.

Henry VIII (1936)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Henry_VIII_(play)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Regent%27s_Park_Open_Air_Theatre

The plays was taking place at an Open Air Theatre.

In VDNH there's open air theatre I thought could be nice to attend if it was working.

V plays Anne Boleyn.

So again, the name Anne (Anna).

April 25, 2026. It turned out Anne B. would be in her other future lives people with whom my life intersected. It's interesting that I played her.

Because We Must (1937)

https://vivien-leigh.info/theatre/because_we_must/it says one of performers had name of Elizabeth Gilbert. I've a book by another Elizabeth

Gilbert – Eat Pray Love. I've encountered this name in Fire over England too. Maybe it's all just a coincidence. There are many people with the same last names.

Bats in the Belfry (1937)

Hamlet (1937)

Ophelia death is reflected in Michele Avila's demise. Not 100% fully, but so is the case with my Waterloo Bridge reflection too. And Karen and Laura played out a scene like actors.

Ophelia goes mad. How she speaks and what she speaks sings about may be of interest too.

Might be nothing but in this life some people do think of me as crazy for my Thiaoouba related experiences (they don't wish to bother to listen to me that many things I said I experienced can be proven).

Act 4, Scene 7. Queen Gertrude says that Ophelia climbed a willow tree; its branch had broken and Ophelia fell into the brook and drowned.

First, it's a willow tree – it's one of the biggest synchronicities I've got with Michele Avila.

Second, it's a brook (stream) that Ophelia is drowned in, and Michele drowned in a stream too (e.g. it's not a river which can be rather deep and wide).

Thirdly, the weakest point, the tree, and its broken branch, plays a role in Ophelia's death. A four-foot log was placed on Michele's body to keep her under water…

Fourth point is, of course, she drowned in a creek. Michele Avila literally drowned (was murdered by being drowned). V herself had liquid in lunges which caused her death.

It's unclear if Ophelia's death was sude or an accident caused by her madness.

In Michele's murder it wasn't clear for 3 years who killed her. Maybe there's no connection.

So far these are synchronicities between Vivien (and so also me) and Michele – but they are interesting. Can it be a (#reflection) with Michele?

An important detail: Karen and Laura ACTED out a scene to lure Michele to the creek; once they were there, they dropped the act. It is another connection (or at least synchronicity) with Vivien Leigh who was an actress.

Hamlet is uncertain of ghost's reliability after the later tells him he was murdered by Claudius.

Since I was a part of that play in past life, sometimes I did question the 'reliability' of my cyncs with Vivien and Michele – which was normal for at that time I didn't have this ocean of connections to V. Other people also question my experiences, and Michel Desmarquet's.

Hamlet story has wrong beliefs about what happens to soul after death. Now I know what actually happens to it (TP).

It also deals with ghosts and his mother not believing Hamlet sees them, thinking he's gone mad. (I showed my own mother my most successful telekinesis session moving the bolt attached to thread's tip and she still doesn't believe these things exist)

A thought came to me when I was thinking why did it have to be farced drowning as the way for me to pay the penalty for sleeping with taken/ engaged/married people?

I remembered how from the books – especially from Larry's – it's known that VL and Larry made love almost in front of Jill's eyes during their Hamlet play at Elsinore.

Ophelia drowns in the water of a brook and there's a mention of a tree branch. This must be connected. Certainly poetic.

And why it had to me murder – I mentioned elsewhere that I had a dream in which Thao told me I killed my mom (in other life obviously) and had to live life near her now.

Horatio name. Horatio Nelson was a close to me person in my EH life.

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1937)

V plays Titania. Maybe nothing, but sounds like Titanic – the big link in the chain leading me to finding my past life as Vivien Leigh. (also, there's that Butler sync with names and person Butler who actually died on Titanic – I've 2 syncs with him)

Titania is a queen of fairies. Now, fairies are different from elves, but I feel like noting I liked Night Elves in Warcraft 3 video game.

There's a picture of VL where I wear a costume with dragon fly like wings (edit: V plays Titania, queen of the fairies). This made me remember that girl whom I met in Sokolniki park. She drew wings over her photo she was painting over when we met; she wanted to look like a fairy – I'm sure. She later turned out to be too consumed by her phantasies… that theme again… also she gave me a name of a girl whom I contacted later and who wanted to speak with me but then I stopped writing to her a lot (many reasons; 1 of which she seemed to me too possessive when I was away and didn't visit vk;

I don't believe I ever written about the first girl and I feel like I need to write details about our meeting now.

I walked from the Golden Pond to the right edge of the Rose Garden on the diagonal path (left side). Under a tree was sitting that young girl (Katya her name was I think) who complained why insects bother her. I said maybe because she's tasty or something like that. She approached me and during conversation I thought she was a cosplayer (I was wrong). She asked something about pictures and drawing. We set on a bench and we talked about movies. She was talking about Loki character and telling she love him or something; then she said she was married and had 5 children… with who later turneout to be a fictional character from movie I think. Then she started telling to passer byes almost rude things in negative voice; at one moment she said something about Venus – like being from Venus; at those moments I tried to look away as if I wasn't with her… this was the time when it was me who needed an excuse to leave and thankfully I was getting hungry, as it was about 4 o'clock and we went to the fountain and there said goodbyes. She blocked me on her Instagram, but I created a new account just to send her my book and Thiaoouba in case that would help her with her problems she clearly had at that time.

Now that I wrote about it, I thought that the event has several connections not only to my present life but also to my past…

06.05.2024. The photo where Katya was drawing fairy wings onto herself can be found on her Instagram. It was uploaded on July 4, 2021.

https://www.instagram.com/elf_grenleaf/

While searching for this picture, I realized that Katya writes her name as Isis and writes she's from Venus (obviously, she's not, and it's one of the things which made me want to say goodbye and leave after we met). It may be of another synchronicity, but with Cleopatra's life. Cleopatra VII was identified with the Egyptian goddess, Isis, who is equated with Aphrodite and Venus.

https://vivien-leigh.info/ru/theatre/midsummer_dream/

Ralph Richardson: "Vivien was a wonderful partner in every way and did her best to make our work together successful. What I admired most was her humor, cheerfulness, professionalism, common sense and flexibility of mind."

Qualities which I also had (before due to stammer I became subdued in many of those areas). Can it be the answer I had regarding that dream in a streetcar with Olga saying that I always went downwards and asking if it was time to go up? Because in this life I was going down almost from 5 yo when I started stuttering; I actually played with the idea if the dream meant my past life(lives)? I think this could be the answer. (That dream played a very big role in my life). (#reflection)?

There's a theme that it all must be a dream. Interesting because some dreams do matter – actually, my dream with Vivien was after all a true dream.

Serena Blandish (1938)

Not a lot of info out there.

Just noticed Serena name. It was the nickname of the red haired girl who was a ballet dancer (I mentioned here elsewhere; Waterloo Bridge connection) and who actually listened to my talks about Thiaoouba; she said I was talking about interesting subjects.

I found this:

(This article is in the public domain in the United States as of January 1, 2025.)

https://content.time.com/time/subscriber/article/0,33009,737251,00.html

"Serena Blandish was born near the docks of London. When she grew up, she was carried off by a Countess who wished her to make a brilliant marriage. This Serena was incompetent to do. She accepted a ring from a Jewish jeweler and she accepted a luncheon engagement with Lord Ivor Cream. The ring led to embarrassments and the luncheon engagement led, not to another engagement of a more permanent nature, but to tea. Martin, the Countess's butler, gloomily observed: "A lady who stays to tea where she has been invited to luncheon never gets engaged to be married." There came, finally, a proposal from the jeweler; also, an unimportant young man whom Serena would have loved even if he had not liked her a bit. He invited her to go unconventionally with him to Monte Carlo, to start a night club. In stead of becoming the consort of a Negro, as she was made to do in the book, Serena of the play runs downstairs on her way to a golden and most likely disastrous adventure, still happily, if perilously, unmarried."

Probably a big stretch. Dread Hunger video game (it's connected to syncs with Michele Avila) starts at the docks of London.

April 28, 2026. Now that I know I'm Evdokia Dioper, the part about not marrying the black person, against the book's narrative, got my attention. From what little I know about the play, this part feels like an alternative story of how my Evdokia's life could have been.

And then:

(This article is in the public domain in the United States as of January 1, 2025.)

https://www.nytimes.com/1929/01/24/archives/the-play-difficulties-of-getting-married.html

http://www.snbehrman.com/productions/plays/reviews/SB1_times.htm

"In dramatizing this novel by a Lady Jones of Quality, S. N. Behrman, whose quality has already been tasted in "The Second Man," lacks audacity, like Serena herself. Lacking audacity Serena, who finds getting married so difficult, concludes merely by winning the man of her heart on his own ungenerous terms. She has had a fling at Lord Ivor Cream, the apathetic, insufferable moneybags of the Albany. She has had an honorable proposal from Sigmund Traub, the affluent jeweler of Bond Street. Alas, Serena lacks audacity. So she joins forces with that parasitic Edgar Malleson and starts off for Monte Carlo to open a night club—unhallowed by the church, unsustained by solid society. There is only the ecstasy of her heart to prove that she has made no genuine mistake."

"You must know, then, that men like Serena without taking her seriously. As the philosophical butler tells her, she has not the instinct of success. When, by sudden magic, the juggernaut Countess adopts her and trains her in the art of snaring husbands, her prospects brighten. She meets the grand world. She lunches with the greatest catch in London in his private apartments. But her quest of a husband is false to her nature, as she knows in her heart. That is why she decides to roll off to Monte Carlo with a mossless, bounding stone and the man she honestly loves."

Probably nothing again. In the video game GTA Vice City you can buy a night club. I remember I liked that idea and the idea of buying properties in the game in general; It was fun; And it was the activity I was looking for in GTA: San Andreas.

Romeo and Juliet (1940)

"I will not fail: 'tis twenty years till then.

I have forgot why I did call thee back."

(I didn't read a lot on this play)

The Doctor's Dilemma (1942)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Doctor%27s_Dilemma_(play)

Doctor Sir Colenso Ridgeon developed a revolutionary new cure for tuberculosis.

V suffered from tuberculosis since 1944.

The play itself raises important topic.

The Skin of Our Teeth (1945, 1946, 1948)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Skin_of_Our_Teeth

This was one of Leigh favorite plays. She played Sabina.

I notice that it has certain Biblical references. And in my life, I'm connected to the Bible via Thiaoouba.

About Sabina addressing the audience and giving them the responsibility to continue the action, life:

This reminded me of my latest attempts to prove that many of the things mentioned in TP are real, including me recording a telekinesis session. I tried to ask people in the TPXP group to share it, but many only argue with me. So, essentially, I try to "turn over the responsibility of continuing the action, or life, to them", to other people for I thought I had done all I could, until I was fortunate enough to learn who I was in my past life (Vivien Leigh), and so I saw another purpose in my life.

CO:E33's "For those who come after" line may be of connection here.

Sabina says: "That's all we do—always beginning again! Over and over again. Always beginning again." … "Don't forget that a few years ago we came through the depression by the skin of our teeth! One more tight squeeze like that and where will we be?" … "My nerves can't stand it. But if you have any ideas about improving this crazy old world, I'm really with you. I really am."

This reminded me of my Manifesto in my book so much! That is literally the idea (which came from TP and my understandings) on how to improve "this crazy old world"!

I can see here another reflection similar to those of GwtW, Waterloo Bridge and That Hamilton Woman. I, even if playing a character, was asking a question, to which I found the answer in this life of Evgeny Meshkov.

She also says the words 'save the human race' in the end of the 1st part of the play I have downloaded. It's so fitting again to my situation (can earth disappear because of pollution?)

Part 1.

2:40 into the televised play. Sabina mentions Hudson river.

3:30 Every muscle goes tight each time Mr. Antrobus passes by a policeman. Mr. Antrobus is a fine man, has all the best interests of the community at heart.

Actually, I can see myself here.

4:10 Sabina holds a slingshot.

As a child I used to make slingshots out of wooden sticks.

19:25 I as Sabina tell the audience not to take this play seriously, the world is not coming to an end.

I'm not so sure about it now (I already mentioned the CO2 pollution and its potential consequences).

22:15 I'm rewatching this play on September 11, 2026, and just yesterday I had a dream in which I walk holding a long plate with china on it.

22:36 maybe it's a coincidence, but there's what maybe is called videotape tracking error. Halves of 2 frames were briefly shown on the screen. And again I'm reminded of what I saw in that porcelain tray dream yesterday, which is the faces of 2 women shown side by side in split view.

In The Ring film I watched yesterday there's the same split view frame effect.

Part 2.

3:22 Could be coincidence, or could be some synchronistic connection to how people in Asia improved the tomato for it to be edible (see. Thiaoouba book).

On the 8th minute into the 2nd part of the play she speaks of taking husbands.

What scares me somewhat is that whenever I find myself a partner (which could well be another life) they could start cheating on me, and I'll suffer for stealing other people's partners both in real life and possibly in movies/plays.

16 minutes in (half is 8, btw. Half-Life ref) Miss Somerset (I, VL, played that character who plays Sabina) says she can't say certain lines for they could hurt someone's feelings. Now I don't wish to hurt anyone, but I do realize the importance of telling the truth, your opinions if you know it's right, even if it'll hurt someone's feelings – in fact anyone can be hurt by anything and we need to exist.

It's ironic that Sabina did hurt the feelings of the wife who's husband she stole.

The end of the 2nd part reminded me of my recent hope that maybe people will colonize other planets in the Solar system and humanity and knowledge we've ammased will survive.

Richard III (1948, 1949)

Plays Lady Anne.

The School for Scandal (1948, 1949)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_School_for_Scandal

V plays Lady Teazle.

The spreading of rumors in Act I remind me of Karen spreading rumors about Michele. Kinda reflects the fact that Randy was more interested in Michele (Karen hated that apparently). But maybe it's nothing.

Antigone (1949)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Antigone_(Sophocles_play)
She's stubborn.

About punishment and wisdom:
We can learn spiritual knowledge from suffering for our own mistakes (provided we choose to learn the lesson).

A Streetcar Named Desire (1949)

I watched the movie. Although it was changed a little due to censorship.

Caesar and Cleopatra (1951)

Watched the movie. In the short summery there's no mention of laughing at bald head which resulted in me experiencing baldness for the first time. So it's required to read plays anyway for the details that could be important.
(in the play there's the same line as in the movie)

Antony and Cleopatra (1951)

Donald Pleasence played in the play. I know him from Halloween.

https://vivien-leigh.info/theatre/cleopatra/
Vivien Leigh: "I would have loved to have been Cleopatra in real life - providing I could choose my own Antony."
This is funny due to some synchronicities pointing to a possibility Vivien could have player herself in her (and mine) old lives (played in some of her roles in movies and plays). Of course, I've nothing yet to either prove or disprove V could have been actual real-life Cleopatra, but it's interesting she should have said that.
I had a dream saying Vivien was Cleopatra, but it's possible it meant she was Cleopatra on stage – as an actress playing a Character; not all dreams are true – yet to learn how to distinguish them.
02.03.2024 – I asked Higher Self to show who I was in 40 BC, and two dreams showed me face and then mask, and both, as I found, are connected to Cleopatra. My knowledge and experience finding my past life of Vivien Leigh dictate that those dreams had to be true. I, and Vivien Leigh, was Cleopatra. So it's even more interesting now that I said I'd have loved to have been Cleopatra irl when, in fact, I was her but didn't remember it because of the River of Oblivion.

Vivien Leigh: "I read anything I could get hold of on Cleopatra. It just gets you into the atmaosphere and into the mood."

This is exactly what I'm doing reading anything I can get hold of on Vivien Leigh. Only the reason is to learn about my past life and about reincarnation.

The Sleeping Prince (1953)

Twelfth Night (1955, 1961)

Macbeth (1955)

Ian Holm played the role of Donalbain. I knew him from Alien and Lord of the Rings movies. The Alien was the reason for my most nightmarish dream.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Macbeth

Macbeth was punished in the play for crimes. But sude is not a solution, so…

Titus Andronicus (1955, 1957)

Ian Holm was again in the play.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Titus_Andronicus

Regarding what Aaron, Demetrius and Chiron did to Lavinia deep in a forest:

Perhaps it's nothing – just thought that there were 3 women when Michele Avila died and they were technically deep in the woods. But then only 2 actually killed Michele, the 3rd didn't know about the plan, but she didn't do anything to help Michele also.

South Sea Bubble (1956)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/South_Sea_Bubble_(play)

At his beach house, drunk Hali has a skirmish with Sandra, seizes her and then kisses. Hali has a concussion after Sandra hits him with a bottle, knocking him out.

Just reminded me of how I hit the back of my head against the ice when sliding on the icy slope into the lake behind my friend Anton. I felt a bit dizzy and I actually (I think) asked my mother to take me to a doctor (but she didn't). I think all cured on its own. But I feel like the error was to sit behind my friend and not anticipate that it's dangerous – for there was a sudden drop and I could have known his body (or head?) could smash into mine and send me to hit the ice. (but maybe there is some (#reflection) here still…)

Also it's important to note V's character had to defend herself against possible rape in the play, so…

Duel of Angels (1958)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Duel_of_Angels not a lot of info

Look After Lulu! (1959)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Look_After_Lulu!

Lady of the Camellias (1961-62)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Lady_of_the_Camellias

Plays a courtesan (prostitute essentially) named Marguerite Gautier.

The dishonest (I've reasons to think so) girl in Sokolniki was Rita (Margarita)

Could be a reason why I had to experience going 4 times to 3 prostitutes (#reflection)? Also I wanted to help Natasha, but the fear of speech and other unexpected things prevented me from telling her the true reason for my second and last visit.

She plays with John Merivale; her bf till her death.

Rita suffers from consumption (tuberculosis); V had it and died from it.

But some scholars think that the play's "consumption" was a 19th-century euphemism for syphilis.

Tovarich (1963)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tovarich_(musical)

Stalin liked this word – tovarich. And our physics teacher once called me ‘tovarich Meshkov’.

It’s yet another time she played a Russian, Tatiana (another is Anna Karenina); and in 21 Days Together her husband was Russian.

La Contessa (1965)

Not a lot of info. The play was short lived.

Ivanov (1966)

Shubert Theatre, New York City Anna Petrova John Gielgud Anton Chekhov

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ivanov_(play)

Plays Anna Petrova. Yet another Anna.

I bought a book by Anton Chekhov after the introduction to acting class. (check)

Anna. Born as Sarah Abramson – Ivanov’s wife. She unknowingly suffers from tuberculosis.

It’s the second role (Lady of the Camellias – probably tuberculosis) in which V’s character suffers from the illness that would later kill her.

A Delicate Balance

Vivien was to play Agnes in the play A Delicate Balance before she died. Agnes considers herself the fulcrum of the family, keeping everyone in balance.

After my Thiaoouba experience, I realized that there are two extremes in almost everything in life, and staying in balance in the golden middle is the correct thing to do in order not to make mistakes and suffer for them.

Interesting to note that when I read about Agnes on Wikipedia some of the things do in some ways relate to my life.

Having red plots for all of V’s plays I could find I must say that the details aren’t mentioned in the summaries. And from Caeser and Cleopatra movie it’s clear even the smallest and silliest of details can make a huge difference (bald joke resulted in my hair problem). So it’s possible something important remains off Internet’s pages (and can only be accessed via Psychosphere, I imagine?)

Rebecca (1950)

Sir LAURENCE OLIVIER, VIVIEN LEIGH Rebecca • [remastered] • Classic Radio Theater - November 6, 1950

I had a friend in school whose name is Maxim, Max.

3:10 VL: But sometimes in my dreams I do go back. To the strange days of my life, which began for me in the south of France.

There's a rumor Mary Magdalene lived in the south of France and died in France. Don't know how accurate that info is, but it's the same source which talked about 14 & 28.

30:27 Mrs. de Winter (VL) has decided to have a costume ball. She put on clothes same as Maxim's ancestor has in the picture (but de Winter didn't know Rebecca wore the identical costume before she died). It was Mrs. Danvers' idea who is obsessed with Rebecca – preserved her room, which is a shrine-like.

This may be reflected in my Michele Avila life. Actually, after that life was over for me (and Rebecca was also dead); Karen tried to be me – Missy. She'd wear my clothes, ate my favorite food, sat in my chair, and even tried sleeping in my bed. (#reflection)

37:55 4 days after marriage Maxim finds out the ugly truth about Rebecca, who is laughing at him, saying he'd look foolish to divorce her after 4 days. He wanted to kill her.

I'd like to note Rebecca was thought to have drowned (but actually hit her head in an argument and died).

Book Connections

Gone with the Wind by Margaret Mitchell

Scarlett's thoughts on Melanie's thin waist reminded me of some of my thought I had about Maelle from CO:E33 when I didn't know yet I will look like her in my future life.

Scarlett is 16 (Maelle's age); 28 at the end.

Ashley was of line of men who used their leisure for spinning brightly colored dreams with no touch in reality in them.

Found this interesting due to me having had straggles with my daydreaming.

Scarlett is called Missy by Gerald sometimes.

Gerald treating Scarlett man to man manner which she liked.
Missy boyish behavior in early childhood when playing with boys' toys.

Gerald pinched Scarlett's cheek.
Reminded me of some school boys with their silly cheek pinching habits. Like, they'd gently pinch someone's cheek, or cheeks, and move them from side to side.

Gerald calls Scarlett Puss. Larry did the same.

"Like must marry like or there'll be no happiness."
Now it reminds me of love, spiritual affinity and Palantius (from Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet).

Gerald pats Scarlett's arm.
Had that happen to me… when I was working as a merchandiser, I had to ask an old woman on the street for directions and I had issues saying the word. Also, in Mulholland Dr. movie which played a big role in my life and with which I found some parallels after finding my past life of Vivien, Coco pats Diane's hand in a similar manner.

Ellen & Gerald had 6 children. 3 girls, 3 sons who died. They were married for 17 years at the start of the book.
Nefertiti & Missy parallels.

Verbena sachet.
That flower must have grown in our village garden. I photographed that flower too; love its color.

The coachman, who for 20 years handled Gerald's horses, is called Toby.

Gerald is 28 years older than Ellen.

Gerald was 21 when he came to America.

Ellen took Manny and 20 other people to Tara (21 in total).

Scarlett played with people of color or neighbor boys, and could throw a rock.
I was throwing rocks in my childhood at an abandoned house across ours in village. Maelle likes to throw rocks. In Missy's life played with boyish toys when I was very little, from what I know.

Scarlett was self-willed, vain and obstinate. High spirits, vivacity and charm. Headstrong and impetuous nature from Gerald.

As a child Scarlett confused her mom with Virgin Mary.
Just noting it cause in Mary Magdalene's life I knew her.

The last paragraph of the 3-rd chapter was of interest. I think I am kind of like Ellen now in this life.

Scarlett's daydreaming reminded me my own in intensity and features.

Lavender barred muslin made Scarlett look like a schoolgirl. In Vivien's life my first film role was that of a schoolgirl.

Scarlett was a bit ashamed to show he neck, arms and bosom.
Neck and hands - had issues with those as VL.

"Eat lak a bird" - Mammy of Scarlett.

Mammy to Scarlett, "you doan faint 'bout snakes an' mouses an' sech."
Had a mouse bite me in MA's life. A snake (уж - Grass snake) scared me in the woods once, and I became frozen when I first saw it until seeing the yellow dots on its head, realizing it's not a poisonous snake.

Mammy tells Scarlett in regards to not being in the sun with no hat, and not eating too much for it could come out.
I almost had a sun stroke, felt like throwing up. And there was that silly episode in my life when I did eat too much and too fast and threw up.

Scarlett, "Some day I'm going to do and say everything I want to do and say, and if people don't like it I don't care."

I had a dream in which I saw Yana's house, and later that day I returned to reading the book. Just mentioning this because before that I remembered Yana in some things about Scarlett.

"No one to tell Scarlett that her own personality..."
The paragraph may have some reflections with some of my experiences.

Blackberry brambles.
I bought and planted several blackberry bushes at the back of our village's garden.

Scarlett daydreams of her married life with Ashley.
There was a similar episode in my Missy's life.

Scarlett putting out her tongue.
Something that has a reflection with my childhood struggles due to stuttering when in school it got so bad that my tongue would be out of my mouth when I was unable to utter a single word.

No girl ... Really liked Scarlett.

Scarlett sat on rosewood ottoman.

Married ladies wearing dark clothes looked to Scarlett like a clump of fat crows. I've had bizarre situations when crows would caw at me and follow me near my house in Moscow. They didn't seem to do that to other people.

There were 7 cavaliers around Scarlett.

I have to note that my father used to often cook shashlik behind out village house. Shashlik is very close to barbecue, which plays an important role in GwtW. Margaret's description of barbecue has finally hit me with this realization, submerging me in my memories of my childhood. I love shashlik, as many Russians do. Some of my village friends used to come to shashlik also (and I don't remember us kids ever coming to other families' shashliks – which, perhaps, some of them did privately at the back of their plots).

Melanie was 17 at the start of the book. She was also a tiny girl, who gave the appearance of a child. Her face is described as being too wide at the cheekbones. These descriptions reminded me of my Missy's appearance (but other descriptions of Melanie don't seem to match).

"Fast" – the only word for Scarlett. Maybe it's nothing, but reminded me of the expression "faster crowd" I saw in the book about me in my Missy's life.

Ashley was playing with Melanie's sash, not paying attention to Scarlett, who felt like clawing Mel's skin till the blood run and take pleasure in the act.

It's honestly somewhat chilly to realize that this sentence has a parallel in my life – I described that episode in my free e-book Simple Truths of Life; it's about that store woman whom I liked and who laughed at me, making me feel a highly similar thing that Scarlett is described to be feeling… (#reflection)

Scarlett thought of herself as "popular" – and she is. Being popular, including with boys, is how I'm described in my Missy's incarnation, and it was one of factors leading to my death in that life.

Tempestuous nature of Scarlett. Jest before I started reading the book, I had awakened my own tempestuous nature. It's about the attitude of a person who turned away from me for no good reason.

Scarlett had blank spots of the last days of April 1861. In my Vivien's life there were periods, episodes when I didn't remember certain events.

Ashley's wedding would be on May 1. That's the day I was born in my Mario's life.

Charles Hamilton died on the 7th week after going to war.

Scarlett forgetting she had a baby reminded me of my episode when I forgot what my last name was – so deeply I got lost in my daydreaming then! Memory returned and all was normal when I returned back to reality.

The introduction of Belle Watling, when Scarlett first sees her, is of big interest because Margaret writes Belle's hair was "too red", and Scarlett knew she had "done something to her hair" – e.g. dyed it red.

Several women who dyed their hair red played big roles in my life; I've mentioned them before. Two of them are called "Marina".

Scarlett: Ashley lives inside his head and not outside in the world.

This is kinda me in this current life.

Scarlett was 14 when she fell in love with Ashley.

I was 14 when I experienced my love at first sight, which was a crucial point of my life.

Scarlett worked at a hospital.

It my relate to what I wanted to work as in my Missy's life.

Scarlett also experienced the effect of time seeming to be going fast when her old days were similar and nothing new happened. During the war that changed as there was something new happening each day.

I've experienced and noticed very well that effect – when time seems to go slowly when your life if full of new events.

Rhett saying to Scarlett he thought they agreed during their first meeting she was no lady reminded me of how one guy on YouTube told me we were in agreement about similar looking rocks (I believe) on Mars. The thing is I was never in any agreements with him.

Rhett lists dimples as one of Scarlett's "weapons".

I remember Gore (Гор) from school noted the fact I had dimples on my cheeks when I smiled.

Rhett said there are 2 times to make big money: during upbuilding of a country and then during its destruction.

This reminded me of cryptocurrency trading experience. Only I never made any big money for various reasons.

The bonnet Rhett brought to Scarlett was pale-jade in color.
Maybe it's nothing; just reminded me I was called Jade in my past life.

Andersonville.
Some dreams about my 29th life of Mary said "Anderson".

Margaret describes Melanie's figure.
Now, I barely saw Margaret in her new life that she lives atm, but maybe she bears certain resemblance.

Scarlett escaping the hospital without telling anyone reminded me of how I said nothing and just went out from the tv studio where Olya, my cousin, worked. I didn't work there officially; she offered me to be present during one of their tv shootings. I wasn't given any tasks to do and not much was happening, and I was just bored, I guess, not knowing why I was there.

Scarlett isn't sure if it was her Pa or her Pa's Pa under siege.
Have to say I sometimes don't remember the history of my family well too, and I find myself sometimes asking mother similar questions about this or that relative.

Scarlett keeps her promises.

In chapter XXI Scarlett is restless, expecting Melly's baby.
I noticed that I myself was restless today (May 22, 2026) while reading this chapter. I'd constantly put the book down to do something else (a thought came to upload Michel D.'s lecture and interview with Michael M. to the websites where I recently uploaded my own videos, and I went with that idea. There were issues with uploads too. Then I do sometimes think of the recent amogus situation.) It was the first time I was this restless ever since I started reading GwtW.

Amos.
There's a singer called Tori Amos. I like several of her songs.

Melanie was so white and still that Scarlett thought for a moment she was dead, but then she saw the rise and fall of her breathing.
This reflects in my own experiences when mother wasn't feeling well.

"Why – he's an old man!" – thought Scarlett about Gerald.
Unfortunately, when I was in high school (10-11 grades) my mother and I often quarreled (my stuttering and developed fear of speech were the reasons why I didn't want to go to school, and mother didn't understand just how difficult life was for me then; knowing who I was in my past lives finally explained why inability to talk normally was such a big deal for me). During one such quarrel I looked at mother and saw just how old she was…

somehow, I never noticed that until that moment, after which I stopped quarreling with her. (#reflection)

Clayton County.
It's the last name of one person some of whose posts I had to moderate due to their irrelevance to Thiaoouba.

Dying Ellen calling for Philippe reminded me of my September 25, 2024 dream.

Scarlett essentially knowing it's healthy to take one step at a time when a lot of matters press on her finds its reflection in my own life. When I knew I'm Vivien Leigh and I had indicators I'm also several other people whom history still remembers I had this clear thought that I need to take one step at a time in my research so that I'm not overwhelmed.

Scarlett's son Wade had worms.

Gerald O'Hara sometimes saying things which imply Ellen is alive.
I've never did that, but during certain few difficult times, when I'd be lost way too deep in my inner world of thoughts and fantasies, it did feel like I could say something similar and I made sure to come to my senses.

Caesar is mentioned in the book.

Scarlett's, as well as Melanie's, worries whether Ashley was alive or dead probably find the reflection in how in my life I've worried on couple of occasions if mother was alright. It usually happened because there was an issue with his phone and I couldn't reach her for a long time.

Scarlett calls Rhett a skunk (скунс in Russian). Sergey in village used that word, joking about some nasty smell or whatever, when we were teens. We don't have these animals in Russia.

Scarlett has calluses on her palms. I often had calluses in my childhood from doing various work at our village home.

Ashley's imagination and escaping from reality in his dreams bear resemblances to my current life.

Ashley watched Scarlett go and saw her square her small thin shoulders. Seeing that went to his heart, more than any words she had spoken.
I've had to square my shoulders often. Still do. Very long time ago there was a moment in a store when a young woman told her young son to keep his back straight, evidently using me as an example of someone who was hunching his back too much. That episode stayed with me. My appearance was important to me and it hurt to realize that in reality I wasn't the person I wished to be in my dreams. (#reflection)

The episode of Scarlett squaring her shoulders would be remembered again a few times in the book. It's an important detail about Scarlett O'Hara.

Scarlett thought to go to Rhett like a queen granting favors.

Scarlett as if really seeing herself in the mirror like she saw herself for the first time in a year, even though she did glance at herself each day, is a very close parallel to my own life when I was 18. Scarlett was pressed by other things to really see herself in the mirror, and so was I back then; and I'm often this way still. A lot of how Margaret describes Scarlett's face at that moment also matches the way I looked in the moment of my horrifying discovery. (#reflection)

Perhaps it's nothing, but I'll mention what I realized:

Scarlett – scar let. I've got scars on my face, and there are related synchronicities with IT.

Scarlett kissed her reflection in the mirror.

I had a sort of brief apparitions of thoughts/daydreams of kissing my old female lives' mirror reflections in lucid dreams. Silly me.

In preparations to appear pretty and carefree before Rhett Butler Scarlett pinched her cheeks to give them [reddish] color.

I think I described before here how in school I scratched my cheeks to make them red and I was able to get a doctor to call it Rubella (Краснуха) and I didn't have to go to school for a week (it was an error on my part; I did it because I had my big fears of speech then and was willing to do such an awful thing just to get a week of calm, knowing I wouldn't be asked any questions [at school or anywhere] and so didn't have to talk stammering, which I hated… now it's clear why).

Then Margaret describes that Scarlett bit her lips until they stung to make them red…

As I also described before, I had a bad habit of biting my lips when I was about 17 or 18 maybe. In Russian winter cold my lips got chapped and when I played Half-Life, I habitually bit my lips during an intense game-moment, and what I got is lifetime scar which was the sources of some of my depressions and tears.

Scarlett lying to Rhett about everything being fine at Tara brought memories of how I found myself needing to pretend I stammered at the medical office examining me for the army… it was so awful and I existed that room crying… stammer destroyed my whole life and when the matter was so serious (I considered going into the army to be like imprisonment for 2 years since it all would be done against my will) – I could probably recite Shakespear without ever stammering once! What a cruel joke fate had thrown at me, I thought.

Scarlett was "a bad girl" not keeping up with old friends.

After 18 years of age I didn't keep up with my old friends also. Partially because materially my life had nothing special to share, and not many believe (for now) the spiritual side of my life. And I was somewhat envious, jealous of people having a life and me sitting home (health reasons), not having a family of my own, etc. Knowing other people had those things mentally hurt me sometimes.

Scarlett's thoughts of Frank Kennedy describe me in this life at one time or another: he's no beauty, has bad teeth and bad breath, nervous, timid, and well meaning.

There were times when I got over my shyness and nervousness. There were times when people told me I was beautiful.

I had to treat many of my teeth and at certain times I felt whiffs of bad smell in the mornings.

Rhett tells Scarlett: "Be different and be damned!" She succeeded with her own sawmill business. And most people don't understand what drives her to have become a businesswoman (survival).

That quote describes me in this current life. I was damned by many for my Thiaoouba-related experiences, and for my research of reincarnation via my Higher Self and dreams.

Some people also don't understand what drives me. Thirst for knowledge is one thing; and I try to share my books and findings wherever I can so that all that knowledge has a chance to survive in this world.

Suellen trying to fool her pa, Gerald, into signing the papers in order to get money from the government for burning their cotton, etc., reminded me of how some people fooled my father into selling for cheap his mother's apartment, and then some people tried to get their hands on his last remaining apartment also.

Scarlett, unobserved, liked watching Ashley's face.

Reminded me of how I watched that blonde girl whom I fell in love with at first sight, and I could never approach her to tell her the truth.

When I worked as a courier a female worker noticed to the 2 reception ladies that I was looking at her – but at that time I did that for the sake of observation and I wasn't like staring, just out of curiosity glancing at people sometimes.

Scarlett's second child, a daughter, is called Ella.

Rhett: "You're a fine honest rogue, Scarlett!"
Just reminded me of how I identified to a degree with Rogue from the X-Men. And she's actually the adopted daughter of Mystique.

A road near half burnt Sullivan plantation was the meeting place for the men after Scarlett was attacked.

Scarlett's nails dug into her palms creating 4 bright-red crescents.
Maybe just a coincidence, maybe a synchronicity - recently I was deeply impacted by ВИА Гра - Не оставляй меня любимый music video, and in it there's a shot of the exact same thing (at 1:50 into the video).

Scarlett's thoughts describe the look I saw today on some of the selfies I took several years ago: "I don't look very pretty. Too white and scared."

Scarlett tells about her recurring nightmare to Rhett. The part about her running and something chasing her, and her thinking if she can just get there, she'd be safe, reminded me of some of my dreams when I'm in my apartment building returning home and someone is walking behind me and maybe they're after me, and I want to quickly get to my apartment where it's (generally) safe.

India thought: "…your precious Scarlett." I'll just not that "our precious Missy" is about how Shavaun referred to me in her Facebook post.

Scarlett being ostracized by some people for her decisions and actions felt familiar how some people view me for my life's experiences they don't seem to believe in.

Scarlett's waist was 20 inches after giving birth to Bonnie Blue.
20 is somewhat of a cursed number for me, bringing misfortunes. I avoid it.

Scarlett not telling Melly the truth for it could ruin Melly's life if she knew her husband was unfaithful.
Shortly: V. in school boasted about having s with a brunette. They had no love or relationships at the time. He then took virginity of N. and he actually said that to the whole class and the algebra teacher. Later he didn't want to be her bf because… she was a wre, he said…
From love till hate. I know this feeling – for worse or better. Being rejected constantly can trigger certain memories and raise bad feelings from withing you. There was a moment I wanted to have revenge on that guy, who also called me and it once, and put some food leftovers in my plate on the final day. I know it was probably a silly plan to think that telling his wife or girlfriend about N. situation could have the result I was aiming - for if she was just as rotten as he is they'd just have more stuff to laugh at.

Then I saw they had a small child, a boy, and my heart warmed up because of him and I just couldn't do anything to try to break their relationships and ruin their lives because that child would probably be hurt too. The Universe has its laws and when it'll be time that guy will get what he deserves. This is very similar to Scarlett's realization and resulted intent to be silent about the truth.

Scarlett falling down the stairs reminded me of me flying down in the dream I had on that day: August 25, 2026.

Then I read about the giant Antaeus, who's the son of Gaia who gave birth to other giants. I saw giants in that dream also.

Blue bundle that was Bonnie Blue reminded me of seeing blue arrows in that dream.

Scarlett does far too much, they say, and she's headstrong.

Ashley having issues with math - six-by- eight was mentioned in the book.

In school – maybe it was 2nd or 3rd grade - Vova P. and I stood at a window preparing for the math test, and I remember one of us said 6*8 is 48. It rhymes and, I feel, that's at least one of reasons why I remembered this episode.

Scarlett, from the window, watcher Bonnie ride her pony and fall to her death. I'm reading this on August 26, 2026 when, in a dream, I was watching my mother from the window, and also some blue pen dreams had me sitting at a window. In the dream I had today I also saw a car fly high up and then crash down.

The girl would walk barefoot too – so Mammy told her a story abought ghosts in the dark which made Bonnie to be scared of the dark – and mother was barefoot in my dream.

Scarlett had a true dream about the mist , fog(?)

And it coincides with me reading this on the day I had for the first time people going with me and all was ok.

Katya and Ashley ?

At the end of the story Rhett is compared to tired Caesar.

Scarlett's mouth a round O.
This coincides with me having to write "O" today after what I saw in my dreams.

Rhett's voice disturbed Scarlett during their last conversation.
Again, there's a connection to the dream I had tonight. I heard mother's voice which reminded me of another voice I heard in a different dream some time ago.

At the end of the story, Scarlett says she's 28.
I was 28 when I turned my life around. At least for a while.

Rhett is 45. 17 years older than Scarlett.
Rhett was 33 & Scarlett was 16 when at the start of the book.

The book ends in 1873.
In my Lisa Hill's life, I probably died around the same year.

Rhett says he wasn't the one to pick up the broken fragments and glue them together to tell himself the mended item was as good as new. He'd rather remember it as it was then to look at the broken places.
Again, in a dream today I started picking up the broken glass fragments of that toy car until I realized I need to vacuum clean the floor and throw it all away.
Dark soil was also thrown away and I'll need to check the other dreams with it to see if I spot anything.

Scarlett had strong shoulders to carry burdens.
Just today I wrote about the weight on my shoulders.

I've noticed many more episodes in the book which remined me of my own. I didn't write them down because I deemed the potential connections too subtle. I also saw traits in Scarlett which are opposite of mine.
And as I was reading the book, I occasionally wondered if some of the things I read about will be, unbeknown to me right now, reflections in my future lives?

Book Notes

I need to be aware that sometimes authors might add their own thoughts or opinions which are not reflective of the true picture.

VL's father's consuming interest was the theatre.

VL's father was a broker and had success making him a rich man.

Just reminds me of my crypto episode. I also learned how this thing works and that many will lose money. So V's father made money but many lost that same money (to him). Is it surprising that I had to experience my crypto craze, lose half of my money on the exchanges, and learn lessons? No, not really. (I transferred about $1k to the exchange and after learning my lessons I made that money back and transferred it back to my bank account.)

Gertrude, Vivien's mother, had a garden full of jacaranda trees, rhododendrons and lilies. This could be a reason why in VL life I loved flowers and gardening.

There was a mention V loved white roses. I asked my HS once to show in a dream red roses and yellow lilies if certain things were true or untrue. Also I planted lilies and rhododendrons in my village when I was feeling healthy again (but maybe now the flowers are no more…). And of course there's no way for me to plant jacaranda in the cold climate I live in.

(#psyche-data)?

Gertrude introduced VL to Kim's Game. She also instilled in her manners. Among them was to be polite and considerate of other people.

Senchal Lake. Made me remember a person on FB by name of Sanchal.

It's also interesting how 'e' is 'exchanged for 'a' in his name. In my Vivian name 'a' became 'e' in Vivien. Also it's Mary & Maria; Missy & Missie.

Ernest, Vivien's father, played the villainous Chauvelin in The Scarlet Pimpernel. Names of Gilbert and Sullivan are mentioned too and I've encountered both of them in my life. Sullivan was my VL's friend; it's also a character in Silent Hill game, and I think that it was the last name of that woman whom I knew in my MA life and whose true character I uncovered in my current life thanks to my Thiaoouba knowledge.

Names of Gilbert and Sullivan are mentioned too and I've encountered both of them in my life. Sullivan was my VL's friend; it's also a character in Silent Hill game, and I think that it was the last name of that woman whom I knew in my MA life and whose true character I uncovered in my current life thanks to my Thiaoouba knowledge.

Ernest also taught VL to ride before giving her pony. This reminded me of Bonnie Blue from GWtW; she also had a name Eugenia Victoria.

On 20 September VL was taken to a West End show. Before she had shown a precocious love of the theater. The next morning [21 September] she's taken to the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Roehampton. "Very sad indeed" was the entry in Gertrude's diary when she visited Vivien on 26 September. She visited VL 2 more times. They visited London Zoo during one such occasion. Gertrude and Ernest sailed for India on 10 October. VL saw her mother again after about 2 years. VL was the youngest pupil in the school.

Some numerological similarities. Also, I was often one of youngest in my groups of friends.

There were 20 unheated dormitories in which girls slept.

The Convent regularly quoted from St Teresa each hour (during the day only, I assume): "An hour nearer to death. An hour nearer to heaven or hell." Sin – "wasting time in idle dreaming".

My paternal grandmother was religious and had many icons in the apartment. She recited some religious texts. Sometimes I thought about the sins of mine before finding Thiaoouba. Now I know about errors, reincarnation etc.

04.03.2024 – Since now I also know I was Mary Magdalene it's interesting to see how I had to experience living near people who probably preached [in that Convent] the distorted version of what Jesus said and which I [must have] heard with my own ears in my life of Mary Magdalene, but no longer had memory of due to River of Oblivion.

VL became popular among pupils and nuns. Good manners and being from India played a role there. Partially because VL was the youngest, Reverend Mother allowed her keep a stay kitten despite there being a strict 'No Pets' rule. Vivien loved cats throughout her life.

Michele was popular in school; and a cat she went seeking was the reason she met Karen.

VL would gaze at the movement of the water of the small lake located nearby. Water was Vivien's favorite element.

It was thanks to looking at water (Moscow River – bridge leading to Gorki Park) that I realized (I think I should be correct on the basics) the all is indeed vibration in life.

Also, water theme plays a role in all of 3 lives (VL, MA, me).

The girls could play tennis and sometimes there were plays. Vivien played Mustardseed in A Midsummer Night's Dream and Miranda in The Tempest. VL learned to play piano and cello. Maureen O'Sullivan was one of Vivien's best friends, and she also had acting ambitions. She recalled Vivien to be one of the most popular pupils, and VL once decisively announced to Maureen: "When I leave school, I'm going to be a great actress." Another friend, Patsy Quinn, remembered Vivien vividly:

"obviously delicate. Her chest was already weak . . . A "special child" you'd say. Even her presents from home were special. Vivien was so tiny and delicately made . . . with the only complexion I have seen that really was like a peach."

And she also said that while Vivien was a Catholic, she wasn't pious - "she never struck me as a 'believer' in the deeper sense".

I'll mention here that females who are called 'Marina / Марина' have played important roles in my life. Maureen is more connected to the Russian names 'Maria, Mariya, Marya', then to Marina, but the pronunciation is still quite close. Maybe it's nothing of course, but Maureen did play not a small part in my VL life, so who knows…

04.03.2024 – being Mary Magdalene, I see nothing strange about not being "a 'believer' in the deeper sense" in that life, since belief/faith is one thing and knowledge is another. And as Thiaoouba Prophecy teaches us, and as I noted above, the Bible was distorted several times. So, the Christian religious teachings are very distant now from what Jesus was actually saying to people.

Vivien had enthusiasm for Egyptian history, music, and dancing classes.

Vivien said once about Egyptian history: "I wish we could dig all the sand away and that all those marvellous spinxes [sic] and tempels [sic] could be seen again."

Reminds me of how in that dream in was said that Vivien Leigh was Cleopatra. Plus all the rest of ideas regarding VL possibly playing herself mentioned by me elsewhere.

I'll note here that in Zina's apartment on Voikovskaya were Egyptian themed things brought from their travels to Egypt.

I was at 1 point interested in Egypt too, but I had no time for serious studies. (#psyche-data)?

(#reflection)? Just tagging so that I can find it

04.03.2024 – I think it's safe to say at this point I was Cleopatra as hinted upon in 2 other dreams when I asked my Higher Self who I was in 40 BC. Michele Desmarquet mentioned in his other book that part of the 19% of the electrons, which used to be part of our past body, rejoins us when we're reborn. If true [Thao wasn't dictating his details anymore and he wrote that book long after his journey to Thiaoouba; it's possible some details may be off to some degree] then it may be a reason why we get interested in the topics which were part of our lives in our past incarnations. But for now it's just a speculation.

Patsy Quinn noticed Vivien would sometimes retreat behind a remoteness - when she was found alone by the lake, intently focusing on the movement of the water or the reflection of the trees' movement. Another friend said Vivien seemed untroubled for weeks, but:

"Then, suddenly, a complete turnaround. Sometimes it would last only a few hours, other times a day or more. But when it happened we'd see a completely different girl – moody, silent, petulant, rude, often hysterical, disturbed in some way that she had no control over . . . It was frightening when it happened, almost on the order of a dual personality."

I have experienced mild (from my perspective) signs of that also. (#psyche-data)

But I think there is control if you have knowledge – the reasons for that 'turnaround' and how to live so that there's no such mood swings. Because I had those episodes before my 28 years; after I started working on bringing myself out of the pit I found myself in; and I've made progress. That's why I say that we have control. Those mood states are the consequences of our decisions (mistakes in this case).

The book mentions Gertrude, saying she'd be happy to enjoy a type of 1920s Grand Tour while turning a blind eye to Ernest's casual flings.

P 29: "Gertrude, who would seem to have had no great sexual drive, or to repress it, would be happy to enjoy a kind of 1920s Grand Tour while turning a blind eye to Ernest's casual flings."

Probably nothing. Just that I watched the show Grand Tour with Clarkson, May and Hammond; and before I watched almost all seasons of their show Top Gear. Can't say I'm mad about cars; just really like those 3 people.

Patsy Quinn noticed Vivien's altered mood: "I remember unhappy letters from her first very strict convent in France."

I just noting here how in my life some of my old village friends exchanged mail addresses to send letters during school, but due to my speech problems and shyness I could not join them…

Vivien, at nearly 16, came to a dance in a short simple little dress and with no make-up. Other girls were deserted and all the boys went to ask Vivien to dance.

I noted it here because I remembered how I was actually excluded from the group when Marina was surrounded by guys. Now, I doubt I in Vivien's life did anything wrong in what was described, but maybe something which was left unrecorded was a mistake that did result in that event? But it's so, so subtle if there's anything here at all.

I prefer women with no make-up.

VL would Lay on the balcony and smoked. And read the scandalous novel 'Three Weeks' by Elinor Glyn:

"Would you like to sin
With Elinor Glyn
On a tiger skin?
Or would you prefer
To err with her

On some other fur?"
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Three_Weeks_(book) The Lady is the queen of a Russian dependency

Vivien's brief diary entry made on December 20, 1932: "Too tired to write, but I got married. Wonderful day."

The postcode of the address Vivien and Leigh lived at is NW8.

An entry in Vivien's diary says she had a lunch with Jamie Hamilton's lively new girlfriend and later wife, Yvonne Pallavicino. There's also mention of Clare Sheridan who made Vivien's life seem humdrum.

Just noting it made me remember 2 Marina women in my life. One is my old friend from my village who married at a young age (it caught my attention at the time); and the other is the woman who was the first whom I was able to approach and ask if she had someone – she's the one who I've many syncs with and she plays a role in me realizing I could actually find my life on the Internet – and she also once say 'но это же так скучно', (but it's so boring) when I said I was often walking in the area alone (possible sync connection to 'humdrum').

04.03.2024 – I'll also note that both 'Hamilton' and 'Yvonne' relate to at least 2 of my past lives.

Vivien said Leigh taught her most of what she knew of antiques. And later it's said VL and LH furnished the new house and she enhanced the room's space by placing mirrors or opening up cupboards near fireplaces to create open shelving, sometimes backed by mirrors and backlit to improve the illusion of space.

Just reminded me of how 1 of the things I thought of doing in my life is creating a 3D software to easily create 3D models – including architecture and furniture. I like the design too; sometimes I'd walk in stores just to look at different ideas of furniture, kitchens etc. Could it be (#psyche-data)?

Mills Martin once saw Suzanne wailing with Vivien paying little attention (Mills noted: "It is possible to give birth without the maternal glands working"). The actress Fabia Drake thought that while Vivien admired Leigh and appreciated his intelligence and kindness, "she was bored with her marriage to a barrister".

During waits between set-ups Vivien watched and absorbed all she could, even in scenes she was not in.

Just noting can see myself in this. (#psyche-data) or (#spiritual-knowledge)?

Maud Miller met Vivien on the Cobham location. She once asked VL if she was doing the job (acting) for fun and V responded by saying: “I happen to be an actress. I am not playing at the game”.

20 years later Miller would write of Vivien:

“a warm-hearted person when you get to know her . . . a curious mixture of child and sophisticate, actress and mother with a suspicion of the siren Cleopatra . . . there is one streak that only those who know her best are aware of. It’s her steely determination.”

Funny that another person had to compare her to Cleopatra (numerous syncs and dream). Also, as I mentioned elsewhere, ‘steely determination’ is what allowed me to carry out my Thiaoouba related activities – no matter what!

Warm-hearted generally describes me too (maybe Michele Avila also from what people said about her).

In The Village Squire movie Vivien plays a rather snooty Rose.

Snooty means “showing disapproval or contempt towards others, especially those considered to belong to a lower social class”. It’s interesting because I was at some points in my life in that reversed situation; I certainly live in a low social class as far as materialism is concerned (#error)?

(Look up and Laugh) Dean wrote about Vivien: “She was so uncontrollably nervous that for a while she seemed unable to take direction, a circumstance for which I made insufficient allowance. I became impatient.”

(#psyche-data) ? I’m not sure though. I was nervous but for different reason. Anyhow, it’s one of those proofs those skeptics who could think I couldn’t be VL because of my problems (V had some of them too)

John Buckmaster is described as a more dangerous companion.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/John_R._Buckmaster

Vivien had an affair with him while married to Herbert Leigh Holman. And another in 1953, when she was married to Laurence Olivier.

Vivien, Laurence Olivier and his pregnant wife Jill Esmond met on the first night of ‘The Happy Hypocrite’, and Vivien touched the private information concerning the child’s name, when she asked: “How’s little Tarquin coming along?” It was clear Olivier was seeing someone else; actually, The 400 Club is mentioned the places Vivien and Olivier had the first dinner for just two.

Heh, reminds of me when I asked Yana in Gorki Park if she had a boyfriend. Also a private information, but also could be considered rude by some women – like you think they’re still virgin or something in this day and age (of course, now I think people should seek partners more responsibly and with the Palantius – spiritual affinity – in mind too maybe)

I had other similar cases (but of different nature).

Also 400 maybe of some connection. 400 is how many days between the day Michel Desmarquet was taken to Thiaoouba on June 26, 1987 and my birthday; after learning I was Mary Magdalene this similarity may be more than just a coincidence. 26 is also a familiar number in my life (also, there are 26 karses in a Thiaooubian day).

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_400_Club

The 400 Club was a night club at 28a Leicester Square, in the West End of London.

When Vivien met Olivier, he was 28.

Just like me in Vivien Leigh life (when seeing for the first time Leigh and then Olivier), Jill thought when she first saw Olivier: "I knew he was the man I was going to marry."

I copied it for Jill's words; but then I remembered my dream about the budgie which got smaller and smaller in my hands… until it was crushed… LO later said to speak about something else when the interviewer asked questions about Vivien… I could see some intertwinings here (but maybe it's nothing; just me seeing connection when none exists).

P 61: "The Holmans and the Oliviers had had occasional dinners, although at this stage Olivier found the reserved Leigh somewhat dull. He had had at least two lunches (the first with Gielgud also present) with Vivien and that dinner at "The 400"."

The books says that both Olivier and Vivien abandoned and retreated from their religions. They had an affair and both – Larry in particular – had a strong consciousness of sin.

As I said elsewhere – I've had a sense of sin when started masturbation; glanced at the icons sometimes… hoping no one would know what I was doing… etc (#psyche-data)?

05.03.2024 – knowing I was Mary Magdalene, meaning I was literally near Jesus – and, according to Gospel of Phillip, Jesus even kissed me in that life – and I heard and understood [some] of his teachings well, it becomes even more interesting that I looked at the icons portraying Jesus [Orthodox Church] but didn't remember or knew I was THAT close to him almost 2000 years ago… now it makes total sense that I 'had a strong consciousness of sin' in my current life and in my past life of Vivien Leigh! Again, it's possible it relates to us retaining some data from our past lives when we're reborn, and that data could be stored in the Astropsychic body – this is a hypotheses.

James Wong Howe often shot Vivien in shafts of light coming through mullioned windows.

Interestingly there was a moment in my life I tried to photograph with my phone camera shafts of light coming down amidst the morning fog under the trees and I didn't get the picture I saw with my eyes. And I like those shafts of light rays also.

P 63: “It’s not the stunts. It’s Vivien. It’s every day, two, three times.” noted it elsewhere. It’s about my high sexual drive which I had in VL’s life and still have in the current one.

Vivien used the scent by Patou – ‘Joy’, which became her signature scent.

“There are other joys in life” is what Thao told me in a telepathic message when I was, I think, 25. She was referring to s*x – that there are other joys in life other than sex (with the person you have mutual love and spiritual affinity). That event happened during the time I was searching Natasha, having removed my psychological block I created about her. Later Michele Avila’s black & white photo would remind me of how Natasha looked. It’s all interconnected.

P 65: “As if in recompense for her pains, Olivier soon took Jill – a Norland nanny took care of Tarquin – on a Mediterranean holiday on Capri. The following weeks really require a novelist – Henry James or Ford Madox Ford, some specialist in the deceptions and self-deceptions of the human heart – to scrutinise events. Vivien – as if just by chance – turned up in Capri with the innocent Oswald as chaperon…”

After becoming father, conscience-riven Olivier tried to persuade himself to leave Vivien, only to be haunted like Macbeth.

In trying to hold on to her husband, Jill befriended Vivien. Jill’s son wrote of her visits to Vivien’s house:

“She was making it happen, she would sit unbelieving: she had gone there to fight for her family . . . She was astonished to find herself passing on all she could to Vivien, as though they were the closest of friends.”

Don’t know if this could be the reason I’ve no friends and the ones I had kinda rejected me or betrayed? I mean, I’d be surprised if there wasn’t any connection at all.

Rex Harrison witnessed how Vivien “broke down in the dressing-room in wild hysteria, anger and anguish” when she was told her wish to play Ophelia opposite Olivier might not happen.

(#psyche-data) I can see myself in that episode – my old self in this life;

Cried numerous times over silly things. I'd like to think I've learned some lessons.

Vivien's diary on 10 June 1937: "Told Leigh". Both Vivien and Olivier told their spouse about the divorce.

This was no doubt very important date for VL. I decided to look at my diary and I noticed that there's a record. On 9 June 2023 I finished all the YouTube videos I'd been working on – and in my life as VL an important episode of life also came to an end. On 10th I masturbated for 6 hours, so… quite a punishment for what I did in the other life…

(#error)?

I need to note that both Leigh Holman and Jill Esmond didn't remarry…

Olivier's sister Sybille about seeing Vivien:

"This lovely young thing, with big green eyes and dark curls to her shoulders in a figured biscuit-coloured cotton frock with no hat and stockings, holding Larry's hand as she came shyly up the path in the sun."

Noting this because of the word 'shyly'. Would never think an actress can be shy. (#psyche-data)?

There's a mention in the book about 'landmarks of her youthful past' that V could show Olivier in Salzburg.

Landmarks of my youthful past – the whole thing reminded me of me…

Before in the book Alan mentions the sin, which Olivier had, and it seemed like me, Vivien, also had it – as I said. But now, on page 59, he says I cared little for any prejudice against 'living in sin'. Perhaps it's just an opinion of the author.

Anyhow, now, in this new life, I do care.

05.03.2024 - The situation is actually complex here. If married people found they aren't a good match – which is something people should find before marrying or even having s*x (for [possible] children sake who may live without a parent or even parents) – then it's not an error (the proper word for [religious] 'sin') to be searching for a partner with whom you have more similarities (spiritual affinity); but the situation gets complex again if you already have children in that marriage. Of course, it was an error to be in a hurry to get married (Leigh Holman) and then to have an affair with a married man (Larry), especially after he had a son with his wife. I know some people might disagree with me - Vivien Leigh living in a new physical body, who have/has suffered for my past errors, found the truths of Thiaoouba book, and was able to see where I was wrong in my past lives; I know that there are many websites and pages on social networks dedicated to Vivien and Larry as a couple – which I totally don't mind, of course – just want to say some errors were made by both Larry and me (in VL's life); And of course there were many good things also in that relationship. It's a complex topic, as I said, and

I won't go into intricate details here for it could take many pages to write about; I hope people will understand the simple idea of what I'm trying to say here.

John Gliddon says how Vivien overreacted one day.

"It was far more frightening. Her voice turned suddenly hard. But the worst thing was her eyes . . . They had completely changed from the smiling eyes I was accustomed to. They were the eyes of a stranger."

Just noting some people say I overreact sometimes. I can see why they say that but I also don't fully agree; usually the issue I wanna address isn't resolved right away and a simple discussions turns into almost an argument.

Page 61: "Vivien had been jittery."

Jittery means nervous or unable to relax, which describes me (#psyche-data)

There's a mention of cinematographer by name of Jules Kruger – an artist of smoky, suggestive lighting.

Louise Brooks: "She combines within her a spirit of anarchy, a real danger and unpredictability . . . a daemon, a siren, a pussycat with the sharpest of claws and a tongue that spits like a lynx."

Daemon (had a dream about that; in the church; there was also Thao). (05.03.2024 – also may connect to my life of Mary Magdalene)

Siren. Wrote elsewhere about the red-haired girl from VK.com - Siren (Сирена) – she was learning to be a ballet dancer.

Also, in Nightmare movie it's 'Krueger' and here it's 'Kruger'. Possibly it's nothing, just noting.

Vivien, as the author writes, liked the company of homosexuals.

I mentioned this before that this is probably one of other possible reasons (some things will probably be left unknown until I, in other lives I guess, will learn to access Psychospheres of planets I lived on) for my unavoidable (for I had no knowledge what we were doing) homosexual experience in 6 years lasting for several years. I regretted that until I fell in love with Natasha at 18, realizing all was okay with my sexual orientation.

I need to note that there's nothing wrong, imho, in having friends who are homosexuals and having normal activities with them; but if VL at any time said or implied that homosexuality was okay and normal, then that was the error – just 1 example – for which my childhood experience could have been manifested.

I said in my Vivien's life with the "sybilline utterance": "Larry won't play Rhett but I shall play Scarlett O'Hara. Wait and see."

Sybil relates to prophecies. Certainly a part of my life. Including the book Thiaoouba Prophecy.

05.03.2024 – there's a portrait of Emma Hamilton as Sibyl.

Stewart Granger about Vivien: "She impressed me as very hard working and certainly very ambitious. She had two passions, her love for Larry and her determination to play Scarlett O'Hara."

There were 8 photos of Vivien taken by Angus McBean. Later Vivien told him Gone With the Wind was "her Bible" and "I am going to play Scarlett if it's the last thing I do". Vivien presented him with a copy of the book with inscription: "With love from Scarlett O'Hara".

Vivien told McBean that it was the photograph in the black hat (immortalised on a Royal Mail stamp) which had especially drawn the eye of Myron Selznick.

Fabia Drake about Vivien's determination to try for the part: "But Vivien, you could never play Scarlett! She's too ruthless." Vivien looked back, her eyes glinting mischievously and she smiled a secret smile – the smile of Scarlett."

05.03.2024 - as mentioned before, it's possible some data from our past lives return to us when we're reborn. I know now I was Emma Hamilton, and, if we assume I lived lives of someone named Kennedy and Butler, it's possible that seeing so many 'familiar' names, and perhaps 'familiar' circumstances of Scarlett's life, might have triggered all the 'lights' in me in my past incarnation of Vivien Leigh. Hence my determination to play Scarlett in that life.

I have this theory from my own experience when I wished so badly to go live abroad (USA) and connect my life with movie business. After learning I was Vivien Leigh and have already lived the life I wanted to [re]live in my current life, I thought that maybe some information from past lives does return back to us – if Michel Desmarquet is correct in what he said in his book Nature's Revenge. Or maybe there's something else at play. There's still sooo much to learn about the process of reincarnation.

As mentioned elsewhere, currently my 'Bible' is Thiaoouba Prophecy.

"Fabia Drake was another taken aback by Vivien's will power, that sense of wishing for something so intensely it may be made to happen, when she spoke of her determination to try for the part: "But Vivien, you could never play Scarlett! She's too ruthless." Vivien looked back, her eyes glinting mischievously and she smiled a secret smile – the smile of Scarlett."

19.10.2026 – Slightly more than a month ago I finished reading GwtW and I needed to place it somewhere. We have the bookshelf full, but there was a place above Bibles. I put the book there, remembering shortly after this fact about GwtW being "my Bible".

Later in the book they mention again Vivien's desire to get the part of Scarlett O'Hara, and it's also said Vivien had nothing to lose.

Had nothing to lose. It's the same line I used when writing and publishing my book Simple Truths of Life, and it looks like I'm about to use it again, shall I start making the big video and then writing a new free ebook about how I found out Vivien Leigh and me are one soul.

One of Vivien's favourite lines in Shakespeare's Cleopatra was from the great threnodies of loss after Antony's death:

"I am fire, and air; my other elements I give to baser life".

Vivien, Olivier and Myron arrive at the set when shooting of burning of Atlanta was under way – after the fire had reached its height. Myron presented Vivien to his brother, saying: "Hey, genius – meet your Scarlett O'Hara!"

At that moment Vivien came forward, and the dying flames suddenly sparked again as burning beam crashed, illuminating her face and highlighting her eyes. The effect was striking, and Irene Selznick always thought that detail was pure synchronicity.

Also, Cukor previously thought Vivien was "not quite sufficiently fiery" enough for Scarlett. Those preconceptions were gone at that moment, when both Selznick and Cukor were hooked by her firelit appearance.

I am not too surprised all those events had happened and that the word 'synchronicity' was used to describe them. (Today I saw videos of blinking lights in Michele Avila's house; it started happening when Karen was writing her book – from the comments. This kinda makes me think again I could have been Michele… certain things just keep surrounding all 3 of us…)

06.03.2024 – As of today, I have reasons to believe that the blinking lights in their video was not caused by any ghost-related activities.

Selznick wrote to Irene of the "frightening but exciting knowledge that GWTW is finally in work" and that the new dark horse "looks damn good".

Maybe nothing. Just wanna note there's a white horse appearing in Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me, which I watched yesterday and during several times saw similarities with my soul's life – VL, possibly MA, and myself.

In my village we once saw a snowy white horse at night, running about. That sight had an otherworldly feeling to it, seeing the horse lit by the light of a street lamp, contrasting against the darkness of the night behind him.

Vivien is referred to as "Missie" in the book.

Margaret Mitchell wrote of Vivien after seeing the stills of the tests and of Vivien:

"I am impressed by the remarkable number of different faces she has. In the stills . . . she looks like a different person every time she is shown in a different mood."

Missie and Missy (Michele Avila). This is top A synchronicity for sure. (#reflection).

http://vivandlarry.com/classic-film/revealing-david-nivens-missie/

"The cat's out of the bag; "Missie" was Vivien Leigh.

David Niven called me in Vivien Leigh life as Missie in his book 'Bring on the Empty Horses'

I wrote my notes in After Finds when I read that article.

06.03.2024 – I noticed how in the last excerpt I talked about horses and the title of David's book also includes the word 'Horses'.

Another point is that if I lived many lives, is it possible that could help with acting and showing different moods? Because people with some spiritual knowledge can 'feel' what's it like being someone else (empathy).

Vivien's feelings about Hollywood; she wrote to Leigh "All their standards are financial ones" and to her mother "I know I could not stay here without Larry ... I should go mad."

I guess that's why it was relatively easy for me in this life to understand that there is a way for society to live without money, and how a world without money would/could function. (#spiritual-knowledge)

Interestingly, in my book SToL I conclude that there's a chance I could be disappointed if I left to live in the USA.

Olivia de Havilland: "She came forward to shake hands with her special air of cool, contained and delicately assured good manners . . . she had quicksilver elegance and composure, like a small Siamese cat."

My mother used to have a Siamese cat (there's a picture of it). Sadly, that cat went away and never returned.

Vivien had a secretary/housekeeper by name of Sunny Alexander (later Lash).

I had a nickname Sonny Hudson. Sonny name came to my attention when I watched Miami Vice. Again, the difference is just in letters – 'o' vs 'u'.

I wrote about my parents thinking to name me (Александр) Alexander elsewhere.

Gavin Lambert wrote about Vivien, who had a grasp of the story's (GWtW) background and Scarlett's complex drives:

"She became a creative influence on the picture, far beyond the limits of an actress."

"She knew exactly how to minimize her effects for a close-up, how to enlarge them for a longer shot, as if the camera for her were now some kind of magic mirror in which she could always obtain the desired reflection."

When Olivier was in New York, and Vivien in Hollywood, both missed s*x as is clear from many letters.

"Can't believe I won't probably have it" – I thought sometimes while watching p videos.

The paragraph after (page 82) sheds some more light on the subject. No wonder it's so difficult for me to live without love and sexual experiences in this life.

Larry wrote (it's about Vivien): "You bite and scratch and spend a family's food bill for a week telling me I don't love you . . . Darling, please forgive me if ever I'm not sweet on the 'phone – it's only nerves."

Mother said similar things about me still being in here (it's a long topic I wrote about in my SToL book). There were times I thought the same of myself – eating away food that someone else could eat… but then I'd remember that I did and do try to help people the best I can under the circumstances – wrote & published my book, made lots of videos, recorded proof of telekinesis, etc. So I've nothing to feal bad about. I also have to help mother anyhow. And I did want to live in the USA etc, etc but life has led me to this moment, and since I found Thiaoouba and now 1 of my past lives I have no objections.

After long separation Olivier and Vivien finally met and spent time together in a hotel. I wrote in that life: "Larry met me in the hotel lobby and we went upstairs and we fucked and we fucked and we fucked the whole weekend".

Larry wrote to Gertrude at this time of "this self-imposed separation":

"We are both very ambitious and I think we both probably have futures – therefore the important thing is to finish up together, for which we will gladly suffer now."

In my life I'm okay-ish with not having a huge monetary success. Maybe because I've already had in in my other life and so, having the experience, I don't feel the urge to farm money or have a great career – whatever it may be? (#spiritual-knowledge)? (First I wrote psyche, but I feel like it's the soul's territory.) So in this life I focus more on sharing my knowledge and experiences free of charge.

Vivien found that Jill might consider divorcing Olivier, and she talked to Leigh again:

"If only, Leigh, you would divorce me from your mind. I am so sure that it would be easier for you instead of clinging to a hope."

I once overdosed on sleeping tablets in VL life, not knowing they were such strong sedatives. Sunny called Olivier to tell about that, leaving him in agony of uncertainty, until she called back again to tell Vivien revived under cold shower.

I wrote elsewhere about my mom's overdose and how worried I was. I've experienced 'agony of uncertainty' too because of mother on several occasions.

On 27 June Vivien finished working on the Selznick set of GWtW.

So 27 is the date I finished GWtW. An important event. Just noting that number is present in IT and 1 of the books I considered writing had 27 as temp title.

There's a mansion of boat named "Fiddle-dee-dee" and the Hudson River, which bears connections to me. Like, I had a nickname of Sonny Hudson while working as a freelancer (web programming).

Note: I don't wish to say truths some people may not want to be brought up, but I think the facts may be important for the study of reincarnation. So, I have to say actual names. Thankfully the errors of those people, concerning me only, weren't at all that great now that I have a much broader view of the world.

Larry played 'Maxim' de Winter in Rebecca. And in my past life I wanted to get the part of Mrs. de Winter.

Maybe it's nothing. When I first watched Rebecca I didn't know I was VL. Just noting Maxim (Max) was a school friend with whom we set at one table (the first one near the teacher's table and windows) at 1-st grade I believe. He's the one who protected me at physical education court and got hit for that; and then he hit me too at biology class.

06.03.2024 – Interestingly, Olivier also played Captain Ignatoff in 'I Stand Condemned'. A person in school, who was pestering me at times, had the same last name. He also acted in a movie 'Sleuth'. I had a dream on 12.11.2023, in which a monster made of insects (?), and which devoured (?) several of my friends at the gate of my village house, said to me: you will learn what a "sleuth moth game" is.

David Niven about Vivien during the time it was announced that Britain was at war with Germany: "It was one of the few times I saw her cry".

Just noting I cried sometimes in childhood and during difficult moments.

Olivier saw GWtW at a private screening and quietly said: "I didn't realise she had it in her".

Playing Myra in Waterloo Bridge wasn't VL's choice. Other interesting facts are mentioned in the book.

Just noting about the choice. Actresses were under contract during those times, yes. Since that movie has a reflection in my current life, it's a great interest to me to know the details about its production.

"Larry and I were too greedy" Vivien told John Merivale. It's about the production of Romeo and Juliet. They asked $3.30 (top) – unusually high price then – while booking theaters of large capacities.

Vivien and Olivier treated their companies well, as if they were their surrogate family.

(Academy Awards. 29 February 1940) Vivien wore a dress by Irene Gibbons, patterned in red poppies.

Just noting the name Irene; sometimes it pops up.

Page 95: “Chinese Checkers”

Never actually heard of this game in my current life. Watched a video how to play the game.

Vivien and Larry’s wedding ceremony was unostentatious.

Again, I’ve the same thoughts on these things. (#spiritual-knowledge)

Production of Lady Hamilton movie had a tight schedule of six weeks.

Just reminded me of how Michel Desmarquet said the soul inhabits embryo when it’s six weeks old. Given that face synchronicity and me, and VL, possibly being Emma Hamilton also, kinda makes you wonder…

Molly Haskell wrote of the couple: “You feel their love as divinely ordered, inevitable – that if they’d lived at opposite ends of the earth they’d somehow have found each other.”

It’s just a review but still reminded me of my sync with red haired Marina and how I found my past life on the Internet

(During WW2) on page 100 it’s said how an enormous number of events happened in 2 momentous years for both Vivien and Larry. Movie stardom, theatrical disaster, financial troubles, marriage, family issues and war back at home.

Interestingly, me translating Michel’s book into Russian and publishing it, and me writing my own book and publishing it took 2 years also (2018-2020), which are also ‘momentous’ for me personally as many things had happened during that time. I was on my highest point after losing health in my 20s and gaining it slowly back in my 28th year of age and after. (#reflection)?

There were about 20 passengers on board of S.S. Excambion when Vivien and Larry left for Lisbon after Christmas of 1940. It became clear soon that some of the crew were Nazi sympathizers. The atmosphere was uncomfortable, and everyone seemed on edge.

20. It’s of interest how this number often appears in my life and lives when something negative is happening. (#curious)

They returned back in London. The winter was bitter cold, and the fog was dense. Vivien would find that she did not miss the California’s sunshine.

Hmm. I like foggy days – love seeing the sun rays penetrating throw leaves.

As for sunshine, I longed so much to live in LA, but then I found I could enjoy the gray days in Moscow also.

07.03.2024 – since I've found many synchronicities with Silent Hill, it's should be mentioned that the fog plays a big part in the first installments of that game series.

Friendship was important for Vivien.

Just noting it if I was MA. Friends meant a lot to her, including the evil ones, and the later would play a role in her death. So, if I was MA this could be (#psyche-data)

Vivien had paintings in her possession. One of them included Boudin she bought for £200, others included Renoir, Sickert and Bonnard. She also tackled vigorously the overgrown garden near their house.

I mentioned that I painted a bit in childhood. And I like painting, sometimes checking them out in the open air galleries (Музеон).

Tackling overgrown garden reminded of my childhood of course, for that's exactly what I did in my village garden and its surroundings. I liked gardening.

Beaton wrote in his diary:

"Vivien is almost indescribably lovely. Hollywood is at her feet. She knows if all else fails she has merely to go out there to make a fortune . . . she is madly in love with her husband . . . and is convinced he is a much greater person than herself. She is unspoiled, has many loyal friends and only ambition to succeed as an actress. The adulation of her beauty leaves her cold."

Beaumont noted she had "a man's mind", always honing in on the essentials of subjects.

This observation is similar to the one of Kenneth Clark's younger son Colin:

"She had a mind which left most people behind. Most of us simply don't keep our minds in diamond-cutting gear all the time. We get lazy . . . Vivien didn't do that. Vivien's mind was just like a diamond drill."

(#spiritual-knowledge)?

Vivien could not keep still for long when painters were painting her portraits.

#psyche-data)? For I can't keep still for long either still.

07.03.2024 – being Emma Hamilton this is of further interest. I'm yet to read about that life, though.

Olivier wrote to Trudy Flockhart: "We went to the furthermost corner of Wales – just to get away from every kind of association . . . we needed it as our nerves were in quite a bad way and we really felt a change was essential. We just forgot everything for 8 whole days! Walks, picnics, picking blackberries . . . Nobody has ever been made so happy as Vivien makes me – she's my whole life."

8 days. I've also planted 4 blackberry (3 survived so far) bushes in the back of my village's garden. But then I planted many other trees and bushes, so maybe it's nothing.

Niven remembered times at Durham Cottage. Vivien was playing piano and Olivier singing The Messiah.

I can't play piano but I wanted to learn at several moments of my life. It's interesting that I'm struggling with music theory, and yet I must have known it in my VL's life since I could play piano.

07.03.2024 – Knowing now I was Mary Magdalene, this is of interest. It shows once more the interesting peculiarity of reincarnation, when due to 'fetter of oblivion' (The Gospel of Mary) we can play to the singing of The Messiah without realizing we used to be literally within a hand's reach near that same Messiah in our past life!

Selznick didn't cast Vivien to play Katharine in Henry V. She remained friendly to him, but never felt the same about him.

Again, this is me. I've several people I remain friendly with (try to) but I don't feel the same about them after the things they did to me.

(#spiritual-knowledge)

"I look into my pigeon-hole at least 20 times a day. Oh, love, I miss you so."

"All my life I will remember the frail silhouette of Vivien as she accompanied us under the porch, looking serious and serene, nestled in her husband's arms and illuminated by the reddish flashes which signalled that a "V-1" had just destroyed another district in London."

Hmm, I might have seen this line somewhere before – "looking serious and serene". At first I thought if it's a déjà vu. But search for the phrase showed I never opened the web pages that line was found on… perhaps it's nothing really. Bit I felt I saw that line from before.

P 131. Just noting it was a boy that VL miscarried. Further on the page they say about my first episode after the miscarriage.

Page 118 talks about Notley Abbey, its location.

Maybe nothing. Just wanna note it's technically the last house on the left; that Wes Craven reference. I did have syncs with Nightmare, but have also some similarities with Scream and the 1-st Wes' movie.

Vivien wrote Plato's passage in her Commonplace Book:

"Then tell me, O Critas, how will a man choose the ruler that shall rule over him? Will he not choose a man who first has established order in himself?"

As I mentioned in play connections, I found the answer after I Knew Thiaoouba is a true book. And that quote represents very well what Thiaooubians taught us via Michel D. about the process of electing a new ruler (based on his spiritual knowledge).

Page 123 talks about VL's tuberculosis. Also speaks about the gardens of Notley reviving V.

Page 125 mentions instances of Vivien's relapses into a torpor and mood-swings.

Vivien and Olivier flew on a plane, and the wing became ablaze. The pilot was able to lend it in a field in Connecticut. There were no injuries.

I started being afraid of heights when I was in school. Yet before that I could easily look down from 17-th floor of my grandparent's house.

Tarquin (when he told Vivien of his interests and hobbies):

"She made me feel that they were precisely the things which interested her too. I felt discovered, understood and cherished. She was master of that art, but in all the years that have passed since that first conversation I have never personally had any occasion to doubt her truthfulness. She, whose passion had deprived me of my father, did all she could to bring us together."

Page 131 mentions VL liked black.

Vivien and Olivier went on tour to Australia. The author notes how they could have made a lot more money in films, but decided to give up almost a year of their careers.

Not surprised I published TP for free and wrote my own book knowing its 0 monetary profit to me. (#spiritual-knowledge)

Company nicknamed Larry and Vivien "God and the Angel" when they handed them over 2 practical dressing rooms in the Capitol Theatre, while both of them changed and made up behind small screened-off areas.

(#spiritual-knowledge). I've met, kinda, literal angles (messengers from Thiaoouba) in this life. And know a thing or two about God.

09.03.2024 – May relate to Mary Magdalene's life.

Page 137 mentions Vivien had a treasured catalpa at Notley. They also planted lime trees.

Page 292 mentions that catalpa was special favorite.

Catalpa is the tree that growth relatively near my house. I actually photographed it this autumn (September 10th of 2023 probably) to find out what kind of tree it is because I'm interested in these things (I don't know how rare are these trees but it's the 1st time I saw one). Funny how in my other life I treasured this tree and now I have to image search it to find what it is. I still need to understand why all of material knowledge has to be erased…

(#curious)

Vivien remembered friends dealing with food shortages and sent no less than 31 large hams to England.

Vivien was aware Olivier was jealous, and sometimes teasingly flirted with younger males of the company ("he used to sit there watching her rehearse and he would embarrass everyone by getting an erection").
Jealousy was present to some degree in my childhood years. Could be past life's (#error)
Also MA was said to be a big flirt.

Vivien had unquenchable enthusiasm for new places and people. She told Leigh about Sydney: "And the little beaches and bays all round the harbour are quite exquisite".
Reference to me finding enthusiasm in grey Russian winters.

Peter Hiley about Vivien: "I always felt that in whatever age or class she had been born, she would have found prominence in one role or another – that bright star would have come to the fore."
Interesting. If I was MA; she also got kinda famous after death (movie, books, YT videos, erticles etc).
Me? While my Thiaoouba related experiences and knowledge are prominent, not many people believe it.
09.03.2024 – It's almost certain at this time Vivien also lived the lives of Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene, and Emma Hamilton. It seems to me Peter's observations led him very close to the truth.

Vivien tried two times to repair friendship with Beaton.
I unblocked people whom I blocked before. I also sent friend requests to those people of my childhood whose actions affected me badly.
(#psyche-data) (#spiritual-knowledge)
09.03.2024 – tldr, had to ban and block them again for they didn't change for the better, keeping distorting truths of me. It's a reference to my Missy's life too, in which I gave second chances and was killed by 2 'friends'. It's a lesson I have to learn - how to choose friends properly; who deserves forgiveness and from whom it's best to stay away.

Olivier didn't like confrontations, and Vivien had opinion that dignified silence is the best revenge.
(#spiritual-knowledge). There were some moments which contradict that, but I do generally agree with that statement. It is me for the most part. It's like 'giving them the energy' (Nightmare reference).

Page 148 talks about the progress at Notley. Rose garden and an alle´e of cypresses leading to a fountain were taking shape.

I love “alle´e of cypresses” types of green walls! (#curios)

Vivien’s Blanche was retreating into herself in face of approaching disaster.

(#reflection)

Alan Dent, finding Vivien still on stage (Streetcar):

“She was shaking like an autumn leaf and her lips were trembling. She clutched me and put her head on my shoulder and said in no more than a whisper “Was I all right? Am I mad to be doing it?”

Page 159 mentions how London’s Streetcar affected me in VL’s life. Some episodes involve talking to prostitutes, and others, as rumors had it, seeking s*x with strangers or taxi drivers.

Joan Cunliffe, a friend, recalled how he had to wait for an appointment at Vivien’s before she appeared, wet through and “bedraggled, covered in mud. . . she had been in the square with someone”.

I can only wonder right now if those talking to prostitute moments also have played in my current life’s episodes involving prostitutes…

09.03.2024 – but then knowing now I was Emma Hamilton & Mary Magdalene in the past, the interconnections of this theme may go much deeper and be much more complex.

Page 159 talks about a very important topic. T.S. Eliot’s The Cocktail Party was Vivien’s favorite play. She was deeply impressed by it. Rex Harrison recalled how markedly struck, comforted, Vivien was by the play’s notion of having what Eliot called “guardians” in one’s life.

Interestingly, Thiaooubians could, in a way, be considered “guardians” in my life. I certainly depended on their help in my life – the kindness of strangers… (#curious)

“Following Celia's consultation with the "psychiatrist", it is revealed that the characters Reilly, Julia, and Alex are not, in fact, humans but angelic beings dedicated to the transhumanisation of the human soul: two paths lie open to humans: the first being the way of companionable self-deception ('the hearth') embraced by the vast majority – as epitomised in the relationship between Edward and Lavinia, and the second that of the saint, embraced by a gifted — or burdened — few.”

It’s a gift to have found the knowledge that I did, and the vast skepticism of people does make it a burden also.

It's of interest that recently I found similarities in my David Lynch's favorite movie Mulholland Drive – and also in Twin Peak: Fire Walk with Me – and now I find similarities reflected in my life with my favorite play when I was living in the physical body of Vivien Leigh. There is some theme developing here… (#curious)

09.03.2024 – again, this fact may be a direct connection to what experience and knowledge I gained in my Mary Magdalene's life.

Karl Malden, who played Mitch in Streetcar:

"Jessica was no star and neither was Brando. But Vivien – she could carry us all . . . Gadge (Kazan) told me something . . . he said the first impression the public gets of the woman who's on the screen is fifty per cent of the battle. If Jessica had played it she would have had to work because she wasn't glamorous. Vivien was Hollywood glamour."

Kim Hunter, who played Stella in Streetcar, found Vivien a fascinating person:

"I would say she was a very determined person, was very strong in many respects. The fact that I was totally unaware of any illness during the filming surely says something."

Suzanne was 17 during this time:

"What I remember most was the fights that went on between them – real theatrically pitched arguments behind closed doors. I knew Vivien was naturally high-tempered . . . But in spite of the shouting matches it never occurred to me that their marriage was breaking up. It was just too precious to Vivien. I put it down to two overwrought people at the end of long days' work on their separate movies."

Reminds me of my quarrels with mother until I saw and realized how old she became (I never noticed it before for some reason) and I just stopped arguing with her after that. (#psyche-data); some (#spiritual-knowledge) was gained, I think.

Vivien suggested they sail home (instead of flying). And they traveled on a freighter instead of some luxury liner.

Just noting I developed fear of heights all of a sudden in my childhood. Sometimes it visits me. It also spread into becoming planet phobia. Could that incident with plane's wings being on fire and having to land in the Connecticut field have something to do with this phobia?

The answer is in the Alexander Walker's book about Vivien (page 80).

I wrote in that life to Leigh Holman: 'One night in Naples and Rome AND BACK TO YOU MY DARLING. I would hate coming back if I didn't think you were lonely.'

There was an issue with a sea-plane. Walker writes fear of flying remain with me in VL life till the end.

Page 174. First mentions about Tynan. There are some reflections in my life. Some people also didn't care when writing things damaging to me.

Page 180 says about my 'worst "episodes" of depression' in VL's life to that date.

Wilfrid Hyde White admired VL's discipline: "never once late for long rehearsals".

Also try to be on time. (#spiritual-knowledge)?

Pages 181-182 talk about Vivien becoming abnormally nervous about their social reputation. It was some strange obsession. Olivier took her to a psychiatrist and later he wrote of that experience: "Her hysterical terror of photographers as we entered and as we left the doctor's was distressingly pathetic".

(#psyche-data)

Also it maybe have been lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) gained in this life.

(There's more about that on the same 197 page)

P 198 says more about psychic issues. It says LO's sister Sybille recovered from her issues with help of spiritual healing. VL was never introduced to that concept as far as I know. In this life a form of spiritual healing did help me on several occasions. (#curious)

Guests of Notley were happy there. Jamie Hamilton wrote to Vivien:

"Your happiness in each other is so perfect that it affects your guests and makes them as happy as yourselves"

Maybe nothing but I'll note that some of my school friends would come to me to play WarCraft 3. In village there were years when my friends would come to my house or garden on my bds and not only. There were some problems also later on when I was unnecessary cold to 1 person for sure (played WC3 with him online) but it was partially due to overcrowding of my tiny apartment I think? Anyhow maybe it was him who used my wc3 key on battle.net so that I had to buy a new copy of the game later.

Ginette Spanier remembered, as she told Vivien, "the joy of driving up Notley's drive and seeing you – looking 15 – standing in the middle of the lawn."

Probably nothing but 15 is the age that red haired Marina mentioned when we me; she was saying that it was easier to meet people at 15 and I killed it by saying that I had stutter and couldn't.

Page 185 mentioned Tamara Finch's story about VL in their apartment. That story must be true because the errors made were suffered for in my life with huge precision.

Page 188 talks about Elephant Walk and my past life's dive into madness.

The dark eyes of Sinhalese people always frightened Vivien.

I had a dream in which a woman was having completely black eyes. Probably unrelated.

Another thing is I remember that Natasha must have had the similar dark eyes as Sinhalese people have. I couldn't tell her iris from her pupil.

Dana Andrews mentioned how Vivien would insist on keeping active with no breaks, organizing excursions after filming.

Possible presence of (#psyche-data). I am kinda workaholic – some lessons have been learned, though; I allow myself to rest also.

Page 190 talks how Vivien visited Bible Rock (a mountain in Sri Lanka).

First of all, possible (#psyche-data) for in my childhood we'd also look into the distance from the hill and think about exploring those distant locations on our bicycles. I certainly liked exploring surrounding villages and other areas with my village friends. Those are very good memories from my life.

I walked a lot in Moscow after feeling better (28/29-33 years)

Secondly, it's interesting the rock I climbed as VL is called Bible Rock, and in my current life I found/encountered the people from Thiaoouba who are the reason for some of Bible's passages.

(10.09.2024 – possibly connects to Mary Magdalene's life too)

Peter Finch liked to talk of "twin souls" and "Karma", and Vivien was charmed listening to him. The word "beguiled" is used by Alan, but I think it's his own opinion; being Vivien in my past life before last (10.03.2024 - and now knowing I knew about reincarnation, us having to suffer for our own mistakes, and other related topics, [at least] since my life of Mary Magdalene), those topics are something I'd be interested in and would not think that someone was charming me in a [possibly] deceptive way (definition of beguile) – unless, of course, they were actually doing just that; but I think Peter actually believed what he was saying.

(#curious) because in this life I did find a thing or two about souls and 'karma', aka us having to suffer for our mistakes, but also us getting benefits for our correct decisions. I wonder what I thought about that at that moment? How, if at all, those talks effected me in VL's life?

Olivier (about VL cheating on him with Peter Finch): "Was he (Finch) not simply doing what I had done to her first husband seventeen years ago?"

Think I mentioned it before. 17 is the age of MA. And this passage has to do with sleeping with and stealing other's husbands/bfs. So that's an interesting sync. (#curious)

Vivien's fears of flying are mentioned again, and also the fact that she had a panic attack, and tried to rip off her clothes (a symptom of manic Bipolar).

Mentioned it before. But I thought maybe that plane's wing on fire could have caused my height fears.

Panic attacks have occurred in my life too… (10.03.2024 – recently had a very tiny panic attack settling in, and I did take off my gloves (in Russian winter) because I somehow thought it would help calm me a little (maybe I needed to cool down or draw my attention to something other than my worried thoughts). It actually did calm me, and I put the gloves on again)

(Filming of Elephant Walk) Page 193 talks of Vivien's sometimes addressing Finch as "Larry", and sometimes reciting dialogues from Streetcar. There are more details about the hysteria I had to deal with in that life at that time.

Sadly, also describes me to some degree – some lessons have been learnt. (#psyche-data)

John Buckmaster insisted a "higher power" had sent him to take care of Vivien. He was also committed to a mental hospital in his life.

Later, on page 194, it's said how Vivien was sitting as if hypnotize, looking at the snow on TV.

I mentioned elsewhere about this episode kinda reflecting in Twin Peaks movie.

(12.03.2024 – after getting more evidence that I was Missy, I watched "Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me" again and found a lot more synchronicities. "Fire" word may also resonate with me – burning of Atlanta set and its fire related synchronicity.)

At one point a doctor and two nurses arrived. One of the nurses gently called to Vivien: "I know who you are – you're Scarlett O'Hara." Shrinking back further Vivien yelled: "I'm not Scarlett O'Hara! I'm Blanche Du Bois!"

Then it's said Vivien was afraid of needles. And then Alan notices how what happened at the house paralleled with the final scene in the Streetcar.

Wanna note I had some reflections with movies I was in in that life already. Is it surprising I've them now? And if I was indeed MA, in hers also (Ophelia's death, Blanche's broken bottle)?

I might speculate here for a bit about the possibility VL played herself not only in current life but in the past also. IF so – yet need to verify that via lucid dreams… - then could that have had an effect on me? Like in this life there was a moment I thought I could be overpowered and consumed by my old VL self – hard to explain – and I even had to read about multiple personalities to ease my situation and then decided to take it all one step at a time and not all at once. It helped. But what if, since in my life as VL I didn't know the things I know now, me getting too close to my old selves via characters I played overwhelmed me too (in addition to other issues I had at the time)? Of course, it's just a speculation and I need to see my other lives first in lucid dreams. Just wish to save these thoughts here for now.

(also, a note for myself – they use the word 'parallel' to describe the reflection of movie in my life. I should use that also sometimes in place of 'reflections')

12.03.2024 – at this point it's safe to say I was Cleopatra VII, Mary Magdalene, Emma Hamilton too. In Emma's life there was made a portrait of Emma portraying Mary Magdalene (so I did kind of play myself in that life also), and there are other portraits which may synchronize with me too (I mention them in the 'Emma Hamilton' section of this file). And so as Vivien Leigh I did actually play myself in 'Caesar and Cleopatra' and 'That Hamilton Woman', without probably eve realizing I was those people in my past lives – this experience may teach us, people, a thing or two about reincarnation…

Then it's said about Olivier's encounter with Vivien ("more dreaded than any other in my life"). When she looked at him only pin-pricks of pupils were visible in her eyes."

I wish they'd explain better the sight. It's of great interest to me because in my current life I had episode when my pupils were so tiny that they almost weren't visible – only iris and maybe you could distinguish a tiny speck in the middle among the iris' black wavy lines (as pin pricks if I understand the meaning of that word correctly – a tiny hole made by a thin pin (Daylimail article confirmed that)). During that time my sight was as if 'very light' to the point I couldn't feel my eyes – so light they seemed to me, almost non existent… it's difficult to explain. I had to see an eye doctor because of that.

(#curious)

Vivien would not easily do something she didn't want to do. She feared the possibilities of being institutionalized or of being abandoned.

Same. And yet I've no option but to share my findings which many will think of as crazy, produced by delusional mind; and those people won't even try to look into the evidence I share – for they simply can't understand that reincarnation, auras etc are real. (reference to my charlatan video with Dave's comments)

Page 200 speaks of symptoms which were signs of possible new "episode". Vivien later also voluntarily submitted to the treatment, which wasn't at all enjoyable, believing it helped her.

I've still these 'symptoms' sometimes but I know now it's only the consequence of my (wrong) decisions; all I have to do is live in the present moment. Meditation and concentration also help. There's no need for any treatments as I had in my past life. (#spiritual-knowledge) learned?

Also it reflects in my current life when I asked my mother to see doctor who 'treated' stammer; I thought pills could help with my out of control stutter. Later, of course, I'd learn the true reason for stutter, which is very, very simple. And later on I'd learn about psychic issues and the simple reason for them also (perhaps, not all, but I'm talking about my own experiences).

Tldr: stuttering is not a disease; and I came to similar conclusions about psychological issues. It's all consequence of how we choose to think – in short. If we do error, we, in our example, suffer either by stuttering or by having psychotic episodes (depending on the error, of course).

Vivien never missed a performance – even when her wrist was broken.

Unconditional loyalty was part of VL's concept of friendship. ("the sanctity of personal friendship")

I feel like this could describe Michele 'Missy' Avila. (I think I mentioned this elsewhere)

Page 208: "She was alone and fragile. We were all having a drink in the bar. She came down and Capa started to drink with her and then they danced – Russian dances. He was incredible – so much fun. I don't think it lasted long with her. I don't know if he had a life with any woman that lasted very long."

I was born and lived in Russia all my current life.

Peter Finch and Vivien Leigh were interested in Eastern philosophy. Once Vivien described herself as "a Zen-Buddhist-Roman Catholic".

Well, here I am, saying that there is, probably, truth in many religions and that people should study them all with open mind (there are distortions of different kinds in many religious texts). Of course, my Thiaoouba knowledge helps a lot here also. (#curious)

Page 208 talks about the early abandonment.

This abandonment theme finally made me remember a period in my life when mother found the photos of red haired Marina in my father's room and we left. I thought I'd never see him again, for some reason, and I was actually more than ready to live a life without father; actually, and strangely, it gave me strength to live with my head up, and that feeling was gone when my father did drive to our house. The energy and desire I briefly had was gone. I think it only reappeared in my 18+ and then 28 years+. (#psyche-data)?

Hiley thought that Vivien was "not light in that way at all . . . a very strong woman, very intelligent, very streetwise, very generous"."

(Around the time of filming Elephant Walk - 1953) Olivier thought that Vivien's psychic disturbances were triggered by her miscarriage almost 8 years ago (VL played Cleopatra then).

Olivier was deprived of much-needed sleep during Vivien's picnics or parties.

(#error). I think this is one of the errors I made in my past lives which resulted in me having problems with sleep in this life. Noisy neighbors and the air conditioning equipment of the businesses on the first floor are the main culprits.

Olivier described the tortured journey in Macbeth as “one going up and one going down ... he goes on and she goes down”. Larry and Vivien had nearly 20 years of joint joys and sorrows.

Max Beaverbrook is mentioned several times and he played a negative role. Just reminded me of that dream in which I was killed by a beaver. Also how beavers sometimes play distant roles in my life.

(12.03.2024 - And ‘brook’, of course, is a reminder of my fate in Missy’s life.)

Faulkner was discussing reincarnation with Vivien:

“She was convinced Peter was an ‘old soul’ full of timeless wisdom, tenderness and understanding – all the qualities that every woman looks for in a man. Larry was a brand new soul with a plastic karma and a marital deficit.”

This is very interesting that I at least believed to some degree in the concept of reincarnation in my VL life. Might explain why even before finding Thiaoouba book I thought that Buddhism is closer to me due to reincarnation. (this is also reflected in my thoughts in body of VL which I saw on page 208 – “a Zen-Buddhist-Roman Catholic”) (#spiritual-knowledge)? But then how can it be knowledge if it was belief in VL’s life? Or am I yet to learn something about 1 (or more) of my other lives before I was born as VL?

(12.03.2024 – I did learn about 4 more of my past lives since writing that note. One of those lives is the life of Mary Magdalene. Jesus did teach about reincarnation, but those teachings were removed in the 4-5th centuries. Now it’s clear that I knew about reincarnation from at least as far back as my Mary Magdalene’s life. Now it all makes sense.)

Later on that page it says how Peter Finch was talking to a flock of white doves. Pigeons played a rather big role in my life, and of course I humorously and with whole grasp of reality briefly talk to them sometimes.

Vivien once asked Olivier and Finch (probably jokingly): “Which one of you is coming to bed with me?” Then all 3 of them laughed as the story goes.

Concerning MA, if I was her, it shows how in my VL life I clearly wasn’t punished for sleeping around if I did something like that (even if it was a joke).

Vivien would say that actresses (usually citing Bernhardt) had always had lovers.

(#error) because it implies here lovers outside of marriage.

Vivien wanted to leave Olivier for Finch. A movie called “The V.I.P.s” was based on the particulars of that story:

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0057634/trivia/?ref_=tt_ql_3

“Terence Rattigan's real-life friend Vivien Leigh's attempt to leave her husband Sir Laurence Olivier for Australian actor Peter Finch. Leigh and Finch made it to London's Heathrow Airport, but their plane was delayed by incoming fog, giving Olivier time to confront the two and escort Leigh home; after several hours of the fog delay, she had abandoned the plan.”

Interesting. Certainly, something I could see my old self do based on what spontaneous silly decisions I did in my current life, so (#psyche-data)

Also, interesting that Liz Taylor again played the role which involves VL in some way.

http://dameelizabethtaylor.com/blog1/

Apparently, there are many similarities between VL and Liz Taylor. Could we even share the same Higher Self I wonder now? It’s still to be understood if souls who share the same HS have also interconnections in their lives.

Fog situation is of interest too since I have syncs with Silent Hill games.

Alexander Korda died from a sudden heart attack. He had played a major role in both Vivien and Olivier’s careers for 20 years.

Hiley noticed Olivier’s professional dissatisfaction and his sudden change of attitude to the New Wave:

“He genuinely wanted a part of it. He saw people taking their ties off, wearing Tshirts, talking politics and he thought “This is wonderful! I can be young again!” Vivien was not so impressed. She could see through a lot of the phoniness in it.”

12.03.2024 – maybe it’s unrelated. Just remembered how T-shirts were playing a role in the dream (I had several dreams withing dreams that night) I had about me being Mary Magdalene. I should note my T-shirt had buttons; usually T-shirts don’t have them.

Vivien had an incredible memory for names.

Interestingly in my current life I thought on many occasions I’ve poor memory for names. This is important because this shows once more that life will find a way to ‘insert’ you into such a life situation which is required for your lessons to occur (e.g. if a smart scammer needs to become a gullible victim in his next life to suffer for his mistakes). (#curious)

It should mean that physical/physiological bodies should play roles in memory. That’s logical of course; even thought knowledge is stored in soul, there are physical ailments that can prevent access to that knowledge.

At one point in life Vivien partied each night. She was seemingly inexhaustible.

As mentioned elsewhere in my current life I had to go early to sleep. It's possible that the reason was in my extreme use of imagination, daydreaming constantly, which could have exhausted me. Anyhow I got to experience life on the other side of the barricade again. (#curious)

Michael Blakemore wrote of Vivien's role in Titus: "If she couldn't be at the centre of the play she was determined to be at the centre of the company's offstage life".

(#psyche-data) subject I think. Because me being silent and afraid to speak due to stuttering made me plunge into the world of phantasies and daydreaming.

Audley said: "The saddest thing is that we didn't realise that she had an illness. We all thought she was just behaving badly".

Well, that could have been actually the case – I was behaving badly - now that I understand more clearly that there are no psychological illnesses. I lacked certain (#spiritual-knowledge) I think which is why I chose to behave like that.

Later on that page they say about a nightclub Ritz Bar in Zagreb. Just reminded me of how I wanted to visit Moscow night clubs but didn't. Then learned about the dangers of noise from Thiaoouba Prophecy. I wonder if back in my VL's times the music was just as loud at nightclubs?

Interesting that I didn't feel like I was hugely missing out on something – not only on nightclubs but also on movies etc. Now I know I used to experience that before… maybe some data is stored in the psyche body? Or maybe it's related to spiritual knowledge? I don't know. (#curious) 12.03.2024 – one of speculations is that it could relate to the Astropsychic body. It's reference to Michel Desmarquet's mention that some part of the 19% of electrons return to us when we're reborn.

Page 239 talks about VL's protest against demolition of St James'.

Page 240 speaks about how Vivien and Kay Kendall marched for integration in London schools and against apartheid.

Vivien loved London's architecture.

Many mentioned things resonate with my current self.

Later on that page it's interesting to read how I tried to deprive Olivier of sleep. Then the incident happened which had me wear an eyepatch on the left eye. Anyhow, my neighbors deprive me of sleep sometimes. Maybe these events are related if it's me suffering for my past life's (#error)? It's not the first time Olivier had troubles with sleep because of Vivien's actions.

"Vivien's virtue, always a prized one in my book, was enthusiasm, the physical expression of hope, the antidote to despair and that most deadly of sins, sloth."

(#spiritual-knowledge)?

Also, today in my dream a monster said sleuth ("sleuth moth game"), I think, and the word 'sloth' reminded me of that dream. I doubt it could be sloth? I don't often encounter these words, so I could have been wrong…

(13.04.2024 – There's a movie "Sleuth" with Laurence Olivier & Michael Caine. It reminded me of what Vivien and Larry has to deal with in the marriage. So, the story felt rather personal when I watched that movie. Interestingly, the game is a big part of that film.)

P 259: (About Duel of Angels) Barrault reflects how approached Paola:

"She worked on her part with a hatred for her character. She assailed her. She was constantly on the lookout for reasons for not loving her character. This forced me to plead for Paola. It was only when she had exhausted all the reasons for hating her that she assumed her. In the part she was not merely a cat, she had become a panther."

On page 245 Alan Strachan uses the words "dark souls" to describe Vivien and Peter Wyngarde in their scenes.

(#curious) about dark souls given I like the video game of the same title.

Elaine Dundy: "Vivien impressed me with her formidable intellect and her knowledge of art, literature and philosophy".

One of girls who I talked to in the first summer (August) of my 28th year of life knew philosophy.

(13.03.2024 – Cleopatra, while in Rome, used to invite the brightest minds of Rome to hold philosophical debates. This indicates I was already interested in these topics 2000 years ago)

Gertrude about Vivien's "illness":

"There is nothing the matter with Vivien. She does not need all those psychiatrists. They just try to make trouble. Why, as a little child at the convent, the nuns told me she loved me so much she used to cover up my photograph with her blanket at night so my picture wouldn't get cold."

Vivien bit one police officer on the finger.

This was an (#error) which could have resulted in my negative interactions with police.

My childhood's friend dog bit me 2 times (legs) but I don't think that was me suffering for biting the finger of the policeman.

Vivien's letter to Coward:

"Larry has asked for a legal separation . . . It is a very acute and terrible shock and I am, and have been, acutely miserable. I always thought that whatever happened between us – eventually we would be completely together as we used to be. It has always seemed that with a sense of humour and innate loyalty and respect and love, one would pull through anything. I shall never love anyone as I love him . . . Ever since The Entertainer I have watched Larry change. It has not altered my love but the change is apparent. Of course I am not putting all the blame on him but the fact is that when it came to the point in my life when I had to choose between him and Peter (Finch) there was no question in my mind."

Vivien's response to Todd, noting she had rehearsed:

"as many times as you wished me to . . . so you must believe me when I say that I found it hard to credit you are too exhausted to give me ten minutes to perfect something which is vitally important to the meaning of the play . . . I will not, if I can help it, see things less than perfectly done as possible."

Possibly another indication of why I had my Thiaoouba related experiences (it's subtle). Having knowledge Thiaoouba is a true book, I was correcting the errors of other people by quoting the book, etc. e.g., as mentioned elsewhere, I had already what it takes to carry through with difficulties involving skepticism around Thiaoouba. (13.03.2024 – but not with difficulties involving skepticism around my past lives…)

Vivien's letter to Olivier:

"I intend to divorce you on the grounds of desertion – mental and physical – as soon as our present chores in the theatre and television are over – we are in any case separated. I did not want to do this until you had finished your work here but our telephone conversation tonight led me to think I was talking to a complete stranger – which is what you have chosen to become . . . Our lives will lie in quite different directions. I feel confident I should make my own life – and you have always made yours."

Vivien had never lived alone, having lived with Leigh and then Olivier for 25 years.

Leigh's letter to Gertrude:

"Let Vivien accept that what she did to me Larry is doing to her. It must be faced. She owes it to her relations, her friends and herself not to let this destroy that lovely and exquisite personality that we adore and cherish."

This shows I think he was of course suffering the abandonment, and since VL never did experienced living without anyone by your side, I must suffer for that in this life since the time has come to pay the penalty. (#error)

Page 257: "Vivien must have known that something was amiss but she never once revealed the source of her desperate unhappiness . . . she had the most extraordinary, powerful personality I have ever encountered. She had the most exquisite taste and the most impeccable manner, as well as a dazzling beauty and flirtatious wit. She was also keenly intelligent, much more intelligent than Larry. I have never known anyone more perfect."

"Flirtatious wit" reminded me of what certain people told about Missy.

Mu Richardson's recollection of Vivien:

"And then would come the voice, on the tannoy saying 'Half an hour'. She opened the play – and I came on very soon after. She was as if nothing had touched her at all . . . Her stance was very rare. You would never know that half an hour before she had been weeping."

I can see myself here also.

Page 261 says Vivien had not worked with Jack Merivale since Romeo and Juliet 20 years previously.

Vivien's letter to Tarquin:

"It really seems as if Notley is sold. I can hardly write the words . . . I walk from place to precious place and gaze at beloved views with tears pouring down my face . . . Oh, Tarkie darling, I just cannot live without him and it is an unbearable pain to be parted from him."

Page 264 has interesting quotes from VL, writing about starting a new sensible and quiet life.

Before that page it said that VL made a move on Merivale. Could be one of reasons why I knew that it's silly how some women think it's below them to approach the man they like. If they get to know one another very good and decide to be together before s*x – in short - then all is good.

(#spiritual-knowledge)

Page 268 says in my VL life I stayed in Chateau Marmont hotel. Reminded me of the awful story involving Kirk Douglas and Natalie Wood.

There's a photo, taken a few years before that event, where Vivien sits next to Kirk.

Page 269. Just noting I had friends in life as VL who cared even despite my issues. In this one… it's difficult to say because I had issues since 5 years of age – stammer – and got distant from many people in my life due to fear of speech and withdrawal into my dreams to detach myself from unwanted harsh reality (now it's not the case anymore; I understand why the things had to happen the way they did). Anyhow, the result is I've nobody; just my mother but she's also skeptical of my spiritual experiences I feel like.

When Vivien, Jack and Gertrude drove to visit the house, near Uckfield, she at once fell in love with Tickerage Mill.

Jack: "We came to a certain point in the drive, and we saw the house and a glimpse of the water beyond it and she let out a sigh."

Water was a key factor in Vivien' property specifications. There was a small lake fringed with willows. The house was hidden in a valley of the River Uck.

(#reflection-life) with Michele Avila (yet to have LD to confirm or disprove I was her also…) (18.03.2024 – I've had dreams and other experiences showing over and over I was Michele Avila)

Ophelia and brook (creek), Water, Valley, Willows – all these things relate to Missy's life.

Vivien's perspective on Olivier:

"Larry is not a strong character – he knows one thing, all about the theatre – period. He is and has been the centre of adulation attended by as many sycophants as friends. You don't want him to pity you – for that diminishes you – the abyss cannot hold you – once down you must come up."

I copied this because it might have some connection to my dream: "Женя, ты всю жизнь шёл вниз, не пора ли пойти вверх?" (Zhenya, you've been going down all your life, isn't it time to go up?)

(18.03.2024 – At this moment of time I have found these past lives of mine: Michele Avila, Vivien Leigh, Emma Hamilton, Hypatia, Mary Magdalene and Cleopatra. The way I lived in this life, and there were drug related issues in Missy's life too, I do see now that the dream was not 'just' a dream – it had to have been a true dream at this point, knowing what I know about my past lives; and that dream, clearly, had a big effect on me back in the day.)

Conachy wrote about Vivien's condition:

"a most charming, able, intelligent woman afflicted by a manic depressive illness who with courage and marked strength of character has taken a heavy and continuous emotional strain in her stride during the past year."

P 293: "Dodimead always remembered one late night when, after a party, a still-alert Vivien suddenly decided they should go together for a swim in the ocean, driving the Rolls to a secluded bay. Keeping the headlights on in the pitch dark they realised that with nobody around they could skinnydip. Vivien plunged in, swimming straight out – "out and out and out for a long, long way" – while Dodimead after a brief dip returned to the car, gradually growing apprehensive:

Dodimead remembered how one night Vivien suddenly decided they should go for a swim in the ocean. They did just that. Vivien plunged into the water and swam straight out - "out and out and out for a long, long way".

"I waited and waited . . . it seemed like three hours. And then she came in, bright as a button . . . As we got back to the house she said "Bacon and eggs!" It was now fully daylight. But that's a story of the madness of her – the best madness and the joy of being with her. She was so alive."

This might have a (#reflection-life) in my current life. Only it was my father who would go swimming far away and for long in the lake (Тельвяково). I don't believe I was very worried but I did have some brief uneasiness (I was with my mother by my side).

And once again it shows that I could swim and wasn't afraid of water… something had to happen relating to water for me to be afraid of (deep) water in my childhood… MA's case might answer why.

Later on that page it's written about 90 year old Sir Ernest Davis who V got close to. He even left her shares in his changed will, which were worth nearly 20000 pounds. Familiar number.

Vivien abhorred apartheid. (#spiritual-knowledge)

Vivien, during one of his brief "episodes", hurled a clock out of her fourteenth-floor window in a hotel.

I hope nobody was hurt.

It's (#psyche-data) because I did the same thing in my life. Only it was a phone which I threw out of the window. It's of interest also because that's what people call 'episodes' and now I know exactly the reason – and I know that this 'episode' isn't anything special; I know the exact reason why it happens and I wrote about in my book Simple Truths of Life. It's just us deciding to follow the stupid urge in brief words; gaining material and spiritual knowledge helps to become calm and happy.

Also, it was 14th floor.

Pages 279-280 say how in Vivien's life I visited the Dietzes' home on Long Island, which became one of Vivien's favourite places.

I wonder if (#psyche-data) could be at play here because when I really, really wished to go to USA and I thought about New York, such houses (only in New Jersey) did raise strong longings in me to live that life which those people lived.

Page 280: 'Suzanne, who found her mother "wiser, gentler" had now given Vivien three grandsons and felt too that she had become even more conscious of the value of friends ("she became less other-worldly and began to show some sense of consequence").'

Just noting that in my life – especially if I was MA killed by her 2 'friends' – I was treated badly by some of my childhood friends and I think that maybe the reason why I don't feel like I need friends in my life – I mean by that that I can live without them all alone, not that I avoid people; as for the latest years – same thing again – people just turn away from me because mainly of my knowledge and position on life and social values (which are based on TP and common sense; recent historic events showed that many lack that, sadly…).

"The musical Tovarich, which I shall be doing in New York next year, comes into that category. It may be a terrible disaster. Who knows? Who cares? The only thing that matters to me is that it's worth doing."

Probably mentioned it before. Stanislav Borisovich(?), physics teacher, called me once "товарищ Мешков" / Tovarich Meshkov.

Page 286 describes another of my serious episodes in VL life.

Diana Cooper described Vivien as "looking 28, dressed like a little powder-blue velvet pussy cat toy, slim as a sugar plum".

Vivien returned to Los Angeles to film Ship of Fools. She lived in a house overlooking the city. Looking down on the illuminated highways and the city Vivien said:

"I suppose I'm here ... It's hard to tell in Hollywood whether you're here or not."

Vivien asked Feibleman to bring out a plastic bucket. She vanished into the camellia bushes beside the terrace and then returned with the cut off flower-heads – they were plastic and taped to the shrub.

"I know I'm here now" she told him, "It takes a while to be able to see in a place like this."

I wanted to go and see that so much in my 18-20 years, and yet I already did all that in my other life… (#psyche-data)?

The "I'm here" part and plastic flowers are also interesting bits to ponder about. I once bought a cactus with plastic yellow flowers glued to its top (poor green thing).

Elizabeth Ashley was fascinated by Vivien:

"You could see the stains and strains of life in that face but there was still something child-like in it. There are people who age but others who retain something of the child and I think that was true of Vivien – someone once told me the way she put a room together, the way she had a table laid, turned life into a work of art."

Later on that page it's said about tears. Just noting there were times I almost cried walking on the streets and had to turn away my head from strangers passing by.

"Karajaho".

I've used pictures from that temple on a YT video without realizing I actually probably saw that place with my own past life's eye.

It also mentioned VL's trip to India and its cities and temples. I was saturated a bit with what I'd call spirituality (even though it's based more on religion/faith rather than on knowledge)

Page 309: "I remember her now – walking like an eager boy through temples in Ceylon – walking in the wind near Notley. I always see her hurrying through life. I miss the fact that she is not somewhere in London or Greece or New York, among her friends, talking volumes – with those bright eyes always in laughter."

This last chapter talks about the play Ivanov. Anna dies in it from tuberculosis. V had the same fate ahead of her. It was a girl by the name of Anna who told me a Streetcar Named Desire (Трамвай Желание) was her favorite play, which is how I decided to watch VL's movies (Wind and Streetcar) eventually finding out I lived that life… (#curious) Anna is one of my fav names too.

Vivien's diary records "Saved J.G. from drowning!" (John Gielgud; they were on a Barbados holiday on Young Island)

"Feeling the urge to travel later"

After I found out the true nature of stutter and still was in more or less good health I wished to travel the world… I enjoyed watching the travel channels… this could be related – same way I wanted to go to USA (#curious)

Page 302 talks about the play called A Delicate Balance that Vivien had signed to appear in. She had puzzled over the play. Albee's (the play's author) "All my symbols are cymbals" was one gnomic reply to Vivien's quest for enlightenment.

Saving this because in my life, as I noted elsewhere, I was 'enlightened' regarding a thing or two about balances in relation to errors, extremes, and golden middle position of correct decisions. (#curious)

At the end of the play Agnes's musing on why we sleep:

"They say we sleep to let the demons out – to let the mind go raving mad . . . And when the daylight comes again, comes order with it."

Might be of interest since it was the true dream which returned me to search more info about VL, leading me to realization that I was actually that person in 1 of my past lives. And it's lucid dreams which I wanna use to find my other past lives' bodies.

(18.03.2024 – as it turned out 'regular' (not lucid) dreams work just fine too for this purpose. But it's preferable to ask your Higher Self for some 'key' (object, light, color, etc) which will be your clue that you're about to receive your answer in the dream. I've a lot to learn regarding getting information via true dreams, of course.)

Vivien rejected the idea of hospitalization.

This sounds so me still. In my childhood I made somewhat of a promise that I'd try to cure illnesses on my own rather than I become hospitalized… (#psyche-data)? Perhaps it may also relate to the lack of certain (#spiritual-knowledge).

Vivien kept smoking while being ill with tuberculosis.

Smoking was clearly an (#error) of my past life. Happy to say I never smoked in this life and have no wish to; I even try to avoid other smokers, like going around them so as not to breath in their fumes. And that, I think, could be attributed to (#spiritual-knowledge)

Vivien Leigh died. The cause of death was chronic pulmonary tuberculosis. A massive haemorrhage suffocated Vivien by flooding her lungs with blood.

Montaigne wrote in his Essays (which Vivien had on her bookshelves) of those who battle with recurring illness:

"being so often led to the port, confident that you are still within the accustomed limits, but some day you and your confidence will have crossed the water unawares."

In my childhood I heard about tuberculosis and I'd try to avoid people who cough ever since… (#curious)

(18.03.2024 – the quote now reminded me of my own life also. My health got better after my 28 years. In the following years it would swing back and forth, but I would recover and feel healthy each time – becoming confident that I was "still within the accustomed limits" each time I felt worse. But then, shortly before I encountered synchronicities with my past life of Michele Avila, it got significantly worse. Since then, I haven't been able to recover. Look like I "have crossed the water unawares"… again.

Also noting the water theme, which has been a part of my many lives.)

Vivien had the quality of forgiveness.

It's true still. I unbanned and unblocked all people who behaved badly in hopes they learned their lessons. Also, I try not to hold negativity towards those who made my life miserable in my childhood and beyond. (#spiritual-knowledge)

Page 312 talks about not being able to categorize VL who was "beyond definition"; later it says VL had to qualms to speak her mind. I mentioned it elsewhere – born in this life I already had certain qualities which allowed me to withstand the wall of skepticism regarding my experiences and Thiaoouba; I had some ammo (e.g. spiritual knowledge and past lives' experience) to carry through the difficulties. Of course, I still had lots to learn (e.g. ability to speak the truth about my life which I knew would be met by skepticism and thoughts that I'm crazy)

P 328 mentions the word "gumption" which I talked about elsewhere.

Page 315 gives an extract from Robert Louis Stevenson's "We Thank Thee" which Vivien at times quoted and entered in her Commonplace Book. Alan notes that "The quiet mind" mentioned by Stevenson Vivien did not always find but the rest surely applied:

"Give us courage and gaiety and the quiet mind ... strength to encounter that which is to come, that we may be brave in peril, constant in tribulation, temperate in wrath, and in all changes of fortune and, down to the gates of death, loyal and loving, one to the other."

"The quite mind" is something I still keep trouble finding. (#psyche-data), lack of certain (#spiritual-knowledge) how to live.

It also reminds me of "Silencio" from Mulholland Drive – the movie which at one point made a large impact on my current life and with which I've found many more synchronicities after I learned I was Vivien Leigh and Missy and watched it again.

The Life of Vivien Leigh (1987) - Alexander Walker

Alan Strachan (Dark Star author) said this book is "surprisingly error-strewn".

On page 2 there's a VL quote about saying what she thought and being prepared for the consequences of her actions. Now that I faced those consequences I'd think before saying things to people.

Karen Severson wrote in her book that MA would scream – what she thought – to Karen and Laura. She could've, should've, realized the severity and seriousness of the situation and realized that obscenities spoken towards two wound up girls who clearly hate you would only make things worse (possible death). (I have to CHECK again the account of events. I think MA said that the worst thing that the 2 girls could do is leave her there alone… but she still could've screamed obscenities) If I was MA too then it could be (#psyche-data) or lack of (#spiritual-knowledge)

During the filming of Ship of Fools, VL found herself hammering Lee Marvin's face for real with her spiked heel.

(#error) which could have been paid for in Missy's life when girls beat her up because of rumors.

Rachel Kempson had given Vivien the token, which was in the name of the Duchess of Wellington. 'As near, I suppose, as one could get to Lady Hamilton,' Vivien joked.

I hope I'll have lucid dreams and my mirror experiments will be successful, and I'll find out if I (and so VL) was or was not Emma Hamilton. Then I shall remember to find this note.

(21.03.2024 – I was Emma, and so in my Vivien's life I played myself from my past life without probably realizing it)

Vivien sometimes felt nauseated in the slightly swaying Rolls-Royce, and she said once: 'though it should be stable enough tonight, with Orson in it'.

If it was a joke about weight then I'm afraid this could be an (#error) I'm yet to suffer for by being somewhat overweight (possibly in another life). In this life there was a moment when I'd talk about my friend from village whose body was heavier than others. So, it could be compound again…

"Vivien's supposed extravagance."

That changed in this life.

Orson Welles was telling about the death of the Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, who insisted on going to the loo before his execution.

Maybe it's nothing but V is said to have walked to the bathroom when she died.

During a party, Lilli Palmer wanted to go to bed, asking Vivien if she'd be okay with that. Winn noticed on Vivien the look of disbelief that anyone wanted to retire when they were all enjoying themselves. Lilli explained she went to bed late the other night, and Vivien said it was okay, but it seemed like Vivien's voice indicated she found that to be a lame excuse still.

As mentioned elsewhere I remember how I'd go early to sleep and I remember how 2 girl friends whispered something to themselves as I went off. Suffering for an (#error) or just looking at life from another perspective.

It's also interesting from the perspective of how physical bodies can be different not only in terms of appearance but also its function (perhaps it's more about the physiological body)

Vivien and Larry had doves. Pigeons did play their roles in my life.

Page 16 talks about VL's restlessness. As I said elsewhere it might relate to (#psyche-data). Even though I'd go home early I sill get overexcited. VL's description matches me still.

Olivier didn't have sleep due to all the partying.

It was (#error) on my part not to think about Larry's sleep. I guess I suffered a lot for that in this life full of sleepless nights. I wonder if the air-conditioners were the synchronistic tools used by the Universe to punish me for depriving people of sleep? It doesn't have to be exact reflection, meaning I have to have a wife who'd be so energetic and restless that I can't sleep. There are other ways to teach the pupil a lesson, and I feel now this could be it.

Page 23 says how Vivian liked garden and outdoors. It's (#psyche-data) or (#spiritual-knowledge) as mentioned elsewhere

Page 26 describes turning Bible parables into playlets that Gertrude and Vivian acted out.

(#curious) because I made a video not long ago about Jesus's parables. Of course, Thiaoouba has an intimate connection to Jesus too. In this life I literally had experiences with people who were from the same planet as Jesus (there's a chance Thao was Jesus in her past life)

(21.03.2024 – knowing now I was Mary Magdalene, that episode in my past life of Vivien Leigh becomes so much more fascinating!)

In the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Roehampton all the pupils were given a number. Vivian's was 90.

Vivian had French, Spanish and Austrian classmates, and there were also girls from Poland.

I studied German language in school (not my choice). Recently I bought two self-study books to learn French and Spanish. The firm I worked as a courier at had a secretary girl who spoke Polish (I think the firm had roots in Poland)

Vivian liked behaving well. Walker writes Gertrude had drilled it into her daughter.

(#spiritual-knowledge) is at play here. This, of course, describes me also. Of course material knowledge – which was 'drilled' into VL by mother – must have helped too I think. And it's obvious the school didn't help in terms of sexual desires in my VL life – again, lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) this time in regards to s*x. Perhaps I acquired some in this life, suffering for my errors made in past lives.

Patsy Quinn, one of Vivian's school chums talks about 'spiritual side' of VL: 'Like the rest of us, she believed what she was told. But she never struck me as a "believer" in the deeper sense of the word.'

Just noting that being religious and spiritual are different things; and I think it's more than just my opinion based on what I had to learn and experience.

(21.03.2024 - Also it needs to be understood that the current Christian teachings are based on the Bible which was distorted several times, and the information about reincarnation removed. Recently I got answers from my Higher Self that I was Hypatia. By the time of that life the Bible had been distorted already several times. Hypatia gravitated to Neoplatonism instead of [distorted] Bible's teachings and, assuming I was her, I'm not surprised at all to know that.)

Vivian's reply to her school chum Maureen O'Sullivan: 'When I leave school, I'm going to be a great actress.' 17 years later, both girls acted together in A Yank at Oxford.

I died at 17 in Missy's life. And it's interesting how my declaration of becoming a great actress was actually fulfilled. Actually, from what I read, it looks like in Missy's life I also had certain premonitions about the future which were fulfilled (death by drowning).

Vivian gravitated towards older girls for her friends. Her precociousness closed the age gap.

I feel like the same has happened in my current life. My friends were generally older than me. And I liked older girls up until certain point. (#curious)

Vivian was indulged by her father with exotic little gifts and expensive treats when he was over in England.

(#reflection-life) actually reminds me of how my father would bring me presents - tasty foods etc.

Vivian was flexible, following her father's ways while with him, adapting herself to her rnother's outlook when Gertrude rejoined them.

This describes me. In my childhood I'd also adapt to the behavior of some of my friends, and when I was in company of other friends, I'd adapt to their ways too. (#curious)

In one of letters, Vivian wrote 'The Reverend Mother here is a' – and below there was a sketch of a sour-looking cat below

This reminded me of VKontakte website. People were playing a game in a thread in which they'd describe the profile picture of the person right above them. One person said 'a gloomy man' (I believe) about mine and that affected me negatively, for I wanted to have a bit of fun, not misery. Could be (#error) related.

Page 36 at the ends says how Vivian was catching minnows downstream. This just reminded of this morbid story about Michele Avila:

"For two days Missy's body lies in the water. Rigor mortis has set in. Bruises on her face and arms have appeared. As her body begins to decompose, flies begin to swarm. Small minnows swim across and begin to feed.

1985 - October 4 - Two hikers in the Angeles National Forest walk by the creek near Colby Canyon Road. When they get to an area of the creek, they see something in the water. At first, they think it might be a small animal. But as they get closer, they can tell it's the body of a young woman, with a heavy log on top of her in about 8 inches of shallow water. Flies are swarming and minnows are feeding on the body."

https://www.tapatalk.com/groups/cmm/michele-missy-yvette-avila-murdered-by-friends-kar-t3570514.html

It could be unrelated too of course.

Vivian had a new passion – the opera. Then Walker writes how she was as if hearing the music in her head and trying to shout above it.

Reminded me of how in my childhood my mother and I were riding in a bus to our village and I was able to bring up the music from the first Terminator movie in my head and 'listened' to it. (#curious)

At the age of 17, Vivian surprised Gertrude by asking her permission to get married immediately. She thought if she delayed, she'd never get married.

Later, they were lunching in a hotel in Munich, and Vivian said to a young waiter in German: "You deserve to be kissed.' Gertrude slapped her face.

Possible connections to Missy's life.

While Vivian and Leigh were on a holiday cruise in the Baltic, she got a telegram from the film company telling her to report ‘at once’. Listening to nothing her husband said, she caught the ferry home, leaving Leigh to go on alone.

Pretty sure it was (#error). Have I suffered for that?

Later this reminded me of how I left village at still 18 (turned 19 that summer) and I wished to find a way to go to USA sooo bad. Maybe it’s not related… but then I need to remember I also lived in California in my very last past life…

Vivian had no agent and so had to do her own hunting for parts. She went to all new plays, night clubs and anywhere else she could potentially hear of stage or film roles.

(#reflection-life) of the time between my 18-20 years when I wished to go to USA and try to be in the movies. This is actually somewhat similar to what I imagined doing (of course, times have changed since 1930s). (#psyche-data-astro-?) maybe at play here also. Noting here that I was right thinking (after I found TP) that maybe I lived in western countries, including USA, in my other lives.

Page 47 talks about the name change (becoming Vivien Leigh).

Another (#reflection-life) (probably mentioned elsewhere). I said in VKontakte.ru to a vk friend about my wish to write screenplays for movies, and I said I didn’t know what name to have… she actually wanted to help me with that…

(I never got to write anything serious because: 1) Thiaoouba related experiences and my spiritual studies which took a lot of time. 2) Health issues. 3) Noise at home and other problems leading to 1 & 2)

John Gliddon recalled the time he talked to Leigh Holman, Vivien’s husband:

“All the time we talked, Vivian sat there and smiled like the Cheshire Cat. She knew she’d get what she wanted.”

I might have mentioned it already, but this reminded me of how in my childhood I could not help but smile widely when I was playing chess and I knew I’d won.

Page 49 says how in VL life I was given £50 to buy a fridge. On the way to the store VL spotted an exquisite Boudin (Eugène Boudin, a French painter) in the art gallery and bought it with the fridge money.

‘Far better than keeping the baby’s milk cool,’ Vivien said.

For some reason I find it hard to believe I could do and say that… (it may contradict with previous statement in the book, essentially saying V would ensure her daughter had all she needed)

On the other hand, if it’s true, it is an (#error) which might have resulted in me suffering when my father sold his mother’s apartment for fraction of the price and some portion of that money was wasted on alcohol (he did buy a car, tv, motorcycle for me and probably the change house).

Maybe nothing, but my current name – Evgeny – is a variant of the name Eugène.

And my love for paintings in VL life could be linked to my other past life of Emma Hamilton who was a model for painters.

Vivien was paid 5 guineas a day for 4 days' work in The Village Squire (1935).

So, it was 20 guineas total.

"T thought we had an appointment,' Vivian snapped. 'I will not be ignored.' These words were said when Korda kept Vivien and Gliddon waiting in his anteroom.

It's interesting how I feel being ignored in this current life. And it's unfortunate because the things I know and share have potential to greatly improve people's lives.

Vivien wanted independence, having the option to do a play is she liked.

I like independence also (#psyche-data) or/and (#spiritual-knowledge).

Vivien: 'So many actresses tell people they just love washing dishes. I just don't believe it. I hate sloppy things. ... But you will say, won't you, that I haven't got swelled headed?'

Maybe I wrote about it, but I could not wash dishes without listening to music at first.

Vivien would make alterations to the designs of her gowns or suits.

(#psyche-data) for I prefer things to be unique – with a touch of my own (of course, if life situation allows that to happen)

Page 65 mentions John Buckmaster and his 'lecture' of what one could do with a piece of string.

Interesting that I use string (thread) for my telekinesis practices. But then it's logical to use the long string for that.

Page 67 says that Vivien rushed into marriage because of both romantic and practical reasons. This duality characterized her nature all her life.

(#psyche-data)? Because in my current life I noticed that I had a certain duality to me – when I genuinely thought one thing to be the correct and moral choice, and yet sometimes I'd either do or think about doing the almost total opposite.

Page 69 talks about Moscow Nights film that LO was working on. Moscow is the city I was born and still live in. Olivier plays Capt. Ivan Ignatoff. There was a person with the same last name at my class in school – occasionally he bullied me and some others; Ignatovo (Игнатово) is the name of the village of my grandmother and grandfather on father's side; I had a friend whose last name sounded noticeably close to 'Ignatoff'. Capt. Ivan Ignatoff's love interest is Natasha. At one point he thinks about sude but decides to live.

Page 70 mentions Gliddon realizing how stubborn Vivien could be.

(#psyche-data) stubbornness. I've found myself to be a stubborn person in regards to certain areas of my life.

(25.03.2024 – me being stubborn still explains how while being Mary Magdalene in one of my past lives about 2000 years ago I'm still living on the planet of the 1st category, having made errors in the following lives after Mary's, and having not yet learned fully 'how to live, suffer and die' [Thiaoouba Prophecy, p. 39].)

Page 71 mentions Vivien's romantic experience, seeing Olivier playing Romeo over and over again.

(#psyche-data) At first, I didn't want to approach women on the street to get aquatinted with them because I wanted something special in terms of romance. I wanted to have a story behind the meeting. Like when fate makes you meet accidentally under special romantic circumstances. Then I realized fate is always there and there could be special moments when you just approach women in parks also; I guess life proved that to be correct even though I found no one.

Then it's mentioned how Vivien was breaking down huge leaps into small steps.

(#spiritual-knowledge) because I'm doing the same thing.

Page 79 says how Vivien assumed several Olivier's characteristic attitudes and habits, including picking up several words – like 'fucking' – from him.

(#psyche-data) possibly. I mentioned it elsewhere – 'vampiric' quality in me I noticed long time ago.

Vivien would obstinately refused to fall on her backside. 'I am an English actress,' said Vivien.

Either (#psyche-data) or (#spiritual-knowledge) for I've had moments in my life when I had to be almost begged to do something I didn't fancy doing. And some things I'd never agree doing.

At the end of the page 83 it's mentioned how reading Gone with the Wind was to change Vivien's life.

(#psyche-data-astro-?) for if MD is right and some % of old Astral Body we had returns to us when we're reborn, then it's possible seeing so many ‘familiar’ names (like Hamilton) could start the fire withing my old self.

Page 85: “While Scarlett wasn’t the most easy-going type, neither am I,” Vivien told Robert Carroll in Motion Picture, in February 1940:

“I cannot let well enough alone. I get restless. I have to be doing different things. I am a very impatient person and headstrong. If I've made up my mind to do something, I can’t be persuaded out of it.... When Scarlett wanted something from life, she schemed about how to get it. That was her trouble. I just plunge ahead without thinking. That’s my trouble. Every so often I bump into stone walls and have to pick myself up and climb over them.

Scarlett had a strong sense of property. I have not a little.... She could take care of herself when she had to. I think I could, too. ... I went to school for a time in Germany. That meant that being a girl I had to learn what every Hausfrau should know, and hated it. That was one of the things that helped me make up my mind to become an actress... I hope I've one thing that Scarlett never had. A sense of humor. I want some joy out of life.... And she had one thing I hope I never have. Selfish egotism.... Scarlett was a fascinating person whatever she did, but she was never a good person. She was too petty, too self-centred.... But one thing about her was admirable. Her courage. She had more than I'll ever have.”

(#psyche-data) (#spiritual-knowledge).

Alexander Walker notes that Waterloo Bridge was widely screened in Russia and remained (as of 1980s) Vivien Leigh classic.

(#curious) interesting since I was born in Russia and it’s here that I’ve my real life reflection with that movie I did as VL (my, as VL, fav movie also)

Interesting that Walker even had to mention that fact in the book…

(After playing Ophelia in Hamlet at Elsinore). Vivien returned to London, and in several days she told Leigh Holman she was leaving him and gave the same news to Oswald Frewen on a postcard dated June 28, 1937.

Page 90 talks about VL’s prophecy she’d be the one to play Scarlett ‘Larry won't play Rhett Butler, but I shall play Scarlett O’Hara. Wait and see.’

I mentioned it elsewhere. I wonder if it could have been related to déjà vu – meaning some portion of the ‘film’ was not erased from my soul in the River of Oblivion? And so I knew that I was destined to play Scarlett O’Hara in GwtW? Or was I just this much confident? Or maybe there was something else (remembering how there was synchronicity when I first arrived at the set when burning of Atlanta was being filmed). Just a thought…

Page 91 talks about 21 Days movie, and how Vivien and Olivier saw it for the first time during its American opening and left before the end. Then Walker says how neither had overcome his or her condescending attitude to films.

In this life I like movies more than watching plays in theatre (although, to be fair, I only watched plays when I was in school [with mother or with the class – and mother was also there usually]). So, my soul did overcome the 'condescending attitude to films' eventually.

P.S. It's not clear to me if that was Walker's opinion or statement of fact based on evidence. In Vivien's life I did make some movies; I just had my opinions regarding the 'film star' status.

Page 92. Harry Nathan: "You, Mr Olivier, can do nothing for the moment. You will probably have to wait until a settlement is agreed to before your wife will divorce you. As for you, Miss Leigh, your husband is a Catholic and probably doesn't think he can reconcile divorce with the tenets of his Church. Well, I advise you to be patient. He seems to me to be a man who sets great store by family life. Having been deserted, he may well feel the need to start another family or, if he is a charitable man, will not wish to stop you doing the same. Let human nature take its course.'

'What a ridiculous little man,' Vivien snapped.

Could be an (#error). But was it paid for?

Also, I see some sense in his words now.

Little man. Doubt it's related, but in MA life I was 1.5 meters in height.

When Vivien started living with Olivier, John Gliddon thought that Vivien started having far less patience, and her demands turned intemperate.

P 114: "He found she had far less patience; her demands turned intemperate."

Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) maybe for I still am impatient sometimes. But not by a lot.

On page 93 Walker writes how Vivien felt judged in Maureen O'Sullivan's presence. Maureen married a devout Roman Catholic, and their marriage would be blessed with many children. Vivien had a breach in her marriage and, essentially, abandoned her child.

(#psyche-data) possibly due to me also having had times when I felt people judged me, but I overcame that to some big degree. Maybe it relates to (#spiritual-knowledge) too.

Page 93 talks about several hints of similarities between Vivien's role in A Yank at Oxford, Scarlett and also Blanche.

Page 94 mentions again the duality, which became a part of Vivien's nature.

(As mentioned before) It's interesting because I've noticed the certain duality – mirror situations as I called them – in myself. Like in what I genuinely thought/knew and how I acted contrary to that.

Then it's said that Vivien had a severe pain her foot: 'I have to go up to London to see my chiropractor, I just can't stand the pain in my toe.'

I wonder which toe? In my life I had problems with nails on both my thumb toes. The right one is still giving me trouble because the part of the cut off nail still remains, growing on its own and cutting into the flesh sometimes. (#reflection-life)

Page 95 talks about footwear issue and mentions dates: 8 October 1937 and 4 November 1937. Probably nothing but this year (2023) I had interesting dreams on these days (in my Dream Diary).

Both messages were written by John Gliddon. I actually had a dream mentioning his names (many times I think) when I read Dark Star biography, but I don't remember the details.

The shoe matter was serious – or more accurately what followed that, which is my 'attack of fury'. Maybe there could be some synchronicity going on, for those dreams are also a serious matter to me.

Page 96. Gliddon: "Her voice turned suddenly hard ... rasping ... contemptuous. But the worst thing was her eyes — the look in them: They had completely changed from the smiling eyes I was accustomed to seeing. They were the eyes of a stranger.'

'Unless you tell me this minute, you must leave the house.'

'Tm not telling you.'

'Then get out!'

Later Vivien was back to being 'the old Vivien', chastened, embarrassed. Gliddon passed it off as lightly as he could — 'Overwork ... nerves ... frustration.'

'No, John,' said Vivien, 'I'm liable to have an outburst like this now and then. It frightens me sometimes — and I'm always deeply sorry for it, as I am now. What I really need is a clause in my contract giving me two or three days off when I'm filming and I feel one of these "states" coming on me. Please do forgive me, John.'

Just thoughts. Maybe yesterday (22 November 2023) I read my dream diaries and I remembered the dream in which Thao told me essentially that I killed my mother (in another life) and that's why we had to live together and had difficulties and quarrels. If that dream was also a true dream (the structure of it – a dream in a dream – is certainly interesting; and in general that dream feels similar in its 'texture' to my true dream with VL) then neither VL and Michele Avila killed anyone. So, it means, if true, that happened before I was born in the body of Vivian Mary Hartley; so, if I did have that darkness in me, then it could potentially explain my outbursts in VL's life. (#curious)

Page 99 talks about Vivien's relationship with her daughter, Suzanne.

Later in life Vivien would understand the errors she'd done and she would reproach herself.

Vivien was drinking a lot. But she was not an alcoholic.

Maybe there's no connection, but I wonder if it may somehow relate to the fact that my father was drunk when he started hitting my mother and I became stuttering?

Pages 101-102 mentioned the coded looks and phrases exchanged between Bobby Helpmann and Vivien.

Maybe nothing but reminded me how Vova and I used (very poorly) coded words to talk for a few minutes.

Page 103 talks about St. Martin's Lane movie (American title is Sidewalks of London). It also mentions how Vivien disliked Charles Laughton's gross body; she said she felt she could never get near enough to him. She disliked her role too.

Could be an (#error) regarding what I said about Charles' body. Not sure if I've suffered or not for that if it's the case.

Also, now I actually like this movie.

Pages 106-107 have an interesting story on how VL got a chance to do several films in Hollywood but treated it as an ultimatum rather than an opportunity because accepting it meant saying goodbye to the chance of getting the role of Scarlett O'Hara, which she had set her heart on, as Olivier said, 'with an almost demonic determination'. At the time Vivien was not even a contender to play Scarlett, yet she was prepared to turn down present riches and the prospect of future stardom just to keep the door open to play that role.

Again, I find it interesting that I really, really wanted to play (and possibly even knew or sensed I would) Scarlett O'Hara. After having realization that I could have played myself and the roles I played have connections to my past lives – e.g. last names – it's even more interesting… because if I had a chance to play myself, without knowing it in terms of material knowledge, then I guess my Higher Self could have helped me somehow with that determination and decisions… or maybe there's something else... (#curious)

(26.03.2024 – it may be related to (#spiritual-knowledge) (and/or (#reflection-life) because in my current life I'm doing a very similar thing in my pursuit of sharing Thiaoouba book and my experiences and knowledge associated with it. I'm doing it at the expense of work, and so I have much less money than I potentially could have, which also to some degree relates to me not having a family.)

When Olivier was leaving to New York – on Vivien's 25-th birthday – she pressed a small silhouette portrait of Emily Bronté into his hands.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Emily_Bront%C3%AB

Emily was born on 30 July 1818 and died 19 December 1848 (aged 30). I was born on 30 July 1988.

Maybe there are some connections/synchronicities with her.

Certain things from Emily's life reminded me of Kristina from Ostankino who also liked dogs and animals (сказала, ей легче с животными, чем с людьми)

Her death is similar to VL's in that it was tuberculosis, and she refused to see doctor (VL refused to be hospitalized) until it was too late.

Olivier was shooting Wuthering Heights (originally book by Emily) during VL's introduction to David Selznick and her test scenes. Important moment of my past life and there's these possible connections also…

On page 113 Walker writes (his opinion, I presume) that Vivien's vertigo would not allow her to climb on top of the tower on which David Selznick and Cukor were.

Mentioned it elsewhere. Sudden fear of heights.

Page 116 mentions the word 'Missee' (about Scarlett O'Hara).

(#curious) another person uses the word similar to 'Missy' (Missie & now Missee – e.g. miss, young lady). It's logical of course to use this word in this context, but still…

On 11 January 1939, he had Vivien's reply: 'DEAR JOHN I DO NOT FEEL YOUR PROPOSAL A FAIR ONE BECAUSE IT INVOLVES MY PAYING COMMISSIONS ON FUTURE EARNINGS WHICH I MAY OR MAY NOT RECEIVE. CONSIDER MY ORIGINAL SUGGESTION EXTREMELY FAIR BOTH TO YOU AND MYSELF, NAMELY TO PAY YOU YOUR COMMISSIONS ON MONIES RECEIVED UNDER MY NEW KORDA CONTRACT AS AND WHEN I GET PAID. IF I LIVE, YOU ARE WAY AHEAD. LOVE, VIVIEN.'

Walker writes that the signing of the contract (GWtW) was awaited on 16 January 1939.

VL said it was 13th (David Lewin interview) and many sources say the same thing. It's book's error I think for I was very specific that I signed the contract on Friday the 13th.

I'd like to note that the black dress I wore to the signing had what looked like 2 lions at the top near neck. VL used to talk about her birth sign – Scorpio – and my sign is Leo.

https://www.britishpathe.com/asset/138816/ I was presented with Lion of Saint Mark (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Lion_of_Saint_Mark) - the symbol of the city of Venice - for special acting honor.

Page 121 has interesting insights into my almost 9-month long work of 9 hours per day.

Page 122's story about Clark and VL is funny.

Walker writes that "Vivien's scorn for Hollywood gave her the self-confidence to tackle her semi-mythical role: after all, if she failed, she could always go back to the stage."

I no longer have scorns for Hollywood, although I understand my old self, but the reason I quoted this is to record possible (#spiritual-knowledge) of not having all eggs in the one basket. I like having options.

It was 2 weeks into filming, George Cukor suddenly withdrew from the job on 13 February 1939.

After Cukor was fired, Vivien went to Myron Selznick to complain with indignation. He said very coldly: 'If you quit this film, you will be in court till your last day on earth. You will never work again on stage or screen. You will never be free. David will see to that. And so, too, Miss Leigh, will I.'

Walker writes Vivien had tasted for the first time Hollywood's ruthlessness.

Cukor was Vivien's 'last hope of ever enjoying the film'.

Page 124 talks about the contract issues. The numbers involved may be of some connection to the event which happened in my current life.

Gliddon wrote on 27 March 1939 to Myron Selznick: 'You and your American organization have known for some time that Miss Leigh was under contract to me. Her agreement of December 20 with you must have surely been entered into with the full knowledge that in signing [it] she was acting in breach of her contract with me…"

(#error) on my part. If I never suffered for in in VL's life, then maybe that incident with the publishing company who gave me different contract to sign was my way to suffer for that mistake – for many things got wrong at that time and my mind was distracted by mother not picking up the phone; and I didn't feel too good too. Of course, I should've been more careful and attentive to what was going on (reprinting of the contract) but then external factors played a role also.

Vivien's letter to Gliddon: "My Dear John,

Please forgive me for not having written before to explain this situation to you. It is awfully rude of me. I was very distressed to get your wire saying you would be willing to sell your contract to Selznick, as I had been insisting that all the English side of my contract would still be with you. I cannot see how you would lose by this, excepting for this year. But in the long run, surely, there would be no question of your losing. As you said yourself, Korda would certainly not have taken up his option after this year and by this agreement it is practically impossible for him not to do so, as he will have had a 'name' made for him and I will be found more useful than before. I would never have signed this contract, as you know, except for this particular picture, but it seemed impossible to refuse it, and, besides, they would not consider it without a contract. I do hope you will remember this, John, as I do not want to leave you at all.... Please believe me, John, that I have thought of you throughout this thing and I have your interest at heart. I hate Hollywood as much as I thought I would and I know I shall never be happy here. I can't think what will happen when I am alone.... So please write me as soon as you can. I do want to know what you think of this.

With much love,

Vivien.

ps. I've really been working terrifically hard or I would have written sooner. I'm so sorry for the delay."

Ironically, it was David O. Selznick who brought Vivien to court for breaching her contract, not John Gliddon.

Might explain why I got out of my contract situation quickly if that was the suffering for my past life's error.

A message from Selznick's executive to Gliddon: 'You know, David would have paid Vivien a percentage on the net receipts of Gone With the Wind if she hadn't behaved so badly while they were making it. That dame is screwy.'

The arguments with Fleming is probably what they refer to…

(26.03.2024 – I've written here already whom I was in my past lives, and about the possible reasons I as Vivien wished to play Scarlett so strongly. It may explain somewhat my behavior in that life during the making of that movie.)

Victor Fleming didn't have time to read GWtW script nor the book. This immediately earned him low marks with Vivien, who always had a copy of the novel at hand. She referred to it during arguments and seemed to treat it as a sort of talisman. Fleming barked one day (not understanding the [possible] deeper reasons behind my connection to GWtW): 'Miss Leigh, you can take this script and stick it up your royal British ass.'

I mentioned it elsewhere but again – interesting how in this life I treat Thiaoouba book in similar 'talismanic' ways. Only this time it's a true book and I Know it – so it's important for all people.

But I also wonder WHY was I so… attached to the GWtW book? (I wrote my thoughts that maybe I had to play it if I did play myself and the last names of Scarlett were mine also in previous lives)

Page 128 quotes Vivien saying/answering: 'Of course we're living in sin,' going off into a peal of laughter.

(26.03.2024 – I've talked about it before. Sometimes couples are on 'different waves' (because they probably made error(s) in how they chose the partner) and in that case, I think, it's more than okay to seek for a new partner with whom you'll [hopefully] have more similarities, love, spiritual affinity, etc. 'Sin' has nothing to do with anything here.)

The scene, when Scarlett declares 'As God is my witness, as God is my witness they're not going to lick me. I'm going to live through this and when it's all over, I'll never be hungry again. No, nor any of my folk. If I have to lie, steal, cheat or kill. As God is my witness, I'll never be hungry again,' was shot in the San Fernando Valley.

Michele Avila grew up in Arleta, Los Angeles, in the San Fernando Valley. The thing is in the movie Scarlett mentions 'killing' & 'lying', and in Michele's life I was lied to and then killed. Not sure about stealing and cheating. (#curious)

As I mentioned before, movies, being part of the Universe, do influence people. If the message a character is giving to the audience is wrong (e.g. some people may follow the character and repeat their erroneous decision in real life, hurting themselves or someone else in the process) and it's never clearly stated that it's wrong (e.g. either directly, or by showing that character having to suffer for that mistake in the movie) then the actual actor playing the character may have to pay for that error. It's just a theory for now. Also, I suspect I died in Missy's life for the error I did more than 2000 years ago in Cleopatra's life. But it's possible that tragic event may have been compound too – when several different errors were suffered for during one single event (again, it's a theory for now that there could be compound events that have several 'roots' in different times and/or lives).

There were no less than 27 copies of the calico dress, each in a different stage of disintegration.

27. It was one of synchs related to IT.

'Ways to Kill Babies' was the name of the game that Vivien proposed her guests play at her parties in Hollywood. Players had to mime some out-of-the-ordinary means of disposing of an unwanted infant.

(#error) which might have been the reason for my 2 miscarriages in VL's life.

Sadly, it might explain the memory I'm afraid I actually have from my early childhood… it involves plastic bottle and poor insects in it… dead. If I did that actually then I feel so very bad. Currently I even tried to let cockroaches outside instead of killing them so much I like nature (but I did also cry during that moment when I slapped some bag on my leg, being afraid it was someone/something dangerous). Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) and possible acquisition of it.

Another thought is that it reminded me of Emma Hamilton's Attitudes. Writing this after the dream with message writing 4 names (Emma, Vivien, Michele, Evgeny).

Anatole Litvak, a Kewish refugee from Hitler's Germany, tried to open the eyes of reluctant movie colony to the threat of the Nazis posed to peace in Europe and possibly in the world. He was making little progress because the studios had huge investments in the German box-office. Vivien was disgusted at this.

By April 1939, American public opinion was rather chastened by Hitler's war moves. 'They're a little cowed now, thank God,' Vivien wrote to Leigh Holman.

(#spiritual-knowledge)

Pages 131-132 talk how Vivien found it hard to leave lengthy roles, which caused her stress and drained her physically. Some close friends believed the roles she played accumulated like different identities, which would suddenly repossess her during a crisis.

(#psyche-data) I sometimes say lines from whatever medium which got 'stuck' to me for some reason.

(26.03.2024 – At this point it's a fact (to me, at least) that in Vivien's life I played myself in several roles – here I mean past lives I had before I was born as Vivian. It's possible I played myself – to some degree – in other roles too. As said earlier, if Michel Desmarquet was correct in his book Nature's Revenge, saying some part of our past Astral body's electrons return to us in our new lives, then that could explain the issues I had as Vivien.

In fact, as I also must have mentioned, I think I kind of experienced the mild form of what I experienced as Vivien. It happened after I found enough proof that I had to be Vivien Leigh and I felt that my identity was shifting to becoming Vivien Leigh – my old self. I realized what was happening and so I simply took things one step at a time; and I also read about multiple personalities disorder. It worked.

This experience also had me thinking – what if people who have multiple personalities disorder relive, so to say, their old self from their past lives? In other words, each personality corresponds to their character - to their self - in one of their past lives.)

Vivien would call in her mother whenever Vivien's emotional problems got out of control. But she also went on her independent way, and even sometimes considered Gertrude's well-meant help an irritation.

Selznick rejected Vivien for Rebecca. She was 'resentful' for a very long time.

Maybe (#psyche-data) for it may remind old me. Now that I know all people will suffer for their own mistakes, and I know I'm making an error if I harbor negativity while I can live happily, I try not to have such negative feelings and thoughts.

Vivien hoped she'd play in Pride and Prejudice, but Greer Harson was cast instead, and Olivier played in it too. Waterloo Bridge was Vivien's film, in which she played alongside Robert Taylor, who was the Yank at Oxford movie. Walker writes to Vivien it seemed that fate got its directions confused.

And yet it was Waterloo Bridge that I found the great reflection with my current life and so this movie helped me realize I AM actually Vivien Leigh.

(27.03.2024 – after rewatching that movie I've noticed several more possible reflections in that film with my life. Interestingly, it also concerns the same episode with Natasha. I wrote about those reflections in the 'Movie/Play Reflections' section.)

Page 136 talks about fusion of Scarlett and Vivien. Interestingly this is what's happening now with me that I found 1 of my past lives – in a way I get 'fused' with the person I used to be.

(About VL's Waterloo Bridge performance) Bosley Crowther in the New York Times wrote: 'Miss Leigh shapes the role of the girl with such superb comprehension, progresses from the innocent, frail dancer to an empty bedizened streetwalker with such surety of characterization and creates a performance of such appealing naturalism that the picture gains considerable substance ... ' Vivien, he added, was 'as fine an actress as we have on the screen today. Maybe even the finest.'

Leigh Holman and Jill Esmond divorced Vivien and Larry respectively. The Danish expedition to play Hamlet in Elsinore was named as the occasion for the break-up by Jill.

VL played Ophelia in Elsinore. Ophelia dies in a creek which might be reflection with my fate in my MA's life. (#curious) And it would have been poetic… another type of reflection when events absorb certain elements of the past in their manifestations.

Vivien started playing accordion as a hobby in order to stretch her chest and improve her vocal projection.

Never played it myself but some of my relatives did in the village. (maybe it was a Bayan (Баян)).

(Vivien on Romeo and Juliet's failure) 'Larry and I were too greedy'. They had to leave their expensive hotel and live in Katharine Cornell's guest house at Sneden's Landing in up-state New York. There was a garden sloping down to the Hudson River.

Sonny Hudson was my nickname on freelancer.com

Vivien did what she could in New York (being of value to the war effort) and was featured in Look assembling 'bundles for Britain'.

VL was featured 3 (as far as I know) times in Look magazines:

July 18, 1939 – 'Why The Jews Are Persecuted –by STANLEY HIGH' is written on the cover, and thanks to Thiaoouba I now the answer to that question;

December 17, 1940;

March 11, 1952;

Not featured on the front page, but there's an article about VL in Look Magazine March 25 1941.

The synchronicity here is that Thao told me "Look!" when I was watching tennis and there was 33 minutes showing (an important number; it's 333 days on Thiaoouba and 33333300 kasios in a year) (#curious). Also tennis is what I as VL was watching on the day of my death.

This sync reminds me of the 'Joy' one, which also had Thao tell me that word telepathically ('There are other joys in life')

And yes, VL was featured in other magazines which have different names.

https://www.britishpathe.com/asset/74366/

"Vivien Leigh wins 'Look' magazine movie award for her role in 'Streetcar Named Desire'."

'One night we were speculating what might happen if the Germans won,' says Merivale. 'One of the actresses said, "I hear all the pretty girls will be drafted into brothels and the rest will be made to do road work. I'm sure I'll be put on hard labour." "Oh, no," Vivien burst in brightly, "don't be silly, darling, of course you'll be in a brothel!"'

'What fun we had!' Merivale recalls. 'Piling into cars after the show, Larry driving the Cadillac, Vivien egging him on to crash the red lights, screaming along the Hudson…"

(#psyche-data), lack of certain (#spiritual-knowledge).

Pages 148-149 talk about the Chinese checkers game and my anger when I lost. Actually, it reminded me of the Hearthstone game. I wasn't behaving in a good way playing it and said many things I regret; having negative feelings also clearly didn't help – and it was at that moment that I had the dream about the 17th page of the specific Bible in my possession, and when I opened that page, it talked about – basically – the consequences of words; that you shouldn't say mean things – it's an error. Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge), (#psyche-data)

Page 152 talks about Lady Hamilton movie. After short description of who Emma was, it's said that they had to show Emma's downfall before and after her 'immoral' rise. It was necessary because of Hollywood censors.

As it turned out, they were right to require that errors are paid for on the screen…

Korda's only criticism of Vivien's performance. 'My dear Vivien, Emma was vulgar.' Vivien snapped back, 'My dear Alex, you wouldn't have given me a contract if I'd been vulgar.'

(#spiritual-knowledge)

Page 154 mentions Vivien's managerial qualities. Perhaps Walker meant something else, now what I originally thought. But here's the idea I wrote anyway:

Reminded me of the fact I was made an admin in 3 groups (2 on VKontakte.ru; 1 on Facebook – TPXP). Maybe it's some (#reflection-life) situation which could include (#spiritual-knowledge)

Page 155 has a story about a spat between VL and Larry.

That story actually remined me of my current life's story involving Sergey from village. I realized he wanted to join other company because of girls, but it would mean he'd start to drink there – which is something he was strongly against before. He did join them; he drank; almost disregarded his plants that Vova Sh. almost stepped on; many years after he had health problems from that past childhood drinking.

Vivien listened to the Government's rules and regulations – like having a leather gasmask at hand which other people didn't care about.

Reminded me of the coronavirus situation. I used to wear mask also for a while. Then I'd only wear it in public transport and there were women who pointed out to themselves I had the mask on (and they didn't)

Don't know if it's (#psyche-data) or (#spiritual-knowledge)

Also reminded me of how Vova was fooling around putting Dima's gas mask on. Maybe it's unrelated, but then I do notice how in this current life I'm occasionally presented with ideas, objects, events, etc, which played some role in my past lives also.

Pages 157-158 say how VL and Larry went back to England during the WW2. I find it impressive. It also talks about the Contract to Selznick.

'…fractious Vivien…'

(#psyche-data) I used to be somewhat ‘fractious’ in childhood

Page 158 mentions the drive to Plymouth.

Maybe nothing, but I thought the blue car in my dream (slit throat) could have been Plymouth. But it also could have been Camaro relating to MA.

Vivien really wanted to do the Shaw play - Caesar and Cleopatra.

Page 161 mentions how Vivien overheard 2 RAF boys talk about ‘Larry’. One said: ‘He’s a duck out of water.’ She knew it was her Larry.

(#curious) what are the chances VL had to be in the right place and in the right time to hear it? It relates to me finding my 2 past lives on the Internet too – now I’m pretty certain it was no coincidence or luck; it was meant to be according to the Universal Law.

The Doctor's Dilemma play opened in London in March 1942 and ran for 13 months — then a record for a play by Shaw.

Page 162 (Vivien’s advice to Richard Attenborough): “Go away — and look for a part you can play now.”

Reminded me of a woman who said the word “сейчас” (now). It was Olya with whom I met once after 5 months of texting and she didn’t want to meet with me again. She thought she could find someone ‘now’ even though for some reason she was single in her 30th year of age. I don’t know if 2 events are related; I feel like I was right in VL life to give that advice given the circumstances.

‘Vivien was a very shrewd career-plotter,’ Attenborough says. ‘She could see the way ahead with enormous clarity and certainty — for others as well as for herself.’

Page 163 and 164 tells how Vivien got the part in Caesar and Cleopatra. Vivien’s shyness is also mentioned (I’ve been shy in my childhood and teenage years; I think it was mainly because of stuttering and me not knowing how to live with that serious problem).

Page 167 has an interesting story about an Easter egg present which I eventually ate. It might have some (#reflection-life) in my life. Some people implied hypocrisy when there was talk about hydrogen cars (but they assumed wrong things before).

In my life I found it silly to waste money to paint or wrap in decorations food which should be consumed anyway.

There have been other egg related situations in my life. Some of them are too shameful to tell…

Page 168 starts talking about the experience filming Caesar and Cleopatra. I mentioned some points elsewhere. Essentially it shows once again how much time, energy and money was spent on a movie which wasn't even very historically accurate and focused on unnecessary things (some of which I'm sure are [partially at least] the reason for me experiencing baldness).

Plato and Hugo, as well as Michel Desmarquet (in relation to Thiaoouba book), are contrasts here; Thao mentioned them for not embellishing a true story and reporting it accurately.

Page 169 can potentially confirm my suspicions that miscarriage on the set of that movie could have been the payment for the error of playing a character who beats up slaves and is never punished for it.

(After miscarriage) 'There'll be plenty more where that one came from,' V told friends.

In a shortly lived life of 17-year-old Missy I had no children. In my life I wanted family and children but it's seemingly impossible to achieve now…

Miscarriage occurred on the first week of September 1944, but I don't know which date. September 4, 2023 is when I had a dream I was VL.

Page 170 mentions Vivien's transfigured features and her sharpened face.

Difficult to say what they mean exactly by 'transfigured' but maybe it's (#psyche-data) for I've problems with facial expressions in my life…

Then she began berating her dresser for some small sin of omission she discerned in her costuming.

Could relate to lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) in regards to the episode when I started dragging that guy in the snow when we were in school. But it's subtle.

They say Vivien had no recollection of her bad behavior during the manic-depressive states. She'd write apologies to those affected.

Vivien didn't watch Caesar and Cleopatra movie for 6 years – when she was playing the role again (on stage this time) with Olivier as her Caesar.

(28.03.2024 – there's a lot to learn about reincarnation and how our psychology changes over lives. But I find it very interesting that I played myself from my old life and the experience had brought me so much misery in Vivien's life... But as I said before, now I think the movie should have been more serious and historically accurate… It was probably an error to play in a story which not only didn't portray the historic events in the most historically accurate way possible, but it also painted my old self in an incorrect way. If so, then it's no surprise the experience of filming that movie has brought me (in VL's life) troubles.)

Note about willfulness which I mentioned elsewhere. After publishing TP in Russian I was insisted to remove the images so that they only appear in a paid book. I stood my ground and kept the images in the free e-book.

Korda bought the film rights to Enid Bagnold's novel Lottie Dundass from Myron Selznick for $40,000 expressly to star Vivien in the film. She turned it down.

https://www.concordtheatricals.co.uk/p/64594/lottie-dundass

"Dundass is living obscurely in a bungalow colony on the Downs with four of here seven children. The eldest of the four is Lottie, who wants to become an actress, but has health issues with her heart."

7 is present in both Cleopatra's and Mary Magdalene's lives. And there were times when I thought about acting, but had issues with my heart…

Jack Merivale thought Vivien was thinner than she should be.

Just noting I've had rather thin bodies for 3 lives (Vivien, Michele, Evgeny).

Vivien's Sabina in the Skin of Our Teeth had a shoulder-length wig dyed carmine.

Carmin is essentially a deep red color. It's similar to that which Marina (from Moscow) had I'd say. It's the one color of the [dyed] hair that I like in women actually. (#curious)

Also, shoulder length reminded me of the fact the blonde girl had shoulder length hair, but when I viewed pictures of Sabina she clearly had longer hair than the blonde.

Pages 178-179 describe how Vivien learned about having tuberculosis. What Walker writes about Vivien almost perfectly matches me – which is not a surprise since I am/was Vivien and only 17 years of my life as Missy separate my current self from that past self. Not a lot of time to change completely as a person – provided certain changes are required for the spiritual growth.

While recovering from illness, in V's life I read Trollope and also the Life of Buddha. As for the later, Walker says V was captivated by its mix of the mystical and practical.

(#curious) So this is one of the times (there could be more, I don't know) when I read about spirituality.

Also - "Anthony Trollope (24 April 1815 – 6 December 1882) was an English novelist and civil servant of the Victorian era. Among his best-known works is a series of novels collectively known as the Chronicles of Barsetshire, which revolves around the imaginary county of Barsetshire. He also wrote novels on political, social, and gender issues, and other topical matters."

Perhaps I could have learned something spiritually by reading his works? I did realize some truths about life in my current incarnation (I suppose my ideas are generally correct).

Page 180 later has a bit about VL suggesting 'The Battle of Life' book to Williams. Antiwar propaganda. Haven't read it but could be (#spiritual-knowledge) related.

Williams: '…A marvellous bit of anti-war propaganda! I adopted it for the show — but it was Vivien's intelligence that had spotted its potential.'

Suzanne talks about the atmosphere at Notley: 'Mama had created an atmosphere that was regulated to the last degree, and yet very relaxing. Everything had its place, its order of precedence and appearance — yet no one felt put upon. People lay about, the meals arrived unbidden and at just the right moment — all due to Mama's meticulous planning. Nothing went unsupervised.'

They say Vivien was indefatigable…

Even though I'd go to bed early, this still can describe me. (#psyche-data)?

Then Vivien's ribald sense of humour is mentioned.

Another possible connection to why I was almost obsessed about s*x in this life and why the thought of not having it was so hard to live with. (#curious)

Page 186 mentions scatological sing-songs.

Scatological relates to faeces. Made me remember how 3 girls came to stand near me at the train station in Pokrov. They were discussing faeces and I found myself losing interest in them (I was maybe 18 or something like that). Some time later, when I had my talks with Julia (the one I talked to on ICQ, or similar app, only), the subject came up again and I realized it is part of life (although one should remember about extremes and appropriateness also). (#reflection-life) maybe.

Then there's a mention of the ten day stay at the Hotel Miramar. The party cost them £7,000. Olivier with his collaborators wrote the screenplay and Vivien sunbathed on the terrace under the jasmine.

First, I tried to write screenplays. Second, I approached one woman, who turned out to be in her 50s and with kids, near a jasmine in Catherine Park.

Vivien's strong will clashed with Duvivier's while filming Anna Karenina.

As mentioned elsewhere I believe – (#psyche-data) for it is me 100% still. Due to accumulation of spiritual knowledge some things can change, but just recently I stood my ground defending and trying to show the reason behind my telekinesis video (and there are a lot more examples, including me openly writing my thoughts on homosexualism while some others tend to bend over before the lgbt+ people who are clearly in the wrong)

On page 188 Walker speculates if certain photographs of V were showing her manic-depressive mood, and that's why she didn't like them and asked to be destroyed.

(#psyche-data) or lack of (#spiritual-knowledge).

There was the moment of some people/things being 'suspects' when I was thinking too much what other thought or said about me. Sometimes I was right because some unknown people clearly laughed at me being depressed – which showed on my facial expressions… which leads to the second part of the quote where I had the same issue of not wanting my pictures (now videos also) showing me in my 'manic-depressive' mood. I've still this same issue (but I think now that I know the reasons for me suffering in this life I can overcome them)

On the day of the King's Birthday Honours, which included a knighthood for Olivier, Beaton breezed into Vivien's dressing-room crying, 'Oh, I'm so happy for you about the great news!' He later recorded: 'A face of fury was reflected in the mirror.'

(#curious) for it was my reflection in the mirror of that dream, which told me «Я никогда не дам тебе выйти из себя». Also, it's thanks to the mirrors that I can see my past lives in them.

Also, in some movies VL was shown in mirrors' reflections.

(1938 Sidewalks of London,

1939 Gone with the Wind,

1948 Anna Karenina,

1961 The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone,

1965 Ship of Fools;

1951 In Streetcar there's a mirror but Blanche never looks into it, 1937 Storm in a Teacup. 42:15 I'm shown in mirrors reflection but never look into it)

So far, it's 7 movies that I found VL seen in a mirror. Unless I missed something in other movies, the number could be a synchronicity with the lives of Cleopatra and Mary Magdalene. It should also be noted that I've never seen The Village Squire and Gentleman's Agreement, which might also show VL's reflection in a mirror.

Laurence Olivier was knighted in 1947. Investiture was on 8 July 1947. Vivien became 'Lady Olivier'.

Just noting that exactly 20 years after I died as VL (although some write 7 July as the death day). 20 number has been showing up in my life from time to time.

Pag 190 has a story about VL and Larry's travels and how they were received. It's interesting to discover this about my old self.

Olivier wrote in his diary how they were on board of a liner and on the second night out Vivien turned to him as they sat at the captain's table and 'suddenly with an alarmingly wild look ... said, "Tonight I should like to play dominoes."'

(#psyche-data) and possible reflections. I saw in Olya (and that other Bible woman) facial expressions which could turn away some people.

Also, I played dominoes in the villages.

Vivien and Olivier sailed home from Wellington on 17 October 1948. Olivier had to be in his cabin for 2 weeks because of his knee operation. Vivien organized hectic charades, made everyone laugh, wore revealing gowns and danced the whole night with the young bachelors of the company. Olivier had to rebuke her for 'humiliating' him by making up to one young man in public.

Maybe nothing. On 17 October 2023 I decided to tell my mother about me being Vivien Leigh and possibly Michele Avila. It's been 75 years since that date.

(#psyche-data) in regards to hectic things. Sometimes silly ideas would overtake me.

Then I remember how my mother, when I was very little, was 'making up to' Виталик (a guy who was older than us by quite a lot). I felt awkward and unsure at the sight; and the looks of smiles at me from my village friends didn't help either. Possibly suffering for old (#error) or some reflection in case Olivier's rebuke did the job (meaning I paid the penalty then and there).

On board the ship Vivien was also reading the play A Streetcar Named Desire, and when they reached home, she was determined to play Blanch DuBois as she once was to play Scarlett.

Interesting that role had also won an Oscar. Additionally, that role is also reflected in Michele Avila's life. (#curious)

Then Walker writes on page 194 a bit about who Blanch is and how that role is similar/different to that of Scarlett.

(#reflection) of my current life. Again, if I did play people I was in the past (obviously, in terms of spiritual growth; of character) then it could make sense that at first I didn't give a damn, and then, when reality and Universal Law hit and I was met by harsh reality, I got immured in the past (just as it happened in my current life – hence the tag).

'Elysian enchantment' may have been found, in a way, by me finding Thiaoouba Prophecy and proving, of course, it's a true book by having all my spiritual experiences.

Alan Dent begged Vivien not to play Blanche, but I said 'Impossible'.

(#curious) Again I feel like there could be some literally higher power (yet unknown Universal guide; astropsychic body; etc) which made me wanna play certain parts no matter what.

Stanley Hall, the London wig-maker and theatrical entrepreneur talks about Vivien's hair: 'She had crinkly hair, generally not very good hair. She disliked it and it required a lot of attention. But as she was determined this should be a brilliant performance, she did everything she could to help herself get into character and this included bleaching her own hair. I made her a dark wig to wear during the day. A little later, when she came to do the film, I made her bleached wigs, because the idea was that Blanche should have ragged-looking hair, like someone who had gone through life neglecting herself. She used to send the wigs back from Hollywood, by air mail, to be cleaned and redressed by me — didn't trust the American hairdressers.'

I started having wavy hair when I was about 14. I was called Pushkin by some of my school friends because of that. I wonder if I didn't like my crinkly hair in VL life – could it be the reason I got them again and had those comments from my peers? As a way for me to start loving myself the way I am.

Page 198 follows up on that, describing how the character of Blanche affected me. It has also (#reflections) in my current life.

Lucinda Ballard: 'She was sitting on an outsize chair with Danny Kaye at a party Ivor Novello gave. She had on a vivid red dress. Her beauty was dazzling. Yet something about her hinted at how she could transform herself into something less of a lady and more of a... well, entertainer, a comedienne of the kind who plays the resort hotels. I decided she had absorbed Danny Kaye's comic allure by some natural osmosis and tipped into it her own bawdy sense of humour, which only a woman with her looks could get away with. As I got to know Vivien, I saw this chameleon side to her — she could assume a look very easily.'

As I said before, reminds me of how I once realized that I can as if assume the character of someone else's persona… I used to call it vampirism. It reminds me of what is said about me as VL in the quote. (#curious)

Vivien would write down thoughts or interesting information in a notepad. She also had multiple photos of Olivier, affectionate notes, etc., in her house.

(#reflection-life). It's what I've done by printing out the movie reflections on paper and hanging them near my bed so that I can see them and remember who I was and why (amid the mountain of other reasons) I know it.

Page 201 has a quote from Suzanne about VL. She was 17 at the time.

MA was also 17

'She had made up for having relatively few friends when she was younger and now had dozens, and was passionately possessive of them. She never wanted to risk letting people go ... slip out of mind.'

It actually describes MA so well… it was 1 of reasons for her death - she had to let Karen and Laura go… now I understand it, having experience living alone etc.

Next Suzanne describes the quarrels between V and Larry. It was me until I decided to be more calm. It means that what Karen wrote about me in my Missy's life (Lizzy as she named Missy in her book) could be true as I mentioned elsewhere. (#psyche-data) or lack of spiritual knowledge. Essentially, Karen Severson wrote I 'attacked back' [verbally] (page 48 of her book) when they were verbally attacking me.

Vivien was asked: 'What do you think happened to Scarlett O'Hara after Rhett Butler walked out on her?'

Vivien paused for a second and then said: 'I think she probably became a better woman. But I don't think she ever stopped loving him.'

This is of interest to me because I have the reflection with that movie. And I did see it as becoming a better person (human being) – growing spiritually. (#curious)

On page 203 Walker writes that "for Vivien, the most brutal moment came when Karl Malden snaps on the light to expose Blanche to 'reality' — and she ducks, terrified, as if he has made to hit her. 'I don't want the light — I want magic.'"

I don't know how Alexander knows it (assuming he did) but this finds a (#reflection) in my life for I went into daydreams in order to protect myself from the cruelty of the world around me; then I had to face the world to discover its true nature, beauty and simplicity (thanks to Thiaoouba)

The 2 Cleopatra plays were separated by a historical gap of 21 years.

21 does appear a few times in VL life.

Churchill's oil painting belonged to England and hung always opposite Vivien's bedhead. Vivien knew she was at home whenever she opened her eyes in the morning.

(#reflection-life) due to me hanging photos from VL movies to know/ remember who I was and who I am.

Vivien never got bored – at least easily.

Stanley Hall: 'I think there was another reason why some people were shy of Vivien. She had a man's mind. You could never say to her, "That's a most beautiful dress, Vivien," for she'd cut you immediately. She couldn't take compliments — she reacted like a man. Obviously, she'd still be polite, but she'd simply say, "Thank you," and walk away, never, "Darling, do you think so?" Binkie Beaumont got on so well with her because he knew her mind. "You must always think of her like a man," he'd say.'

Interesting because in my life some hinted I thought/behaved like a woman. Of course, now I know all people of both genders have the same range of self-identification and due to various reasons some group (e.g. males and females, etc) can be at one end and the other at another; I try to be in the middle (e.g. be in the mood which is correct for a specific situation) because I think it's the correct way to live (of course without practice and being social it's a long journey for me). (#psyche-data)?

The scenery of the two Cleopatra plays weighed 27 tons.
Just noting 27 number.

Vivien started calling Finch 'Larry' at one time.
(#psyche-data). I remember how in my life I said «здравствуйте» (Good day) to one of my bosses again during the day – I intended to say something else. (I was working as a courier). There were possibly other similar situations when I'd use a different word but I can't remember them now.

During one of her worse 'episodes', disturbed Vivien was battering at the windows of the aircraft to be let out. Maybe it happened on 27 March.

Maybe it's not fully related here. But once again I note that in this life I started to fear heights all of a sudden – even though I liked looking down from the 17-th* floor of my grandparent's apartment windows. (#curious)

*I originally wrote 16-th floor, but it was a mistake. I checked and the floor is 17-th. Of course, it did remind me of what age I died at in my very last past life.

Walker, on page 213, mentions 25 years and re-enactment of Romeo and Juliet.

Just noting 25 years (Natasha mentioned a guy of 25; I remembered it at 25 and I didn't like my age; a streamer girl then also didn't like her 25 age)

Then Walker writes about Vivien being under deep sedation in Netherne Hospital at Coulsdon, Surrey, a centre for treating psychiatric disorders.

I feel like this is the place to note that my mother had some problems and would be prescribed some drugs (she's okay now and doesn't take any drugs). Also, her sister Tanay had mental problems. I did suffer a bit because of those issues in my current family. There could be some (#error) situation when I had to pay the penalty – after all now I realize that while mental issues are clearly serious, it seems to me they are consequence of our own wrong decisions (it's logical since we all suffer for our own mistakes).

Rachel Kempson, the actress wife of Michael Redgrave: ‘She said to me, “I'll never forget Netherne. All those other patients walking around — I thought I was in an asylum.”’

After that moment, Vivien had a resolution to never go into hospital lest it turn out to be an asylum.

Could be one of reasons I try to stay away from hospitals (#psyche-data).

(VL about electro convulsive therapy) Vivien said to Rachel Kempson, ‘It leaves my mind totally numbed and when I come out of it I don’t know where I am or what I’ve been doing. In fact, it’s worse than before.’

On page 220 Alexander Walker refers to Vivien as ‘It’ instead of ‘She’ when he talks about her Royal Variety Performance with Olivier and John Mills that caused another miscarriage.

It’s of some interest to me since I’ve had my sync experience with IT monster from movies based on King’s book of the same title. (#curious) Then in one dream I thought maybe it was hinted I was it – this line was clearly known to the Universe a long time and maybe it played a role somehow? Just speculating and obviously maybe it’s not connected.

Walker writes that Vivien became at one point a burden on Olivier.

What was written on that page made me think if I am suffering for that somehow? In a way, maybe I am and I need to be careful expressing my thoughts. I have to live with my mother who needs help (she has problems with eyes and legs too; and she’s past 70 yo now). I obviously like the fact that I have my mother (but we did quarrel a lot when I was 14-18; I actually thought of living somewhere else but life had other plans for me; eventually I started to look differently at my situation and life), but I feel like this situation could have been caused by my past life’s attitude in VL life.

On page 218 Walker writes that Vivien’s elements of her own romanticism were largely responsible for forming the public image of her and Larry.

(Mentioned it before) Possible (#psyche-data) in connection to how I wanted something special (e.g. romantic) from getting acquainted with women (but then realized it’s not the point; spiritual affinity is the most important thing I now think – not a ‘special’ place or time in which the two people met each other)

John Barber: ‘It kow-tows to the most fashionable couple in show business. The titled lions of Mayfair salons. The pair royally known as ‘Larry-and-Viv’. Now look beyond the gloss. Olivier was a great actor. But since his gleaming; viperish Richard III, his fiery Hamlet, he has lost his way. Now, at 48, he is an ageing matinée idol, desperately fighting to win back his old reputation. To young people, his is a name that is attached to no outstanding achievement. She is a great beauty — still, at 42. As an actress, excellent in a dainty, waspish way that seldom touches the heart. It is time we saw them both as they really are.'

Just noting that I was born Leo and zodiac signs have been mentioned before.

(02.04.2024 – Emma Hamilton was born as Amy Lyon)

Page 222 talks about Tynan's review which triggered another manic episode in VL.

Possibly I sometimes pass through the same thing in my life… (#psyche-data)?

Despite the troubles, Vivien still manifested the kindness to friends and acquaintances.

Might be (#psyche-data) in relation to my Michele Avila life.

Rosemary Geddes recalls how 'Vivien and Sir Laurence laid on coaches to take the entire theatre, usherettes, cleaners, caterers, everyone, down to Notley one Sunday for a party that went on well into the night and must have cost £2,000 — a huge sum then.'

According to Alexander, Vivien privately considered Marilyn Monroe rather vulgar and not a little obtuse.

I have trouble understanding the last part. (#error) if I understand it correctly. And there were people who would consider/call me the same thing (but openly, not privately).

I used to study okay in school etc. But due to lack of sleep, personal issues, and due to me being consumed by Thiaoouba I did not learn to socialize. Some people may think me those things also – privately – without knowing the truth about me.

Vivien and Larry wanted a girl. The chosen name was 'Katherine'.

Katie is a diminutive (I called one of my budgies that). Ekaterina, Katay, was one of girls I suddenly fell in love with but couldn't say her it due to stammer and fear of speech I started having because of stammer. It was a very big moment of my life and it was then when I first seriously thought about ending it all – which leads to my first palmistry related experience when I saw a dot appear on my life line and disappear just as suddenly when I decided to go on living. (#curious)

Also a connection of sorts in wanting a girl because as I mentioned elsewhere I feel like it would be easier for me to have a child who is a girl than a boy.

Vivien disliked the raffishness for it offended her fastidiousness.

I am fastidious (very attentive to and concerned about accuracy and detail). (#psyche-data) maybe.

On page 229 Walker writes about how Gliddon signed up the first Lady Olivier (VL) and then the actress who was to become the second one (Joan Plowright). Gliddon could see the irony in that.

Now that syncs are proven to be something more than just a coincidence, maybe there is something here in terms of Universal poetry of life.

VL was resilient, bouncing back after each attack.

(#psyche-data)? Reminded me of 1 of my fav quotes spoken by Sylvester Stallone in Rocky Balboa: “It's not about how hard you hit. It's about how hard you can get hit and keep moving forward. How much you can take and keep moving forward.”

What is said about VL next is also of interest. Might related to MA too (page 230)

Rachel Kempson: ‘I'd get over to Notley, and a distracted Larry would meet me and say, “Oh, you can’t help me — she’s tried to shut the cook in the cupboard,” or something else. I'd say, “Let me sit with her and talk to her.” And I'd do that, and we'd walk around the gardens, and she'd get things under control and she'd say, “You know, I’m not really as bad as all that.” Her troubles left her so puzzled and apologetic.’

First of all, that silly cupboard thing may or may not relate somehow to my no less silly episode when I’d sit in pitch black bathroom listening to the music on the radio (it was when I was not willing to go to school anymore due to my speech problems).

I also want to note that in that VL life I had friends who didn’t turn their backs on me. In this life the situation is completely different. Of course, I shouldn’t be a weight on other people’s shoulders; but they also shouldn’t laugh and gossip (to get benefits in terms of laughs or spent time basically – not for reasons of learning something about life) about other people’s misfortunes. Also, maybe VL was ‘someone’, as some people say (I feel like all people are someone – for we all have our roles in the world; it’s like having a play/movie with no supporting actors or extras), and I am considered to be ‘no-name’ as some could put it (of course my Thiaoouba experience proves otherwise, but not many know/believe that to be true)

Vivien’s collection of pictures included the Degas painting of the woman washing.

Water theme. Also, in MA’s life I apparently washed hours before my murder. In Karen Kingsbury’s book that episode mentioned because the details are rather important. And to me it shows once again the connection to the past life of Vivien Leigh and to the future life of Evgeny Meshkov (my current life).

Vivien would have her curly hair straightened fairly often.

I actually also bought a hair straightener but it was faulty and I decided to just refund it and never bother about my hair. I will write certain lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) for I think it relates to us learning to love ourselves the way we are naturally (provided we're healthy).

In Belgrade Vivien disappeared for a whole afternoon. The company was searching for her, eventually finding her sitting alone on a park bench crying.

Possibly (#error) for which I might have paid in this life when my mother would leave house and not return for a long time. I'd get worried often and once even called police.

Vivien was in Olivier's dressing-room at the Palace Theatre. At one moment he looked at her reflection in his mirror, and remarked in what was almost a throwaway line: 'I suppose you should know I am in love with Joan Plowright.'

Mirror theme.

Page 237: "Jeanne Moreau, the French actress, was a guest at Notley; there was some talk of her appearing in a play with Olivier. The atmosphere round the lunch table became tense as the mood of Duel of Angels closed round Vivien. She spoke in the voice she used in the play, scrupulously polite in her words, mercilessly cutting in her intonation."

Vivien to Jeanne Moreau: 'Oh, you speak English well enough, do you, to play with Larry? And you think you look young enough to play the part, do you?'

Anthony Quayle: 'It was quite awful. Vivien insulted Moreau all through lunch. Fortunately, Moreau realized she had something wrong with her, and didn't let herself be baited. She really was an angel.'

(#error). Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) obviously and maybe I'm learning in that regard now. Sometimes I'm tempted to write in the same manner to those who hurt me but I try to be actually polite for I know now those people will suffer for their errors and I don't need to make my own mistakes. So I am at the side that Jeanne Moreau was in not letting myself be baited.

Walker writes that appearances were still desperately important to Larry and Viv.

Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge). Now I know from another personal experience that it's what behind the appearances that counts (spiritual knowledge and maybe healthy psyche too since it holds data apparently)

Vivien about Eva Peron: "She died at thirty-three. I'm forty-five. Eva Peron was lucky.'"

As said elsewhere it was an (#error) to say that. Who knows, if I was MA, then it could have also influenced the way MA died – at young age. Also, a girl named Eva played the key role in putting the 2 criminals in jail.

Page 243 mentions one particularly manic and vindictive mood of Vivien's.

(#psyche-data) maybe and lack of (#spiritual-knowledge). Actually, it's something which I had to deal with yesterday (Sunday, December 10, 2023) after learning I was banned by probably Shavaun in Remembering a friend FB page (yet I was able to see all content and even comment; just couldn't like it). I tried to remember the Universe will punish all people who make errors and now I know it for a fact also. But I did at times in life wanted justice which would touch upon (unreasonable) desires for revenge.

Vivien's father's death was crushing to her spirits.

I cried when my grandfather died and then when my father died. In the first case I didn't know about reincarnation; in the second I didn't expect it, and I thought why could I not live differently? Maybe father's life would be influenced by that also and maybe he wouldn't be drinking so much…

(#spiritual-knowledge) perhaps because I usually tend to follow (Twitch, Youtube, etc) people similar to that – someone who I've something in common.

Jack knew Vivien to be impulsive. Page 247 describes one such episode when Jack and Vivien were making love and, all of a sudden, she leaped out of bed and ran to call Olivier to discuss their separation.

(#spiritual-knowledge) and/or (#psyche-data). I did impulsive things in my life too and I can totally see myself in the situation Jack described.

Jack: 'To my horror she'd get on her hind legs and start to hector her American colleagues on the unfairness of milking the British players working on Broadway for five per cent of their salaries to support the strike. I'd try to pull her down and shut her up — she was becoming very unpopular.' Some of what she said was wrong, but Vivien apologized right away and was applauded for frankness.

Hector means talk to (someone) in a bullying way. Just reminded me of that post about Michele being a bully. If the person had his facts right then that's a connection.

The last sentences are of interest to me also since I've written a book in which I touched upon the sensitive and important topics.

Radie Harris recalls how coming down the escalator at Bloomingdale's, where Vivien had gone shopping during the Equity strike, she stumbled. Jack caught her. She said she'd have sued Equity had she fallen and hurt herself.

Jack: ‘How could you do that?’

Vivien: ‘Because if Equity hadn’t caused the strike, I wouldn't have been shopping at Bloomingdale's.’

That was funny.

It’s written in Walker’s book that the episode gave an insight into the childlike way Vivien’s mind sometimes worked. Maybe I (as VL) was just joking out of anger and people misunderstood that.

Vivien, at one point in her life, rode in a chauffeured blue Cadillac to Eaton Square.

Googled the photo of 1960 Cadillac and it bears some resemblance to the blue car I saw in the dream with the man and throat.

Vivien and Larry were known as ‘the Oliviers’. After the separation Vivien found it impossible to see herself apart from him. She was experiencing an identity crisis among other things divorces bring.

I’ve had a sort of identity thingy once I realized I was VL. Now I realize I have to treat that life in terms of ‘I/me/mine’ and not ‘she/her/hers’ since I lived that life and thinking of oneself in the 3rd person is madness.

Vivien to Jack: “My Darling Love,

I am on my way to you with a beating heart — and the only point of this little scribble is that it makes me feel nearer. I wonder every minute if you are awake. I was at 5.00, this morning.... This has been a most extraordinary week. I think the most extraordinary of my life. Alone and yet so infinitely close to you. Sweet dear love, I ache and long to see you.”

5 o’clock was the time I’d wake up for some reason before I and Olya finally met outside and walked for 2 hours. I told her about this. Maybe it’s nothing.

Jack asked V to cut down on her drinking. No hard liquor. Only wine was allowed when he was around.

(#reflection-life) or gaining (#spiritual-knowledge). In my life I almost didn’t drink. I certainly had no desire to – mainly because of the fact I started stammering because my father got drunk and almost killed mom. Later I’d ask my dad not to drink a lot and sometimes he’d listen. That’s so similar to how Jack asked me not to drink too much and I listened also as is evident on the next page.

Page 255 mentions the numbers 8, 20, 8 again, and 22 in relation to VL, of course.

Maybe nothing of course but these numbers did play a role in my life and they relate to syncs with movies and two females (VL, MA).

(On a train an attendant asked if they wished for anything to drink)

‘Will you be with us all of the trip?’ Vivien asked him.
“Yes, ma’am.’
‘Then do tell me your name.’
‘Name, ma’am? Larry, ma’am.’
Vivien and Jack smiled.
(#curious) it shows I already had syncs in my VL life happening.

Page 256: there’s a story about 14-year-old Hayley Mills. VL says she should come to see Duel of Angels and sort it out for herself. Just noting this because of the 14 age.

The story on page 257 about my mischievousness. Reminded me of myself for in my childhood I did some silly things which were (#errors) to some degree. Lack of some (#spiritual-knowledge)

It’s described how Vivien had a romantic urging – the idea of the coast road in the moonlight - and they (Viv with Jack) drove to San Francisco at almost midnight.

(#reflection-life) Before 18 I think I dreamed about future and I saw myself having a car driving to the village at Friday nights after work. Possibly during sunset or maybe moonlit/starry or just dark nights. It was a romantic thought.

Also, when I had trouble feeling love for Katya and being unable to say anything due to stutter, I thought about going to the river and making there a campfire just to sit alone and think about my life. Later I’d think about this fact and wonder why I didn’t want to Just think about my life in any other place and without it being so dramatic? Again, I was romantic. It might relate to (#psyche-data) also.

Along the way their brand-new Thunderbird began having issues. They had to hire a new car – bright red Impala (not Viv’s favorite color) – and then had to transfer Vivien’s 28 cases.

28. just noting and maybe it’s nothing. But I have to write these things down after my sync experience with movies and 2 women, which turned out to actually mean something and be of importance. Universe is number based and such seemingly unimportant things can mean something actually.

The Thunderbird car was black and white. But in shape it also has some distant resemblance to the one in my dream.

Jack and Vivien decided on a whim to go back to England by boat, just as they’d made a snap decision to cross America by train.

This describes old younger me to some degree.

On page 259 Walker tells how one cottage wasn’t big enough for V’s tastes, but another, a mansion, was.

(#error) in the ‘eyes’ of the Universe perhaps. Just yesterday I found the house MA lived at and I was surprised at how it looked. Reminded me of my Russian village house (especially the trees nearby). So maybe that was the reason why MA lived a modest life. I'm also living my current life in a 1 room apartment.

Vivien believed the presence of water was a good omen.
Water has been a part of my many lives it seems like.

The 20-year marriage of Larry and Vivien was dissolved in 28 minutes.
20, 28.

When filming The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone, Vivien rode on a horse on which Olivier had ridden in his film of Richard III. There was an incident with that horse but Vivien was thankfully okay.
(#curious) syncs present in my VL life.

Then there's a mention about Vivien asking to drop the false economy when the previous day's shots were shown to them in black and white only instead of being shown in color. Walker describes that episode as one showing her stubbornness.
(#spiritual-knowledge) …maybe it's not fully related, but I remember how I asked my father why he bought Russian cars only when foreign were (reportedly) better and broke less often.

Vivien and Jack had to live separately while Vivien was divorcing. But they lived quite close still – five minutes to walk. Despite of this Vivien would still write love letters to Jack and deliver them by mail – as she said, 'writing a letter was an act of love, delivering it just a job.'
Reminded me of how I once was entering my apartment's front entrance and there was a woman who was about to drop a letter into someone's mailbox, but when she saw that someone was coming towards her (me) she pulled her hand back with lightning speed.
I also had to write a letter (via icq or something) to Katay, telling her about my feelings, since I was not able to talk with my tongue.

During a holiday Vivien learned to snorkel. She also gained some weight and had to lose 20 pounds later.
Some months ago I was wondering about snorkeling after watching some YT shorts.

Vivien would gloss over her tuberculosis, but once she cried this: 'Why can't I have some clean kind of illness like cancer?'
(#error) yet another sync with that illness, and I find myself wishing yet again I never said those words in my past life…
My grandmother (mother's mom) died of cancer 8 days after MA's birth (16/2/1968). This reminded me of half life syncs in my current life.

Jack didn't want to go to South Africa: 'Not only on racial grounds, but because I knew that someone like Vivien would be provoked into condemning apartheid so publicly it would cause a scandal — and twenty-five years ago, that wouldn't have served anyone's cause. She was absolutely without prejudices, racial or religious, but also without politics. She once told me she voted Liberal. "Why, angel?" "Because everyone else I know is voting Tory or Labour." That was Vivien's politics.'

(#spiritual-knowledge) regarding not having racial or religious prejudices. Knowing what I know from Thiaoouba book, and having my own views on how countries should be governed (they're in agreement with what Mu had), I've never voted in this current life.

Vivien would seek out all the excitement and curiosities a place had to offer. One day she dragged Jack and Bobby Helpmann to Sherbrooke Forest to catch a lyre bird performing its fantastic range of vocal mimicry at dawn. 'That kind of determination to see all of life was typical of Vivien,' says Jack.

(#psyche-data) - (05.04.2024 – because in this life I've done similar things when I was healthy and could explore the surroundings – both in Moscow and in my village.)

Maybe relates to spiritual understandings also.

Page 269 at the end once more says I didn't like red in VL life. Funnily in my life I said red was my fav color once but it was only because it was Anton's fav color. I guess I was so shy back then that I couldn't say dark blue or purple. Pure red wasn't my fav color in this life either actually.

Then on that same page 20 minutes are mentioned. The story about the Cockateel told shorty after is funny too.

Vivien said 8 April was the day they really fell in love. She concluded: 'You have taught me more than you imagine, Dear Love — Happy Anniversary! Your very own Angelica.' Jack remembered VL used to say Leigh Holman had taught her about being a wife and Olivier about being an actress — but he had taught her about living.

Number 8. Also reminded me how we live on the 1-st category planets 'in order to learn how to live, suffer and die, but also to develop spiritually as much as you can.'

At the Prince of Wales country club party VL seemed to Jack to be in high spirits.

Wanna note they call it high spirits. I think I've a good idea of what they mean from experience. (#psyche-data)

Page 272 says VL went off with several men who were 'seduced by her beauty'. Jack was excluded for the first time. He followed them to make sure she wasn't misbehaving. Upon her return, 'All hell broke loose.'

(#reflection-life) (#error). Marina in village once had several guys flock around her and I was excluded.

VL collected seeds from a variety of exotic plants she'd seen on tour. Her favorites were Coral trees and the snowball-covered viburnums.

Viburnum (калина) is growing near my village house.

In general I sometimes pick up chestnuts and oak seeds to plant them near my house (dogs usually kill the young trees or thy get cut along with the grass, or something else happens). In general I used to plant a lot of things in my village garden (#reflection-life)

Suzanne felt VL became 'wiser, gentler, more resigned and more considerate of other people's feelings — altogether easier to get on with.'

Peter Hiley: 'Her personality definitely began changing. She became more aware of the value of friends, especially the ones who had taken her side after the break-up. She became less other-worldly and began to show some sense of consequence.'

(#spiritual-knowledge)

Aumont remembers Vivien looking at the queue at the box-office and saying sorrowfully, 'Poor people! They're buying tickets to see one play without suspecting that they're going to see another.'

(#spiritual-knowledge)?

Jack played in The Importance of Being Ernest in New York. During that time he saw how dangerous VL's condition was.

Just noting I read that story when I was learning English.

07.04.2024 – Michele Avila's father is Ernest. Vivien's father is also Ernest.

She was becoming more and more fractious and by the summer was missing her performances.

I shirked school in my days of trouble (a bit in 9th, but mostly in 10-11 grades)

Vivien screwed up or torn into pieces the pictures of Aumont family during one of episodes.

(#error) clearly. Have I suffered for it already?

Probably nothing; only mention of torn photographs are in MA life – after Irene knew Karen killed her daughter she would tear Karen out from pictures they had at home.

Jack Merivale says, 'I always remember her telling me that when they'd been sedating her in Hollywood at the time of Elephant Walk, she thought she'd heard Larry saying, “Give her some more” — for the sedative wasn’t taking — and she never forgot that. This time I had to hold her down while she was being injected. It was agony.’

Made me remember what 10 yo MA wrote in her diary – that she hated shots. So did I.

Page 281’s story fits current me rather well still. So (#psyche-data) or lack of spiritual understandings – still need to figure out the difference/details etc

It’s actually kinda what I’m going through in this life. I can also ‘suddenly’ come back to life and be relaxed, composed, clear minded, happy etc.

After ECT Vivien felt terribly ashamed of herself. ‘Everyone must know I’m as mad as a hatter,’ she said.

Jack held her tightly. “You're not! You're not mad! You have a mental condition and that’s entirely different. That can be coped with.’

And now I’m called/considered ‘mad’ by some people for telling the truth about my life experience and even for showing/proving telekinesis is real on camera. (#curious)

I suspect I might have been skeptic myself in one of my past lives before my VL life and maybe now I have to suffer for that error also – just a speculation.

‘I'll put some on ice right away. God, I hope it'll be chilled enough — they'll be here in twenty minutes.’

20 is mentioned again in a quote.

In Chekhov’s play Ivanov her character's early death is due to tuberculosis.

Vivien said she ‘would rather have lived a short life with Larry than face a long one without him’.

In my MA life I died at 17. Might be life’s way of teaching to be careful of what one says or is wishing for.

Page 291 talks about shopping sprees and a parakeet.

I remember at times I enjoyed shopping in this life – but I have to be mindful of what I buy now for money is limited. (#psyche-data)

VL brought a parrot and I was persuaded not to bring it to Britain because of cats and winter. In this life I had 3 budgies and the first one was killed by a cat. (#curious)

When life didn’t co-operate with V, she still became terribly tetchy.

Actually, yet another thing I’ve been experiencing several days ago.

(#psyche-data) or lack of (#spiritual-knowledge).

Vivien had an offer for a role from Russia. She was asked if she'd play Mme von Meck, Tchaikovsky's mistress, in a film biography of the composer's life that was to start shooting in Moscow in January. Lady Hamilton and Waterloo Bridge had been shown in public cinemas in the Soviet Union. She was one of the best known English actresses in that country. Vivien was very tempted, until she was offered another role.

Since I now live in Russian capital Moscow – was born here also – this info about my past life is of great interest to me. (#curious)

Vivien thought she'd got over TB before and she'd get over it again.

The same thing happened but only regarding my father. I thought he'd got over his drinking consequences for so many times and he'd be home again… but he died.

A Delicate Balance was postponed. 'At least it'll give me time to try and understand it,' Vivien said to Jack.

As mentioned before, in my current life I did come to some understanding about the importance of 'balance' – correct golden mean and erroneous extremes. (#curious)

Emlyn Williams found Vivien smoking (while being ill with TB). He was worried, but most people were not worried that much.

(#error) regarding smoking. Theme of friends which is present in MA life and in mine.

Page 293 says that Larry had prostate cancer about the time VL had TB. I find it of interest – maybe syncs related or maybe just a coincidence.

Stanley Hall arrived on the evening of 6 July with a 16mm movie projector and a copy of a film Vivien wished to see — the James Ivory.

It's actually a sync with Michele Avila. When I decided to watch the movie 'A Killer Among Friends' based on MA life they show a movie projector shortly before the day MA was killed. I don't know if actual MA actually watched a home video on a projector or not (probably never will since her family chose to ignore my inquiries). (#curious) https://www.tokyvideo.com/video/a-killer-among-friends

Page 294. According to the timestamps on that page VL died between 11:00 pm+ and 11:30 pm on July 7 (not 8). Now, there's no way to know for sure (unless I ask my HS to give an answer in a dream?) what time it was that my spirit was released. I wonder if the exact time has the meaning in my life but I'll keep that to myself for now.

Vivien's lungs had become filled with fluid and, like someone trapped under water, Vivien had suffocated.

05.04.2024 – I've had numerous confirmations I was Michele Avila too in my past life, and it's somewhat eerie how similar my 2 very last deaths are (in terms of the cause of death).

The Observer's drama critic J.C. Trewin: 'She had the misfortune to be one of the most physically beautiful actresses of her period. She was an undervalued intellectual artist, a personality of endearing grace, loyalty and humour. We can be certain that stage historians will remember Vivien Leigh for more than her "fatal gift of beauty"'.

(#reflection-life) In my current life I feel like a similar thing is happening only in reverse. Due to the way I look some people don't believe my experience and what I've to say and share.

In her will Vivien had bequeathed her eyes to medical science to be used in corneal grafting. But because of her medical history, they weren't accepted.

(#curious). I've eye issues. My mother has them also.

05.04.2024 – I also remember now how, while working as a merchandizer when I was 19, I'd pass the hospital specializing in eye surgery (I think it was МНТК Микрохирургия глаза им. академика С.Н. Федорова). I remember now how I noticed that hospital – not in a regular way, but it's subtle… it has reminded me of the way I'd notice 'Leigh' in my childhood, oblivious to the fact I was looking at my own name from another life, or how there was something about that Mr. Ballen's video about Missy's murder… I think there's a good chance that episode with the hospital might relate to my will in my past life of Vivien Leigh.

There was a lengthy list of bequests to family, friends and servants, including sums of money (£12,000 total) and many of Vivien's paintings. 'This demonstrated both her love for people and her awareness of their personal interests and needs,' says Peter Hiley.

After Vivien's death. Jack walked for the last time through the woods they had planted with wild anemones, aconites and bluebells. That was one of Vivien's favorite parts of the estate.

Jack scattered Vivien's ashes on the water of the old mill pond – 'the lake', as Vivien called it. Walker writes 'she was made one with the element that she had always believed to be a benign influence on her life.'

I don't know if this could relate to MA demise… again, could be compound…

05.04.2024 – In my Cleopatra's life water played a major role. Maybe many of these water connections are coming from that old life?

The last page, 304, briefly talks of what happened to Leigh Holman, Jill Esmond, Larry, Jack and Gertrude. Many things mentioned there are important to me. Some relate, in my opinion, to some of my current life's experiences – like Leigh Holman never remarrying.

In the book there was mention of VL being punctual. And how I made a will – not because I was thinking about dying but just to get it out of the way. (last pages of last chapters) (#psyche-data) because I'm still kinda like that. I'd like to do things done and have no worries later.

Confessions of an Actor (1982) - Laurence Olivier

Due to time, I've only read the parts of the book about me (Vivien).

Olivier writes that Vivien had an almost demoniac determination to play Scarlett in Gone With The Wind.

As mentioned before this is so extraordinary that I feel like maybe there was something else at play that made me desire the part so much in that life.

Getrude, Vivien's mother, was a highly successful beautician.

Just noting Karen Severson attended beauty school. Maybe nothing, but then I found that I sometimes see little similarities between appearances of people I know/knew and how I used to look in my past and possible past lives.

If my suspicions are correct, maybe there are connections/syncs between people we know also.

Also, I'll note 'our adored France'. I've a dream saying about French words and how many are present in Russian – so learning French shouldn't be too hard. That's why I decided to buy a self-study book to learn French (which turned out I knew in my past life)

Alex's voice came over the phone: 'Larry, you know Lady Hamilton?'

'Not imtimately,' Olivier said. 'Wasn't she Admiral Nelson's piece?'

'Right,' he said. 'Arrange meetings with Vivien, Walter Reisch and R. C. Sherriff. I'll come at once.'

In case it'll turn out I was Emma Hamilton. Would be interesting if Larry did actually know her intimately (VL) but didn't realize it VL was Lady Hamilton in past life. For now it's just a speculation 05.04.2024 – Well, since that entry I've had many confirmations I was Emma Hamilton. So yeah, Larry did actually know Emma intimately – kinda – he new intimately me as Vivien Leigh who was Emma Hamilton in the past life. I'm also curious to know who was Larry in his past lives now…

They lived in a house with an egg-shaped pool on Cedarbrook Drive and worked with Alex Korda, Walter Reisch and Bob Sherriff on the script for Lady Hamilton.

Almost positive it's nothing special. Egg reminded me of Doko buildings on Thiaoouba. Cedar brook reminded me of MA. (That house and egg-shaped pool is mentioned again on page 180.)

Page 125. Larry talks about our voyage back home on a ship with 23 total passengers and with German captain. We had nightmares about U-boats taking us hostage.

This reminded me of VL's role in Dark Journey. The movie ended on a boat. I've had movie reflections in my current life and in MA life, so it's possible some things could have been 'reflected' in VL life as well.

Larry describes the moment when VL said 'I don't love you any more'.

How affected Larry was is of interest. I might be paying the consequences of errors (obviously I do, but which one corresponds to which situation in my life?) by failing to get a gf. In my VL life I clearly didn't choose my partners by means of spiritual affinity; apparently, I chose them by appearances (in many senses of the word perhaps), and in my current existence many people rejected me because of my appearance, without trying to get to know me. My throne (accidentally wrote throat instead of throne for some reason) is empty.

Pages 181-182. Larry talks about Caesar and Cleopatra and Antony and Cleopatra and VL being scared…

I had a dream saying VL was Cleopatra, which has at least two meanings. In case of the direct one – who knows at this point – it would be once again interesting that a soul was destined to play itself (in a past life) in a movie and a play.

05.04.2024 – As I've written before – yes, I've had many more various confirmations I was Cleopatra.

Larry writes about Vivien: "She started to be like a slightly frightened daughter; she was inclined to lean close to me and want me to put my arms round her. This gave me a new kind of happiness; it had very little, if anything at all, to do with passion; it seemed a funny little, child-like, clinging need for protection."

Maybe it's not connected but reminded me of MA's words describing herself:

"Who feels lonely, desperate, and hurt.

Who needs love, comfort, and caring."

Could be (#psyche-data) related – and I'm aware that the life situation in my MA life could have prompted those feelings and needs as well of course.

I'll mention here how in my childhood I'd ask mother to care for me and I'd also ask her if she loved me. Could be related to the data in my psyche also and connected to what I wrote in that MA's poem.

I certainly needed love in my life. But then who doesn't if even Thiaooubians mentioned love word and its importance?

Laurence Olivier recognized that by sleeping with VL Peter was doing to him the same thing Larry did to Leigh Holman 17 years prior to that.

And then Larry mentioned Tuesday, 17th, when he arrived to Ceylon - where the affair with Peter was taking place.

If syncs with Michele Avila mean what I think they could, then I'll note she was 17 when she died due to jealousy and lies she slept with other girls' bfs.

And yes, it was probably Olivier's punishment for his error to sleep with a married woman – VL.

Larry says Vivien became abnormally nervous about their social reputation. If they were tired to go to a party, Vivien would avidly plough through New York newspapers next morning to see if the absence had been noticed.

And what Larry writes about next.

Lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) and also relates to (#psyche-data). As I said before it felt almost like a sude to write and publish my book about my life and errors I'd made – but I managed and I felt so relieved to have done it, freeing myself from the chains of other people's opinions I'd been bearing for so long.

Olivier writes about Vivien receiving suggestions of future appointments with 'piteous dread'.

(#psyche-data) maybe for, as I remember, I dreaded some doctor appointments also. Reason probably similar too.

Larry then mentioned 'the tiniest pin-prick of a pupil' which was discernible in my VL's eyes.

Mentioned this already. The 'tiniest' word proves once more that I somehow had exactly the same pupils at one point in my current life.

Larry writes Vivien at one point in life yielded to a fit of fury with poor Gertrude and tore her breast, hurting her badly.

(#error) obviously. Sad it happened. Also I can't help but wonder if I paid for that mistake or it's still ahead of me? In my youth I had an injury mother inflicted on my arm with a fork; it wasn't deep… MA's earring was torn from the ear and teeth broken… I don't know if all that is related or not…

Larry writes Vivien was terrified of needles, hypodermics of any sort.

Connection to MA and me not liking needles/shots.

I didn't need a lot of sleep in my Vivien's life. Gertrude once called Vivien 'not a sleepy baby'. And Olivier saw it as a title for a book about Vivien.

Makes me remember several things. First, while people on Thiaoouba are serious when they need to be, they seem, from what Michel described, playful, and at times even child-like in our opinion (when they flew away and were as if playing).

That said, sometimes I behave like a child but I can also be serious; actually, becoming too serious is one of reasons I had trouble removing all my daydreams long time ago (it was boring and I wanted to have some fun in life also), until realizing I can have a happy attitude to life without daydreaming – just how I choose to think/feel about the events happening around me. (#curious)

This also relates to the coming of age theme in GwtW and in my life.

Larry uses the words 'sickness' and 'permanency' to describe his opinion about Vivien's condition, which, he writes, 'in some cases cured itself spontaneously'.

Said it before, but I'll say again how in this current life I came to realize the word sickness/illness isn't correct one to use about mental/psychological issues. They're results/consequences of our wrong decisions made out of lack of certain knowledge – material, spiritual, or both. That's why Larry observed how the condition I had in my Vivien's life cured itself spontaneously. People who read my free e-book Simple Truths of Life know I've had pretty much similar cases happen in my current life.

Pages 213-214 talk about Larry's lack of sleep coz of me (VL).

Page 214. Larry writes: "God help me if she didn't put on the most devastatingly convincing performance of a calm, sane, normal woman, not even aggrieved to have been brought all this way:…"

I'm certain that Larry meant the best he knew at the time of course. But as I mentioned before, in this life I understood the reason for these issues. In my VL life I also said that people overreacted during the Elephant Walk incident and I'd be okay in several weeks – I believe my old self.

Page 236 talks about the wet towel and lack of Larry's sleep situation.

Then Larry says that something snapped in his brain, and that even though he remembered what happened, he'd not be able to tell a judge what his intentions were.

Finally, it made me connect another event in my current life. The one when I barely had any sleep from Sberbank's air-conditioners and I called in the morning to ask them to turn them off for they were working all night. The woman refused and would dare to tell me she switched the switch – so in her mind the air-conditioners were off but they clearly weren't. Being almost zombie like from not getting sleep and also the noise acting on my brain I snapped and there was mention of the cut throat I dreamed about during that night - the 1 dream out of 3, in which the blonde girl in the theater-like building was shown. It's as if once again I feel what it's like to be on the other side of the barricades – confirming my views I had about reincarnation before I found my 2 past lives.

(#curious) (#error)

On the back cover it reads: "…wayward but doomed Vivien Leigh…"
(#psyche-data)

The Oliviers (1953) – Felix Barker

Page 101 speaks of how VL in childhood was cast as a lion who roared and crawled. This reminded me of how in my now current life's childhood I used to try to road like a lion (my sign too) while lying on mom's bed in village, trying to learn to pronounce the sound 'R'. I succeeded in, maybe, hour +/-. (#reflection-life) (might have seen/mentioned this elsewhere)
Then it's written how the lion (VL) essentially bit Gertrude's leg. (#error) which might have resulted in the reason my childhood friend's dog (такса – Кузя) bit my leg during two separate occasions.
05.04.2024 – I was born as Amy Lyon in my Emma Hamilton's life.

Dancing into the Unknown – Tamara Tchinarova Finch https://www.datalounge.com/thread/29689459-vivien-leigh-a-cruel-homewrecking-cunt https://www.amazon.com/Dancing-into-Ballets-Russes-Beyond/dp/1852731141

This book contains some of the clear links between my current life and my past life of Vivien.

It may take 50-60 dead minks to create 1 coat. I'm sad I wore that thing. In this life I try not to buy clothes which require animals to be killed. Several times tried not to eat meat – the idea came from Thiaoouba I think)
I remembered how in village, in the wooded road leading from the highway to the village, Серёжа and I spotted a little rodent and chased it for fun (not fun anymore and certainly wasn't fun for the animal) across the forest. It could have been mink (норка) actually… they do live in Europe according to Wikipedia.
Mink coat is mentioned before too: search for Selznick.

While Peter was reading the script, I, Vivien, paced restlessly around Peter and Tamara's apartment. Complained it was too stuffy in there, opened a few of their drawers to inspect their contents, and commented on their cheap curtain linings. Then I suddenly said I intended to go back home by walking along the Embankment.

One time a woman from Роскомнадзор (Roskomnadzor) who recorded noise said it was “душно” (“stuffy”) in my apartment. As for cheap curtain linings – I live in 1 room apartment with my mother. Always were rather poor family – so that is another penalty for mistakes I think.

There was that 1 instant when a policeman with his gf or whoever came to my apartment. He opened the bathroom door and they saw the broken toilet flush tank. I think there was a wooden plunk holding the mechanism. They smiled to each other and I didn’t feel okay about it. Once hey found out I was 15 (I think) they left.

Also Anton made mention about the fact we closed curtains (of course we do since otherwise people will see what’s inside) to his buddy and there was that silly reaction.

(#error)

As for the sudden announcement to leave and walk along the Embankment, it reminded me of the episode from my current life. I was near Ostankino at Oak Grove Park (Dubovaya Roshcha). My intent was to see Christina again, but she was on vacation. This is what a young woman who found Chris’ Instagram told me. I told here, for some reason, that I’d go to VDNH (ВДНХ), and she replied something along the lines of “да идите куда хотите” (“go wherever you want”). Given I didn’t do anything wrong, such a cold reply left me slightly hurt, although I understand my comment was kind of out of place as she didn’t need to know that – I think it flew out of my mouth because I didn’t have a lot of experience talking with people in this life. It’s not the only time when I said something for the sake of not being silent and then thought about what I just said and why.

Peter complimented his wife Tamara on her appearance, which caused Vivien’s manner to change and she ran out from the bedroom.

Could have some connection to my troubles with my current physical body’s appearance.

At a party couldn’t contact Larry on the phone in Italy, and was hysterical because of that, and, I guess, due to the overall mental disposition at that time. Peter and David Niven carried me, VL, to my apartment.

Tamara: “Is she mad?”

Peter: “No, she’s just strained, lonely and worried, not hearing from Larry.”

Tamara: “But this is not normal behavior.”

Peter: “You don’t understand — she’s close to a nervous breakdown. Please look after her, help her. She’s so glad you’re here. She bought all Anita’s clothes and arranged the party for you.”

(#psyche-data) Reminds me of how I used to panic sometimes in childhood but also recently too when my mother would either not answer the phone or she’d be away from home for too long. Once I even called police and had to write a letter to revoke the started (they didn’t even ask me!)

investigation into mother's whereabouts when she did finally get home.

Tamara describes how she and Peter made passionate love and settled for the night. I (VL) opened their door open and rushed to their bed. There were some obscenities said on my part. Realized they were naked and what had just happened, Tamara writes I said: "You haven't told her, you haven't told her! How could you be sleeping with her, you monster? You're my lover!"

(#error) I removed this passage, but then stopped to think about it more – didn't anything similar happen to me after that event? What I remembered is how Karen S., reportedly, was living in Irene's house, and in my (Missy) room, after she and Laura killed me because they believed I was sleeping with people who were taken. There is a chance these events of my 2 lives are connected.

Peter's wife Tamara Tchinarova: "An unbelievable silence followed when he returned. I was Cold and shaking uncontrollably."

Since it was me who technically was a reason for that state perhaps my uncontrollable shaking experiences are related to that event? As punishment for the error? The psych data could also be mixed here…

"What could one do if one's opponent in love was one of the greatest beauties in the world?" (Tamara talks about VL)

No longer beautiful. In my Incels video many ignorant people have essentially stated as much.

Tamara says I (VL) tried to attack her with a knife. Cut all her clothes during another time when Tamara wasn't home. And, Tamara writes, tried to jump out of the window; over-dosed; tried to drown myself. Then she writes I laughed at her appearance – especially at the length of her nose.

(#error) I suffer for appearances, as I said. Also I'll mention that I noticed MA's nose shape; which is fine I guess but could draw attention of those who'd like to laugh at appearances; if I was MA too then I could see why…. I feel ashamed to think this since I don't yet know 100% I was MA, so…

I looked at Tamara's photos and in my male body and knowing what I know now I find her pretty and don't mind her nose which I didn't even pay attention to until I read that awful sentence about my shameful actions in another life.

EDIT: later Tamara write how she underwent a cosmetic surgery because of the words V said…

Had my mouth open to read about the knife situation… and I remember how my mom would threaten me with one many times… once she cut huge hole in the door which I barricaded to protect myself in the room. Definitely (#error) for which I suffered and paid…

And I remember a situation in which my winter jacket was cut by a knife. I remember my school peers bringing that to my attention. My mother had to cut it. Details are blurry for now…

As for drowning – if I was Michele Avila after all then in a way that attempt did materialize… my mother tried to overdose and I was very worried (#error)?) And the window attempt may reflect the one from my current life… thankfully I had that dream, telling me to search specific combinations of words about stammer, which led me to Roman Snezko's website and I learned then the truth about stuttering. The rest is history as they say.

VL addressed the crowd, having put her hands on Tamara's shoulders: "I want you all to meet the most courageous girl I know. She has just had an operation on her nose to try to look more glamorous. I think she is wonderful."

I've had an… indentation on my nose since I was born, I think. Never bothered me too much but maybe it's related somehow to those events of old life?

When Peter hugged Tamara, I ignored them for the rest of the evening.

The theme of ignoring again. I'm ignored a lot in this life.

Tamara and Peter divorced… They paid a high price, she writes, for my capricious affections.

It saddens me that Tamara, according to Wiki, never remarried and never had a partner since her divorce…

If Michele Avila was Vivien Leigh, it surprises me not what had happened (as I said before). And it surprises me not what I have to live through in my loveless life of loneliness and rejections. (#error)

I think I learned my lesson… I'd hope so… I did try to approach different looking women and I was willing to have relationships with those girls who had problems; I was willing to try to help them but they refused me – possible because of my appearance + my knowledge which is a subject of lots of skepticism and so, again, ignore.

In the comments an anonymous poster linked a photo saying this (don't know how true): "Vivien Leigh stalking and deliberately bumping into Larry Olivier and his then wife Jill Esmond during a private family trip to Capri." (I have a photo of the 3 of us there at Capri.)

When I fell in love with Katay (which was strange for that happened when I looked at her photograph) I kinda exhibited strange behaviors… but a lot of that happened due to my fear of speech due to stuttering, so… hard to separate if the (#psyche-data) could be at play here.

Never fell in love with red haired Marina in Moscow, but when I wanted to approach her, I needed to wait near her house – I don't consider it to be stalking though; and when it was clear she's married and don't want to be friends with me I just passed her by, saying simple "Привет" ("hello").

Bring on the Empty Horses - David Niven

http://vivandlarry.com/classic-film/revealing-david-nivens-missie/
https://www.amazon.com/Bring-Empty-Horses-David-Niven/dp/0340839953

In his book David Niven calls me in my Vivien Leigh life 'Missie', which is one of the greatest synchronicities with my life of Michele Avila, in which I was called 'Missy'. (#curious) The change of the ending in the names (MissIE vs MissY) is also of interest because at one point my ViviAn name changed to ViviEn.

David describes the scene during my mental breakdown when filming The Elephant Walk in LA.

"Isn't she lovely?" said I (VL), pointing at the empty screen of a TV set.

I've watched a lot of television in this life. But who doesn't?

Then I (VL) reacted to the horizontal flashes on tv…

Just yesterday watched Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me and there's tv screen showing during opening credits.

It appears I (VL) screamed at David when he suggested I clean up my face before the visit of his doctor.

As mentioned elsewhere I didn't look at the mirror for several years because I wasn't liking my balding and asymmetric appearance.

After another incident, his doctor advised him to lock all the sharp kitchen utensils.

I was in reverse situation when it was me who had to hide knives…

"When the moment to take the pills came, she grabbed the bottle out of my hand and ran off like a naughty child, hid it behind her back, and demanded a kiss in exchange for it. This payment having been extracted, she deliberately emptied the contents of the bottle into the deep end of the pool."

I remember how my dad, sadly, reminded me of a child during the last time I saw him drunk. He'd hold on to the vodka bottle as if it was a baby…

(#error) and punishment?

David then writes how I constantly bothered him to play hide and seek, and also to flatter, comfort, fight, or go to bed…

In my childhood there was a silly moment when I begged my friends, who were older than me, for many minutes - if not an hour – to play, I believe (либо казаки разбойники, либо в прятки) hide and seek or another game with 2 teams where 1 has to catch the members of the other. I loved the later more than hide and seek for it was much longer lasting… (#psyche-data) ?

In addition to that, in my childhood I loved playing hide and seek with my grandmother in her 2-bedroom apartment. Obviously, I was the one hiding and she was searching for me – or pretending she was searching for me when she knew where I was.

Also, in my childhood I'd often ask my mom before night if we loved me. I wanted to hear pleasant things essentially. It's reference to 'flatter' word in the quote.

Just wanna note about the whole article. In my current family there were people with mental problems. One of them – mom's sister - was put into a psychiatric hospital. Once she and my mother quarreled and fought almost.

Actually, my mother used to have problems with temper and we'd quarrel often. I feel like that could be the punishment for my (#error) described in the article. Yes, now I think we have control still when we have psyche related issues; so it's still an error. (there's no possession here – if possessions are real)

One of the commenters said I (VL) was terrified of needles.

Never was a fan of needles either.

Another person expressed their opinion, having watched the home movies of my (VL) parents, that I might have had ADHD.

I never went to a doctor about it, but ADHD describes me well during many episodes of my life. But sometimes I can bet focused and clear minded for long time. Again, it's our choice – do we keep calm, note an incoming idea, and then get back to reality, or do we choose to stay in our head? Also, about the cloudiness and active knowledge I talked about in my book Simple Truths of Life.

David theorizes if me (VL) being left at a convent school at 5 could have played a role in my psychological issues. And so, he continues, I felt like I was deserted again when Larry was far away. He says doctors also said that an event from the childhood must have contributed to my Vivien's mental state.

Maybe this could explain why in my childhood I was so worried whenever my mother would leave home and I'd be left alone? Actually, it happens to this day still to some degree. (#psyche-data)

Okay… I remembered that the said instance in VL's life had to have been suffering for past life's (#error) – her being left alone at the convent school. But what life? It's just so happens that Emma Hamilton's daughter was kinda left alone…

Then David compared the last scene from Streetcar to the way the doctor and the nurse sneaked into the house and forcefully sedated me (VL).

That could be the payment for my error in that same life.

22.02.2024. I've got reflections with several movies I made as Vivien

Leigh. Actually, in my Missy's life I also found 2 reflections – one with a scene from Streetcar, another has to do with how Ophelia (in Hamlet) died. So, it's possible reflections from my movies could already be manifesting themselves in my Vivien's existence.

Actually, now that I know I was Emma Hamilton, there are at least two painting of me in Emma's life which reflect not only in my Vivien Leigh's life, but also in mine:

Lady Hamilton as a Bacchante, 1785 (she looks like my village friend Marina here);

Lady Hamilton as Nature - George Romney.

The reflection has to do with dogs. There are two movies (Look Up and Laugh & Strom in a Teacup) in my Vivien Leigh life which feature dogs and certain aspects of those scenes are extremely similar to what I had to experience in my life when my two village friends called me a word which would translate as 'dog' – they did that because of my stutter… how they connected the two? I guess when stuttering I made sounds similar to dogs, and I am certain that when those 2 were badgering me, barking like dogs, they made eerily similar sounds to those which made people in the movie Storm in a Teacup.

Other Notes

April 29, 2026. Editing my writings for this book, I had to decide whether to keep the following notes or not. Margaret Mitchell, in her new life, lives not far from me. And I found Anne Boleyn's other lives too, in one of which we were close. Knowing this, I thought my old notes here could have some importance, because I might actually have certain connections with these people whom I knew before in my past lives.

Margaret Mitchell

I just want to see if some synchronicities can be found between Mitchell and people I know. The lives of souls are intertwined and you never know what you could find.

My mother, Galina, was one of reasons I read about Margaret, who died just a couple of years before my mother's birth.

My mother worked as a typewriter.

She was 13 years older than Vivien. Their birthdays are in November, 3 days apart (8th for Mitchel vs 5th for Vivien).

When Margaret was 3 years old, her dress caught fire on an iron grate.

Just a thought. In my childhood there was a time I stepped into a smoldering pile of leaves (or something like that) near the little pond at the edge of our village, when my mother and I were returning from Lakibrovo.. I didn't know there was fire for there was no smoke to be scene. It burnt and melted (the material was of synthetic nature) the left (I believe) side of my long pants I was wearing. My leg was not seriously harmed.

Her mom started dressing her in boy's pants after the fire accident, and Mitchen was nicknamed "Jimmy". Her brother said she'd have to be a boy named Jimmy to play with him. She had no sisters to play with. Until she was 14, she had to say she was a boy named Jimmy.

In reincarnation we have to experience living in both male and female bodies. Interesting to note she had to pretend a man, being a woman. But there's no connection to anything, I don't think…

Margaret: "I heard everything in the world except that the Confederates lost the war. When I was ten years old, it was a violent shock to learn that General Lee had been defeated. I didn't believe it when I first heard it and I was indignant. I still find it hard to believe, so strong are childhood impressions." Her mother "disciplined" Margaret by swatting her with a hairbrush or a slipper.

My mother doesn't believe me regarding Thiaoouba even after I showed her my best yet telekinesis session – when I moved easily the bolt attached to the thread.

Also, my mother used a belt to punish me, but thankfully she did it lightly and didn't scar me in any way.

Young Margaret read lots of books.

My mother has read a lot of books, and she said that at one time she pretty much lived in them, in those fictitious stories.

Margaret arrived home from college a day after her mother, May Belle Mitchell, had succumbed to pneumonia from the "Spanish flu".

I was able to come to the hospital father was in only the day after his death (it was Friday; he died on Thursday). My mother was with me, but she visited father earlier.

Margaret was, in her own words, an "unscrupulous flirt". She was engaged to 5 men, but said she didn't lie or mislead any of them.

Don't think nothing much of it; just that I had a script called Telephone Flirt; Michele Avila was called a big flirt if I remember correctly.

I found her interest in erotica and "all forms of sexual expression" interesting. Thiaoouba does make it clear that s*x is important for humans (provided there's spiritual affinity and love).

Mitchell wrote in her teenage years a 400-page novel The Big Four about girls in a boarding school.

On the evening of August 11, 1949 Margaret and her husband John Marsh were on their way to see the movie A Canterbury Tale. She was struck by a speeding motorist while she was crossing Peachtree Street at 13th Street in Atlanta. She died 5 days later at Grady Hospital on August 16.

My father used to often tell me to be careful crossing the road. He said there are many fools driving (which is, to some degree, true). I do look for cars when I cross the road even if it's pedestrian crossing where cars are supposed to stop to let you pass (in Russia).

In GWtW book it's said that as a child Scarlett confused her mother, Ellen, with the Virgin Mary.

As Mary Magdalene I knew that Mary. This could be one of other reasons I wished to play Scarlett so bad in VL's life (#psyche-data-astro).

Margaret Mitchell, at some points in her life, wore men's clothes. In my current life I understood certain truths about men's and women's clothes. I talked about that in my book Simple Truths of Life and in a video.

Margaret injured her ankle, leading eventually to writing Gone With the Wind. As Vivien I had broken my ankle and that's how I read Mitchell's book GWtW.

GWtW was banned in USSR, the country I was born in this life. Scarlett thought of war as of "a nuisance that killed men senselessly" – I agree.

Anne of Bohemia

This I wrote shortly after I realized I am Vivien, but didn't know about my other past lives yet:

Here I search for synchronicities between real life people whom Vivien had played. I do not think that I was or was not those people. I stay neutral unless there's solid evidence I was or wasn't someone in my past life. Synchronicities with other people could mean many other things (speaking from my current knowledge on the subject).

We share Higher Selves (9 souls per HS of 1 category). It's interesting if there are synchronicities between the souls who share a Higher Self?

Then it was known to the Universe at the time of Anne that there would be living a woman Vivien Leigh in the future, and that she'd play the queen. It's possible this could also influence some synchronicities and similarities between lives of different souls (astral bodies).

https://www.westminster-abbey.org/abbey-commemorations/royals/richard-ii-and-anne-of-bohemia

11 May 1366 – 7 June 1394.
7 June is my dad's bd. VL died on 7th, but of July.

Anne is close to Anna – 1 of my fav names.

Died 28 years old.

Believed to have died from plague. I had a dream long time age in which Thao(?) spread something among the crops and the plague theme was in my mind?
From my dream diary: February 2011. Thao was telling, in a dream, that she was killed from poisoning after she dispersed the gas in the crops (Plague and grim reaper?)

The Crown of Princess Blanche which may have been made for Anne.

The numbers 20 and 4 appeared in her life.

Anne and Richard were 15 years old when they met and married.
Marina mentioned 15 years in regards to meeting girls. At 15 I was in 10th grade and Nastya offered me to be her boyfriend.

She had a fair complexion, possessed a keen intelligence, was gentle, well educated. She knew Latin, German, Bohemian and also learned English.

Anne Boleyn

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Anne_Boleyn

Born c. 1501 or 1507 Blickling Hall, Norfolk, England (many tend to think it's 1507)
Died 19 May 1536 (aged 29 or 35) Tower of London, London, England

If she was 29 at death, then I was 29 when my father died, which was a big event in my life that resulted in lots of consequences.
At 35 I found I was Vivien Leigh in my past life, and several months after I found several other of my past lives.

Anne.

Anna was the name of the 23-year-old girl who mentioned A Streetcar Named Desire play (which, at first, I thought sounded peculiarly), and that was a chain in the link to my finding I was Vivien Leigh. Anne/Anna name appears quite often, and it's one of my favorites.

Was Queen of England from 1533 to 1536. So only 3 years.

She had to marry her cousin James Butler, 9th Earl of Ormond, but the marriage plans were broken off.

Anne had three miscarriages.
VL had 2 miscarriages. Also, Anne had a daughter and, as I believe I noted elsewhere, there was time I thought I'd be more comfortable with daughters rather than sons.

She was the 2nd wife of Henry VIII.

2:33 rumored to be born with a large mole on her neck. And they say she has an extra finger on one of her hands.
Made me remember that video about the autopsy of the supposed alien (I think it was debunked or something like that). I noted then that the supposed alien had 6 fingers.
https://nypost.com/2017/09/26/alien-autopsy-filmmaker-regrets-hoax/
Spyros Melaris
Shortly after it's said she had dark eyes. Then it's said she was intelligent.
Made me remember that dream in which I saw a woman's face with full dark eyes – including whites. Also, in my lucid dream I saw a white face with dark eyes (don't remember now if the whites were dark too). Also made me remember how in VL life I was frightened of dark eyes (maybe of just certain people living in India. Or maybe in general.)

10:09 Arrangement to marry James Butler. Marriage never happened.
Rhett Butler from GWtW and Butler from Titanic.

10:40 Anne was known as willful and defied the conventions of the time. She arranged the marriage for herself.

18:40 Anne would give her virginity only to her husband.
Hypatia is said to have died virgin. But then I made sexually related errors in Emma's and Vivien's lives (technically in Missy's life too).

33:33 Anne complained that not all spectators calling ‘God save the queen’ and complained about it to one of her attendants. It was an error on her side and sign of not having certain spiritual knowledge.

34:30 a priest called Anne a harlot & a whore.

38:26 She did charitable work, distributing alms to the poor. She also supported a Cambridge scholar.

46:00 They say Anne was planning to murder her rival Mary with a poison. But they also say it was words said in anger rather than a serious plot.

47:30 she banished her sister Mary from court. It cut her financial support. Anne’s reaction was seen as harsh.

50:20 Anne’s outbursts of anger are mentioned. She alienated many people.

55:30 Allegedly, Anne dropped her handkerchief as a sign to a lover.

59:30 No queen had been on trial before Anne (In England I guess)

1:03:00 Anne’s speech before death. She must have known her words weren’t true.

Looks like Anne did mistakes.

I'll add '-?' To the end of tag when I don't know if I was the person with whom I got syncs/similarities. So I only exploring the possibility I was that person, and looking for ways to prov/disprove that.

Michele Yvette "Missy" Avila

Michele Yvette "Missy" Avila. February 8, 1968 – October 1, 1985.

Brothers: Chris, Mark, Ernie
Sister is law: Shavaun
Missy's Murder book says they lived on Ottoman Street.
There are public records on the internet showing the exact house; I moved the info to another file.

Also of note is the look of the house. I expected it have front windows like all other US houses. There's also a dry tree standing uncut (maybe willow tree MA and K played under?) and it reminds me of my life's situation with willow tree at our village house. Also, it seems to me, if I was MA, that MA started experiencing the other side of life living in such a house. Of course, book should not be judged by the cover; and maybe it was comfy inside. But I just noting the fact that the current (the year 2023 and earlier, as seen on Google Maps) exterior of the house is nothing like the houses standing nearby.

Then the name 'Ottoman' related to Turkey and Natasha was from Turkey. That word - Turkey - played a huge role in my life and whenever I heard it I'd remember Natasha, my decisions and I'd feel… drained of energies, I'd get devastated. An interesting sync; and I wonder again what are the chances all of this has to fall into place and have a strong connection to my current life? I looked through Google Maps in LA to read the street names and I actually couldn't find any that would feel I have connection to – it just had to be that one street with the house which actually reminded me (but distantly) of my own village house – in the way it looks compared to other houses; also the fact it had many trees around it.

The house I apparently used to live in my past life on Ottoman Street has a fence with planks painted in white, blue and red. Those are the colors of the country I'm living in – Russia – and they are arranged in the same order also.

For now, I'll write here that after I got ignored and then blocked by Shavaun Avila I started to distrust her claims about her psychic experiences. It's strange that someone who knows he/she's perceived as crazy by many people and yet knows it's not so by having personal experiences should badly treat other people with their own unusual experiences. She could've answered me briefly, but she chose to do what she did even though I said it's important to me.

What would be the reason for the lie if I'm correct? (I no longer 100% believe her, but I won't think she's 100% lying also – the following is just a speculation and may be totally wrong).

Well, for some reason it was her who published Michele Avila's diary on Amazon. It's her who gets the money. With her 'light flickering' and 'spirits' videos she could have tried to interest people in Michele Avila's case so that they buy the book.

She also created 2 groups (why 2?) on Facebook (there's her email address and not Missy's brothers for example). So again, why is it so important to the person who is sister-in-law to Michele?

The book "Missy's Diary" which she published (not MA's bio family) costs >$5 and it provides not a lot of info to casual people (If I was MA then I'm glad I read it). It should've been posted for free on Facebook page as a

.pdf – at worst it should've been selling for $1 on Amazon. So it kinda nudges my suspicions towards that maybe that woman's intentions aren't very light, sadly…

Writing this feels so silly, yet I again remember that there's 99% chance I was MA… so it is kinda important for me to think about… also if true, then once again it shows that I need to be more careful who I trust.

I saw a video where it was mentioned how police had to interview people to get information. I realized that it's the same thing with my quest – and only the specifics are different. It's as if those people who ignore and block me would do the same thing when police was trying to investigate a crime so that the criminal can be caught and society is safe from him/her. Her society would be safe if the knowledge about reincarnation and the truth of Michel's book was proved and studied. People would know they'd have to live another life and suffer for their mistakes and evil doings regardless; and so I think many would try to seek peace not violence.

On December 17 I think I found old post by Sh in Remembering a friend FB group. She was writing that she was psychic and didn't want to sell anything; she did some readings. I need to check into her YT videos. (08.04.2024 – She, or someone else, later deleted that post (but I have a screenshot of it) after I wrote a comment with my suspicions of her and that maybe her 'precious Missy' was living in a new body and had found her own past life and was trying to get some info about her old self to learn about reincarnation – so why would 'psychic' Shavaun not be at least interested in hearing what I got to say and also give me several simple answers which don't give out any private information? – Like why in Missy's life I was afraid of "windy days", "And the ocean". For me those facts look like syncs to my Vivien's life (Gone With the Wind) – and also to the water theme that's been following me for several lives now (maybe more).)

Honestly, given that I probably was MA and died partially because I trusted wrong people, it'd make sense I now have to learn to see through the [possible] bs and lies of others in order not to repeat the sad history. Maybe it's the lesson for me which could give me some (#spiritual-knowledge). But again – so far, it's just a possibility.

08.04.2024. After I wrote that note I took a look at Sh's YouTube channel where she and another woman, Sabrina, talk about the spirits (souls, Astral bodies). https://youtu.be/AqO-Zc36Unk?si=AXhJF-aIz7ehb6hF. Long story short, anyone who knows the truth about what happens after death, the truths about reincarnation – from Thiaoouba Prophecy, for example – should see immediately that what they say has little to do with reality. Why? The answers are in the video too – it was apparent to me they tried to sell their documentary about my past life and in another video Sh said she also had a book coming – about Missy, of course, and she said it had some 'new' information. She also mentioned something about Laura's will (not the exact word) or something and it actually made me concerned for the person who killed me in the past life…

So, tldr, my concerns were proven to be correct about that woman. I hope the brothers of Missy have nothing to do with her 'work'…

Was listening to a podcast about Missy and saw something. Missy said to Randy she didn't want to get back with him and then said that Karen shouldn't be dating him – as the podcaster said she was giving Karen a good advice but she wouldn't have it; she thought differently. It reflects to some degree my recent situation with that girl Marced from Facebook – I gave her advice several times (about her errors which affected me too because she essentially spread false distorted information about me) but she wouldn't have it, thinking I mean bad things or whatever – yet I just tried to help the best I could.

If I was Michele too then it's kinda poetic that I had to live and die in the city of movies – the city in which I once worked as an actress, shooting Gone with the Wind, etc, but also actually sleeping with taken men…

The point is this could have happened anywhere but it had to be Los Angeles.

During the hearing Karen mentioned Michele would go partying. Just noting VL like that too, possible (#psyche-data)?

07.04.2024. I'll mention here that in her book Karen Severson wrote that Lynn (who's Eva Chirumbolo in reality) "dethroned the queen of her beauty by cutting a section of hair near the top". Don't know how true her words are, but she does call Missy a queen, and now it's clear I (and so Michele Avila) was actually a queen in the past life of Cleopatra.

I'll note in A Streetcar Named Desire Marlon Brando's character says at the end, "the place has turned into Egypt and you are the Queen of the Nile!"

Maybe it's nothing, but for the sake of full openness I'll mention that in the Thiaoouba Prophecy XP group on Facebook a guy, jokingly I'm sure, said I could be a King of some new [spiritual] country or something like that. (His last name is 'Anthony', interestingly enough. While on this topic, I'll add that my childhood best friend's name is Anton and his mother's name was Julia. The names relate to Antony and Julius respectively).

(Ernest and Shavaun Avila)

14:30+ He says they moved to Toluca lake. It's in LA, but it's also a lake in Silent Hill game.

17:-- psychic connection. Irene said she saw the canyons and that Missy is dead.

This is huge because made those people won't think I'm crazy if I ask them some questions and explain briefly my story (can it even be explained briefly?)

17:55 the blonde woman says she heard Missy's voice say her name. When she opened the bathroom door there was the killer standing right there. Irene walked out of bed and said she heard Missy say the name.

After she says they were doing a seance. She says she took images and there was an orb; when they zoomed into it she says they could see Missy's face. (08.04.2024. There's no such photo to be found on their pages or in personal photo albums. You'd think they'd have the photo – as well as the film (assuming they shot the supposed image with a film camera) - analyzed by now by many photo experts.)

22:20 - Scorpions - Lady Starlight was playing on the radio; it was played on Missy's funeral. She heard it first time in 34 years. So there are some synchronicities present also – maybe they'll be accepting of my story if I do ask…

Shavaun Avila says the lights in the house started acting up after Karen Severson wrote her book, in which, as Shavaun says, Missy's name is getting trashed. She says Karen started working on that book in February of 2013.

8.04.2024. As I said before, I have all the reasons not to believe her. It's easy to fake the flickering lights too…

Just noting 2013 was the year I went to see Natasha (whom I couldn't find). It was important year for me.

Karen urged Randy to throw lighted firecrackers at Missy to show his loyalty to Karen, and he did what she asked. She wasn't injured.

Just remembering it because I read in Dark Star that LO, seemingly, was pointing the fireworks rocket at Peter Finch but changed the direction to launch the rocket into the air. Just a curious similarity; but also quite different because firecrackers and fireworks are not the same.

Dark Star, page 20: There's a story about fireworks for Guy Fawkes' Night on the evening of 5 November – when I was born in my Vivien's life. On other early birthdays spent in Darjeeling, I (VL) asked why people were celebrating, and Gertrude would say "it's for your birthday, darling."

Susana Walton: "I had the distinct feeling that Larry, while setting off the Christmas fireworks, was pointing a rocket directly at Peter, but reluctantly changed his aim at the last minute and shot the rocket up into the evening air."

In my only attempt to end life I could have experienced to some degree what I might have experienced in Michele's life. When my body as if by itself ripped apart the plastic bad in panic and struggle for life… in MA case 2 people prevented that though…

Watching one of Mr. Ballen's newer videos, https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=btzFaCuKUjg, I realized that it makes more sense that I decided to continue watching his channel to learn from other people's mistakes now that I know I had to be MA. Suddenly such 'far away' cases as in the linked video feel pretty close to home now that I know I was murdered by my two friends in the past life – and it seems to me I didn't realize the gravity and danger of the situation till almost the very end when I was held under water.

04.03.2024 - https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/MrBallen today I learned that Mr. Ballen was born on October 1, 1988 – which is exactly 3 years after I died in MA's life! I was also born in 1988.

Also, his name, Jonathan, means “YHWH has given” in Hebrew and ‘YHWH’ is ‘Thiaoouba’.

I was looking at Mission High School pictures and there was a video. It was shot during sunset (I think; or dawn), coloring everything in orange color, and it hit me so much to remember how I’d walk in Moscow during orange sunsets and realizing just how much I wished to go live in sunny California… who knew I already lived that life… which was so early taken from me (for a reason / my errors I had to pay. I do remember that) (Note: might relate to (#psyche-data)

People Michele had s*x with:

A special boy at Mission High (Karen Kingsbury’s book, page 110 of pdf)
Victor Amaya. Only he is known to be 100% correct.
Bobby Miller probably (maybe not the real name)
Karen Severson mentioned ‘John’ on page 127 of pdf, but she could have lied. (17:56 Shavaun also mentions Johnny who was Michele’s old bf in this video https://youtu.be/J4lGfkA3psA?si=ELpnNKar3azAGFat&t=1076)
She also said MA slept with Randy (Jimmy).

31:05 Shavaun says Missy barely wore any make up. Probably true. In that case another (#psyche-data)? And connection to me. I thought that some girls give too much attention to make up, hiding the truth behind it, rather than working on developing themselves.
Also, around this time Shavaun says Missy wore simple cloth. Reminded me of my interview in Vivien Leigh life, mentioning no particular care to chasing latest fashion or something in that nature. So again, the spiritual profile matches up.

Katie verse I wrote in my childhood.

When I first saw this verse of my little self I got slight chills. I talk about Katie (budgie) having escaped getting drowned because she could swim and swam to the Kremlin. But before that she screamed for help but there was no one there to help. Knowing I was MA now, that verse seems so reflective of what happened to me in MA life – because I did scream (as Eva testified) before being killed… It's just so strange of all the topics I had to think about the water which was the reason for my death in the very last life…

There are drawings showing creek or small river, and others showing flowers (which could be daisies). Maybe it's nothing, but maybe it may relate to the data returning from old soul (astropsychic body if MD is right). Several drawings showing boats. This is unusual for Moscow where I could only see them from movies or photographs.

There's a verse about a mouse. Reminded me of how in MA life I got bitten by one. There are drawings showing (presumably) mice also. Some show birds and flowers (maybe daisies)

Then mother (Galya) write I was singing when I was around 2 years old.

At 3 I was already shy. Why? And mom writes I had trouble meeting people (I can only speculate atm if the betrayal of 2 people I thought were friends in the last life somehow contributed to me having trouble making friends?). Also I recited poems; and at 4 I wrote my own and continued doing it in late years (could be VL and MA related. In my last life I wrote poems and it's mentioned in Kingsbury's book)

January, February 1995 (then in 1997) – mother writes we visited filming of «Звёздный Час» (Star Hour). Lady Starlight was one of my favorite songs, which I asked to play at my funerals in case I'd die.

. (Vivien Leigh Info. I'll write it here so that I know it comes from the same diary my mother had.)

Left eye closing often photo.

My mother writes that I often close my left eye. Eventually I had a problem with this eye which sees everything with a blur. In VL life I had an eye patch over my left eye after the quarrel with LO. Again, it could relate to that life, or it could not. If it does then why I didn't have eye issues in my MA life?

Mother writes that I'd often wake up early – at 5 in fact. This reminded me of my VL life in which I didn't sleep a lot.

Mother writes Anton talked a lot when I talked a little (but Anton was always talking a lot). She also writes I steered away from strangers while Anton would talk to anyone; once strangers are gone I'd start sing and go wherever I wanted. I wonder why I got so shy after 2 knows lives I lived (shyness, as I discovered, has a lot to do with a person spending way too much time in his mind. Another question would be why I was focusing on my inner world more than on the reality around me)? Before that my mom mentioned a streetcar and me saying «Дзинь» upon seeing it. Later mom writes I'd start liking being around people.

Mother then writes that I was saying something like «ба», «ва» - вода (water) while pointing at the shower. Maybe it's nothing, but I was killed in water in the very past life. Later on another page mother says it herself – I was afraid to bath and would start crying; she also writes I'd undress and lie naked – I was a bit more than 2 years old then. She also mentions I liked water and playing in it too – it was купание (bathe, bathing) I was afraid of.

Then mother writes about my mischievousness. She writes I'd demand something, cry and wince, while looking with one eye – what is the reaction like. This reminded me so much of Scarlett O'Hara at 2:24:00 into the movie! Of course, it also reminded me of how it was said that during the production of 'A Yank at Oxford' my antics were seemingly paying dividends. (#reflection-life)

20.06.1991 - Later ma says I was playing a dog, copying them.

18.08.1991. Ma writes I was stubborn. If I wanted something – I demanded it, crying, knowing that by crying I could get 'anything'. Another lack of (#spiritual-knowledge-?) linking me to my Vivien Leigh life (antics and dividends)

Later ma says I said I had headache (she wondered if I lied), and then I had hysterics, trying to tear my mouth. It's another (#psyche-data) related link to my VL life.

14.12.1991 – ma writes I played a theatre at home. I cut out some figures of kolobok, bear, wolf, grandpa and grandma. Can be a link to VL life (and poems to MA life)

13.03.1992 – ma writes again I was kind afraid of other children. I play near them but alone. It's a regular theme which she mentioned before. I was around people in VL and MA life; I wonder if so called 'friends' – Karen and Laura – killing me had something to do with this psychology? I mean, I must have realized something during those last minutes of my life? It was also traumatic experience I'm sure, being betrayed… I did change school to be near that Karen… and now I knew who she was – I must have realized the truth of Sonya's words that it was Karen who lied them about me so that they'd beat me up for 'nothing' (well, some error was clearly made by me since I suffered). (#psyche-data)? Those event could potentially lead me to be wary of people (strangers) – but then I was seemingly okay with friends I knew…

Ma often writes the dog Дик and some others (?) as my friends. Of course, Sergey, Denis, Ira, Lena were also my friends already. Just noting this as dog theme is one of links between this life and VL's. (0804.2024 – There are 2 portraits of Emma Hamilton with 2 dogs too)

5.1.1993 – mother writes down my poems. There are mentions of daisies, water and death. It's clear I had a childish mind then based on the content of poems.

At the end mother writes when she was crying because Tanay offended her, I came over to her and asked something, getting her attention off the negative thing. Then she writes I'd ask if mother loved me – «Мама, ты меня любишь?» This reminded me of MA's last words to her mother – 'Mom, I love you!' 08.04.2024 – getting attention off the negativity also relates to an episode in my Vivien's life when I did a similar thing.

12.2.1993 Mother writes I started 'dancing'. Jumping, waving hands, and sings ta-ta-ta.

25.06.1994 – mother writes that 9 of May – Sergey in drunken madness tried to kill her in front of me. She writes I started stammering after that and couldn't say a word. This is the time father buys land in our village – 3 houses away from ours.

Don't think anything significant happened on this date in my other lives I know. Just that in VL life: '9 May: opens with Olivier in Romeo and Juliet in New York. Play closes within two weeks.'

23.03.1995 – ma writes I felt something was wrong (with speech). Asked if it'd go away.

--.12.1995 – Mom writes I liked school. Had 4s and 5s. Possible connection to past life.

16.1.97 – after writing down some of my poems (the content of some raises questions in me about my old little self), ma writes that I liked to talk to her in the evenings. I mentioned it as a possible connection to my MA life, in which I had night talks with my mother also.

5.11.1997 (bd of Vivien Leigh) – Mother writes she tried to poison herself. Depression. We (she and I) are not needed on this Earth. There's nothing for us… she writes it's best for us to die… (08.04.2024 – As far as poison goes, maybe relates to my life of Cleopatra…)

At one point I saw a possible connection to VL going to LO and leaving daughter behind. My father went to Marina (or he thought so) and left me and mother behind. Can be me suffering for that (#error) but it should be noted that in MA life father also eventually left the family – but at least he was around for many years.

Missy Loved White Top photo.

Stacey Manfull Glink: "I remember the top Missy is wearing like it was yesterday. She loved it so much. And of course it looked great on her. Xoxo"

Maybe another synchronicity. Kiara Madisen on YT wore a similar (? At least it reminded me of her) top and I liked her in it – of course, in my male eyes. Generally, I like such tops on women. (#curious)

I'll also mention that Kiara and Michele studied or wanted to study human physiology.

Deadly Women S4E18. About MA.

This episode about MA aired on January 13 2012. It was Friday. This comes as no big surprise because at this day and month, but in different years I: 1) Signed contract to make Gone with the Wind 2) Approached Marina in Moscow when I was 28, and it marked the end of my 14 year period of going down in my life. (#curious)

https://www.timeanddate.com/date/durationresult.html?d1=1&m1=10&y1=1985&d2=30&m2=07&y2=1988

There are 1033 days between the day of my death in Missy's life and my current birthday.

Or there are 33 months and 29 days.

https://www.timeanddate.com/date/durationresult.html?d1=1&m1=10&y1=1985&d2=11&m2=12&y2=1987

If Michel Desmarquet is correct about souls inhibiting embryo at 6 weeks of pregnancy, and assuming I was born at around 9-th month, then there could be some numeric synchronicities also – but without knowing exactly how long my mother's pregnancy lasted it's a guess work.

There's a photo of Missy and a girl named Kim standing near Sheldon Street.

Sidney Sheldon was one of the first authors whose book I read after starting learning English.

Moreover, "If Tomorrow Comes", published in 1985, at least partially (don't remember the plot) took place in New Orleans – the city where the events of A Streetcar Named Desire take place.

"Tell Me Your Dreams" is about split personalities – something which could be related to reincarnation, meaning the hypothesis here is that maybe people who have this disorder manifest their own selves from their own past lives.

08.04.2024 – I know now I was Mary Magdalene, from who 7 "demons" were driven out. It's logical to assume I had 7 psychological issues, and I'm speculating if I could have multiple personalities numbering 7, but people of those days thought that to be a demonic possession? As mentioned before, at one point I felt I was becoming Vivien Leigh – my old self – but I recognized what was happening and took things easy… but how did I know what was going on and what I needed to do? If I'm correct about Mary and 7 multiple personalities, it could explain why I later even got the idea that maybe those personalities are manifestations of who we were in our past lives… If so, one of those split identities might have been Cleopatra, interestingly enough…

Cocaine. Something I used in my Missy's life, unfortunately. Its effects on human body are of note:

I've imagination in this life which gave me happiness, sexual arousals, loss of contact with reality, or agitation. Because of this I didn't need to drink or seek other ways to hide from the reality, which at that time seemed cruel… but now that I Know the Truth (Thiaoouba + my past lives and reasons for my suffering) – not anymore. Now that I know the effects of cocaine, I'm no longer surprised I used that thing in my last past life. Hopefully I gain some spiritual knowledge from my life's experience and I won't need alcohol, drugs, or imagination to escape from problems (caused by my own decisions in this life or another).

Another note: As Missy I never suffered for the use of cocaine as other people do (because I was killed at just 17). There was a moment in school when I all of a sudden started hearing the teacher very clearly for a few seconds. I never knew why; and I ask sometimes myself if it was the normal hearing of other people and I my hearing isn't as clear? I've got other issues with senses – due to imagination mostly. But it's possible some troubles were caused by my past life's uses of that substance.

Karen Severson had an interview here https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tuJDNJul-s4&t=745s "Author Karen Severson Sits Down With Shannon Fox To Talk About Her Book "My Life""

She mentioned several times wolves and packs (3:48). Could be of synchronistic connection with this portrait of me in Emma Hamilton's life, in which 2 wolves (and there were 2 killers) were added later by another person who got the painting (he also painted a leopard on my left but it was painted out later):

George Romney, Emma Hart, Lady Hamilton as Circe, 1782 at Waddesdon Manor.

I'll note here that at the time of EH I still didn't pay for one of the crimes I did as Cleopatra. That fact was known to the Universe. If it's connected it's of interest why the surgeon who had the wolves painted in decided to draw them instead of some other animals? Of course, many people know wolves and it's an obvious choice, but still… I should also mention the fact anything was added at all by someone other than the original painter.

"Quaking aspen trees" is where the girls carved the names of their boyfriends. (Aspen = осина in Russian). Could be totally nothing, I just remembered I planted an aspen tree near my house. Eventually it grew too long and I had to cut it down. And there are many other trees I planted or tried to. But I think I could have had some thoughts in my regarding the aspen tree in particular; very subtle – like I did about my Leigh last name, and then how I said 'Run!' when I was watching the video about my death as Missy.

Carol Rex:

"I'll never forget the tiny but mighty Missy with her Vans, Joradache, Chemendefer, or whatever jeans we were wearing, flannel, thermal shirt.. walking down my street to the McElroy's or us being friends in 1st/2nd grade Magnet Mrs Lipton's class.. or the hang outs after St Gens Fiesta with her, Heather U, Lisa Scatt at an after party.. along with all the years of school days memories. One distinct memory was on my block with Monica Kirk and a few others walking down the street."

Monica Kirk:

"…Riding bikes, skating, listening to music, singing when no radio was around, acting silly and figuring out life as a teenager."

Van Leeuwen Michelle:

"Missy was a friend to all I'm glad that you (Dave) put up this page where we can all remember Missy. I personally had a very good conversation with Missy as she was riding her beach cruiser through the parking lot of the church. I was on my bike as well a similar beach cruiser, she had stopped and asked me for a smoke. I then preceded to ask her where she was headed and she said the name which I can't say, makes me cringe to this day. I said why? you really have so many friends but she told me ya I feel sorry for her, I said I understand, later to think of the unthinkable and how it unfolded was absolutely devastating. That showed me her heart 🩶 her compassion for her so called Bestie. Ugh to this day that day replays in my mind from time to time."

Karen Severson calls me (Michele Avila) Lizzy in her book. Lisa Hill was the name I had in my past life in lived in USA in 1800s.

Wildfires in LA. In our village we had fires on the fields. People went to put them out so that they don't spread to the nearby forests and then to houses. We do have fires in Vladimirskaya oblast' quite often. I remember there was cover of smog in the air long time ago because of the fires. It's not a common thing in nature, so I thought I'd note this possible parallel.

Several girls in my village were/are of small height. When we were kids some in our company used to mention that fact. I had a crush on one of them – Yana.

Is there a connection to IT and A Nightmare on Elm Street?

In IT the monster tells the stuttering boy's brother that everyone swims down there in the sewers and he will swim too. Connection to water and the fact that Missy was drowned in water and remained in it for 3 days.

Nightmare? Well, in the 4th part Freddy drowns the guy in his bed – "How's this for a wet dream?"

1977 photo is showing the class of that year, and the school's name is Canterbury Ave School.

I remembered how I used to watch almost all the episodes of Dual Survivor (but stopped watching sometime after Cody left the show). Dave Canterbury was in the first seasons. I noticed his name for some reason.

Margaret Mitchell died several days after being hit by a car when she was walking to see the movie A Canterbury Tale. Recently I literally came across her in her new life.

In September 1985, Severson told Missy's mother that Missy was a "tramp." She also approached Missy in a park, yelled at her, and also slapped her face.

Face slapping might relate to GwtW and my character slapping people several times. Might be a parallel of some kind, or suffering for an (#error) – if it was an error - shown in the film.

On January 22, 2026 I had a dream referencing my question I asked on January 15, 2025. I decided if there were any new videos about me (in Missy's life). I've found this video https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=H3CEneQJCro which shows the places I used to know – like the school and the park. Also, from this video I learned that Sonia's last name is Bond. It is a big find, because I've had numerous parallels with this name before.

Monica Kirk said in this public page: “I remember a few times during lunch at Byrd I was hanging out with Missy at the furthest corner of the field and Miles and Karen would come by and talk to Missy through the fence. Karen was pregnant at this point and that is where I found that she was.”

It’s one of those subtle things which do bring back specific memories from my current life, and then I’m thinking if I should mention such seemingly trivial points. I will. Monica’s words reminded me of how when I was in school we were having our physical education class outside on the school yard (maybe we were skiing). At one point I saw my mother (and Rishat brought her being there to my attention too) by the school’s fence, and I think I went to exchange a word or two with her through the fence.

The thing is while this is so trivial, how many of you were talking with someone through the school’s fence? Probably not many. And since this is yet Another parallel I see with my past self I think that I’d better note such things. As reincarnation is studied more (I hope) by other serious and adequate people, humanity should eventually learn if such similar events in different lives of a particular soul are what we could call coincidences or there’s a connection (the 2nd event occurred because of the existence of the 1st event).

2:35 It's very interesting that Shavaun had that dream. (I’ll assume it’s true.) I’ll just copy and paste the comment I left on her video:

On July 10, 2025 I asked my Higher Self who was the person whose 19% of electrons of the Astral body (soul) were used to create my current physical body of Evgeny M. I saw two people as if fighting and then suddenly turning to look at the "camera" - at me. I right away saw the resemblance to Laura and Karen acting like they're were fighting and then they looked at me and said it's all just and act (this happened shortly before they committed their crime). Later Higher Self answer showed that some person's 19% of electrons were used to create either Laura's or Karen's body (I felt in the dream it was Laura's but never had time to confirm it) and they were also used to create my current body (Evgeny). I think this is why Shavaun had that dream.

And I don't know too well how this 19% of electrons thing works myself, but this Shavaun's dream may shed some additional light on the process.

Missy’s Diary

My old note to myself was: Doing the things I do I need to remember about confirmation bias. I have to be careful with my conclusions.

On page 1 (Wednesday, August 30, 1978) MA writes she went to Las Vegas on 20th august 1978. It starts with 'But' for some reason – could actually relate to me and VL…

Then MA says she got bit by a mouse which she picked up; she and her friend felt sorry for it (mouse).

Later MA writes her mam and grandma took her to ER. Of interest here is that MA writes she hated shots – it can be interpreted as being afraid of needles. It's a (#psyche-data); actually in my VL life I got shots during the Elephant Walk situation and later David Niven called VL Missie when he described that incident.

Page 3. At 2 went to diary(?), at 4 went to park.

On page 4 MA mentions water several times; and the fact she was swimming with her friend in friend's pool. They also played barbies.

Page 8: she says she played cards with her brother. Of course many people play them. But VL did do it also. Just as many people watch TV.

Page 9 says MA's friend is Karen. So it was her pool they hang out at. Just a note about pools. In VL life I liked swimming and just yesterday (December 10, 2023) I downloaded colored photos of VL and some of them showed old me near pools or in the pool. But again by itself it's nothing substantial.

While on this topic I will mention that my village neighbors – Vova's parents – discussed plans/wishes/dreams to create a pool at the back of their plot. It never happened, and it's actually so bizarre to hear about pools in such a climate; also Natasha – my cousin's daughter – had a plastic pool in her backyard in Lakibrovo. But it's just interesting if that episode has some connection to these other pool episodes in my past life(lives).

Page 10 says MA watched TV for a long time. Again, many people do, but then I did also and it was a big part of my life; also Missie (VL) is also mentioned to have stared at TV static during the Elephant Walk situation. Maybe nothing of course, just noting.

Of course the fact MA had a diary, and so did VL, and I also wanted to write from early childhood, is kinda interesting. There are many people who write down their events but not all.

MA asked her mom again if Karen could sleep over – no was the answer. If I was MA then there could be connection to VL's parties which of course included friends who would sleep at their house. But again I saw Williams from Ghost Hunters mention something about sleep overs in her twitter – maybe that thing is common in US. But still it requires a person to have desire to have someone stay at their house.

Also I'll note here how I thought to bring Anton to village but for some reasons it never came to be. Partially because we had an old house and I think he'd be miserable without Moscow's easy to use sinks and toilets. Also there were not enough beds anyway. But the point is I did have a desire and it is a type of possible connection between VL, MA and myself.

Page 11. I'll note MA – even though she was 10 – writes a lot about the same thing: watering, going to Karen, swimming, watching tv, playing cards, eating, writing diary. It actually in a way may relate to me; when I started a diary I also realized I write about the same thing so I stopped and only try to write unique entries of actual value and importance.

Page 12. Had to go water at 6:30. This actually reminded me how I also had to water plants (strawberries, lettuce, etc.) in our village's garden in the evenings. But then many of my other friends did the same thing.

P 15. I'll just note MA liked and was able to swim. In VL life I was able to swim quite good apparently and enjoyed it too.

P 17: night swimming. VL once night swam in the Australian ocean for long hours.

P 19. It was September 4, 1978. MA says she played Monopoly with her brother.

P 25-26. MA talks about going to the beach with someone whose names I couldn't read. She took a shower after. Nothing of obvious importance; it just reminded me of how we went to the lake and took a shower after because the water was from a swamp and not very clean.

P 32. Just noting both VL and MA had to go to other people's houses to swim in a pool.

P 33: MA says she doesn't like school. Technically there is some connection to my VL life I think. As for me I think I'd like school if it wasn't for my stammer.

The verdict is that even though MA was 10 and that's understandable, I wish she'd write only the unique events in her life. But there's still something to learn about her and if it will be clear I was her then I could make draw certain conclusions.

There are 33 pages total in the book, but that's including the cover. So it's 32 total pages.

Karen Kingsbury - Missy's Murder

Currently I'm 100% sure I was Michele Avila; thanks to syncs and the dream in which I sw myself as MA in the mirror and then I saw VL; and some other dreams I had since)

As before, I'll write down all the things I spot – no matter how small or silly they may seem. Also I hope the information I quote is accurate and I don't lead myself into a wrong direction (similar to movie Memento, but different in specifics.

09.04.2024. Recently it's been reconfirmed again I was (and so was Missy) Cleopatra, Mary Magdalene, Hypatia, [someone named Jade; nothing else is known about that life as of this date], Emma Hamilton, Vivien Leigh, and Michele Avila. Knowing this many things described about Missy's life - the weather changes on the day of my death, how the detective Catherine treated that case, etc. - make a lot more sense now. And believe me, I don't wish to sound or look entitled, important, etc., but those were my lives and what am I supposed to do if certain [big, unusual, extraordinary, etc.] events keep happening to me because of the decisions I made in them? Since I'm interested in knowing how the Universe works, and in this case reincarnation, I have to report all of my thoughts, ideas and theories. I can't hide or be silent because of a possibility some people will think I'm lying, crazy, or whatever else – it would be a mistake to turn my back on this important experience and research I'm doing.

Actually, it makes sense now that in my current childhood I saw that yellow entity near my house. That episode is one of main reasons I got interested in UFOs, ghosts, etc., and, in part, thanks to that interest I eventually found Thiaoouba Prophecy. I'm almost certain now Thiaooubians were responsible for that experience (Yellow Entity) so that I'd find their book written by Michel Desmarquet, and eventually find my past lives – in one of which I was Mary Magdalene…

What this whole experience of my [current] life has in store for me – I do not know… Time will tell.

CINDY SILVERIO is actually Eva Chirumbolo

Steven (Eva's bf) is Johnny

Michael is Randy

Tina must be Sonya (might also not be the real name). (Noting that Tina was a character in the first Nightmare on Elm Street movie)

Jimmy Mitchell is Randy (Noting Margaret Mitchell)

Andrea is Stephanie, Karen's daughter

Christy Crawford is probably Tammy

Michele's mom name is Irene. Dad's Ernie, which is Diminutive of Ernest. VL dad's name was Ernest.

Missy was drowned in a creek/brook/stream. My first internet provider was called ‘Стрим/Stream’. And obviously there’s a connection to Ophelia. Also, in VL life I made love with LO almost in front of his wife Jill.

Cover (Page 1): BONDFIRE BOOKS.
One of my email (and maybe nicknames) had ‘Bond’ in it.

Opening page, describing what happened to Missy’s body after several days of decomposition… it was difficult to read this page, knowing now it was my old body…

Catherine Scott was the homicide detective. She carried the lock of Missy’s hair while the murder was unsolved.

I’ll just note that several people named Катя (Catherine) have played some big roles in my life. I don’t know if the name is real, but then I did have syncs with IT and Nightmare (fictional movies), so it doesn’t matter too much for now.

Unusually, the Santa Ana winds started blowing in the Valley on October 1, 1985. Generally, the winds come later in the month, and occasionally even in November.

Ana is pretty much similar to Anna, the name which followed me in my life. It was thanks to a girl called Anna that I discovered A Streetcar Named Desire play/movie, leading me eventually to finding my past lives.

Smog reminded me of the mist/fog in GWtW, but maybe it’s nothing of course.

But it’s interesting that the winds started blowing on that date… actually, only now do I see just how much it reminds me of the movie which meant so much to me in my past life - ‘Gone With the WIND’… (#curious)

Also, I know from later pages that in MA life I was afraid of windy days…

After finishing her math homework earlier, her English teacher read Missy’s poem aloud as an example of descriptive writing.

As I said before, I wanted to learn to write from a highly early age (at or before 5?) when I was in village.

The name of Missy bf is Bobby. Reminded me of Bobby Briggs from Twin Peaks, the movie which recently proved to be so, so similar to my soul’s recent life (Vivien, Missy, me)… just like Mulholland Drive. Of course, the real name was probably changed.

“I just can’t do it. Laura’s counting on me.” Said Missy. Missy was loyal. She never stood up a date with Bobby. She made a promise to Laura and she was gonna stick to it.

In VL life I’d usually be on time for work and rehearsals in theater etc. Of course, I also try to be on time if others could be waiting. Loyalty and sticking to promises connects to me also. (#psyche-data)?

According to Irene, Missy had loving spirit and happy, care-free heart. (#psyche-data)

Missy, and her brother, had night talks with Irene for several years.
In my childhood I'd call my mother to talk to me about different things before going to sleep. It was usually quite dark in the room (with maybe just the tv and kitchen light reflecting from the walls). (#curious) (#reflection-life)

Missy was 4 feet 11 and 90 pounds.

Next the book says about MA beauty, freedom, friendship with mother, and jealousy from others. Just recently I've noticed similarities in facial features of my past 2 lives. There may have been jealous people in my life too (maybe still are because of my TP experiences…) This theme might have been a part of my soul's life for some time…

Page 18 mentions Irene and her tennis shoes. It was the day of Missy's death.
In VL life I watched Wimbledon on the day of my death. Here's the tennis theme is showing itself again during the day of the death of my next physical body. And Thao said 'Look!' during a tennis match – it was showing 33 on the tennis court's clock. (#curious)

Irene preferred working at home than at an office.
It's about Irene, not Michele. But still reminded me of how I preferred working at home rather than working in an office.

Missy wanted to help Laura get over her breakup with Vic, and maybe even help them get back together.
As mentioned elsewhere I tried to help the village friend even though by that time he'd been calling me 'пёс' because of my stuttering. Somehow, I still forgave him… (#spiritual-knowledge)

They said Missy was too trusting.

Missy wanted everyone to like her.
Either (#psyche-data) or possibly lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) because in this life at times I felt the same – I as if wanted everyone to like me and that was actually one of reasons for why it was so darn difficult at first to reveal the truth about my Thiaoouba related experiences for I knew that many would think I'm crazy. After that I once found myself realizing that I literally wanted for some reason (now becoming to reveal itself) absolutely everyone to treat me nicely – that was impossible I realized too; then I realized the truth about those others having to suffer for their errors if they laugh or think I'm crazy without checking out the evidence I provide. So eventually I started to care less and less about other people's opinions.

Actually, this is another connection to my syncs with IT and Nightmare; the finally revealed theme of that experience of mine was about fear of what other people think of me – do they like me, do they hate me, do they laugh at me, etc.

Hours before death, Missy took a shower. When the phone rang, she ran dripping wet into the kitchen to answer it.

I decided to check my entry in the diary about the dream I had on November 7, 2023.

I was a somewhat dark-skinned girl in it, and when I was walking outside, I turned around and said "I love you, mom!" to the emptiness of the 2nd floor of the house. Those actions and words are pretty much what I did and said in MA life on the day of my death. But there's more. I noted in my diary how I started to get sick – and I did become sick for several days. The reason for that was me opening windows to let a bit of fresh air in not long ago after I took shower; it was unusually humid inside and I started sweating; it was about 10-11 degrees C outside so I thought I'd be okay if I lay covered in bed with just my head exposed to the cool, light and smooth winds resulted from air movement.

I find it (#curious) I took shower shortly after my death and in this next life I have a dream about that past life when I start to get ill from getting a shower and opening windows to let the fresh air in.

The girls drove to Stonehurst Park to do a few lines of cocaine.

Sad. But also reminded me of one time I confused cocaine for a hallucinogen, having no experience or care for this awful thing in this life, and I wrote my mistaken message in a group about astral voyage, warning others about the dangers of hallucinogens to the astral body/soul. One guy took it way too close to heart, even though I admitted I got the drugs confused but the main point is correct, and he even threatened to kill me I think. He got banned and blocked quickly of course.

May connect somehow to Beverly Hills tv show and Kelly Taylor too (when I saw her do the white thing it brought up some strange and uncalled for attraction in me…)

Reminded me of Twin Peaks also once more.

Page 24 or 25. At the end there are mentions of the wind. Also, it was around 11 o'clock when Irene began to cry…

Page 26 starts chapter 2, which talks about Irene. I must say I can see certain similarities between her morality and life and mine (both in Evgeny's and Vivien's life).

I used to think if I were to have children would they be spiritual people because of my experiences and knowledge thanks to Thiaoouba? Of course, it would depend on how I'd teach and raise them, but also on life's factors beyond my control (their fate, karma, etc.).

So far, I'm not surprised Irene was my very last past life's mother. She seems similar to me in some crucial aspects.

Irene was 26 when she got pregnant. She had nausea and headaches. She'd had miscarriage before and doctors ordered strict bed rest from the 7-th month on. Irene had a feeling that getting through the 8-th month would mean the baby would survive. The delivery was very complicated, with doctors fearing that both mother and the child could die. They called Michele Missy from the beginning.

Sadly, no mention if MA was born a bit early. It had to be ~36 weeks or, according to Michel Desmarquet, Vivien Leigh could not have been born as MA. (09.04.2024 – but clearly I was born as MA, so it's either Michel is correct and the pregnancy lasted 8 months, or Michel is not correct when he says the Astral body starts inhibiting the embryo when it's 6 week old. He wrote it in his other book Nature's Revenge, which was not 'dictated' by Thao, and so after so many years since his journey to Thiaoouba Michel could have misremembered certain details.)

Also 26. That was the age in VL life when Oscar was won for Scarlett role in GWtW, and all the rest has followed.

https://www.facebook.com/MissyAvila68/photos/happy-80th-birthday-to-irene-avila-many-blessings-always/2695825417123817/

November 1, 2019. The image was posted congratulating Irene with 80th bd.

So, Irene was born in 1939 (the year of GWtW).

Missy is 4 months old. Irene is told by a doctor to feed her daughter more because she was so tiny. Missy is 8 months old and it's clear to Irene Michele would remain smaller than her peers.

Missy learned to crawl, boy-fashion, and with a toy truck in hand. She's be playing outside with her brothers in the mud too. But there were also moments when Missy was all little girl, smiling coyly at her brothers, tilting her head and flirting.

Confirms my ideas and theories that both males and females have the same range of self-identifications or feelings (self-perception is maybe a more accurate word) about who they are, and it's the environment that mostly affects how each person will think of themselves. Of course, the data from our psychological body(ies), spiritual knowledge, can influence that also.

The last sentence is of great interest to me. First of all, coyly means shy.

Second of all 'tilting' of head is the similarity I first noticed between me and Vivien Leigh when I had no idea I was her, but that head tilt of VL on imdb page did make me think in the back of my head ‘what if?’ Especially since during that time I had a habit of tilting my head also. (#curious) if this is not a coincidence then it could relate to the astropsychic body (if my theory is correct about that body. Meaning Michel D. was correct in his Nature’s Revang book and some part of the 19% electrons do rejoin our astral body when we are born in a new physical body. So I speculate if the data from our past lives still present [I assume] in those electrons does affect somehow the astropsychic body; by populating it with some data for example)

Irene’s brother about Missy: “She’s going to be a real heartbreaker when she grows up. You can see it in her eyes. You’re going to have your hands full.”

That’s who I was in VL life, sadly. This time it was my fate to pay the penalty for heartbreaking – clearly, I mean the broken hearts of women whose boyfriends/husbands I took away and/or slept with (Leigh Holman, Larry, Peter Finch, etc). It’s interesting that MA’s uncle noticed that connection between Michele Avila and heartbreaks.

Then it’s said how Irene realized Missy would really grow up one day, falling in love, marrying, and leaving home. Irene knew she’d be with the broken heart, and she prayed the day wouldn’t come too soon.

Firstly, it reminded me of me in VL life believing if you wish something hard it will come true. Secondly, reminded me of the phrase ‘be careful what you wish for’; unforeseen consequences may be not what you expect them to… as sadly was in our case. Thirdly, there could be a set up here for future lives in which maybe Irene’s soul and mine would live together again and this time there will be a wedding (me having learned from my past errors and suffering resulted from them)

Missy swallowed a bathroom cleaner and had to be rushed into a hospital. One of the doctors said: “…Her lungs were partially collapsed and she was getting very little oxygen when you brought her in. But we cleared the poison from her system and gave her an antihistamine for the swelling in her throat…”

18 months old Missy drank a bottle of bathroom cleaner apparently. Obviously, the connection here is the situation relating to lungs.

09.04.2024. Knowing I was Cleopatra, this makes me wonder if the rumors about Cleopatra poisoning people to test poisons are true (Some say it could have been pro-Octavian propaganda). If so, that incident with Missy could have been a suffering for a very old error. What seems obvious here is that during that event I didn’t suffer for the error I’d done in those 18 months. What could I have possibly known about the dangers of some bottle’s contents in 1.5 years of age? It may be of interest to note that in this instance in order for me to [potentially] pay the penalty for the old error from my other life, another person, Irene, had to make an error also by not having Missy in sight all the time.

It may be of interest to note in this life I'd often get food poisoning. And there were at least a couple of instances when I couldn't recover for a long time (days); but this could be attributed to my stubbornness not to clean the stomach by drinking a lot of water to get rid of the poison one way or another.

Missy lived on Ottoman Street. Mark and Chris Avila had been to a barbecue on October 1.

Ottoman street is connected to Natasha from Turkey (which was Ottoman Empire before). Michele Avila's black and white photo reminded me of how Natasha looked. I searched for other streets in LA and would find not a single street name which would resonate with me. So, this experience is once again not just a coincidence. (#curious)

Also, I've noticed 'barbecue' which reminded me of GWtW first scenes but perhaps it's just a coincidence.

Page 34: 3 A.M.

Missy was with a faster crowd, meaning she could have partied, drank, etc.

Possible (#psyche-data) connection to my VL life in which I clearly liked partying.

Page 41 starts Chapter 4. The tings mentioned on first several pages may somehow relate to GWtW – in terms of people of color and how they were (maybe are to some degree – I don't live in US now to know from the personal experience the details about the subject) treated. Actually (#curious) bits of information in that chapter, showing me yet again there are multiple interconnections between my lives – and the same is the case for other souls of course.

Missy was beautiful and people noticed it.

Interesting to note VL was beautiful and me also (at least several people said so) until I started to go bald and got a scar on my lip.

Missy looked forwards to the first day of school.

In this life due to stammer I felt kinda uneasy to go to school. But by contrast when I was not having issues with my speech I actually enjoyed going to school to the point I was looking forward to waking up for school. During my English classes, which I took when I was 19, I thought to myself how I'd enjoy school if only there was no stammer in my life… possible (#psyche-data)

A teacher: "Missy seems to be very popular with the other children. She, well, the boys love chasing her and showing off for her and the girls all want to be her friend."

Reminds me of VL life… and about what I thought my current life could have been if only I didn't have my speech problems, making me become shy and then outright afraid to talk…

Missy didn't like life to be unfair. She became friends with Karen, who, from what is written, it seems like not many wanted to play with.

(#spiritual-knowledge) based on the fact I tried helping the friend from village who was calling me bad word coz of my stammer. Also, there was that talk when I said some wisdom I knew withing me and my father said I was not like him. In VL life I was friendly too, but also made some mistakes.

Karen's parents bought a house after 8 years of saving money. They bought the house on Nagle Street, which ran into Ottoman Street. Missy Avila was 8 then.

Page 52 talks about Karen's tactics to get what she wanted. They include lying.

The info which is written next about Karen's tactics is of big interest also. I fell for her lies apparently, and that cost me my life. In this life I'd fall for scams also – although sometimes it happened due to some synchronized events forcing me to make certain decisions I wouldn't do otherwise – I suspect it's one way life will make us suffer for our own old errors no matter what.

Also, the next page is of interest too when I think that it was the very next life I lived after being Vivien Leigh.

Missy was adored by her brothers. Karen created 3 of her own (in her mind).

This actually reminded me of how I met that Katya girl in Sokolniki. She painted fairy wings to her photograph and that's a sync with VL playing Titania.

But that girl also invented, as it became clear later, husband, children, and whoever else. When I realized something is off, I decided it was time to go. But I still tried to help her later. (#reflection-life)

Noting 20s in chapter 6:

The stream was 20 yards wide, and never deeper than a foot or two.

20 is mentioned several times in relation to 2 people who found my body (Robert Sanders and Jim Rutledge)

The 20-mile winding trip up to the mountains.

Robert, Jim, and Libershal waited for police for the long 20 minutes.

Rutledge: "Dick, it's a body. Do you see it? Over there under the log. I'm serious. It's a body."

ROBERT SANDERS and Jim Rutledge are their names as written at the beginning of the chapter. For some reason Jim calls Robert 'Dick' and not 'Bob'. There was a dog named 'Дик' (Dick) in my village. He was always around our house – especially when my father would come to visit us, bringing Dick some food also. Dick even traveled with us to Lakibrovo (nearby village) once – as was depicted in my niece's video she recorded back then. Anyhow, I don't know if the names are real or not.

I've got a habit of crossing my legs – left leg over the right one. I think I got a bruise from it on my left leg near the bottom. There's a crime scene photo, showing Missy being pinned down by a huge log and the crossed legs are visible, and it appears it was the same left leg over the right one (it's in reverse when you face down)

Before meeting each other, both Karen and Missy longed for a sister.

Reminded me of how I wanted a brother in early childhood. Even had a dream about it, but it was a weird type of dream… the brother was tiny – about the size of a match -, and I think made of plasticine. I think I broke him by accident and felt awful because of that…

Karen was bitter about Missy's high grades and constant praise from teachers. Eventually Karen was crazy with jealousy in regards to Missy's looks.

As I mentioned before I might have had good grades (I've had 4s mainly and not 5s) if stutter didn't take so much of my energy and thoughts. And I think that in early years of school some teachers also praised me for either good grades, good behavior, or maybe both – don't remember exactly now.

At the age of 13 Missy's body developed curves and caused males to stop and stare at her.

13 years is when I started having sex drive and made my first error – masturbation instead of searching for a gf (fear of speech had overtaken me by that time).

Page 61. At the end there's a story about girls sleeping with the same guy at a party. Maybe those girls told MA what went down at the party and then MA told Karen… probably this is what happened – I doubt MA was present at the party and knew about it from personal experience… otherwise there'd probably be a note about it in the book. (actually, at page 64 it says MA was virgin and friends knew it)

Missy: "Mom, its not easy to tell you this. Karen is six weeks pregnant. She told me she wants to have the baby."

Just noting that Michel Desmarquet wrote in Nature's Revenge it was at the age of six weeks that the Astral body was to start inhabiting the embryo.

After Irene says about Karen having the option to give the child up to adoption:

Missy: "I know. I think she knows, too, but she says she wants to keep the baby and raise it. We're going to be so different now, Mom. She's not old enough to be a mother and what about high school? What about dating guys? We have so much ahead of us."

'What about dating guys?' part is I'm afraid a sign of another connection to my Vivien Leigh life in terms of some lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) I had at the time I said those words. Now, after much suffering and learning, I realize that it's best to find a pair who is of similar spiritual affinity and with whom you have love, and you know you want to live together and have children in case of pregnancy.

Of course, dating doesn't mean having sex sometimes. But still, it is implied, I think, in the way I say it in MA life – e.g. dating guys in plural.

So currently I think people should get to know each other before having sex. That would take care of many problems – including diseases.

Later it says Missy was 14 and very close to losing her virginity. But the thought of going all the way scared her.

14. A very important age/number for me. I fell in love at first sight at this age. If there was no stammer maybe I'd have a gf at this age too for sex drive showed itself at 13.

Time of 2:44 PM is mentioned. I used to see/notice 33 a lot. Some time after finding my past life of VL I started seeing 53 (the age I died at in that life). I'd also constantly see other numbers during various periods, including 44 I believe.

It was 3:30 PM when Detective Catherine Scott and Lieutenant Ed Emerson came to the crime scene.

It was almost exactly 4 days (but from what I understand, 4 days since Missy said the final words to Irene – "I love you". The murder itself happened some time after.)

Then it's described in the book what the consequences of the log lying on top of my past life's body for 4 days were like…

It's not quite easy to read these things about my old body… thankfully I was prepared by life several months ago when I had to look at Black Daliah photos and then saw dead Sharon Tate – I had to look after a video on YouTube showed Black Daliah's dead body without warnings… it was fight or flight situation and I decided to man up – after all it's life and some people have to deal with these things all the time (it's their work).

Anyway, about the arched look. I don't know if it's related or not to my past dead body somehow, but due to small space in my room I had to constantly sit not straight and I noticed the arch in my spine going a bit sideways. It's awful. I might suffer for this life's errors of not thinking well about the consequences to my body, and maybe the past errors are at play here also… given the noise was and is still at play, guiding the way the furniture HAS TO BE arranged in my room…

Page 70. The last paragraph says the woman detective was 5 feet 10, which is 1.77 meters – pretty much my height in this current body. I found her story also of interest; she was beautiful and smart, and sought a different job – "seeking something more adventurous than secretarial work". I mean, she had to investigate the murder of Michele Avila who was the famous actress Vivien Leigh in the past life… I'm not surprised there's a special story behind the detective who took the case. (10.04.2024 – since then I've found several more of my past lives, as you know by now, and my conclusions have been reinforced even more. Actually, NOW it makes a LOT more sense the detective, Catherine Scott, would have a special story to tell about her life.)

Also I can't help but remember now how I decided I didn't want to spend my life in the office and went to search something else for myself… it was the secretary named Natasha (different person from my niece or from Natasha who looked somewhat similar to Michele Avila) who played a role in me deciding that I don't want to spend time in the office too.

As I keep reading about the detective, I can't help but see new resemblances across my three lives (Vivien, Missy, me) – my soul's progression.

Catherine Curtis knew she wasn't a slut or a whore…

I don't wish to say badly about myself in VL life, but the things I did kinda point to those two words… and in this life, as I mentioned before, I came to the conclusion people need to know each other and be sure they want to live together and have kids in case of pregnancy before having sex (marriage has little to do with it being just a custom).

Then her story has some similarities to what I experienced in Vivien's life during my marriage to Leigh Holman. We were both determined to follow our dreams despite our husbands having other ideas.

So again no surprises this woman worked on my case.

Kingsbury speculates Missy must have tried hard to free herself from the attackers.

Sadly, I might know from experience a portion of what I might have experienced in those final moments. I mentioned that thing elsewhere. It concerns a bag and is connected to me in VL life playing 4 characters who had to deal with ending of their own life to some degree.

Then I wonder if that tragedy had something to do with the fact I tried to stay clear from fights in this life? In fact I was even afraid of them

Missy was 4 feet 11, weighted 97 pounds, had brown hair and Brown (?) eyes.

Don't know why Karen writes brown eyes when they're green.

Anyway, I hope the information about the weight is correct. It's 44 kilograms.

There were no drugs or alcohol found in Missy's body. Just a 0.03% alcohol reading.

Missy's father would bring her a candy or a toy. He'd remark about her pretty hair and long dark eyelashes.

My mother would say I had long eyelashes too. Recently I've noticed other similarities between my 2 past bodies (Vivien & Michele).

Also, my father in this life would also bring sweats and other things pretty much whenever he'd visit us.

Missy's 14. Her father leaves the family. The separation angered and confused Michele.

About separation between Ernie Sr. and Irene, which affect MA. Maybe there's some connection to VL life in which Suzanne lived almost without her mother. In this life I lived mostly with my mother only. Clearly, I'm still paying the penalty for some mistake, and it probably has to do with not taking a good care of my children in my past life or lives.

Page 86 talks about MA switching schools and her grades tanking. As I said in sync video the similar thing happened to me after 9th grade.

MA bought a black biker jacket and started listening to heavy metal rock music.

It reminded me of how I wanted to buy a similar jacket also at one point.

Missy describes herself as 'Impatient'. I in VL life was often described as impenitent and it describes me also. (#psyche-data)

MA also writes she 'fears Big roller coasters, windy days. And the ocean.'

Missy loved the ocean when she was a little girl. Then she got caught in a strong undertow. She had nightmare she'd drown [in the ocean] after that incident.

So that explains it. In my VL life I could swim in the ocean for hours apparently. MA loved the ocean as a little girl – loved – so this one checks out. Also, I have had some fear of deep water and ocean is certainly falls under the definition. Might be related. (Found a reflection in GWtW)

Also, that dream might be considered the true dream in 2 regards. 1) It could have been prophetic since MA was drowned. 2) If my theory about Titanic is correct, then the dream could also show the past – but I give little chance to this right now. Regardless, I've had numerous true (prophetic and at least 1 telling about the past; 10.04.2024 – I've had a lot of dreams telling small pieces of truths about the past and about the Universe.) dreams;

As for wind I can only think about Gone With the Wind. I also remember one peculiar episode from my life. I was walking near Izmailovo hotel (maybe it was 2007-8?) and out of the blue a very strong wind started blowing at me, and I started having difficulties breathing. I actually felt like I could suffocate – strange – and I think I actually ran to get out from that highly windy spot. After that I'd avoid that place until I forgot about the incident when I was often walking to Izmailovo park for walks and maybe to meet someone (gf). This is a sync possibly connecting all my 3 lives – VL, MA, mine. (#curious)

Then I remember how we dug out those two rocks from the ground near my house in our village. The strong wind started blowing hard when we decided to bury them back.

"Who needs love, comfort, and caring" could relate to VL and even to me at a young age (still need love).

"Who gives friendship, advice . . . And second chances." Again, this connects with VL and me.

MA write she was lover of music. I had MTV as a home page at one point in my browser when I was in school. I almost each day listened to the music on the radio and then watched video clips on TV. So, I was/am still a lover of music. In VL life I also had some records nearby to listen to.

Thoughts on big roller coasters (could be totally off): I read in a review about Vivien Leigh's biography that the career brought her (me) high and low and everything in between, comparing that life of mine to a fascinating roller coaster. This made me remember my VL's mood swings (which I've had in this life too but to highly lesser extent I think), and since now I know I was Missy too I theorize if those big roller coasters could have raised some psychological data from within and I started to be afraid of them for their sudden highs and sudden lows (so they became a representation of that manic depression [bipolar disorder])?

Note: on 15 February 2024 I had a dream in which VL was in a color movie made in her youth; LO was also in it. The title was something like: "the all there is to it", and some letters were replaced – similarly how Missy and Missie pronounced the same but spelled differently. When I Googled that movie title (adding vivien leigh) from my dream I clicked on the first link and read the review about VL.

29.04.2024. In '21 Days Together' movie there's a scene in which Vivien and Larry's characters (Wanda & Keith) ride on a big (I guess) roller coaster – 1:00:19. It's possible I suffered for some mistakes done in my Vivien Leigh movies in my Michele Avila life too, and maybe I got that fear of big roller coasters as a punishment for some error shown to the public in that movie. Wanda & Keith are shown to have a good time while an innocent man is being judged in court for Keith's murder (done in self-defense, but still). I feel like it is an error, and both of them are never shown to suffer for it.

Chrisy Crawford said Missy always looked at the marijuana as a way to escape the problems her mom and dad were having.

In this life my imagination became a way to escape from problems, and, thankfully, I've had no experience with any substances other than some mild alcohol.

Page 89 talks about Missy listening and singing to Scorpion's Lady Starlight song and then out of the blue asking to play that song at her funeral in case she dies.

Maybe another prophecy (like the ocean dream) or sensing of something. Obviously, it syncs with my life in terms of me having lots of spiritual experiences, including prophetic and true dreams.

People say 1984 was the year Karen's jealousy of Missy started consuming the place in the heart that still loved her.

1984 is the year the first Nightmare on Elm Street was released. I've got a lot of synchronicities with that movie, and those syncs were proven to be real and of high importance to me (my video about charlatans and how I overcame some of my fears)

Also, I understand the psychological process involved. I described it in my free book Simple Truths of Life. Essentially Karen needed not to become obsessed by her thoughts and needed to pay much more attention to what was happening in reality. What I call for now active knowledge was covered by obsessions and whatever else she decided to hold in her mind.

Page 91 talks about another Karen's lie. It got me thinking about importance of knowing Auras are real and also about the ability to see and read them. Because if you can do that then you can spot a person with bad intentions, you can probably tell a liar. This could literally save lives in some rare cases as I had in my past life. Makes me feel it's not a surprise Aura topic did save my life in this existence and also was one of the things to show me the truth of Michel Desmarquet's book. (#curious)

Karen also kinda acted like an actress in her lies. I don't know if there's some connection to the VL life… but it wouldn't be the last time she acted though…

Missy and Vic slept together while being friends. They felt it was part of their friendship.

Technically it was still an (#error) as I know now.

This goes in line with what I might have done in my VL life. Who knows what I would have done in my current life if I didn't start being afraid of speech because of stammer. Since I started watching erotic and then P movies, and also had that experience in early childhood, there is a chance that before finding TP and making new realizations I could have done similar things if I had the chance… I mean, even after TP, when I was 28 and started turning my life around, there was a period I tried to find a girl in sex dating websites, so.. clear similarity between all my 3 lives (VL, MA, myself), showing the identical lack of (#spiritual-knowledge) about certain life situations.

Missy and Laura started spending some time in the afternoons in Stonehurst Park playing Frisbee, drinking beer, and occasionally smoking a little pot.

Just noting I had played that too in this life probably still have the disk laying somewhere in my village. Of course, it's probably of no importance.

Page 102: Fireworks incident. Should have seen who Karen is and ended any communication with her.

At the end of the page there's a classic case of misunderstanding which I still keep experiencing in this current life. I've talked about some of those incidents in my book. But I also sometimes have [seemingly] minor misunderstandings. (#curious)

Page 103 mentions 20 minutes.

Missy would occasionally talk about living near a stream with mountains around, after getting married.

Other than being a prophecy, may also relate to the past life of Vivien Leigh. There were creeks and ponds near the houses I lived at in that life.

Missy: "I don't get it, Vic. Why does this keep happening to me? They're two of my best friends, but secretly they worry that I'm going to steal their boyfriends. Is it me, Vic? Do I do something wrong?"

And now I know the answer. I had to suffer this way for my past life's mistakes, the memory of which was erased in the River of Oblivion after VL's death.

Victor told Missy he had broken up with Laura. The two hugged and then Vic kissed Missy. Laura saw it from her car, which was parked 20 feet away.

One more 20.

Btw, I've found a lot of 20 numbers in Nightmare movie after watching it again after I already uploaded my Synchronicity video. At first, I didn't think them important I guess or just didn't notice for some reason.

Also, on this page depicted yet another misunderstanding I've experienced in my soul's life.

Then Missy whispered, "Vic, go talk to her. I don't want her to think there was anything between us."

This whole episode, or scene, actually reminded me of the scene in Gone With the Wind at 3:10:35, when India sees Scarlett and Ashley hugging (but not kissing). It could be another (#reflection) I have with my VL's movies and plays.

Victor thought: "Nice timing, Laura."

Another sign the Universe was guiding my life toward the inevitable – me paying for my old life's errors. It's interesting to note how these things work; although the exact process of why we just can't escape the consequences of our decisions (all types) is still not very clear… it would require to know a lot more details, including the details about other people's lives (including their past ones). For example, why did Laura just had to drive to Vic at that exact second to see what she saw and misinterpret it? I've had similarly timed events happen in my current life too, when it was clear that if I was just several seconds too late or too early then I wouldn't have experienced a certain important thing In my life… (E.g. me falling in love at first sight during 3 times which changed my life enormously)

Missy asks Vic after he talked to Laura, "What's wrong? She wasn't mad at me, was she?" Vic couldn't reveal her the truth because she was too sensitive, and friends matters a lot to Missy.

I'll tag this as (#psyche-data) or possible lack of certain (#spiritual-knowledge) for now. This actually may relate to my syncs with IT & Nightmare, which showed me that I grew up to some extent; became stronger psychologically – or became less sensitive.

"No. She was mad at me. I told her I didn't want her hanging around because it was all over between us, and she peeled off."

Missy appeared uncertain.

"Hey, Missy. Don't worry. She wasn't mad at you, I promise."

Perhaps if he told the truth maybe I wouldn't decide to go out with Laura on October 1… As I think atm, we do the things we think will benefit us, or at least won't harm, based on the spiritual and material knowledge we have regarding a particular situation in life…

Page 109 says Irene would regret not telling her daughter the details of Karen's visit, during which her true feelings were revealed. That could have saved my past life, but it all had to play out the way it did.

Page 112 starts off chapter 12. It's of great interest to read because it literally shows innocent Missy paying for the mistakes she never did in her life, but which clearly were done in the past life of Vivien Leigh (10.04.2024 – I'm assuming the actual murder could have been the payment for one of the errors in Cleopatra's life). The description of Karen's thoughts matches rather well my decisions in Vivien Leigh's life (of course I'd lived other lives before Vivien's life; I suspect I might have done errors in those lives also which might have also contributed to the fate I had to experience in Michele's life), but not in Michele Avila's life in which I was a new person (who possess the soul and intellect that once inhabited and controlled the body of Vivien Leigh). It's so unfair if we take only one life of Michele, but all becomes logical and fair if we take all lives of my soul that once inhabited Michele's body – especially since I probably had killed before (another possible true dream I had (10.04.2024 – probably that dream meant my Cleopatra's life)) and had to suffer for that also – hence I think that's why it had to be murder that I had to experience; if I didn't need to pay for murder, then maybe the events would have been the same, except I would have been just left beaten up at the creek to walk many long miles back home, wondering why this 'injustice' had to happen to me.

Obviously, the two criminals committed a huge error when they killed another person. Doesn't matter the fact that other person had to pay the penalty (for her own past life's crime). It's like a relay race, when one person (unknowingly) suffers for his crime, and the new criminal, making the error by killing that person, takes the penalty onto his soul, waiting to be punished by life and by some new criminal, liberating him from the old error (and hopefully he learns the lesson, of course, and never repeats the same crime again).

Page 117 begins chapter 14 which has this sentence:

"It was time to say good-bye."

Then the lines repeats. I found it to be (#curious) actually that I'd listen to a song by Sarah Brightman called 'Time To Say Goodbye' back in late summer of 2023 and I would think to myself that the song title fits very well to my thoughts at the time – it was time to say goodbye to Thiaoouba since at the time I had done all that I only could to try and share the book, my experiences and knowledge with people. I also thought that I had already learned the major things about life thanks to Thiaoouba and there was little for me to discover… how wrong I was when I finally realized I was Vivien Leigh and there IS a way to actually discover one's past lives without the ability to visit the Psychosphere!

After that I saw another reason for me finding that song at such a moment – it was time to say goodbye to old habits now that I knew the reasons for me suffering so much in this life. It was time to learn to live in a new way guided by the knowledge about my past lives. Learning who I was did change who I am now in other areas too – even if it's subtle.

I'll note here a possible sync I just realized could be present.

'Vic' is often written in the book (Victor Amaya). Old Vic Theatre was often part of my life in VL life.

Page 121: "Oh Missy. . . My precious, precious daughter. . . Why did you have to go when I need you so badly? . . . Did you struggle? Did it hurt? . . .

Sweetheart, I'm so sorry, so sorry I wasn't there to help you.

You're up in the stars now, but we'll meet again.

Someday, little girl, someday. When this life is finished and the pain is gone forever. Good-bye, Missy. A day won't go by when I don't ache for you, when I don't remember the little girl who slept in my arms and lay in a hospital bed poisoned by cleanser. Oh, God, why didn't you take her from me then? It would have been easier than this. No. It would have been worse. At least I had seventeen years with you, Missy. Seventeen years. Someday we'll meet again. I promise, Missy. Someday."

As I mentioned before there is a chance our souls will meet again.

Irene passed out at the funerals. She woke up in a hospital and it was 5 P.M.

Don't know if it was exactly 5 or not. I was born at 5 P.M. 15 minutes.

P 136 talks about Karen supposedly (she could have lied) seeing MA's ghost (19% of the electrons of the Universe). Technically it's possible. I've seen the ghost of my father shortly after his death.

The chapter talks about how Karen moved into Avila house and even slept in Missy's bed until she saw Michele's ghost. She was the killer living literally in the same house with her victim's family, and yet nobody sensed that; this reminded me of how we don't sense our past bodies even if we see them on the screen – as was the case with me, watching GWtW in my childhood. It's another sign of how knowledge is important; how it can change our perception of reality.

Brian Taylor and Katy Vincent were good friends of Victor's.

Most likely nothing. VL's character's name in GWtW was Katie Scarlett. In VL life I was in several movies with Robert Taylor.

Laura sent a card with 20-dollar bill to Irene.

Page 140 mentions how Stephnie, Karen's little daughter, suddenly started saying:

"Missy, Missy! Missy in water, she in water!" And then: "Missy in water, Missy go in water."

The detectives thought Karen must have told her 3-year-old daughter the details of Missy's murder.

Karen stopped sleeping in Missy's bed, but she was still sitting in her chair during meals.

This quote reminded me of my aunt Tanya who once tried to make me go away from the seat near the window, which she liked too I guess. Another of my aunts, Zina, almost cursed at her for that and that was the end of it. I do remember mentioning this when I was talking about possible reflections of movies I was in in my lives: this episode of life reminds me of me playing Cleopatra in VL life and having to throw the guy off the throne/seat.

(after Karen made her daughter look like a young woman) Karen: “There. You look just like Auntie Missy.”

Creepy… actually reminded me of another obsessed person; only he’s seemingly obsessed about Vivien Leigh, writing stories about my ghost which can’t be true for they contradict common sense and TP… I felt a bit uneasy [about that situation] once I knew for a fact I was Vivien.

Some of Missy’s friends were willing to kill for her sake.

Through various experiences in my life, and also thanks to Thiaoouba, I’ve realized violence is not a solution. I try to live by this motto.

Libershal remembered that there were white canvas tennis shoes on Missy’s body, her legs crossed, and an arm stiffened behind the back. Her face – pinned by a log - was under 8 inches of water.

(#curious) as I mentioned elsewhere in my VL life I watched a tennis match on the day of my death. In my current life I heard Thao say ‘Look!’ during a tennis match. And tennis shoes were mentioned before in this book also.

Also of interest is that in this chapter a movie crew was filming “just a hundred yards downstream from” (Page 171) where MA was killed. Clearly if there’s some another Universal interconnection between lives it must have to do with Michele being an actress (Vivien Leigh) in her past life; who did several movies in Hollywood also.

And I might have mentioned it, but in Alexander Walker’s books it’s said on page 128 that ‘As God is my witness, I’ll never be hungry again’ scene was filmed in the San Fernando Valley. I’ve found that the stealing and killing part was unnecessary. There could be some further connection to why it had to be also a valley where they killed me in Michele’s life…

Page 182. Karen reminds me of several people I met online (thankfully) in my life. They’d also cling to some random small ‘clues’ making their wild fantasies/theories real; accusing other people of some crime they most likely never committed. Of course, Karen knew the truth, she was acting like an actress, but still…

Karen went to a beauty school and met there a girl, Lynne Robbins, who lost a friend to sude. Kingsbury notes that it was strange how the two of them had so much in common.

Thanks to my synchronicity experiences and just having some knowledge about life I don’t find it strange at all. Looks like these things happen all the time. Somehow people who must meet each other will meet no matter what.

Page 187 mentions 14-month-old murder.

Lynne was in Karen's room, which made her feel very uneasy. She saw a big picture of Missy on her dresser; walls were covered with Missy's photographs of different ages; news articles were present.

Creepy.

Also, it's funny how seemingly the same situation may have different reasons behind them. After finding out my past lives I printed out some pictures of Vivien Leigh to remind me of my past life – it helped me. I also have saved pictures of Michele after it was clear I was her also after all. I did it for the sake of memory and also for the research of reincarnation (one does not usually get to find one's life and be able to see at his or her old physical body). So, I don't think there's anything wrong with my actions given the reasons behind them.

Page 209: Chapter 33 talks again about Eva's nightmares. It got me thinking. Since I found my past lives (and even thought Vivien life as the first to be confirmed to be mine [now I realize it had to have been for there's actual undisputed proof to be found in my Vivien bios], it was Michele Avila actually, who was the first with whom I had found many synchronicities – even more than with Vivien at the time of making my videos about syncs), I got a feeling these clearly unusual events (Eva's nightmares, Karen's madness, detective's determination and personal feelings about Missy, etc) might have a bigger reason behind them. The one of reasons being for me to find out about Michele Avila, finding synchronicities, which would eventually lead me to finding my 2 past lives. If it wasn't for Eva's nightmares and the sude of her brother, then it's possible I would not have found my 2 lives.

4:14 A.M.

Later in the page Eva's older brother calls her to tell about their brother's sude… Eva starts to understand what it felt like for Avila family to lose someone they loved. Eventually this will make her tell the truth about who killed… me.

After 4 months in Vegas, Eva and Steven were going back to LA. (It also said 3 hours later.)

4 (clearly, if this number has a sync meaning, synchronicities are part of many people's lives. So, the same number may appear to different people during similar circumstances other people have experienced)

I'll note Eva was living in Las Vegas with her bf when she heard the news. In my Michele's diary I wrote how I visited Las Vegas when I was 10 in Missy's life.

Chapter 34 made me remember a thought I've had. I know thanks to Thiaoouba about Bakaratinians' method of getting to the truth – telepathy. If we knew telepathy was real and knew how to use it then Karen and Laura would have been caught a lot more sooner, I'm almost positive. Interesting that this murder situation and the telepathy theme from Thiaoouba are so close to me now that I know who I was in the very last past life.

(About Eva) When her dreams returned, Allen had been dead for almost 4 months.

(July 25, 1988 – 5 days before my birth. Eva has decided to tell the truth and calls her brother Jack whose father is a police officer.)

"Sure, baby. No problem. I'll meet you at your apartment as soon as I leave here. About five-fifteen. That okay with you?"

5:15 (17:15) was the exact time I was born on July 30, 1988! (#curious) (I hope that the time is accurate and based on what Eva told Karen Kingsbury during Karen's research for the book. Even if not, it's still of interest that it's such a perfect match)

The mystery behind my passing in my last life was finally revealed (the next day – 26 - was the official date), ending the 3-year search, and my new life would start exactly 5 days later. I was softly crying looking for the picture of my birth tag, showing the date I was born…

Also, Karen calls the officer Steven. The name is probably not real, but I did use it as my alias at one point in my life; it's one of possible syncs I've mentioned in my video about syncs with IT & Nightmare movies.

Eva's apartment was on the 3-rd floor.

There was one apartment located on the 3-rd floor; and it's connected to Natasha, whose looks remind me somewhat of that black and white photo of Michele Avila.

Then Kingsbury mentions a loud fan in Eva's apartment. Perhaps it's nothing but made me remember the nightmare I had to deal with when air conditioners didn't allow me sleep normally.

The third cycle of the nightmare Irene was having reminded me of that car scene from the first Nightmare on Elm Street movie, where the teens were also trapped in the car and couldn't get out.

[ADDITION. When I searched for 'nightmare' word [in Kingsbury's book] and read just this part I thought Irene had this nightmare before the killers were caught. It's still of interest though]

Irene has a nightmare about Karen and Laura – Missy's friends. In her heart she knew they would not hurt her daughter, but deep inside she was convinced they did kill Missy.

Before there's a long description of Irene's nightmare. Today is 18 December 2023. I had a dream which I wrote about in My Diary and I thought maybe it's about me having already the answers but still asking questions and having doubts and being very cautious not to make a mistake. Interesting that I have to find out about probably my past mother's nightmare exactly today…

So, Irene literally had the answer shown to her in the nightmare but couldn't fully accept it is the truth. (#curious)

Karen and Laura were ordered to remain at Sybil Brand Institute for Women in East Los Angeles.

Just reminded me of character Cybil (C vs S) in Silent Hill video game. Since I've found some possible syncs with the game – e.g. Toluca Lake, Sullivan – I'm gonna mention this one also. Silent Hill town is a type of punishment for criminals I might also add.

It's about a reporter who wanted interview Karen in jail. The person was told to sit in booth number 14.

Page 255 talks how Randy happens to find the article, saying Karen was charged with murder of Missy. Again, sometimes life as if guides us to finding the important to us things. I feel like I've found my Michele life the same way – I just searched a bit about her and then I was overwhelmed by synchronicities, wondering what they could mean…

Laura was taking computer programming courses.

Before that the book said Randy also studied programming.

This time I decided to make a note of this because I used to briefly work as a web programmer on freelancer.com

Doubt it's a sync but who knows at this point. The name of the Judge was Jack B. Tso; and the last partner in VL life was Jack Merivale.

Then the book says Karen and Laura did make a stop before they reached their destination. I don't know the details, but wonder if this was an opportunity to save myself by running out? Of course, I'd need to know or realize it was a matter of life or death…

Eva: "When Laura was in there she had tennis shoes on and it came up to, well, I guess you could call it her lower shin or just above her ankles."

Tennis reference again.

Another tennis match reference on page 303, but this time it's coming from the book's author Karen Kingsbury.

Coroner Dr. Eva Heuser talks about the injuries to Missy's body.

Maybe the coroner's real name was changed for the book. But then I found this article (July 16, 1995), mentioning her name https://www.latimes.com/archives/la-xpm-1995-07-16-tm-24327-story.html

So, it looks like the name wasn't changed but Karen K. never mentioned that.

Another Eva. Ива (Eva) is a willow tree. It's one of syncs I noticed with Michele who also played with Karen under a willow when they were kids.

It's about the video showing just how long the path from the cars to the murder scene was. Karen and Laura had plenty of opportunities to change their minds.

When I was first watching Mr. Ballen's video about Missy's murder, not yet knowing I was that girl in my past life, at the point when Karen and Laura were taken Missy down the final path to the creek I said to Missy in my head: "Run!". It was the first and only time I did that (mentally said something to the victim) watching Mr. Ballen's videos or anyone else's.

It may be connected to several unique thoughts I had about Vivien Leigh when I yet didn't know I was that woman in one of my past lives. One has to do with me noting name 'Leigh' and wondering why the actress had that last name. Another one has to do with people commenting Vivien Leigh played herself in her movies, which made me surprised for I had a different thought about Vivien Leigh, thinking her to be a family woman. Then when I was about to watch GWtW for the first time in English maybe there was something in the back of my consciousness. All of those things never happened on account of anyone else; the people involved proved to be my past lives later. (#curious)

"You see, Cindy Silverio has a very difficult time dealing with death, with the finality of death. So she doesn't want to see what happened in the stream and she cries and cries. For twenty minutes."

Don't know if it was actually 20, but this number is still present during a negative event.

(About Tamia) She took the elevator to the 6-th floor.

The 6-th floor detail is very important. It could be a sync with a situation I had in my life. It was the 6-th floor where the publishing company was located. Their employee gave me a different contract to sign than what I'd read; The date was 20.02.2020 and it's brought up by other syncs and connections I have with VL (e.g. how adding 53 [age of VL] to the year of death [1967] gives 2020; 1985 + 17 gives 2002 in which year I was 14 and made a fateful decision in my life. [2020 and 2002 share the same digits only a bit rearranged).

[I might add that 1912 + 25 (year Butler on Titanic died and his age) gives 1937, the year in which I in VL life slept with Larry almost in front of his wife Jill, while we were doing Hamlet in Elsinore; that may connect to why I had to be drowned in a creak – provided I was the Butler, but so far I got no answer about that.]

Page 330 mentions that certain people became Christian.

A point about how spiritual advancement works. First people don't believe in God and creation; then something bad happens to them (they suffer for their errors) and some people start seeking reasons for it, and some would start believing in a religion; then they will come to understanding that one needs to know and not believe [in what actually the truth] (possibly from suffering for believing a lie or a distortion in a religious text); then further refinements will occur also until the soul is finally perfect and ready to reunite with the Spirit.

The verdict, convicting both Karen and Laura of a 2-nd degree murder, was announced 8 days before Missy's birthday (born on February 8).

Irene speaks before courtroom: "Your honor, I am hoping and praying that my family will see justice done once and for all in this case. Missy's brothers will never know what their sister could have been, we will never watch her grow into a beautiful young woman, never know what she could have contributed to this society"

Maybe nothing but in Michele's next life of mine I contributed to the society by honestly speaking about my Thiaoouba related experiences; I tried to share Thiaoouba book – a very important book – with the rest of humanity… it looks like, if all goes well, I'm going to work on sharing the truth about reincarnation too…

12.04.2024. I can't say it enough: The knowledge in the Thiaoouba book can help people enormously. Auras, reincarnation, Higher Selves, Universal Laws, The Purpose of the Universe and all of us being a part of the Superior Intelligence [The Spirit, God, the Father, etc.], etc., all these topics are highly important to know if people don't want to make serious errors in their lives and then suffer greatly for them.

The specific details of the last 20 minutes of my Missy past life are unknown.

Karen Severson: "Missy wasn't as innocent as everyone thinks."

These words match those written by an anonymous poster on this forum https://www.tapatalk.com/groups/cmm/michele-missy-yvette-avila-murdered-by-friends-kar-t3570514.html

I said in my sync video that it's possible even Michele's killer could have written that. So it might be a lie. It's known from the book that Karen did pretend to be Missy on the phone, damaged cars, and did other nasty things. She's certainly capable of creating a simple profile on a forum to post one anonymous comment, trying to degrade Missy once more.

Laura's car was red Volkswagen bug (beetle). It’s the last car I drove in in Missy’s life.

My father’s last name was Zhukov (Жуков), which means a bug, beetle.

Sh. Avila’s Documentary

In the evening of 23.05.2026 I started watching this video https://youtu.be/JPHnF3rowqs?si=YOvucT5Nvu59sO99. There was a recording of my voice! I finally hear my Missy’s voice!

Go on Miss Severson.

00:00:14,000 --> 00:00:16,000
What's your name?

00:00:16,000 --> 00:00:20,000
My name is [Missy?] Michele Avila.

00:00:20,000 --> 00:00:21,000
How old are you?

00:00:21,000 --> 00:00:23,000

I'm 11.

00:00:23,000 --> 00:00:25,000
Do you have any animals?

10
00:00:25,000 --> 00:00:28,000
Yes, I have a cat. He's white and his name is Frosty.

11
00:00:28,000 --> 00:00:30,000
Is that why you named him Frosty? Because he's super white?

12
00:00:30,000 --> 00:00:33,000
Yeah, I got him from my friend.

13
00:00:33,000 --> 00:00:34,000
What's her name?

14
00:00:34,000 --> 00:00:35,000
April. April [Stroff?].

15
00:00:35,000 --> 00:00:39,000
She's one of my second best friends.

16
00:00:39,000 --> 00:00:40,000
Who's your first?

17
00:00:41,000 --> 00:00:43,000
Um... Karen Severson.

It was May 22, 2026 when that video was released. In the dream of January 22, 2026 I heard myself (Missy) talk in a video. Exactly 4 months had passed since then (and also exactly 120 days). And today I did not expect my old self to sound like that (this happened only when I say my name in the recording) – somewhat similar to that dream.

Betrayal theme – something I saw in 22.01.2026's dream - is, obviously, very present during this moment.

Decembre 26, 1979 “Interview”.
Karen S. interviews me (MA).
Reminded me that in Vivien’s life I gave several interviews.

Had a white cat named Frosty. 2nd best friend April gave it to me.
Just noting April Morn was one of stage names I thought of in Vivien’s life.

Roller skater. Was good at it. Friend Heather said we went there every Friday and Saturday.
I had some dreams about roller skates, with 18 January, 2021 being of note as it showed 3 girls (there were 3 other girls with me when I, MA, died) and I was then set up (lied).
In this life I almost bought rollers-skates when I was little. My father was with us (mother was in the store too, I think) and maybe it was him who thought I seemed uneasy in them and decided it’s best not to buy them? I’m not so sure now. Father was concerned for my safety on many occasions; for example, he wasn’t too enthusiastic of motorcycles – it is much safer inside of a 4-wheel car, that’s for sure. There are 2 photos of me being on roller skates in Sokolniki; I was there with mother in 2000 or 2001; but I have no memory of that day now and don’t remember myself roller skating in this life.
Skateland Northridge was located at 18140 Parthenia Street. I’ll note Scotty Bowers’ daughter, Donna, went to California State University which is located just 1.4 km to the north.

Chris says I had big heart.

Heather says my (MA) biggest downfall was trusting everyone.
This probably relates to the recent events in my life too. Not that there was anything I could do about it.

At 2:17 there’s a picture of me (MA) wearing red cloths, a tiara, and a ribbon on which written “Miss Arleta”.
I have notes about tiara in this book.
I’ll note here that when I was little my mother and I watched Miss… America, I believe it was (or something like that). We were in our village house. On the next day we and Vova were walking to the pond or river and that was mentioned during our talks.

At 15:-- Laura is shown sitting in jail by a cell.

It’s the cell number 26. 27th is seen further behind her. The 26 number was the catalyst to finding my past life of Missy and then others.

It says on the web page above that someone said this about Missy:
"Missy wasn't the sweet innocent angel she was portrayed to be, which she definitely WAS NOT. I grew up with Missy and I knew Karen in school as well. I never met Laura, but the few times I saw her with Missy and Karen, she gave me the creeps. As for Missy, she was one of the meanest people I ever knew. She was the worst bully I ever encountered as a child and I never saw any other side to her. She was just as awful as the friends that killed her. There were a lot of people who couldn't stand her."

Future Lives

Viktoria?

45-th life.

Maybe will be called Viktoria, Vika.

Should be a female who will maybe have blonde-white hair and plump lips.

Maybe will be born in the Central Administrative Okrug of Moscow, Russia.

I might be a tennis player.

Natasha from village had/has plump lips. Some guys at one short time made jokes about it and she didn't quite like it. I didn't say anything, from what I remember, and I don't think I reacted in a negative way. I feel that maybe I thought she had nothing to worry about; the 2 guys had just nothing better to do, picking on people's appearances.

I see no issues in such lips. In fact, some people make operations to make their lips look plump, fuller.

There's a Dinamo tennis court in that central Moscow region. I had some references to Dinamo (from Running Man) around the time I received answers about my future life.

In this life of Evgeny I walked many times in that okrug. But I still have a lot to explore there…

Long time ago I was watching Nastya play PUBG, I believe, and she, sitting silently, laughed at something. She turned to the camera to say she just thought of something funny. A chatter then wrote something like - Когда сказал шутку сам себе (When you told a joke to yourself).

With my imagination… let's just say I've been in that same situation. Actually, I experienced it on August 13, 2026 when I went outside to have a bit of fresh air near my house.

Since she'll probably be my future mother, I thought I'd mention this trivia.

46-th life.

I will look like Maelle from Clair Obscur: Expedition 33.

Should be a female, of course.

Should be born in Walsh County, North Dakota, USA.

From my September 10, 2025 diary entry:

Of interest is that the county has: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nelson_County,_North_Dakota as one of its neighbors. Emma H. and Nelson possible connection;

Waterloo Lake. Vivien and maybe Angelo possible connections.

There's a township Dewey. The words the girl was saying relate to Wes Craven's Scream movie (Stu says those words at almost the end of the film). It was like the two movies of his were merged. Dewey is one of the key characters in Scream films.

Jesse name. As Vivien I played a character called Jessica Morton in Bats in the Belfry. According to Google the name Jessica is a feminine form of the male name Jesse. Both names share biblical roots. Jessica was popularized by Shakespeare.

Of other notes, I decided to see what North Dakota is like. The first video I watched was this https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vunadbCOTq8

At about 16-17-th minute he says he was on the 3-rd street, 3-rd avenue.

Then at about 23-34-th minute he talks a bit about social justice warrior. SJW part made me remember that dream about Margaret Mitchell's new incarnation in which she is a SJW.

The place he walks in is close to the steep hills/mountains. They are higher than the slope I climbed in my dream, but I'd say just as steep.

"For Those Who Come After" is the lines from Expedition 33. Each expedition has left a note, their findings, to help other expeditions and generations who will come after they're gone.

I've been doing a similar thing in writing my books, documents, and videos. I want my findings and understandings to help "those who [will] come after" I'm dead. In fact, I might be the one who will find my past life's (of Evgeny Meshkov) documents and will maybe continue my research if the stars align again. Obviously, I'll probably have other interests and life situations to deal with in my next lives.

Of note is that the current population of Walsh County is around 10k people. Population of Moscow's Central District is about 77 times larger – around 774k people. The number 7 has often appeared in my lives.

Maelle. Add name definition synchs https://www.behindthename.com/name/mae12lle is a feminine form of https://www.behindthename.com/name/mae12l which means "prince, chieftain, lord". I was a prince and princess in my past lives, and I was a leader too.

Dark Queen from Battletoads videogame turns into a tornado. I saw tornadoes when I searched for North Dakota videos; apparently, they are common there; GwtW was brought up to mind, as well my other wind-related experiences. Also, as a child I often watched the move Twister with Bill Paxton and Helen Hunt.

The Dark Queen also holds her hands up, and I noticed that I sometimes hold my hands in a similar way when I'm in bed and ready to sleep – so my hands are behind me resting on the pillow. It's alike a habit I had and didn't notice.

When damaged there's a bloody cut on the upper lip to the right, which is exactly where I got a similar cut when I bit my chapped lip and I got a lifelong scar from that.

Life's Errors

What errors from VL's, and possible other lives (once, hopefully, I uncover them also), were not suffered for? Meaning I will have to pay for them in the future (either in this life or in some other).

Cheating

Cheating on Leigh multiple times. While VL's affair with LO was frowned upon by people – as LO said they were even spat on (if true) – I don't suppose VL quite paid in full for other times she cheated, including cheating on LO (Scotty Bowers, Peter Finch – perhaps to some degree…).

Now, IF I was Michele Avila – I feel like that was paying for sleeping with someone else's bfs and husbands – so it was from the perspective of women who were cheated on.

I doubt the perspective of men who were cheated on was covered – I think it should be; and in case V slept with married or engaged men, then 1 affair negatively influenced 2 people essentially.

So, I feel like I could have in store for me the experience of being cheated on and my lover possibly leaving me for someone else. (Note: does me not having a gf all my life so far count? Or it's me paying for having casual s*x with people in VL's life only?)

Cancer

Sadly, in VL life I just had to say how lucky was a woman who died at 33 (32 or 34 maybe). The other problem is she died from cancer.

It's possible that me dying at young age of 17 in MA life was linked to that statement.

But I'm afraid there's a possibility I might experience cancer at some point – in this or other life(ves). Also in this life I made a stupid mistake of saying the words I instantly regretted saying – also involves cancer… There was 17 th page of a Bible I have which showed the passage about why I shouldn't say such things.

Possible past lives' Errors I had to suffer for in VL's life:

Abandonment in early childhood (possibly connected to Emma Hamilton if I was her also). In the Japanese doc it's said (~19:35) that I in VL life said I was lonely in the first English school. 'Is it any wonder I'm a bit of a wreck' is what they say VL's words were on that situation. I clearly suffered then.

Flora Fraser's book about EH on page 41 says as EH I agreed to put little Emma to a boarding school. It must be the error.

Bipolar/manic depression episodes.

It reminds me of my stuttering – I could not have gotten it but I did (I mean here that I could be still a witness to my dad hitting my mother, but my speech could remain normal).

Same in my VL life; some speculate the abandonment could have caused that mental issue, as well as the miscarriage amplifying it. But it seems to me I did nothing in VL life to have that mental problem, so it probably payment for past error – but which?

They say I had no recollection of many episodes but was apologetic about them. If so then it's another hint that was me suffering for some past lives' error.

I had psychological issues regarding my hands and neck. The way they looked. I'd wear gloves to hind my 'paws' as I called them in VL life.

Manifestations of past errors in my current life:

If I was MA: (if I wasn't then none of the following is correct)

Was beaten up for sleeping with men of other women.

Died by being drowned for sleeping with other women's boyfriends and husbands in VL's life. Regardless of whether MA slept with other girls' bfs or not – it's quite rare that someone ends up dead Just for that thing alone; a lot of other things have fallen into pieces here…

Stutter.

Homosexual experience in early childhood (6 years; lasting several summers)

My parents quarreled (1 of reasons I started stammering) and VL quarreled also with LO. It's possible that was some type of paying for old mistake too.

Mother left father and I've been living with my ma all my life. VL split with Leigh and Suzanne was not seeing her mom a lot of times too. It's similar to my interactions with my father. Possible suffering for old error also and experiencing what's it like to live away from one of parents (again).

Errors I haven't found clear reasons for:

Skepticism is one of reasons why I'm still single and lonely. It certainly adds negativity to my life and so it's certainly an error. I don't think I did anything in my life to deal with skepticism. I haven't found much in VL (actually I did listen to Finch's stories about souls etc, so by that time I did have some spiritual knowledge already it seems) or MA (assuming I was her) lives either. So it must be an error (or errors) I did in life/lives I lived before VL.

As Cleopatra I claimed to be incarnation of ISIS ("theologically, she had been resurrected as that goddess" – from quora). Could be related, and there could be other sources for me having to deal with skepticism. Reasoning: I assume many people believed Cleo was reincarnated ISIS, but it was most likely not true. An error then. So now I'm telling the truth but many people don't believe me this time.

Being ignored may relate to skepticism because that usually the reason for people ignoring my findings and experiences.

Distortions of truth(s) about me in several of my lives – Vivien Leigh, Michele Avila.

VL: It's just some authors who published their books full of imaginary tales, saying in VL life I was having s*x with whoever knows how many people, including women, I guess. They also say nonsensical things about Larry Olivier, claiming he was gay and things of that nature. They provide no evidence and there is no evidence to claim the things they do about me or Larry. The authors probably think since the people they write about fairy tales are dead nobody can prove their writings wrong… but there is a way…

MA: Shavaun Avila was saying her "medium" things (along with her friend Sabrina) which, in my opinion, do not exist in reality – so draw your own conclusions here. The two of them don't know what happens after the death of a physical body. They just say the things which Bible says, but that book was also distorted. Shavaun said she had a documentary and also a book about Michele Avila's murder – and they tried several times to make it appear like the spirits of Michele and Irene (MA's mother) endorsed the doc and book – it seemed to me like advertising to try and profit off murder. She also said there are new things to reveal about the murder case. I'm skeptical about that; given her opposite-to-reality-words about the medium thing, it's my personal opinion that lies could be invented down the road about Michele Avila – me.

Now, while there are some distortions the truth is still intact also in other books which can still be obtained. But it got me thinking what if I was involved in distorting some truth(s) about something or someone in past life(ves) and now am suffering for it?

Life's Benefits

We suffer for errors, but we get benefits for our correct decisions too. I list episodes from my lives which could indicate a reward for a right decision I made in the past. I don't know what exactly I did which resulted in me having these situations in life.

Yellow entity. It helped me understand there's more to this world than what is generally accepted.

My experiences with Thiaooubians, which proved that not only they exist, but also Michel D. book has to be true. In turn this resulted in me studying the book a lot and coming to certain understandings about life. It helped me live through some of my difficulties.

Life events leading up to me finding my two past lives.

Synchronicities with Movies, Videogames, Books, Music Videos

Clair Obscur: Expedition 33

Tonight, at around 1:15+ AM, I watched Elajjaz finish his first playthrough of Clair Obscur: Expedition 33. (Some Spoilers below!) It's been a long time since I watched a playthrough of a story-based game. Of course, the number 33 being very close to me – I see it each day, and it has a deep meaning in my life – did catch my attention and interest. Yesterday Ela put 33 in all of his characters attributes so that the last boss fight wouldn't be too easy on his otherwise over-leveled characters. And 33 has been seen a lot, of course, throughout me watching him play this game.

I knew that many people praised the game – and I see why now. It is good. The game's music is very good also.

It's not a big surprise that I found several parallels to my own existence in Expedition 33. Actually, the plot's underlying idea is very similar to my current life, and I started seeing myself in Maelle sometimes. It's something like sometimes I saw myself in movie characters who are close to me. The most clear example of that was in the menu when Maelle faces us and looks to the right and down from us; it often felt like I'm looking at myself. I wondered if in one of my past lives I looked similar to how the model looks. I did have red hair as Emma Hamilton. Maelle's a paintress and I painted a bit in Vivien's life.

Alicia (Maelle) is a burn victim. She's missing her right eye (there's a possible synchroneity to my Nefertiti statue missing left eye, and me having issues with that eye in this life and in Vivien's when I wore a black eyepatch); and she also has clear scars on her face (I have had a scar on my lip which influenced my life rather heavily);

She can't talk too (some connection to my stammering; there was a moment in my life when I couldn't utter a single word);

When Alicia (Maelle) entered the painting, she was reborn (game's unexpected reincarnation theme which is so close to me now) as Maelle after being overwhelmed by her mother's – Aline / The Paintress – power; Maelle forgot her past life and lived a new life in the painted world (in my own words and how I see it). Then she remembered who she is and the truth about her family and the canvas/painting. Recently I found synchronicities with Divinity: Original Sin game. One of them had to do with the fact the main characters were kinda incarnations of someone else, and they remembered who they are as the story progressed. "Remembering who you are" theme is also part of Expedition 33, as it turned out. I as if also "remembered" who I am in my research of my past incarnations (except irl you can't have actual memories from your past lives return to you).

I got tearful watching the opening and knowing Sophie will die. Emotions got to me maybe also because I recently confirmed Ela's past life, and it seemed quite fitting that it was his first playthrough of this game that I happened to finally watch properly. There are connections in the game to him too, I think.

(Tears would fall many times during my watching of this game's playthrough and then reading its plot for missed pieces.)

Started seeing myself in Maelle after learning about her true self, the real story. It's not surprise since in her story there are many parallels to my issues with my daydreaming.

I started daydreaming to escape from reality I couldn't deal with when I was 14, and Maelle wanted to stay in the painting to escape from her reality.

I wanted to get rid of that daydreaming habit long time ago, but it proved to be difficult. Maelle first saying she'd return to real world but then wishing to stay in the painting where she can be whom she wanna be is another parallel to me.

Her finally returning back home from the painting (if the player makes this choice) reminded me that enough is enough and I DO need to start living here and now again, and learn to deal with my problems. (I was very successful at that years ago; I know what to do.)

She mentioned once something about being in a room (due to her health).

At the end of the game Maelle says she has life in the painting, while she's got life in a body of a shell in the real world. She wants to stay in that – what I'd call imaginary but hyper realistic – world. There's a choice to make if she's to return to real life and learn to live in her damaged body, basically, or if she's to stay in the canvas and have a perfect, but not quite real life. I think the first choice is correct and Ela chose it also.

Real world in the game takes place in early 20th-century Paris. In Vivien Leigh life I used to live in that city in that time. And in that life there were times when I'd bring paintings with me on my trips to other countries.

It's yet another fictional story (videogame in this case) which somehow has many parallels and synchronicities with my life. And it's another rare fictional story that takes a special place in my heart!

September 1, 2025.

I remember how I woke up and was pretty much asleep, and I clearly remember how I was Maelle from Expedition 33. She's a Paintress and I painted in the dream tonight and in my Vivien's life I also painted irl (there's a photo of me painting in nature; there are trees near me, and what looks like a little swimming pool).

When I say I was Maelle – I literally mean I was her; including having the knowledge she had. It wasn't the same case as when I felt what other people may have felt at a particular moment of their life.

I think that the feeling I experienced may be similar (or identical even?) to when I know that the feeling I feel right now is how I feel myself in my past life (be it Vivien's, Missy's, etc.).

It is an extraordinary experience – although my words here cannot do it justice and properly describe it.

Trying to understand what happened, I have remembered this:

Thao half metaphorically told Michel Desmarquet she was/is "an Easter Island statue" when Michel had a true dream about Thao's past life in which she was commemorated by people of Mu in the form of that real life statue Michel dreamt of in his true dream. I have found many synchronicities and parallels with Clair Obscur: Expedition 33 videogame, and I did notice that I could see myself in Maelle character and later I learned the story of the game and I realized I am like Maelle and her story is very close to me (aside some variations). But while there's a clear direct connection between Thao and the statue, I don't current know of any direct connections between me and the videogame character. Update of July 27, 2026: later I learned I will look like Maelle in my future life; and that seems like a direct connection.

I used to have dreams in which I knew something which I had never known before – it's like the material knowledge was inserted into my Astral body. Based on what Thiaoouba book teaches us, it is possible (when after death the Astral spirit assimilates the truths about the Spirit and the Universe.) I saw myself painting – I was a paintress in my dream -, and recently I have spotted synchronicities with the game and Maelle; maybe I had another such case of the material knowledge being inserted into me in the dream and when I partially woke up I still remembered it clearly in my mind and so it resulted in me having that kind of memory as well as identity ("I am Maelle") which is the result of a particular material knowledge. It may have answered some of my questions about my past life identities and how I saw myself and felt like in them.

Update of July 27, 2026: it's of interest how this experience mirrors that in the game Maelle, me, remembers and knows two of her lives.

The half tree reminded me of willow tree in village which was almost like the dream from my dream – missing a good chunk of its bark from bottom to top and that portion showed yellowish wood. Willow tree also played a role in my Missy's life.

I threw flat rocks into the water of a lake. Maelle throws such rocks into the ocean.

Maelle can have her hairdo pointing up. I have a childhood memory of having my hair point up and in all directions after strong wind, I think. Dima and his father saw it and didn't say what happened and that I needed to fix my hair. I only realized why they looked kinda funny at me when I got back home and saw myself in a mirror.

Maelle is a daughter of Aline who is the paintress and God to those in the canvas. Maelle painted a small picture which was displayed on the wall I believe.

In a way we and I are children of the Spirit who is the creator - the painter - or the world it first imagined. I imagine things and only small part of it is created (same with other people).

I watched Vika's first playthrough of Expedition 33 and I made several notes:

Vika called Maelle 'маленький амогус / little amogus', thinking she's behind all of that (which is happening in the game's world); clarified Maelle could be like Harry Potter – a chosen one who never knew he was chosen. I have to say that I did see myself again in Maelle coz many people think similar (amogus-like) things about me when the reality is different (same as with Maelle who is not amogus and was simply trapped in the canvas trying to help her parents). Of course, she's playing the game and I smile when hear her say that, but it's just now that I've had all these experiences with this game and Maelle I simply cannot help but see the connections to me.

Vika called Maelle Amogus. She didn't like her. Was cautious of her knowing too much.

Reflection with me and how some people treat me.

Вика said "Колесо оборзения." «Борзый» is the word I often used during a brief time when I was in school. Some people gave me that nickname because of that too, and briefly called me that. (I don't know how best describe the work in English. Something to do with having [too much?] confidence and balls to do something. Funny, but this particular description does somewhat connect with me.)

Ex 33. The Paintress sits the same way I did in later classes of school when daydreaming was almost omnipresent in my life. It's another clear synchronicity with me, since I sat in such a pose only because I was daydreaming to detach myself from the real world.

Watched another Vika's playthrough of the game. Spotted new interesting things.

Grandis says he had a friend Eloise and she "took great pride in her hair". (Vika joked 'Я тоже' (Me too) with her Maelle still having that up pointing hairdo.)

It can be a synchronicity with me in my Missy's life.

Вся наша жизнь сплошная депрессия. 16 лет. Вика - dead inside.

Maelle said something along the lines that Our whole life is one big depression – being 16 – and Vika said ‘dead inside’ about her.

I have to note that I started having depression when I was a teenager and it became I deep depression in my 20th.

Maelle hopes Gustav’s pupils will read the journal.

Me hoping people will read my journals, diaries, and books.

Maelle wants to fight. Angry. Wants revenge.

I have 2 sides to me, and one of them has resemblances with that.

Семья это сложно - сказала Маэль.

Family is complicated – said Maelle.

Того Noco, что знали больше нет. Вернётся, но другим.

The Noco we knew is no more. If he returns he will be different.

It’s a rather good description of reincarnation. We keep living in another life, but we are usually rather different people than we used to be.

У Маэль были кошмары. Говорила сама с собой. Убегала из дому. Все воспринимали её девочкой со странностями.

Maelle had nightmares. She talked to herself. She ran away from home. Everyone perceived her as a strange girl.

Story of my life:

nightmares = check;

talking to myself = check;

Did I run away from home? = check, albeit I more walked away from home to just walk and think for several hours even though I said I ran away to Anton’s mother Julia whom I met on my way; everyone perceives me as a strange man = check, albeit with several exceptions in the form of people who themselves are perceived weird – and sometimes for good reasons – by others.

Склад. Изучила все закоулки города. Висячие сады - любимое место?

Maelle was a runner for warehouses.

Maelle mentions a warehouse. She says she learned all the city streets. And the Hanging Gardens were her favorite part of Lumiere.

After being a courier, I worked for 2 weeks as a loader in a children store’s warehouse. And I sure visited a lot more warehouses when I worked as a merchandiser.

I walked in many parts of Moscow.

Hanging Gardens have direct connection to my past life of Alexander.

Alicia became Maelle in a human created world, and my experience being videogame character does seem very similar.

Thinking of how incredible this recent Maelle experience is, I remembered about Thao and Michel flying in the Lativok and when the force field was on Michel thought they were stopping and then some lights were occasionally moving. It shows how feelings/perception may fool you and you should rely on logic.

Same situation is with my Maelle experience.

"Secret DIALOGUE when Verso chooses to skip Turn NOT Attack Maelle".

At 1:03 Verso says that all Maelle sees is walls. This actually reminded me I heard something Maelle say about 4 walls before, and I saw white walls where they shouldn't be in my dream on September 12, 2025 when I asked a question about my Maelle's life.

The priority was to make a good game, not to suck all the money they could from the players. It resonates with my ideals too, and I did make my Thiaoouba translation free because it was the only right thing to do given the book's importance.

Some of the things I noted down while watching Vika continuing to play the game:

Маэль нервная и порывистая. Версо сказал Сиэль.
Maelle is nervous and impulsive. Verso said to Sciel.
That describes me.

Маэль часто имеет видения.
Maelle often has visions in the game.
I've had lots of visions in this life; and I had at least one vision in Mary Magdalene's life.

Яблочный сок. Маэль спрашивает в шутку если кто-то имеет его когда остальные пьют вино.
Maelle jokingly asks for apple juice when others drink wine.
I used not to drink alcohol for a long time. But now I do sometimes.
I almost always add some juice into tea now, and it's often apple juice.

Чтобы ни случилось дальше, пусть истина будет где-то записана – сказала Маэль. Опять параллель с тем как я часто загружаю свои документы, чтобы истина была где-то записана

Маэль боится высоты. Как и я с некоторых пор боюсь высоты.

Версо говорит про Маэль, любимую дочь Ренуара - Слишком застенчива. Не уверена в себе.
В детстве был таким же. Да и порой сейчас тоже.

Заново радоваться жизни. Слова Маэль.
Я писал давно в вк профиле, что люблю радоваться жизни.

Одинокая жизнь в скорлупе своего тела.
Живу одинокую жизнь. Попытки найти кого-то не увенчались успехом.

4:33 Verso comparing Monoco to the backside of an owl.
Maybe nothing, but an owl (сова) was mentioned by Anton when I told him about my past life of Vivien (he didn't believe, saying it all seemed to him like «натянутая сова на глобус» - an owl stretched over a globe).
Some people in my 10-11 classes called out literature teacher by this nickname because of her large circle glasses. I didn't like that.

As I'm watching the video, I'm noticing Maelle even stands similar to how I sometimes 'just' love to stand.

Maelle is extremely critical of Verso's writing.
When it's about the topics which are very important to me – be it Gone with the Wind in my Vivien's life, or Thiaoouba: The Golden Planet in my current one – I can be 'extremely critical' as well.

The game itself notes that 'Maelle' means "prince, chieftain, lord".

33:13 Maelle wears black gloves which reminded me of my Vivien's hands I tried to cover with large gloves.

Chiaroscuro / light-dark. My life if full of contrasts in some ways.

When Alicia entered the painting, becoming Maelle, it was the Monolith Year 49.
49 has a meaning in my lives, having often appeared in them. And it's 7*7.

On January 29-th, 2026, I started playing Clair Obscur: Expedition 33, finding new parallels with me:

Maelle was working as a courier.
Being a courier for a firm was my first job in this life.

Sophie says stubborn people change the world. And before that she said that Gustave can't finish his sentences.
I'm stubborn in many ways. One of them includes that I still try to preserve and share Thiaooubian knowledge. That knowledge is extremely important and it has the potential to change the world.
I feel like the thing about sentences does describe me – the fact it took me several attempts to finally write this one seems to be proving me right.

Sophie tells Maelle 'see you.' Maelle responds that they'll see each other in the next life.

Victor says hesitation was never Maelle's style.

After Gommage, Gustave says he should check on Maelle - she's probably alone as usual.

Gustave has a heart problem, and it appears that it was caused due to anxiety.

In the Manor, there are paintings of puppies behind the painting. There's also a dog house there.

Upon reunification, Maelle asks Gustave if he's real.
I had moments when I asked myself somewhat similar rhetorical question about some of the things I had to experience.

Maelle makes comments on a building's melancholic beauty. "A lone outpost of humanity, nestled among the corals. A sailor lost at sea."
Just found this to be somewhat familiar…

Gustave tells Maelle that if death approaches, then he wants Maelle to run.
It's a reference to my thoughts when I was watching Mr. Ballen's video about my past life of Missy – I didn't know at the time it's me, and I said "Run" to myself (in all meanings of the word now that I know I am/was Missy) then and remembered it well. I don't recall other situation when I said something like that, and I watched a lot of things in my life.

Lune refers to her mission as ‘war of information.’ Existence of certain things.

Gestral giving swimsuits asks a riddle to give another swimsuit – “If I were a two-year-old human, at what age would I gommage?” - 17

Maelle calls Gestrals idi*ts when those Gestrals take them (Maelle and co.) for nevrons.

Maelle says she hates liars.
Same because knowledge and truth are very important to me.

Maelle has her 1st vision and Lune asks her to focus while she can remember details.
This is how I write my dream diary.

Maelle says she’s getting a bit of deja vu again when at Esquie area.

Maelle says she never fit in Lumier.

Maelle mentions soulmates.

Merchants have lots of bags with them.
Reminded me of my Vivien’s life; From what I know I had lots of bags sometimes when traveling.

Gustave says ‘run’ to Maelle when he’s attacked by Renoir. Maelle says ‘run’ also to Gustave shortly after.
Reminded me of that Missy ‘run’ reference.

Mime.
Maybe nothing, but eventually mimes in this game reminded me of me in VL’s life dressing as a clown once. And I had all those IT-clown experiences also.

Esquie says he’s been perfecting the art of napping.
Something I’d like to be a master of in my life, given I’ve been having lack of sleep for months now.

Maelle tells Gustave see you in the next life too.

Maelle approaches Lune, apologizing for her bad behavior on the way to bury Gustave.

Maelle is half the age of her fellow expeditioners.

Half-life reference.

Monoco says expedition is gloomy. They lost many friends.

Sciel tells Maelle she needs to see things as they are, not as she thinks they are.

Sciel says she's optimist but also realist.

Verso says Maelle is nervous and eager.
Describes me.

Maelle, reflecting on her feelings about those who are dead, says: "Every time I think I've managed to contain it… a wave comes out of nowhere and drags me away."
This reminded me of the episode in my Missy's life which happened when I was caught in a strong undertow while swimming in the ocean. They say I started having nightmares of the ocean and being swept under a powerful wave and being carried away to never be seen again.
Maelle records the truth so that it's known.

In Act 3 Maelle as if resurrects dead people.
Also, Thiaooubians created animal and plant life on Bakaratini in a short amount of time.

Sciel learning to swim.

7 is the maximum relationship level.

Maelle says they used to have a tree house in their garden.
I did build a tree house in my village garden too when I was a child.

Esquie asks Maelle if she remembers their poems

Lunes quest. Amelie's journal. Family's friend. Brigitte is Lunes mother

Maelle has vertigo. Have I noticed mentioned this?

Renoir describes Maelle as his hidden star that he wanted to see fly.

Poetry.
Wrote some poetry in Missy's life and in my current one.

Gestral flying arena. Golgra says it is 17th (illegal) arena she stumbled upon in the last 30 days.

In the Endless Tower the fading woman says they went on adventures while me, Alicia, sat reading in my room.

Later she again mentions me hiding in the room and missing fun.

In this life I've spent a lot of time in my room, reading.

Blanche hands who is a non hostile nevron in the Fountain area.

Reminded me of Blanche DuBois.

Playing the game I'd sometimes remember the dream I had on September 10, 2025. The reason being in that dram I saw myself as the little girl whose facial features did look similar to how Maelle looks in the game. It saw that dream long time ago, and maybe some details are not remembered too well, but I did think it is the same face if we adjust for the age difference.

The small painting which parents allowed to hang on the wall reminded me of the houses in the Italian landscape painting I did in Vivien's life.

Sad to say I've had no time to paint high detailed paintings in my current life too. Working on this book takes almost all the time.

Chrono Cross

Serge died at 7 by drowning. It was 10 years ago. He's 17.

Serge is from a Parallel world in another dimensions.

Changing bodies - Lynx with Serge.

14 years ago, Serge's father disappeared in the Dead Sea.

Report #27 talks about Lavos life force parasitic to the planet.

Old technological civilization.

Erasing of memory and people living new lives not remembering who they were.

Kid searching for Serge despite them not having memories or something.

Xenogears, Chrono Cross, and Final Fantasy 6 – all had remembering-who-you-are themes.

Silent Hill video game

SH2 - Walter Sullivan dismembered people. In Hypatia's life the same thing happened to my old body.

SH2 – there's a tablet of the seductress. Just noting some people say that about Cleopatra.

There a Venus bar in SH2.

Maria dies (murdered) 3 times. Some dream answered showed I maybe died several times in some of my lives, and I might have such experience again in my current life.

Heather in Silent Hill 3 is 17 years old.
Her talking of herself in the first person in her past life is a parallel to myself too.

SH3 bird passcode puzzle
SH3 hospital door code. Stanley Coleman's face puzzle touches (kinda literally) her left eye, which is then no more… just reminded me of that left eye synchronicity I have with my lives of Nefertiti and Vivien.
SH3 Cinderella and Snow-white dolls

There are blue birds in cages in SH: Downpour.

Anna police officer; Ultraviolet light; one of bosses has telekinesis ability;

There are 14 side quests. The 14th requires you to find 7 items for a bonus finale.

I've noticed various similarities in other Silent Hill games too.

Divinity: Original Sin

July 31, 2025 and further days. In the evening decided to finally play Divinity: Original Sin. ~8 years have passed since I launched it to see if it works in 2017. Since then I translated Thiaoouba into Russian, Wrote my own book Simple Truths of Life, and found my past lives. I was not too surprised to see the default name for one of main characters is Scarlett, and that I've met other names which relate to my past lives or to my Vivien's life.

Scarlett

Rex

Cecil

Viktoria

Council of 7 (In my book I used the exact same title for the new government based on Mu's way to find leaders.)

Jake had mineral collection

Unsinkable Sam. Caesar.

Here is Isis, a rock in crisis.

Enemy court minstrel says fiddle didle dee or something

Raddagoth character says 'You're standing just exactly on my sun.' Reminded me of Alexander and Diogynes story.

Lawrence. Lawrence could have been torn to pieces by the crowd (reminded me of my Hypatia's life).

Nadia in silver Glen (A common name in Russia [Nadya], and it's possible my distant relative Nadya was Iras [Cleopatra reference]).

Crooked Bee says 'now your name is Freddie!'

A general's tale quest has 'an ominous "it"' in its log entry.

Remembering who you are theme is something very close to me in regards to my past lives.

I noted something about Alessa character. That names sometimes appears in my life.

Pontius Pirate. Mary Magdalene life connection via Pontius Pilate whose decision played a big role in that life.

Divinity: Original Sin 2:

Grog the Troll tells me "Back off, pigeon" when the party tries to cross "his" bridge.

The Council of 7.

Did note edit these notes:

Alexandra. Shiis young and already bishop.

Fort Joy.

Marg. Felix

Dreamers

Tarquin

July 15 dream. In game there was s tiny crawl space where the child could go. Team had to dig up an ancient stone hatch to how down there.

Return to d dwarf musician

Tomb Raider

Shadow of the Tomb Raider:

I had time to play Shadow of the Tomb Raider and I saw that the item called Tumi Knife, and its shape reminded me of the what I called the shiv in my dream. I think the blade's shape is very similar.

Then I remembered how I climbed on steep banks in that dream I had on September 23, 2024.

Given I did find a lot of synchs and parallels with other games and movies which were part of my life, I got curious if maybe I have some connections to Tomb Raider games and/or movies.

Then, as I continued playing, a statue had 'Amelia' written at the bottom. I read the character's bio (Lara Croft's mother). I noted she was engaged to be married to the Earl of Farringdon – the daughter in VL's life became Suzanne Farrington after marriage.

Lara's birth was difficult (as was Suzanne's, from what I know; and as was my birth in Missy's life).

Amelia died in a plane crash from cold. Richard attempted to resurrect her but to no success. (This fact took me by surprise, because the them is so close to me.)

Amelia was laid to rest in the family crypt, in an elaborate marble sarcophagus.

Abigale related to a Maya queen. She's surprised to know that.

Note: some of my past lives' tombs were raided.

Edit: the red multi-level rocks I saw might be stones I'd see in TR.

Edit: box 45 times ball dream. TR has the box item in its main story.

Jesus and his apostles are part of the main story.

Amelia is shown painting at the similar canvas I painted in my dream that you stand in front of.

When I was writing my free eBook Simple Truths of Life, I probably had a deja-vu when writing about Tomb Raider game.

I watched the story of the whole series – although not paying too much attention as I was half asleep. Just noted this:

Lara's 14 years old when the story starts.

A character called Sophia Leigh was one of the main bosses. She had an artifact called the "Eye of Isis", which prevents aging. Sophia would be more than 200 years old when meeting Lara Croft.

She says, "Right! In your next life."

"Rachel Ula" was the working name of Sophia in the original game script.

Assassin's Creed Origins

(I only bought this game because it features me in my past life of Cleopatra. Just wanted to see if I'd see any synchronicities with myself.)

Pigeon houses. Their shape and idea are similar to the idea I had in this life. I wonder if me probably seeing those pigeon houses in my past lives caused those ideas to appear in this one?

The protagonist is sometimes called dog by enemies.

Stone circles astral alignment show creatures drawn by stardust. The idea I had for the cover of my book Simple Truths of Life.

Red columns reminded of my razor-head dream I had on August 8, 2025.

Senu bird.

Alex's temple had rolled and unrolled carpets inside.

AI. Simulation thoughts. Eliza?

Snake. S.C. was called 'a snake' by me because that's who he turned out to be.

DNA bears no memories. But psychosphere is the closes thing to what they show in the game (It's about the device which allows the researchers in the game to access the memories of dead people).

Bayek uses a feather when he eliminates a target.

There's Pisces star constellation in the quest "Bayek's promise".

Hetepi wears blue scarf and has persistent cough.

The way I'm (Cleo) portrayed holding my hands reminded me of the way I hold my hands sometimes, and I also have a photo of me in Vivien's life when during the Hamlet play (1937) I hold my hands the same way.
Also, I'm portrayed uttering some sounds for some reason.

Comforts? We despise them.
Can't say I despise the comfort, but by the way my life goes it may appear I actually do…

Alex tomb. I'm (Cleo) standing with my hand behind my back, which is how I sometimes stand also.

Bayek and Aya were banned from palace. They say about my treachery but it's not shown on screen.
As an admin I had to ban some people. Needless to say, some failed to see their errors.

I couldn't kill Caesar in the game given the man was close to me in my past life, and now I know who he is in his current life. Also, in my opinion the game stretches the history and facts way too much. So I watched a video of the last cutscene. Aya calls me 'queen of snakes' in it.

I already mentioned one snake before here, and – while trying not to overthink the whole thing – there were many more people whom I trusted and who eventually betrayed me in some way… so…

They – the game's story developers - say of rightfulness via their imagined characters while dirtying the name of someone else who actually lived and lives after being reincarnated.

They revenge the murder of their son by killing dozens in their path. Devs make it seem justified. We can suppose those people also have sons and daughters left with no parent or maybe left orphaned; irl some of those children upon growing up could also seek revenge, driving the cycle of murders; and then the history could repeat again and again.

I felt myself a bit betrayed by how I was portrayed in the end.

Tour:

I selected my Cleopatra's 3d model as the playable character for the tour.

This reminded me of that dream I had on January 3, 2026 for now I was playing as myself and looking at the game from my perspective.

I (Cleo) was 17, Ptolemy XIII was 10. Around the time of that tour, I saw similar numbers in the dream that I saw on January 27, 2026.

My playable Cleopatra model stood near my unplayable model on Cleopatra tour. There were 2 models of me in the room for the tour. Could be a reference to my house repeating in that dream.

In Alex life, upon arriving in Memphis, I gave honor to Apis. Similar thing happened in my Cleo's life, and so the history kinda repeated itself.

In Alex life was crowned in Memphis.

I was surprised to see that me in my Hypatia's life is in the game also – Alexandria's library tour.

I'm also mentioned and/or portrayed in my other lives of Isis and Nefertiti.

BioShock Infinite

I watched Dist's speedrun of the game when I heard Liz say the same words about Booker which I once wrote about the evil president; later, I decided to remove the comment, thinking that the intended audience – members of TPXP – saw it and knew my position. It did feel like I maybe made a mistake by removing my comment. But because of my health and issues I thought I don't need any more potential problems in my life.

It was one of the game Dist used to speedrun – a lot, from what I understand. Maybe it's another reason I have found some parallels with myself in this game.

https://bioshock.fandom.com/wiki/Elizabeth

BioShock Infinite is the 3-rd game in the series. It was delayed 3 times.

https://www.youtube.com/shorts/vUSzQkDTPIY

Lizz calls Booker DeWitt a thug and liar.

Ironic, how the truth was still brought up to the surface (not that I mind). When I heard Liz say that, I immediately remembered my comment, thinking, what if I have some syncs with BioShock too? I kept watching the stream, and new interesting things were noticed.

Liz painted.

Liz wants to see Paris.

Parallel universe and other dimensions.

Cage symbol. Birdcage. C A G E musical notes.

Songbird. Liz's friend and warden.

Booker kills Comstock by drowning him in a shallow baptismal font.

Elizabeth is Booker's daughter, Anna DeWitt.

The people of Columbia were told that Anna, renamed Elizabeth Comstock, was a miracle child who grew in Lady Annabelle Comstock's womb for only 7 days before her birth.

In her childhood, Elizabeth's powers grew and reached their peak in 1907, around age 13, coinciding with her menarche.

I'm a boy, but it was at the same age of 13 that the s*x drive appeared in me with life changing consequences.

Booker DeWitt arrives in the city on July 6-th, freeing Elizabeth from her tower.

The date is between my VL's death day of July 7-th, and Amelie Mauresmo's birthday on July 5-th.

Elizabeth is horrified by Booker killing people. He says he has no choice but to draw first if they want to survive. Elizabeth reluctantly agrees to go with him.

Elizabeth was about to be put a collar meant to keep her under control by way of releasing a great shock. It's a cruel device which was meant to force Lizz to behave.

Collars, in my mind, are often associated with dogs. And I'll note here that in my VL's life I had to endure shock therapees - Also a cruel tool meant to force a person to behave.

Elizabeth opens a Tear into an American Midwest beset by a tornado which kills the scientists.

North Dakota is part of American Midwest.

Maybe it's nothing, just noting that Songbird's death by being crashed by ocean's pressure reminded me of Titanic and my death during the catastrophe.

Liz coughs sometimes.

Liz read many books. Including books on physics trying to figure out how her abilities work. Another thing she studied was geography.

I told Anton once that I wanted to study geography. It was kinda out of the blue thing to say, but now it's a connection to my past lives, in some of which I liked to study.

"It's about 7:30."

Liz asks Booker if he's interested in gardening.

"Remember, boys and girls, don't be a dimwit!"

Liz says she wants a puppy, and it doesn't mean she's gonna get one.

Liz: "You must think me some sort of...freak. A girl who can bring dead men back to life...whose only acquaintance is a... giant bird creature. I must seem ridiculous."

Them being various other people in different realities has some parallels to reincarnation, when we play different roles.

DLCs has some things I noticed, but nothing I thought worthy of writing down.

Resident Evil video games

I never noticed that much of potential synchronicities with me in RE games. But having this dream draw my curiosity to Resident Evil 9 Requiem, as Leon S. Kennedy is in it, and Grace's character also had my interest. I decided to buy and play the game. Here's the things I noted:

Grace is shy and stammers sometimes.

Alyssa worked as a freelancer.

Grace pierces the zombie cop in his left eye.

Grace is called 'chosen one' by Dr. Victor Gideon.

There's a sewing kit.

It says Hamilton on Leon's watch (seen during the care center cutscene).

A ship model which bears resemblance to Titanic.

The girl's name is Emily.

"I'll be right back." - Reminded me of my Maelle dream in which I said the same thing.

Grace says it's all her fault, living in the past. Zeno tells her what's done is done.

Leon says he couldn't make a difference when it all started. Now he wants to make one.

After learning I'm Alexander the Great, and knowing what Thao told Michel regarding me not doing anything constructive for the world, I do want to make a difference. The best I can do under my current circumstances is to continue spreading the word about Michel Desmarquet's book, and about my own spiritual experiences and findings.

Grace doesn't want any more regrets. Wants to go with Leon to help.
This brings out the same thoughts as my Alex note.

28 years since they occupied the ARK.

They call Grace the 'key' and 'the one'.

Leon has sudden bouts of coughing.

Grace says: "this is finally my chance to do something".

Grace knows the password.

The Umbrella was founded in 1968 by O.E. Spencer, J. Marcus, and E. Ashford.

The final puzzle has 8, as well as 15, numbers associated with it.

Obsession (2025)

July 14, 2026's notes:

There's Nikki character from Chrono Cross. I definitely saw 2 k's in my dream, and I feel like it was "y" and not "i" at the end.

I felt like that Nikky dream scene maybe was in reference to Nicky from the Obsession. I did tell obscurely how I had certain memories brought up in me… like how I had weird facial expressions when I was tense or too absorbed in my fantasies. There are similarities for sure… In some way I could feel what it's like being Nicky…

I was so shy and awkward in school that I, also lacking normal communication skills, said I loved a male friend standing near me when someone asked me about him. It's not something I wanted to say or even actually felt in that sense you probably thinking of, and I was like "what on earth I just said and why?" I remembered that incident when I thought of how Nicky goes back to Bear's car and says some weird things and then she snaps back and thinks what the heck she just said.

And during another moment of my life I'd often be standing or sitting in the almost total darkness of my tiny hall or bathroom… listening to music on the FM radio stations during later times… (it was when I was in last classes of school and we started quarreling with mother due to her lack of desire to comprehend my issues and me not willing to do what I didn't want to do.)

I keep noticing more parallels with her…

About my almost omnipresent habit to talk in my head (it's like I'm thinking in my imagination)… I have moments when I clear out my mind and everything becomes so clear and then I'm getting lost again... There are parallels to how Inde Navarrette plays her character during the first moments of her obsession.

Nikki Freeman is her full name. On rare occasions I used to refer to myself as "Mr. Freeman" (it's Half-Life reference).

My budgie and Bear's cat similarity... I've already mentioned that sad story on March 10, 2026…

I'll note that the film was written and directed by Curry Barker, and Tim Curry played Pennywise.

https://youtu.be/i7mY87kmlso?si=7RYkt20-EajZPB-f&t=183
A Midsummer Night's Dream. Titania falls in love with Nick Bottom because Oberon puts a magic love potion on her eyelids which makes her fall in love with the first living creature she sees. It's a parallel to Obsession's One Wish Willow. I played Titania in my Vivien's life; this is a connection to Nikki and Inde Navarrette, and this might partially be the reason why I have synchronicities with that movie and her character.
Later I realized it's the same thing with The Happy Hypocrite.

July 29, 2026's notes:

https://www.youtube.com/shorts/rH-da0huz4A
Her wig for smashing the window. In that wig she looks similar to how Natasha (from Velozavodskaya) looked…

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=_AC0N0gBhGE
Mimicking cat and then Sarah cause bear seemed to love them.
I don't feel comfortable writing such silly things about me, especially since some people will invent something completely wrong about me in their heads… But oh well. I noted that about Wish Nikki cause I, for the sake of being silly and childish – as a joke – did on very rare occasions mimicked the way my half-domesticated pigeon used to smack his beak several times after drinking (smacking of lips type of sound).

July 14, 2026's dream showed Nikky was my name somehow and I just keep seeing more and more connections to Nikki in the movie.

It's not (yet) creepy (for me). Probably never will be (well, never say never). It is interesting though.

It might, and maybe does, relate to my Clair Obscur and then 24 Hour to Live experiences. Somehow there's yet another story in which its character is me (in some ways).

Me falling in love at first sight for the second time with that blonde woman. Once I learned the truth about her the feeling subsided. Looking back at it, the experience could be described as "obsession at first sight".

VIA Gra

August 1, 2026. Just recently I started discovering some of Russian language songs which I like. Almost all my life I preferred listening to songs in English.

ВИА Гра - Не оставляй меня любимый https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PwrvtiiyLqY

I'd rather I had good news to share, but the reality is I was thinking of me being lost inside of my "Inland Empire" again. I know who I am, who I was, in my past lives and yet I can't shed off that silly habit. Daydreams, fantasies are a tool too and so they have their uses. My issue is I misuse that tool. Yet years ago I freed myself already but then as if shackled myself back with the same old chains.

I thought of how I'm Vivien Leigh and how much I'm missing now (it's how I feel). I used to look at my past life's photos each day, now it's been quite a while since I did that. I don't allow myself to look at my old self in such a state I'm in right now. And yet I can "cure" (change my state of mind, my psychological profile) myself literally in the blink of an eye…

What am I doing? – I'm asking myself. Why? Life is full of beautiful things and I, occasionally, waste my time, strength and health on dirty old habits…

And so in this state I'm listening to that song and now the lyrics hit home hard. And so did visuals of their music video (some moments made me smile though).

The presence of a harp in a theater was the start.

The revealing shot of 3 ballerinas brought memories of me doing ballet in Vivien's life, and when rewatching the video I cried a few times seeing them again.

The lyrics

Тебе и небо по плечу (You can reach the sky)

А я свободы не хочу (But I don't want freedom)

Synchronized with my thoughts I just mentioned. I could have done so much more if only I wouldn't be imprisoning myself over and over again.

I was listening to the song again today, and upon hearing

Поначалу не боялась - думала пройдет (At first I wasn't afraid — I thought it would pass)

Но внезапно отказало сердце моё (But suddenly my heart gave out)

Все, что до него было - не было (Everything that was before it — was not)

Белым застелю полотном, но... (I'll cover it with white linen, but…)

I saw the parallel to my current situation.

And I'm probably too melodramatic, but the last 2 lines reminded me of the incoming (final [in this current life]) death after which I'll forget all and we could say that all that was before would be no more (in my mind). And I shall be reborn as a female with blonde (whitish) hair.

There are other lines which reflect in my life: as if 2 people living in one body (this should not be interpreted literally! It's about my personalities which are quite opposite), and the remaining lines had their parallels also.

This song and its music video reflect my experience with the song Ева, Винтаж. Vintage – in Moscow there is a s club of that name. Thankfully, I've never been in such a place, but I did research a bit about that particular club.

August 9, 2026. Yesterday I saw a parallel to Scarlett, when her nails dug into her palms and the same was shown in the music video. I wondered if there's something else in their video that I missed and there was.

At 1:48 minute they show a falcon (сокол - which, due to some historic confusions, can also be translated as a "hawk", and I had some parallels with that word; I doubt I misidentified the bird). I didn't notice the bird before because they show it so fast, the video is low-res, and I looked at Vera anyway. This relates to Sokolniki park (Сокольники… Сокол-ники… funny how now I see potential "Nikki" reference here also…)

Miker's friend is called Sokol.

On February 24, 2014 I took a photo of a man walking with a bird that maybe was a kite. Its head was covered too. It was an unusual sight to see in here. The kite bird relates to my Isis life, and I had some other syncs related to this bird.

The wax on skin almost makes me remember something from my life. Not sure if I had such experience or maybe someone else did and I saw it irl. I sure burnt many candles during power outages and I do remember having melted wax drop onto my skin.

The star bling on Anna.

In childhood we made (improvised) whips from the bark of young willows growing in the ditches. (Yes, I do remember the One Wish Willow thingy…).

September 18, 2026:

Где моя судьба мне неведомо (Where my destiny lies is unknown to me)

Пусть всё будет как суждено, но (Let everything be as it is destined, but)

Apparently, I don't know my destiny, fate either. But maybe I know some glimpses of it which may come true at an unknown (to me) time (time will tell).

Ballerinas raise their legs up, and I noticed how I sometimes, when I lie in the bed, raise my leg in a somewhat similar fashion to stretch it out. I credit my Vivien's life experience as a probable cause here.

2:19 into the music video. Maybe it's nothing, but I'll note how I was rewatching the video while eating and, being sleepy and tired, I raised my arms up and behind me, with my head tilted back too, and right then I saw this shot of the 3 ballerinas raising their arms in a swan-like pose.

There are 7 people in the video. 3 singers, 3 ballerinas, 1 man (and 1 bird).

Stephen King

(Could be spoilers! Since I had synchronicities with IT – and I had synchs with Nightmare and other Wes' movies – I thought it'd be a good idea to watch some of the movies based on Stephen King's books. I did actually find some possible synchronicities; the fact that all those familiar names, ideas or situations are present in those movies make me feel like there might be a connection.)

Christine 1983.
Кристина
Leigh
Rita (Рита, Маргарита)
Ending of life
November 5 (My VL bd)

Silver Bullet 1985.

Pet Sematary 1989.
Missy is a character there (played by Susan Blommaert) who ends … life. They then talk how her life ended too soon and she had years to live.
Rachel comes back with her left eye damaged. I used to have name Rachel in my past life which is mentioned in the Bible.

Creepshow 1982.
10 22 - Nathan is written on tombstone (I heard that name in my dream I had the last night on 26.10.2024)
Before I thought the tombstone reminds me of the one set to commemorate me as Emma Hamilton

33 .. 2nd story man pretty much turns into Grinch. Some other parallels to me can be seen too.

In the 3rd the lovers die drowning. Killed for sleeping with Leslie Nielsen character's wife/gf basically 4th. Wilma, Billy.

The thing in the crate ended up in water

Story deals with hallucinations. I talked about it before; here I'll just note Thao showed Michel Desmarquet how vivid and life-like they can be.

Basically, as far as hallucinations in the IT movies go, those scenes could be real and could exist in real life (as hallucinations, of course – which are also real in their own way.)

https://stephenking.fandom.com/wiki/Laurie_Anne_Winterbarger
She went missing in 1985. Same as me in my past life of Michele (although my body was found in a few days).

She may be about 5 years of age. I died at around that age as Mary Jane Kennedy.

IT comes out to hunt in October of 1988 – 3 years after my death in October of 1985 (Missy).

The puzzle picture has birds – lots of birds – in it. Now I know that bird theme has played a part in many of my past lives.

(IT 2017 movie) Scene starting at 1:13:13 and ending on 1:13:20 lasts 7 seconds. Number 7 has also beein a part of some of my lives (e.g. Cleopatra VII).

Harry Anderson plays Richie in 1990 tv mini series of IT. Anderson last name came up when I asked my Higher Self questions about my past life of Mary Winchester. Currently (June 26, 2025) I still have to ask questions about that life again with proper indicators this time.

Emily Perkins plays 12-year-old Beverly Marsh. Just noting I was called Amy, Emma in a past life. I should also note the names are not related; just sound similar.

Tommy Lee Wallace directed the series. Just noting Lee sounds exactly like Leigh.

Georgie. I was called George, or some similar name, in my past life. I still need to check if I had that or similar name in my other past life.

IT came up as a possible answer when I asked my HS what name I had in my 4-th life. Still need to ask more questions about that.

Bill is another name I had in my past life.

Henry Bowers. Scotty Bowers was a person with whom I had a thing at George Cukor's house in my Vivien's life. It was one of errors that led me to living this life without love, girlfriend, let alone family. When he described how we met and what we did in his book Full Service, I spotted several clear parallels to me.

Since I noted Bowers, I should note Marlon Taylor. Marlon Brando played alongside me in Streetcar, and Liz Taylor, as I noticed, played me - or kind of me - in several of her films.

Caitlin Hicks

IT (1990)

00:05:40 Description reminds me of Silent Hill. Mist also present at the end of Gone with the Wind, but no monsters in that movie, thankfully!

00:14:41. When I was watching The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone (1961), in which I played the main role in my past life of Vivien Leigh, a special synchronicity happened – I touched my right jaw in the same place as I (or my character) did in that movie at the exact same time! And now I see that Bill (who stutters) touches his right check (and jaw) and the scene transitions to the older version of Bill played by a different actor who look differently – but it's still the same character.

00:19:10 "How much do you remember?" The loser club characters forgot a lot of what happened to them in the past. We lose all memory when we reincarnate because all material knowledge is erased in the River of Oblivion. Currently, I've noticed many parallels to my past lives also; not just to my present life.

00:20:05 16-th floor. Ben is thinking about it… The escape. I thought of that too – only it was 9-th floor – and then I got the dream which led me to realizing what is the true nature of stutter, opening a new clean page in my life.

00:22:00 a 7 PM curfew.

00:41:28 77 SUNSET STRIP. As it was found out, I lived my first lives in the 77 Psc binary star system.

00:48:15+ perhaps I'm reaching, but Bev kissing 2 boys reminded me of my Emma's life and Ménage à trois. Might be another actual synchronicity, tbh.

00:51:44 girly boy.

01:00:00 the werewolf scene. I had that prophetic dream in which I saw a werewolf. In another dream with Thao I asked her if werewolves were real and she frowned.

01:01:55 Lucky 7.

01:06:27 Throwing of rocks at the bad guys. Just noting that I remember how I, stupidly, threw a pebble from the road to the bushes where Dima was (a good guy). I guess it hit him. Thankfully nothing too serious.

I used to also throw rocks out of boredom at the roof of the old and abandoned house that used to stand in front of ours.

01:08:42 Mid 1700s. Around that time I was living my life of Evdokia Andreevna Dioper and then, being born in 1765, my Emma's life.

I think it's said early to mid-1700s, landing it to my Evdokia's life in which I lived in Russia (Russian Empire). I suffered in that life. Was exiled too to live and die at Staroladozhsky Convent.

01:08:58 the date is 1851. I lived a life of Lisa Hill then in the USA; it had to have been a life at the bottom of the wheel – so material circumstances could have been somewhat difficult. Might have suffered too in that life more than usual. When I asked my HS what I did in that life I got the answer 'actress'.

01:12:00 maybe it's nothing, just wanna note they hang out near a creek, and a creek was the place I was killed in my last past life of Michele.

01:13:10 Atlanta, Georgia. Now it reminds me of Gone with the Wind.

01:13:55 maybe nothing but 'perfect strangers' reminded me of Natalie Wood's movie. I found some of her other incarnations. I wonder if other people, like her, could have synchronicities with this movie too?

01:15:20 birds. Later, at 02:12:-- it's revealed he's interested in birds.

01:28:30 hallucination attacks by IT are countered by the guys realizing what it is and staying calm (removing fear)

01:43:20 Maybe nothing of importance, just noting the jacked hits his left eye.

01:58:08 too much fun in 67.

02:08:52 Richie holds Smile book. There was a movie I watched of the same title (Smile 2022, and Smile 2 2024); I used to have somewhat desturbed dreams on the night after watching those moves; I saw the smile presence in dreams (the U-shaped arc); and when I went to bathroom, I had the impression I had a smile on my face when I saw with my peripheral vison my reflection in the mirror. I don't watch a lot of horrors, but such experience is not common.

02:13:45 Mummy. O was Nefertiti and Cleopatra. Might be a synch here also.

02:20:34 Bulldog. Rottweiler. I\m not good at telling the dog breeds, but I think Marina had that dog.

Belching, burping. Some village buddies did that in our childhood. Can't remember now if I did it on purpose too or not. Certainly I did not do anything like that to annoy anyone.

6:30 Tree fence. I thought of having a similar evergreen juniper fence in village.

IT (2017)

Actor Nicholas Hamilton playing Henry Bowers. I was Emma Hamilton.

Actor Jaeden Martell playing Bill Denbrough. While Jaeden relates to Jaden, and not to Jade, it sounds similar to the name I had in one of my past lives.

Chosen Jacobs. Jacob from my Rachel's life.
Jeremy Ray Taylor. Taylor last name which often appears in my life.

Bill Skarsgård playing Pennywise. I was called William in a past life.

00:01:17 Georgie makes a smiley face on the window. Noting coz of Smile book in the 1990 tv mini-series, and the Smile movie I mentioned.

00:01:33 vomit coming out of the nose. Happened to me and I was afraid I'd suffocate for it seemed like it was preventing the air coming into my lunges for a moment. Due to that accident I started not liking having food poisoning even more.

00:25:16 there are 7 lamp posts visible in the photo (128-th). Those lamps were made by movie creators to look like IT clown face. It's subtle, but IT's there. So number 7 again.
00:25:18 probably nothing, but I'll note the 132-nd photo shows logs and a log was used to pin down my Missy's dead body under the water in the creek…

00:25:40 102 people killed in the explosion, 88 of whom were children. 88 is the year I was born (1988 AD). I live my 44-th life, and before I learned I was probably born due to Ovoastromic Force in my first life, I thought that I had 88 parents in total (all my incarnations combined). I'll reach this number in my next life, I think. I still need to learn more about my first 3 lives – some things may change if I discover something unexpected.
14 adults were killed. I've mentioned many times the presence of this number in many of my lives. The number also relates to a thing I noted long time ago and recently found it has a name - Climacteric year. The idea is that around each 7-th year +- (7, 14, 21, 28, 35, etc.) a person may experience some important events in their life – which I did in all of them.

00:26:00 the 149-th photo keeps on showing as Ben is turning pages. 49 is 7 * 7. 49 itself has also appeared in my lives a few times.

00:26:13. 114-th Maine Legislature.

00:27:43 Archives room 3.

00:28:45 carvings of names and hearts on the wood reminds me of how, apparently, we in my past life of Missy did similar carvings into trees near the place where I was murdered. Only those more had to do with friendship… than love.

00:35:00 might be wrong, but maybe in our childhood someone used a can like that with flammable liquid to make a little fire-thrower. If it did happen, it was a short-lived thing – whoever did it did it once or a few times – and so I don't remember it clearly anymore. We played with fire way too much when we were kids.

00:40:00 rumors about Beverly. I'll note I noticed some people lie about me in some of my past lives. Some people believe those lies and fairy tales.

00:47:22 Derry started as a beaver trapping camp. There were many instances when beavers have played a role in my life. Had that dream about a giant beaver killing me; Miker, a streamer I watch sometimes, is called beaver sometimes by himself and his friends; mother made a mention of being afraid of beavers even though they never did anything bad to her; I started watching post10 videos after I saw his beaver video in which he was cleaning culverts.

00:48:18 Tania's missing poster has familiar numerology. Also, Tania is a common Russian name. One of my aunts was called Tania (Таня, Татьяна); she had blonde hair.

01:29:53 Siouxsie and the Banshees. It's June 29, 2025 today, and I saw in a dream banshees for the first time recently on June 25, 2025. I started watching IT movies on 26-th.

02:04:-- Beverly says she saw them at adult age. She only remembers how they felt.

I know sometimes what I felt in my past lives at the time when a photo of me in that life was taken. In some rare dreams I also feel what I felt in the past, and there was a dream about what I think might be my future life and I also felt what I might feel in it.

02:06:18 Lover. S was painted over with V in red paint. I think V was used to call me by some people in my past life of Vivien.

I'll note here that I went eating after watching about half of IT 2017 movie and I watched https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=U9b3FpCDw1Y Heavy Spoilers' breakdown of Fight Club (1999). There was a smiley face, and the author made a reference to IT 2019 movie once. Having vast experience with imagination, I have an idea of what the main character was experiencing.

It: Chapter Two (2019)

Produced by Dan Lin & Roy Lee. Just yesterday (on June 29, 2025) I was viewing the photos of me in my Vivien's life and it was written "Miss Lee" instead of Leigh on a make-up still slate for GwtW.

00:09:33 Stage #14.

I realize the movie creators might have used these numbers on purpose - perhaps Stephen King used them in the book; or they just know a thing or two about numerology, etc. But it's still a fact these numbers have a big meaning for me and so I'm noting them down.

00:10:10. I think Bill says '17 hours'.

00:11:55 Myra. My character in Waterloo Bridge was called by that name, and it was when I was watching that movie for the first time (in my current life) that I first realized I am Vivien Leigh.

00:26:06 Jade of the Orient.

00:40:15 Victoria was my name in a past life, and it might be my future life's name. One of my characters I played in V's life was also called Vicky. Making fun of looks, having no friends… ringing of bells…

00:52:-- Bev had a true dram about Stan's death. I've had numerous true dreams – about past and future.

00:58:49. Me and Vova in village had dug a dugout house in the back of our land plots. It was much smaller than the guys in the movie have.

01:10:14 Kirsh's dad came to US with $14 in his pocket.

01:16:21 Balloons are shaped like an inverted pyramid. Lived in Egypt in several lives. There's a possibility in a distant life I was even involved in the construction of one, but I need to confirm that.

01:19:45 after my green Кама bicycle, I drove the big and old one. I loved it and didn't need any modern bicycle. (Maybe it was called Спутник (Satellite; companion) or Прогресс (Progress) but I'm not sure).

01:49:50 Constable Gillespie. In Silent Hill videogames, with which I also have synchronicities, there's Dahlia Gillespie character. She's the abusive mother of Alessa Gillespie who later reincarnates into Heather (SH3).

Heather Langenkamp plays in the Nightmare on Elm Street – the movie I found synchronicities with also.

02:05:22 IT came from space. As mentioned before, it was totally unexpected for me to learn I came from another start, from space.

IT: Welcome to Derry (2025)

Season 1:

December 16, 2025. Yesterday in the evening I watched the final 8-th episode of the first season.

In this particular episode there was a thick fog throughout the good portion of the episode. It had a strong vibe of Silent Hill for me.

Pennywise knows the past, present and future. Reminded me of how I know many of my past lives, and some info about my 2 future lives. And I maybe saw the way I'll die in my present and a future life too – and IT knew how he'd die and (who'd kill him) also.

Then IT become a bird like, having wings and talons. All of these parallels to me brought up the memory of that dream, in which it was said/ hinted I'm IT.

Lilly being perceived as scary by some people also hit close to home. She's the only character, other than Pennywise, I felt connection to.

There were some other small things of possible interest I noted too.

Some of the actors and characters had names which I had in my past lives. Madeleine Stowe is of immediate note due to her story and closeness to IT.

William "Will" DuBois Hanlon, Mike Hanlon's father, another character with the familiar to me last name.

A Nightmare on Elm Street

A Nightmare on Elm Street (1984)

00:11:50 Jungle man fixes Jane. No direct relation to me, but my friend in Vivien's life Maureen O'Sullivan played Jane in Tarzan movies.

O'Sullivan name has a connection to me in Silent Hill games, and there's someone from my life of Missy (Michele Avila) who had that last name.

00:18:-- Nancy's shirt has number 11 on it. I used to see this number a lot long time ago. Similar how it happens with 33.

00:20:31 Don't know what's going on, but for some reason there's a low frequency hum in this scene and this hum is very similar to what I have been dealing with in my apartment for many years now. It starts at 10 PM +- or at 6-7 AM +- and can last for several minutes or even hours. I don't know why they added that sound in the movie; I wanted the scene to end because I can barely stand this low frequency noise now due to my experience with it.

00:23:20 The teacher mentions Shakespeare's beliefs. His works played a big role in my Vivien's life.

Canker is mentioned too. This is something, I think, the 2(?) female mates of the pigeon who used to visit my window for feeding had. I tried to give the medicine but it didn't work.

Julious Ceasar is then mentioned. I was Cleopatra and knew him personally.

00:32:-- Nancy's mom tells her not to fall asleep in the bathtub. Could lead to drowning. Decided to note this since I spotted before possible syncs with me in my past life of Missy (I was killed by being drowned in it).

At around 35:55 Nancy looks at herself in a mirror and says "God, I look 20 years old"

00:36:10 Nancy asks Glen if he believes people can dream of what's going to happen. I've had many prophetic dreams.

00:47:33 Katja Institute for the study of sleep disorders. Katya (Катя; Catherine, Katy, etc.) name has often appeared in my lives.

Then we see a doctor, Samuel King. Stephen King; and I was a king in one of my past lives.

00:59:20 Nancy not sleeping coming up to the 7-th day. Record is, according to Nancy, 11.

1:11:00 Nancy asks her dad to come and break the door in exactly 20 minutes.

1:14:-- Nancy says "I love you" to her mom. As Michele Avila I said "I love you, mom". Just made me remember that.

1:15:05 – it's 12:20:39(40)

1:19:10 The cross which has appeared before in the movie. My father had a similar cross in his apartment.

Also I was close to Jesus in my Mary Magdalene's life, but I don't know how much that of any connections here. Crosses are part of many people's lives.

Many think Nancy is crazy but she's not (she even herself says she's crazy after all at 1:21:-- but Freddy in a moment disproves that idea). Same with my life.

Just in case: the distance between 1428 N Genesee Ave & 13611 Ottoman St (The house I lived till 8 years of age in Michele Avila life) is exactly 16 km. 8 is half of 16 – if there's something I've no idea.

From Karen Kingsbury's book it's known that at the age of 16 I out of the blue asked to play Lady Starlight at my funeral in case I'd die (I've had prophetic nightmares about water too – reason fear of ocean)

In Alexander Walker's bio about my VL life there's a typo in the description for one of photos of VL. It says 'It' instead of 'She':

P 242: "It was overexerting herself in this Royal Variety Performance with Olivier and John Mills that brought on another miscarriage."

This is how it's written above the image. Obviously, it's meant to be 'she' not 'it'. But it's of some interest to me since I've had my sync experience with IT monster from movies based on King's book of the same title. (#curious) also that in one dream I thought maybe it was hinted I was it – this line was clearly known to the Universe a long time and maybe it played a role somehow? Just speculating and obviously maybe it's not connected

A Nightmare on Elm Street 2: Freddy's Revenge (1985)

Kimberly Lynn; Kim Myers playing Lisa Webber. Kim and Lisa were my names in past lives – at least the answers showed that; I had no time to confirm the Kim's name yet.

Christie Clark playing Angela Walsh. Chris came up as the name I have in a past life (did not confirm it yet). Angelica name was used sometimes by me in Vivien's life as an alias.

Jonathan Hart; Hart Sprager. Hart was a temporary last name in my Amy Lyon's life.

Steven Smith; Steve Eastin. Steve also came up as a name I had in a past life. Smith also relates to my Emma's life.

Mark Patton. Marcus Antonius is someone with whom I shared my Higher Self with; knew him in my Cleopatra's life.

There are more names in the production crew which I had in my past lives. I'll stop here, though. Since I had synchronicities with the first movie, I might have them with other in the series. I did not see anything before I knew who I was in my past lives; but now that I do maybe I'll find something. Of course, since I lived so many lives and had so many names it's quite common to find people among dozens who have the same name or last name I used to have. In itself it may not be any sort of synchronization with me. But if I find something else in the movie, perhaps it is.

0:07:-- I'll just note there's a tennis racket behind Jesse when he wakes up. Dreams about my possible future life had tennis theme going on which also relates to me in this life and in my Vivien's and to smaller degree in Missy's.

The green face on the box Angie holds reminds me of Grinch, of course.

0:07:40 Angie puts the thingies on her fingers to make claws looking like a toy version of Freddy's glove. I used to do the same thing in my childhood, only I created my claws for my fingers with golden foil from some chocolate medals.

0:08:14 Lisa kinda reminds me of Katya whom I met in Sokolniki (the one who drew fairy wings on herself in a photo).

0:18:40 I had 3 budgies in my life. There's a photo of me in my Vivien's life where there are 3 budgies near me (maybe not real birds).

0:19:-- I'm sexually attracted to only females in this life, but I sure have lots of femininity in my, having lived much more female lives than male ones. Also now I often feel what I felt living in my immediate past lives of Missy and Vivien, and that reflects sometimes on my behavior and movements. No desire to do the things Jesse does in that scene, though.

Also, years ago I didn't like to wash dishes and had to listen to music while doing it.

0:20:42 Just noticed Jesse's bed is standing diagonally in his large room for some reason. I had place my bed the same way – not parallel to the walls – due to noise problems I'm having in the corner.

0:21:40 I have a diary. I printed it too.

0:37:40 being naked outside. In Vivien's life, they say, during the episodes (psychological issues) I'd be wandering naked in the public gardens.

0:40:-- There's painting showing 2 dogs.

1:07:33 Toda, on July 1, 2025, I had a dream about bringing knives for help in self defense. Some elements in the movie scene reminded me of what I saw in my dream (but it's all still rather different)

Other things drew my attention but I thought them not be significant enough to mention.

The bed standing diagonally is so uncommon and I don't think I've ever seen it in any other movies. I might have missed it, of course, as I probably did when I was watching this movie years ago after finding synchronicities with the first Nightmare. My situation, which made me put my bed in such a strange way, is also uncommon.

I think this is the best sign that the things I noted down – some of them at least – are actually synchronicities with me and not coincidences.

A Nightmare on Elm Street 3: Dream Warriors (1987)

Some names of the crew and characters are similar to what I had in some of my lives; or to people I knew in some way.

Donna Durham's last name is how we (in VL's life) called a house – Durham Cottage.

0:20:34 today, on July 2, 2025, I had a dream in which I saw roasted pig, I think it was. Might have been a prophetic dream.

0:27:45 Thai food. Thai massage spa is below my apartment. Their air conditioner used to make a lot of noise.

0:33:-- despite proof and evidence I have true dreams, people don't wanna look at it and continue on believing their own wrong ideas.

0:44:55 People only pay for their own sins/mistakes.

0:51:25 Tongue tied. In Look up and Laugh 1935 movie my (Vivien Leigh) character says she likes the guy (Sidney Pearson played by Tommy Fields) tongue tied. He stammered and I saw reflections in that movie with myself in this new and current life (Evgeny).

1:04:-- They need to find Freddy's remains. I'll note that some people search for my remains of some of my past bodies (Alexander, Cleopatra, and some others).

1:15:-- From what I know I did drugs in my past life of Missy. It's unfortunate, but that's life, I guess.

1:16:50 I don't believe in fairy tales either.

Tongue tied part got my attention. But there's much less things I noted in this movie than in the first two. It's not that surprising maybe.

Given that it's the fact now my syncs with the first Nightmare are real (whatever the reason behind their existence might be), it's probably that some things from the following movies in the series would also touch me. Maybe there's something to these things I noted down.

A Nightmare on Elm Street 4: The Dream Master (1988)

00:28 Job IV, 13-14

09:40 Alice is daydreaming. It's the bad habit I can't shake off since starting actively and purposefully daydreaming when I was 13.

16:29 Silly, but dog's pee, I guess, makes the ground where Freddy's remains were buried unholy and Freddy is back. (In the 3-rd movie the doctor had to spray Freddy's remains with holy water to defeat him)

Tonight, on July 2, 2025, I saw a dream in which I was spraying a dog with water so that it doesn't come near me. That part of the dream could have been prophetic. I already noted down the pig I saw in another dream tonight and in the 3-rd Nightmare.

21:21 In this life there was a time in my teenage years when I watched a lot of MTV.

22:33 Wet dreams. Familiar thing.

24:33 must have balance

27:03 I almost lost consciousness at a dentist, and the doctor had to wave ammonia inhalant. It helped.

37:45 I'll just finally note upon seeing the chains again how there's a photo of me in Vivien's life near similar hanging chains, and the shadow my hand makes does remind of Freddy's glove also.

(It's a portrait of me (VL) done by Cecil Beaton for Vogue in 1930_s)

47:20 Sheila is killed at 17. She was gonna be a doctor. As Missy I was killed when I was 17, and I was gonna be someone like a doctor or a nurse (too little information out there)

58:27 everyday Alice changes, as if absorbing some of her dead friends' characteristics.

As noted before, I started to feel sometimes what I felt in some of my past lives in terms of mental state (difficult to explain).

1:11:26 I'll just note bed bugs used to be a big issue for me once in my life.

A Nightmare on Elm Street: The Dream Child (1989)

Amanda Krueger. Tonight, on July 3, 2025, I for some reason hear the name Amanda, and the last name was either Keys or West.

Some other names of people in the crew did appear while I was doing my research into my past lives.

04:58 & 01:00:50 – Tonight, I also had a dream about falling into a deep pool and trying to get back to the surface.

12:-- Alice's dad used to drink. Mine too.

01:15:15 In my Hypatia's life I died in a similar fashion.

Perhaps I only had prophetic dream about the water and pool scenes. Those other similarities could be of no connection to me synchronicity-wise.

Freddy's Dead: The Final Nightmare (1991)

02:55 I used to panic in planes when I lived my life o Vivien, and I started to be afraid of heights and planet when I was a kid in this life.

Also in today's dream, on July 3, 2025, a man kept telling me I was a pilot in a past life.

1:09:30 I have Anaglyph glasses. Used to create some anaglyph images and watched a movie or two in anaglyph.

Wes Craven's New Nightmare (1994)

Marianne Maddalena. I was/am Mary Magdalene.

41:20 I childhood I used to often have nosebleeds.

That Rex dinosaur, I remember as a kid I used to have a dinosaur made of some cloth and stuffed with cotton wool; only it was orangy and smaller. Made I created it, or my grandmother. It wasn't bought.

53:59 I had dream in a dream.

1:15:50 Had my own 'episodes' in past life of VL.

A Nightmare on Elm Street (2010)

17:-- tonight in a dream (July 4, 2025) I saw myself carry b&w photos to narrow space between our 2 village houses. The light went out, or barely lit anything, at one point. I tried to get out of that place asap.

I stopped paying attention to the movie soon and started thinking why they needed to make this one when all the ideas seem to repeat what we already seen in the 80s Nightmare films. Even some cgi effects didn't look right. I fast forwarded the movie just to see if something would draw my attention but I saw pretty much what I already saw in the other Nightmare movies.

But after eating I decided to restore the movie from the recycle bin and watch it. Just do it once and I'll be done with it.

35:40 the birds actually reminded me of how I heard the birds make similar sound (but I thought may they were jackdaws) in my tonight's dream.

49:15 I tried to draw some of what I saw in my dreams too.

I also sometimes see dreams about my school.

1:10:30 Quentin Smith's favorite color is blue. I noticed today that I saw usually many clear as day blue colors in my dreams tonight.

1:10:10 I don't exactly fit in either.

I feel like I might have seen again partially prophetic dreams about what I'd see in a movie during the day. Not a lot of parallels were found.

Although the wiping out of memory part does correlate to how we don't keep the memories from our past lives.

Notes on Movies I Watched in Past Life of Vivien Leigh

I do pay more attention to these movies and maybe overvaluing the things I notice. Although many things I note feel special, resembling other synchronicities I had which turned out to be connected to my past lives.

Scott of the Antarctic (1948)

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0040761/

April 13, 2025

Continued looking at my VL photos I never seen before (in this life) and came across this photo: http://vivandlarry.com/gallery/picture.php?/276/category/102 "The Oliviers attend the Royal Command Film Performance of Scott of the Antarctic, starring John Mills. Leicester Square Theatre, December 1948". I thought I'd like to see that movie I saw in my past life, so I checked Scott of the Antarctic 1948. Saw that an actor by name of Derek Bond is playing in it, and so I remembered my tonight's dream in which I said Bond last name. He plays Captain L.E.G. Oates; I'm subscribed to Rachel Oates YT channel (recently found Rachel is my past life's name). Other character names I noticed: Lt. H.R. Bowers R.I.M. (Scotty Bowers), Dimitri.

April 15, 2025

Watched "Scott of the Antarctic" which I saw in Vivien's life. I noticed several things:

Music played by Philharmonia Orchestra. Not long ago I subscribed to their channel, after I bought the midi keyboard. I watched almost all their videos on music instruments.

Oates, played by Bond, came from India to join the expedition.

A long talk about dogs

23:40 Russian language.

40:30 Russian dancers.

First to set foot. Has parallels with me in old past life of Alexander.

As often it happens, was difficult to watch frost scenes, especially with addition if skin bodily issues shown on screen. I wonder how felt when watching this movie in my past life.

(the movie is based on real people and their true story. There could be other connections – if any. Like, I noticed the cold was one of the reasons those people died in 1912, about 17 days before I died in the Titanic disaster; and cold, I'm think, did play a role too.)

The Prince and the Showgirl (1957)

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0050861/

May 4, 2025

Miss Marina.

Prince speaks German. Moscow and village Marinas studied German in school.

Prince wants a motorcycle. Moscow Marina's future husband took monocycle from her brother(s) and took her also.

Marilyn Monroe's character learned too much of private information. Some say MM's death was no accident for she knew too much. There could be some reflection going on regardless.

"Cook" - said Moscow Marina, sighing (when she told me who she was studying as in college). Norma Jeane Baker. And it's clear now that Marina was probably on top of the wheel in her recent past life. It's clear she was on the side of the wheel when I met her.

There is a chance for reincarnation being the reason I saw those parallels with Moscow Marina, but there could be something else as NW/ER's case showed. I can't ask my HS a direct Q unless I'm prompted/hinted to do so.

Edit: on June 16, 2025 I received the confirmation that Marina was Marilyn Monroe.

Because You're Mine (1952)

https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0044402/

Mario Lanza. I had Mario name is the previous life.

Technicolor Color Consultants. Gooch. TPXP girl of the same last name whom I noticed and kinda liked. I really took note of her name for some reason.

Opening Credits give small Mulholland Dr. Vibes

Army draft. 2 more drafts were mentioned. Wind and beer.

2:27 4 feet 11 and a quarter inch tall. It was about my Missy height.

2:52 lungs photos. Died of tuberculosis as VL.

Opera singing reminds me of my Emma Hamilton life.

22:22 even more Mulholland Dr. Vibes

49 lasagna. Some time is taken to describe it and talk if it. Missy and my lasagna experience.

The Bishop's Wife (1947)

Julia is the name of heroine. Today learned I had that name in one of my past lives.

Mrs. Hamilton

Michel is played by an actor called Eugene Borden.

3 min. I Helped an old lady pass the road.

5:35 $1.85 for the tree.

6:40 how's book coming. Greatest history... Of course nobody will read it.

7:30 roman coin. Saw coins in a dream today. May 20, 2025.

15:55 lunch at Michele's (I think it was)

18:45 Cary says he's an Angel. Today I heard Tobey name and read the story in which an angel went to Tobey to help him and his dad.

35:30 Michel is a man. He speaks french with angel Cary. Noted how Michel D. Spoke french with "angels"/ thiaooubians.

36:40 palm reading. Future.

43:25 Jealous C. And me, Cleopatra are mentioned. Wonder if I felt something when I watched this scene in my Vivien's life. Today I learn my name was Julia; remembered Caesar among other Julias in my life.

Angel Cary says only 100 of those coins were minted by J.C. when I visited Rome. I saw coins and a mention of 100 tonight in dreams.

48 min. asking for proof. Thinks he's a demon. Tobi story has one too.

1:42:30 no memory will remain.

A Town Like Alice (1956)

Alice. Marinas daughter called similarly. And someone else of notice was called Alice.

11:59 hiding in the ditch. With Denis hid from guys from other end if our village in a ditch after first canal near river when I was kid. It was his idea I guess didn't wanna see them.

31:32 washing face with dirty water. Koshelevo, going back I did a similar thing but the water seemed clean. Dima said it was dirty or something. I was alright.

58:45 snake in the wood. While picking mushrooms with Vitya in forest saw уж snake. I got frozen with fear until I realized it wasn't poisonous.

In the film a woman tries to suck the poison out when boy dies from the bite. Sucking poison out from a snake bite wound is the topic some guys with dirty minds, Id say, in our group fantasized.

1:02:00 in my life I witnessed a woman bow like that revealing her breasts. I also saw a completely naked woman in similar posture when walking near a house and turning my head towards drown out certain or something.

1:02:20 no rations sound like no Russians.

1:24:10 women pluck chickens. When I was 18 and silly I wanted to go to USA so bad I was having a thought that I'd pluck chickens in there if I could live there. Perhaps the fact in my recent past lives I lived in western countries (but didn't know it then) had something to do with that madness I was in.

I like animals and it's hard to watch the scene.

1:35:-- nailing, crucifying to the tree reminds of crucifixion I might have witnessed in some of my past lives.

1:47:40 Jakov. Jacob, Rachel.

1:49:25 Jack Burns. Marilyn Burns' name got imprinted into my head due to how cool it sounds.

Richard III (1955)

At first, I watched the movie at ease – supposing I won't see anything of connection to me or anyone since it's a historic movie (Shakespearian) -, but later, when I realized Elliot Rodger could have been Richard III, my mind got busy with thoughts. I became tense and could barely relax. I started to see parallels with Elliot and his past selves.

I could barely pay attention to the movie because of all that and because of me having had to explain simple truths to people who commented on my findings about Elliot's past lives. I probably missed a lot of synchronicities, but I also spotted some.

This movie proved to be yet another film I watched a premier of in my past life of Vivien Leigh, and now that I was watching it in my current life of Evgeny I find connections to past lives of me and other people (Elliot).

Saw some familiar words and numbers. Richard looks like a cold-blooded killer in the film. Had dream about Elliot Rodger Today (May 22, 2025), and we were in vaulted rooms at first... sword fight… Richard's looks are of interest too here...

Movie has mentions of dreams and prophecies.

54:38 supreme king of kings.

1:03:50 Richard says "my other self" to his cousin. He says "royal self" to a boy later in the movie.

1:14:50 the boy asks if Julious Caesar built that place.

The following day I got the answer from my Higher Self in a dream that https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Elliot_Rodger was https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Richard_III_of_England in his past life.

The Beachcomber [Vessel of Wrath] (1938)

Photographed by Jules Kruger

22:-- court scene

38:-- appendix. Sergey. Natural accident.

1:17:- I don't know if Charles lives atm, but the man in photo looks similar to the bf of girl who I thought might have been Charles in her past life.

1:24:25 my father drank himself to death.

The movie made me remember the man who came to Russia to treat his tooth, and I had a conversation with him in the square near my house. He lived in a tropical region; said something about bounty.

The sound had noise and the copy of the movie was a bit damaged I think, so I could not hear everything. Maybe there were other interesting things to note.

But I actually found enough parallels with my life from this film too.

So far, all 7 movies I know I watched (at the premier, etc.) in my past life of VL had something I could clearly notice in connection to my life.

My Fair Lady (1964)

13:15 squashed cabbage leaf; later he says this again. (A man once said the same thing about me when I was not in my good shape; it was hurtful to hear.)

Incarnate itself into English language

English language. Anna A. I talked to in vk worked as English tutor. She said she liked watching movies with Audrey Hepburn.

25:40 maybe nothing but had that fork thing listen to at exam for army.

29:50 sits in chair. Noticed Anna has similar photos which I find unusual.

55:30 had situations with bad breath from people

2:26:15 27A house number

2:30:35 Mrs. Pearce (I used a similar last name as an alias for a test profile)

2:37:50 Freddy Hill (I had Hill last name)

2:39:-- she says she'd be a teacher. Phonetics

My diary entry of June 25, 2025 contains more detailed account of just what these parallels I saw in Audrey and Rex's characters may mean.

Addition of June 26, 2025. Today it was confirmed via my Higher Self and dreams that Anna, with whom I chatter for a bit on vk.com, was Audrey Hepburn in her past life.

The Inn of the Sixth Happiness (1958)

1:30 donat is the word I often hear while watching Russian streams as it means donation.

2:30 lion statue

Map of Russia is shown.

14:55 you feel where you belong. For Ingrid's character it's China. I had similar ideas about western countries and later learned I lived in them in several of my past lives.

18:37 Robinson Crusoe. Made me remember how Anton was talking about adult, I believe, movie version of that story.

19:-- train travels through Russia. Russian words, which I now know, are heard.

The whole scene was interesting to watch now that I've lived in Russia, am Russian, and understand now the mindset of people living in this country. The scene made me smile. But then I should not forget I lived here in another life of Evdokia before I was born as Vivian. Wonder what I felt, if anything, when I was watching this scene in the theater in my VL life.

27:27 our grubby palace. Grubby streamer is someone ilm sharing my HS with. I don't know when, if ever, I heard this word to mean dirty. Grubby has a Chinese wife if I'm not mistaken.

I used to live in China in at least one of my past lives. Before I was Vivien.

45:-- Jesus, Bethliem. Now I know I was Mary Magdalene and was near Jesus. But I didn't know it was VL due to material knowledge being erased on the river of oblivion.

56:-- foot binding was a custom which became popular during Song dynasty of which I was a part. The description of it was difficult for me to read due to broken feet. I remembered how I broke my foot in VLs life; just wonder if there could be some connection to my Zhao life.

1:11:20 Li is the name of the speaker. Same as wife in Zhao life had CHECK¡!!!!!!!!!!!¡!!!!!!!!!!!!

1:12:45 Jen-ai, the one who loves people. Perhaps its a reach, but My name, Zhenya, sounds not the same but somewhat similar for me to notice it.

1:28:20 there's a band called Sixpence None the Richer. Used to like some if their songs.

1:28:30 Capt. Lin's mother was Chinese, father Dutch. Grubby is Dutch.

Movie I might Have Watched in a Past Life

Bonjour Tristesse (1958)

Yesterday (June 11, 2025) I watched Bonjour Tristesse (1958) because I saw a photo of me in my Vivien's life visiting Deborah Kerr on its set in the South of France. I don't know if I saw the movie in that life, but I found several synchronicities:

10:28 7 & 3 magic number for Cecile. She was superstitious. She was 17. My mother was 7 years old when the movie came out. (7 is my number too, in a way – Cleopatra VII, 14 & 28 half-life story, etc.)

41:30 I decided to take a shower in the middle of the movie. While my hair was drying out, I watched a video about casino cheaters - don't remember if I ever watched something like that. I return to the movie and the scene I stopped watching at takes place at a casino - also rare that I see casino in a movie, especially in an old movie. And the man in the video said 7 could not be rolled/made by a rigged dice and that's how [some] cheaters win https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0QWP4IZOu0I 3:50.

1:29:00 7th accident at that spot since summer

The way they talk. When I tried writing screenplays my characters might have talked similarly (English isn't my native language, and I did not see a lot of videos showing people talking as they do irl). Too polite and grammatically correct. Wonder if I thought of it something in VL life and it was a bit if suffering for me?

Later I got reminded of Ela's reactions to videogames with similar dialogues. I had a few thoughts as to why that might be, but it's something I can't check unless I get a hint it's ok for me to try.

Update of June 15, 2025. I've been watching Ela finish biking event yesterday, on 14-th – 315km track. On 13-th I donated $10 in ETH for charity they collected money for. I'd like to note the following:

$77777 when Ela finished and was giving interview.

Lurker for 7 years - someone wrote in donation.

772 (the last digit is probably 2) the number on Ela's shirt.

I don't if I came across someone else's past life here, but now there are more chances it could be so.

I could see it. How after giving up on life, a person would start to look at alternatives; fight instead of flight. He did have self-control – in regards to raging at games – when he started streaming (I saw clips that he showed himself - hitting keyboards and things); but then he learned there's no point in emotions – they won't help with anything and so he learned to be calm. It does relate to nerves, of course.

But again, I don't know who Jean Seberg would become in her future lives, and unless I get a hint it's ok to find out, I can't ask my Higher Self any questions about it.

I experienced a synchronicity with a scene in the movie which set I visited. I might note that Deborah's character is not present in that casino scene. It may shed some light on how synchronicities work, but there's little data for now to make good theories.

On another note, Sal Piacente (the casino cheating expert from the video) mentioned Ocean's 11 movie which stars George Clooney with whom I share my Higher Self. (I need to watch the movie since it was a long time since I saw it, but I guess at least one scene takes place at a casino)

Facial Resemblances with People I Know or Have Seen

I found that in my past lives I looked at certain moments very similar, or almost identical even, to people whom I know in my current life of Evgeny. This is a very important experience because I've never had something like this happen to me in this life – e.g. when I find numerous facial resemblances between different people. It is one of great examples that the method I use to find my past lives is working properly, provided you correctly interpret the dream.

Emma Hamilton

George Romney - Lady Hamilton (as a Bacchante) 3.
I personally can definitely see Marina from village in this portrait.

Romney's portrait of Emma in a black hat, about 1784.
The look in this portrait constantly appears to remind me of my niece Natasha.

Emma, Lady Hamilton, as a Bacchante.
The hair in that and maybe in another painting resembled Karen Severson's hair and to some degree look when she was appearing on Dr. Phil.

Vivien Leigh

Gentlemen's Agreement poster. Reminded me of how Sofiko_Sculpts looks. She's a streamer I started watching after finding Dread Hunger game. Sometimes I'd write in her chat, which is not something I usually do.

Set of GWtW. Where I wear the red dress, sitting on a chair and having a cigarette in my hands. Reminded me of (Юля?) the girl who sometimes visited our village – she is a relative of Yana and Lena.

Romeo and Juliet 1940. There's a picture of me in white dress and with white flowers on my head. I'm pretty sure it reminds of someone I knew but I can never pinpoint who it is exactly…

Vogue – Vivien Leigh 1946 Vogue Photo Cecil Beaton. I have to say sometimes when look at this photo I get reminded of Olya (Vladic's relative).

Michele 'Missy' Avila

The black and white photo of me in that life (wearing a white(?) sweater or something like that) reminded me of Natasha from Velozavodskaya.

* Other

The man I saw in my bathroom when I had a lucid dream.
His hair reminded me of Anton.
His facial features reminded me of mom's friend Anna's son, Слава (Slava). Streamer Scatman from Goodgame.ru also has vaguely similar facial features.

Photos of me in Past Lives - I Knew what I Felt then

In this file I collect images of me in my past lives that I know what I felt like, or what mood I was in, when those pictures of me were taken.
(Images were removed from the published file due to potential © issues.)

There are multiple other photos of me in my past lives that I often remember when I feel in a particular way – usually, in my normal and happy state of mind. I won't list them because the length of this file would be too long.

I'll only list here the most prominent instances of me knowing what I felt like in a particular photo.

When I'm in my normal non gaslighted mood I see myself in most of my past life photos (Vivien, Michele)

Michele Avila

"Missy Avila & Kim Stankey. March 1982 Byrd Jr High - Sheldon Street.jpg"
February 18, 2025. I was walking outside near the wild rose and the little fir tree, as well as chestnuts. It was a sunny morning, and when I was walking with the sun shining on my face, I had another sensation when I'm aware of the fact how I'm feeling right now in my mood is what I felt at a particular moment in my past life – of which there's a photo or video. This time I knew what my mood was in this picture.

16.04.2026: The photo near palms. I have my hands in the pockets of the blue… full zip hoodie, I believe it's called.

Yesterday I was looking to this image and I noticed how my right face side (which is partially covered by hair hiding the curvature of the female face) reminds me of the features of my own face there. In fact, for a moment I could see literally my own current face in that part of my past life's face in that photo… The thing is, even the right eye in that particular photograph appears to be brown (the color of my current body's eyes), and the eyelids appear to be more closed than those of the left eye.

Vivien Leigh

"Vivien Leigh (1913 - 1967) at her home at 6 Little Stanhope Street (now Stanhope Row) in Mayfair, London, where she lived with her first.jpg"

I knew that my mind was calm in this picture. I was lying in bed as well, looking in the same direction. The calmness of mind is important to me since I know now what issues I had later in this life, and I was happy to know there were moments of peace in that life too.

*(Screenshot from GwtW, where Scarlett wakes up after having s*x with Rhett.)*

Often, when I wake up in the morning in a good relaxed mood, I feel like I did when this scene from Gone with the Wind was shot.

(Screenshot from GwtW, where Scarlett in the red dress walks into the "Lion's den".)

Months after I learned I am Vivien Leigh – in winter -, I was walking near the tram tracks that go along the school, and I moved my arm in a similar fashion immediately remembering this shot in Gone with the Wind.

Perhaps, it was my right hand, not left as in this image. I've noticed in this life some things about me are as if mirrored. I comb my hair to the other side than I did as Vivien; it's easier to raise my left eyebrow than my right one; etc.

"At home in 1941 Durham Cottage.jpg" (We hold shovels in this photo)

October 25, 2024. I was walking outside and several times felt again as I knew I did in my Vivien's life – 'At home in 1941.jpg' : maybe A portrait of a young Vivien from her personal collection, courtesy of Elvira C Bonet for the Vivien Leigh Circle.jpg ; and in some other photos where my expressions are similar.

I was walking near Magnet store on Открытое ш., 2, корп. 12, Москва.

"age 17-19.jpg" (Photo at a beach)

February 15, 2025. On the day before yesterday, before going to bed, I looked at some of my Vivien's photos; where I was young. The photo on the beach where I'm about 17-19 (age 17-19.jpg), wearing black and a belt on my waist, was the one I could know what mood I was at the moment that picture was taking; I was wondering what I felt at that moment, and when I clicked to another image, with my psychological state also changing, I realized what I was feeling now was what I felt then (on 'age 17-19.jpg' photo).

"Vivien-Leigh_George-Douglas-5.jpg" (Tickerage-Mill-Cottage-Sussex)

I was walking outside and put my hand just like that on my neck, immediately remembering this photo of me. In my current life I sometimes put my hand around my neck just like this.

"Vivien Leigh starred in the 1937 stage production of Hamlet as Ophelia, when the Old Vic traveled to Denmark.jpg"

Also, I sometimes hold my hands similarly to how I do in the photo in another life, and I get reminded of this photo.

"Vivien Leigh in the 60s (2).jpg" (It's a color phot. Red cushions and a large painting are behind me)

I placed my left hand on my cheek once and right away I had this image appear in my memory.

(I lay and hold a purse in my right hand which is raised up a little and bent in the elbow.)

The way I felt in this photo is what I get reminded the most of. The reason is simple. When I watch twitch or youtube in the evenings I lay just like that in my bed, and I often place my elbow on the right armrest of my bed (it's a fold-out sofa) and I hold it in almost the same way as I do in this picture of me. Only I don't usually hold anything in it, and I look a bit to the right of me (not on the left as in the photo) because that's where my monitor is.

"1960s.jpg" (It's a color photo. "DISC" can be seen behind me. I hold glasses in my hands and wear white gloves)

It's subtle. Often it was night and I was lying in bed when my feelings would awaken the memory of this image.

'Disco', I believe, is written behind me. It's clear it was dark. The dress further suggests it might have been a night club (discotheque) of sorts.

(Sitting with my left jawbone resting on my left hand's palm. "S.I.P_108_P_505" is written in the bottom left corner of the image.)

I used to often sit like this. So this image would often be remembered by me.

(My head is tilted to my left in this photo. Eyes stare to the right. Wearing black)

This image is important because this is the one in which I first noticed I hold my head in similar fashion. One of synchronicities. Later I learned I am this person - in my past life.

"Vivien Leigh signs her contract to play Scarlett, in Gone With the Wind. She's surrounded by David O. Selznick, Leslie Howard and Olivia de Havilland.jpg"

There are several pictures of me in this dark dress with lion during and around signing of Gone with the Wind contract. I often realize what I felt like then.

"Vivien Leigh by Philippe Halsman for LIFE 1946.jpg"

I was in a type of melancholic mood – but not depression – when this image was brought up in my mind.

Storm in a Teacup movie.

Knew what felt in Storm in a Teacup at the end when car drives off. When I look forward.

Felt what I was feeling psychologically in the video before GwtW shootings. I stand with 2 other women and I smile and say something gently.

When I sit in a car and hold a kitten. Color photo. I wear headscarf on the head. Started knowing what I felt then sometime around mid-august of 2025.

The photo on the cover of Alexander Walker's book Vivien: The Life of Vivien Leigh.

I was reading GwtW (chapter XII) and at one point I felt as if connected to the moment when that photo of me in my past life was taken.

Angelo Mario Rotta

The only image me in that life online, as far as I know. I was looking at this photo, remembering how sometimes I know what I felt like in the moment the photo was taken of me in my past life, and it got me wondering if I could feel the same here. I did, but it was subtle.

Emma Hamilton

"A detail of Emma as La Penserosa, 1791-92, by Sir Thomas Lawrence. Photograph Bryan F Rutledge BADuke of Abercorn.avif"

When I asked my Higher Self to show me in a dream what I looked like in my Emma Hamilton's life I saw this drawing. I felt like a… noble maybe. Thoughts weren't clouded. I notice now the garment I wear in the drawing – provided I wore it while posing – may have influenced that mood.

Photo Notes

Vivien

"1939 Vivien Leigh Screen test for Gone with the Wind"

I noticed that I turn my head and eyes in that video of VL in similar way to how I sometimes still do in my current life (#psyche-data)?

"English actor Laurence Olivier with his wife Vivien Leigh portrayed while feeding pigeons in St. Mark Square, Venice, 1957"

Title of a photo in which a pigeon sits on VL's head. There was a time a single pigeon in Sokolniki tried to land on my head when I was taking pictures for 360 panorama. There were no other birds around and the pigeon had plenty of space to sit somewhere else… I wouldn't be surprised if it's all somehow related

"Vivien Leigh snapped this photo of Laurence Olivier having fallen through a lawn chair while on vacation in the late 1930s.jpg"

Brought memory in me of Aleksey A sitting on the chair in my apartment and breaking it under his weight.

And I feel like maybe there was something else relating to lawn chair of similar nature… but maybe I'm wrong.

"Laurence Olivier joking around at Notley Abbey, c. 1945. Photo by John or Mary Mills.jpg"

The single tree on the top right reminded me of Elm tree we have on the hill in Malie Gorki village. At first I even thought of that tree as "вяз" (Elm), having my mind in another place (Goodgame, about to watch WC3 tournament (Orc & Roll, 3rd day) on Miker's channel)

"The Oliviers with Garson Kanin and Ruth Gordon at Notley Abbey, early 1950s.jpg"

Again, the single tree reminds me of the elm tree in my village Malie Gorki (Малые Горки). I saw it in a dream recently (now's April 19, 2025).

"Laurence Olivier and composer Malcolm Sargent are photographed outside Buckingham Palace after being given knighthoods. July 8, 1947..jpg"

Almost exactly 20 years before my death in Vivien's life.

"Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh leave Atlanta after the premiere of Gone With the Wind, December 1939.png"

A bird logo

"At a tennis match with Claire Trevor in the late 1930searly 1940s 2.jpg"

Amélie Mauresmo with whom I share my HS is/was a tennis player. I used to watch a lot of tennis too.

"LO becomes a Knight Commander of the Order of Dannebrog for his

Laurence Olivier becomes a Knight Commander of the Order of Dannebrog for his services to the theatre and film. With him are (L-R) Vivien Leigh, Prince George of Denmark, and the Danish Ambassador and his wife. Photo taken at the Danish Embassy, London, March 1949

"Vivien Leigh leaves St Mary's Church, Cadogan Street, Chelsea, after attending the wedding of Mr Tarquin Olivier, son of Laurence Olivier and his first wife, actress Jill Esmond.jpg"

"The Oliviers with Gertrude Lawrence and Alexander Cadogan in New York, May 1946"

Mother in Emma Hamilton's life became Mrs. Cadogan – p. 24 EMMA, LADY HAMILTON by Flora Fraser. I had Alexander name too in a past life.

"Vivien Leigh kisses Laurence Olivier goodbye as he left by car for the airport where he caught a plane to New York. He was scheduled to speak at the Carnegie Hall gala for the first anniversary of the signing of the UN Declaration of Human Rights. Photographed on December 18, 1949."

"The Oliviers and publisher Jamie (Hamish) Hamilton, photographed by Yvonne Hamilton at Brittenden, Sussex, February 1941.jpg"

Had Hamilton last name in a past life. Yvonne name relates to Yvette name I'd have in my then future life of Michele Yvette "Missy" Avila.

"Benita Hume, Ronald Colman, LO and VL at the Trocadero nightclub in Hollywood, following the Los Angeles premiere of GWtW.December 28, 1939.png"

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Trocadero_%28Los_Angeles%29

One of café's manager's was composer and businessman Turk Prujan.

Noted this due to my syncs with Turkey.

Wilkerson, the original owner of the club, later launched Ciro's nightclub and LaRue Restaurant. As VL I was photographed at Ciro's too.

"at Durham Cottage in Chelsea, 1947.png"

Light fixtures have shells as light dispensers. There was a shell in village's large house; you could hear 'ocean' when having it near your ear (Seashell resonance). I brought back many small seashells from Oka River when we (mam and dad and I) visited it.

"LO and VL plant a tree at Notley Abbey while friends (including Roger Furse and Bobby Helpmann) look on. Early 1950s.jpg"

We're planting oak tree in the picture. In my current childhood I tried to plant an oak tree near my house but with no success (many other trees did start to grow normally). I noticed that in my childhood that for some reason oaks I plant just don't wanna grow (maybe I tried planting 2 of them.)

"leaving Durham Cottage for Southampton to catch the Mauretania to New York to star in the two Cleopatra plays. December 1951.png"

I was 38 then. I died at 39 as Cleopatra; the other fateful events occurred earlier.

"The Oliviers step into a row boat on Lake Garda, Italy. July 19, 1955.jpg"

Maybe it's nothing. But since I have syncs with Silent Hill games (2-nd part in particular) Just noting the boat reminds me of the one in that game that James takes to go to the hotel.

"The Oliviers arrive in New York for the start of their Broadway season in the two Cleopatra plays. December 1951.jpg"

Reminded me of the dream I had on January 1, 2024. There were many large bags in it also.

"bumbercarsvivlarry.jpg" (I didn't change the spelling)

Noting this coz this picture brought memories of me remembering paying close attention to bumper cars in my current life's childhood. I don't think I ever driver those in my current life.

"piazza san marco 1957.jpg"

Aside from a pigeon trying to sit on my head in Sokolniki, the picture made in that place reminded me of the video in which people shuffle dance and one is doing it on that same square. I watched this video many times, and I liked the girl in the purple blue dress, and checked out her personal pages on the Internet.

"at the New Theatre, London, on February 14, 1951, to attend the first night of Bernard Shaw's Man and Superman. Vivien is wearing a red jacket by French designer Lucien Lelong.jpg"

It's May 3, 2025 today and I had a dream in which oaks were mentioned. Later in the day I found this image in which I wear a jacked with what looks like red autumn oak leaves.

"w C K Feldmanthankslena - Charles Feldman, Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier.jpg"

w C K Feldman thanks Lena is what the original title meant. Elena (Lena) name used to have the person whose 19% of electrons were used to build my current body (the process and details aren't too clear atm).

"vacation viv model pose 1950s.jpg"

I don't know the color of sunglasses, but I had similar ones (green?) in my village. Think they should be still somewhere in the house. The shape is similar.

"At Notleythankslena.jpg"
We're about to sit in the old car with from doors opening differently. Not the same model, but similar design car was used by Bonnie and Clyde. I just recently (May 19, 2025 atm) read about them and thought about that car. Never knew I also drove in such (I assume I did).

"Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh raise a toast with cast members of Summer of the Seventeenth Doll, April 1957.jpg"
Just noting I lived till the age of 17 in my next life of Michele.

"The Oliviers with Noel Coward and Madeleine Renaud at the St James's Theatre after the final curtain of Les Fausses Confidences, presented by Jean-Louis Barrault's company. October 1951.png" Madeleine name comes from me – Maria Magdalene.

"The Oliviers with John Gielgud and Angela Baddely at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre in Stratford-upon-Avon, 1955.png" Angelo was my past life's name.

"Vivien Leigh with Martita Hunt and Daphne Newton in Terence Rattigan's The Sleeping Prince, 1953.png"
"Miss Hunt" is written in one of my Missy's photos.

"Vivien Leigh on the cover of the March 13, 1940 issue of The Bystander. Photographed by Gordon Anthony ca. 1938.jpg"
The article mentions that California came to Wimbledon and took their cup away. Maybe it's nothing, but I watched a Wimbledon tennis match shortly before my death in VL life.

"Vivien Leigh photographed by Felix Fonteyn, 1949.jpg"
The boyfriend of the sales girl at Korablik store where I worked for ~2 weeks was called Felix. I chatted with that girl while she was smoking outside.

"A.V. Swaebe photo of VL chatting with one Richard Brinsley Sheridan (not the playwright, but possibly a relation), Shane Lesley, and Clare Sheridan at the opening night of "Rivals!" by the original Richard Brinsley Sheridan. London, October 1935.jpg" http://vivandlarry.com/gallery/picture.php?/255/category/34
A different Richard Brinsley Sheridan is mentioned by Flora Fraser in Emma, Lady Hamilton book on page 6. I noted before that the last name 'Sheridan' appeared in my both VL and EH lives. This synchronicity is even more curious.

“321 Vivien Leigh and Jeanne de Casalis in Ashford, Kent, August 1935. They had attended a stage charity concert in aid of the Actors’ Orphanage and Ashford Hospital.jpg”

I’ll note I used to fold my arms in childhood often – to the point one girl took notice of it when she was making a psychological profile of us just for fun. She said it was sign of shyness, or something. I was shy. I took note of it and tried not to fold my arms like that.

“VL in the audience for the Junior League Ball, part of the 3 day Atlanta premiere of GwtW. David O. Selznick is next to her, while Claudette Colbert is behind.jpg”

Claudette played me in Cleopatra 1934. https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0024991/

She was sitting near the person whom - in her past incarnation - she played, and yet she had no direct realization of that fact… I had no direct understanding of that either then…

I used the name Sonny (sounds as Sunny) when I worked as freelancer. Alexander used to be my name in a past life.

“Vivien Leigh is pictured with her assistant, Sunny Alexander Lash. Photo is snapped by a fan, possibly in New York, 1939”

The man in the photo distantly reminds me of my classmate Alexey. He left our school after the first years he studied in it. I mentioned him in my book Simple Truths of Life.

“Vivien Leigh and Loretta Young at agent Myron Selznick’s house during a New Year’s party, 1939.jpg”

14 is in the picture. Don’t know what it means or why it’s there.

“Vivien Leigh photographed by Yvonne Hamilton at Brittenden, Sussex, February 1941.jpg”

Used to have Hamilton last name.

“mike todd’s party.jpg”

Riding toy horses in a carousel. Brings in me Silent Hill memories; although I mostly had synchronicities with SH2, and the carousel was in the first SH.

“Vivien Leigh having a whale of a time on a swing at Tickerage Mill, early 1960s.jpg”

I used to swing on a swing near my village house a lot.

“Vivien and Jack Merivale attend the opening night of Sleeping Beauty at the Théâtre des Champs-Élysées, October 1960.jpg”

Sometimes – I believe – I hold my hand in a similar fashion on my upper chest. It’s not something I do consciously so I say ‘I believe’. It’s hard to notice. Just a habit.

“Vivien Leigh and Jean-Pierre Aumont photographed in New York by Bob Deutsch, 1964.jpg”

Maybe nothing, just noting I had to learn German in school.

On November 5, 1961, cast and crew of the Old Vic Australia and South American tour threw Vivien a surprise 48th birthday party that resembled the TV show “This is Your Life.” According to cast member David Dodimead, “Forty years fell off her face” when she realized what was happening. photo by Carolyn Pertwee in Sydney.

“Inside pages of an Australian herald for Dark Journey .jpg”

I’ll note long time ago I had a dream I was in Sweden’s Stockholm (from what I remember). The streets were empty – no people or animals (Maybe it was early dawn). Greta Garbo, Ela (streamer I watched), and Dist’s (G.B.) gf are from Sweden.

“Vivien Leigh by Clarence Sinclair Bull for Gone With the Wind. Collection of Nikki Luebke”

3 birds are in the photo. They look like budgies but not sure. Also note sure if they’re real or not. I had exactly 3 budgies in my current life.

“Air Conditioned Voncastle.jpg”

Could be nothing, but I’ve been having noise issues with air conditioners under my windows in Moscow (Sberbank; and now Thai Spa)

“L-R Director William Dieterle, Vivien Leigh, Cecil B. De Mille, and Peter Finch on the Hollywood set of Elephant Walk. Paramount Studios, 1953.jpg”

The studio’s entrance is shown in Mulholland Dr. movie.

“Vivien Leigh and director Anatole Litvak. Advertising material for The Deep Blue Sea (1955).jpg”

“Vivien Leigh and director Anatole Litvak enjoy a sledding adventure in Klosters, Switzerland, where they were filming The Deep Blue Sea, 1954.png”

Reminded me of how I often sledded in my childhood.

Also, my relative was Anatoly.

“deep blue sea sleigh.png”

Reminded of Russia.

1937 2 Bats in the Belfry. There's a photo where we sit and there's a large ghostly face looking in my direction from above. It doesn't seem like this double exposure – which is what it probably is – was done on purpose.

3 photos showing me at a very young age in that life. The middle one has my hair cut kinda somewhat similar to 'Cleopatra' hairstyle.

Part 3. People with Whom I Share My Higher Self

I haven't yet had time to read in details about Marcus Antonius and Patrick Swayze. The notes in regards to those people are in my diary section.

Greta Garbo

Her father died when she was 14. But most importantly she became US citizen (and stopped being Swedish one) on the exactly the same day my mother was born – 9-th February, 1951!

She was Nominated for 4 Oscars. 11 wins & 7 nominations total.

She was in 33 movies. (28 feature films)

She was in the business for 21 years (1920-1941).

She played Russians; and she played Anna Karenina (as did I in VL life)

She played a Queen – Christina. I can only wonder atm if she played herself too. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Christina,_Queen_of_Sweden https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Queen_Christina_(film) https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0024481/?ref_=nm_knf_t_4

She said she always had mood swings. Some say she could have been bi polar.

Feared of strangers. (on Wiki it's phrased a bit differently: "As early as I can remember, I have wanted to be alone. I've always been moody. I detest crowds, I don't like many people.")

She invested in many stocks and bonds.

There are some indirect and direct interconnections in my VL life with Garbo (we've met once at Cukor's party).

She had depressions. Some issues with expressing her identity. (has some connection to myself)

There are many hints of similarities between us.

She died on April 15, 1990. Titanic sank on April 15, 1912. Noting it in case the ideas I have about the possible life just before VL will be confirmed one day.

Cukor called Garbo stubborn

She lost her father at 14. Ingrid also lost her dad at about that age.

She was 17 when she first acted on stage for a test. She was accepted.

“The usual course was two years. But I was just beginning the third, when one of the teachers came to me and said, Mauritz Stiller wanted a girl to play in a picture for him. I said: “Ya? I will go and see him!” I didn’t think much about it. I never get thrilled about anything until it happens. It hurts too much to be disappointed.”

I try to be of the same mindset.

“My brother’s name? My sister’s? What does that matter? They are my people. Why should I tell their names to other people? Names do not matter. If I should read them - it would hurt. Hurt here.”

I still don’t know if Chris is Dist’s real name. Google returned the name Alain, but I don’t think it’s right. But he did say on stream the name of his brother, though. I feel like this is a rather big connection to Garbo’s new life of streamer Dist.

There were many other small things which I found familiar.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UGyRuRPXsgY

2:00 Garbo said to her grandniece that she’d [Greta] be good at whatever she’d set out to do. I remember someone saying the same thing about me in my Vivien Leigh life.

Greta painted.

Greta, Ingrid, me (Vivien) – all played Russians. Ingrid and I played ourselves in our past lives. Not sure about Greta.

Distortion2

When watching Dist’s stream I did notice certain similarities in what we have to learn in life. With Greta Garbo there were similar similarities.

We seem to like quite similar music too.
EDIT: His bd is in July. Same as me.
He likes Twin Peaks. Same as me.

Has brother Kyle.

I noted that both Dist and Grubby have girlfriend/wife who have Asian roots.

Dist – “sometimes you have to accept it’s pointless to argue.” It’s kinda what I thought of in the morning regarding reincarnation’s group, and I agree.

Hate is a strong word
Has awareness he doesn’t know all and could be wrong

Bogdan helped find missed items DS2.
I remember that name from somewhere. Update: A guy called by that name lived on the 6-th floor. His mother tried to give me some book to read – something about self help – but I said I already know my answers to my problems. Told her about Thiaoouba.

Gaslighting from hundreds of people saying you’re wrong. Starts to doubt

Explaining simple things which seems obvious

29 years old.

01.01.2026. Watched Dist’s marathon of the games he used to speedrun, and heard several parallels, and also distinctions between us.

Dist bought a new monitor, which is QD OLED too. I bought a similar monitor and awaiting delivery. He doesn’t use hdr, and I personal liked hdr on my oled phone.

Bioshock Infinite game lagged/froze (for a second or so) for Dist at certain times. Elden Ring freezes and lagged for me in the exact same manner that same day and the day before.

If I heard it right, he had the same mouse I have now (g502 x).

February 13, 2026. Some time ago I had a dream about Matrix. I played the central role, and in some scenes maybe was Neo, or at least was in the same situations as Neo in the film. Like, there was a scene which was similar to the mirror scene in the film. something was being stirred in a bowl-like tool. Then I hear a voice mention that next time I should go to the left – something like that. (Later in the day I remembered that dream when Dist was hit by the ball in DS1 and mentioned he forgot just how much the ball was rolling to the left.)

On Feb. 12-th, I gave a shot to Dark Souls 3. Wanted to see how many bosses I’d defeat by just running from one boss to another (only collecting essential items on the way). Unfortunately, the game started lagging near Deacons Of The Deep – maybe due to my xbox controller disconnecting – and the save file was ruined. I did reach the first dlc and climbed that longest ladder to get the titanite slab – I noted to myself the fact the ladder was so long. During that same day Dist played DS1 and climbed a long ladder, and he did also mention the fact that the ladder is so long.

There were some other parallels. Like when Dist, having a good weapon he wanted to defeat some bosses with, attacked the enemy replacing the black knight and getting a weapon he didn't need. He called himself by words which I sometimes use, unfortunately, when I myself do silly stupid things that I shouldn't.

He had an almost obsession speed running RE3:Remake. He'd delete the game to then reinstall it back and run on stream. I remember watching his runs then (didn't know we shar a HS then). He was actually asking how to permanently remove the game so he can't install it back.

Mentioning it coz I had my share of obsessions too.

Joan of Arc

I think that Thiaooubians were creating the visions Joan saw.

She may have lived and played a big role during the times when Jesus was on Earth too, and during other times before. I'm basing this on my own lives' experiences with people from Thiaoouba.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Joan_of_Arc

Wearing man's cloths.

Grubby made a point women can wear whichever cloths they choose – which I agree with – when somebody in his chat said something about the cloths they thought were too revealing or something.

Joan was captured by Burgundian troops on 23 May 1430. Joan agreed to surrender to a pro-Burgundian nobleman named Lyonnel de Wandomme, a member of Jean de Luxembourg's contingent. who quickly moved her to his castle at Beaulieu-les-Fontaines, near Noyes.

On 23 May 1431, Joan was formally admonished by the court.

Maybe it's nothing but - Bonnie Parker / Elliot R. died on this day. My life is connected to that Spirit's entity. There could be some interconnections between Grubby and E.R. also (in past lives). And they did meet face to face when they (Natalie Wood and Ingrid Bergman) presented an award together at the 1969 Academy Awards. I wonder if Natalie Wood lived in 1430 AD, and if yes, who she was then.

Charles VII. Just noting the number 7.

In 1428 Joan's visions told her to leave Domrémy to help the Dauphin Charles.

Charles VII met Joan for the first time when she was 17 and he was 26.

Joan became a military leader.

Grubby has been playing real time strategy games like WarCraft 3 and StarCraft 2, and he was highly successful, winning many tournaments. WC3 is how I learned about him when I was in school, and I watched his old matches on YouTube long time ago.

He doesn't like to lose, but that's [often] a given.

After Joan's death, her ashes were thrown into the Seine River.

The river is 777-kilometre-long.

7, 77, has often appeared in my personal lives.

There are other numbers associated with the river which are of interest too.

The name Seine is sometimes incorrectly associated with Latin sequor 'follow'. Grubby used to have nickname 'followgrubby' on many of his social media accounts (still does on some of them).

During the World War II Allied troops attempted to cut off the escape of German 7th Army immediately west of the river.

Sometime after Joan's death 7 witnesses of her trial were interviewed and the conclusion that the judgment of Joan as a heretic was arbitrary followed.

Rehabilitation trial saw about 20 witnesses being interviewed.

The inquest was guided by 27 articles describing how Joan's trial had been biased.

The rehabilitation trial began on 7 November 1455 at Notre Dame Cathedral when Joan's mother publicly delivered a formal request for her daughter's rehabilitation, and ended on 7 July 1456 at Rouen Cathedral. (7 July is also the date of my death in 1967 AD.)

Grubby dream.

It Ingrid character.

Wonka, a pation who dreamt of archangel. First day of October.

Ingrid Bergman

Grubby was born on May 11.

On May 11, 1940, Ingrid Bergman's run in the Broadway play Liliom closed, while on May 11, 2025, and other recent years, Isabella Rossellini and others posted tributes to her on Mother's Day. In 1956, a photograph of Bergman was taken on May 11, and social media posts commemorating her are common on May 11 each year.

Scott Eyman in his book, Cary Grant: A Brilliant Disguise, wrote: "Grant found that he liked Ingrid Bergman a great deal.... She was beautiful, but lots of actresses are beautiful. What made Bergman special was her indifference to her looks, her clothes, to everything except her art."

It aligns with her past life of Joan.

Ingrid spent her summers in Germany and spoke fluent German. Grubby, I remember, was talking to someone from Germany; he understands some words, I think, but doesn't speak the language.

She was raised the only child, with her 2 siblings dying in their infancy. I see a similarity to my VL life here.

Her mother died when she was 2.5 years old. She learned to create imaginary friends as a child. As VL I said something about imaginary friends (probably had vivid imagination); I have a wild imagination in this life, and there are connections to CO:E33 videogame.

She was around 14 when her dad died.

Bergman received a scholarship to the state-sponsored Royal Dramatic Training Academy, where Greta Garbo had some years earlier earned a similar scholarship.

Selznick called her "The Palmolive Garbo" (after Ingrid appeared in her second play Anna Christie on July 30. Later she was again compared to Greta Garbo by people.)

Ingrid B., Greta G., and I share the same Higher Self.

David O. Selznick played a big role in Ingrid's life too. He invited her to Hollywood to play in Intermezzo: A Love Story opposite Leslie Howard.

Thornton Delaharty said, "Lunching with Ingrid is like sitting down to an hour or so of conversation with an intelligent orchid."

The scandal that followed her affair with Roberto Rossellini – in my mind – bears resemblance to what happened to Ingrid in her past life of Joan of Arc.

And the affair itself – Ingrid being married at the time – also bears resemblances with my own VL life.

"Bergman was often associated with vulnerable yet strong characters who were in love but were also troubled by anxiety and fear."

"Jan Göransson of the Swedish Film Institute described Bergman as stubborn and loved to question her directors, whose innovative ideas about acting eventually won her over."

"The technique of chiaroscuro had been used in many of Bergman's films to capture the ambience and the emotional turmoils of her characters through her face."

Clair Obscure.

Ingrid was suffering from cancer for 8 years.

She won 3 Oscars, and had 4 more Academy Award nominations (7).

He doesn't like losing. Which is not that surprising, of course. It's just that this includes even the challenges he's played in WC3, playing some silly strategy, etc. It's also logical that if he meets an opponent he knows he won't win with a challenge, he kinda has to play normally for a win.

I didn't like losing also. And at times didn't behave well, unfortunately.

I feel like Grubby has done much more interviews than Garbo/Dist did, or me as Vivien.

Some of our music tastes overlap. Remember how he jokingly covered Big Big World by Emilia while playing WC3 ('Creep you much' – reference to a huge turtle creep at the top right corner of a map); I think he also mentioned LeAnn Rimes' Can't fight the moonlight.

4Kings (4k) team. Immediately reminded me how I was 4 times a ruler (king, 2 times queen, emperor).

Schenkhuizen born in a family of Dutch Indo descent.

Certain parallels in that I watch a streamer called Pollen, and she and her 2 young sons had to seek refuge in Netherlands. I sometimes watch her irl streams from the country. It's interesting to see how people live in there; and the architecture is also beautiful.

Indonesia. There was a woman in TPXP group who was from there if I remember correctly. Unfortunately, there were tensions between us.

Grubby was 26 years then.

“I think for me personally, being independent is more suitable as it gives me a lot of freedom.” I agree.

Logan dog. Looks kinda like Дик (Dick) – the white dog from my village. It also looks like a similar dog I told Marina (from Moscow) about; I was walking near the lake and that dog tried to put its paws on me, or something, I guess.

Squelch? Function to mute players. I used it in Hearthstone often, and saw Grubby do it in WC3

I’ve written many a time about the importance of birds in my lives. Many like birds, of course, but the fact she dedicated a YT channel for it… - I find it of interest and potential link.

George Clooney

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/George_Clooney

Three Kings (1999)

He served as one of the United Nations Messengers of Peace since 2008.
The year I found Thiaoouba Prophecy.

His mother, Nina Bruce was a beauty queen and city councilwoman.

Mary Ann Sparrow, George' maternal 4th great-grandmother, was the half-sister of Nancy Lincoln, mother of President Abraham Lincoln, making Clooney and President Lincoln half-first cousins five times removed.

Clooney has an older sister named Adelia (known as Ada).

Clooney was raised a strict Roman Catholic but said in 1998 that he did not know if he believed "in Heaven or even God."

About God: It's a contrast to me. For me it's knowledge God (Superior Intelligence, The Spirit) is real and we're all part of it.

Studied at the Blessed Sacrament School in Fort Mitchell, Kentucky.

Reminded me of Margaret Mitchell.

Mitchel name appears again in Clooney's bio.

Clooney developed Bell's palsy when he was in middle school. It's a medical condition that partially paralyzes the face. The malady went away within a year. He later said: "It's probably a great thing that it happened to me because it forced me to engage in a series of making fun of myself. And I think that's an important part of being famous. The practical jokes have to be aimed at you."

Maybe it's not a direct relation but… First of all, my facial muscles are often tense. Then there was a moment I waited for a train to arrive (from Pokrov to Moscow) and I overheard women talking about their girl who had issues with her facial muscles (from worries and over tension, from what I remember). I noted that because I remember how it reminded me of me and my problems.

Making fun of myself is something I still need to learn. I didn't take lightly the issues I had in my life and what some people thought/said of me because of them. It's another contrast between us.

George has stated that he earned all As and a B in school.

Todd McCarthy from Variety compared Clooney to Clark Gable: "Not for the first time recalling Clark Gable in his looks and line delivery, Clooney clearly delights in embellishing Everett's vanity and in delivering the Coens' carefully calibrated, high-toned dialogue."

On the set of Syriana he had an accident which caused a brain injury with complications from a punctured dura.

Just noting I had hit my head against ice when I was little. Maybe I had slight concussion.

George said he contributed in writing "all but two scenes" in Leatherheads, and requested a writing credit alongside Duncan Brantley and Rick Reilly, who worked on the screenplay for 17 years.

I died at 17 in Michele Avila's life.

In Hail, Caesar! (2016) he played Baird Whitlock, a Robert Taylor-type film star.

As Vivien played alongside Robert Taylor. Also, in my dream I saw Kolya (later revealed to have been George Cukor) checking out my photo with Robert. I don't know why.

Obviously, Caesar had played a major role in my Cleopatra's life.

He has filmed several films alongside Julia Roberts. Watching the Pretty Woman I found several synchronicities with myself. One of which includes a name I heard in a dream as a possible answer to my question.

Some of our views on politics and gender related topics vary significantly. Another contrast.

His wife human rights lawyer Amal Clooney. They have two children, twins named Ella and Alexander.

George lent his voice to South Park as the dog Sparky in "Big Gay Al's Big Gay Boat Ride" episode.

'Dude, f off. 'F you', is what I wrote to G.B. after he kept giving me his time instead of reading what I'd been telling him.

Sense of disbelief at Quantin Tarantino's remark. Reminded me of my recent sense of disbelief concerning G.B.'s experiment and what followed it, including my disbelief when I presented all the facts and P.T. didn't even red 21:55 ‘is G.C. playing G.C.?’, - asks the video creator. Reminded me of me as VL often playing myself, including myself in other lives.

On a side note, I can see distant resemblances between LO and GC in some photos.

“Things are Looking up”. There a photo of me (VL) holding a tennis racket.

I have a tennis racket from early childhood. Sadly, I had no one to play with, and the courts were far away (I only found them in Sokolniki several years ago). I think if I had to choose a sport to pursue, tennis would be one to consider.

It appears I might become a tennis player in my next life.

Ideas

The level of spiritual knowledge may vary from soul to soul (who share the same Higher Self or one of Higher Selves in the chain of the 9 Higher Selves). Second category HS has 8 souls. So, assuming 8 souls have reached the second category, one soul will have to wait till one of the souls reaches at least the third category to be able to live on a second category planet.

Part 4. My Dream Diary

In this book's section I often write down a date and the question I asked my Higher Self. Then I usually use a dot sign – "." – to mark the end of my question and the start of the section where I write down what I saw in a dream that night (so it's not something that happened in real life); I usually separate each dream by another dot sign. And I usually use an asterisk sign – "" – to mark the end of the section where I describe my dreams and the start of the section where I write down my opinions, thoughts, etc. in regards to the last question and the dreams I had.*

My current best practices on how to ask your Higher Self questions (August 22, 2026):

- You should trust you Higher Self and know the method works if you do it correctly.
- Questions should be as simple as possible.
- Questions should not have any ambiguities and double meanings.
- It's best to confirm with color indicators that what you think is the answer is actually the answer.
- Color indicators are about the only indicators which give proper results. So far music and animal voices indicators seemed to have worked too, but you have to be sure what you heard was actually music or animal voice. Elemental indicators – like fire and liquid – do not seem to give accurate results as what we call "fire" or "water" in our dreams is not actually made of the same atoms as real-life fire and water, and therefore they only appear like the real-life substances we're familiar with.
- Ideally, you shouldn't use too many indicators per question.

From 1 to 4.

- You may want to audio record your questions just in case you mispronounce something and that will result in a weird and unexpected answer. You'll know you made an error and that's why you had such an answer. And you can use that audio recording to easily ask your Higher Self to repeat the answer for the last question you asked on audio.
- When I ask my Higher Self a question, I end it by telling my Higher Self "Thank you very much in any case!" You should be polite, and you should respect your Higher Self regardless of whether you receive an answer or not.
- If you ask your Higher Self about someone's past life (your own or somebody else's), it's best to use 2 indicators: one for the case when a person (A) was in their past life the other person (B), and the other for when that person (A) was never in any of their past lives that other person (B). The reason for this is that (and it's my current hypothesis) due to the 19% of electrons being used to create a new physical body, I did sometimes have false positives: when I see the confirmative indicator, but then I see the disconfirming indicator too, and the dream explanation seemed to point to the 19% of electrons as the cause of that. In the entry of September 3, 2026 I have more information about this.

Dreams I Noted Before I Learned about my Past Lives

I wrote the notes long time ago when I was still learning English. While editing my writings for this book I spotted several typos, and I no longer remember what I meant then. I will leave such errors as they are.

I had this dream long time ago when I was a kid and was in the village:

The dream part that I remember starts with me walking at night to the dugout house located in about 60 meters behind our village's house near the field. There was smoke coming out from the fireplace hole in the ground. For some reason I didn't go straight to the door but to the hole to look down. I saw a human type of hand completely covered in hair, dark brown in color and thin. In my mind I thought "werewolf".

I woke up. It was around 11 am. The day was dull and it was drizzling. When we had breakfast, my uncle Vitya came in saying that there was a smoke coming from our dugout house. I thought that maybe my friend Lena was there already, but when I came in into our dugout house there was no one. The coals in the fireplace were still hot and smoking. It was then that I remembered my dream I had several hours ago...

I remember how some time after that I came to Lena's house to call her outside, and I think she had just woken up. She told me she wasn't in the dugout house that day. And due to the bad weather, there were no other friends of ours in the village that weekend...

The events of that long gone day still remain a mystery to me.

Thiaoouba

There was a moment, which probably set in motion all of the next events, when I was concentrating and accidentally telepathically emitted some thoughts that I don't remember the content of. A few days later I received back a telepathic message in the same manner, only entering my mind, and its meaning was interpreted as: "We won't/can't help you".

Sometime before January 28, 2011 I had a dream. Last things I remember the most was that I was standing in the bathroom tub (my Moscow apartment). Thao was in front of me and I asked her about the green and yellow colors I thought I was seeing in my aura. She looked a few inches off of my head to the left and said that she saw a black color in my aura.

The black color relates very well to my personality since during my life-course I started having a lot of bad thoughts and feelings, as well as depressions.

January 28, 2011. In a dream birds (or people who were as if birds?) were chirping different sounds and being playful, and knowledge (memory) was as if being embedded into them to then be remembered by them in life(?) A field around the body (etheric, located right above the skin) is required by people to see in order to communicate (or is required by Thiaooubians to communicate with us?). Michel Desmarquet and someone else (a person with dark skin, I think) were in a boat in a circular rock building. There were two plants growing in the water. One was broken by Michel (?) and when turned out the man who was in the room of the building didn't do [it] (why they came there?), Michel became very upset about the plant, which resembled a pineapple's leaves and had one dis-attached, being destroyed by him. Then the man started to be playful with Michel's knee and...

I woke up. A saw a faint face of a Thiaooubian (Thao, I think) in front of my closed eyes. Her eyes were emitting waves that were coming towards me. I asked in my mental voice: "Thao, are you here?" (Note: This night the air conditioning was turned on at night, but wasn't too loud at all). Then I fell asleep and there were other dreams after which I woke up and saw Thao's face. I don't remember right now what those dreams were about... (Note: Before I went to sleep, I was thinking about birds and that they should have astral bodies just like humans do.)

February 1, 2011. I had a dream in which I spoke with Thao and when I asked her if it was she who helped me, she told me it wasn't her (or she said "it was just a dream"?). And then I started to suspect that it also was a dream and she is not the real Thao. I asked her to tell me about my aura, expecting her to say she sees a black color, but she said it was orange. In the dream it was clear to me that she's not the real Thao, but when I got up in the morning I looked up the meaning of orange aura and it could match me (just like the black did) if my life was a bit different...

Then I had another dream where I found Thao to live in a European church. Inside of it were people covered in blood and they were afraid that I was a demon; they sought for proof that I was not a demon, and when they got it, I went to see Thao, interrupting her and some other man. She, as well as the man, was wearing black cloth. We came back to the hall with people. In the dream we were about to go to a private room as a bad thought, containing rude thoughts about s*x, came out of my mind and Thao, having read it, became silent and smile disappeared from her face. We stayed with other people. Then I started to humbly ask her if werewolves are real. She said nothing but frowned.

February 3, 2011. In the dream I was going to buy a new monitor - large one, I guess. The reason is unclear, but I remember that I thought is only I could connect my PC (or notebook?) to a TV set. Then I decided, turned off the little, and I guess rather old, notebook. It didn't turn off right away, it first showed me some three messages (Windows warnings?) and then it shut down. I wasn't walking to a store - I was rolling on the rollers with which I could barely maneuver and failed to stop at my store (which looked like the ones on Bol'shaya Cherkizovskaya street). Then I was back at my computer and thought to myself that my notebook is okay, but then I decided that its screen is rather small and I do need a larger monitor after all. Only then I noticed that my PC table was located near the area of my former school, the area where the dumpster is located. I looked back and saw a solid wall instead of a usual view of trees and apartment buildings. I realized it wasn't my place, my place was at my apartment. I also thought in the dream that I could move the table a little bit further from the school, where the window was in the large wall, but I thought that people on the street would be able to snatch my notebook. Then there were some papers and rollings containing some president elections info - like banners or advertisement. I don't quite remember what I remembered in the dream, but I decided to go (move?) back to my 'real' apartment and on the way I called my mother to tell her that I'm going to unsubscribe from some subscription to a journal. She asked what kind of journal that was, and when I told her it's a normal one the talk was over. Right then a man drove up to me in a car. Some journals were lying on the ground. The man was definitely there because of my intent to unsubscribe. He didn't want me to go and then showed me some metal device, like a hard drive in shape but with three (on each side) holes penetrating the metal thing. He attached a metal plate to it and showed what I could do with it, like what I could learn from it. He started to unscrew a bolt or something and I kind of knew what he was doing and wasn't interested. We came to the fence of the school. The man then gave me some very huge necklace of some sort with yellow-orange star carvings on it. I didn't know what it was and gave it back to him. he explained to me something about its meaning (or maybe even significance, importance) and I took the shiny one, with yellow-orange stars. The man still had another 'necklace', which by the way I also took before (or maybe I took this one at first instead of the shiny one). That 'necklace' was just as big but with black circles on it. I wanted to take it too for he wanted to give me them all originally, but then I started to climb over the fence (perhaps I was about to jump down on the other side; the location is near the current volleyball field, where I used to walk to school until they erected the large metal fence there) and here the dream stopped and large words (in 3d effect, like on modern PCs) showed up in front of me. A male voice read what those words said (as I now suspect for me to better remember it): "The dream is coming soon. It is more upset than it is revealed".

I woke up right before the bank's air conditioning was turned on (about 7:00 o'clock in the morning).

Update of September 18, 2025. I wonder if maybe the stars could relate to 77 Psc binary star system which, as I know now, I used to live in? Just a thought. Could be other reasons.

February 2011. Thao was telling, in a dream, that she was killed from poisoning after she dispersed the gas among the crops (Plague and grim reaper?).

The next day I had another dream about Thao where she walked into a train and then realized it was too late (something bad happened?)

I forgot the message in the dream. It was about some kind of computer program - Learn basic program usage and then you will be able to use it.

Reincarnations?

Beavers. I wrote at the time that: This dream was abstractly showing me my past life and the reason my mother broke her femoral neck.

I was walking down the road to my village with two women (whom I don't know in this life). The fields on both sides of the road were completely covered with water from the overflown river (I my real life I remember my dad, mom, and myself walking the same path in the same place long time ago in the spring when all those fields are covered with water from melting snow). There was some kind of a spear in my hand and as we walked, I noticed something moving to my right in the waters. Then I cried out very loudly - "Beavers!!" - to notify the people of the incoming danger and I guess I got scared and ran leaving those two behind, even though the spear suggested that I was supposed to protect those people. As I ran back toward the river one of the huge beavers, measured (as it seemed but I might be wrong) about 3-5 meters in length and a few meters in height, jumped out of the water and as his enormous jaw opened, closing in on my head, the sequence stopped and the message came (from Thao, I thought) saying that this is why that event with my mother happened. I left her then and now I have to be with her, because even though the bone has healed and she walks as before, she still needs help.

What makes it more interesting are different synchronicities that occurred before. For example, mother once mentioned seeing trees cut by beavers near our village and she said she was kind of afraid of them because they had those sharp teeth. I remember it was kind of funny that she was a bit uneasy about them when she said that.

Also, the story matches what a typical reincarnation might be (as in Brian Weiss' stories for example) - you agree to live a life with people you knew before so that you can learn something new or opposite to what you learned before. When I made my research I also found that indeed there used to be huge beavers in North America http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Castoroides more than 12,000 years ago and I also found some Native American legends about the giant beavers too http://www.bio.umass.edu/biology/conn.river/nalegend.html.

I later saw a bit weird dream about a fish, artificial dinosaurs and the same river that was starting to overflow too, and this is why I remembered that dream I had about the giant beavers.

September 20, 2015. Had a dream today in relation to my wish to ask my neighbor about who lived in our apartment before us. I met him near Cherkizovskiy lake I guess and gently asked him about my question. First, he said he moved in a year after the building's construction. Then he showed me a large book containing all cases of crimes ever committed(?) and one of them showed my life relating to the dream about beavers. That beaver incident happened 5000 years ago according to the book in that dream. Could it have shown the date of that other crime? I ask this only because science says those giant animals lived 11000 years ago, not 5000. But then I've heard that carbon dating could be not as precise as it is widely believed.

Here I'm writing down my 3 dreams which ended up the same way.

Blonde girl. I remember a stage, similar to a theatrical stage with a prominent area in the middle (I remember Kylie Minogue was on a similar stage in one of her concerts). She stood on that protruded path and was thinking about something. There were no other people around. Then the scene changed to her point of view (when I was able to know what it feels like being her) as suddenly a man came from behind and st her throat.

Notes from my Facebook comments:

"The girl for example was on a theatrical sort of stage before she was murdered and acting of actors and the movies is something I was attracted to in this life. Also, her appearances is something I'm 'attracted' to, and actually one of the similarly looking girls had a minuscule but yet very huge role to play in my life..."

https://www.facebook.com/groups/thiaoouba.prophecy/posts/10152232576779324/

Man with alcohol.

Notes from my Facebook comments:

The part I remember he got out of the car - an old model manufactured in the 70s or something like that I'd say. And then I also know that he's got a beer or something in his hand and his mood was kind of "thoughtless" – e.g. no worries or cause to live for, living one day at a time type of thing. I got a feeling "I" was in the USA because they stopped in front of a typical American bar or some other similar building. He didn't go inside with others but went towards the edge of the nearby forest when he was killed by someone. Throat st from behind.

A possible relation could be that in my current life I had experiences with alcohol (living in Russia it's hard not too I guess lol) thanks to my friends, but I kinda figured it's completely not logical to get drunk for many reasons, and so I just said "screw it" and stopped taking any alcoholic drinks even if all, or almost all, were drinking.

We were still in school when all that was taking place.

Me dying on a Russian plaza.

I knew I was in my current physical body. I was in a square in Russia (because the architecture was Russian). There was a building of 2-4 stories, maybe at Moscow's center. I heard a few people say something behind me about me and I knew they were evil and that was the end. One of them came to me and st my throat.

Two consecutive dreams taking place in the future. I was a boy of around 7 years of age. Along with a couple of people I walked into the elevator of, as I knew, a high-rise building in the US. Somewhere high up, the elevator started falling. I knew it was it, and that was a lesson I had to learn. The screen faded to black and faded back in as the camera was flying above a typical US street with 2 story houses, closing in on the house at the T intersection.

Inside of that house, I was a small boy lying in bed. I was telling my parents about Thao, whom I somehow remembered in that life, and that my previous physical body died due to physical and psychological reasons.

Note: "previous physical body" could mean that I didn't die in the elevator fall but survived and had to be in bed from the injuries.

https://www.facebook.com/groups/thiaoouba.prophecy/posts/10152232576779324/

Back in the day I wrote a comment in TPXP, supposing I might have seen dreams about my past lives. I wondered if the possible dreams about the past life relate to what we experience in the present in any way. If those dreams were episodes from my past life - have I learnt or am I learning something new in this life that "mirrors" that possible past life experience? I thought in those long gone days about potentially finding someone who practiced past life regressions under hypnosis... but then I also felt a bit afraid to learn something I wasn't ready to bear in me yet.

Years later, when I knew I could ask my Higher Self for answers, I got the answer on July 2, 2024 that I didn't have the blonde's body in my past life. I never got around to ask more questions about those 3 curious dreams. It's possible they could still relate to my past lives, but in some other way.

Dreams about Natasha from Velozavodskaya 11/1.

August 7, 2013.

I'm in a room with a man. He says that Natasha dropped out of university and they lost contact with her. At this moment I start hating and blaming myself, saying that I should have helped her and all of this would not have happened. Then I say that hopefully this information is going to be enough for me to find her, but then, as I go, I stop and say that perhaps there's something else I could learn about her since I'm already here...

I woke up and couldn't remember the exact message, information, that was given to me in that dream... I think there was a number written on a sheet of paper… a telephone number perhaps. Also, there was something about my cloth, when I put them on there was a written message mentioning that she had to work as a pro*ute; the man sees that message... I think the man also mentioned a place where she was or is and that was the information I was looking for, but I can't be sure...

When I woke up, I also realized that my sleeping headphones were off, lying on the bedside table. This could have caused me to wake up sooner than I wanted by allowing noises in when I was having the dream. I felt bad that I didn't clear my mind during the day and only made myself more tense when I got angered with the faucet, or that I didn't meditate before going to bed. And now I'm in this situation that I can't remember the important thing for me.

I had a dream in which it was written "Natasha Here". The dream was about me going into some underground dungeon. I was led down there by a woman. I had to squeeze through some metal bars in order to reach the entrance, and became scared to go in there. I knew it was haunted or something. I didn't go there and decided to go back.

June/July 2014. I had a dream in which it was said that one of Thiaooubians was born on Earth as Julia. I think I was in my apartment looking outside from the window, and perhaps I saw Anton's mother, who was called Julia. I was surprised. That Julia had some purpose, but I forgot what it was. It was also said that I should ask her about numerology.

Back then I thought it was a bit strange to have such a dream because I supposed it was about Anton's mother, who lived a typical life of an earthling. And numerology part seemed also strange and I was a bit confused. Later though, I learned that another acquaintance of mine called Julia was from Thiaoouba, and all started to make sense.

Later I found Michael Skobac's videos speaking of Hebrew alphabet (which I was studying for a short time) and the numerology that's attached to it. I found many interesting things there.

July 12th, 2014. I had a dream about Thiaooubian numbers. The number 9 was shown, and I was saying that you could get the same number of angles by moving one of the left vertices to the x-0%, y-60% position. It was said to me that in that case I would get a different angle (not 135 degrees) and the line's length would be different too. So those things do matter.

February 6th, 2015. I had a dream about the dark matter and dark energy. A galaxy was shown as well. Somehow Michel revealed the truths about these things and while I believed in the dark energy I didn't want to believe about the dark matter. At one time I saw myself moving in a field (dark energy field?) and saying that I can't see how the dark matter can exist? I don't remember much, unfortunately.

Then I had another dream about the village house. Somehow, I separated the little house from the rest.

I also had a dream about a girl who wanted me to translate English text on her bicycle. It was a slow process, probably showing that I don't know English that well. Anyway, when I almost woke up, I had a dream, and a few clicking sounds I usually hear in the room and suppose they come from either Higher Self or Thiaooubians. In the new dream I saw a formula I had seen previously in the first dream. I don't remember it but something was multiplied (dark energy/matter?) by some other two variables/constants? The dream was as if a response to my question what makes stars in a galaxy rotate so that they don't end up winding up and form spiral barred galaxies instead.

August 6, 2015. Denis from the village had a pen like device that could make things invisible, just like in StarCraft 2 - you can still see a distortion. A formula was shown, or more like relation between two sides. One side had to do with area, the other with the length of the pen. One side, don't remember which, was raised to the power of 5, and the other to the power of 3. Was the right side also multiplied by something...? Then both sides were divided by another number, perhaps raised to some power as well. As far as invisibility goes… I don't suppose it makes much sense - but what if I should look into the numbers from Thiaoouba?

Bible, page 17. It happened when I still played Hearthstone. I was often upset about the people and let myself say bad words about them, even if I didn't truly mean what I said. In the dream I saw this page 17 of the Bible. In a few weeks I remembered the dream and opened the Bible. The page teaches that you shouldn't talk about anyone or wish someone bad things. If you do, you will have to pay the penalty.

September 6, 2014. I had a dream where there was "Demon" written on the cover of a magazine. It also showed a face of a blonde woman who had completely black eyes (no whites).

In one dream, Thao (the other one) was sitting at a bench with me and someone else. I think someone started harassing her, and I stood up for her, which calmed the bully down, and Thao clearly took notice of my help.

In another, the same Thao (the other one) was at a dental clinic. Then the dream said that people on all other planets, no matter how depressed, try to cure their physical health? (I forgot the exact wording).

5th July, 2015. The girl in the dream was identified as Lena from the village. Her body was slim - not as I saw her on a photo. We were in my apartment. The bed stood near the dresser, as it used to when I was in school. Me and Lena were sleeping in the bed. I turned to her and woke her up. She was upset about it. She didn't go to bed until late in the night and wanted to have undisturbed dream as I understand it. I kept saying that we'd talk about in the morning, but she was still angry (in a good way). My ps was touching her body when I turned. After minutes she turned and was on top of me, kissing me. I got hard and we lay on the end of the bed so that I was on top now. I was kissing her body. Then we turned, I took my pants off and lay them on a chair to my right, and I gave her my ps into her mouth. I felt like it was the first time for us and here I remembered Yana. As I did so, I hesitated because I knew I needed to wash it first, it wasn't clean. I pulled it out and told her about it. She started spitting out. It was an awkward situation. I persuaded her to go to the shower with me. While we were on our way, I remembered the bathroom was as it always is – not clean with old shower curtains, etc. I was ashamed she wouldn't like it or something. (How could she not know that already?). I think I told her about my concern; don't remember what was her reply. Finally, I went into the bathtub. There was something lying on the bottom – maybe some threads (hair like) which I threw away. Before I did that, I kept telling her that if she let me go to wash myself before giving me the b j we wouldn't be in this awkward situation. Then she told me the reason this dream should be remembered – she told me that I should go to the village house and then my d would be standing upwards. Then she told me that I should get working, get a job in English. This is where I realized that we're married and I can't get rid of her, of this situation.

As I think about the dream, I never daydreamed about Lena in a sexual way. We were also young in the dream.

A note of March 11, 2026. This dream reminded me of that story Larry revealed – about sharing the bath for the first time with me (Vivien).

18th March, 2018. I had a dream about Thao who was sitting on my bed along with me. She was talking about numbers and processor calculating capabilities, like there's a relation between how fast the CPUs have become and some universal math. She spoke of something and said that could show it on my laptop. I said go ahead. It was unusual seeing her use earthlings' computer (since she's from another highly evolved spiritual planet). For some reason she opened a folder with 3(?) video games and didn't find the file she was looking for. Said maybe she forgot or something. Don't remember for sure, but the game was probably Silent Hill. As she was using the laptop I realized that the keyboard is dirty from me watching p. I felt ashamed that she has to touch those keys. Also, I realized that she probably can read my mind.

6th January, 2019. I was in Lakibrovo, holding a parrot tightly in my hands. I was walking from Zina's house to Volodya's (her son, my cousin). I spoke lovingly to the parrot and showed it the surroundings, as if not seeing that the parrot simply wanted to escape and that's why it was looking around. At one point, I kissed the bird on the head. Then I realized I was squeezing the parrot too tightly and loosened my grip slightly so that it wouldn't fly away. We reached the end of the village, and the parrot began to wriggle in my arms as if it didn't want to go any further. I turned around and walked back. Up until this point, it had been light outside. When I reached Zina's house, I realized it was pitch dark outside, and only the silhouettes of buildings were visible. I opened the gate, holding the parrot with one hand, and then closed it. Around this time, I realized that the bird was emaciated and had also become 1-3 centimeters in size; before, the bird had been much larger. As I climbed the steps to the terrace, I remembered that Zina had died, but they still let me stay. I went into the house. Looking around, I realized there was no cage anywhere. I exclaimed, "Why isn't there a cage here?!" as if there should be one. I went looking in the adjoining rooms on the first floor – nothing. There were more things in the rooms than I remembered. I noticed a light blue light shining through the window on the west (north-northwest, to be precise), but I couldn't tell if it was coming from the moon or the LED lights. I still couldn't find a place to put the parrot – for some reason, I didn't want to just let it go, afraid it would fly away or get hurt. I considered putting it in a food dish, but I was afraid I'd kill the bird by punching holes in the lid for air. When I got to the middle room, I decided to cover the bird with some long plastic jar. I taped it to the table. When I finished, I realized the plastic had cut the parrot in half. It was still alive, and I didn't know what to do... What was left of the parrot ended up in the trash bin.

Reflecting on the dream, I remembered that animals also have free will. Therefore, keeping them in captivity is most likely a mistake.

Sometime after my father's death (July 26, 2018), I had a dream where I was in the village, and my father was there too. I knew it was the following summer — the dream spoke of what would happen, but it was impossible since my father had died in reality. In the dream, he was doing something by the well. This was a reference to another dream about my mirror image, which said, "Я никогда не дам тебе выйти из себя." (I will never let you get out of yourself.) For many years, I considered that dream prophetic, but now I understand that the meaning was most likely an admonition that if I continued to fantasize, it would be reflected both in my facial expressions and in my perception of reality. There was also another dream in which Anton's father said that there were other things I could learn (if I continued to fantasize). Then I was unable to focus on what was happening here and now — even though I had almost all the necessary knowledge.

February 28, 2019. I had a dream where Thao was with me and, I think, Vova. For some reason, we were in a forest on the outskirts (where there's a single pine tree at the edge of the forest). I've forgotten a lot, but I remember asking Thao about various questions I have about the Universe and the Superior Intelligence. Then I said that I was projecting Michel's experience onto this situation (many things were revealed to Michel). Then I asked Thao if she had ever lived on Earth, and she said that (I could be very wrong) she lived between 1945 and 1951. I asked her again many times, since I couldn't hear her well due to the rustling of the grass we were running through? She said something about highly spiritual people born on a lower-category planet having very short lives? (But Jesus, implanted in Mary, lived to be over 90 years old. Moses also lived for a long time — 120 years.)

April 18, 2020. I had a dream where I was in my Moscow apartment. The bed stood where it was in my school days. It was night. My mom and dad were home. I started drawing Thiaoouba's numerals and showing them to my parents. When I drew the 2, I drew it inside of the 0.

I woke up and realized that Thiaoouba's 2 is the only number that touches Thiaoouba's 0 with all four of its vertices.

6 November (11) 2021. In my dream, my mother was going outside, and her phone was charging on the table by the door (it never charges there in real life, but I put my mother's phone there when she goes out). I wanted to give my mother the phone, and when I picked it up, I saw that it was only charged to 11%. I even exclaimed, "Eleven percent!" I told my mother to wait a little while for the phone to charge, but she refused, and I didn't persuade her, letting her go. I remember seeing — as if in my imagination — various trees and a path between them, and I thought that I shouldn't have let my mother leave without her phone, since I didn't know where she was.

I woke up. Remembering the dream, I also remembered that 11 means paying attention to thoughts — or something like that. Then in the morning, Mom suddenly started saying there was nowhere to live, nowhere to go — because, she said, the equipment from the former Sberbank office under her bed had started working again. She said her arm was going numb and she heard a humming noise like it used to be in the Sberbank days. I didn't hear or feel anything. Then mother said almost wanted to go away somewhere — but there was nowhere to go; Dad's apartment was rented out, the village wasn't an option, and you couldn't sleep well outside either.

March 19, 2023. There was a Pyaterochka grocery store at Khalturinskaya Street, 19 – almost completely empty, as it turned out. I bought some sprats and cereal, which I realized only when I was about to leave and putting them back on the shelves near the checkout on the left side of the store. It was the only place where any goods were available.

By that point, I had walked the entire length of the store toward Otkrytoye Shosse (a street name), and I remember someone either following me or always being there.

I thought about putting the groceries somewhere near the middle door and leaving, but I ended up at the checkout.

I decided to go to the Pyaterochka store, which I sometimes went to before – after all, I was feeling better and could walk there (in reality, on March 18, 2023, I bought Aktara at the garden center near the library across the pond, and on March 17, I was finally able to walk to the hardware store on the boulevard, where another Pyaterochka store is). It was somewhere behind 4-Ya Grazhdanskaya Ulitsa, and I remembered its layout very well – after all, I'd been there many times before.

I remember how when you enter that store, you turn left, and there are the checkout counters on the right. (By the way, that's exactly how it was in the real store, which used to be located in 19-th building, and it was open 24 hours. There, you also had to go left, and on the right were the checkout counters – the exit). I think I even remembered in the dream what products were there – but as I type these lines, I can't remember anymore.

The store itself was somewhere across the road from Otkrytoye Shosse. In the courtyards...

And so I passed the bastille (the large, long building behind the 19-th apartment building). And then I crossed Otkrytoye Shosse and then quickly crossed 4-Ya Grazhdanskaya Ulitsa to the right. This is where the dream began to diverge from reality. 1 – the crossing in real life is on the right, not on the left as in the dream. That is, in real life, I wouldn't have had to cross 4-Ya Grazhdanskaya Ulitsa to get to that Pyaterochka. Then there was some kind of fence with a large open area (soccer?) covered in snow. I commented about the snow to the girl walking in front of me. She didn't respond, and a little later she asked a girl passing by something trivial — I thought she did it so someone would be near her — meaning my attempt at conversation wasn't to her liking.

I walked through the iron gates...

I think I walked for a while and then realized that I had passed the place I needed. At some point, I thought about my health, and how I'd had a nice walk, only to end up in the wrong place.

I loaded up the map on my phone and typed “Pyaterochka” into the search bar. Yes, it was somewhere behind me. I was at the end of some long, straight building—the outline of which resembled my own — made up of blocks that, from above, looked something like a staircase, or perhaps an alias in a game.

Then several guys (4?) approached me. They were asking me something, and I decided to answer them. I think the conversation was about the Pyaterochka, and the fact that I was lost. I remember having some misgivings about those guys...

Perhaps I went to the Pyaterochka, and that's around when I woke up...

Reality. I still had a memory of that Pyaterochka, which should have been in the courtyards beyond Otkrytoye Shosse... but I knew it wasn't there. I even opened Yandex Maps to make sure. Yes, there is one Pyaterochka on Otkrytoye Shosse, but I would have had to turn left after crossing Otkrytoye Shosse and 4-Ya Grazhdanskaya Ulitsa. Another Pyaterochka is on the boulevard, but it's much further away than where it was supposed to be in the dream.

It was clear I'd had another dream, one in which I'd recalled something I definitely couldn't have experienced in real life. Had I dreamed about that Pyaterochka before, but I didn't remember it, and now, in the dream, I only remembered a part of it, regarding its layout and interior? Or had the memory been recorded into me – into my Astral body?

It was still around 6 or 7 in the morning, and I fell asleep again.

I had a dream where I was at home, but my apartment was number 111. And it was located very close to the garbage chute — much closer than my real apartment.

Then I was able to temporarily regain control of my body — the dream became lucid.

I remember there was a woman standing by the garbage chute. It was very dark there. She seemed to be beckoning me to come to her in that darkness, but I really didn't want to. I told her about the wrong door number. And she said, “They rented out the apartment?” or something like that.

I remember trying to ring the doorbell. No one answered.

Then I opened the door to see the rather familiar furniture arrangement of my real apartment. Everything was dark, illuminated only by the light coming from the hallway.

I woke up.

I remembered how, several years ago (?) in reality, a letter was put in my mailbox addressed to that address. I went to the first entrance and put that letter in the box 111. I wonder if Vladik L. lived in that apartment when they originally lived there? One way or another, could this be some kind of connection... was I in the wrong block of my building? Like the first entrance, not my second?

No, Vlad didn't live there. Those apartments start with number 1. Then I remembered that I had once briefly visited his apartment, and his apartment was located to the left of the bathroom, and not to the right like mine.

Today is March 20, 2023. I'm writing this to say that after my walk today (11:53 AM on my receipt), I stopped by the Pyaterochka grocery store on Khalturinskaya 15. All the refrigerators there were empty (no meat, sausage, yogurt, cheese, etc.) because they were replacing the refrigerators and had removed all the food. After I got home, I remembered last night's dream, and how in it I was in the Pyaterochka grocery store, which was almost completely empty, except for the shelves by the checkout (basically, everything that doesn't require refrigeration — sprats, cereal). Given my past life experience, I'm not surprised to have another prophetic dream, so to speak.

I'm thinking of going into the first entrance sometime and checking out the layout of apartment 111. Maybe I'll find something interesting.

From left to right. First, there are 7 apartments per row, 14 per floor in the block — 112 over 8 floors.

In the next block, there are 6 apartments per row, 12 per floor in the block —96 over 8 floors.

The apartment numbers go from left to right. So, apartment 111 isn't exactly where the one I saw in my dream was. The real apartment 111 is on the 9th floor, and it's second from the right. The garbage chute is on the other side. The apartment itself is laid out the same way as mine — the kitchen and bathroom are on the left, the bedroom is on the right. It also has a balcony. I calculated this, but haven't actually verified it. I'm not sure if it's necessary...

Today is March 21, 2023. An update on the lucid dream. Today, it turned out that two people registered in my apartment don't live there. So, technically, I made a mistake without knowing it. By law, they are supposed to live where they are registered. It's entirely possible that the tenants deliberately didn't tell me all the information. I thought their relatives had moved in — which is logical. A hefty fine could be in store for this... (As I was writing this, the light in my desk lamp started flickering... it started flickering for the first time today, when I wanted to deregister both of them...)

The apartment in the dream was empty, even though the woman at the garbage chute said “they” had rented it out. But there's no one there? How so? There's definitely a connection here with the fact that the people I thought were living in my rented apartment weren't actually there — it was empty in that sense.

The woman in the dark could very well have reflected the person I rented the apartment to. And the darkness could well indicate that she was hiding something — something hard to see.

In the end, they assured me that the two people would come live in the apartment, so everything would be alright and legal. I was about to deregister them and was in the process of choosing a reason for doing so. That night, I finally decided to deregister them. In the morning, they called me to say they'd been deregistered. I returned the 5,000 rubles to the sender at the Sberbank office.

Other Curious Dreams:

23 November 1015 (11/23/2015 – The date when I created the file where I was initially writing down my other curious dreams. I have a typo “1015”, which should be “2015”).

Me and some other people were in some kind of spaceship. We were wearing spacesuits. We were preparing for an EVA as I heard something knock on the airlock door. I asked if everyone heard that? It was strange as I knew that there’s nothing but vacuum outside. Then there was another knock more closer on the first door (there were two). I guess I asked if somebody heard that as well. Perhaps I was thinking about Thiaoouba in that moment and thought that it was a kind of premonition...

The airlock was open and something went wrong with the spacesuits. The whole chamber was depressurized and almost everyone's suits were depressurized too it seemed (If I remember right, I thought it was my fault it happened). Only mine suit was functioning normally. Quickly I started to re-pressurize the room and when that was done, I thought whom to help first? A medic seemed like the right idea. I was able to resurrect her, a blond young woman. Then I started to do the same for another woman with black hair. I was in a hurry as some time has passed and didn't use all the equipment I did for the other girl. Some kind of device behind the dead girl's neck was supposed to bring her back - I pushed the button on it several times - but nothing. The blond girl then said something like: "It's only you and me now, Zhenya". As she was saying it, she looked (was it a strange kind of look?) at me and the thrusted herself on me to hug me. This was so sudden that I got a bit scared and woke up.

18 January, 2021. I was walking down a city street. The houses were too close to the road, and I had a thought about how illegal it would be to live in such a house (Why? There are plenty of houses by the road these days... But in the dream, this idea seemed logical). There were almost no people around me.

Then, a two-story building appeared in front of me, the kind you might see in Moscow (Krasnobogatyrskaya Street) — they connect two houses, and the buildings themselves house shops.

This building reminded me somewhat of American motels, with their narrow staircases leading to the second floor.

Sounds were coming from the windows of the annex, indicating that this was a residential building.

For some reason, I decided to climb the stairs to the second floor to see what was there.

There, I saw a sign that said there was a "children's hospital" there — something like that. The door was closed.

The next thing I remember is looking at the roof in another section of the building. It had cracks in the tar paper. Strangely, when I went down to the second floor, I noticed people covering up what I'd thought was the roof of that building in the dream...

Then I suddenly found myself in some kind of store.

Inside were three girls, one of whom, with dark skin, suddenly asked me out — or something like that.

In the dream, I didn't find her attractive because of her slightly large hips. And maybe she was a little plump? I turned her down, feeling a little embarrassed.

Then another girl appeared, also dark-skinned, but her figure was slender and somewhat thin. I caught her eye. (Perhaps she looked a bit like Natasha?)

Then a third girl with fair skin suggested we just go for a walk and meet some girls — but the strangest thing was, she offered me money and roller skates for the walk. They looked pretty new, except for the severe scuffs on the wheels, indicating they'd been used.

Subconsciously realizing the oddity of the situation, I played it safe and let the girl give me the money herself.

The money was in my wallet, which I closed and put in my pocket.

I think I sat down at the table and we started discussing some details of the meeting — maybe I wrote or signed something?

I think we agreed to go for a walk on Saturday — the next day, or the day after that.

I remember the slender girl talking to me, indicating that she would come too — and I was glad about that, since she was the reason I wanted to meet them. At one point, I wondered if this wasn't too easy and too good. After all, I could just skip the meeting and keep both the money and the skates — why would they trust me, a stranger? Had my wallet been stolen? No, I clearly remembered the money was still there, and after that, the wallet had been in my pocket the whole time. I turned to the right and looked at the girl who had first spoken to me. She stared at me, silent and motionless.

“Should I just leave everything and go?” I wondered.

I stood up after we'd agreed to meet. I extended my hand but didn't take the bag of skates, letting the blonde with slightly curly hair place the bag on my hand.

As I walked out the other entrance of the store, which, by contrast, led me onto a now very busy street, I thought about how I couldn't find a girl for so many years, and then this happened. I saw myself reflected in the window display, thinking about my fading appearance. Why me?

As I continued walking, I thought that given the tattered appearance of my skates and the small amount of money I had, I hardly had anything to worry about.

Then I found myself at a shooting range — an open-air shooting range with no walls behind the targets, and people walking around behind them! It was strange, but I continued on, finding a relatively safe path where no bullet would hit me.

After walking a bit, I saw a building with a big red “M” above the entrance, signifying the metro. That was where I needed to go.

I was already on the subway when a girl passed me by, reminding me of recent events. I thought about that girl's thighs, wondering if I'd seen her naked, maybe I'd like her more.

Already on the platform, I noticed the same blonde with curly hair (incidentally, she looked a bit like Daina Le Guin from Dead Space 2). She was talking loudly on the phone, saying something about Canada. I couldn't get close to her.

At that moment, a Circle Line train was arriving. At that moment, the girl came close to me and definitely must have seen me, but I averted my eyes, trying to show her I hadn't noticed her.

I heard the sound of a train coming from the other tunnel, and I thought maybe I shouldn't enter the already open doors of the car and that it would be shorter to take another train.

But I boarded the train next to me. The doors closed, and we were off. I thought the blonde might stand next to me and we'd talk, but she walked past. Just as I was about to follow her, she was met by a dark-skinned guy, with whom they kissed on the lips.

In the back of my mind, a thought popped into my head: what are the chances she met someone she knew in the metro car?

I continued standing by the closed doors of the car, and then I noticed another dark-skinned guy standing next to me. His hand was clutching a metal pole, preventing me from exiting the car even if I wanted to. The left aisle was blocked by a crowd of people. The man had something like an old camera dangling from his neck (it and its lens were very small). He glanced at me, and then he looked toward the girl and the other guy. That's when I began to understand the truth of the matter. I'd been set up (or tricked?). They'd recorded everything that happened in the store on video.

Suddenly, another dark-skinned man appeared on the right side of the car. He was dressed in a uniform similar to a police officer. He pretended to look at everyone, but he approached me specifically, asking something like, “Was I together with the man with the camera?”

Then a red-haired man sitting on a bench by the opposite door asked the man in uniform what the matter was (or something like that). I told him I'd been set up.

The dream ended.

End of May 2022, on the night from Saturday to Sunday (the 29th?).

I had a dream about IT. After waking up, I could see the face of the monster from the new movie based on the book (not the old monster), and the vision immediately disappeared.

June 7, 2022. (As I understand it, I was writing this addendum on that day, but I forgot to make the necessary note about it.)

I think before I was in my apartment, I was in some strange subway.

I don't remember the details well, but in the dream, I walked up to the window of a one-bedroom apartment. On the windowsill was a Christmas tree (?) with balls placed very close to each other. In the reflection, I saw a toy version of the monster IT, looking at me. I think I turned to look at the toy, and then I realized it was looking at me too! (In reality, this is impossible, because she's either facing the window, looking at you only in the reflection, or she's looking into the room, and only her back is visible in the reflection.)

At that moment, I woke up, seeing IT before my eyes.

Sometimes I remember this dream when I go to my window.

I think I had another dream later where I realized that IT was me... I thought that it might be related to my negative thoughts that I sometimes had for a long time because of the way some people around me treated me, when I just wanted to find a girlfriend, tried to help other people and tried to treat them with love... I felt then on my own skin the meaning of the phrase "from love to hate is one step."

Addition: I'm writing this because I watched Cinema Sins https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yWhRWDgKLB8 and at 12:33 the narrator says that IT didn't kill the girl because she wasn't afraid! That's when I realized I never knew the plot of the movie or book, and I didn't know that fear allows the monster to kill a person in the book and in the movies. Then I understood the connection between my vision and the fictional character: I wasn't afraid, and IT disappeared; the girl wasn't afraid, and she survived. IT couldn't kill her.

Of course, it wasn't hard for the author to imagine that the absence of fear prevents the monster from killing a person, but I nevertheless found this similarity to my experience intriguing.

My Series of Dreams About School

These dreams may be relating to my past lives (e.g. Mary Magdalene, Hypatia, etc.) in which I learned certain important spiritual lessons, but I still had to stay on the first category – based on my current life, because I still had to learn some of the basic lessons of the 1-st category planet.

My comment on Facebook's group Thiaoouba Prophecy XP, which I posted in 2012 when I had no slightest idea who I was in my past lives:

I agree with what you said in your previous comment before hantings, that's my opinion too. My non-material difficulty could be the fact that I seem can't leave old habits behind me and do in my life what I really what to do... I even had a dream about it yesterday... well it was a final (I suppose) part of a series of dreams on the same topic the first of which I had more than 5 years ago... speaking about destiny :) Here's a short description of it for those who is interested:

When I left my institute, after a few months I had a vivid dream where I was sitting at a desk in that institute (educational place) and I felt so badly because I didn't want to be there at all and I kept saying to myself in the dream 'What am I doing here? I left it already and I don't want to be here. I feel I don't belong in here.'

Then there were several dreams when I was at my school (educational place). In the dream I knew that I already graduated from high school (11 grades) but then chose to return to it again (it had to be a grade before 10th because there were my friends that left the school after 9th grade and there also were some old teachers from that time. Once again in the dreams I had that feeling that I don't have to be in this place and I don't want to, I felt that I've made a wrong decision when by choosing to study there once again, it was kind of depressing feeling (I might add that as long as school goes, in the beginning it was alright, but it's when the old problems started to fall onto me that I started to feel that bad feeling).

In the dream that I had yesterday (January 7 2012) I once again was in school class studying something. I remember that I of ours teachers yelled at someone, maybe even at me, and then there were those old problems that I didn't have to be experiencing because I've already been through that experience before. This time I couldn't stand it and I packed my books, said to my friends that I can't go though all this once again, stood up and... woke up.

In my opinion this could mean at least two things:

The first being that fact that in my present life I keep returning back to old habits and things that I should've left behind me long time ago, so in this case maybe I'll start to really live my life.

And the second could be reincarnation... I remember here Michel Desmarquet with his 81 lives on different planets of different categories, the fact that he chose to get back to the planets of sorrows when he could live on a planet that's a little bit friendlier. I don't know if I had any lives before but I know that there's big chance that someone helped me to become interested in the paranormal which eventually led to the Thiaoouba Prophecy book. I also think that a little more than a year ago Thao with someone else (it said 'we' in the dream I had) gave me a chance to die and stop suffering in this life by sending a message in a dream which said that "If you don't start working, we will take you in November". In the dream I knew that they meant we will take you, astral essence, out of your physical body (death). As you can see by me still being here I chose to stay despite all the problems I had (and still have) and started to try to change the way my life was going... not successfully I might add... Considering the state of my health I wouldn't be surprised if that dream means the death of my body and finally getting a chance to end this...

I thought it might be relevant to the question about our Earthly problems and that it could be helpful for someone here to read this experience. Maybe someone here can even help me too in some way.

4th February, 2014. I was in school again. It was history lesson at the classroom near the physics. I forgot what happened there but something to do with drawings. The lesson was over and we came out. Some pupils were sitting at the bench near the English classroom and the cloakroom. Some people were going up stairs for German class. I didn't want to go there because I did not want to study German language. I didn't have an English book but I asked Ian whether they sit waiting for English class to start (For some reason I didn't know it), for I considered to change my classes.

Anton was sitting at the bench near the cloakroom too. He congratulated me about something I forgot and I was asking him why he congratulates me. For some reason I was covered with my blanket. Then I remember we were outside at the porch and discussed why are we going to school again if we already graduated? What is the reason? I saw a crippled crow that was almost run over by a tram. I said that we could just not go to the school: it's not like our previous grades are going to be erased. There's no reason why we should go to the school again. The he was pinching me at the belly and it was a strong pinch which I felt very well. Immediately I remembered Thao pinching Michel, and while all this happened, he was telling me that "there is a reason, there is a reason" for it.

I woke up. Don't know if I saw any faces, something very faint maybe (I've done some bad choices on that day and so it's not like I had to be rewarded anyway).

16th February, 2014. I think it started with me following Alexey I (or someone of similar mental disposition). This led me to the technology class room. As I walked in, I made a joke about waves (I think it was waves) and then took a seat at the second table (could be the first but unlikely) near the right side of the room at the right side of it (so the instruments and the wall was next to my right). I guess we were talking about current situation on Earth and I made some kind of sketch with a pyramid and said that we don't have to have money in our system. It was met with opposition, and after I continued on my point talking about the homeless and such poor people who are at the bottom and who suffer the most, it turned to anger and hatred from Max R. I decided I didn't need this and walked out of the room.

The teacher saw me do that and caught on to me in the corridor. I told him I'm going to change classes (one of the reasons I came out), on what he said and if there are going to be the same type of people? And I said that in that case I'm going to change the school (or something like that). Then I also met pupils from the A class and told them the story and also added that I was going to be likely poisoned (which I was). They said they'll have a few words with the pupils from my class.

As I was turning the angle near the main entrance I saw Ekaterina Vasilievna. (one of the former teachers and form-masters) was giving a speech at a lectern. I climbed up the stairs and at the top I saw that Vova P. was behind me. As we were walking down the corridor passing other class rooms and people I asked him who was our from-master now and he didn't know either (when I did that my speech was perfect and it always was during this dream). I told Vova that I want to talk to him (form-master) in order to start taking English classes instead of German ones. The I was telling that there's no reason why I should learn German when all I do relates to English: reading, movies, games, even programs I use etc. He asked a question but I forgot what it was (I remember it was ambiguous or unclear about what he meant).

As we were waiting for the lesson start I looked out of the window and saw a large building being built behind the Khalturinskaya 19 one. I mentioned that to Sergey M. and it took him a while to see what I was referring to. There was also the other Vova, the friend of Vova P. (an interesting thing is that the German class was in the class room where we had our Programming classes on the third floor. The first German class room was a floor below where another room with wooden walls was made at some point after the building construction: it doesn't belong there. So it indeed was the third floor and the class where we had out Programming classes (Programming is something I started to study in order to have some work as a freelancer)).

The lesson started and only at this time I noticed that the area was full of people (usually it wasn't when I was at school). Also I noticed that the teacher was different – I was expecting to see the teacher of informatics but it was a totally unfamiliar person.

All of us came in the room and as I was walking toward the third row from the door I realized I want to sit in the middle row at the second or third table and at its right side, so I had to walk around the teacher again. I sat there and we had our German books opened with some pictures that was more for the kids than for 10 graders (which I think we were in the dream). As she was saying something I stood up holding my right hand up, excused myself and walked out of the room with intent not to go back there and start taking English classes from now on.

I walked down the stairs and this is when I realized that I must have been in the 10th grade. There were many people on the first floor – the teacher must be late. When I opened the door of the English class room I saw it was full but I didn't recognize anyone from my class. I walked to the time table to know which room the English lesson is supposed to take place in.

Notes of September 19, 2025. Now I know that in quite a few of my past lives English was my native language, and second language in some others of my relatively recent lives.

I also could speak a bit of German in at least a couple of my past lives.

16th February, 2014. Village. I was walking back from Dima's house and I chose to walk down the small path near Ksenia's house so as to avoid some people sitting at a table which was never there in reality. When I approached Natasha's house, she (maybe someone else) said something that meant to hurt me. Then I was standing on the road to the river, near the transformer. I was afraid because I saw some numbers (19, 64 or 32 if I remember correctly). Then Natasha finally asked me about it, and I told her about the numbers and my fear, also adding that I hear some rattling noise when they appear. Like someone is watching me. I said it in a barely manageable speech but wasn't stammering. It just was not easy to speak.

The reason I feel strange about this dream is that it was long time since I was afraid of some numbers and now that I see 33 all the time, I actually love it because it reminds me of Thao, Thiaoouba...

August 10, 2015. I think it was September 1st, because I realized it was the first week of school after a break. We were supposed to have a few classes — four or five, one of which was Korean. I remember hanging out on the school playground for a while, alone. Someone was playing soccer. I think the metal fence was already up. I remember thinking that maybe I should skip the day and spend it somewhere else. I often did that last year, and it ended without any ill effects...

I remember it was Friday, and one of the classes was supposed to be history. I remember this because I was afraid the teacher might ask me, but then I remembered it was the first class of the year, and she was supposed to be the one talking about something.

I walked toward the entrance. At the threshold, my path crossed with a girl smaller than me and her mother or grandmother.

I went inside and straight to the locker room on the right. I started taking off my clothes at the second-to-last row of hangers I used in high school. Then a guy I might remember from the University came up and started taking off his coat. He said something about his girlfriend asking him to buy her a scarf(?) for 12,000(?) rubles. Then he said she could be a very expensive wife (or costly). All this time, that little girl was nearby, and I was wondering what she would learn from everything she heard/saw? (That she could learn some not-so-proper and materialistic things).

Then I remember the schedule was posted right in the locker room and those ~5 lessons were listed there. One of which was Korean and history too, I think. There were also other languages, 4 in total, if I remember correctly. Then I asked Gosha E. if I could transfer to the English group. Then I started having problems with speech, and I started using filler words to make it easier. I wanted to say that I watch a lot of movies and TV shows in English and understand almost everything. The answer was yes.

Gosha didn't go to 10th or 11th grade, as far as I remember. Was it the beginning of 9th grade?

August 18, 2015. It was the beginning of the 8th grade now. I remember that we had a lot of classes on Tuesday (incidentally? it's the day the dream took place) and it the Monday's school time has passed (there was a rather larger portion of the dream taking place in school but I forgot it) and I was home.

I said to my mother about these dreams I have about school and that I think they are related to reincarnation (she said here to speak Russian and not English?) and to me not having learnt something yet in my current life (so they show that I still have something to learn in this life).

I said that each life is a chance for us to learn something new and I guess eventually she agreed with me). Somewhere during that time I also voiced that I was tired of all this going to school? (or classes in the 8th grade?) and I was going to shirk school.

I guess then the dream 'cut' to another scene. I believe it was my Higher Self saying the main message (because it was male's voice), but I feel like there was Thao too. Unfortunately, I had a bad night's sleep and don't remember the details. But I remember the sequence where whoever it was talking showed me a toy wooden... wall? It had two, I think, angles of larger than (or equal?) 135 degrees and had white ropes holding the pieces of that wall made of logs together. In the middle there was a white toy man (meaning it had what appeared to be human like arms and legs) who was sort of dancing, swaying his arms and legs. For some reason I knew that that meant that I should try to remember what is about to follow next.

Next was a message. The voice referred to my unwillingness (in the dream) not to go to school anymore. Unfortunately, I don't remember what exactly it said and other things after it... but then it said this: "That wasn't the first time the [apartment? street? Probably the first.] seen a convicted [murderer? criminal?]."

Then I woke up devastated. I went to turn on my laptop to write down about this dream before I forget it. The laptop was positioned not where it should have been. Nothing was where things should have been. The table the TV used to be standing on was in the corner where the door is (how did that door even open if that was my current apartment?); the chair I sat on stood in the corner with its back to the door; there was not much space on the table and I had to move some things so that I can type.

I started remembering my dream and I guess there was something about Zina (mother's sister) who came to visit us but no one was home? Anyhow I got a feeling she was coming for another visit to us that day.

I believe there was something else but then there was a cut to a place where there was Thao and Michele? (Nessen). The place looked like an apartment with a window where I was never before. In tears, I asked Thao if there was a convicted murderer in my apartment living before me? (1972 is the year when our house was built. Mother moved there in 1979. It's unclear who lived here before her. She always said there was an old lady living here, but when I asked her after this dream she said she only guessed it was so, but didn't know it for a fact). She confirmed. (There was more. Don't remember the details).

Then I asked about myself. Whom did I kill to deserve this life? (As I said that I was very upset but still remembered that my experience with Thiaoouba brightened this life some). Thao told it was my mother. I said that I knew it (I remembered the tension we had, especially when I was a child. But then it passed. The passed tension, was something I was thinking about on the night the dream occurred).

The discussion continued for some time I believe but the details are lost; [I think Thao could have been comforting me - many creatures, perhaps even Thao, Biastra, Latoli, Christ, etc had such experiences while living on the first category planets. But can't tell if it was her idea or mine after I woke up but was still half-asleep thinking about my dream(s).].

Then I woke up again. I had a dream in a dream.

20.04.2024 – on November 7, 2023 I had a dream in which there were wooden logs and Michele.

September 19, 2025 – update on my note of 20.04.2024: That Michele was me in my past life, but I still didn't know that for sure then.

August 25, 2005. (I made a typo. Logically, it should be 2015).

Don't remember much. We went to the dining hall. It was 10:03 when the lesson(?) (in the dining hall?) started. A teacher asked somebody about his summer vacation I believe and that person had quite a lot to tell.

I realized at this moment that I've nothing to share; I sat at home the whole summer along with my old habits about which I thought as well.

Then someone else was asked and when I looked at the clock it was 10:33, although I don't remember paying attention to the number in the dream. All I remember is that it'd been 30 minutes since the last time I looked at the watch or since the lesson started? I remember something about a bun being split 3 ways.

At some point I realized that it was ours and Anton's 'classes' in the room. All of the people who got asked were in my class. To my right sat Vlad L., and to my left was Sergey M. who went somewhere behind us at some point. I was a little worried that I might be asked but figured that it was about 10 more minutes (for the class to end) and I should be fine.

August 31, 2015. The dream started with me falling with a parachute towards the surface of a planet. There was another man whom I had to save(?) by attaching his body to my harness. We didn't land but, as strange as it was, navigated through a system of huge light-blue(?) caves and then somehow turned around 90-degree walls. I knew that we were coming out of the cavern and the exit was high up in the mountain. I accessed a map (Skyrim like) to see that the village we needed to go to was nearby.

We parachuted down and landed near the houses. There was a woman who the man I was with spoke to after some time. Don't remember what they talked about. But she seemed somewhat important... village's leader?

Then I was in school, the history class on the first floor. As I went out of the classroom I thought once again that I shouldn't be there, I already graduated, and why I should go to school again? I thought that I either can skip however many days I want or that I'd already shirked a lot of days and there should not be consequences for that for I'm not part of the school now and there are no documents saying that I should go there. I went to the biology class' door. Peeked inside and went away to the exit. As I did the guard who was not at his desk asked me what/what I was looking for. He clearly didn't think that I was a pupil there. I said something about the first floor and went out of the building thinking that the guard could follow me to interrogate me but he didn't.

I chose to walk on the short pass that leads through the gate for cars. I started running and apparently scared a black boy who probably thought I was chasing after him for whatever reason. I'm out of the school grounds and I don't recall anything more. I guess there was something more to the history classroom but I can't remember...

Sometime between 6th-7th September. I was sitting in the biology class. It was 1995 (I was in the 1st class then and was never anywhere close to the biology class as far as I remember). Strangely, a boy who was in Resident Evil 2 video game(?) was welcomed by everyone in the class, including myself, and then the last in the class behind me cried out his salutation in a funny manner that everyone laughed.

The Leon boy had curly ginger hair but didn't look like Leon from the videogame. The game itself was apparently directed by Steven Spielberg (he directed nothing in 1995). Then, more strangely still, the adult actors who played Leon and Claire were there. At some point after a voice(?) said to me something like "You are our creation".

When I woke up, I didn't think it's important to write the dream down and forgot some details after.

October 10, 2015. I was in the cloakroom and sometime after it was announced that the system in the country has changed and then it became apparent that I'm at the center of all that activity. We went outside and my classmates invited me to celebrate the event but I said that now I've got duties and can't get wasted.

I went back to school where I asked a woman if her camera could broadcast the live video. She said yes and I went to the 3rd floor. There I found another woman with a camera but she didn't answer my question and I went out of the room.

Then it turned to me standing alone with my phone clearly streaming to YouTube, or something like that, a live video stream where I was speaking about what's to come.

Then, either when I woke up or at the end of the dream, I thought that removing the money would not be understood by all as a good thing and some people could think that they're being robbed.

Lucid Dreams

1) I was in a metro train going from Sokolniki to Preobrazhenskaya Ploshchad'. The buildings were different, like there was a different political order in the country. I didn't quite like the design of those buildings. I also noticed that the map of the metro was somewhat different looking. The lines were all curved - they're straight in the real life. I tried to remember the map but couldn't. I woke up.

2) I was in my village (small) house. It was sunny outside. I tried looking all around me and I was able to see the surroundings as if it was the real life.

Then I realized that since it's a dream there could be anything and anyone.

I had had several bad dreams about the IT monster and thought that if a monster would be in my dream I would not be able to wake up immediately for it's a lucid dream — I already feel like actually being awakened. I tried to wake up by concentrating on my physical body, which I knew was somewhere out there, and sure enough I couldn't wake up right away. It took several seconds for me to wake up.

3) July 16, 2018. I was in my Moscow apartment's kitchen. I tried to look around me and I was able to see all the furniture near me. I think I did something before going to the refrigerator. There I found a very large sandwich. It was curvy like a shrimp. Inside there was something resembling meat and a green grass type of thing was sticking out throughout the bread. I decided to eat the end of the sandwich. I don't remember if I felt its taste. What I remember is that my mind was clouded - just like it was in my real life as I was very tired.

Perhaps one of the human bodies (psyche?) remembers the state of our mind even when we reincarnate? That was one of the questions I asked in TPXP and maybe this dream was a hint?

4) May 22, 2019. I was in my father's apartment when I realized it was a dream and regained control of my body. Again, I felt a little uneasy about who might be in my father's apartment in that dream, so I walked out the front door onto the landing and downstairs. The dream ended.

Before I regained control, I saw that the apartment had old wallpaper, not new. The doors to the large and small rooms were closed; I didn't know what was behind them. It seemed like it was cloudy outside, as it was a little dark in the hallway where I was standing – by the mirror (and was there even a mirror in my dream?). I need to remember that this is a dream and that in reality, nothing and no one threatens me, and if I continue to have lucid dreams, I should not be led by fears and unpleasant sensations.

5) April 10, 2020. It was literature. I was reading perfectly and saw the teacher give me a 5 (an A). Then she drew my attention by knocking on my desk. That's when I gained control of myself in the dream. Ekaterina V. gave me a note to read (a little smaller than my phone). There was something written on both sides of the note. “Кюкв” was the only word I remembered.

Realizing this was a new lucid dream, I decided to savor it to the fullest this time. I ran out of the classroom. Ekaterina V. wasn't in the small office on the right. I headed right toward the stairs and ran down them. There was no one there. A security guard and a few other people were standing at the school doors. I thought he would stop me, but no. I managed to run outside.

It was overcast. The road was wet. I ran and turned right behind the school. The diagonal path to the fence was still there (it no longer exists in reality, and the old passage by the gate is closed). But the fence was modern, not old when I was in school in real life. I also thought about whether the fence would be new or old. The gate was closed, and I had to climb over it.

As the dream went on, I remembered my physical body, and the dream began to blur, dissolve. But I maintained my concentration, and the dream continued to be clear.

I ran along my long house. As I ran up to my entrance, I thought I was so close to my destination — my apartment. I didn't want the dream to end. I was inside the building.

Having reached my floor, I opened the hallway door and ran to my apartment. It had an old blue wooden door. I immediately rang the bell, which I held for a second or two. Then I quickly rang it twice more so my mother would know it was me. Just like we always ring the doorbell in reality.

I started looking for my keys in my pants pocket. Empty. Then I heard voices from behind the door. A man's voice was either saying to go away or something like that. The door opened, and I carefully stepped back. It was a man with short hair. And there was a woman nearby.

They said that Mom lived at the other end of our street. It was clear from the conversation that this wasn't the first time they'd seen me. Then he talked, or bragged, about working as a designer or something. I forgot. I also forgot that from the conversation, it was clear that money had something to do with mother not living there. In a negative way. But this is already one of the cheapest apartments in Moscow...

I don't remember how, but the door next to me was open, and a man was standing in the hallway. He was also taking part in the conversation.

I started asking for details about mother. Which house exactly? Not a word.

Strangely, since I knew perfectly well it was a dream, I decided to run to Marina's house and try to find her apartment. I knew her floor in reality. I clearly thought in the dream that I didn't want anything bad or vulgar. I was simply curious about what would happen and what and who I would see in this lucid dream.

On the street, I thought and remembered that the door next to “my” apartment couldn't be there in reality, because there should be a wall separating the apartments. I also realized that in “my” apartment, there was a wall by the door that doesn't exist in reality.

I felt tired from running and almost stopped to rest. I thought about this interesting fact. After all, this is a lucid dream. Why can you get tired in one? I also wondered if my legs would feel very tired when I woke up, remembering my physical body. But I maintained my concentration on “reality” here and now and continued to live in the place I knew was a lucid dream.

I sometimes wondered in my dreams how it works. Accordingly, I retained my ability to think and remember — which makes sense, since memory resides in the Astral body (soul), not the physical.

I looked around and could discern the smallest details on the sidewalk. For some reason, there were small green pieces lying on it.

Two schoolchildren, about 10 years old, started talking to me near the school. I don't remember what they said.

A long, modern tram passed around the turn near the school with one passenger. I mentioned the absence of people.

Marina's houses were still standing. But the landscape was different. The first house had a hill with stairs leading up.

Near the first house, there was a group of adults. I considered running another way on the right. But then I decided to run past them.

One of them exclaimed something about his mother. Perhaps she had died and he was grieving. I went around the house.

Strangely, I took it for granted that there were many flagstone paths in front of the houses. Straight and diagonal. There was almost no grass. This doesn't exist in reality, but in the dream, I seemed to have seen it before. I was approaching the entrance to the house I was running toward. The dream began to fade, and I couldn't maintain focus on it anymore, no matter how hard I tried. I gave up when I was fully awake.

My legs weren't tired when I woke up.

But there was something odd about the size of the letters on my phone as I wrote down the details of the dream, afraid to forget them. It felt like they were getting taller and thinner, then shorter and wider.

That night, I dreamed about Marina from the village. We were having s*x in her house/sauna at the back of her property. I remembered that she had a child. Then I woke up and felt a strain in my eyes. My right eye was also blurry. It was already getting light outside. Then I had a lucid dream where, for some reason, I decided to check on Marina from Moscow.

6) May 26, 2020. In another dream I had that same night, but it wasn't lucid, I was in a “village.” I remember at one point being in the rain in a field near an old bus stop. Two pipes jutted out of it, standing near each other. The bus stop itself looked more like a bench with a roof, which protected me from the rain. It was on the site of Malye Gorki (Small Hills), if you walk from the chapel towards the farm. But there wasn't a single house. Everywhere there were either fields or forests. Opposite the bus stop was another, identical one. It stood on the other side of the road, which was more like a path and was barely noticeable, overgrown with grass.

In the dream, I continued walking despite the rain, which was no longer as heavy. I think at that moment I saw a towering elm tree on my right - that's how I knew I was in my village. I emerged from the forest, which in reality would have been physically located between the turnoff to the farm and the chapel, and tried to memorize its entrance so I could later tell my friends about my discovery — even though there was a road leading into the forest that, although covered with grass, was still clearly visible. I didn't see a single building, person, or animal anywhere on the horizon.

I do not remember why, but I had a plastic window frame. I carried it with me and came to the village of Ignatovo where for some reason lived my childhood friend Anton. And he lived in a house where my grandmother used to live in reality. But the house was like a hybrid version of the real house in Ignatovo and our house in Malye Gorki. Stas was also in the house.

We were installing a window that was made in 3D, but it still felt heavy — which I mentioned in the dream — how can a not real window frame existing in a computer be heavy? Thanks to ray tracing, that frame really reflected the light and there was a feeling that it was real. We installed it in a window on the left side of the house where there were long windows consisting of three frames — as in the Little House. We replaced the old right wooden frame with a new one made in 3D. Then I noticed that my friend already had plastic windows installed on almost all other windows. I think that I decided to ask if he needed my window, so as I could take it to my house in Malye Gorki if he did not.

The placement of some rooms was unusual — they reminded me of the rooms that I saw on the second floor of Vladik's house in Malye Gorki.

Here I had thoughts appear that it was a dream and I could try to gain control over it. With this, I focused on the here and now and gained control of my body.

I was in the house and I thought what to do: go inside where, most likely, old acquaintances were, or run out. I ran out.

It turned out that I was in my village house in Malye Gorki, which surprised me because during my whole dream I thought we were in Ignatovo, even though the house did sometimes look like our village house.

As far as I remember, it was sunny. I went out onto the gravel road in front of the house and looked around, without a clear goal or plan on where I should go in this lucid dream and what to do. I went towards the chapel.

When I was near the neighbor's poplar, I looked to the left. To the left of Ira's house and her neighbor Katya, everything was changed a lot. New two-story houses were being built in the backyards, the design of which I tried to remember — I remember how I noted the curled wall of one house. Other buildings were either unfinished or destroyed. I noted for myself how the village was turning into a dacha, a settlement where one house stands right next to the other in all directions.

Going a little further, I decided to say hello to people who were sitting on a bench by Katya's house. I only remember a strong man who was without a shirt. His skin was tanned. For some reason, I did not notice them when I was looking at new buildings.

And so, I said hello and… here I realized that my voice was female!

Then, going further, I greeted someone sitting on a bench near Ira's house. My voice was still female!

I looked down my body to see if it was also female. I do not know why, but I was wearing a lot of clothes, considering that it was, apparently, the summer. Perhaps I could see the outlines of small breasts, and it may well be that the femoral part was also wider than the "usual" that I see in the real self. I do not remember if in the lucid dream I touched "my female breasts" — words that I never thought I would ever be uttering…

Now I was near Vladik's house, and then Marina came out. She was very glad to see me and rushed to hug me. Realizing that this is a dream, we started… kissing on the lips. My friend did not oppose this at all, and I had the thought that I had been in a male body, everything would have been completely different… I think that it soon became clear that Marina was married and I dismissed all thoughts about s*x with her? I do not remember exactly the details.

Then came Vladik, whom I modestly hug with my hand around his back, patting his shoulder blade slightly. Apparently, both Vladik and Marina were adolescents.

In the lucid dream, I knew that Marina knew me, but in the girl's body, for a long time, and we were friends… well, or girlfriends, given the unusual situation of my body in that lucid dream.

With our hands around each other's backs, Marina and I went along the road towards the chapel. We were talking about something.

Soon, I remembered to ask Marina to remember "3 6 9" and write these numbers to me in a message on VK when she wakes up. I asked her to repeat what I had told her, but, jokingly, she gave a different number. I think I asked her to remember my words again.

Having passed the house of Yana, we stopped, and after talking about something I mentioned to Marina, who was already standing a meter and a half away from me, that we are currently in a lucid dream. I think I expected surprise from her, but she was not at all surprised to hear this.

As far as I remember, at that time I already had my own male voice — I do not know at what moment the change took place.

Perhaps the conversation continued and it may well be that we went further, since the next thing that I remember, we were already at the chapel.

I do not know why it got dark on the street, as if it was already dusk — either clouds covered the sky, or it was just evening.

If I remember correctly, Marina gave me the choice to go to Natasha, or continue our journey to another part of the village. I wanted to go to Natasha, and I had the thought that I wanted to try to have s*x in a lucid dream — with Natasha or Marina, and maybe with both, I do not remember; also at that moment I remembered Marina's marriage, which for some reason suddenly ceased to be a barrier — was it the fact that it was just a dream, even if it was lucid, that I decided to play naughty and see what happens?

We went through the gate and passed the first house, when suddenly from an indefinite direction an alarming, unpleasant and unique sound began to be heard. I had never heard that sound before. Marina immediately stopped me and exclaimed that this sound means danger. I agreed with her, and we went back. The sound died down as we left and completely disappeared when we were already beyond the fence.

I think we went in the direction of turning to the farm, and I told Marina that I need to meet people like her more often in lucid dreams, people who know something about dreams and can teach me.

The dream disappeared and I woke up.

Previously, I referred to "lucid dreams" as "vivid dreams" («осознанные сны» называл «живыми снами»). When editing this document, I've adjusted my personal term to the more common one where appropriate.

7) (I don't remember the date of the dream because I didn't write it down right away.) I regained control of my body and found myself in a dark, deserted building. The setting reminded me of Silent Hill 3, which had similar locations in office buildings. I had no strong desire to stay in that building, so I headed for the exit. As I approached the main door, I knew that if I left, the dream would end. But my soul really wanted to be outside, so I opened the door. The dream really did end.

8) March 26, 2021. I don't remember the first part of the lucid dream. But I do remember deciding to go back to my apartment. Then the dream began to fade for a moment, but I was able to return to it. I was walking up the stairs of my building at (my building address). I remember touching the railings and walls to see how real the sensations felt. I think the sensations were too muted - perhaps because I wasn't 100% focused on the lucid dream?

Coming to my hallway on my floor, I think there was some kind of passage on the right side? I rang my doorbell and walked away from it a little, not knowing who might come out. The door opened slightly - no one came out. I decided to look inside. No one. I turned on the light in the bathroom - no one was there, but I remember seeing my reflection in the mirror on the wall.

It was blurry, and I couldn't clearly see the outline of my face, but, apparently, I had long hair and generally looked the same as I did the day of that dream (I hadn't had a haircut yet).

I went further into the room — I remember noticing at some point that the layout of the apartment matched reality. Mom was sitting at her laptop in a strange position (I don't remember what it was). For some reason, I went to the kitchen, and after a while, mother became active. Did I say something like I was glad to see her in the dream? At the same time, I understood that she wasn't my real mother, since she didn't contain my mother's real soul (as I know from the dream with Marina, who never wrote me anything about “3 6 9”). I reached into the refrigerator, which reminded me of another lucid dream where I also looked into the refrigerator at home, and soon the dream ended.

On March 25, 2021, my mother and I went to Gorky Park and Muzeon. It was my mother's first time in Gorky Park — she told me during our walk there that it was thanks to me that she had been there.

9) September 12, 2023. I don't know if this dream was lucid or if I thought it was lucid (a typical dream where the idea (that it's a lucid dream in this case)) is implanted in you.

The lucid part was that I left the school at 16 Khalturinskaya Street. I looked around a bit and thought I could go home, but then I'd gone there so many times in my other lucid dreams. I decided to turn left toward Bol'shaya Cherkizovskaya Street.

It was light, but it was probably twilight. Looking at the trees, I tried to find, or fully understand, that I was in a lucid dream.

As I walked, it became noticeably darker. Streetlights came on in the distance, creating rays in my eyes (like those you see in a photo with a small aperture (f22)). I must have mentally asked my Higher Self to remove those beams, and they actually began to disappear, until I saw simply a colored light source, which for some reason was bluish. I seemed amazed at the idea that such a thing was possible in a dream; but later it wasn't so surprising; I think I compared dreams to a computer game, a program where you can turn off certain things (in the graphics, for example), even if it makes the overall picture less realistic.

During all this, it became so dark that I could almost see only that faint blue light. I thought that this, too, was part of a dream, where there might be rules different from reality, where everything operates according to pre-established laws, and constants and variables can't be simply changed.

I tried to focus on the reality of the dream, but a stray thought crept into my mind, and I woke up...

Here I have questions. First, I actually woke up at least once that night, but I didn't go to the bathroom; I just fell asleep.

There was a dream in which I remembered that lucid dream and, I think, started writing it down, emphasizing the word I should have used to describe the beams of light from the streetlights... I didn't know what word to use, what those beams were called... I don't even remember what word I was playing with...

Then there was a dream (possibly after I woke up again and again didn't go to the bathroom) where I was with my mother in Zina's apartment on the 13th floor. I was in Natasha's room, at the computer, eating rice. Some of the rice fell on the table, and I thought about throwing those fallen pieces and bits to the pigeons. At the same time, I had the thought that I was on the top floor, and the window opened differently. Then I thought we might take the metro from Zina's, not the subway (and I distinctly remember imagining in my dream that we'd be traveling from the southeastern end of the green metro line — but that's where my grandmother lived, and Zina also lived on the green line, but at the other end!), but the Moscow Central Circle (MCC) to Budonnogo, and then we take the tram. I must have woken up with a heavy heart; I thought the MCC would be more comfortable. How did we decide which way to go? It turned out we were on the street and needed to walk back to the apartment? I woke up with a pounding heart.

Before the lucid dream, there was another one (or the same one, which later became lucid). I was at my school. I only remember that at one point I was in the locker room, and then, perhaps, I broke things in the second passageway of the building, the entrance to which was on the side — the side where the shop used to be, and in reality, that passageway was always closed.

Before the dream where I was with Zina and Natasha (I believe the order is correct), I had another dream. I only remember someone meeting a girl with blonde hair in it.

Then, in one of the dreams that night, I was in some kind of market. I remember something about 5(?) kopecks, and the fact that the rent(?) per day(?) was 55 rubles, or something like that. At one point, I was saying something about my father, or as if I was talking to him, but I knew he was dead (the way we sometimes silently repeat a conversation with someone when we think about them).

2023 – Starting from when I Learned about My 1-st Past Life

September

September 4, 2023. I woke up after 4 a.m. In the dream, I was maybe with shamans, and there was some kind of hypnosis. Perhaps it was a past-life regression. Either I asked, or they asked, who I was in my past life. I suddenly began speaking in the voice of actress Vivien Leigh: “But I already know the answer! I was the actress Vivian Leigh.” (Or ‘Vivien’). Her voice matched what I heard from an old interview of hers, where she was already in her forties https://youtu.be/4c6kR9ORqUc?si=SZE_zFItd7AnR0MT.

Then – probably in the same dream. I boarded a commuter train, and one of the stops was called “US Post of the Future.” I was traveling south (southwest, maybe southeast). I explained to the person sitting next to me (Mom?) that “post” means “почта” (mail). At one point, the train passed by Gorky Park, but neither the stop nor the surroundings resembled modern Gorky Park at all. The dream stop seemed to have a Chinese architectural motif.

There were other stops further on, but I don't remember the names. I decided I needed to go back.

Before this dream, there was another (or the same) one about Happy Hobbit & Elajjaz (streamers). At one point, the Hobbit either called Ella or spoke to him in a peculiar voice. Suddenly, Ella, out of nowhere, started teasing Hobbit about his voice. This wasn't typical of Ella in real life. I'd never seen him like that before. It felt like it wasn't a joke. Ella seemed to be annoyed by Hobbit's voice, and he started acting like that. Perhaps Hobbit started making excuses — I can't remember. Then, either I or he (Ella?) was in the tent and pressed some dangling sticks, and they could open something...

That day before bed, on the 3rd (I went to bed at about 11 am). I was thinking about the Titanic, about synchronicity, and about how I could have been anyone in my past lives. And synchronistic experiences with people with whom I believe I actually have them only slightly increase the chances that I could have been those people.

Note: Michel Desmarquet had a true dream under the influence of lacotina. Could it be that my dream, in which I said I was Vivien Leigh, was also influenced by lacotina and so it’s a true dream?

Note: 4th of September 2023 was the day when I had to meet with the tenant to sign papers. I also had to go and print out the papers; the shop on Otkrytoye Shosse was closed, but I managed to go to the one near the library. In the evening, we met at about 6 PM near a bus stop at the Cherkizovskiy lake.

Note after writing (September 17, 2023). When I spoke in Vivien’s voice, the dream seemed to focus. It became clearer. And when I woke up, I remembered those words.

Note: In my feelings, when I spoke in Vivien’s voice in the dream, I felt like I knew the answer, but still I'm asking questions... like, how much longer can you doubt! (When I said, “But I already know the answer!”)

Note: The dream is probably a reward to me since I did my best not to jump to conclusions. I kept maintaining that while synchronicities with those 2 women are of big interest, I could have been someone else in my past lives.

Note: after 4 AM could mean I had that dream at 4 AM.

I'm writing this note after I saw another synchronicity in the film Waterloo Bridge with Vivien Leigh. If it weren't for the dream from September 4th, I hardly would have watched new videos about Vivien Leigh, and I'm also not sure if I would have watched other films with her. That dream was a huge catalyst.

Note: “in a past life.” I would have expected to hear “Michele Avila”, given my synchronicity experience. But perhaps I shouldn't cling to words. Now that I know for sure that I was Vivien Leigh, then synchronicities with Michele must certainly mean that I was her too.

New note from December 11, 2023. As I recall, I practically expected to hear the words “I was Michele Avila,” but instead heard “Vivien Leigh”. This is important because it shows that the dream didn't show me what I expected. The same thing happened with the lucid dream in which I saw a young man in my bathroom mirror — I expected to see myself in my current body.

Note: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Skin_of_Our_Teeth I found another reflection of my life here. Vivien, Sabina, asked for ideas on how to improve this world, and I found the answer in mine (the Manifesto in my book Simple Truths of Life, Mu).

Addition: On September 4, I signed a new lease on my apartment. That same year, I rode the tram for the first time in a year (to avoid blocking my card). I rode from the beginning of Khalturinskaya Street to Prostornaya Street. The beginning of the journey corresponded to the place where I had the dream with Olya, asking if it was time to go up for me. But in the dream, the tram was going the other way – toward the turnoff to the metro. Vivien Leigh was in the A Streetcar Named Desire, which had a special influence on her life.

Addendum from October 31, 2023. Michel Desmarquet had a true dream about Thao's PAST LIFE – and about the fact that she “was” the statue on Easter Island! Isn't this proof that true dreams can reveal past lives, and we don't necessarily need to be able to use the psychosphere to do so?

For a very long time (months, a year), I allowed my fantasy to become a vicious cycle. I wanted to renew trying to find a girlfriend, often fantasizing about it. The fantasies often became sexual, leading to PMO. I often told girls about this in my fantasies, and often they helped me, so to speak, eliminate the blue consequences; then it all repeated itself, but with a different imaginary girl — which turned it into a vicious cycle.

On the evening of September 17th, I was able to regain some control. I got myself together and watched the video with the “backstage photos from the Gone with the Wind set.”

Also, on the evening of the 17th, I had a feeling that I had merged with Vivien in my identity... (This may sound strange, and I understand that someone could think it crazy. I'm just writing this just in case; to show that I understand what's going on).

After 10 PM, some device emitting a hum (50 Hz) turned on again. It had a negative effect on my head — I could feel some kind of pressure on my brain. At one point, my mother suggested we switch beds, although I had already said that I just needed to move the bed if necessary. At that moment, I seemed to lose it and told her, «Иди в чёрту!» (“Go to hell!”) I regretted it, but remembered how I thought such moments were already over — if they ever happened in my current life. The thing is, I remembered Vivien, who would lash out at Olivier. It felt like a lashing out, what I said was due to the irritated state the hum had thrown me into. I thought that in the context of how, a couple of minutes or hours earlier, I'd noticed myself merging psychologically with Vivien, this could again be an unusual indicator, that perhaps I really was her, and at that moment, old issues had surfaced…

September 19, 2023. I woke up this morning and thought again that the universe was unlikely to be trolling me, and that dream with Vivien had to be true — at least the part where I spoke in her voice.

After breakfast, my mom and I decided to go shopping. Before leaving, I wrote down the water meter readings. Every number on every meter had meaning to me.

440 — Cold Water.

693 — Hot Water.

13003.66 — Electricity. If I'd come at a different time, the last numbers would have been different. After the walk, 66 had already changed to 97, or something like that.

Certain numbers have been appearing in my life for a long time now, and this episode struck me as more than just a coincidence.

After the store, I went out for a walk. Almost the entire time, my self-perception was of a human being who felt like Vivien Leigh, whose actions led to the events of my life... It's hard to explain in words, but I felt like Vivien, finally allowing myself to believe that I had to be her.

I'll add: I felt like a soul that lived in Vivien Leigh's body, and whose actions brought her, the soul, to this life in my body.

I liked that feeling; finally, I felt like someone other than the person who, although he had found Thiaoouba, had also suffered all his life, and was shy and afraid of people (clarification from 04/24/2024 - apparently, I got distracted and forgot about the thought I wanted to write. I will leave my entry as it is). Then everything seemed to change... I felt Vivien's presence within me... Why it’s so important to KNOW the truth, and not believe it... because if it turns out that, despite all the dreams and similarities, I was not her, this could have tragic consequences for my life...

My goal is to have lucid dreams in which I’ll ask my Higher Self, and possibly Thao, Biastra, Latoli, to change my dream body to the one I had in my previous life; and going back until I see how I looked like in all my other past lives.

This idea made me realize that it shares resemblance to A Nightmare on Elm Street movie. Lucid dreaming is part of that movie.

Addendum: If I have a lucid dream and see myself in the mirror as Vivien, then in theory I could see something the public doesn't know, but perhaps relatives have photographs showing those details. If that happens, it could serve as evidence for people.

September 20, 2023. I had dreams, but because my mind was so overwhelmed with thoughts, I barely remember anything. I think a couple were about Vivien Leigh, whom I'd been thinking about all day, and in one dream, I might have been her.

There was also a dream about an empty window, without any cacti on it — they were somewhere else. I was putting water on the windowsill, and my mother was helping me put the bottles on the side of the window next to the radiator. Actually, on the 20th, I wanted to water the cacti.

In the morning, I realized I had another dream a long time ago — about a killer beaver. Water was involved there too...

Today I realize that my story with Laura Black (aka Vivien) is the perfect and poetic ending to the entire praphic and mastory arc of my life. After all, my actions in Vivien Leigh's life led me to loneliness and a lack of love and s*x (yes, it's time to understand that life would hardly lie to me when it didn't need to — I'm talking about the dream in which I spoke in Vivien Leigh's voice that I was her).

While watching Waterloo Bridge with Vivien I felt some closeness to her. It could be due to the fact that I've so many connections to her, including the dream saying I was her.

In my childhood I did remember her unusual sounding name, and I liked the way it sounded.

When I was rewatching her movies (Gone with the Wind; and I also watched the A Streetcar Named Desire for the first time ever), not yet having my synchronicities, I did feel something, but I can't remember because I didn't pay too much attention to it at the time.

Michel Desmarquet at first also didn't know it was his past body until he was told. Later in Psychosphere he would realize right away that the shown person was him – possibly due to astral body getting attracted to the one in the psychosphere.

The night of September 20th to 21st. I felt like Vivien was in my dreams again, but I remember little about them due to my absentmindedness. The constant thought that I most likely (yes, I'm being cautious again) was Vivien has been haunting me for yet another day.

This morning, too, I can only think about my recent dreams and discoveries. The worst part is that I started to relax while still in bed, and then the fantasies consumed me again due to intense arousal.

That evening, around 8:00 PM, I was able to clear my mind and relax a bit. I started watching Waterloo Bridge from 1 hour into the movie (where I stopped watching the film). In this state, I didn't feel the distinct sense of familiarity I'd felt the day before. I tried an experiment and watched part of a video I recorded a few weeks ago (ILS. In it, I look into the camera and simply speak from memory about ils). It's funny, but I didn't feel much of a sense of familiarity there either (although I understand that it's me, naturally). Maybe it's normal that sometimes I feel like Vivien Leigh (in this case), and sometimes I just calmly watch a movie (i.e., it depends on your mood and mental activity — whether you're actively analyzing what you're seeing, or simply absorbing information with your eyes and ears). So it doesn't mean I was or wasn't one person or another. In short, it turned out to be an interesting topic...

One thought crossed my mind: what if recent events have forced me to see myself differently — both directly and indirectly? After all, one morning I really did merge with Vivien Leigh, until I returned to caution? But these are just thoughts.

In the film Waterloo Bridge Vivien's dark-haired character, Myra, is forced/decides to become a prostitute after she and her blonde friend, Kitty, are left without work. In fact, her blonde friend is the one who starts doing it first... Oh my god, it reminded me so much of dark-haired Natasha, who also followed her blonde friend when she couldn't find a job and ran out of money, and they ended up prostituting together in the same apartment.

Edit: I'm assuming the blonde who ran out of the room to get Natasha was Natasha's friend. Otherwise, why would she run after her? In any case, Natasha was with her friend there.

I was just thinking (not quite at that exact time) that while movies are movies, the ideas they portray nonetheless have an impact on the world around them. And I was thinking, what if actors can, so to speak, suffer for roles that have allowed less-than-ideal ideas into society...? Given my entire experience with Vivien, this wasn't a huge surprise, but I'm still elated, as this is yet another synchronicity I've had with this actress. And this is yet another indicator that, given all of the above (plus dozens of pages written about synchronicities and various similarities with her), I really should have been Vivien Leigh...!

Natasha had been a prostitute for six months when I visited her in late May or early June. That is, from about November or December, before Moscow was blanketed in snow. In the film with Vivien, it shows rain, and then snow... after Myra, played by Vivien, decides to take up prostitution...

Then, a couple of years ago, I found a book on BookCrossing about a prostitute in London... The author was Brooke Magnanti. In fact, this was the only book of all that interested me, because I wanted to know how girls view s*x and related topics...

It looks like I'm in for a very interesting month watching all the films with Vivien Leigh.

Note: Why could that scene have been a mistake for which I suffer? The film doesn't show that the girls couldn't find work for many months, their money ran out, and they were left starving on the streets. They, as shown in the film, immediately turned to prostitution. That's where the mistake lies.

While previously I could only assume that some of Vivien's decisions could have led to some suffering in my life, this episode in the film literally reflects (yes, not 100% reflects, but it shouldn't be 100%, since many factors influence life situations) a real situation from my life... plus that situation was very important for me, determining my future path in life... and at 24, I literally couldn't find peace when my love for Natasha returned after the psychological block I had created was broken, and I understood that I would most likely never see her again... I write this and remember that in the film, Myra thought she would never see Roy again, believing that he was killed at war. And then the opposite happened: Roy is looking for Myra. I've been looking for Natasha for several years... that's another synchronicity. We must suffer for our mistakes, and this moment already shows a direct and specific cause-and-effect relationship - here is a specific mistake and here is a specific punishment for that mistake. It was this moment, I believe, that put the final nail in the coffin of my caution regarding whether I really was the actress Vivien Leigh...

Addendum: I realized I was falling in love with Natasha the evening after I left her. Later, I thought about helping her, but due to extreme shyness and a creeping fear of speaking, I never managed to tell her why I really came to see her a second time... Roy and Myra fell in love very quickly. Myra wanted to be his wife when she learned he was alive.

Myra throws herself under a car, unable to bear the consequences of her life choices. I seriously wanted to end things three times, and such thoughts also crossed my mind many times. Now I understand that this is not a solution... we will be reborn anyway, and we will still have to suffer for our mistakes... there is no escape. No matter how bad things are, it's worth looking for other solutions to overcome your grief.

September 22, 2023. Finished watching Waterloo Bridge. I saw myself in Vivien again, after yesterday’s findings...

Today I spent the entire day writing a post for the group chat Marced invited me to. I reminded people about my experience with the Thiaooubians and also wrote briefly about my synchronicities and Vivien Leigh.

Around 9 PM, I started watching That Hamilton Woman with Vivien

Leigh. I was intrigued by the words of the no longer young Emma, where she says things that resonate with my real-life experience, which I've been experiencing in recent days, when I look at Vivien Leigh and feel like I'm seeing myself. Considering that I've accepted that I had to be her, I'm literally looking at myself... In the film, a woman, the adult Emma, at the five-minute mark looks in a mirror and says that she always expects a miracle, that one day it will be another face looking back at her, a face she knew before, but that face must be dead: “I know it. I knew that face. For 10 years, it looked back at me from different mirrors. Must be me. But I always wait for the miracle. That one time, just once [can’t make out], it will be another face that looks at me again. A face I knew before, but that face must be dead.”

Note from March 17, 2026. Initially, I thought it wasn’t me, Vivien, playing the older me in my past life of Emma Hamilton. But, apparently, I was playing myself back then. In fact, there’s still synchronicity here, because now it turns out I literally didn’t recognize myself, Vivien…

Before bed, I was able to relax and feel positive. I fully accepted the idea that I had once been Vivien Leigh. Various thoughts crossed my mind — now I need to know even more about Leigh; what if those two blondes I fell in love with at first sight could have been her husband or partner? Ultimately, I let my thoughts overwhelm me.

This resulted in my heart and breathing problems resurfacing as I fell asleep.

I woke up at 3 a.m. and couldn't fall back asleep, as thoughts of the book (which you are reading right now) consumed me, and I thought about how to write it correctly, etc. I wanted to sleep, but the thoughts kept coming back. Ultimately, I fell asleep after 7 a.m. and woke up at 9 a.m.

September 24, 2023. My mistake yesterday was getting lost in my thoughts again, which caused my mind to become “dislocated” from my physical body (it's hard to explain in words). I think that's why I woke up almost out of breath.

I don't need to actively try to think of myself as someone (Vivien) or identify with her. I just need to be here and now, relaxed and positive, and all the sensations and self-perceptions will come naturally.

I took a walk around my house at one o'clock. I walked slowly and absorbed all the images entering my mind through my senses. Soon, I stopped feeling the intense tension in my heart area. Another sign that thoughts and consciousness play a huge role in relaxation and well-being (which is logical).

September 25, 2023. I was wondering if it's even morally normal to take credit for the person you were in a past life. On the one hand, it seems a little strange, a bit creepy, but then again, I was that person! I made their decisions — both good and bad. And I am paying for the latter with suffering! So I thought, yes, it's normal to be proud of my achievements and accomplishments in past lives.

I came across a book by Sorin Cerin on archive.org today. It was supposedly about the ghost of Vivien Leigh, who accompanied the author for many years. The story is either a lie (even if he considered his work fiction, since it concerns a real person, and he doesn't write anywhere that it's fake, then I consider it a lie), or the author was hallucinating something...

I'm glad I have videos of telekinesis that show that I speak and write about true experiences from my life.

I tried to find The Village Squire (1935). There's only a small clip of Vivien online — I'm glad it exists. It's a shame I won't be able to watch that film. It shows the importance of preserving information and knowledge...

And I think I'll try uploading Thiaoouba's translation and my book (once I've corrected my thoughts about knowledge and faith) to archive.org. If they have the aforementioned person's book, then they shouldn't delete mine either, right?

I also see again the importance of being in the present, and not allowing myself to retreat too far into myself. In such moments, I can clearly see myself as the soul that was Vivien before, and now inhabits this body (that's not exactly how I see myself, but it's hard to describe).

There's no need to try to see yourself as someone else. Relax, live in the present, and everything will come naturally.

September 26, 2023. I was reading an interview with Vivien Leigh today, and for a moment I didn't recognize the word “Shaw” (Show) (it's possible they were talking about George Bernard Shaw). I don't even recognize it now. And yet I must have seen it many times. And then, around 5 pm, the news brought me an article about a phenomenon that's the opposite of déjà vu, called “jamais vu” – when something familiar seems new or unreal.

Note to self: No need to keep looking at the article from September 4th.

I continued watching Anna Karenina with Vivien Leigh. And I still sometimes wonder why I sometimes see the actress Vivien Leigh, and not myself in my other body? Yesterday, for example, I clearly saw myself in a photo of a young Vivien with short curly hair (I think because in that photo she didn't look so much like the actress, but more like a [regular?] person, if that makes sense…). This morning, an interview with Vivien popped up in my YouTube recommendations – the one where she speaks in the voice as in the dream (of September 4th), and I saw myself in her face in the preview – she's herself there.

Perhaps I'm just not in the right frame of mind. Perhaps I'm still uneasy about “merging” with this famous actress (third person again), and I don't realize I'm watching myself in my old body (plus, I often switch to the actress – to her, not to myself. That is, I think in the third person, not the first).*

Then, in films, she naturally plays characters and portrays their personalities, their traits and mannerisms, rather than her own – that can also play a role. In Waterloo Bridge, Vivien plays a role similar to herself – perhaps that influenced the fact that for a good portion of the film, I saw myself in her? And in the scene where she makes the fateful decision, I definitely saw myself when I rewound and she looks down the bridge...

*By the way, I remembered a dream where I could see a naked man from the side, but at the same time I could feel him as if I were him, in him, feeling my body, but looking at myself from the outside. It was third-person — I was wondering that day before falling asleep whether it was possible to have such an experience in a dream, and that same night I was given a direct answer: yes, it is. This, by the way, is further (albeit indirect) confirmation that my dream with Vivien Leigh, saying I was her, is true. Also, that evening, when I had the dream with Vivien, I thought that my synchronistic experience with two girls (Michele, Vivien) was interesting, but I could have been anyone.

I understand that now the habit of fantasizing is even more of a hindrance. I don't need it anymore. Once you find out you were Vivien Leigh, there's no need to escape reality anymore...

September 27, 2023. This morning on YouTube, I saw myself in Vivien Leigh's Gone with the Wind test video, as well as in The Village Squire.

While finishing Anna Karenina, I could sometimes see myself in Leigh, too.

Last night, my thoughts were out of the present again, and I started having breathing and heart problems again, waking up in a panic, as if I were suffocating.

In one of these episodes, I saw an image of a man, and to his left and slightly behind him, a monster called IT was looking at me. It was white with red hair. I don't know if it was a dream, a vision, or both. I decided to look at my watch shortly after that image, and it showed September 27th (the date that prompted me to notice the synchronicity with IT) 12:11 AM (if I remember correctly).

Then that night I had a dream where IT suddenly appeared in front of me and started trying to scare me. I woke up, but I wasn't scared. Rather, during all these episodes, I thought to myself, - Why am I being given this again when I just want to get my health back and come to my senses?

Edit of July 23, 2025. From what I remember the last dream took place near the farther side of Cherkizovsky lake.

28 сентября 2023 г. I'm watching The Skin of Our Teeth with Vivien Leigh, and I'm thinking that sometimes I see myself in her, and sometimes I'm just a bystander (like when I watched my video and didn't feel the same sense of familiarity).

I see that she's a completely different person and a truly wonderful actress. This made me think of dreams where I had knowledge I never had, but in the dream, I acted on that knowledge (going to a store that doesn't exist, for example). We humans also act based on the knowledge we have. Vivien Leigh's material knowledge was erased, and it's no wonder that sometimes I don't recognize myself. This is logical, because we must learn more and more things in literally different lives. This is how we gain more spiritual knowledge.

Essentially, this all confirms my thoughts about knowledge, and that we do what we believe is right in each life situation.

October

October 1, 2023. Yesterday I watched The Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone. At the end, I saw another reflection of my life in the film.

This night I had a dream in which two girls, if I remember correctly (there was definitely a girl. And maybe the other person was a man...), had their throats st in a narrow alley – there were walls on both sides, or something like that. I saw their heads, or bodies, being lifted up, and their heads being detached from their bodies... not the most pleasant sight – and certainly not the best place to have a lucid dream.

Half-awake, I had thoughts in my dream about Vivien. And at one point I saw the “leather” tag. I thought I'd check if the man in the film had a leather jacket (I don't think so).

Today I was out for a walk and then stopped at the store. I was returning with a bag in one hand. When my right hand got tired, I picked up the bag with my left, turning onto the diagonal path near the school. Then something strange happened. A guy and a girl were walking towards me. They took up the entire narrow sidewalk. Since I'd just switched hands — I was carrying a bag with my left hand — I decided to move to the left, where the girl was, so they’d only have to move slightly to their left... But no. The girl didn't move at all, and the guy came up behind her, and we bumped shoulders. A moment later, I realized he was inadequate person (and, apparently, she was too), since that was why he'd walked toward me (even though I was already walking at the edge of the sidewalk). He had red, curly hair. Then I thought maybe he was the guy from the tram when Anton and I were riding home from the military registration and enlistment office. He even said then that they shouldn't have drafted me in the first place (hinting either at my stuttering or at what my “friends” were telling others, but not me in order to help me see my problems and become a better, healthier person).

I gave this incident more attention than it deserved, especially considering my shoulder wasn't hurting at all.

And yes, I did look up which side people “should” walk on. On the right, as some say — and, by the way, I often did just that. In reality, in this situation, they should have only moved slightly to the left.

NOTE: Only after writing about the dream, did I realize it was another prophetic dream. A narrow sidewalk and alley, a girl, and most likely a man, who were the center of attention. Too much attention...

Update from October 15th. October 1st was the day Michele Avila died 38 years ago. Two people killed her, and on that day, not only did two people refuse to move slightly and make way, but a guy also tried to bump into me, deliberately going behind a girl to get as close to me as possible; and yes, there's a chance it was the same guy from the tram when we were returning from the military registration and enlistment office.

I’ll note something just in case — at 38, Vivien starred in A Streetcar Named Desire. It has some synchronicity with Michelle (the broken bottle; the advice to dump the guy).

October 8, 2023. 1 month and 4 days after my dream with Vivien Leigh, which turned out to be true (a true dream).

Yesterday, on the 7th, I was washing myself and asked my Higher Self that if I live my next life on Earth, I want to find my past life in the body of Evgeny Meshkov, as well as all my other lives that I learn about in this one; I would also like to learn about all my knowledge and understandings — essentially, to find my book, Simple Truths of Life, and everything else that I might write in the future (books, videos, etc.).

During the night, I had a dream in which I asked my Higher Self to change my body to the one I had in one of my past lives. In that scene, I saw a building in the distance... perhaps it had a domed roof. I even think it might have resembled the building you can see from Waterloo Bride – but it's not certain it was that exact building (St. Paul's Cathedral).

Then the scene changed to another. I was among mirrors. I walked among them, and I realized I was in a mirror maze.

Then I realized I was in the body of a woman, who apparently was completely naked. Her hair was dark, her face seemed pretty, and her breasts were large – larger than Michele’s and Vivien's (and Emma's), which makes me think I was neither of them in that dream (and this was obvious from the completely different face). Her forehead was exposed by hair that might not have been completely straight. Her skin was fair (about the same as mine, I suppose). I began to take a closer look at my dream body, and for some reason I felt a little uneasy, and I woke up. Well, it was a good step in the right direction, even if I didn't have a lucid dream. It's a bit of a shame, though — I'd already been among the mirrors, and I wouldn't have needed to search for them or ask my Higher Self to create a mirror nearby. But I'm glad I had that dream.

Of course, it doesn't tell me much yet. It only provides fuel for reflection. Was that dream true (like the one with Vivien Leigh), and was that my real past body? Again, we need to consider what preceded that scene — in the dream, I asked my Higher Self to change the body I had in the dream to the one I had in one of my lives.

When I walked among the mirrors, there was some kind of narrative (mental, perhaps), but I don't remember anything... I should have been more focused during the day, anyway.

Afterwards, there was another dream... I even wonder if it was a dream within a dream? After all, in it, I was, I think, in the kitchen, making an audio note about a dream with a girl. I noted in the dream note, and then in the real note in the morning, that she was “a beautiful dark-haired woman – 90 60 90 – in a mirror maze.”

Unfortunately, there's little to learn about a possible past life here. If only I'd gotten a better look at her face... maybe... but no, unless she was also (!) famous in some way, I might have found a photo or portrait of her.

Speaking of portraits and paintings and Emma - I remember meeting Asya in Gorky Park, and when we were crossing the street to the Muzeon, she asked about the paintings in the underpass - like where are they, and they were still there. Honestly, I don't think there's anything there, but after the synchronicities with Vivien, I can't just dismiss everything. Plus, there were paintings in the Muzeon itself - outside under the roof; in front of the fountain.

As I think about it: I see the same situation here as with the dream with Vivien Leigh. I was in a past life regression, and they asked me who I was - in Vivien Leigh's voice, I said I was her. I asked my Higher Self to transform my body in a dream into what I had in one of my past lives - I was among mirrors and saw myself as a female.

There were many mirrors. Some looked at each other. I'm wondering if the number of mirrors equals the number of my past lives? And their cluster symbolizes different reflections flowing from one life to another (from one mirror to another)? I didn't have a chance to look around properly, but what if the reflection in the other mirrors was different – of a different person? But these are just my ideas...

Ray tracing interested me. Mirrors reflect rays of light between themselves. Just a thought.

After looking at girls with measurements of 90 x 60 x 90, the girl in the dream had larger breasts – maybe 100+. And they were much more rounded as well.

Before that dream with the woman and the mirrors, there was another one:

2:08 a.m. October 8th. That's the time I started recording an audio note about a dream I had. (The metadata shows 2:09).

There was a dream. It had something to do with Vivien Leigh being Cleopatra.

When I saw the synchronicities with Emma Hamilton, I thought, what if Vivien Leigh played herself in that film (her past life)? Then I saw that she played Cleopatra. I thought, not very seriously, what if she could be Cleopatra also, and she again played herself in the movie? Seriously speaking, Cleopatra was exactly the same person as everyone else — that is, she was subject to the same Laws of the Universe as everyone else. And it's clear that Cleopatra's soul probably already lived in another, lesser-known physical body — or maybe more than one body; Those people didn't even know they were the famous Cleopatra! So anything is possible here...

It's also worth considering how much my thoughts about the possibility that Vivien was once Cleopatra could have triggered the motive for that dream. After all, I spent the entire day watching the 1963 film Cleopatra with Liz Taylor. But to be fair, the dream with Vivien turned out to be true, so... (It was 3:03 AM when I wrote these thoughts, and I heard knocking in the kitchen — the kind that often happens when I'm either right or wrong in my thinking, doing something... 3:13 AM at the time of this post).

https://www.quora.com/What-did-Cleopatra-look-like If this painting does indeed depict Cleopatra and it is an accurate representation of her, that would mean Cleopatra was pale-skinned with frizzy red hair.

October 17, 2023. Tuesday. This morning, I decided to tell my mom about being Vivien Leigh and Michele Avila in my past lives. I mentioned synchronicities, reflections, psychological similarities, spiritual knowledge, and so on. She didn't seem to believe it much, but then, alas, I didn't expect much.

When I finished my story about Vivien Leigh, I looked at my watch – it was 8:33 AM.

One of my notes says: Knocks in the room at 33 minutes, when I thought I was supposed to be Michele (by then, I had already found a reflection of Ophelia's death from Hamlet and how Michele died). (The file was created on October 16th at 9:04 PM). I often hear knocks precisely when I relax and stop focusing on something, fantasizing, etc. – I live in the here and now; at such moments, I interpret those knocks as a sign that I've made the right decisions.

Today I saw the girl named Marced post a screenshot from Michel's book, Nature's Revenge, on Facebook. He wrote that the soul enters the embryo at the sixth week — something like that. Michele was born almost exactly seven months after Vivien's death. It takes the soul three days to reach the Higher Self, I believe.

Assuming Michel was right (Thao, after all, was no longer helping him with the details then), then either Michele was born two or three weeks before the ninth month, or I couldn't have been her, and the synchronicities with her specifically mean something else.

Pregnancy lasts 40 weeks. Michele was born on February 8, 1968. Vivien Leigh died on July 8, 1967.

6 weeks = 42 days

February 8, 1968 – 40 weeks = May 4, 1967

May 4, 1967 + 6 weeks = June 15, 1967

23 days – the difference between this date and Vivien Leigh's death date. 3 weeks and 2 days.

This is the 37th week of pregnancy. Babies born before this week are considered premature.

So, if I talk to Michele's friends and family, this is something I'll have to ask.

There's also a chance Michel D. could have made a mistake.

October 23, 2023. Today I watched The Ghost and Mrs. Muir (1947) with Gene Tierney. While skimming reviews to decide whether I'd watch it or not, I didn't think I'd cry too. Even though ghosts don't function as depicted in the film, the story was very sweet. My heart was overflowing with emotion, overshadowing logic.

This morning I also watched Ballen's https://youtu.be/xn7eaj36dUY?si=gcns8zEIvmsl5cl1 and the first story about a woman who came to California to die, but, as if by magic, was cured of Lyme disease, transmitted to her by a tick when she was stung by bees. She went on to live and began promoting a cure for the disease.

Also, I rendered the video about ils this morning, and now I have to work on the video about how I discovered and proved to myself that I was Vivien Leigh.

8:27 PM. Rewatching Mulholland Drive and paused at the moment where we see Betty at the airport. I remember how I so wanted to be in that 'dream place' when I was 19, and now I've learned that I've ALREADY been there and was in movies in one of my past lives. It's so extraordinary...

27th minute into the film. Betty says she couldn't afford a place like that in a million years. Vivien and Olivier lived in Beverly Hills. They say houses near 1107 (the number of one of the houses in which we lived at that time) are worth $25 million (I'm sure we rented, but still). On $333 a month, I could only afford to buy a house like that in 6256+ years. It's interesting how, thanks to reincarnation, we can experience different things and see the same things differently.

Then she says she'd like to be “known as a great actress rather than a movie star, but sometimes people end up being both.” I think this is what happened to me in Vivien Leigh's life... although Vivien Leigh didn't star in many films, Gone with the Wind and A Streetcar Named Desire are still very famous.

44th minute. The words “I don't know who I am. I don't know what my name is” made me think about reincarnation and the fact that we don't know who we were or what our name was.

How interesting that Mulholland Drive had such an impact on me back then, and it turns out I was experiencing that life — both lives. In a way, I was both Betty and Diane. Of course, there are plenty of differences, but some fundamentals are very similar. Is it synchronicity?

Betty Elms. It's interesting that the elm tree appears here.

(I wanted to write something else down, but I forgot what exactly after the dream... and I was thinking about writing it down, but I decided I'd never forget something like that... yeah, right)

I don't know who I am... I don't know what my name is... Reminded me of when I was 18, when I learned the cause of my stutter and realized I'd been terribly lost for the past four years. I was so lost in my dreams back then that I forgot my last name and had to look for my passport to refresh my memory. Now everything is fine, and I remember school events and such. Regarding not knowing who I am — to some extent, it may be connected to the fact that when material knowledge is erased from us, we lose track of who we are to some extent. After all, past lives are also a part of us, influencing our realities and events in this life. I'm reading Dark Star: A Biography of Vivien Leigh (October 30, 2023), and when I got to The Mask of Virtue, I realized there were some similarities with how Betty stuns everyone at her audition. Vivien was also at the audition for that play.

Michele Avila's mother was called Irene. In the film, Irene is a sweet, older woman with blonde hair. Irene Mayer Selznick was the wife of David O. Selznick.

There were many skeptics in the comments to my video about ils, but I remained calm and continued to be relatively happy. I've come a long way in this life and acquired spiritual knowledge I didn't have before — the courage (to openly speak the truth, even when it goes against social norms, for example). My life has not been wasted.

October 26, 2023. Today I finally had a lucid dream, in which I saw a different version of myself reflected in a mirror.

At 3:58, I looked at my watch after coming from the bathroom. I felt alert and focused. I thought it would be a good time to have a lucid dream — I tried to reinforce the thought that when I have the dream, I realize I am dreaming, gain control of my dream body, and try the mirror experiment, asking my Higher Self to change my dream body to the one I had in past lives. But then various thoughts came over me, and I focused too much time and attention on them. Then it all devolved into deep thoughts and fantasies. After 6, I thought I was sleepy and could easily fall back asleep and at least get some sleep.

As it turns out, I actually fell asleep and had a dream:

I flushed the toilet and saw a piece of plaster fall away under the force of the water and wash away, revealing even more of the red brick wall. Then I noticed the entire toilet was brick, forming a rectangle no more than half a meter high, I think. The front wall was almost completely exposed, as far as I remember. Then I noticed something else wrong – the drain pipe was twisted. Then I realized the toilet was gone altogether – where did it go? I wondered. Then I noticed a second hole in the pipe in the middle – what was that for if there was already a hole in the front? Then I realized the cistern was also missing. But then how was the water flushing? (Which I had obviously been draining a few seconds ago.) Trying to figure out where the cold water pipe was connected, I apparently realized it was flowing past the brick toilet. I found confirmation of this when I saw water already flowing across the floor from under some rags lying there. I was wondering what I should do — or something like that. Then the thought came to me: is this really reality? I started thinking about it specifically — after all, if this is reality and there really is a leak in my bathroom, then I need to do something (close the valves, for example). Then I asked a question in English (silently or out loud — I don't remember)—"Is this reality or a nightmare?" At that moment, I turned my head to the left, toward the brick toilet, which had now suddenly become normal and had a cistern.

It was at that moment that I realized it was a dream, and I regained control of my body. I had achieved what I had been wanting for weeks — a lucid dream. I immediately remembered my experiment with the mirror. Luckily for me, I was already in the bathroom with a mirror; Unfortunately for me, that bathroom was very narrow with only one exit behind me (and also with the unknown behind me). Trying to leave all the horror stories behind me, I took a couple of steps to the left (in reality I can see half of my face when standing close to the bathtub), expecting to see my current body, and I think there were thoughts about asking my Higher Self about the transformation of my body in the dream to what I had in other lives. But when I finally saw myself in the reflection of a rectangular(?) mirror (in real life the mirror is oval), I saw there a naked young guy of about 20-30 years old. His skin was fair. He had short blond hair, combed slightly to the side, and it completely covered his head (there was not the slightest hint of baldness). His face was normal, symmetrical, and he was smiling slightly (?); I would consider him quite good-looking - but he is far from a photo model; I think girls would like him. His body, if I remember correctly, was neither skinny nor overweight, slightly toned (?) – he was normal in every way.

Unfortunately, I didn't expect to see this "unfamiliar" (?) person in the reflection, as I expected to see myself there (in my current physical body), and I became confused and woke up (plus, perhaps, my recent thoughts about "Is this reality or a nightmare?", along with the claustrophobia of the room, also had an effect on me).

To better remember his appearance, I can say that the texture and style of his hair reminded me of my childhood friend Anton, who had and still has a similar hairstyle. Regarding his facial features, some aspects made me think of the son (Slava) of my mother's friend Anna (the streamer Scatman from Goodgame.ru also has vaguely similar facial features). I don't remember his eye color, as I didn't have time to pay much attention to them.

August 15, 2024. That streamer said long time ago he chose that nickname after the singer Scatman (who used to stutter).

Regarding the guy in the reflection. The day before, I wished to have a lucid dream in which I would ask my Higher Self to change my body to the one I had in one of my past lives. Therefore, I believe that it could again have been one of my past physical bodies. As for whether that body could have been something else – a mixture of various subconscious processes and thoughts – I don't think so, since I can't see any reason for lying to me when I have repeatedly wished to see my past bodies in dreams. I don't think there is anything to punish me for; I can learn from mistakes and admit them; I am open to different ideas if they make sense, etc. (I actually thought my life would deviate a bit from Thiaoouba and her themes, and I'd be exploring something else... and here I am again, checking TPXP often...)

It's also important to note that the guy in the mirror had hair, and in this life, as a child, looking at my father's bald head, I had a clear idea that this would be the First Life in which I would experience baldness — meaning I 100% had to have had hair in all my past lives (or I didn't live to the age when baldness would have fully manifested itself). So far, everything fits.

I'll note that men had short haircuts in the 19th century. Just in case some of my ideas turn out to be true and he was the man from the Titanic... But so far, there's almost no evidence to draw any conclusions. Just speculation.

NOTE FROM THE 28TH: I remembered how Anya once came to visit us and went to the bathroom at the same time. Afterwards, I saw a puddle of urine on the floor... and in the dream, there was a leak on the floor, and then in the reflection of her face, I noticed the features of her son.

That reflection may still be my past body, and the above story is a synchronicity. But because I didn't specifically ask my Higher Self in that dream to replace my body with the one I had in past lives — and there are people who see themselves as living famous people in their dreams — I decided that I would probably give a high chance that my reflection seen in a mirror in a dream was what I looked like in another past life only when I specifically asked my Higher Self to do this — to show me what I looked like in one of my past lives. I think this is right.

My current opinion regarding this guy in the dream is that there is a chance that it was still one of my past bodies, but because of the aforementioned things, there may be other reasons why I had that body. But what are they?

Note: One of Anya's sons is named Alexander, and the other is Slava (Vyacheslav).

Reflections. When I saw another person's face in a lucid dream (my first such experience. I saw a brunette in a mirror maze in a non-lucid dream), it all felt unfamiliar and awkward... It's hard to explain, but I'm writing these words after remembering that sometimes I see myself in Vivien, and sometimes I have trouble seeing myself. There's a connection, I think. To some extent, in terms of appearance, it's really a different body, and at first, out of habit, you might feel uncomfortable (if you see another self (if it's really your past body) in a dream...

I need to analyze the dream. Why did I realize it was a dream only when the newly installed brick toilet was replaced with a normal one, since in reality, it's impossible for things to change so quickly in a second? But for some reason, the very fact that the toilet was brick didn't give me any serious thoughts (perhaps it's again about the data (knowledge) implanted in us in dreams?).

I think I need to reinforce the idea that although lucid dreams can “feel” very real, my physical body is not in danger from anything or anyone in a dream! Rather, perhaps it’s related to the psyche, which can perhaps be damaged, but only if I allow myself to be completely saturated by unfounded fears. If I remember this, then I will be calm, no matter who or what I see in a lucid dream.

How should I ask the question correctly?

My Higher Self, please replace my body in this dream with the one I had in my very last life before the one I'm living now.

... with my second-to-last body.

... with my very first physical body. And I could go on like this until I reach Vivien Leigh. But I'd like to go from end to beginning, and counting won't help here, since I don't know how many lives I've lived.

Note: Later I learned this method doesn’t work as it’s implied that I’m still seeking additional proof when I already know the answer. I should as directly to change my dream body to that which I had in my Vivien’s life, etc.

For an experiment, I could ask my Higher Self to create a piece of paper with a number showing how many past lives I've had. But I don't think it would work, since that would be too simple...

If I see an unfamiliar face — don't panic or get confused! Take a good look at myself, and then ask to change the scene to the place where I lived in this body.

The city where I was born in that body?

Maybe later — where I died...

October 27, 2023. I woke up at 3:56. When I got back to bed, the clock showed 3:58 — the exact same time as yesterday. I wondered if history would repeat itself. It did. I didn't fall asleep until after 7. I had dreams, but they never became lucid.

October 29, 2023. I had a dream in which I was in the square near the former Kodak store (irl, there's a small park there). I think I was sitting on a bench and thinking about how it happened (?) that I was able to find Christina (?) – like finding a needle in a haystack. And then I started saying that I found Christina (from Ostankino) and someone else (I don't remember) – and the idea was the same – that it was like finding a needle in a haystack. (When I woke up, I thought that maybe this was a hint that I really was Michele Avila and found my two past lives through synchronicities – like how I met Marina.)

Then I was on the other side of the highway (the side where I once met Anton's mother, saying I left home…). There were two guys there. At one point, I suggested exchanging phone numbers – in a friendly way. They started making weird excuses, thinking it was something g*y or something like that. Maybe we did exchange phone numbers after all. Then I was crossing the street near Дикси (Dixie). For some reason, I was in the middle of the street on the tram tracks and decided to quickly cross – without even looking either way, using only the headlights of the cars on the road to determine whether there were cars coming or not. Then I remembered I'd left a bag with a cake by the tram tracks. People started looking at it and trying pieces. I thought then that now I wouldn't be able to eat it...

There was a moment when it felt like I was controlling myself with a joystick or a keyboard. That would have been a clue that it was a dream.

I woke up; I couldn't fall asleep; I fell asleep after 6.

In the dream, I was somewhere in a basement. I had a gun. It felt like I was in a video game. I needed to take some map somewhere. There were also moments when it was clear I was in a dream.

Yesterday, the 28th, I had a long conversation in a “Secret” group chat. Marced didn't delete her cropped photo of my book. She was also talking complete nonsense about how she has the right to do whatever she wants with other people's photos — and she doesn't care that she's distorted the information. Her friend Dmitry clearly thinks her nonsense is normal. Today, the 29th, I tried reporting Marced in that chat, but I don't think anything will come of it.

Yesterday, I finished watching and reading all the material about Vivien that I had saved in my tabs.

Yesterday, October 30, 2023, I finished reading Dark Star on page 72, when Vivien wrote “Left with Larry.” I felt sad about Leigh Holman and my mistakes in my past life. He ended up alone and never married again.

This morning, the 31st, I wrote a letter to Shavaun Avila and sent it.

This evening, I saw Minty's new video in my YouTube recommendations: https://youtu.be/9PlUA9X0CNU?si=63q4lZ1I55oufgmU and decided to rewatch Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me.

I heard some similarities. Laura Palmer (played by the actress called Sheryl Lee), whose lifeless body floats in the water. She was 17 years old. She lived a double life, which led to her murder (then I remembered Vivien and Michele Avila, who was possibly killed for her past mistakes). Laura was doing drugs.

At one point (15:--), the FBI agent says it's 3:30 a.m. (in the morning). It reminds me of Michele leaving around 3:30 p.m. on the last day. The name immediately follows — Irene at Hap's Diner. Of course, David Lynch also directed Mulholland, so there's nothing surprising about that. It just keeps reminding me of Michele Avila...

When, at around 1:10:--, Laura enters the bar where Julee Cruise is singing, I could almost see myself (I forgot for a while that I don't know 100% yet that I was Michele too).

1:13:-- s*x for money. A familiar theme.

Finished watching four minutes before November 1st. I cried at the very end and during the credits. This was the second film, after Mulholland Drive, where I watched the end credits to the end. This time, I was in an emotional state, thinking about my life, my past — in this case, about what I'd done living Vivien Leigh's life, about my possible life of Michele Avila, and about paying for my mistakes.

I noticed several similarities in the film Mulholland Drive and wasn't surprised to see them in this film, which I “suddenly” remembered on the very day I wrote and sent a message to Michele's family.

I thought a little about reincarnation. How we must sometimes recognize what we already knew, but at the same time, we can see the same situation differently. That's what happened with this film and with Mulholland Drive. Previously, I naturally couldn't see these stories from the perspective of reincarnation — from the perspective of the actress Vivien Leigh. Now everything has changed.

November

November 2, 2023. I had a dream where I had to go to school again, and in the back of my mind I realized I'd already been there in the past. Why do I need to go there again? I was in my apartment the whole time. At one point, my mom asked something about when I'd leave or something, and I thought maybe I'd skip class — it had been so long since I'd been to school — and she left the apartment somewhere. That would be a good time to realize I was dreaming, to have a lucid dream. I'll try to reinforce in my mind that if any strange behavior occurs, it might be a dream.

Yesterday I rewatched The Butterfly Effect (2004).

November 4, 2023. This morning at 4:40 AM, with my phone's battery at 44%, I made a note that a couple of minutes ago I'd had a very brief lucid dream:

I was in my bathroom, about to pee. Then I somehow realized — correctly — that it was a dream. As far as I can tell, I regained control and looked in the mirror. I think I saw my body. There was either hair on my head, or hair on the front of my forehead. The arrangement of things in the dream didn't raise any questions — it was as if everything was in its place, just like in reality. I turned away from my reflection toward the bathtub and began asking my Higher Self about changing my dream body... and then I woke up.

I didn't understand how it happened or what had happened.

Was I too rash and hasty? But then, time is limited in dreams. I found a post about this online; they recommend familiarizing yourself with your surroundings, and then you shouldn't wake up (perhaps that was my mistake today, that I got down to business too quickly); ground yourself into the lucid dream.

https://www.reddit.com/r/LucidDreaming/comments/28vpjq/realizing_im_dreaming_causes_me_to_wake_up/

https://www.quora.com/Why-do-I-always-wake-up-when-I-realize-Im-dreaming

Is there anything else I can learn? (If I ask the right question and see Michele Avila, I doubt I'll ask her family... so far there's been no response from her sister-in-law.)

Thinking about this, I decided it would be worth trying to ask my Higher Self to change my dream body to either my penultimate past life — I should be Vivien, since it's already clear that she and I are one, so to speak;

Or I'll ask to see my very first, most recent life.

I think it's worth mentioning the words “if possible” - so that perhaps, in case I am not allowed to see one of my past bodies, I will not be awakened, but can continue my experience further in a lucid dream.

November 5, 2023. Vivien Leigh's birthday. 110 years have passed since then.

Last night I had erotic dreams, and I woke up aroused. While reading about VL, I thought of Heidi Romanova. I watched her HC on spa*ng – just watched. I guess I was more trying to understand that she, too, makes mistakes, and then her life won't be so good. But I don't think she'll suffer as much as those pn actresses who do hc scenes with a bunch of different guys. Even though the “P” in PMO stands for pn, I don't think it was a mini-relaxation. But it's something to remember so I don't fall back into old habits.

One of the problems is that I still can't go far because I'm not feeling well. Although it's been a little over three weeks since my last PMO. I think that's a record for me. But I don't want to do this for a month — November 11, 2023 — and when the 12th arrives, I'll ask my Higher Self, plus Thao, etc., if they just want to confirm once again that I was Vivien Leigh (there's no need for that anymore, but I want to do what I planned). I could also ask about Michele Avila (maybe about her first).

I should concentrate on my breathing. This has helped me find the peace of mind and body I so desperately need right now.

Unfortunately, I made the mistake of fantasizing about that very same topic again. To avoid torturing myself, I found another Laura Black video and... Okay, three weeks is also a record for me. And then I need to reinforce that I simply cannot fantasize about s*x, because I'm not going to suffer through the blue consequences and will go relieve myself.

November 7, 2023. I had a dream where I and some other people were building log houses. I was hammering long nails into the logs at the corners. I was running low on nails, and then I noticed that in the middle of the house, at the joint, two nails were missing from the bottommost logs. But the problem was different. At that point, the house was sitting on a small, warped white brick, which was sitting on a crumbling (?) block. After some thought, I put the logs under the house to remove and replace the brick and block. I later saw someone else building a house from rotten, crumbling logs.

Then I was in some two-story house. I think I was a dark-skinned girl, and there were several (2?) similar-looking girls with me. As I was leaving (or have exited already?) the house, I turned around to say, “I love you, mom!”, looking up at the empty second floor (the stairs on the left led up there). Whether it was Michele Avila, I don't know, but those are the exact words she spoke the day she died.

Then I had a dream about Dark Souls. I killed a dragon by jumping from a very high tower (headshot). I was given souls before I died, and then it turned out I was wearing a ring that preserved souls, etc. I went looking for a bonfire to level up; when I found it, I realized I wasn't sure whether I'd use a weapon based on dexterity or strength.

I woke up in the night with a slightly sore throat. I gargled with baking soda. Later, I drank some hot water. That afternoon, I went to the store for milk and other groceries.

Addition of April 20, 2024. I had a dream in which wooden logs were the key element, signifying what was to follow was important. That dream occurred on August 18, 2015. Interestingly, that dream also featured a woman by the name of Michele who was near Thao.

November 8, 2023. Perhaps there was a dream where I asked my Higher Self to change my body to the one I had in my penultimate life — and in other lives — and it did change, but I remember almost nothing at all. Perhaps the malaise and the terrible heat and humidity were the cause. I couldn't sleep all night and only fell asleep in the morning.

November 9, 2023. I had a typical dream in which I essentially repeated the thoughts I'd had before the dream. I said in my dream that I was almost all of those people (Butler, Kennedy, Hamilton, etc.). I don't know how to feel about it and I don't remember the details.

Edit of July 16, 2025: if I did hear 'Butler' in that dream, it could be because in my past life I played a character who had that last name.

November 12, 2023. You'll learn what a "sleuth moth game" is. These words were spoken to me by a monster made of insects (?), who devoured (?) several of my acquaintances at the gate of my village house.

I woke up and was able to reenter that dream, knowing it was a dream, but for some reason I was afraid of the atmosphere again, forgetting that my physical body was in no danger in the dream. Perhaps it was the cold. Plus, my consciousness was slightly altered after the dream anyway. Once, I went to blow my nose after a runny nose, and while I was doing so, I was thinking about Cleopatras – one played by Vivien, the other by Liz Taylor. Then I realized what was happening.

Nevertheless – please, Zhenya, don't be afraid of "bad" dreams. I need lucid dreams in any environment! I could enter a dream today, knowing it's a dream, and then, while still in it, make it lucid!!! That would be such a cool experience! Just like in the movie Nightmare on Elm Street. But I was a pussy today...

06.03.2024 — https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0069281/?ref_=nm_knf_t_1 Larry played in a movie 'Sleuth'.

November 13, 2023. I had a series of different dreams. I think Sergey from the village was in one. Then there was a girl lying on the bank of a freezing river, and I worried about her health (that morning, AlinaRinRin was streaming while sitting on the lawn of a park in Tokyo – it was about 16 degrees there). Then I was in a spacious apartment (yesterday I saw my old apartment in VL's life), and then it became Zina's apartment on the 13th floor (this is the second time I've dreamed about that apartment since the dream with VL). I saw my sample drawings, which I couldn't finish due to time. Alas, the idea of a lucid dream never occurred to me. At one point, I remember something about the Scorpions song "Lady Starlight" – maybe it was playing somewhere (?)

November 15, 2023. Memento was a film that, when I was watching it for the first time, allowed me to focus almost entirely on the present. Every time a distracting thought crossed my mind, I recognized it and returned my attention to the present — the film.

Today I read the final chapter, 18, of Dark Star (I still need to read the Epilogue and the chapter about the incorrect events described in other books, etc.) and decided to rewatch Memento this evening.

While watching it, I sometimes thought how interesting it is that memory is the film's main theme, and the memory of my past life is what I was trying to acquire by reading a biography about my past life... And of course, it was on the day I read that book in its entirety that I saw Memento while watching movies on IMDB... Synchronicities...

November 17, 2023. I had a lot of dreams today. (December 18, 2023 – I'll note that the day before I read a book with the word “Dark” in its title – Dark Star. The Dark & Darker theme may have some connection and specific meaning. Unfortunately, Michele took drugs sometimes, and it's unknown whether she was a bully – as the anonymous person wrote – or whether she actually slept with other people's guys. I'd like to believe not, but then, who knows...)

In one “normal” dream, I was in a dungeon in the game Dark & Darker. I was with a girl, to whom I told about my plan with the mirror. Ultimately, I asked my Higher Self to create a mirror – a 4x4 mirror – on the wall by the stairs. It was created there. I asked my Higher Self to change my body in my dream to the one I had in my most recent life. I saw Michele Avila and spoke this fact out loud (that I was seeing Michele Avila). I turned away and asked my Higher Self to change my dream body to the one I had in my penultimate past life. I saw Vivien Leigh in the mirror (which is true) and again spoke this fact out loud in the dream. I was thinking about further asking my Higher Self to change my body to the one I had in the life I lived immediately before Vivien Leigh, but then a monster appeared, descending (?) the stairs to my right — it seemed to have been spawned on purpose, it felt like — and... I apparently woke up in another dream, which I only realized when I actually woke up.

In that dream, I apparently thought about being attacked by a monster jumping down from above, which is why I woke up.

There was also a dream in which I returned to that cave and found the girl's body. Apparently she was killed. I looted her, taking the ring for good luck (a passive bonus).

I had another dream that night where I was in bed (?) and suddenly there was a ghost (?) next to me, talking to me, and realizing it — a nightmare — I woke up. I thought (I don't know if it was a dream, reality, or a half-dream) that I was actually lucid dreaming — as I wanted — it became lucid when I realized there was a ghost next to me, but I got scared and woke up. Just like the person on the forum said — we have a lucid dream during a nightmare, but then immediately wake up.

Then there was a dream in a modern setting. There was an interviewer (looked a bit like the guy from the Sci-Fi Show, if I remember correctly) talking (interviewing) a woman (I can't remember if I was watching from the side, or if I later became that woman) and there was a reference to Vivien Leigh, when the woman noticed that many things had been rearranged since her last visit (it was my first dream there) - I only remember a small pyramid, a couple of centimeters high, turquoise (Vivien Leigh learned to train her memory like this as a child). Then the woman saw that behind the man was a small toy clown... (also moved) and she said to him, "(It's (?)) Behind you, Jamie!" (a reference to the movie Scream. The actor's name is Jamie Kennedy - Kennedy... the name is familiar to me from GwtW). Then a dark-skinned man (?) appeared behind him, wanting to scare Jamie, and I or the woman (?) told him about it.

Even though it wasn't a lucid dream, I still carried out my experiment 100% as I intended. I saw Vivien Leigh, as I should have – everything fits. Then, in the preceding days, I had dreams that indicated I was Michele Avila. Again, the question is about the chances that all these dreams are about something else... (Of course, I often have creeping fantasies that I was Michele – they arise when thoughts flow into fantasies, due to the fact that I don't take care of myself).

Again – nightmares can't harm my body in reality. I must resist such oppressive situations, atmospheres, and fears. But I made progress, so to speak, because I remained in the dungeon with the mirror despite the darkness and claustrophobia (but it wasn't a lucid dream...).

November 18, 2023. I was helping my mom attach insulation to her winter coat. She said it was Turkish. It just reminded me of Natasha from Turkey.

November 22, 2023. I read about my dreams about school today. Now that I know I was Vivien Leigh, I found new meaning in some of the scenes and words spoken in those dreams. For example, when I was speaking English and my mother told me to speak Russian (Vivien was speaking English).

December

December 3, 2023. Dream: I was at school.

We were approaching the schedule, but our class wasn't there (or we didn't see it).

We didn't know where our next lesson was (after the 3rd? Lesson).

We were standing near the stairs to the second floor (where the telephone used to be). There was a girl there, with freckles, who clearly wanted to be right next to me. Apparently, she wasn't my type, so I moved away from her and went to the others. Did she realize this? Perhaps I looked at her differently and found something I liked about her?

Then I noticed two televisions hanging on the wall by the exit, and a painting between them. All three were taller than they were wide (like a portrait). Someone (Maxim R.?) said they noticed this too? There was a table under the televisions, and we went and sat by it. For some reason, there was food on the table in front of everyone, which they started eating. There was no room left for me at the table, but I found a place to sit by the window.

M. Sergey or L. Vlad (?) offered me a sandwich (?)

I sat by the window, looking out, and thought about how I'd done the same thing in VL's life (but I'm not sure I did it in reality when I was VL... In my dream, I thought I'd read it in a book... it could be a false memory, since in reality, I also thought I'd seen a text about VL sitting by the window, but then I couldn't find those lines...)

B. Reshat was heading up to the second floor. We thought he knew where to go and followed him, but he said he was going to the restroom.

We walked to the physics classroom. The ceilings had modern designer lighting.

Then I. Alexey started touching me from behind — or something like that — and I thought he'd started pestering me again, acting up. I had to deal with this situation again.

The door was opened by Stanislav Borisovich Kozhevnikov, our former physics teacher. The physics classroom itself had also been renovated. But the desks were odd; some were positioned close together. I moved the second one to sit where I always sat. Yura G. (from 10th-11th grade) was at the desk with me.

December 6, 2023. Last Friday, my Epson L3258 multifunction printer arrived. I printed photos of Vivien Leigh on Saturday and Sunday. I hung five collages of reminders by my bed, and now I constantly remember living that life. I'm glad I decided to print photos of reflections from films.

Today, I had dreams in which I may have been in my previous body – Vivien.

I still can't have lucid dreams. Although I have messages – today my attention was focused on the hole in my wrist several times, but I still haven't realized it was a dream.

December 8, 2023. I tried drawing a face on a piece of paper. It turned out so-so, but that was my first attempt.

Then I saw a crossword puzzle and, remembering that I loved these things in VL's life, too — and I loved them as a child, too — I decided to try to solve the words. Among them, I found ones I'd encountered while reading Vivien Leigh's biography: sari (I just saw that word yesterday in Alexander Volker's biography, page 233 reader/211, the real one), pulpit.

I'll also note that a long time ago — even after discovering my past life of Vivien — when I go to bed and regain clarity, I hear knocking somewhere in the apartment (kitchen?).

December 9, 2023. For a long time now, I've been experiencing situations in my dreams that could hint to me that this is a dream and I should gain control/awareness. But that's not happening. Today, I might have even thought that Yana's house, which I passed on my motorcycle, might have been different because it was a dream (or something like that). Before that, I rode past Olya (Vladik's, I think) with a duck (?) on her head and turned around and said something to her. Towards the end, when I rode out into the field behind the chapel, I saw a huge dog. But then it turned out that it was all a matter of perspective, most likely. Then other dogs appeared, and their owners did too.

I recently discovered that I was blocked from the Remembering a Friend page – regarding Michele Avila. It's a strange block, since I can view it and leave comments. In any case, this attitude has once again returned me to a state of doubt about my experience with finding past lives. Just recently, I posted photos of reflections of my life in my films, when I was Vivien Leigh, and I had a pretty clear picture of how I lived that life, and that's me in the photo.

Of course, I know who I was. I know my experience is real. It's just psychologically difficult to live like that, when you're not only ignored but also blocked. (Regarding the latter—it's possible Shavon is lying about her experience — I wrote about it in the My Past Lives file.) I think there's a certain passive (unconscious) gaslighting, when people's actions influence and pressure others, causing them to doubt their own sanity.

December 13, 2023 (Wednesday). I finished reading Alexander Walker's biography of Vivien Leigh. I cried while reading the last pages… for various reasons.

December 15, 2023. I was listening to music this morning, and Madonna's "You'll See" started playing. The lyrics resonated with me because they closely paralleled what I'm going through. I'm alone in this life, and while I had friends in past lives who helped me, here — while Thiaooubians are helping me, and I'd like to think of them as friends — I'm essentially left to rely only on myself.

Last night, I dreamed about Michele Avila. Perhaps I was walking by the pond on the far side of the house. I don't remember the details of the dream.

December 18, 2023. I had a dream about, or where I was, Vivien Leigh. I don't remember the details.

Then I had another dream. I was going to Pyaterochka (5ka) to see if they had any crayons/pencils there (I'd been thinking about them the night before, to color the drawings of my past-life faces). Pyaterochka was closed. Then there was a delivery of something large, and I realized I'd already received the package and it was at home. They couldn't give it to me right there because the package arrived so quickly (?) that the codes hadn't arrived yet – some numbers (5 digits?) were missing. We (me and a woman who, for some reason, was going to Pyaterochka's pickup point herself to take the package to another pickup point, from which people would then be carrying packages to their homes and apartments) went to take it to the building where Marina lives.

In the dream, there was some kind of pickup point on the first floor. I left the box by the door, hoping it wouldn't be touched. I walked into a huge room (which doesn't make sense, since Marina's house is tiny). I was at a checkout or something. I didn't bring my touchscreen phone, and I had a Samsung push-button phone (they don't exist in real life). I pressed some buttons (they were tiny – cross-shaped – and were to the left of the phone's vertical center) and gave the phone to the girl at the checkout. The code came through. They gave me some paperwork and I picked up the package, which was now lighter. Inside was a teapot, not whatever it was (a huge MFP? Or something like that).

I asked to speak to the loader/merchandise clerk who gave me the box. Then the security guard apparently started telling me something I'd already forgotten. The funny thing is, I'd already received the package (I realized it at 5ka), but I still fought for the one they gave me, either by mistake or I don't know what.

It's a shame I don't remember the guard's words. (But he did say something rather rude about talking to someone I asked to come over.) Now, as I write this dream, I'm thinking that even though I have answers about who I was — Michele Avila — I'm still searching for new information and asking her relatives questions. But then I figure I'm not doing anything wrong — after all, I'm just asking (and not demanding, as in the dream!), and reincarnation is real. Plus, this is a little-studied topic, and I think caution here wouldn't hurt.

The reason I wrote down the dream is because I had the opportunity to realize it was a dream. What were the pencils for? To draw color portraits of my past lives. If I had this answer and question, maybe I would have realized it was a dream.

Then, perhaps, since I'm asking my Higher Self to help me in the dream, it won't/can't do it because I already have the answers I'm seeking. I've already had a dream where I 100% did my mirror experiment and saw both Michele Avila and Vivien Leigh. The only difference is that it wasn't a lucid dream, and out of stubbornness and caution, I still want to repeat that experience in a lucid dream...

I'll try asking my Higher Self today, if I have a lucid dream, to show me my past life, the one I lived immediately before my reincarnation in Vivien Leigh's body.

If nothing happens, I'll try to start from my very first life.

In short, I'll try to skip Michele and Vivien.

Note from 6 February 2024. Yesterday I learned that 'Remembering a friend, Michele Avila' – page is run by 4 people: Dave, Heather P., Shavaun, Chris Avila. In the dream there were 4 people: 2 males (охранник и грузчик), 2 females (девушка тащащая коробку и та, что была у кассы. I thought that Shavaun banned me but maybe it was someone else. Yesterday I also found Chris answered my question by saying to leave it all essentially. Of course, it's up to others if they want to talk to me or not.

Today – February 6, 2024 – I decided to find the post where I left a comment. I didn't find it even when I filtered posts up to the day – January 23, 2013. Why did someone decide to delete it? Of course, if Shavaun read it, she could have done so. Why would she need that old post.

I also saw a post from Chris. Among other things, he was promoting Shavon's group.

Yesterday, on the 17th, I ma*d again. Before that, I realized I was falling back into old habits and I didn't need it. I half-jokingly wondered if I'd find another Laura Black, but this time named Michele? I finished the case with Petra Michelle. Only today did I realize the scene took place in a large sports pool near the water.

Today, on the 18th, I read about Irene Avila's nightmare about her daughter. In that dream, she saw the faces of Karen and Laura, but she couldn't fully believe they killed her daughter. That dream was true.

These and other recent events and dreams have inspired me to decide to accept that I was Michele Avila 100%, and not 99%, until I see her in the mirror of a lucid dream while doing my experiment. I've already done it and seen both Michele and Vivien – and I know for sure that I was Vivien – so it must be I was Michele too.

Also, today I read in Karen Kingsbury's book that when Irene gave birth to Michele, the birth process was not easy (but there is no data on how long it lasted).

December 20, 2023. I woke up this morning after a dream in which I heard the words, "Would have no recollection of his past life". I think these words were read from Thiaoouba's book, and I thought I'd need to read it again to refresh my memory — plus, now I can look at reincarnation with new eyes. I also saw and understood that this was a reference to how I saw the film Gone with the Wind as a child, saw Vivien Leigh, but didn't realize it was my former body. I woke up with a clear understanding that I was Vivien Leigh, and this was further confirmation.

Up until that point, the dream had been about some forum where people from the institute posted about s*x parties and the like. Then there was a request (from me?) to remove the word “s*x” from the thread title and add an “X” at the end to mark 18+ content. Maybe this was a hint that in my life I was able to learn from the mistakes of Vivien Leigh's life, and perhaps this also somehow influenced the fact that life led me to find my past life? I don't know.

24 December, 2023. Finally had a lucid dream. I was in an office and left the boss's office (?) in search of a mirror. I asked a boy where the bathroom was; I stuttered, and my facial expressions weren't the best either, as the boy initially tried to turn his head away with an expression of distaste (something like that). He pointed behind me. I went there, but because there were so many rooms, I decided to simply ask my Higher Self to spawn/create a mirror on the wall to my left. I turned my head to the right and down, and, focusing almost all my attention on the words “My Higher Self, ...,” I woke up.

This was the second time in a lucid dream that I turned my head away to ask my Higher Self to do something in the dream and woke up.

After thinking about it this morning, I decided that perhaps it's because I'm simply disconnecting my consciousness from the dream when I ask my Higher Self this way. The difference between this dream and the first one is that I already had a mirror in which I saw my current body, and I wanted to ask my Higher Self to change my body to my past self. I knew I was in my current body because of my stuttering, but I didn't have a mirror, so I wanted to create one. It wouldn't have been a big deal if my Higher Self had created one — after all, I had already seen myself in the dream mirror, and I already understood that I had my current body. Therefore, it must be a matter of how I communicate with my Higher Self in a lucid dream.

I think that if I have a lucid dream, I'll try looking at dream objects while asking my Higher Self to do something (create a mirror; change the body to the one I had in a past life; change the scene to the one I lived in that body; etc.). The idea here is to maintain focus on the dream while asking. Plus, I think I'll need to maintain a balance between thinking about my Higher Self and concentrating on the lucid dream scene.

Before that dream, I had another, normal one. In it, I was riding on a train and had some kind of emulator(?) for old games, looking like a chip without a plastic case, with a save cache button on the back. I think Vova P. and someone else from school were nearby.

December 26, 2023. I had a brief lucid dream in which I didn't do anything. It was an unusual dream in that I was either half asleep or something (maybe I even dreamed, thinking I'd woken up and was falling asleep again), and I tried to fall asleep by thinking a specific thought until I fell asleep — still having that thought, but my consciousness was already in the dream.

This could have been a reference, a hint, to my thoughts about having a certain thought, an idea, or even a scene you want to "travel to" in a dream.

December 28, 2023. It was about 6:26 AM when I woke up with some disappointment after a lucid dream.

I remember that before I regained consciousness in the dream, I was in a bedroom where my mother was sleeping on a very large bed (? – either she was young, or it seemed to me it was someone else). I left the room and went into another, where two people were sleeping (?). I found what appeared to be my bed. I fiddled with it, but didn't go to bed right away. I went to the bathroom. And after I came out, I realized it was a dream, and I began trying to regain consciousness. I managed to do so after a few seconds.

I immediately started looking for a mirror. I considered going back to the bathroom, where it would be logical to find one, but I decided to go further. There I found a small mirror on the shelf of some sideboard (or something similar). It was large enough for me to see my face. I saw myself in my current body. Without turning my head too far – looking ahead at the wall – I began to ask my Higher Self to change my body to what I had in my very past life. I look in the mirror – I'm still me; but it seems to me that my face has been distorted in the mirror – an effect similar to liquify in Photoshop, applied to my entire face.

I turn away to look at the wall and again ask to change my body, but this time to the one I had in my penultimate life. It was still me in the mirror.

I look at the wall, and my voice must have trembled from failure. I ask to change my body to the one I had in my very first life. Nothing, and I wake up.

Thoughts.

- I was in a hurry to find a mirror again and didn't look around in the dream to clearly understand where I was at all – and, ultimately, to fully regain consciousness, when I experience the dream as if it were reality; today, although I was lucid, my mind was foggy most of the time. I only remember that the ceilings were very high, and the surroundings seemed rich in material terms.

Also, when I saw myself distorted in the mirror, I didn't examine myself in it, but immediately went to speedrun the next question.

And here I'm thinking, what if — unlikely, but — what if my body in the dream was changed, but the mirror was also distorted, and in my haste I simply didn't realize I was looking at a different body? I looked at photos of Vivien and Michele; tried Liquifying three photos in Krita (mine, Vivien's, and Michele's), and then made the image black and white. Assuming my hairstyle remained roughly the same in the dream — I had shoulder-length hair — then technically, in my haste, I really could have missed that my body had actually been changed in the distorted mirror. If so, then I'm being taught to be mindful and not rush — including with conclusions.

- But if my body was changed, then why did my voice remain my voice from my current life?

Here we can again consider that since this is a dream, maybe only my reflection in the mirror will change, not my actual body, which I have in the dream. It's funny, but that dream could have hinted at this, teaching me a lesson. I'll only be able to find out if this is true in another lucid dream, which I hope to have, and in which I can try my experiment again. (I can test this by seeing a different body in the reflection; if there are moles that I don't have on this body, then I can try touching them on my own body; if the conclusions are correct, then I shouldn't feel them at all.)

But I should note that I'm still asking to change the body I have in the dream, not the reflection of the body in the dream. Here, of course, I don't wanna let go the idea that we can still see our bodies in lucid dreams.

- It's quite possible that I asked the question incorrectly. I think I should have said, "My Higher Self, please change my body in this dream to the physical body I had [at such and such a time]." I think I simply said, "Change my body," But that could mean my real physical body, and that's not what I want (even if it's possible — who knows, the Thiaooubians can change height, what if we can actually change bodies back to the ones we had before? I highly doubt it, but who knows...). Need to remember to ask the right questions.

- Perhaps it just so happened that since I had already seen Vivien and Michele in the mirror of a non-lucid dream and received my answers, the Higher Self didn't show me what I already knew — even though I've never seen those past bodies in a lucid dream. Regarding my first life, perhaps there are reasons why I don't need to know what my very first body looked like yet. But if so, why? What could I possibly see there?

- There was also a positive result. I didn't wake up during my questions to the Higher Self, when I was no longer looking down behind my right shoulder, but looking straight ahead.

Edits.

So far, I'm leaning more toward the first two options. I need to take my time in lucid dreams, now that I see the consequences of rushing. I need to strive for quality, not quantity. Experimenting with mirrors should be one of my lucid dream activities for now, but it shouldn't be my only activity. Today, I didn't really examine my surroundings carefully and only remember everything superficially. There was only one moment when I truly felt as if I were in reality (but in a dream) – my sensations were so clear and precise.

Then, I need to remember the importance of asking the right questions. I need to clearly state that I need to change my body in the dream I'm in when I contact the Higher Self.

And now I need to learn not to get frustrated if nothing works.

Plan.

If I have a lucid dream, I'll try asking again:

“My Higher Self, please change my body in this dream to the physical body I had in my most recent life.”

If nothing changes, I'll ask again:

“My Higher Self, please change my body in this dream to the physical body I had in my last life.”

If nothing changes, I'll ask again:

“My Higher Self, please change my body in this dream to the physical body I had in one of my past lives.”

If nothing happens, I'll simply continue to look around in the lucid dream and see what else I can learn from it.

2024

January

January 1, 2024. “For mother, For Mother / На взлёте” (“… / On Takeoff”) was the song that seemed to be “playing” within me or around me in the lucid dream I had that day. It was 9:33 a.m., a minute or two later, when I had already recorded just over a minute of audio notes.

Before I became lucid in the dream:

At one point, I was somewhere like a ship/liner, built recently – in 1961 (?). I think I was in my body, but I realized I'd already been on that ship (and possibly in the same place) in my previous body from a past life

(It must be VL, judging by the year. I may well have had dreams about Vivien Leigh last night, but I don't remember them. Perhaps at one point I received another “message” that I was her.

Because of my obsession with the 4K camera and the video quality of the new me, I've started having trouble understanding this again. While filming myself for a quality test, I looked at myself, and in the back of my mind, thoughts arose about whether I went crazy and whether this person in the video — me — could really be Vivien Leigh. To some extent, this experience reveals how some skeptics think — it may help understand their thinking. Factually, I learned that the camera on the Samsung A5 phone shoots much better video than the Panasonic GF2.)

Then, in another dream, or in a continuation, I was already at the entrance to a hotel or inn. I had a lot of luggage (I now realize this might be a reference to VL, in whose life I carried a lot of luggage with me). People were walking into the hotel, and I was trying to push the right-hand luggage toward the ones on the left against the wall. A man helped me, pushing the luggage furthest from me. Incidentally, the setting reminded me a bit of the Bastille building on Prostornaya Street — the area near the garages on the way to Sberbank. At one point, people were walking along the lawn, avoiding their luggage. I made some kind of inference about this. There was a dark-skinned porter nearby. One of the men said to him, “Let's take the luggage to the (hotel?)?” So we went inside.

There was a line of several people at reception. I don't remember the details, but at one point I made some kind of inference.

Then I was already in the restaurant, apparently, receiving my portion of food, which was handed to me by... Thao. Strangely, the plate I gave her to put the food on had the remains of a salad on it. I pushed the plate through the window. Thao was on the right. Suddenly, I realized something and said it out loud to Thao (?) - “This can't be Thiaoouba because there aren't any flowers here that should be on that planet.” I then said that I knew for sure that this was a dream (?) and gained lucidity.

I returned the plate, perhaps placing it right on Thao's salad — after all, I knew it was a dream, not reality, so what difference did it make where I placed it?

Remembering that I wasn't rushing to the mirror anymore, I started walking through the restaurant when I decided to turn back and look at Thao. There was no one there anymore. Moreover, where she had been a few seconds ago, there had been a wall on the right — she physically couldn't be there now.

I continued walking and looking around. Slowly, without rushing. Unfortunately, I don't remember the details, and perhaps it had something to do with the beautiful, slow music I began to hear, either inside me (in my head) or all around me. It was wonderful.

I think I started thinking about something else, unrelated to the dream atmosphere, and then I woke up. I probably could have returned to the dream, but I wasn’t able to.

Conclusions: Don't get too caught up in your thoughts and lose focus on the dream world. Most likely, that's why I woke up. Again, you need to remember that anything can happen in a dream, and you shouldn't let your emotions take over completely — otherwise, I'll wake up.

Then it's funny that when I saw Thao serving me food, it was the colors, which made me realize it was a dream, and not the fact that Thao played such a role in the dream. Before that, people were clearly earthlings, and this was clearly Earth. So far, I have the feeling that if you're supposed to have a dream, you'll have one; if not, you won't. But maybe I can somehow train myself to have lucid dreams more often.

The food on the plate and the fact that I didn't try it and immediately put it back could hint that I'm being helped with reincarnation — with understanding who I was — but I'm being overly cautious (?) or not “taking” this experience at all — it's in the back of my mind and out of focus. Of course, I could be wrong, and maybe I'm reading too much and looking for meaning where everything could be simpler...

January 2, 2024. Yesterday evening (the 1st), I showed my mom photos of Vivien Leigh (not all of them. They were from the main folder, and then I showed her Vivien Leigh's cats). Then I suggested we watch Gone with the Wind in the original English language. We watched about halfway through, until mom decided she'd had enough.

While watching the film, I discovered new reflections and synchronicities. One of the reflections is connected to my life as a MA — a nightmare that turned out to be a prophetic dream.

January, 8 2024. Today I was writing titles and descriptions for a photo album (which I bought a very long time ago) where I included photos of Vivien Leigh and animals. Just now I noticed there's a photo of water on the album cover. Synchronicities...

January 13, 2024. I had a dream where I either thought about, or was referencing, the fact that I was the actress Vivien Leigh.

Before that, I was on a bus stopped at the bus stop for Pokrov (meaning in real life we would have been traveling from Novoselovo). Vera and I got off. Soon, some guy called out to her and threw rocks at her. He missed. I thought he might hit her in the eyes. There was another guy at the turnoff to Gorki, and I met him first. As Vera and I walked on, the two guys started throwing bricks and cobblestones from the highway, which in the dream was already parallel to a sandy forest road. I dodged the projectiles behind thick trees (like the kind you'd find in California).

Then I walked across the field. At one point, for some reason, I decided to pick and break branches from a fallen birch tree in the forest located between the places where I'd collected soil for the blueberries. Then I ran across the field toward home. I think Zina and some actors were at home (?). At one point, I was thinking about my life as Vivien Leigh — like when one of the actors saw himself on TV or something like that (I now remember that yesterday — January 12th — I saw a video recommendation on YouTube about the Michele Avila case).

Note from March 20, 2026. Now I know that Zina's son Vova was the actor Leslie Howard in a past life. This is probably one of the reasons why there were actors next to her in the dream.

January 15, 2024. I had a dream about the Titanic. I was in a store, and my mom and dad were there. My dad grabbed a bottle of vodka, but I said enough booze, and the bottle remained on the shelf. I understood that my father had been drinking wine and/or beer for a couple of days and wanted to "properly" end the celebration by drinking vodka till he's out (or something like that).

On the 14th, I asked HS — if possible, to show me in a dream who I was in 1790, if I lived then. If I let my imagination run wild, there might be a hint that I'm right about my thoughts about the Titanic, and therefore I'm also right about my thoughts about Emma Hamilton, with whom I have quite a few synchronicities.

January 17, 2024. Yesterday I watched David Lynch's Lost Highway. Some moments in the film also resonated with me a bit (the escape from the harsh reality into fantasy, pophy), but not as strongly as in his other two films.

A couple of days ago, I saved portraits of Emma Hamilton to my computer. I found several synchronicities:

dogs;

17-year-old Emma in the portrait that was in the film;

Titania, whom I played in VL's life, and with whom there is synchronicity with Katya from Sokolniki, drawing fairy wings on her photo;

And several others related to labyrinths and disbelief in the prophetess's words.

The synchronicities, as we now know, actually pointed me to my past lives in the case of Michele and Vivien. Because little is known about the nature of synchronicities, I'm hesitant to rush to a verdict on this experience with Emma. But if I had another true dream, one that either confirmed or disproved I was Emma, then everything would be clear.

Also, while reading about Emma, I found other synchronicities I couldn't see before I read the books about my two past lives.

And so far, based on spiritual knowledge (and absences), I could very well have been Emma.

January 18, 2024. Emma Hamilton's name was mentioned in the dream, but I didn't regain consciousness in the dream. I don't remember the details of the dream.

That evening I watched Anastasia. It's a children's cartoon, but some of the themes resonated with me now that I've found a couple of my past lives — and the names Anya and Anastasia are also familiar to me. The real Anastasia was killed at 17 in 1916. I thought about Irene Avila and the fact that she had to pay for an old mistake when her 17-year-old daughter was killed. Of course, she could have been anyone and done any mistake, but then life actually led me to past lives, and who knows where else it will lead me.

January 22, 2024. I decided to Google “belle reve streetcar named desire” and came across this page: https://in.pinterest.com/shawronap/a-streetcar-named-desire/ . It's very strange, as the author seems to think she's Blanche DuBois.

January 24, 2024. During the night, I realized I was dreaming, but apparently I was also half-awake and something was bothering me. I tried to get comfortable, but I woke up. Then, in the morning, the same thing happened. I was standing on the playground, looking at the trees in front of my house. The snow beneath them had already melted, and the unraked leaves were visible. I wondered why the rooks (and other birds) weren't turning over the leaves in search of food. I soon realized it was a dream, but something was bothering me again, and when I tried to get comfortable, I woke up.

Yesterday evening, I ma*ed because of pain in my right testicle; it felt better, but it's a dangerous precedent to have to do something I'd really like to cut out of my life. I watched music videos afterwards. Unfortunately, I let myself drift off into my imagination again. Silly fantasies still entice me, even though I no longer need them.

January 27, 2024. Yesterday before bed, I meditated for about 10 minutes and, at 9:33, began concentrating on my breathing. I hadn't practiced these things in a long time, and they clearly helped me. But then I drifted off into my imagination and started having problems with sudden breathing again.

Last night, I had a slightly unusual dream. I remember being next to the bust (?) of a large-breasted girl (possibly the one I saw in the mirror maze). She was wearing a white cloth (?) over her body, and perhaps there were colorless precious stones on it. On the left breast was a name written, which was later erased (? – and I don't remember it) and in its place was written "Emma Hamilton." On the other, "Vivien Leigh" was written, and then – I think below that – were the names "Michele Avila" and "Evgeny Meshkov." I woke up. Vivien, Michele, and Evgeny – all these people are inhabited by the same soul. Perhaps this dream was a hint to me that I really was Emma Hamilton? From the knowledge and data I have now, nothing contradicts this. Synchronicities exist, and the consequences of mistakes are also visible – if I was Emma.

I woke up after 11. I went outside and walked for about an hour. I went to the pond, where I haven't been for a couple of months due to poor health. Overall, I felt a little better today. Yesterday, the tenant said they needed to re-register the apartment, and it couldn't be done online – which is strange. I don't know what will happen there.

Update from February 21, 2024. If the girl from the labyrinth was Cleopatra, and the body in this dream belonged to that girl, then that could explain the jewelry on the clothes – Cleopatra definitely had some. But they say Cleopatra loved emeralds, which are green.

https://www.aureusboutique.com/abx/cleopatras-love-affair-with-jewels

"A lover of pearls, Cleopatra had pearl-encrusted dresses, jewelry, shoes…she even wore them in her hair." Pearls are not transparent, but technically, given that the dress was light (even white), there is a [small] chance that those jewelry could have been pearls.

Yesterday, January 29, 2024, I watched a documentary about Scott Bowers – Scotty and the secret history of Hollywood 2017. I didn't learn anything new about myself in my life before my past, but it was interesting to watch.

Perhaps because of the naked bodies on display, I had an erotic dream that night. After I woke up that night, I again began imagining meeting a girl and telling her how I found my past lives, and she ultimately believed me. As often happens, I began fantasizing about the sexual side of the relationship again. I knew where this would lead and stopped. But even though I was concentrating on reality and wanted to fall asleep and have a lucid dream, I still returned to the fantasy. In the end, I had to go to p sites. Luckily, the session lasted only a minute or two and then I was able to get some more sleep.

In the morning, I went for a walk. During the day, I didn't meditate, but I looked at photos of myself in my VL life and tried to live in the present and be relaxed. It helped, and I walked to the bridge by the pond. I didn't feel any serious problems, but I felt tired. This is further proof that the source of my problems still lies in my stupid habit of fantasizing and voicing thoughts and fantasies in my head, which strains my entire body.

February

February 4, 2024. I decided to rewatch Scream. Maybe I'll find some new synchronicities now that I have new knowledge from the books about Michele and Vivien.

31:18 Tatum pulls up in a red Volkswagen Beetle*. Laura Doyle had the same car, the same color. It was the last car I drove in Michele Avila's life.

* Tatum Riley drives a 1967 Volkswagen Beetle or Type 1 in the first movie. The year I died in VL life.

 Karen Kingsbury in her book MISSY'S MURDER wrote that Laura's car was red Volkswagen bug.

Sidney Prescott's mother's name is Maureen Roberts Prescott. Maureen O'Sullivan was my friend in VL life, and I already found Sullivan's last name to be Shavaun's last name before she married.

Sydney said at the trial that she saw Cotton Weary leave. He was sentenced to death. (But the killer was Billy, as we learn at the end.) Sydney begins to doubt. Billy has a relationship with Sydney after killing Sydney's mother. It reminded me of how Karen moved into Irene's house after killing her daughter Michele (me).

1:31:55 "Watch a few movies, take a few notes." Of course, it's a movie. But. As I said myself, that very movie had an impact on me; if I hadn't found my past life (Vivien Leigh) and learned exactly why I was suffering so much, plus if I didn't have my knowledge of Thiaoouba and the truthfulness of that book, then who knows what might have happened. I haven't had the best thoughts during difficult moments of my current life. I want to say that I know from personal experience that movies can influence the psyche of people, who can actually use movie ideas to commit crimes. This isn't a theory. Is it any wonder I have synchronicities with this film?

Billy's motive: Sidney's mother sleeps with Billy's father, causing Billy's mother to leave, leaving him alone with his father. There are similarities with my past life.

February 7, 2024. I wrote "Missy" on a piece of paper. Yesterday I asked my Higher Self to show me a fragment from my last life as Michele Avila in a dream – in case I'm not destined to have a lucid dream tonight. "Missy" was the first word in Michele's poem.

Yesterday I rewatched Inland Empire. I didn't understand anything. They say the film touches on the topic of reincarnation.

Today on Facebook, I saw that one of the women who knew Michele Avila responded to me. She said she didn't know why Michele was afraid of windy days and other things. I wrote her briefly about Thiaoouba and that I was Michele. I asked my Higher Self, if possible, to give that woman some kind of sign, or a dream, that I was telling the truth.

Also, before that, I asked my Higher Self to show me a fragment from my life as Vivien Leigh – if possible, and in case I'm not destined to have a lucid dream tonight.

February 12, 2024. I had a dream where I needed to synchronize something — like synchronizing audio with video. That afternoon, I found a documentary about Vivien Leigh's life, "Vivien Leigh: A Delicate Balance." The English video quality wasn't great, but the Russian one was much clearer. I decided to try synchronizing the English audio track with the higher-quality Russian video — and I succeeded. It was another prophetic dream of my life.

February 14, 2024. In one dream, I was near a dovecote near the houses on Otkrytoye Shosse. Grigory (from 10th-11th grade) passed by at the same time, but he passed us in silence – as if he were not himself. Then there was something about a cut tree trunk, the trunk of which grew wider despite the cut.

Then I found myself in a store. I was distracting two people – clumsily – while another (a girl?) stole film or something like that. One of the workers (who could have been Vova from the village) saw this and pointed.

Then the dream either changed or continued. I was sitting on the couch (?) hugging a woman who seemed to be Vivien Leigh – i.e., me. I decided to ask her to read my two scripts (possibly related to my finding my two past lives) and give her opinion or something like that. She said she wasn't interested. And I had a feeling I'd already asked her about this...

Thoughts: I remembered Steve-O, who said how after taking drugs, he'd suddenly see two (?) of himself lying on the bed with him. He was trying not to interfere with his two other bodies. In my case, I've never taken anything like that — in this life.

February 16, 2024. I thought I woke up. My mother was taking things down from the shelf above the gas stove. For some reason, the sides of my hair were dark, not light. Then I remember going to the bathroom and seeing in the mirror that I had long hair. But I had shaved my head a couple of days ago. I wondered if I had shaved it in my dream. I touched my hair with my hand, and it felt real to the touch!

Then I thought, what if this was a dream? I decided to turn away, cover my eyes with my hand, and ask my Higher Self to change my body back to the one I had in the life before my last. When I turned to the mirror, I realized it really was a dream, because my face in the mirror seemed to be undergoing some kind of transformation. That is, it didn't look like the face of a real person. It was too white, my eyes too dark... then everything seemed to blur. Alas, I decided to hurry and asked my Higher Self for something else, and I woke up.

When I saw a reflection that wasn't my own and realized it was really a dream, I should have anchored myself better in the dream. I shouldn't have rushed. I should have looked at the face, but also looked around. What was around me? And so on. I made the same mistake.

Anyway, this is the second lucid dream in which I asked my Higher Self to change my body to the one I had in a past life, and I got some results.

Why did I see that face instead of Vivien Leigh's? Perhaps it was Vivien Leigh's face. I was an actress in that life, and maybe this time my Higher Self decided to show me in some character.

Soon I found a photo on the internet, the description of which said that in 1951, Vivien Leigh lent her face to a Max Factor cosmetics campaign. There was a diagram showing the makeup products VL used to portray Cleopatra in Shakespeare's Antony and Cleopatra. They say that both Vivien and Larry were experts in applying theatrical makeup. Reportedly, during the filming of Gone with the Wind, VL baffled Selznick's makeup team by doing her own make up.

Interestingly, Cleopatra is mentioned in the image of my former body, which most closely resembles the face I saw in my lucid dream today. The thing is, yesterday afternoon I asked my Higher Self to show me a fragment of my life, the one I lived in 40 BC (if I lived then). Of course, I wanted to get more information about whether I could have been Cleopatra or not. So now I understand that there might be some connection, and that that face was shown to me for a reason.

I'll note again – I needed to anchor myself in the dream and also get a better look at that face. I need to understand that everything that happens (in lucid dreams) is not random, and that no one is going to hand me food on a plate – for example, I shouldn't expect to see a young Vivien Leigh without makeup and with her hair down. I need to learn to pay more attention to what I'm shown in such dreams.

Addition from 02/23/2024. I watched a documentary about Cleopatra today (https://youtu.be/pLtZTzSatHY?si=jrblEz4jkwQEVRDZ) and at 24:50 I saw a photo of the actress (Theda Bara) playing Cleopatra in the 1917 film. Her face in that photo looks very similar to the one I saw in my dream! https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0007801/?ref_=ttmi_tt

February 21, 2024. I had a very long dream. Among the possible significant scenes: one showed pigs in a sack. They threw a person or someone else into it. I heard a crunching sound, as if the pigs in the sack were eating what they were given. Then the man dragged a woman out of the house — like so no one would see her. Perhaps she had a box on top of her — like in the game Metal Gear Solid. Then she ran through the forest. Among the trees, there was a man pointing to a cabin in the forest — perhaps he was saying that they could call the police there, but maybe he was saying something completely different.

The girl ran on in the darkness, and only the spotlight illuminated her and the forest to the right, and then I saw in her an actress who had to wake up at night to film a scene. One of my thoughts was why actresses get paid so much. At the feet of the running girl were flowers — I think some were purple.

Then that girl and the entire film crew were in my apartment. It all ended with me being given a piece of paper. I tried to remember what was written on it for my role (?), but I can't remember anything. I only remember that it wasn't for me, but for the actress — but why did they give it to me then? I was supposed to give the piece of paper to her. Everyone left the apartment except me. When I went to the bathroom, I saw that someone hadn't flushed the toilet... afterward, I suddenly remembered that I had to go, picked up the bag with the piece of paper, and woke up a little later.

Before that dream, I had a dream in which a pigeon with a foot similar to my first pigeon's flew to the window. I fed it, pouring some millet onto the snow on the windowsill.

Yesterday, I asked HS to show me a fragment of my life in 1790 — if I lived then. This afternoon, I decided to look up 'pig' in a book about Emma Hamilton. I found a story about Emma fainting while watching a roasted pig have its head cut off. But, as the author writes, she also ate a pig and even brains! I don't know if this is related... in Missy's case, I wrote the word on a blank sheet of paper — as I must have done once in that life. Here, everything was very veiled by the artistry inherent in dreams.

There's a rose called https://eu.davidaustinroses.com/products/lady-emma-hamilton

April 6, 2024 – Meshkov (sack – is the root word for my last name in Russian) might have some connection. Like a pig in a sack – inside me – like when I ate the pig.

The thoughts about  have won. 3 times. Megan Salinas with Giovanni Francesco. Starting at the 5-minute mark of the video — it was the only thing that aroused me, when he stood behind her. (I deleted the link to the video — it’s too much for the book. But I left the names because there can be synchronicities here too. It's all part of life in the Universe; part of the lesson — no matter how strange or vulgar it might seem to some. Plus, it shows how I have to pay for the sexual mistakes I made in some of my past lives.)

February 22, 2024. Last night I paid attention to my 5 senses. I felt better. By bedtime, thoughts had filled me again, but not completely. My heart only started to beat “louder” slightly. Today I woke up and went to the store at 9 am. Everything was pretty normal.

February 22, 2024. Yesterday, I asked HS to show me a photo of my past body if I lived in 1785. I definitely saw a photo of Vivien Leigh in one dream. Ah, it seems I asked the question incorrectly. But, this also suggests again that I was Vivien Leigh, and also lived in 1785 (Emma Hamilton).

February 23, 2024. Yesterday, I asked HS to show me a fragment of my life in 40 BC in a dream — if I lived then. I saw several photographs. One showed three people, one of whom was aiming a gun (?) at the camera.

Another photograph showed a girl (?) with a red face to the left. The camera initially zoomed in on that mask/face. I thought it was a reference to my photo of Vivien Leigh, where you can — if you want — see my face to the right of my face.

Today I decided to search for “Cleopatra Red Mask” and found this photo:

https://uk.cleopatramask.com/products/cleopatra-led-light-therapy-mask?_atid=MuLL8vhDDW33PJ4StS5T50PqhfqC9U (2nd)

The composition is very similar to the scene I saw in my dream. Of course, other details are different.

February 24, 2024. Yesterday, I asked HS to show me the inscription with my name in 40 BC — if I lived then. I asked to see the color green — something green — when the name was shown, so I would know I needed to pay attention. Unfortunately, when my fishing rod got caught in the grass in the dream (not far from the monument stone by Cherkizovsky Pond), in reality, a neighbor started knocking and I woke up. Then I fell asleep, and at some point, I either woke up or something, and I thought I was shown an inscription with Cleopatra's name. But I don't have a clear memory of that dream — if there was one.

I had various other dreams.

Yesterday, I watched a video about Cleopatra on YouTube. At 24:48, there's a photo of the actress, Theda Bara. Her face in the photo is very similar to the one I saw in my dream on February 16, 2024.

https://youtu.be/pLtZTzSatHY?si=7HaJPMqQMkeuDL35&t=1488

I wrote that in the dream, the face seemed unreal — was transforming. I'm trying to understand the reason for that face again and wondering if it was some kind of mixture, partly related to my request to show me my body from the life before my last, and partly a prophetic dream since I did see that face in the video (but about 7 days had passed since that dream). In any case, the connection to Cleopatra is obvious.

Theda Bara (Theodosia Burr Goodman) was born on July 29, 1885, and died on April 7, 1955. My childhood best friend, Anton, was born on July 29, 1988. Then Theda's father was Jewish, and Anton's mother was Jewish.

Then –

1885 + 28 = 1913 (my birth year in Vivien's life)

1917 + 28 = 1945 (the year Theda's film about Cleopatra was released and the year my film about Cleopatra was released)

February 25, 2024. Yesterday, before going to bed, I asked my Higher Self (and I also addressed Thao, Biastra & Latoli, for the topic is very important to me) to show the name I had in the days Jesus – Aarioc – walked this Earth if I lived at that time. So around 30-33 AD (I mentioned this date). As before I asked my HS to show [something] green (frame, object, or whatever) before showing me the name so that I know what's about to happen next is the answer to my question, and so I pay more attention.

Jumping ahead, I definitely had a dream withing a dream. And it's possible I had 2 such dreams this night – if so, then I had 4 dreams because I 'woke up' in one of them and then 'fell asleep' again within the dream.

Dream 1: All I remember is that I see a clown with red hair on the sides of his otherwise bald head and I wake up. I think this was the dream in which I got lucid and immediately woke up. I might have seen my old light blue t-shirt with palm trees on myself in the mirror before waking up.

[Possible] Dream 2 (a): (I don't know if what happened in the (a) paragraph was a dream or reality) I woke up after seeing the clown. I was lying in bed for a while. It was night. I remember looking at my pictures of Vivien Leigh on the wall to my left. Then I remembered how I was thinking something like 'and here I am, trying to remember if I had a dream and if I have seen any names in it, instead of falling asleep again.' Then I remembered how I made conscious decision to get out of bed (with intent to go to the bathroom), and I did so. So far everything looked seemingly exactly as it should be in my real actual apartment.

Dream 2 (b): (This part was 100% a dream) I don't remember actually walking to the bathroom, but I was in it. At one point I decided to move aside the washed reddish bedclothes, which were hanging on the strings above the bathtub. The reason was I still had memory of that clown in my dream I just had. And I also remembered the 1990 movie, in which the monster clown IT was standing behind the bedclothes at one point… but I also thought that since this is not a dream there won't be any Pennywise monsters behind the bedclothes… and there weren't…

Dream 3: I remember how I was walking with 2 (?) people near the old hospital building on Shitova Naberezhnaya (now it's an Institute). It was getting dark; colors weren't as vivid. We came to the square with bushes. Maybe there was a green light that we had to wait for to walk across the road. On the square we were riding on the winding pavement among bushes (I was riding on something strange and the other person was probably riding scooter). We knew it was illegal to ride on the winding road, and that it was legal to ride on the pavement in just several meters from us.

We came to a stop between two buildings of no higher than 4-5 floors. The left one was inhabited, as was evident by hanging washes clothes (women's' pinkish panties, etc) in the windows. The right building was seemingly also inhabited, but it was much more run down. We had guns. The man was shooting at something with his gun (probably пневматический пистолет / air gun). And before that I was curious to shoot at some bricks in front of us to see the consequences or something. Then the woman of our company noticed that the right building was inhabitable and mentioned I shouldn't shoot at it for we'd have trouble with police or something. I didn't shoot anything at all; and it was understood that I actually had a real weapon, firing real bullets – not a 'toy' firing small pneumatic bullets.

What happened next is important. Suddenly I started talking about the green grass on the ground – I started paying attention to the color. But it was dark and colors weren't as vivid as they are under sunlight. But then there was an image of vividly green grapes as if overlayed over my vision; they were clearly well lit for the color was distinct – green. The fact of seeing green grapes was also voiced out loud I believe. And I think I asked two people to confirm the presence of green grass and green grapes.

We went back in the direction we came from the square. At one point I turned to the building to my right now (on the side of the definitely inhabitable house). There was a name written on it in huge letters. I started reading it out loud – Mary Magdalene… Maria Magdalene (Maria/Мария is how Russians say her name) – then I took out my phone and pressed the button to take the photo of that building and the name. I wanted to make sure I remember this.

Dream 4: I wake up, realizing that I somehow fell asleep on a chair (?) near my desk or computer. I still had my denim shorts or jeans on, and I had my light blue t-shirt with palms on my body (the one I used to have more than 10 years ago. It was one of my favorite clothes). There was also a thought about 'экстравагантные цветные рубашки' / extravagant colored shirts which I think Tom Chalko liked to wear (I also wear such shirts) – why he was in my dream I don't know, but maybe him, as 1 person told me, believing he was Thomas the Doubting has a connection here.

There was a distinct knock on the wooden furniture near me when I was remembering the dream I just had, thinking something along the lines that I said that name because I was partially waking up and probably remembering Mary Magdalene and so that could be the reason…

It was already daylight outside, but I'm still looking at my bed, thinking that perhaps if I undress and go to bed, I can still have a normal sleep [in a bed].

Shortly after that I wake up and this time it's actual reality that I find myself in – I realize that I had a dream withing a dream, and shortly I realize that I got my answer – if the dream was true dream, I was Mary Magdalene…

I'm recording audio after 5 o'clock in the morning note and at one point I'm looking at the bathtub, above which there is no bedclothes of course – why would they be there if we didn't wash anything the day before? This is where I realized that the part with bedclothes was a dream.

I also had to pee after making the first very short audio note, because it was actually distracting. It means that I probably never went to the bathroom in reality (usually I only wake up 1 time for that and then continue sleeping); so it's possible the Dream 2 (a) was a dream also and it was so accurate and felt so real I still can't figure out if it was reality or dream… logic, based on facts, tells me it has to be a dream… it's the first time I had a dream so real.

The structure of the dreams on this night is clearly something else! Why? I asked HS, Thao, Biastra & Latoli an important question. It literally concerns them directly because a) Jesus (Aarion) could have been Thao's past life; b) Thiaooubians were behind that operation of enlightenment. They did help me in this life and if synchronicities with Maria do mean reincarnation, then they'd probably be interested that I get some help realizing that.

What about the part of Dream 4? Well, it was a dream withing Dream 3. So, the thought I had may not mean what I thought in the dream it did. Most importantly: yesterday, on February 24, when I was asking my question, I was neutral in regards to who I could or could not have been in the year 30-33. I was okay with any answer: including if I never lived at the time, or I'd see another name. I had the same state of mind when I went to bed. In fact, even now I'm careful not to jump to conclusions. Also: since we can't be served free (usually at least) food it's possible whoever or whatever was responsible for that dream had to leave some room for doubts and/or for me to figure out the true meaning of the dreams. When I had my first true dream about VL on September 4, to be careful I thought if maybe me thinking or dreaming in the past about VL could have resulted in that dream – it wasn't though as I now know – but maybe this part of the dream is connected to that old thought too.

I still need to ask HS to help me determine if Maria's body was pure or if some of her parents or relatives were of no Jewish race. In that case a soul of the 1 category could inhabit her physical body. Additionally, I could ask about the category of my Astral body. And of course, I need to ask what was the name that Thao had in her very last past life.

But… withing me I realize that it was probably a true dream. I'm at the same position here as I was when I had my syncs with Michele Avila and Vivien Leigh – I said that I wouldn't be surprised if reincarnation was the reason behind them for it made sense… It was reincarnation… Me being Maria makes total sense why I received help from Thiaooubians in this life (even if Thao wasn't Aarioc)

Listened to Maria Magdalena song by Sandra. If I was Mary, it's so funny how one can literally be Mary Magdalene and then be and have all the things sung in the song. There can be at least two meanings to the song (since some people think Mary had connection to prostitution) and they both work in my case regardless. Actually, it may be another synchronicity because I've noticed long time ago the theme of 'opposites' or reflections in my life – like when I truly think and know something is right, but then there's a brief moment when I do almost the opposite thing!

Note: Watched the part of IT 1990 with bedclothes (at around 4:44). Both the girl and her mother wore light blue clothes…

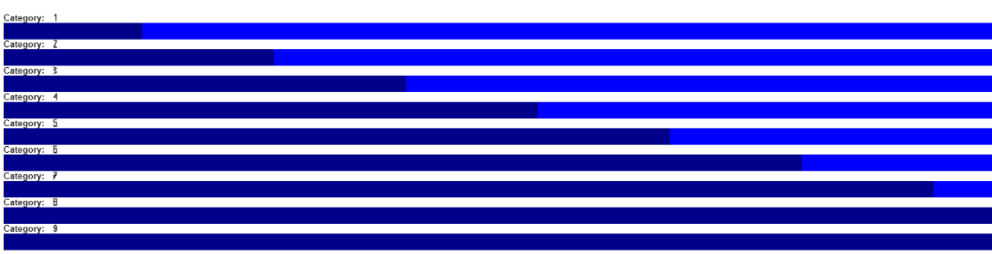
March 19, 2024. Some time ago, I asked my HS to show me what spiritual category Mary Magdalene's physical body belonged to. In a dream, I saw a camera (?) that was almost discharged, and I needed to find an outlet to charge it. The battery level indicator, stretching across the entire width of the large screen, was blue, and the current charge indicator was a darker blue. Blue is what I remember asking to be shown before I received an answer to my question. That indicator was very small — a small charge.

When I woke up, I didn't think I'd received an answer because I'd asked to see a number. But I forgot that perhaps, due to the Universal Law, I was given an answer, albeit in a slightly different form. What if that battery level indicator was showing me Mary's spiritual category?

I made charge levels — from 1 to 9 out of 9. The first one is the most similar. The second one may be, but it seems to me that the scale was smaller - closer to 1. Since Michel D. said that Jews are of the 3rd category, then Mary's body must have been of the 1st category (if the dream was true and this was my answer) (I assume here that the child of two people of the 1st and 3rd categories will have a physical body of the 1st category).



February 27, 2024. I woke up touching myself with my right hand. The busty girl from the dream with the mirrors and the girl from Cherkizovsky Square were on my mind. I realized what was happening and stopped. The fantasies hadn't completely cleared, so I had to go to p websites. One video showed Larry Olivier on Hollywood Boulevard — I immediately closed it. Synchronicity.

March

March 8, 2024. https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0069281/?ref_=tt_urv

Yesterday I watched Sleuth (1972) with Laurence Olivier and Michael Caine. On November 12, 2023, I had a dream where a monster said that word, and when I saw Larry's movie with that name, I decided to watch it. Games play a big role in the movie, but I didn't see any references to “moth.” Larry's character's wife is Marguerite. I met a girl with that name in Sokolniki. She cheats on her husband, Larry's character, with Michael's character. It reminded me of myself in Vivien Leigh's life; I wondered if Larry was thinking about his ex-wife (me in that life) while playing the role. So, the movie turned out to be quite personal for me.

On Friday evening, I watched co-op in Dread Hunger (videogame). The guys had a little argument at the end. Vika got her third Amogus in a row, and she decided to have some fun by playing openly, and Denis either shut down the server or left, which kicked some players out of the game. Then Denis said some things and words that shouldn't have been said.

That afternoon, I had to ban Marced and Nima (for the third time. For the fourth time overall. I once unbanned everyone, and apparently Nima too. He came back, and I had to ban him again) from the group. I blocked them. I got a little angry about Marced's lies and wrote some nasty words openly. Then I apologized.

It was a kind of synchronicity.

March 15, 2024. I woke up remembering hearing the name “Hypatia” in a dream. Yesterday I asked my Higher Self — if I lived in the year 400 — to either show me the name I had in the life I lived at that time (red would be a sign I was receiving a response), but I also suggested experimenting and said the name I had back then could be said out loud (in that case, I wouldn't have to write it down in English so I could know how to pronounce it).

Yesterday I read about Hypatia, because the night before last, remembering her, I suddenly realized that there's a lot of meaning if I was Hypatia, who died on or near the steps of the temple I founded in another life, in which I also committed a crime, for which I had to pay at that temple.

Today, at the very end of my dream, I saw either a monster or a yeti, who was so strong that he tore off (?) a huge fir tree and carried it. We hid from him in the snow (but I was already an outside observer at that point).

It reminded me of how a couple of guys from the neighboring yard briefly called me “fir tree” because I often wore only a [winter] jacket. In theory, this could be a reference to how Hypatia died... she was torn apart and carried away to be burned...

I'm wondering what if the name written and then erased on the clothes was “Hypatia”? (dream from January 27, 2024) If I remember correctly, there was only one word written there. It's also a name I wouldn't have remembered, since I'd never heard/seen it before.

 I actually remember how I heard that name was uttered in my dream. So, it's not one of those cases, which I'd get later from this point in time, when I'd wake up remembering probably seeing or hearing something, but never actually remembering hearing or seeing it withing a dream – the latter is what I'm asking for my HS. As it is, it was an actual answer to my question.

March 17, 2024. Yesterday I asked my Higher Self, as well as Thao, Biastra, and Latoli, if they could help. If I lived in the year 400, I wanted to show me a fragment from that life — at any age, from birth to death. I asked, if possible, for a flashing blue light/color to be shown before my answer, so I would know I would receive my answer in a moment.

Last night I had a dream about planets and their moons. One of the moons was called Misy (or Missy, I can't remember exactly). The dream said that moon was occulted by Pluto's moon. There was something about Aberon — I don't know if the name began with an "A" or an "O." (For some reason, the dream said that Misy was occulted by Pluto's moon Aberon.) The word "Misy" was mentioned many times. At one point, I saw myself searching for information about that moon on a website with a white background (similar to Wikipedia).

Hypatia was an astronomer. But I don't remember seeing a flashing blue light.

Perhaps (!) that planet, Misy, was blue, and when it was occulted by Oberon, it seemed to blink — like astronomers find planets around other stars when a planet passes between the star and the observer, and the star's brightness diminishes, as if blinking. But I don't remember its color very well. I think blue was present in that dream.

Oberon is a moon of Uranus (the 7th planet). Also known as Uranus IV. This reminds me of my past-life sister, Arsinoe IV.

Merle Oberon (Estelle Merle O'Brien Thompson) played Cathy in Wuthering Heights. As Vivien Leigh, I only wanted to play Cathy in that film (Katy in Russian is the name of one of my parrots; Incidentally, she was green, and Kesha was blue. Katy turned out to be very active and seemed to overshadow the shy Kesha). We can say that Merle kind of blocked me from the role when she was finally cast as the lead (she got in the way, so to speak).

Then, Marle was born in Bombay, British India, but claimed to be from Tasmania, Australia. If there really is a connection with her in the dream, then this might explain why Oberon was a moon of Pluto and not Uranus in the dream — one is false, and the other is true.

Also, the moon Oberon really exists, but Misy doesn't. Her role in the film is real, but my role as Cathy isn't.

Merle was given “Queenie” as a nickname, in honour of Queen Mary, who visited India along with King George V in 1911. Она также играла Anne Boleyn, но в фильме. “Missy”, “Missie”, “Queenie”…

I had an idea to see if there was a connection between Merle and Arsinoe IV.

Calcutta is the city which has played a role in both Merle’s and Vivien’s lives.

Oberon arrived in England for the first time in 1928, aged 17. It's possible that in Missy's life, I died for the crime in Cleopatra's life.

Oberon was discovered by William Herschel on January 11, 1787; on the same day he discovered Uranus's largest moon, Titania. (VII Ophelia, III Titania, XI Juliet)

Moon Oberon has two surface features named Antony (Mark Antony) and Ceasar (Julius Ceasar) respectively. They are heroes in William Shakespeare’s plays, which were, of course, based on real historic documents.

During lunch, I saw and heard Sarah Brightman's song “Captain Nemo” for the first time. First, I watched a short music video, then a longer one, but not the full one, and then I decided to watch this one (video was deleted and I removed the link). It had something the other versions didn't – lyrics about a blue planet. (“From space, the planet is blue.”). The song is from the album Dive – Its unifying theme is water and the ocean.

Blue planet and astronomy. Maybe it's a double-true dream that revealed the truth about the past and also about the future.

It's interesting that Sarah's “Time to Say Goodbye” played a big role six months ago, when I didn't yet know about my past lives and thought it was time to say goodbye to the period of my life so deeply dedicated to Thiaoouba.

Yulia (from Izmailovsky Park), once sent me a heartwarming video about whales.

I decided to read people's thoughts about the song's meaning. One person said that in the case of the band Dive, the original artist, the song is about gays. But with Sarah, I think the meaning is clearly about whales. Listening to the song again, I could see how gay people could see their own lives in it. It showed once again that the same thing can have different meanings for different people.

Sarah's song is about whales. It reminded me of watching a few seasons of Whale Wars a long time ago.

March 18, 2024. Yesterday I asked HS and Thiaooubians - If Merle Oberon lived in 50 BC, what was her name then? A blue light was supposed to foreshadow receiving an answer. Later, I expanded the question, telling to show a red light/color if she didn't live then.

I had a lot of dreams, and a lot was said. I remember once a guy (Gosha (?)) mentioned a name, but I don't remember (he f*d [someone]. I didn't like his attitude towards girls, so I walked away).

There were also several references to the color red. In one dream, the girl had red hair. In another, red was mentioned. I don't remember anything about blue.

Overall, when I woke up, the focus was more on the red than on that name.

I've been seeing the number 53 a lot lately. I was 53 when I died in Vivien Leigh's life. This is my 1st past life, which I found when I was 35 - a number that can be seen as 53 in reverse.

March 18, 2024. Besides the dreams I wrote about in the note above, I had a dream in which I woke up in another body. It belonged to a young girl. I wondered if it was a lucid dream — I talked about it with people, the girl's family. I think they told me it wasn't a dream.

Interesting. When I was thinking about writing a book about a person reincarnated in another physical body and retaining material knowledge, I sometimes had similar fantasies.

March 20, 2024. Yesterday, I asked HS, “If I lived in 1530 AD, can you in a dream today either show me the written name I had in that life, or say out loud the name I had in that life... let the green light or color be a sign that I am receiving, or will receive, an answer soon.” I wanted my attention to be focused on this light/color, and of course, I wanted to remember the name too, so that if you give me an answer, I would remember the name too... Then I asked for a pulsating or flashing light/color to be a sign that I did not live in 1530 AD.

In the dream, I walked into a store located in my building — where Chizhik (Siskin) is now, and before that, there was Magnet, and even earlier, various household items and appliances were sold there.

I was simply wandering around the store. A man began following me — an employee, apparently. When I was leaving, he seemed to accuse me of stealing. I didn't steal anything. A struggle must have ensued, because the next thing I know, I'm repeatedly plunging a ke into him. Looking around, I'm asking him where the man who should have been right behind me is.

Realization of what I've done hits me, and I call the police. Apparently, there were people with me, and we carried the body outside so they could take it away immediately. For some reason, the police drove past first, then turned around. I thought I should have called an ambulance to help the man. Then I realize I might have asked them to call an ambulance(?).

Then we exit the back door and find ourselves somewhere in the woods. There's not much vegetation. It might even have been spring. The woman says something about crime and consequences – as if she's privy to such matters.

I have thoughts about my Cleopatra's past life. How I paid for two crimes, and then I committed another crime again... For some reason, I thought that the thought of my Cleopatra's past life made me want to kill someone (in reality, of course, that doesn't happen).

Then I think about escaping — and the girl's story matches my thoughts.

I see greenery — but not quite grass. The vegetation resembled giant green bacteria. Then I look down the drainpipe — at the other end, I see those same green plants again.

Then I remember escaping, accompanied by the girl's story about the kind of life that awaits criminals; like, they wait in one place, and if they're not found, they go somewhere else, etc. I'm walking through thick, green summer grass. To my right, a river flows — probably as wide as Kirzhach. At one point, I decide to jump across. Whether I succeeded, and if not, whether I got out of water dry (got away with it), is unclear. But I'm on the other side.

I kept hoping the man was alive, and that he, realizing his mistake, wouldn't reveal my name. (How does he even know it?) Then I remembered how I'd thought about writing to former acquaintances and friends on VK, how their bullying of me as a child could have led to disastrous consequences for them if Thiaoouba and my experience with it hadn't been real. I didn't do it, often calming down. And then this situation...

Whether winter arrived immediately or during my march, I don't know. I remember that when the policeman started shooting at me, there was already snow. I died from my wounds. Certain thoughts arose in my mind that seemed to take me back in time — before the moment the policeman shot at me.

This time, I was careful. I was wearing skis, and I quickly skied past the police — all this was happening near the House of Creativity. They shot in my direction, missing. There was a large snowdrift in front of me, like a ramp, and as I drove onto it, I realized I was flying over a pond. I knew I'd break my legs and then they'd catch me. I knew I needed to bend my legs when landing to distribute the force of the fall evenly throughout my body. I landed safely.

I was near a tall building. People were walking nearby, but they weren't paying attention to me — apparently, they hadn't read the news yet. Walking to the left of the building, I didn't see the police. I wanted to find a place to get my phone and open my news feed. I ended up doing so on the other side of the building — the one closest to mine.

All the news was only about me and my crime — and how I thought I was all those famous people. Because of the context of the crime, I was considered crazy, insane. No wonder the police officer shot at me without warning. They showed the photos of me when I had full hair and was wearing a black-and-white checkered shirt. I regret the crime, the fact that I allowed it to happen. As I scroll down the news, I see this: The headline refers to Will Smith and his wife, whose name I see and either pronounce out loud or hear spoken by another voice – Jade. I also remember the word Prophecy, which Jade had, and which came true.

When I woke up (it was 3:00 AM+), I made an audio note about the dream and also asked HS to say again in the dream my full name (first name, last name, middle name, etc.), which I had in the life I lived in 1530 – if I lived then. But also, as far as I remember, I asked to see a green Pokemon, if that dream was an answer or something like that.

I heard the word/name Jade again in the dream.

I don't remember seeing Pokemon, but then I have trouble remembering dream details.

Smith's wife's name is Jada. This is one of the variants of the name Jade. Searching for her name and 'prophesy', I immediately found this video: https://www.tiktok.com/@uebertangelofficial/video/7289383414011088160 “PROPHECY FULFILLED WILL SMITH & JADA PINKETT SMITH are UNOFFICIALLY DIVORCED.” The difference here is that Jada didn't make the prediction, but the prediction was about her. There's a date – May 7, 2022.

Jade began to be used in the 19th century. 300 years separate the 1800s and 1500s. It's quite possible they were separate (if that was the answer to my question and I was someone named Jade).

That name led me to precious stones, which led me to Cleopatra, who wore pearls on her clothes. I think I'll have to return to this name and ask — if there was a person named Jade who lived in 1530, when I was born in that life and when I died?

Does this mean I wasn't Anne Boleyn? It's entirely possible. If the dream was true and the answer to my question, then this is the first time I've received a completely unexpected answer in a dream.

March 21, 2024. Question for HS - When the girl from the dream with the mirror maze lived. A golden light/color indicates a response.

Perhaps I saw and heard [the number of my apartment where I live], but most likely watching The Matrix yesterday is the reason. I don't think that was the answer. Plus, in the dream, it was meant to be my apartment number, and that's true. I don't remember seeing a golden light/color either.

In another dream, I saw a button to start a nightmare mission in StarCraft. Perhaps a golden one. I don't remember the numbers.

Yesterday, I asked to see a fragment of VL's life – when the photo of me naked by the river was taken. Today, in a dream, I heard myself as Scarlett O'Hara saying, “Oh, Rhett!” at one point. I don't remember any other words or the surroundings.

Note from 04/24/2024. In a dream, I saw and heard the number 211.

According to the Gregorian calendar, that date is meaningless, since in another dream I received the answer that I didn't live a life between the lives of Mary Magdalene and Hypatia.

Moreover, I learned through several dreams that that woman was Cleopatra VII.

Today I remembered that I once asked about the year Mary Magdalene was born. I saw 250 (most likely) in a dream. Again, according to the Gregorian calendar, that number is meaningless, but... I once read about the ancient Egyptian calendar. I decided to try finding a date converter and got 4 AD when choosing Ptolemy III Euergetes as the era – which makes sense if I did everything correctly.

So I thought about doing the same with 211 and got 36 BC. Cleopatra really did live during that time. Moreover, she would have been 33 years old then (my favorite number), and the woman in my dream could definitely have been 33!

I'll note that between 30 BC (the year I died in Cleopatra's lifetime) and 4 AD (presumably the year I was born in Mary Magdalene's lifetime) there are 33 years!

https://planetcalc.com/8434/

I'll explain here that sometimes the Higher Self can't give us a direct answer — they can't hand us a free lunch on a silver platter. Therefore, sometimes the answer may come in the form of a riddle. Of course, my Higher Self knew about the existence of that calendar converter and that I could find it (or would definitely find it).

March 29, 2024. Yesterday I watched 12 Monkeys. I saw a parallel with what I'm struggling with – gaslighting.

The day before yesterday, I asked HS, Thao, Biastra, and Latoli to give me some of my material knowledge from my life as Mary Magdalene – if possible. If not, I asked them to show me a fragment of that life in a dream.

In the morning, I suddenly remembered s*x with Yulia... only to soon realize it was a dream I'd never remembered until certain thoughts created a connection with that memory (material knowledge). S*x with Yulia, of course, never happened. But that memory, before I was fully awake, was quite vivid and quite realistic – I think also because the action took place in my room on my little couch.

I've noticed before that in dreams I sometimes have knowledge I don't remember receiving. And I believe it was recorded within me – that is, in my Astral body. This is what led me to believe that perhaps our former material knowledge is preserved somewhere. If so, it could explain why some people say they remember quite a bit from their past lives — if they're telling the truth.

The idea here is that even if material knowledge persists somewhere before the River of Oblivion, and if the HS can provide us with some of that knowledge, then to recall that knowledge our thoughts need to touch something that brings that knowledge to the surface of our consciousness — that is, we remember it.

Just as Michel D. recalled his déjà vu only when in close proximity to a place about which he retained unerased knowledge. It's noteworthy that when he traveled to that country, to that city, that memory was not recalled. This makes sense, since the film clip had no connection to either the city or the country.

I was planning to read the Bible anyway – especially about Mary Magdalene (myself in a past life). If some of the material knowledge from that life was "downloaded" into my Astral body, then there's a chance I'll "remember" it.

But then there's the question: if that happens, will I be able to tell if it really happened or if it happened in a dream? In Yulia's case, logic and additional memories helped me, showing that the memory came from a dream, not reality.

March 31, 2024. Yesterday before going to bed, I asked my Higher Self to "upload" a piece of material knowledge from my most recent past life (Michele) into my Astral Body – if possible.

If material knowledge is preserved somewhere before it is erased in the River of Oblivion (I also said we can use that knowledge), then I asked to be shown a violet light/color in my dream and to draw my attention to it.

About the orange light/color. This indicates that material knowledge is not only preserved until the River of Oblivion, but can also be uploaded into our soul in another life. That is, we can, theoretically, recall material knowledge from our past life.

If material knowledge (of Missy) was uploaded to me, then I wanted to see a turquoise light/color. And of course, I wanted to be able to recall that knowledge – a photograph, a book, etc.

If material knowledge is not preserved anywhere before it is erased in the River of Oblivion, I asked to be shown a red light/color. But I asked for this when I woke up in the night.

In one of my dreams, I saw a pen with a blue cap and tip, and I remember saying "blue," among other things. I noticed the color, and my attention was drawn to it. I woke up and tried to write down the words I remembered accompanying that color, but I forgot them... in fact, in reality, I wasn't trying to write those words down, so it turns out I was trying to do it in a dream... maybe I was having another dream within a dream, or I actually woke up but was so sleepy that I thought it was a dream... I don't know.

In the morning, I realized that "blue" in English in the rainbow — which I was thinking of when choosing colors — means the very color I was thinking of when asking my question, and which in Russian I called "turquoise" (in Russian, that color is “goluboy”). BUT! The pen was a different color in Russian — “siniy” (blue); I asked to see that color another night... There's a chance that that dream fragment did mean that some knowledge was uploaded into me...

When I woke up (it wasn't the last time that day. I slept some more afterwards) — or maybe it was in a dream — I remembered a dream I had. In it, I — I think I — was a small girl (like Missy, maybe). She was riding in the backseat of a car with a huge man. I knew they were going to have s*x, and I thought about the fact that the girl was so small and he was so huge.

It was another dream where I thought about knowledge I didn't have, and it had a sexual theme.

I also don't know (I haven't looked at Missy's photos yet) if the blue light — the pen — meant that this knowledge was uploaded into me. Or maybe I was given specific knowledge — material knowledge that I had — from Missy's life, and I still need to find something that will prompt me to remember that knowledge. Here I'll also mention the dream with Yulia (if it was her). I asked to see a fragment from my life as Mary Magdalene. There are rumors that I was a prostitute in that life. Yulia was putting a condom on me in that dream. Maybe all this means nothing, but I just thought about it this morning — if that dream was hinting to me that the rumors are true.

I looked at Missy's photo, then looked at Ottoman Street on Google Maps, but nothing came to mind. Perhaps, if blue meant the answer to my question, that dream with the little girl was that knowledge... but why, in two cases so far, have I received material knowledge from “forgotten” dreams and not from my actual past lives?

*

I think it's worth asking to mark with colors if the uploaded material knowledge comes from a dream or a past life.

April

April 1, 2024. Yesterday, I asked my Higher Self to show me purple if the material knowledge from my past lives is stored somewhere, and orange if the material knowledge from my past lives is not stored anywhere. I asked for my attention to be drawn to the colors.

In a dream, I saw my mother pick up a plate with fish bones (?) and some of the bones fell onto my purple bed. Unfortunately, I cursed at my mother a bit in the dream while cleaning the sheets. Then I started turning my mattress over, and then I saw a lot of orange on the other side.

It's worth noting that in English, some pictures on the rainbow call the color violet, which I think of as purple. But my attention was drawn specifically to orange because that night I actually slept on a purple bed, and I don't have an orange mattress.

I woke up and, because of the importance of the experiment, asked to see a scene from the film Dark Journey (1937) (with VL) if material knowledge from people's past lives isn't preserved anywhere. And from Caesar and Cleopatra (1945) if it is.

In my dream, I saw, heard, and/or played the piano. This was the fragment that stuck in my mind.

Dark Journey (1937). At 51:07 a piano and a pianist playing it can be clearly seen. Also, piano was invented in 1700, so it could not have been in Caesar and Cleopatra (1945) movie.

April 2, 2024. Yesterday, I asked Thao, Biastra, Latoli, and my Higher Self about the source of the data about my past body that I saw in the dream with the mirrors, and where I saw a woman with dark hair and large breasts reflected in the mirror.

Violet light or color if the data came from the psychosphere.

Green if not from the psychosphere.

Orange if partly from the psychosphere and partly from somewhere else.

In the dream I remember, I was at the clinic. Getting dental treatment, apparently. They gave me some papers and directed me to an office I knew I'd never been to. There was a line. There were young girls, and eventually, her boyfriend, apparently, sat next to one of them.

At one point, I got up from my chair and decided to check the posters. One of them had — I'm almost certain — a name from my past life written on it: Cleopatra.

It was around 6:00 PM, and the line hadn't dispersed yet. I decided to go home. As I descended the stairs, I saw rather beautiful walls — architecturally speaking — that were either green, or illuminated by green light, or both. I really liked the architecture; despite the color and light, it looked very elegant.

I think this should have been the answer to my question. After all, the rest of the decor was little different from reality. Ordinary light-colored walls.

Regarding Cleopatra. This is very interesting, because I was already wondering if that brunette with large breasts could have been Cleopatra. Perhaps this is also a hint that my thoughts are correct? But I will need more confirmation points on this serious matter.

It turns out that the information about what my past body looked like didn't come from the psychosphere. What next? Someday I can try to find out more. Perhaps I could ask a specific question — write it down or tell me the name of the source of that data about my past body.

April 3, 2024. Yesterday I asked Thao, Biastra, Latoli, and HS to show me the name or tell me where the data about my past physical body, which I saw in a dream with a labyrinth of mirrors, came from. There was a dream, but I don't remember it very well, and I don't recall seeing any indicators of receiving an answer.

*

Also, at the end of the night, I had two lucid dreams. I'll note that I was quite sleepy and didn't even think about gaining control in the dream — especially in two in a row! Again, this makes me think that — at least sometimes — we receive and don't receive lucid dreams regardless of our desires.

In both dreams, I was in my grandmother's apartment. Both times, I wanted to get out.

In the first dream, I was lying in the closet, lost in my fantasies. My mother asked me for something, and I went out. I remember realizing the apartment already belonged to other people, but we still had the keys, and we entered while no one was there. I thought we had to leave — we weren't supposed to be there. We turned off the light. I remember the small room was very wide, with a long wall facing the kitchen. At the front door, I started checking my passport. The photo was mine, but different, with slightly curly hair. Thoughts began to creep in that this was a dream. I opened the passport again and now saw a photo of my dad. I regained consciousness and control. For some reason, I felt uncomfortable in the dream environment and... I asked the HS to transport me to... Sarah Brightman... I wasn't transported anywhere, and I woke up.

In the second dream, I was apparently playing hide-and-seek with my grandmother (In reality, when I was little, we played hide and seek when I hid in her apartment). But she was busy. Someone came, I think — I don't know. I don't remember when I regained consciousness in the dream. I remember that when I was in the kitchen, I already had control (but my consciousness wasn't 100% clear). I wanted to look in the mirror I knew was behind me on the cabinet, but turning around, I saw that the door with the mirror was missing, revealing the darkness inside the cabinet. I wondered where everyone was (or where my mother was). I knocked on the toilet door and opened it – no one there. Next came the bathroom door. There didn't seem to be any handles on the door. I looked for the light switch where it used to be – but I couldn't find it. I walked to the front door, thinking about leaving the apartment. There was no handle on the door. I asked HS, simultaneously spreading my arms out to the sides, to open that door. Nothing. Then, remembering that this was a dream, I decided to go through the door. Behind it was darkness and emptiness, in which I was “walking.” There was also a howling sound (reminded me of the one you hear in Half-Life. Perhaps in Episode 1 – the sound of the citadel portal (?) or something like that). I wondered if the dream level data hadn't been loaded or generated. Then I heard a child-feminine voice addressing me, I think, by name (Zhenya). Unfortunately, I don't remember the exact message, but basically, the Voice asked me to examine the dream environment next time. Look at/open drawers, cabinets, etc. The Voice said I would figure it out myself.

I wonder what if I had opened the cabinets and seen the color purple along with the answer to my question? It's a shame that in such dreams, some knowledge is still muted within me, and I continue to rush or try to escape the uncomfortable environment.

April 4, 2024. It's been exactly 7 months since I had a dream in which I spoke in Vivien's voice, that I was the actress Vivien Leigh. Since then, I've found the names of six more of my past lives and saw two physical bodies in my dreams.

Last night, I emailed myself the names of my past lives (there were 7 of them) so that before going to bed, I could list them all in a question and ask Thao, Biastra, Latoli, and HS to show me violet color/light in my dream that night if I had been people with those names in my past lives. I asked them to draw my attention to that color/light so that I would remember it and know I had received an answer. Yellow meant that at least one of the names wasn't mine, and I also asked them to write it down and, if possible, pronounce it so that I would remember that moment.

In my last dream, I saw myself in Vivien Leigh's body dancing in purple clothes. I was watching some video. Before that moment, other photos and videos were shown, but I don't remember them. There was a selection of cards (playing cards; they looked like files) in a folder on my desktop (I don't remember how many there were).

Before that, I had a dream in which I either thought or said that Cleopatra was my past life. I also thought or saw that same body of a brunette with large breasts.

Much earlier, when I woke up shortly before dawn, I had a dream in which I was with a girl on a bus. She pressed her face against mine. Love (directed in return) and tenderness are things I haven't experienced in this life. Before the bus, I got off at the Preobrazhensky metro station (I think) and Maxim (?) was standing there; for some reason, I tried to pass unnoticed and then ran past the houses. After the bus, we got off at the farthest point of VDNKh. There was a map showing our location, and I didn't recognize the place (but I “knew” it was VDNKh, and I was far from home). One time, I picked up a bike standing in the driveway and started riding it. Some guys rode up and ended up taking some white plastic (?) things on the bike (?) or something from our box. Vova just watched the whole time. As for the woman, she no longer tried to cuddle up to me.

I'll say I didn't notice the color yellow in my dreams.

Here's a list of the names I read:

Michele Avila
Vivien Leigh — Vivian Mary Hartley
Emma Hamilton — Amy Lyon
Jade
Hypatia
Mary Magdalene
Cleopatra VII Thea Philopator

Over the course of 7 months, I learned 7 names I had in my past lives. This number is one of the synchronicities with Cleopatra and Magdalene. I was recently walking and thinking about the fact that so many months would pass on this day. I wonder how life worked out that yesterday seemed the logical time to ask the very question I posed.

I'm wondering what if the number of names was supposed to be 7 before this moment? And for this reason, I was never able to find out that guy's name (from a lucid dream in my soul), and I also couldn't find out if I lived between 1815 and 1913, or what names I had. Of course, for now, this is just a thought that occurred to me.

I should note that Wikipedia states that in Russian colloquial speech, violet also refers to the color purple and various shades of red-violet (magenta), which in a number of other languages are clearly distinguished from violet proper.

This is important. Because I asked for violet, but saw purple, which can also be violet in Russian, the language in which I asked the question. This is another situation (in my opinion) where life provides information in a way that gives skeptics something to work with.

I watched The Last Action Hero last night. At one point, Arnold Schwarzenegger (Slater) says, “Very soon he's going to tell you he loved you in Gone with the Wind.” And at the beginning of the film, Joan Plowright was featured, and then Laurence Olivier's name was mentioned (and he was featured in Hamlet).

Near the end Slater says he’s just an imaginary [hero]. Got me thinking that from the Spirit’s perspective we’re all imaginary. My life was already known too (provided the natural accidents haven’t changed my life too much – assuming I understand it right).

April 6, 2024. Yesterday, I asked to see/tell the name I had in the life immediately after Emma Hamilton. I don't remember seeing/hearing names clearly.

But I did have dreams. In one, I was in a village near Kumushka (woods near a stream). I was walking toward some kind of hut, but woke up.

In another, I was in my apartment. There was something about ghosts and a turned on light.

In another dream, ghosts were again the theme. A girl dreamed that human limbs were floating and rotating in her room. The hand was especially distinct. She woke up. Everything seemed clear, but in the dream, I realized that all those limbs were around her, but she didn't see it. Then there was a voice — perhaps coming from the closet. There were also dangling threads. The girl soon knocked on the window, shouting to her mother, who was downstairs (the girl was definitely not on the 1st floor judging by the height – 2 or 3). Then the scene changed to a skeleton, next to which a huge needle was inserting something. The scene changed, and it felt as if all that remained of the girl was a small ball inside another transparent one — someone was showing it.

Whether there was a connection with Hypatia in the last dream, I don't know.

Addition of July 24, 2025. Later I learned I died in that life (Mary Jane Kennedy) when I was about 5.

April 7, 2024. Yesterday, I asked the HS if I had the last name Kennedy (officially) in one of my past lives. I don't think I saw a lilac (I did) or orange (I didn't) light or color that I would have noticed.

Perhaps lilac isn't a particularly striking color for such experiences.

Then I had a dream about a book about Emma Hamilton — I think. Maybe I'll actually find my other life by reading the book about my life of Emma, and that's why I can't yet close the period from 1815 to 1913?

I'll also note that some time ago I asked the HS (maybe also Thiaooubians) about the spiritual category of the physical bodies of Jews. In the dream, I saw myself pressing the “3” button on the TV remote, which turned on Channel One (I think).

April 8, 2024. Yesterday I asked to see Hypatia's date of birth – “year, month, day.” An orange light/color would be the indicator of me receiving the answer.

In a dream, at one memorable time, I was between the tram tracks and the beginning of the school fence. I sometimes walk there in winters. It was night, and the streetlights were either off or barely lit. I felt as if I were in pitch darkness. I heard dogs barking somewhere ahead – not far from the school.

In the morning, I thought those streetlights glowed orange in reality. What if the lack of orange meant that for some reason I wouldn't be given an answer? Maybe this information wasn't important for my spiritual growth? Or something else...

April 9, 2024. Yesterday, I asked my Higher Self and Thiaooubians – if I lived in 1870 – to show/say my name, which I had in that life. Green was supposed to indicate I'd received an answer. A flashing red light would have meant I didn't live in that year.

I had several dreams. In one, I remember seeing a galaxy in the night sky. It wasn't colorful, like in another dream, and it was almost on the opposite side of the sky (I was near the little house across from our house and saw the galaxy between my house and Vova's).

In another dream, I was walking from the small park near the Prostornaya tram stop, past house 20, and into the courtyard of house 18. I saw green leaves appearing on the dogrose. I walked a little further. The fir tree was gone. I saw the spot where it once grew. Someone must have dug it up. Flowers were growing nearby, some of which were purple. I walked to the playground, and then I thought, how will I know if this is a dream? Everything seemed so real. Then I hid behind a tree (a poplar, a long-standing one, the one I really hid behind (most likely) when we played hide-and-seek during school years) from people's eyes, and asked my Higher Self to create there (pointing my finger to the ground and looking away) a yellow Pokemon (or was it Pikachu?). I turned around and saw a Pokemon with black and yellow stripes on the ground. Then I regained control. Alas, instead of looking around, I started rushing again and immediately started asking my HS a question... and woke up.

I don't remember flashing red in my dreams. I figured the absence of an evergreen tree must mean that the answer was still unavailable to me for some reason (just like in the dream with the lack of orange lighting, when I asked for Hypatia's birth date). Then I remembered seeing green leaves on the dogrose; but technically, that's what you'd expect to see — especially on April 9th. I think I need to read the books about my life as Emma Hamilton, and maybe then I'll be able to access my lives (if there were any) between Emma and Vivien.

Could this mean I lived in 1870? After all, I didn't see the flashing red, but the absence of green was shown.

Update of July 24, 2025. Could be a big stretch, but maybe the uncolored galaxy represented the fact that I was an unknown actress in that life, while in Vivien's life I was (maybe have been represented by the colored galaxy I saw in another dream when I was standing on the road near Vova's and mine houses—I saw that spot [on the road] in that dream.) I was called a star (VL), and some stars are bright and colored, and some are not; It’s natural in this Universe to look at life from different perspectives in order to learn more and more.

April 10, 2024. Yesterday, I asked Thiaooubians and HS to show/tell my name if I lived between the lives of Mary Magdalene and Hypatia. Blue was supposed to mean I'd received an answer. Its absence meant that for some reason the answer couldn't be given, and yellow (Word colors yellow incorrectly in the Dark Mode) would mean I didn't live during that period.

In my last dream, I saw Alexander (who was in a different class) come to my house with discs (?). Among the discs, I remember Resident Evil Code Veronica, but there were other discs as well, one of which was a mini-disc. For some reason, my laptop — where the keyboard is — had a huge disc drive for multiple discs (some CD players actually had these). The strange thing was, he was lying in my bed...

All this time, I kept realizing that I hadn't been to school in a very long time, and that today was the day I finally had to go (I think it was Monday. But in reality, it was Wednesday). It was 8:00 at one point, and then 8:05.

I headed to the bathroom and, as I was passing the door, heard my mother's voice asking something about a painting of bananas. The painting was in a village, I think. I saw that painting in my mind and saw those bananas — but maybe not very clearly. Of course, the bananas were yellow.

Then either I or my mother was by the pond, planning to go somewhere.

My attention was drawn (I asked for it) to the painting of yellow bananas. But in that case, that means after Mary Magdalene, I "immediately" began living Hypatia's life. So far, all the answers have been accurate.

In general, that could be true. Especially if the rumors about Mary's prostitution and Hypatia's virginity are true. This aligns with my understanding that in our lives, we tend to swing from one extreme to another until we learn to live in the middle — in balance.

Speaking of the dream. The blue one reminded me last night of "What kind of sky? Blue. That's what it is for blue people." I heard the boys in that other class competing to see who could c*m faster when we were kids at school. I don't know if this is true or not, and it doesn't matter. But it could explain the dream episode with Sasha (plus, in Hypatia's life, I lived in Alexandria). I didn't see any specific blue light or color there.

As for the picture with the bananas, that episode was completely unrelated to what happened earlier. So, it clearly should have been the answer to my question – everything fits.

If I've made a mistake in my conclusions, I ask my Higher Self, Thao, Biastra, and Latoli to tell me or somehow show me the error. I asked that (in the dream) the theme of the planet Thiaoouba, accompanied by any music, be an indication that I'm receiving a correction to my conclusions. For example, I see Doko and music is playing at the same time.

April 11, 2024. I asked to see Mary Magdalene's birth date – "year, month [in word], date." A green light or color is a sign of receiving an answer.

In a dream, I saw what was possibly a light green travel ticket with a number written behind it. I think it was either 250 or 500 (but could be another). From my inside pocket, I pulled out three boxes (?), each with more than four corners. I don't know how many there were exactly – 5, 6,…. Inside, there might have been matches, or something thin and wooden.

The number on the ticket can't be the year. But I didn't specify which calendar I wanted to use for the birth date… I looked at the Egyptian and Jewish calendars and didn't seem to find anything.

https://planetcalc.com/8434/

Gregorian date to Ancient Egyptian date.

If I choose the era "Ptolemy III Euergetes", then in the 'Year' field I can get 250 by choosing the 4 AD in the Gregorian date selector.

IF – IF – this was the answer, then in Mary M.'s life I would have been 26 when Jesus (Aarioc) came to Earth. The age of 26 has played a major role in several of my lives.

500 can be found in the Egyptian Calendar if I choose the era 'Xerxes I' and 15-th year AD.

Recently watched 300 and saw Xerxes there. He reminded me of Xerxes from a South Park episode (for good reason – they parodied that movie).

250 makes more sense to me for now. Also, if I remember 2 probably being in my dream, then 250 makes more sense than 500 without any 2s.

In my dream, it could have been a year in Ancient Egyptian Calendar because I read about it before.

Fow now there are just my thoughts. Maybe it can be right, maybe it can't.

April 13, 2024. Yesterday, I asked HS to show and/or say the name I had in 90 BC — if I lived then. Blue is a sign of receiving an answer, and orange is a sign of not being alive then. I also asked for music to play simultaneously with the color/light.

In my dream, I saw both blue and also heard music. I don't remember if at the same time or not. I remember hearing music only in lucid dreams before, and I recall several other old dreams with music, so this was clearly the answer to my question... But! I don't remember seeing and/or hearing any name!

I don't remember seeing orange, and I didn't hear any other music.

I remember that at one point in that dream, I seemed to be walking somewhere in the water. Then there was a shootout. I shot at several people, defending myself.

1 – I need to ask to see a name and hear it simultaneously — as it was with Jade.

2 – I forgot to ask my Higher Self to direct my attention to the light/color, as well as the written and spoken name.

It's also important to consider that hearing/seeing a name doesn't mean it will be directly shown to me separately from everything else – as happened in a very important dream about Mary Magdalene. Lights/colors in other dreams were often part of the surroundings that I simply noticed (and specifically asked to direct my attention to the light/color).

I'll note here the dream where I asked for Mary Magdalene's year of birth. Red was an indicator of receiving an answer. I saw red crab sticks, which weren't packaged, but piled high in the store refrigerator. I wanted to scoop a handful into a bag – something I've never done in reality – but there were no bags anywhere. Unfortunately, I didn't see or don't remember any numbers. Perhaps there were other hints about the year, but I don't remember anything.

04/15/2024 I also saw two dirty bags made of cabbage in that dream, but I decided not to write about it. Perhaps this is an important point, and perhaps it was the answer. After all, such bags would require four cabbage leaves. If this was a riddle-like answer, then another question arises: AD or BC? In the first case, I'm 26 in 30 AD; in the second, I'm 33. Both numbers have significance for me. The plastic and cabbage bags could hint at our era and the past, but I think I've been led astray in these thoughts...

April 14, 2024. Today, after midnight, I asked Thiaooubians and HS — if I lived in 1428 AD — to say/show my name in that life. Blue and music signify an answer. Orange and music signify that I didn't live in that year.

In a dream, I saw a woman, possibly elderly, lying on my bed. A man (not me) was next to her. She was having some problems with her neighbors, but it wasn't the noise. Finally, she put her feet up on my computer desk — that is, they were raised up. Then, or later, I wondered if they were orange or something; thoughts of orange were definitely in my head. The room was dark, and I apparently couldn't distinguish colors very well. As she put her feet up on the desk, the opening chords of Zhi Vago's "Celebrate (The Love)" played. In reality, I listened to that song late last night. I don't remember anything blue, nor any names.

Apparently, I didn't live in 1428. This is also important because yesterday I was watching Peter Santinello's video from New Orleans, and at one point he showed a house designed in honor of Tara from Gone with the Wind (11+ minutes, I think). Then they showed Joan of Ark. Reading about her, I saw that she lived in 1428 — the year I wrote down so I could later find out whether I lived in that year. (There were 33,300 words in this document when I wrote "year.")

. Conclusion. I think there should be differences not only in color/light, but also in sounds. For example, music is playing in one case, and in another, I hear a bird singing.

April 15, 2024. Asked Thao, Biastra, Latoli, and my Higher Self if my ideas on how to resurrect dead people are correct, and I could resurrect a dead person.

I said this statement to know if it's correct:

If a person has died – in an accident, for example – and 3 days have not yet passed since the moment of the person's death, then the Higher Self of that person can resurrect him.

So, if I come to a dead person – maybe I have to touch him, maybe I can just indicate [by gestures; fingers] the body I'm referring to; matters not right now – I say, "My Higher Self, tell to the Higher Self of this person that I want to tell/convey/transmit to the soul of this person that his resurrection – if he returns to his [physical] body – will help other people. For example, it will prove that the soul exists, that resurrection exists, that Higher Selves exist (and that reincarnation exists; although it's not directly proven by resurrection), which can help many people. Or maybe the person has close relatives who are in need of him, and maybe he will choose to resurrect for their sake. I assume the soul gets the message, and if his Higher Self agrees to send the soul back to its physical body, having cured it so that it can live and function, and if the soul agrees to go back and resurrect, then the person resurrects. He opens his/her eyes, stands up, talks, etc. He is alive."

I repeated the whole thing again briefly. Then I said that if the statement is mostly true — meaning if I do this, I'd be able to resurrect someone (e.g. some number of dead people out of 100) — I want to see a dark blue (синий) light or color and I want to hear music at that moment also. If the statement is not correct — if I see a dead person and do what I said, but it doesn't resurrect that person; so, there's something I'm missing – then I want to see orange light or color and I want hear a bird's song at that moment too.

I thanked them all regardless of the answer I'd get or wouldn't get – as I usually do – and went to bed.

I slept the whole night without ever waking up, and when I did, I remembered hearing a song. It was "Sarah Brightman — Here With Me" which were similar to what we can hear at 4:22 in the real song (it's 1 of the favorite parts of that song for me). I don't have any memory of hearing birds or seeing orange. But it should be said I also don't remember seeing any blue colors. The only thing I remember seeing in a dream that night is looking out from the window and seeing that the snow did actually fall and covered everything with its thick white blanket.

In 3 days in a row, I'd ask my HS to play music as an additional indicator that I'm receiving an answer – which can also be viewed as a fallback in case I can't remember the colors or other details of the dream. Each night I heard music as the answer. In my whole life I can remember hearing music in just several dreams. So, I think this was an answer even though I don't remember almost anything about today's dream.

The verdict is that we can potentially resurrect a dead person by doing the process I stated.

For transparency and credit: Those ideas came from what was written in Thiaoouba Prophecy by Michel Desmarquet, and what Tom Chalko (I believe) wrote on his website(s).

April 16, 2024. I asked my HS a direct question: was the woman from the mirror maze dream (she had white skin, large breasts, and dark hair) Cleopatra VII Thea Philopator? I wanted to see her again if she was, and I wanted to see purple and hear a song play. I also said it would be okay if just a song plays, but I'd prefer if I also see the color and the woman. If she wasn't I asked to see Emma Hamilton, and I also wanted to see yellow accompanied by a bird's song.

I woke up shortly before 12:57 AM remembering hearing Sarah Brightman's Here with Me again.

Since I didn't remember seeing any colors or faces – the dream was quite busy, but I just couldn't remember any more details – and the night was young, I asked the same question again changing nothing.

In the dream I hear the song from Titanic 1997 (which I watched that evening).

Again, I don't remember a lot of details. Just the fact I heard the song.

Because the topic is very important (for me at least), and the time was 2:50 AM, I ask the question again, but with several changes: if that woman was Cleopatra VII, I wanted to see yellow and hear a bird's song. If she wasn't, then I wanted to see purple and hear music.

Before falling asleep I realized that some birds are starting to sing outside. I can barely hear them through the windows, but I do think what if they'd impact my dream?

In the dream I see myself going to the kitchen to close the windows. The reason being I can hear the bird sing. Even though I closed the window, I can still hear it as loudly as when the window was open. I go to the window in my room and I experience the same thing – the bird is singing with the same volume no matter what!

I immediately wake up, hearing the same bird singing outside. The windows are closed, and the bird's song is barely heard. Just to make sure of something, I go to the kitchen and open the window. Of course, the bird's singing got louder as I opened it, and it got noticeably silent when I closed the window. It means that in my dream I heard the bird's song which was created for me; I didn't hear that real bird because it wasn't as loud.

Why I don't remember seeing any colors? Well, first of all I did mention to my HS that a song alone would do just fine too – If I'm asking for way too many things to happen. Then it's another example of not making the answers to easy and obvious.

I'd had several hints before that the woman in question could have been Cleopatra VII. I guess some time had to pass before I could accept that (heck, some time had to pass before I myself became more comfortable with the idea I was this well-known queen in the first place.)

Why do the Roman statues, which people attribute to depict Cleopatra VII, show… me… as looking totally different?

From what I heard the Roman propaganda might have painted Cleo not as she actually was – I mean, Roman soldiers had to fight her, not admire.

Maybe scientists misidentified Cleo… (it's what some researchers actually say may be the case https://www.livescience.com/archaeology/ancient-egyptians/what-did-cleopatra-egypts-last-pharaoh-really-look-like).

Maybe some statues were meant to be artistic and not realistic (same as with the statues of Thiaooubians in Mu and on Easter Island.)

April 18, 2024. Yesterday I asked my HS the following: If I lived in 1340 BC, then what was my name in that life? I asked to see and hear that name and draw my attention to it. I also asked for blue color/light and music to be indicators of me getting an answer (but I forgot to ask to draw my attention to the color and music). Orange and a bird's song would be an indicator that I didn't live in 1340 BC.

I've had many dreams but remember almost nothing. I did think that queen theme was present in one of them. But I also had a vague realization 'Nefertiti' was pronounced in the first dream I had. But I don't remember music or blue. Just like I don't remember seeing orange and hearing a bird sing.

The only idea I had in my mind is to note the fact Nefertiti is shown on the cover of the book I bought about Cleopatra VII (CLEOPATRA: The Egyptian Queen. The Entire Life Story. Biography, Facts & Quotes (Great Biographies Book 56). Biography Books Collection. Kindle Edition.).

I decided to read a bit about Nefertiti too. I saw a familiar name – Tey! She was a wet nurse of Nefertiti (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tey). Tey is also a female streamer (https://goodgame.ru/tey) whom I used to watch sometimes a long time ago; but then, on her stream, I said hello one day and jokingly asked about a zombie in Resident Evil (Remake released in 2002), and she said something hurtful in response, and after that I stopped watching her. I kinda liked her before and felt for her because of her speech (it was her who didn't fully like her own voice. I knew what she meant but I also thought it was all good. She was just a bit unique).

It is a synchronicity! The meaning of this all is something I'm gonna need to find out by asking more questions.

Thoughts: Nefertiti was a wife of Akhenaten (Pharaoh Athnaton). He was poisoned by evil priests and said this before dying: 'The time that I have spent on this Earth was an era in which the simplicity of Truth was not understood and was rejected by many.' It was one of reasons I wanted to check 1340 BC – since I was someone who was near Jesus and Thiaooubians (angels/ messengers), and also since it's clear I'm suffering from skepticism directed towards me, I thought it's possible I lived a life in which I was a skeptic myself. Moses also lived during that year, so there's plenty of room for my old self to make errors and then learn what's the other side of the barricades is like. I thought maybe I had to have been a priest at one point – who knows.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nefertiti

Nefertiti name was the sentence nfr.t jj.tj "the beautiful one has come".

She's depicted near Amenhotep IV/Akhenaten (possibly in several scenes).

Nefertiti's daughter, Meketaten, may have died in year 13 or 14. They had 6 children — girls.

A possible mummy of Nefertiti has her left arm bent over her chest in a 'queenly' pose. She was about 45 when died. But they also say this mummy was someone else — https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Younger_Lady

I noticed that the bust of Nefertiti is missing her left eye. I've got an issue with my left eye and in VL's life I had to wear an eyepatch over my left eye after the fight with Larry.

Nefertiti's bust has a long neck and some people have mentioned that fact too – it's not just me. As VL I had long neck.

April 19, 2024. I asked HS and Thiaooubians a direct question. Was I Nefertiti who lived in 1340 BC and who was the wife of Akhenaten mentioned by Thao to Michel. Red = I was, blue I was not.

I woke up and it was 1:33 AM when I looked at the clock. Had no memory of seeing any colors. Sometimes it happens and I'd get the answer in another dream that night. Unfortunately I made an error of asking the second question when the bird's song would mean I was Nefertiti, and music would show I was not. I did not record it on audio. Later I'd say to myself something which meant the first question is important. But I did not 'officially' revoke my 2-nd question. This could prove important…

I had a dream in which the red color was mentioned and maybe shown. The details are vague.

Now here's the issue. I might have heard Sarah Brightman's Snow on the Sahara song. At first, I thought it was the first ever conflict of the answers I'd get. But then I remembered how I started to think the second question was not important – although I never specifically told my HS that I annul it. But it would mean that…

I'll have to return to Nefertiti and 1340 BC later. The subject is too important to jump to conclusions. And the answers are not very focused regardless.

April 21, 2024. I asked HS which category my soul was. Pink = indicator of the answer.

In one of my first dreams, there was a reference to pink. But I either didn't remember the answer or didn't understand it.

Waking up a second time, I asked HS to repeat the answer to my (last) question.

In my dream I saw myself starting to clean dirt from the carburetor of a single-cylinder motorcycle. Then I saw another single-cylinder motorcycle before my eyes – like an "ИЖ" (IZH) Planeta. Around this time, I was talking and realized I was too weak for a two-cylinder (IZH). The scene was in the village behind the well. Then I was riding out beyond the fence into the backyard on a dark scooter (perhaps the same as Dima's - 90 cc), which also had a single cylinder. I don't remember pink in this part of the dream.

I think this was the answer confirming that my soul belongs to the first category. "I'm weak" for the second (still), and this was generally clear. I didn't mention pink when I asked for the answer to be repeated.

Dreams about school, which I return to again and again, were the reason I finally decided to ask this question. What if I somehow reached another category, but for some reason I'm constantly living on a first-category planet? But no.

I barely studied at school in the 10th and 11th grades. Dreams about school, I think, could mean that perhaps I've already experienced three lessons of a first-category planet, but I still need to fully master them. E.g. I was "skipping" them, like in school.

It's also possible that I've learned some lesson(s) of the higher categories, but since I haven't yet learned the first-category lesson(s), I'm forced to be born on a first-category planet. But these are just thoughts; I'm simply trying to understand the meaning of all those dreams about school, as well as my past lives, some of which played important roles. This idea came to me after reflecting on how, in TPXP, I tried my best to talk about the possibilities of proving the veracity of Michel's book, but few responded or attempted my experiments, which proved/demonstrated the real existence of many of the things mentioned in the book.

Overall, I need to organize my chaotic thinking and relax.

April 22, 2024. I asked my HS: If I lived in 1278 BC, what was my name?

I had many dreams in which many things were said. I don't remember my attention being drawn to any names. I also don't remember the orange color — the indicator that I didn't live in that year.

I'll try asking my HS to say my name several times if I lived in a particular year.

April 23, 2024. Asked HS: If I lived in 950 AD, what was my name. I asked to repeat it several times in the dream.

I did hear several repetitions in dreams but I don't remember any names being spoken.

April 24, 2024. Q to HS: How many days Irene's pregnancy lasted when she was pregnant with Missy?

Violet, the sign of receiving the answer, was seen and maybe mentioned in a dream, and maybe at that time a number was said… but I don't remember it.

Of note is the last part of the dream, in which it was shown that Gustavo unbanned Marced and Nima again in TPXP. IRL, At 7:17 AM they were still banned.

25 April, 2024. Q to HS and Thiaooubians. If my mother lived during my life of Cleopatra VII, what her name was in that life. I wanted to see and hear the name; maybe repeated several times. Green – indicator of the answer. Blinking orange – my ma didn't live then.

Don't remember details of dreams I had. But I did wake up when it was dark and saw my mother in front of me. Then I realized it was a vision or something. Mother was in bed. I asked her something and she said maybe she woke me up.

April 26, 2024. Yesterday before going to bed, I asked my HS which life I was living in this body. A dark blue color or light indicated I was receiving an answer. I asked to draw my attention to a number or word that would represent the answer, and asked for the answer to be repeated if possible. I asked for the answer to be outside the dream content; not in a sentence, but in separate words*.

The first dream talked a lot about past lives. And at one point, I wondered how I could be a person living at the same time as me. I don't remember dark blue or numbers appearing in that dream. I woke up and decided I wouldn't ask my HS to repeat the answer if I didn't remember it, and I didn't mention the fact that I didn't think I'd received an answer. I decided that if needed, the HS would give me an answer in another dream that night (I woke up shortly before 12:15 AM).

I fell asleep and remember the last dream well. I met Yana (I met her in Gorky Park irl) on the embankment. It was dusk, and I pointed out to her the sky behind the tall buildings on the other side of the river. It was turning beautiful shades of dark blue, brightening everything around. I said to her, “Красивск!” (in English it could become something like “Beautifulsk”) (I heard that word from the streamer OlyaVoodoo.)

Yana, I think, was wearing a hooded top, and later she reminded me of the outfit Myra wore in Waterloo Bridge – when they walk down the dark street after their first kiss and dance (~26:22; I was thinking about that outfit yesterday, but in my mind it looked a little different).

We went to the right along the street, which perhaps already resembled Old Arbat. Yana sometimes took my hand.

For a moment, I thought I'd traveled so far from home. What if I started feeling unwell? I think I was thinking about a taxi, and the metro – how to get home. But the most important thing was the thought that Yana and I were meeting for the first time since our last encounter (in reality, we only saw each other once, when we first met), and I was definitely thinking about the months — how many months had passed since then. There's a chance I've thought about it more than once, but I don't remember exactly.

It was cold. And I was lightly dressed. Perhaps I was thinking it was January.

I asked Yana how it was in Dubai? She remained silent for some reason.

At one point, I remembered how I'd told her long ago that I was Vivien Leigh in a past life. We hadn't touched on that topic that day. I wondered if that was the reason Yana was so close to me in this encounter.

Then the scene changed. I unlock my apartment and put the keys on the shelf. Mom's keys are gone, and her bed is made. It was around 10 or 11 am. I thought I'd have to look for her. I also realized I'd spent the night with Yana and that we'd had something I decided not to fully describe for my videos (s-- ; I want to keep my work from being censored, as the topics are very, very important.). There was a problem with the switch (light switch?), which was in a different place – where our phone jack is. It was held on by one screw (out of four), and I constantly had to pull out the plastic buttons and adjust something. At one point, my neighbor Alexander came home.

I had other dreams, too, which I recalled throughout the day.

In one, I picked two green peppers, then regretted it and tried to leave them there to ripen. (In reality, a day or two earlier, I'd picked a ripe red pepper for a salad.)

*I hadn't realized that up until that point, all the answers about numbers had come in the form of riddles, regardless of my wishes.

I don't think I would dress so lightly in January, even if the daytime temperature was 20 degrees Celsius. I would have known that a sharp cold snap would [most likely] arrive by evening in such a month.

The sky was an indicator that the answer was coming soon. Such a sky contained shades of dark blue and navy blue, in case I spoke of one color and thought of another — sometimes I confuse them.

The idea of the number of months was most likely the answer in the form of a riddle. I met Yana on August 1, 2020. 44 months and 25 days have passed since then (3 years, 8 months, 25 days. So, numbers have also appeared more than once).

https://www.timeanddate.com/date/durationresult.html?d1=1&m1=08&y1=2020&d2=26&m2=4&y2=2024

In this case, it turns out I'm living my 44th life. If January (of this year) was taken as the month, the year would be 41. But 44 makes more sense — which doesn't mean it was the answer.

March 23, 2026: I used to have dreams about being reborn in someone else's physical body and retaining my material knowledge. If I had such experience in my past lives, then it might be a reason for January and for 41 as alternative answer. When you have such an experience, I think you both live a new life (because you now have a totally different physical body) and yet you don't (because you have the material knowledge you gained while living in your old physical body).

And the number of days doesn't matter here either, since they don't logically fit. 1,364 days passed between those two dates, and with an average lifespan of even 15 years, that would mean I've already lived over 20,000 years! And we live a maximum of 15,000 years on a Category 1 planet before reaching Category 2.

There was a time when my attention was drawn to the number 44.

The number 4 often appears in my soul's life (current and past lives), and it is often surrounded by negative events. My life was full of suffering — which is also not surprising.

Recalling my dream with the mirror labyrinth, 40+ lives makes sense — if you consider that I began with the very first mirror, signifying/representing my very first life. I have passed by quite a big number of mirrors before deciding to look into the mirror reflecting me in my past life as Cleopatra. (I wrote 30+ mirrors originally, but I clearly couldn't count those mirrors and I was quite off in my estimates; the point was I passed quite a big number of mirrors before looking at my reflection.)

This leads to the following thoughts. Could my life as Mary Magdalene have been my 33rd? For now, I know for sure that I lived five lives after Mary Magdalene and before Evgeny Meshkov. I could very well have lived five lives (which I don't yet know about) in the period after Hypatia and before Vivien Leigh. Why could 33 be Mary's life and not another of my incarnations? Because 3, 33, etc., are very closely connected with Jesus (Aarioc) and Thiaoouba. And I've seen these numbers very many times in my life (my attention was drawn specifically to them). It just makes sense – but! For now, these are just my thoughts, and reality may be different.

It's worth noting that 11 separates 33 and 44. A number I've also seen quite a lot.

I think I'll try asking the question again, but first I should ask which life I lived in Mary Magdalene's life.

I think, in theory, I can find the names and dates of birth, and perhaps death, of all my past lives. And also find out where I was born and who I was.

April 27, 2024. Yesterday I asked if Alexey Ti*ov (Tko) was this man in his past life — Major Alexander James Lumsden Wallace. I recently found that article and realized that the destinies of those two people bear similarities - Wallace's mistake and A.T.'s suffering.

https://patrickleighfermor.org/2015/09/09/xan-fielding-the-armenian-cousin-of-vivien-leigh/

Flashing green = yes. Violet and, if possible, a bird's song = no.

I've seen a lot of things in my dreams. There's a slim chance that there was something about green — and more than one — in the first dream. I had that thought when I woke up last night.

Perhaps I'll return to this question.

April 29, 2024. A couple of days ago, I asked HS if my mother was Arsinoe 4. There's a slim chance I heard music, which would mean she wasn't. I might come back to this question someday.

Yesterday, I spent the entire day recording audio for a video about my incarnations as Vivien and Michele. I didn't ask HS anything because I was tired and just wanted to sleep.

But as a result, I had several dreams about my past lives. In one of them, I was walking along Rokossovsky Boulevard toward home, thinking about my life as Cleopatra, and wondering if it gave me any insight into why, apparently, only men (males) were leaders in Mu.

I think it's related to pregnancy, during which a woman has slightly different concerns. Plus, ill-wishers could use this to put pressure on the ruler and, as a result, on the entire country.

April 30, 2024. I asked my HS, Thao, Biastra and Latoli from Thiaoouba for help – provided the Universal Law allows them to give it. The help is about me having ambiguities with the answers about Nefertiti. I asked that Alatora with bluish Aura be shown as a sign of their help prior to them giving me aid.

April 30, 2024. I asked my HS again if I was Nefertiti in my past life. I took a screenshot on Wikipedia (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nefertiti). I listed that she: lived 1350 BC; was a queen in ancient Egypt; was the wife of Akhenaten, mentioned in Thiaoouba Prophecy. If I had been, I wanted to hear a bird singing. If I hadn't been this Nefertiti, I wanted to hear music. I asked HS to draw my attention to the dream sequence in which I'd receive the answer.

I dreamed a lot of things, and towards the end I heard music: duduu-duduu from Gone with the Wind. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DE3CpFL9-2s

The music basically matched the first 5 seconds of 'I'll Never Be Hungry Again!' by Max Steiner.

Perhaps there was another Nefertiti living at that time, and I was that person...? Or maybe the first dreams didn't initially provide answers, but I assumed they were answers.

On the 19th, I write about the mention of red, but I specifically asked for red to be shown, not mentioned. And I'm clearly not sure if I saw red; if so, then there are no longer any conflicts or ambiguities.

In any case, it is a fact that some [synchronistic] connection with Nefertiti exists. The only question is, what is the reason for its existence? It is also interesting to note that I first encountered problems with my questions because of Nefertiti, a photo of whose bust was placed on the cover of a book about Cleopatra! It is unclear whether the authors of that book did this by mistake or deliberately. Apparently, I nevertheless made my first mistake in the Nefertiti question, hastening to accept as a possible answer something that was not one (the mention of red on the 19th); Technically, I didn't consider this a 100% answer, but I also didn't dismiss it entirely because I didn't actually remember seeing red. Never before had a dream after a question mentioned a color/light without actually showing it.

Then there's a chance that the scientists made mistakes about Nefertiti, and because of them, my questions, which contain all the facts, some of which are incorrect, give me the corresponding answers. In the case of Cleopatra, I kind of figured out that my physical body wasn't quite like the statues some scholars attribute to Cleopatra. Thiaooubians also told Michel that our experts made mistakes; and as it later turned out, historical errors were also made; and in some places, history was completely distorted...

I'll have to ask again about that period, asking very simple questions to avoid ambiguity. First, I need to find out if in a past life I was someone with a name that sounded something like Nefertiti.

Note of August 8, 2024. Egyptian chronologies may diverge for the New Kingdom of Egypt up to 30 years. It may be the reason I got negative answer in case 1350 BC is false. As of the date of making this note I confirmed I was a queen (or similar title) and a wife (or other similar title) of Athnaton (Akhenaten).

May

May 1, 2024. Yesterday I asked if in one of my past lives I was called Nefertiti. Bird song = yes. Music = no.

I woke up thinking that I must have heard a song. I remembered that it must be Madonna, but I didn't know which song. I listened to several of her songs until I found out it was "Madonna — Nothing Really Matters".

The thing is, I had memory of that song when I woke up. Technically, I don't remember hearing it in my dream – and that's what I asked for.

At around 3:09 AM I was recording audio about the vision which I saw when I woke up. It was a face of a woman to the left of my vision. She was pretty. There was a moment I started to become uncomfortable, but I realized what was happening and remembered what happened in Mary Magdalene's life – when Jesus appeared to me then and I "did not waver at the sight of" Him. So I gathered myself and kept on watching the vision – no matter what it'd show.

It dissipated eventually into what I think was a dark bluish Aura, and its shape was similar to the body's outline.

I remembered then how during the previous day I asked Thao, Biastra and Latoli to help me with this Nefertiti situation, as well as with my other past life. Actually, I expressed a desire to meet them physically – if possible. In case some of them (people from Thiaoouba) live on Earth still (as they said to Michel they did). I also said something about seeing Alatora with its bluish aura — as an indicator of me getting the answer from them I think (I guess I didn't record the audio and don't remember the details now because it was a busy day for me). It was the first vision I had in years after my last one. It's not a coincidence, of course, that I saw it during this important moment of my life.

May 2, 2024. I asked HS to show green in a dream if I lived in 1340 BC, and I asked to say the name I had in that life. If I didn't live then, I wanted to hear a bird sing.

There was a moment in a dream when I saw a flock of birds climb a tree and then they darted onto the roof of an old building. As I walked forward, I realized I was barefooted. I looked at the ground and saw the dark grass underneath. Perhaps it was of a dark green color – pretty much the standard color of grass in Russia during the summer. But to be honest I don't remember the color, I just noticed the grass, and grass is supposed to be green. Then one of the birds said something to me in human language (was it Russian or English I don't remember).

After that I started to search for a way to get home and there were other sequences in the dream. Eventually I was near the lake near my house. Two or several girls talked about someone and their teeth. Maybe names were mentioned but I don't remember.

Then I was in a hospital, awaiting my turn to see the dentist. When it was almost my time I realized I don't feel too well and maybe I should leave. I did. I saw Anton in that building too.

As far as I know, the birds never sang. At best their could be chirping when they hastily climbed the tree and the roof, but chirping is not singing.

While I saw the grass, the color of it was at best of a very dark shade of green.

As it is, it's not known if I got the answer. It seems to me for now I've been trained during the last several dreams not to jump to conclusions and be strict in what I consider an answer.

I will also mention that when I first woke up I thought I heard music. I wanted to record that fact but I fell asleep because I was so tired. When in the morning I started to note that fact on audio I realized I never even asked for music to signify anything. So, it was another lesson. And it also proves ones again I don't hear or see in my dreams what I "expect" to hear or see based on my question.

May 5, 2024. I'm marking here that on this date I started to render my videos containing all the information I've gathered till this day.

May 7, 2024. Noting here that several days ago I asked my Higher Self to help me basically – don't remember the exact words. It was about Nefertiti situation. I heard knocks. The knocks were quite close to me this time and they'd repeat. The were near my keyboard, I think. Never happened before. And, importantly, they were in accordance to my thoughts. I started to realize that I never expected to see the absence of orange – knock. And then some more realizations happened too – followed by knocks of confirmation I'm on the right track.

May 8, 2024. Asked my HS to show the photo of my physical body's face which I had in my life I lived in 1785.

There were mentions of Emma Hamilton, but I woke up. Then I saw a static view of a woman with dark hair. There was no movement, but it was also not a photo; and not of a face only. (When I saw Vivien's photo – it was an actual photo of my face in that life.)

Lady Emma Hamilton is said to have auburn hair. And she had blue-grey eyes.

In another dream – the last one — I saw Laurence Olivier's photo album. I viewed his images, I guess. Then I spotted another album, in which Larry had the photos of items – I guess – that he loved or had along with his spouses (he had 3).

One photo said that Vivien and he loved “robots, vino, and (c?)karagua”. I saw some robots there which reminded me of Blade Runner movie. I thought in the dream that I do like wine, yes (although I almost don’t drink). It’s the first time I saw the word karagua. There was also an angel among the shown items. It reminded me of the angel from Twin Peaks: Fire Walk with Me.

Vino is an informal word for wine.

There’s a village https://fr.wikipedia.org/wiki/Karagua in Cameroun.

There’s also a city https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Caraguatatuba in Brazil.

I also found this channel, which has images of toys that may look like small robots https://www.youtube.com/@KaraGua

Thoughts: I don’t think I got the answer today. The static woman was not a photo by definition. I’ll note, though, when I looked at EH’s portraits, “A detail of Emma as La Penserosa, 1791-92, by Sir Thomas Lawrence. Photograph Bryan F Rutledge BADuke of Abercorn”, reminds me of that woman in the dream the most. There are other portraits which show EH with black hair – it’s not surprising because the painter could change the color if it was needed.

Then, after I couldn’t fall asleep for some time after 4 AM, I would realize I’m in a dream but I’d wake up each time I’d try to get control over my body in the dream. Interestingly I’d fall right back to sleep, and this repeat a couple of times. In the first dream I was in the village and saw beautiful clouds between the woods. It was near sunset, but the clouds were more white-yellow than orange-red colors. Eventually I got control when I found myself in the entrance of my Moscow apartment building. There were just walls and window around me. Unfortunately, as often I do it, instead of exploring the dream a bit and rooting myself into it better, I asked my HS right away to create a mirror on the wall to the right from me, showing its size with my hands, and deciding not to turn my head off this time, and I woke up from that dream, but then I fell back to sleep.

May 9, 2024. I asked my HS yesterday to show me the face of Jade. My life in 1530 AD. Music had to mean I’m receiving the answer.

Saw many things and people in my dreams.

I saw Denis from village in one. I was near the spring. Denis was driving a motorcycle. There were other people also before.

In another dream I was as if playing or previewing a movie – in real time. We were taken hostage. Then police cars appeared, surrounding the house we’re in. Inside the criminals don’t seem to give a damn. They keep demanding people to reveal their identity. People are silent. They know they could get killed if they’re the ones the criminals are after.

Then I was in a pool. I almost drowned, I guess; or maybe I just pretended. It was sunny outside. The house had white walls. I thought it was

Los Angeles. Then some guy attacked the woman – who was I before? But then I changed perspectives and became that man? He had a story too, but I don't remember it.

Maybe music played at certain times, but a lot was happening as far as sound is concerned.

Maybe I can't view how I looked in some of my past lives for some reason? I don't know.

There's a direct way of looking at this dream: if the information, in this case, was revealed, it could endanger my life. But it's just a thought.

May 13, 2024. Yesterday, I asked HS to show me the physical body, the face I had in my life as Mary Magdalene. Before, I was cautious, asking questions so as not to say names. But I decided this was a sign of a search for more and more evidence, and then even more. If I make a mistake in my conclusions, I should be corrected — I asked for that too.

In one of my dreams, I saw a girl writing, creating music. Then I heard the music, and the girl was dancing with another girl (on a small wooden boat), whose medium-sized breasts the "camera" zoomed in on. There seemed to be a guy with them. The girl musician was attractive. She was of average height for a girl. Her hair didn't seem too dark or too light — but the details were already blurry.

Then they sank, and while at the bottom, they suddenly discovered they were near an underwater city belonging to another civilization. The girl tried to use gestures to show them that they were sunken and needed help. I don't remember exactly what the answer was, but it seems that civilization got tired of being asked about it again.

Then I probably woke up and then fell asleep again. I was in my apartment, where the furniture was arranged the same way it was when I was at school. The fold-out chair was by the closet. I had a thermal camera on my phone and was thinking about taking a video. It was dark outside. I was filming something, and then I remembered that I needed to record the dream about the girl and the music, and I woke up.

I'll note that this is the first time I've heard music in a dream when it's part of the dream, rather than playing in my head out of nowhere and unexpectedly. Regarding color, I've had moments when colors were a logical part of the dream (green walls), and I've also just suddenly seen something that was some color (green grapes). I think that was the answer after all. But I don't remember much. I don't know which girl's appearance was supposed to be the answer. I think I'll leave attempts to see my past physical bodies for lucid dreams.

Last night, on the 12th, I watched two Asterix and Obelix films. I liked Mission Cleopatra. It was interesting to watch it again, realizing that as a child I was watching a representation of myself, but I didn't even know I was Cleopatra!

There were funny moments, and there were also some similarities to me. Whether these are synchronicities or just coincidences, I don't know.

Notes on synchronicities are recorded here: Asterix Obelix Mission Cleopatra (2002)

May 15, 2024. Didn't ask my HS any questions yesterday. Felt tired. I also wished to have a lucid dream, but I didn't. But I did have a dream shortly before I woke up. It was reassuring, reconfirming me I was Vivien Leigh and came to the right conclusions. I don't remember any details of that dream now, though.

May 17, 2024. Asked my HS if I lived between my lives of Cleopatra and Mary Magdalene. I wanted to hear the name I had in that life and I wanted green light/color to be indicator of me receiving the answer. Orange would mean I didn't live between those lives. I wanted my attention to be drawn to the colors and name.

In the dream I saw https://www.twitch.tv/dmitry_bale catch https://www.twitch.tv/vika_karter . There was a green ui appearing in front of my eyes in full screen, and he had a quick time event of sorts when he had to click on a button to keep Vika stunned. He hit all of them and she could not do anything. At the end there was heard a muffled women's scream.

There was also a guy of quite dark skin. Dmitry talked to him in Spanish.

I don't remember seeing orange.

It feels like an answer, which means I must have lived at least one life between 30 BC and 4 AD – assuming I got the birth date of my Mary's life right.

May 18, 2024. I decided to try acting out the scene from Terminator. The one where Kyle gets bitten by Sarah and he tells her about the Terminator's relentlessness.

Then I tried a little imitation of Brando from A Streetcar Named Desire. It started to work a little.

When I called my mom in the village, my speech was clearly different, more confident — as was my sense of self. Overall, I felt like a different person, and that was a great experience; I'm glad I tried acting.

May 24, 2024. I most likely had a vision when I woke up in the middle of the night. It was black and white. There was noise — like the static on old CRT televisions. I saw a woman's face, which after a while moved off to the side and disappeared from my field of vision. It was normal for me to see it. I felt no discomfort.

My head was tilted on the pillow. I was lying on my cheek, in other words. The vision reflected this fact, and it also seemed to be diagonal, tilted to the side.

The tilt of my head reminded me of how I tilted my head when I saw the first parallels (synchronicities) with my past life as Vivien, and one of them concerned my photo from VL's life, where I tilt my head the same way.

May 26, 2024. Yesterday, I told HS that I wouldn't ask questions for a few days because I wanted to try to have a lucid dream and then ask a question in that dream. I said that if I wasn't destined to have a lucid dream, then HS could, at its own discretion — if necessary — show me true dreams. Like how I had true dreams about my lives of Vivien Leigh, Michele Avila, and Emma Hamilton.

I had many dreams. I also woke up many times to go to the bathroom. The zucchini and buckwheat porridge were clearly very saturated with water.

One of the first dreams contained references to my past lives. I think Hypatia was one of them.

Then I had many dreams about IT, after which I woke up. I think I could have gained control in one of those dreams, but because of the subject matter, I didn't.

In one of those dreams, I again had the idea/thought in the dream that IT was me. During that thought, I saw a dark corner, as far as I remember.

In another dream, I seemed to be in a girl's body. There was something about an orange car that was wrecked by my father (not mine from my current life). Then we were in the car, which no longer had any visible damage. In that dream, my father drove along the path past the school fence and the tram tracks. We pulled out onto Khalturinskaya Street near the school. The car was at the car wash, and I discovered a purple stuffed animal (a teddy bear?). Neither my mother nor my father gave it to me, I think. This was a sign that the toy had appeared on its own, or... I threw it in the trash can, tossing it out the window of the car that was pulling up to the clinic. My house was next to it. I realized that I was one of the few who lived in their own house, not an apartment. I remember that, apparently, the fact that I threw the toy away contributed to the house being illuminated by additional rays of sunlight. But part of it was still in shadow. The scene changed. Perhaps I was at school, walking along the desks to the back of the classroom. One area was pitch dark, from which a large monster head — IT — suddenly emerged, saying something. I woke up in surprise.

In another dream, I was walking through a pipe made of different white heads. I thought one of those heads might be IT, so I decided to wake up.

In another dream, I was again either a girl or watching from a girl's perspective. There were monsters in that dream, but they weren't scary. One of them got stuck in the doorway. By that point, another one had apparently caught me, but what it was doing to me was unclear. Daylight had broken, and I was packing some things. I remember going into someone's house and rummaging through all the drawers. I found two rings in different drawers. Perhaps there was a girl in the house. Dusk was falling, and I needed to get home before dark. It got even darker, and I decided to run upstairs — even though I knew it was better not to move. I was in bed, and soon I saw on the floor what looked like a monster or a person, more like a corpse. I woke up.

Yesterday I decided not to download The Omen, but I watched Total Recall with Arnie. No big deal. I couldn't understand why I started dreaming about IT again, when I just want to know something.

Then I thought about why “I am IT.” I'm clearly not a monster. I'm clearly not a murderer — even if those mistakes were made in a very distant past life. I thought, what does IT do? IT scares. That is, I scare [myself]. That's true. In some lucid dreams, I was afraid of what or who might be near me. Because of this, I woke up, or even tried to wake up in my very first lucid dream. I just need to perceive everything in dreams as it is. If I'm confident, remember that this is a dream, and that I'm not in any danger, then everything should be fine. Essentially, it's the opposite of fear (and that's how the characters in the movie and book IT defeat the monster).

Bill Skarsgård played IT in recent movies. Just noting I’ve a scar on my lip.

Update of August 2, 2026. Later I’d find that I was hermaphrodite in some of my lives. Thao told Michel D. he could make use of the neuter gender of English and think of them as “it” because they are hermaphrodites.

May 30, 2024. Yesterday I asked my Higher Self if Lacotina is used in any way when I receive answers to my questions to it (my Higher Self) in dreams. If it is used, I wanted to hear music in that night's dream. If it isn't used, I wanted to hear a bird singing.

It was hot outside, and the window was open all night for the first time. I thought that even though I hadn't heard any birds at 11 PM, they might start singing in the morning. Would I be able to distinguish a bird singing in reality from a bird singing in a dream?

I woke up, and it was probably around 4 AM. I was sleepy and also wanted to go to the bathroom. Birds were singing outside, and I thought I hadn't received an answer in the dream.

I think I dozed off and had a dream in which I got out of bed and went to the window. There were puddles outside after the rain. Birds, it seemed, were singing. Then I remember lying in bed and asking my Higher Self to change/ edit the question. I asked to see green if it was used, and red if it wasn't. Speaking of red, I must have been thinking about the red balloon of IT. A second later, I actually saw the red balloon and Pennywise (from the new movies).

I woke up and realized I'd fallen asleep. Going to the window, I didn't see any puddles. Everything was dry. Then I wondered if I'd heard birds in my dream, too. In that case, I'd gotten two answers, both saying Lacotina wasn't used.

I also wondered if I'd woken up at all. Most likely, I had, but I'd fallen asleep again very quickly.

May 31, 2024. Yesterday asked my HS: if my father lived when I lived my life of Emma H., and if our lives interconnected then, what was his name. Yellow was to be the indicator.

I'm not sure if I got an answer. I did see a dream in which maybe the yellow was lighting up the room (but it's very, very questionable if yellow was the color). It was about someone being the same person – same identity. I may have heard the name 'Elliot' (reference to Rodger), and there was something about murders. But I don't remember if the same person was the criminal, or the victim (maybe there was something about a family).

I also remember looking at something on my computer screen. Then I was in the airduct above. This is how I got to another apartment and had that narration about the same person. Then the people who made me go into the ducts returned and I realized I can't just walk out in front of them, and so I tried to go back into the air shaft on the ceiling. It was weird and I think I thought it impossible to get into that tiny space (even though I did come out of it – it is a dream with flexible ever-changing environment)

In the book about EH – by Flora Fraser – the name 'Elliot' appears 33 times. As I read on, I'll have to pay attention to that name.

Overall, I don't know if it was the answer. The name is blurry in my mind.

June

June 1, 2024. I woke up in the middle of the night while it was still dark. I decided to ask my Higher Self if I lived other lives which are known to history and about which information could be found online — besides the ones I knew about (in my mind, I was referring to the six identified lives and Jade). Music — yes; animal mouth sounds — no.

Before waking up, I heard "Here With Me" song, but I don't remember who performed it. Before that, while I was half asleep, I also heard a loud truck hauling trash, and the dream wasn't very clear.

June 2, 2024. Asked HS this: when I was Hypatia, if I lived and was conscious and aware of what was happening to me when my body was dismembered, I wanted to see red in a dream. If I was either dead or unconscious and the dismemberment didn't affect my astral body or psyche then I wanted to see blue.

In the end of my dreams I had the camera zoom onto a woman's dress – near her chest area – and the blue was predominant color. Maybe there were other colors too, possibly including reds (but if there was, the amount was very small). I was under the impression that Thunderf00t was holding the camera and recording; he recorded himself in the mirror too, being totally naked.

I note this mainly because of the zoom effect which probably was done to draw my attention.

I will note here that lately I'd be in a certain mood and I'd immediately connect to a photo of me as Vivien Leigh, realizing this is same mood I experienced when that picture was taken.

A similar thing happened before, when I was waking up, feeling good and happy, and realized right away this is how I felt during the GWtW scene when Scarlett wakes up happy after Rhett had s*x with her (some call it a different word, and to some degree they're correct).

June 21, 2024. Days before the same thing happened with a Missy photo where I touch another person on the back or shoulder. I was in my kitchen catching cockroaches and I suddenly realized I'm in the mood and thought arrangement I must have been when that Missy photo was taken.

June 10, 2024. My question about whether I was a virgin in Hypatia's life (except for the last day) remained, it seems, unanswered. But I had a dream that hinted once again that I was Cleopatra. First, I was mentioned in the news, called Queen Cleopatra, and I began to better identify with that life. Then I was already in another (apparently) subsequent life, in which I probably asked (I was a girl) who Cleopatra was, and someone (a guy, I think) said something like, "Who, who – [it's] you!" or something like that.

June 11, 2024. I asked my HS yesterday if in my Vivien Leigh's life I had al s*x. Violet – yes; Orange – no. I asked my attention to be drawn to the color.

I was on a plane and saw a twister which was light orange in color. The planet's dusty atmosphere was also of light orange tint. My attention was drawn to the twister.

June 12, 2024. Yesterday I asked my Higher Self to say the names of people with whom I share my Higher Self (itself). I wished that my attention is drawn to those names, and I said I won't ask for any specific colors or sounds as indicators of an answer this time. I left it for my HS to decide how to bring the answer to my attention – if it's allowed to reveal the names to me of course.

I had a dream in which I think I heard Dist and some other names. I think then I was in another dream, remembering how I heard Dist in my previous dream. (https://www.twitch.tv/distortion2)

After the last dream I woke up and I had realization/idea that I heard the name Garbo. That last dream had a woman with whom I was kissing (it's not entirely unplausible she looked similar to Greta Garbo). Before I was telling her about some scammer and the fact he probably left his small rented office in the Cherkizovsky market (it's been demolished for several days in reality). Some customers of hers came in and I said I'd wait outside. But when I walked out to my car (blue; don't have a car irl) I decided to cross the road to the market in search of that office. I never found it. When I was there a man called me and said he was the husband of [don't remember the name]; and I thought he was referring to that woman I'd just kissed with. Her name, I think, was mentioned several times before too.

I decided to look up some info about Garbo. Her father died when she was 14. But most importantly she became US citizen (and stopped being Swedish one) on the exactly the same day my mother was born – 9-th February, 1951!

She was Nominated for 4 Oscars. 11 wins & 7 nominations total.

She was in 33 movies. (28 feature films)

She was in the business for 21 years (1920-1941).

She played Russians; and she played Anna Karenina (as did I in VL life)

She played a Queen – Christina. I can only wonder atm if she played herself too. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Christina,_Queen_of_Sweden https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Queen_Christina_(film) https://www.imdb.com/title/tt0024481/?ref_=nm_knf_t_4

She said she always had mood swings. Some say she could have been bi polar.

Feared of strangers. (on Wiki it's phrased a bit differently: "As early as I can remember, I have wanted to be alone. I've always been moody. I detest crowds, I don't like many people.")

She invested in many stocks and bonds.

There are some indirect and direct interconnections in my VL life with Garbo (we've met once at Cukor's party).

She had depressions. Some issues with expressing her identity. (has some connection to myself)

There are many hints of similarities between us.

She died on April 15, 1990. Titanic sank on April 15, 1912. Noting it in case the ideas I have about the possible life just before VL will be confirmed one day.

This warrants to try to ask my HS later a direct question if the actress

Greta Garbo and I as Vivien Leigh shared the same HS (in case she moved to the 2nd category and now has another HS)

And I wanna note with Nefertiti I also had the idea I heard her name (Nefertiti) when I woke up. These two cases are similar.

June 13, 2024. I specifically asked HS if the actress Greta Garbo shared the same Higher Self with me — or rather, if this was a fact when I lived my life of Vivien Leigh. Music — yes, orange — no. Drawing my attention in both cases.

I didn't see orange. As for music, it's more complicated because I was very sleepy and everything was very blurry. Several times I felt like music might have been part of my dreams.

I read a bit more about Garbo today. If what they say is true then she should be of the 1-st category still. Maybe this is why I didn't get a direct answer – because I could have figured it out by myself.

June 18, 2024. I addressed my HS, telling it that I thought about Higher Selves more, and I came to the idea that the chain of Higher Selves won't have more than original 9 Astral bodies which are initially part of the HS of the 1-st category. If a soul rejoins the Spirit a new soul won't become a part of the Higher Self of the 1-st category. All Astral Bodies have their Higher Selves already, but some have to wait when it's their time to live.

Green would mean it's correct, red would mean it's not.

Just before waking up I saw the grass being cut again, and there was a yellow iris too, which was small in size in my view – grass filled the rest.

In reality the grass was actually being cut somewhere in the distance. Maybe the iris was there to show me that it is a dream and I do get my answer.

June 19, 2024. I asked my HS if the soul (Astral body) who lived in the body of the actress Greta Garbo and my own soul (Astral body) share, have the same Higher Self – "you", I said. Фиолетовый (violet and purple's also called that in Russian) and a song/music accompanying it = this is correct, yes; Orange and I hear a bird at the same time = this is not correct, no.

Shortly before waking up in the morning I saw myself visiting Facebook and noticing my profile picture, which has violet/purple colors in it, and I definitely heard the "Capybara" song (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8Pj-YEQbojk).

I don't remember noticing orange or hearing birds.

It looks like Greta Garbo's soul is my Astral relative.

June 13, 2024. I think of asking my HS for the name of the soul of the HS of the 9-th category in my chain of Higher Selves. And how they call the planet they live on (could be Thiaoouba). The same could be done with the 8-th. I noted that Moses lived on a planet Naxiti of the 8-th category, and I wonder if the souls of the 8-th category in my chain of HS' are assigned to that planet also.

June 15, 2024. I did ask just that yesterday before going to bed. I also said briefly that my thought is that each of the next Higher Selves (2-cat … 9-th category) also have souls assigned/attached to them. And I asked if maybe it would be possible to reveal the name the same way it was with Garbo & Nefertiti – me having the name/word in my mind upon waking up.

Red = that soul doesn't live currently (with its HS).

Green = I made a mistake somewhere in my theory (misunderstand something) about the chain of my Higher Selves.

I asked my attention to be drawn to the colors.

I've seen either several dreams or it were different scenes of one dream. I did wake up 2 times.

In one episode I saw bombs being dropped and parachuted down. I and a couple of others were watching for them through the trees and covering. So, there's possibility I saw green – but it's subtle.

I don't remember ever seeing red.

In another episode I saw someone paint in white coal on a black board which was standing on the street. I think it was 'W', or maybe 'M'. He was chased then by a group of people. I was on a motorbike, I think, and I guess I was standing on the crossroad near the dogrose and chestnut trees. Don't know if I saw green. Someone (Olay maybe? My aunt's daughter) was giving me something. Then I needed to drive to my father's apartment, but when I was about to drive out onto the road near the left of the 20-th building, I realized I forgot how to drive. So I turned around and drove to the entrance of my house. As I was doing that I realized the buttons on the handles are so tiny it's very difficult to press them. I think I used turning signals when I was turning the corners.

As I was walking to my apartment there were some people but the details are blurry.

Pandus – may be the word I heard just when I woke up. But it wasn't the same experience as with Garbo/Nefertiti.

Upon reflecting about all this, I came to this idea to ask my HS for verification: My thoughts are such that maybe there are 9 souls per all 9 Higher Selves. No new souls are ever assigned to the Higher Selves even when one of the souls rejoins the Spirit; because otherwise it would mean those new souls needed to wait somewhere other than with their Higher Self (Thiaoouba Prophecy says a souls must be either in the physical body or with its Higher Self). When the last soul rejoins the Spirit, it's possible the Higher Selves rejoin it also; maybe the lower category Higher Selves do it sooner once their souls have progressed further.

If so, then it's of interest to know if the souls of the 1-st category HS start living relatively simultaneously, or there could be a huge gap in time

(thousands of years). It may also mean that some souls have to advance quickly in their spiritual growth, while others have to be stubborn. This is because the Higher Self of the 9-th category monitors just 1 soul – so others have to wait (possibly living on other planets if they have something to learn there still) while that soul finishes its life cycles and rejoins the Spirit.

It also means there are many 'dormant' Higher Selves who, along with its 9 souls, await when it's going to be their time to live (souls) and filter the sensations (HS).

June 20, 2024. Asked my HS to say the name of another soul who shares the same HS as me and the soul of Greta – in case there's something that can be found about that soul on the Internet. Orange was the color to tell me I'm getting the answer.

I saw a name appear and being spoken (I think "C" was the first letter), some blonde girl (white hair). Then I guess it was said/shown she died on 6 of June, 1990.

My father was born on June 7, 1959; while researching this, I found Rex Harrison's granddaughter was born and died in the same year as my father, and she was 59 too, and she died exactly 33 years after my Michele A. death on October 1.

"Most Popular Song in Europe Each Month of the '80s"

I realized when it was 83-84 that I was living then in my other life of Missy. I loved music in that life, and now I was wondering if I heard these songs in that life. Did I like them?

I got a bit uneasy for some reason as the months approached October of 85. Closer and closer to one of my deaths. What would be the song for that month, I thought.

Tarzan Boy by Baltimora was the song of September. Just previously I noticed it and thought/imagined if it will ever be a synchronicity for Maureen O'Sullivan's soul in one of her new physical bodies?

Then, the October's song was revealed to be Sandra – Maria Magdalena (it starts playing when it's still 7:00 minutes into the video). It was a special experience which I won't be able to properly describe in words here.

Might be reaching here, but Live to Tell by Madonna appeared 7 months later on May of 1986.

June 23, 2024. Practiced telekinesis for 10-15 minutes. At the end I managed to clear my mind of noise and return my awareness to reality. It showed in my telekinesis because the end of the thread would go much further than before.

June 26, 2024. If I lived during the time of William Shakespeare, what was my name in that life? I asked to pronounce my name and write it in Latin or Russian letters, if possible.

I dreamed of green grass (an indicator color) in a village – where Liza and Klava used to grow potatoes; in the dream, a bush of some kind sprouted and survived there (I don't remember the name. Perhaps it begins with an M). Perhaps there was a green tram that hit an elderly woman.

Interestingly, at one point the conversation definitely revolved around Hypatia – but I lived that life a long time ago.

June 27, 2024. The night before I asked my HS if Distortion, the streamer, had the same Higher Self as me – shared "you" (my HS). Violet was to be the indicator of my confirming answer. If he didn't have the same HS as me then I wanted to see green. If he had a HS in my chain of Higher Selves – so his soul is of higher category and he lives on Earth for some reason – then I wanted to see orange.

In the last dream I was shopping in a cloths store. I chose a purple dress. There was a thought about me being Vivien Leigh and wearing a similarly colored dress in GWtW. I went to the checkout desk and there I asked the cashier if she personally would call this color violet or purple/ She said purple (пурпурный). Then I for some reason went to pay for the dress in another window (in the dream it all seemed normal).

Before, there were other dreams. In one I was able to walk outside around my house, finally. I went to a store which had different items for the house (as it was before irl). I carried an empty basket with me in case I'd buy something. It's possible there were orangy tools there but it's subtle. Perhaps they were more to the reddish hue.

Don't remember greens.

Yesterday, when watching Dist's stream I did notice certain similarities in what we have to learn in life. With Greta Garbo there were similar similarities.

June 28, 2024. I asked my HS if when I ask for violet [in Russian language] it can show me purple color because in Russia some people call it violet? I pointed to the violet and purple colors on my phone's screen, indicating which color I mean.

Violet = yes; orange = no, my HS would only show violet if I ask for it.

Don't suppose I saw any of those colors. It's possible I needed to save them as separate files with identifiable names – as it would be in a contract (it's what I suppose happened. I asked for violet, but in Russia that color is also called purple).

June 30, 2024. I did ask my HS the same question with addition of me saving 2 files with violet and purple colors and naming them when describing which color I want to see.

There was something about a man with glasses. He put them on and could see something. He didn't know what his wife looked like and some other strange things happened.

In one dream I needed to get out of the elevator unnoticed. There was my double near me (or something like that) and we used that for me to get outside while the other me is hiding on top of the elevator. The reasoning was that the people waiting, and whom, I needed to pass by, wouldn't catch me, and thinking there's no one else coming they'd leave.

I waited for Anton to come outside. When he did he said something about my cloth, calling it rose – or maybe other color. I asked if he meant the purple color because it's what I wear. Love this color.

Then there was a dream reminding me of Starship Troopers movie. The bugs were shown and someone said "a good bug is a dead bug!" as I saw the bugs getting killed. I thought to myself if it was a mistake to say that, even though it was a movie. After, we came to the main bug and extracted its tongue. It gave some power or something. Then I saw the sets of the movie and I thought to myself how good it'd be (or was) to work and act among them in this movie. Then there was a kind of narration, asking if it could be used by power hungry people to tip the people (as in the balance) of divided country to get the power. To have a coup in the country. Two names were said, the word dictator was used, naming the real people who could do that, and I as if knew and maybe feared what the next name would be. Cleopatra – says one. The other repeats – Cleopatra. (It was 6:33 when I was recording this line.) Not yet knowing it's a dream, I feel upset. Yes, I did make those mistakes to get power (in my past life). I thought why did people follow me then, and if I paid for all the errors made in that life.

Maybe then I was in my village, and I thought do they (people there) really not believe me still? Maybe there was a reference to Missy. Some people I knew in that life may be kinda similar to those village friends of my childhood.

July

July 1, 2024. Yesterday I asked my Higher Self the rephrased question from the day before – to show me in my dream something about my past life of Cleopatra.

In one of the dreams there was a brief mention about Cleopatra and, I think, how her actions helped economy (the other details are blurry).

I should be living my 44-th life (based on what the dream told me), which means I've had 88 parents; 44 mothers and 44 fathers. I was born in 1988 and I like that number. I use it in my twitch nickname.

Update of March 26, 2026 Given what I know about my first life, and some others, there could have been fewer parents.

July 2, 2024. Asked my HS if the blonde girl from my dream in which her throat was  by a man was my past body in my past life. Indigo = yes, orange = no.

In the last dream I saw orangy chupa chups two people were licking on. The discussion revolved around the space travel between stars and those candys represented the suns, I think. Before there was something about a book with important knowledge coming out and I started reading it. Some chapters were in red color.

I don't suppose I saw any indigo in any of my dreams. I'd need to ask the same question about the man who met the same destiny.

July 3, 2024. Asked HS if the soul of the streamer Distortion2 used to be the actress Greta Garbo. Indigo light/color = yes, green = no.

I saw an egg hatching and its shell was of indigo color.

We seem to like quite similar music too.

EDIT: His bd is in July. Same as me.

He likes Twin Peaks. Same as me.

July 4, 2024. Asked the same question (July 2) about the second dream with the man and the blue car. Don't suppose I got any answers. Probably because the answer is the same as with the blonde girl.

But what was the reason behind those dreams? Might ask it someday.

July 6, 2024. Re-asked the question I asked the night before but differently because I didn't seem to get the answer, and I thought maybe it's because I only mentioned Greta and not Dist. If the soul with whom I share my HS and who lived as the actress Greta Garbo and now lives as the streamer Distortion2 lived in 1650, then what was the name of its physical body in that life? Green would mean I get the answer, yellow would mean it didn't live then.

At one point in the dream I was walking out from school and I think it was Ignatov who attacked me basically. He said something to me. There was another person too with him. Somehow, I ended up killing them or something like that. The environment was quite dark.

I was walking down the road between the school and the 14-th building on our street. My breath was heavy. I wanted to cross the tram lines but there was lots of snow and the usual path was nowhere to be seen. So I walk on, thinking about going along the rails. There's a woman walking the dog, I think. There was some issue with the dog maybe, who charged at me.

I walk on and arrive to the spot near the fir and chestnut trees. I spot military looking people dressed in green uniform. They stand along the parking lot. I think it may be related to what I had done moments ago. I want to go and walk a bit on the opposite side of the tram rails but I see more of those people. I turn back and walk home. Slowly. There's a man in front of me and I try to as if hide behind his back. One of the military people looks at me and maybe somehow gestures to me. But I keep walking.

Don't suppose I saw any yellows. And I don't know if any names were mentioned.

There was another dream. Something to do with newspaper article. I tried to glue the pieces of paper together. I was standing in front of my house. Don't remember what it was about or about whom.

It seems like Dist's birthday is on July 6.

July 7, 2024. Asked HS if I lived during the time Queen Christina lived (who lived in 1650 and whom Greta played), then I wanted to know what my name was in that life. If I lived several lives during her lifetime, then maybe it'd be possible to list them. Indigo – I'm receiving an answer. Orange – I didn't live then. Asked my attention to be drawn to whatever I'd be getting.

"Abraham ..s", I think, is what I saw and maybe heard in one of my dreams. I don't remember the last name; guess it ended with an 's', and it was several letters long. The idea was that that person listed my apartment for lease on a real estate website or something. If it was the answer, it could be because it's me. Maybe I saw some indigo colors. I need to ask for other colors which I know well, I think.

In another dream I got a bit of lucidity, but woke up – probably because of the noisy trams going left and right. Before that we played basketball. I don't suppose the ball was orange, but maybe it was. The guys, one of whom was Anton, I guess, started to friendly fight and fell on the floor of the girls' bathroom. It's then that I went to the window, saw probably lilac with its leaves and flowers covered with snow, and here I started to realize it's a dream. I turned around after a while and woke up shortly after.

I'd need to ask the q again with this new information.

July 9, 2024. Before going to bed, I asked my HS to say how many lives I've lived in female bodies. I said it's up to my HS how to indicate to me I'm getting an answer.

In one of the dreams I saw Bruce Willis. He was in trouble. Some hostile people wanted to do harm, and they were also waiting for his wife to re her and then do away with her.

Another weirdness involved toy soldiers-like animatrons who spanked each other or themselves with a kind of a cymbal (In a painting of Emma H. I hold 2 of those instruments in hands). All went to bed to sleep. I'll note at one point the pov changed to Bruce Willis' – so I was kinda him and it's me who got cornered by 2 evil guys. Bruce took his chance and got out of bed. I remember then his wife came to the place, and she reminded me of Olay who lives (or lived at least) in my apartment building. She was red haired, with small breasts, rather thin – essentially it may have been her (Olya). They started kissing I guess, and I had the realization of danger for her – what the evil guys had in mind for her.

Bruce Willis has played a role in my life. He stammered and once in my life I thought the knowledge could help me with my speech. I had a nickname Sonny Hudson and one person in YouTube comments said something like "If you're Sonny Hudson, then I'm Bruce Willis". The funny thing is we both could have had those names; it's just that some people pay too much attention to VIPs, not looking at what is behind the appearances.

Olya was 30 when I started chatting with her. It's the only [important] number I can remember her writing to me.

If it's the answer, then I'm living my 14-th life in a male's physical body. This number did appear in my life. It's double of 7, and it's half of 28 – other numbers which have played their roles in my soul's life.

July 10, 2024. Asked HS if I live my 14-th life in a male body. Music = yes, animal oral sound = no.

Woke up with a subtle memory/idea of a song: "Don't you want somebody to love" (Somebody to Love by Jefferson Airplane; recorded in 1966, released in February of 1967. It's been a very, very long time since I heard this song). I was in my village house. In the last dream I, during one scene, was starting to watch a movie with me (VL). I didn't have the lead role even though the cover had the photo of me only. Letters were colored red, and I rewound to see my name – Vivien Leigh. Usually there's a song during the opening of old movies, but I don't remember actually hearing it within the dream.

There was a scene in which I was going to the back field road. I found something on the ground and tried to remove the dirt from it by hitting the thing. It's reminiscent of a smashed aluminum can.

Another scene included s*x or attempt at it with some of my old acquaintances.

July 11, 2024. Asked my HS if in my past life of Emma Hamilton I did have, what some could call, sexual or lesbian relationship with the Queen Maria Carolina (Flora Fraser wrote there were rumors of that). Animal oral sound = yes, music = no.

I saw a German Shepherd (dog) in my dream. The dog was running in front of me while I was riding a bicycle in a park. I drove on a wooden path. Apparently, I walked there with Yana before (irl there was no such thing). The thing is I don't remember the dog barking or making other sounds, but maybe it did produce them.

After waking up I re-asked the question anew. Orange = yes, green = no.

At one point someone used a spell, producing definitely yellowish colors, to get to travel in the air to the other building. But it wasn't orange, I think.

There was a dream before in which I saw birds but they were silent; and if they weren't they'd probably be chirping not singing. Here I saw a dog capable of producing the sound which would indicate an answer to me.

Maybe I'll get back to this later. But it seems like the rumors could be true. I did have certain similar experiences in my life when I was little and didn't understand what we were doing. Could have been the actual penalty for my EH actions (before I attributed it to my VL life's activities. It could be compound too)

I didn't hear any music in my first dream. Don't remember any greens in my second one.

I'll note that Greta Garbo was given a pup of the same breed (German shepherd). May be a reason why such a dog was used to appear in my dream; but it may be something else entirely.

In other dream I realized that my worldview have changed 3 times in this life.

1 When I learned about the truth behind stuttering.

2 When I discovered Thiaoouba Prophecy, quickly learning it is a true book and so very and very important.

3 When I learned who I was in my past lives (reincarnation). One of lives was that of Mary Magdalene, finally answering the question why I had my experiences with Thiaooubians (Thao, Biastra, Latoli)

July 28, 2024. Yesterday asked HS regarding this dream. I asked if the dog barked or produced other sounds with its mouth. Green = yes, and for no I asked to see a bird in a dream. Asked my attention to be drawn on either of the indicators.

In one dream I had a little realization that I'm in a dream. Maybe I got lucid just a tiny bit. I was walking in a building through several rooms and doors. Returning back and stopped at the staircase and touched the finial in a form of a bird. Its body was yellow with some other color (not green).

In another dream I was in a store and the doors got closed and blocked by guards. There was training going on (kind of like military drills). When we were allowed to go as we please, I went to the store. I was looking at cans with peas which were yellowish in color (irl they'd be green).

July 14, 2024. Asked HS if it's possible to resurrect animals and birds. Similarly, or close, how it's possible to resurrect a human being if 3 days have not passed after the death. I clarified – if a bird, a pigeon etc, has just died (minutes ago), can it be resurrected? Green = yes, Orange = no. Asked to draw my attention to the color which I'd be seeing - to remember the episode of my dream.

In one of dreams I went to a store to get a watermelon. Its shell was dark green, of course. All of them were huge and I decided not to get any and went out. I think the store was either where the flower store is, or where the 5 is. (That scene had no influence on the rest of the dream. If it was a movie it'd be cut. So I literally went to that store – or was led to it – to get my answer)

Before that I went out with someone from a building where there used to be a law firm. A guy could hear us in the booth. Maybe Sergey from village was with me (before he maybe was with Natasha) and at one point he made reference to a dog and I didn't talk to him (kept silent/ignored him) after.

I woke up and recorded my dream. The night was young and I asked a follow up question.

My answer was clear. But how to do it? The animal can be resurrected if it can help someone. Is it correct? Orange = yes, blue = no.

Either in the later dream, or maybe I woke up, thought this thought, and then fell asleep – but I did think that I saw orange in my dream, and so I got my answer.

I decided to ask a new follow up question which I had posed in my mind. I opened the voice recorder app and hit red record button… Do I have to touch the dead animal/bird I wish to resurrect, or can I just point at it in order to resurrect it if it'll help someone? Yes = lilac color, no = red.

Only when I woke up I realized that I asked that question in my dream. I decided to repeat the exact same question in reality, doing and saying almost exactly what I did in my dream. Unfortunately, I never fell asleep again (it was 5 AM).

Irl I tried to see if I could resurrect dead pigeons (only 2) I came across in the last year by pointing finger in their direction and asking my HS to resurrect them if it can do so - nothing. The last question is important because I'd rather not touch dead animals/birds.

July 17, 2024. Told HS that perhaps I didn't get the answer to my previous question – do I need to touch a dead body or not when attempting to resurrect it – because I can figure out the logical answer myself. Which is touching a dead body that was decomposing for a couple of days isn't very hygienic (may lead to you getting diseases, etc). So just pointing at a dead body to identify it for Higher Selves is enough to resurrect someone. Music = it's correct, red color/light = not correct.

There was a scene in my dream where I was in the corridor of my apartment and there was a fight between a terminator and a large man (reminded me of Jesse Ventura and it might have been him). I noticed how the terminator would never turn to face me – so I never was able to see its red eyes (if they were visible from the blows). And I think there was music playing (in movies you'd expect to hear music during such scenes); I think I remember a sound which could have been ride cymbal (if so then it could relate to 1 of my Emma H. paintings in which I hold cymbals).

Before there was a dream in which I and my dad walked through a women's store, which I think had purple clothes (not red).

The fact red (terminator's eyes) was specifically hidden from me could mean to teach me that sometimes lack of a color can also be an answer – the opposite answer. Seeing red would mean I was wrong, and knowing there is red and being prevented from seeing it would mean I am correct.

Anyway, I think there was music too, but the totally unexpected visuals and the intensity of the fight took a lot of my attention.

I'd have to know whom my Higher Self should transfer my wish to resurrect an animal. In case with humans, it's directed to the Higher Self of the deceased. Essentially, I'm opening the door to the question Michel D. never asked – animal spiritual evolution (if there is such a thing).

July 18, 2024. To resurrect a person, as far as I know, we need to ask our HS to conduct the message to the HS of the deceased that we want to resurrect him; it's the HS of the dead person who does the resurrection, not our HS. I asked HS to tell or show me – if it can – what should I do if I want to resurrect an animal? Whom should I ask to resurrect it? Do animals have some analogue of HS? Do I ask my HS and then it does all that is necessary for the resurrection of the dead animal? I said that if my Higher Self can't give me a whole direct answer (as is expected, of course), maybe my HS can give me some nudge, some idea regarding my question, and we'll go from there; Perhaps I'll understand something else about the process of resurrection. Gold color = indicator I'm getting the answer.

In the last dream before I woke up I saw a video titles something like mockery of a piano. I clicked to watch it; it was 1 minute + long. I saw a golden metal tear-like object be lowered into a white tube (plastic maybe). The idea was the key it that it hangs above becomes polyphonic (as in modern midi-keyboards with polyphonic aftertouch [not mono aftertouch], when you can press many keys simultaneously and add additional pressure to one key of that set only to apply after touch to that individual key [not to all keys as with mono aftertouch]). The keys of the piano were pressed but there was no sound. I don't remember a lot of details, and the narration is also blurry.

The dream must have been an answer. I saw gold in it (first time I see gold in a dream probably – as far as I remember at least), and the whole polyphonic aftertouch idea is certainly in line with the Spirit receiving sensations from multiple parts of itself (different souls, people, etc.).

The meaning is something I'd need to ponder about.

A note about a ginger pigeon I tried to resurrect days ago. A woman feeds pigeons each day not far from my windows. I noticed 2 or 3 ginger pigeons long time ago, thinking how few of them are out there. With that pigeon death I thought only 1 ginger pigeon remained now… then I saw a second one, and after a third. Of course, these could be the grown-up babies; I don't watch those pigeons each day. But it did remind me of how I tried resurrecting a drowned spider many years ago and when after a few minutes I went to check on it the spider wasn't there. In both cases it can be explained: the spider got eaten or dragged by a dog which definitely walked by; the body of the ginger pigeon was picked up by the street cleaner. But then I sometimes wonder if maybe it was resurrected after all – not instantly, but minutes or hours after I asked my HS to do it if it can?

July 19, 2024. Yesterday my phone broke – won't turn on. Ordered a new one (Pixel 8a). If all goes well, it's going to arrive with Android 14, and my old phone had the 7-th version.

It has 64-megapixel main camera (8*8). The other one is 13 MP. The reason I pay attention to this is because before I considered buying a phone with good camera and large sensor so that I don't need a new digital camera, but I decided since phones can break just like that I'll just buy a mid-range phone.

The day before the phone arrived the old Samsung A5 went back to life but I didn't cancel my new phone order. On the morning after it broke I did see that Google announced Pixel 9 but since it'd cost a lot at launch decided to just buy a new phone.

July 21, 2024. In a dream saw red and green stripes – same colors as on Freddy Krueger's sweater. I saw his face too. Maybe I was half awake at the time. I attribute this to the fact I gave too much attention (or energy) to a person whom I banned in TPXP for writing lies about me on my post about animal resurrection.

Then in many of my dreams I was in different physical bodies. One had slightly darker skin (could have been Missy). Then I saw a woman (whom I probably never seen before) and then my pov changed to hers.

I attribute these dreams to me asking my HS if maybe it wanted to show me some of my other physical bodies from my past lives – the same way I saw my body of Cleopatra and of a man. But the thing is it seems like I never saw myself in a mirror in my dreams tonight. I might have asked the question the wrong way. All lives are important in their own way…

July 22, 2024. Asked HS to let me know how my voice sounded like in my other life – in the ones my HS would deem necessary to reveal to me. Asked it'd be good if I'd watch the scenes from the 1-st person perspective. And if it's a 3-rd, then at on point to change pov to 1-st so that I know it's me in my other life.

I did hear many voices and it seems I was many 'other' people in my dreams tonight. One which I remember somewhat has to do with a sunken ship which for some reason was sailing on the water's surface rather quickly. It could have been Titanic too. I was as if playing the role of the woman from Cameron's The Abyss (but I think I had blonde, if not white, hair | Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio — Lindsey Brigman), and there was also a man there (similar to the movie). We were also separated and the ship situation got us a chance to reunite on my submarine (again, similar to the movie).

July 25, 2024. Didn't ask any questions before going to bed. I did see a dream which has connections to my past life of VL.

In one scene there was something about me appearing out of the blue and getting the main role/part or something like that (reference to Gone with the Wind). Then I played pool and, when it no longer mattered for I won I guess, I hit the ball several times trying to get the dark one into the corner hole it was lying just in front of.

Other sequence was weirder. There was a blonde woman who I at first thought was LA's mayor. She was on tv or something and started undressing. At first, she just showed her right breast. Later she took off almost everything (or all?) and when I thought she wouldn't be showing her private parts she did by bending over in front of a camera showing everything. Then it became clear (from some article) that she was a model or something at Planet Hollywood (I thought it was a gym I guess). Her name was something starting with F (I guess) and her last name was long and made up of 2 names it seemed like and I remember 'jaja' was in it (maybe it spelled a bit differently).

I woke up and decided to google the name and then the PH. There is actually Planet Hollywood – it's a restaurant chain. Celebrities were hired to back it up. One of was is Ringo Starr; there's a photo of me (VL) standing with him near a plane (12-th June 1964). So I read about him a bit. His wife's name was Maureen Cox (same as Maureen O'Sullivan had). He's 3 children. One is Zak (as Zak Bagans from Ghost Adventures). His other son is Jason. His daughter is Lee Starkey who co-founded an LA boutique called Planet Alice for 60-s inspired fashion. She had to battle cancer (brain tumour).

Courteney Cox from Scream by Wes Craven (Nightmare sync)

Planet Alice and Planet Hollywood

Cancer is what I thought yesterday. My brain hurts sometimes in the side after daydreaming returns…

Alice Miller was a p 'actress' I thought of yesterday too.

Lee sounds as Leigh

This dream and findings made me think that first it's obvious the Universe 'knows' all the details that ever have happened. Second, perhaps when some situation in our life touches upon the topics, words, etc., which are present in the life (for example) of someone we used to know or briefly be with, then the data could be pulled up (something like a database search – for a crude comparison) and presented in a dream.

Recap – dream's mention of Planet Hollywood leads me to Ringo Star who leads me to topics I thought of literally hours (if not minutes) before falling asleep and to names which have certain connection with me.

July 26, 2024. The Q (question) to my HS was this – if I lived in 814 BC I wanted to know what my name was (to hear and see it written in English or Russian). Green – indicator of an answer. If I didn't live then, I wanted to see orange.

Saw myself tear a clown mask which must have been orange in color. If it was red I'd probably notice it. I also walked along a wall of an old building which could have had a shade of orange too. Didn't see green.

July 29, 2024. Q to HS – If Laurence Olivier lived in 1800 AD what was his name. Blue (голубой) – indicator of an answer. Red – he did not live then.

In one part of my dream I saw ALF playing on a bluish electric guitar. Before the narrative was about a woman who was in that tv show (or movie?). My father was in the dream too and for some reason he was quite evil. There was also Elizabeth and maybe Zina (but not sure now).

Not sure what to make of this dream.

July 30, 2024. Q to HS – did I live in 17-th century AD. Blue – yes, red – no.

In the last dream I had about Katie (budgie I had in my childhood) I saw myself clean her water holder with bluish base. In the dream I also thought about it thinking/remembering the other (?) water dispenser is on top of the corridor's dressing area. Katie drank water but when I refilled the feeding trough with the seeds she wouldn't eat. Then she somehow got out of her cage and flew down (on?) mother's bed. I closed the window. Tried searching for her. Only spotted a little greenish thing which I thought at first to be a small baby budgie parrot but then thought maybe it's a fly.

I noted this dream. Maybe it was the answer and I just lived very little in that century, hence I saw the small blue base only shortly.

August

August 1, 2024. Q to HS – if I lived in the 15-th century then I wanted to see and have my attention be drawn to violet, if I didn't live in that century – orange.

In one dream I saw myself change the mattress or something and it appeared like there were 2 plywood sheets which may have been orangy.

In another dream I saw and took a picture of workers in orange suits. They were about to dig the ground where the poplar tree is near my house.

Of note is that in the previous dream I was walking down Znamenskaya street and there were guys fighting each other. Not because someone offended someone, just for the heck of it.

After the orange suit photo, I started taking pictures with my Pixel 8a of some grass or something in the distance. Tried the 2x zoom but something was wrong. When I zoomed into the photo the sharpness was actually quite good.

Of another note I have to make is when I woke up I may have seen a vision of a date. The year must have been 1825 because I thought that as EH I died ten years earlier. It could have been 12-th or 25-th of April too.

August 2, 2024. Yesterday got a song recommended on YT Music – Iron Maiden, Alexander the Great. I listened to it and remembering that my life of Cleopatra might have been linked to him I decided to read about the man. I found many similarities. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Alexander_the_Great

Won 20 major battles.

Was interested in knowledge and philosophy.

There's a story about a lion in a dream.

Lived till almost 33 yo.

Date of birth may be of some similarity;

when he was 28 they say he fell in love at first sight with Roxanne;

carried his head to the left;

something girlish about his earliest portraits;

named a city after beloved horse, and I thought about a script about a horse and the title was the name of the horse;

named lots of cities Alexandria and I had noticed problems I me remembering names long time ago;

if the reports of evil crimes are true then it's also may be of connection, sadly.

"Noone left to conquer" was brought up in my mind when I remembered about my stupid "achievement" of doing the thing to all the females who did 1 (usually) bg scene (went through all the search on thene).

Yesterday I also saw an article published on July 30 (my bd) about me – Cleopatra. I read it.

With that I decided to ask (in Russian) my HS a question if I lived in 340 BC (to cover the parents of Alexander too), then what my name was. Unfortunately, this is almost exactly how I worded my Q and so it could have been a name of any of my lives. I realized it after I saw a dream with the indicator of the answer, which was to be water this time. Red would mean I didn't live in that year.

In a dream I saw myself sit in a small boat on water. I think I was hiding, running from someone and tried change my appearance.

I asked the Q again, this time making sure that it's clear what my name was in the life I lived in that year. Indicators are the same.

I didn't sleep for long. When I woke up I didn't remember any dreams. I'd need to ask the question again. But it appears I lived in that year.

I went out for a walk after one o'clock. A dead pigeon lay between the tram tracks, near a bird feeder close to a playground by the neighboring houses. Judging by its appearance, it seemed to have died recently. I tried asking my Higher Self to resurrect it or facilitate its resurrection. Nothing happened. I tried asking several times, asking in different ways. I pointed my finger and hand at the dead bird.

Walking back along the tracks, I saw a pigeon sitting on the far rail (near the turnoff to the garages on the opposite side and to the boom gate near the garbage dump). I heard a tram coming behind me (from the direction of the school). I considered scaring it, but decided it would fly away on its own once it heard the tram's noise. Then I realized there was a tram coming in front (from Otkrytoye Shosse), and its noise could mask the tram's noise behind me. The pigeon doesn't fly away... it sits there... the tram doesn't ring or stop... when it becomes clear what's going to happen, I look away... after walking a bit to collect my thoughts and better understand what happened and whether I could somehow help the pigeon, I ask my Higher Self to resurrect that pigeon... nothing.

After this whole situation, I sometimes began to feel crazy again, but I remembered that I have experience proving otherwise. There are simply nuances at play here...

Plus the very fact that the second pigeon died right after I tried to resurrect the other—and wondered if time was a factor — a few meters away seemed somewhat surreal. There's a clear connection here, that this didn't just happen... I shouldn't even have been walking there, since I usually only walk by the tracks once, and I had already walked there when I was walking toward school and saw the first pigeon...

Thoughts: With the first pigeon, I thought maybe it had been dead for more than three days. With the second one, everything was clear – minutes had passed since his death, as I tried to resurrect him.

Maybe he didn't want to live/come back. True, I'm thinking of him here as a human soul, but still.

...his body cannot be restored, or it takes a long time (if that ginger pigeon came back to life, for example). I'll have to check on both of them the next day...

...I could have scared him off, but I didn't do anything... so in this case, there's no help for me.

...I'm asking for resurrection incorrectly, or I'm doing something wrong.

...besides, this is also a test for me. Will I break down and decide I've gone crazy, or that my method is giving erroneous answers (which are not true dreams)? So far, there's plenty of evidence that the method works and is logical.

In the evening, I was watching Goose Goose Duck, and at the same time, a bird (one of the players. Most likely Vlat) was crushed by a train car. Orkady called him Anna Karenina. Some time later, I remembered the very similar incident which I witnessed that day.

August 3, 2024. Asked my HS a direct Q – if I was Alexander III of Macedon then I wanted to see red. If the soul that lived in the body of him shares the same Higher Self with me (mine HS) then I wanted to see green. If there's something else at play (I was not Alex and his soul doesn't share the same HS with me) I wanted to see indigo. I asked to draw my attention to the color I'd see.

I saw at one point pretty much the scene from Gone with the Wind when the camera dollies in onto Scarlett wearing red dress to the birthday party.

Don't remember any greens. Indigo also probably wasn't seen; although I did view Facebook TPXP page where someone wrote in his nickname that I lie or something; his empty comment was liked by several people, one of whom was Bruce Willis for some reason.

*

In movies some scripts are written backwards – from the future events to the past ones. In this case it looks like the future events are the reason for the past ones. The Spirit imagined the whole Universe before creating it. It may be the reason I was a leader at least twice before my life of Mary Magdalene (which is the reason for my Thiaoouba related experiences in this life, I'm sure). The idea that the knowledge about my lives may help people learn about reincarnation and live more spiritual and peaceful lives still holds very well and is reinforced even.

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=s6L3f5-adek Today I saw this video about Moon Lyre being recommended to me even though I never even searched or watched videos about this musical instrument. The thing is Alexander learned to play the lyre.

August 4, 2024. Before going to bed asked my Higher Self, Thao, Biastra and Latoli (since the matter was serious) why the 2 dead pigeons I tried to resurrect on August 2 were not brought back to life. I talked a bit about my ideas and what I did to try to resurrect them. Asked them to give me a hint maybe (since obviously they can't say directly what was the reason). I said it's up to them how to indicate to me I'm getting an answer.

In one dream pigeons were pecking something near the road and the 5-story house which is in front and to the left from my house (Alexander and his brother at least used to live there before). The setting was old – with the kindergarten and the fence around it. I guess I moved the food or something to that fence away from the road (it's similar to the idea I had; that people feed birds way too close to roads raising the chances that they'll get hit by a tram or a car).

In another dream there was something about the 8k the size of 4k.
Then there was something about the old phone.
The last dream is what I feel may have been the answer. The birds could have been too old to return.

August 5, 2024. Asked HS to show an interesting fact from the life I lived in 340 BC. Said while I do realize who I was and that in another dream I got the answer I was Alexander III of Macedon, it'd be best to get more confirmations basically.

Maybe I was in my village. Talked with someone about infiltrating houses during the night (why don't know). What if someone wakes up in house and you know... kills or attacks. Decided not to do it. Intense Music was playing all along and subsided when I made my decision. It appeared the decision was the correct one.

Currently I don't know the meaning of this. Hopefully when I read about Alex I'll spot something. It must be something about changing my mind in that life.

Alexander decided not to invade India because his troops were tired and wanted to go back.

In other dreams I saw father and mother drive to the entrance of our apartment building in his car (dark green; the spot they stopped was almost exactly where the police car stopped that day when I was walking outside. My position irl was also almost identical to where I stood in the dream). Then I guess they left.

Then I saw me, Olya (cousin), mother, and maybe father, travel somewhere. There was a lake and I went to the other side staring at a cut tree branch which was like my guide. I went then into the woods and there was a strange narrative (maybe something to do with crimes). I returned back.

Mother was asking where I was basically, not seeing me. I said I'm here. Others went to the store and I decided to go there too. Inside I remembered how as Vivien I was walking in Paris; shopping was the word in my mind.

August 6, 2024. When I learned that I was indeed Cleopatra I assumed that it was the only life in which I was a leader. Then there was that Nefertiti situation and now I've learned I was Alexander III of Macedon. So I decided to ask my HS in how many of my past lives I was a leader of a country or nation. Such as king, queen, prince, president, emperor, empress, etc. Music was to be the indicator of me receiving an answer.

(4 appears to be the answer)

I'll start by talking about a dream in which I was taking photos of the large building near Preobrazhenskoye metro. I myself was standing near the Cherkizovskiy pond and the church. I was talking to someone I guess and the idea was while my camera still takes good photos, the newer ones have much bigger resolution (8k+). I walked near the tubes and went up to give the camera to a guy not wishing to buy it or something (maybe the guy was familiar and I wonder if he was from the Corridor Crew). I walked along the pond to my house. Near the end of the red building I saw people riding bicycles. One of them was Marina. I can only assume here that others were Olay, Ira and Vova: 4 people who refused to talk to me about the rocks and suddenly appearing clouds we all witnessed. As I walked on, I remember that I might have thrown a spear (or something like that) at Marina's bicycle (I guess she provoked me somehow but the details are not clear. Can only wonder if it's related to Alex and Cleitus, and if she could have been the latter… and if other mentioned people could be someone I knew in Alex's life…). If my assumptions are correct, there were 4 people: 3 females, 1 male. The numbers have appeared in my life recently – several days ago – when I was rearranging my clothes etc on the 2 shelves and I realized I can fit all my belongings on just 1 shelve, leaving the other 3 to my mother (4 shelves total; there's a pull-out shelf at the bottom but we don't have clothes there.)

In other dream I saw some kind of orgy recorded on a video. There was a woman who was a designer or something and the thought was that all those people were not regular p 'actors'. Private parts of a woman were shown.

Then I remember a close up shot of a woman's head. I noticed she had 2 (I guess) piercings near her eyebrow; the 'camera' panned around her head to reveal 2 other piercings on her other brow (so it was 4 in total).

Then there was a scene of me (I guess) and a woman taking off all of our jewelry and items we had on us (some things she laid on the ground were long, maybe numbering 4, and looking like arrows or spears). When we went to bed she had still her clothes on; so she had at least 2 items left on her, and it may have been 4 if we count her underwear. If I had my clothes on then there were 4 items of clothes on the bed. All along there was a screen with some narrative (maybe there were chapters). I tried to kiss that woman but the screen changed and there was probably a word “поднимайся” (rise up) and the meaning was that I have to wake up or stand up from the bed. The music was playing during this time.

I did actually wake up irl and recorded my dream. It was not yet 4 AM and I asked essentially the same question with the same indicator (music); the only thing changed was that now I specifically stated that I’d like to know in how many of my past lives I’ve had the title of king, queen, etc. In case I was a wife/husband of a king/queen and wasn’t exactly in 100% charge.

I think I must have woken up – or it was a dream in a dream – and I remembered a dream in which there was music playing and this time it was clear to me that the answer is 4. But… when I woke up in the morning all I could remember is this fact. I don’t remember the details of that dream… only that it quite obviously confirmed I’ve been 4 times a leader.

I’ll have to try to find out the other 2 lives and if Nefertiti is the one of them.

It may be that in I was a male leader 1 time, and female leader 3 times.

When I tried to learn about the identity of Jade (1 of my lives) for some reason it wouldn’t be revealed to me. There’s a chance it may be related somehow.

August 7, 2024. Yesterday I had food poisoning and had no time for questions. The first two dreams were about the life of Alexander the Great. When I fell asleep again, I had numerous dreams about IT. I wasn't afraid. It seemed like in one dream we even collaborated – when IT gave me some kind of box where jewelry (people's?) was supposed to somehow end up. (This reminded me of a dream last night, when another girl and I were taking off our clothes, including jewelry.) At one point, IT seemed defeated near 5 (?) birch trees (possibly not far from my village) surrounded by a sandy road, and at the edge of that forest, they wanted to erect a statue of IT.

Yesterday I was wondering if synchronicities with IT and the Nightmare could stem from my life of Alexander...

August 8, 2024. The last time I asked about Nefertiti there were some issues, possibly indicating that some information written by researchers about the queen may not be accurate. So I decided to take a different approach to finally settle this question. I asked my Higher Self if in one of my past lives in which I was a ruler (reference to the question and answer from August 6, 2024) I was either the wife, girlfriend, etc. of the man whom Thao mentioned in Thiaoouba Prophecy — Pharaoh Athnaton whose name is also spelled as Akhenaten. Green if yes, red if no.

In one dream I woke up in my village house. One thing my mother made me aware of is the old globe (Earth) we have there. She went to remove the dust from it. I remember the globe has green on it to indicate trees, grass, and other greenery. There are no reds on it. Then I was outside where the bench and apple trees are in front of our house and garden. I noticed that there was 1 green apple tree above me; strangely, I also noticed a bunch of white flowers on that same tree. Walking a bit further, my eyes turned to the green canopy of the maple tree (which was long cut down irl). It seemingly had less branches and leaves than irl, but it did have them. Somehow, I knew it would fall… and it did. First the left side of the tree fell to the fence of our neighbors. Then the other half started falling on their lawn and towards the ditch (irl it did split in 2 parts also. But the right one fell first and almost perpendicular to the ditch. The other half was cut down by father and Victor (maybe Tolya was there too) and it did fall down on the neighbor's fence similarly to how it did in the dream.

In another dream there was Vova and Dima. Dima and me illuminated some writing on the ground with flashlights. Mine was illuminating the area in a ring, instead of illuminating the center, and I turned my small black flashlight off. I guess Olay and other girls drove by on their bicycles.

Before this scene there was a scene in a metro, and I thought the action took place in the US. I think people had a video call with someone. Don't remember the details.

I don't remember any reds.

Now, it should be noted that Athnaton had several consorts:

Nefertiti (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nefertiti)

Kiya (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kiya)

An unidentified sister-wife (most likely) KV35YL (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/The_Younger_Lady)

Tadukhipa (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tadukhipa)

Unidentified daughters of Šatiya and Burna-Buriash II (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/%C5%A0atiya https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Burna-Buriash_II)

Of course, when I asked what my name was if I lived in 1340 BC (ref. to the entry from 18.04.2024), I thought (after waking up) that Nefertiti was the name I must have heard. And it's the one queen with whom I have a lot of synchronicities. Reincarnation may be one of reasons, but it's also possible that I was one of Athnaton's other consorts and I made some negative notes about Nefertiti's long neck, which resulted in me having a long neck in Vivien Leigh's life [technically, – if I was N. — it's possible I myself in my other life saw the bust and made some unfortunate comments regarding the neck… and there are several other variations of what might have happened]. But it doesn't explain Tey (nurse and a streamer), or why the bust has the left eye damaged and I've had issues with this eye in this life and in my Vivien's life.

I think I still need to make inquiries to my HS regarding which of the women I was exactly so that I don't make a mistake.

I may have felt the same, or similar, sensation I do regarding my Vivien and Michelle's lives – feeling what I felt like when a particular photo of me in my past life was taken. This time it had to do with Nefertiti's bust.

August 9, 2024. Asked HS if I was https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cassandane the consort of https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Cyrus_the_Great (The reason being as Alexander I admired him, and I need to find the final 4-th life in which I was a ruler of some sort). Music – yes, voice of a bird – no.

In one dream I saw pigeons and their behavior (circling around, bowing, etc.) would surely be accompanied by specific cooing sounds made by them. In the dream, though, I don't remember hearing any sounds from them. Then several pigeons (2-3) started swimming and then they'd dive under the water and reappearing seconds later. It's possible the pigeons had human voices at this point (and maybe were my mother and Zina, her sister). Now, if it's the case, then it's a question if it was my answer – I heard a voice of a bird (even though the voice was human)?

I had other dreams and don't remember anything about music.

In one dream I went to a theater and there was a large crowd. There was a tiny space to squeeze through to the right and mom went there to be in front of the line I guess. I couldn't do the same being the same age as other people (that was my thought in the dream). Before that I was walking in the underground passage from metro and started thinking how in lucid dreams(?) you can see the reflections – as if there's ray tracing. Never realized I Was in a dream though, and never got lucid.

August 11, 2024. I asked in the previous 2 days what my name was in my 4-th life in which I was a leader or ruler and of which I don't know yet.

The first night (on Friday) I barely slept and don't remember the details of the chaotic dreams I had.

The second night showed me red tomatoes – but I asked for violet or purple as indicator of an answer. There is a curious coincidence-like in the fact that Norfolk Plant Sciences company was created to commercialize the purple tomato, which were developed in the UK (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Blue_tomato). Norfolk is the county I'd visit on several occasions in my life of Emma Hamilton.

I was thinking what if red being close to purple, the answer was not direct but still close enough for me to find out? The thing is after tomatoes the dream showed Alexey Ignatov who kinda bullied me by pressing something against my back. There was someone else with us but I don't remember who. I did pick up the plate with tomatoes under the staircase of our school (leading up to the acting and sports areas); and I did it in a queenly/kingly fashion.

Larry played Capt. Ivan Ignatoff in Moscow Nights movie.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Heracles

As Alexander I named a child by the same name after the hero. So who knows what parallels could be found here.

I remember Anton saying something like, «Геракл в штаны накал» (“Hercules poed his pants”). Recalling two incidents at school...

Lion is mentioned often.

The festival of the Heracleia, commemorating the death of Heracles, was celebrated by ancient Athenians on the second day of the month of Metageitnion, which would fall in late July or early August.

The story about destroying the vine-eating ips, a kind of cynips wasp, reminded me of being bitten by a wasp in my forehead when I was near their nest in the willow tree which stood in several meters from our village house.

Madness and visions are mentioned.

Hera and 2 giant snakes story details reminded me of 8 and monsters (Freddy Krueger and IT).

Music tutor Linus who was kied with a lyre. – I watch LinusTechTips since almost their channel’s birth, and as Alex I played lyre.

Vice and Virtue offered Heracles a choice between a pleasant and easy life or a severe but glorious life. He chose the latter. - Some of my lives fit that description.

Was forced to do women's work and to wear women's clothes.

Had unusual physical strength. - Made me remember how father’s car got stuck in snow filled trench and mother pushed it. Once I (I was little) joined in the car got out. Of course, the car probably would have got our regardless. Then Denis had a dream in which I had a lot of strength, lifting a guy not far from the elm tree with just one hand.

On August 11 asked my HS if I was this Heracles. I read a bit from Russian wiki to identify him. And I mentioned that I’m aware many things may be distortions at this point. Green – yes, red – no.

Woke up and remembered that I must have seen matches with red tips spilling over the table (each of them was in something looking like a test tube rack). But it’s possible I also had a dream about one match which was green and then a magician turned it into another color or was about to. The details are subtle.

My thoughts are that if my memory is correct, then maybe there is some connection to me in Heracles’ story. Also, I do have syncs with several movies and obviously the characters in them were invented in someone’s mind. It’s possible I’m experiencing the same thing here – having syncs with an invented character.

March 31, 2026. My answer from February 6, 2026 may relate to this answer.

August 13, 2024. Reading the final 20-th chapter about my Emma Hamilton's life in Flora Fraser's book I spotted the case of Louisa Kidder-Staples, which was eerily similar to my Missy's death and there were many parallels and similarities. At one point I thought there could even be possibility I was Louisa's stepmother, Frances Kidder, who drowned her in the shallow water, but then it would mean that the ~3 minute suffering while slowing dying on the rope literally had no effect as far as payment for that crime goes – which seems unlikely and illogical.

I asked my HS – If I was Louisa, then I wanted to see blue. If I was Frances, then green. If I was neither of them, I wished to see red. Asked to draw my attention to the color I'd see.

After I first woke up, I remembered how my attention was drawn to dark-feathered pigeons sitting among trees. There was something about the water before that. I remembered that people usually call the color of such pigeons 'blue' and I thought this was the answer.

I said as much to my HS and said since it's important I'd ask the question again. This time it had to be music if I was Louisa, bird's song if her stepmother, red if neither of them.

I woke up remembering that I was in like a video game. And video games usually have some music playing, but I sure didn't remember hearing it (same as with German shepherd). As I was trying to remember the sounds in that dream, which had red tint, or just red colors, all over the place, I'd remember that there was the 3-rd condition when red would mean I was neither.

Logically, it'd be a shame if after being Mary M., Hypatia, Emma H., I could do something which Frances did to a child. As for Louisa, there was a possibility I had to suffer for some mistake(s) in a similar fashion, but then I do remember that history repeats itself, and it's totally possible other souls encounter similar circumstances in life as I did.

I'll remember this case because maybe there's still some connection relating to souls and reincarnation. It's possible it may somehow relate to people who knew me as Missy.

This is the notes I made while reading about the case.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Frances_Kidder Louisa Kidder-Staples, 12-year-old drowned in 12 inches of water.
https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/250166335/louisa_kidder-staples Birth: 1856 Hythe, Shepway District, Kent, England.
Death: 25 Aug 1867 (aged 10–11) New Romney, Shepway District, Kent, England.

She was drowned by her stepmother in 12 inches of ditch water (300mm;

6 inches for me in Missy's life) in New Romney (George Romney was the painter in Emma H. life, of course).

The stepmother first lied it was an accident, then admitted to murder but still said it was not premeditated (some more little parallels to Missy's life).

There are several 12s in regards to her trial (12 March 1868. The verdict was made in 12 minutes. She was executed at 12 noon on 2 April 1868)

Louisa was baptized on 8 Feb 1863 at St Leonard's Church, Hythe (February 8 was my Missy's birthday).

https://hythehistoryblog.wordpress.com/2019/02/08/the-tragic-life-of-louisa-kidder-staples/ article was posted on February 8, 2019 by Anne Petrie.

The stepmother (Frances Turner; Fanny) and Louisa's father daughter's name was Emma.

Fanny spoke of Louisa as 'that bitch'.

25-th is close to 26. Maybe nothing, but I did notice that the birthdays of my soul's lives and people who close to me sometimes go close to each other (e.g. 8 Feb and 9 Feb)

As VL I died almost 100 years after.

Frances' story (a lie) was that Louisa got frightened by 2 horses and run away.

A paper wrote that William, Louisa's father, had taken Fanny's 17-year-old sister into his house to live with him.

The mayor of Hythe was James Watts. (one of killers I watched a video about has the same last name; I remembered that case because the police officers recorded on their bodycams the proof of ghosts' existence)

Died at 11.

Rev. Mr. Fraser is mentioned in a newspaper. He compelled William to converse with Fanny. Thanks to Flora Fraser's book about my EH life I found about this case; she mentioned the prison in the last 20-th chapter.

Louisa was about 5-6 when her mother died. Just reminded me that my EH daughter Emma lived without her mother and father.

Fanny made Louisa to sleep in a potato sack in a corner of the cellar. Sack reminded me of my last name – Мешков – which means pretty much that – a sack, a bag. I had a dream, hinting me I was Emma Hamilton, in which I heard a pig in a potato bag/sack.

https://murderpedia.org/female.K/k/kidder-frances.htm

Fanny was sentences and hanged in Maidstone. There's irony in that her horse and carriage would have driven her past Hothfield en route to Maidstone, and close to where Louisa's birth mother, Eliza Staples had lived and where some of the Staples family were still living.

The crowd of 2000 is said to have been watching her execution.

Fanny is said to have dropped 18 inches and struggled for up to 3 minutes before succumbing to her strangulation.

She was 25.

William married Frances on Feb 1 1865 when she was 8 months pregnant.

The trial lasted 6 hours.

“Lord Jesus forgive me” were Francis’ last words.

August 14, 2024. Yesterday before going to bed asked my HS what name I had in my past life I lived right after the death of my Emma Hamilton body. Green – getting an answer.

All I remember clearly enough is when I was going near the large house in our village. The name ‘Arnold’ was in my mind and I think it referred to the person I was in that dream. He put the house on fire for insurance money I think, and when the money was refused wanted to set Ira’s house on fire or something like that.

In another dream maybe there was another name. Maybe even written.

Don’t remember greens.

Of course, when I head Arnold I think of the actor Schwarzenegger. It’s important to note when I asked the question I didn’t have in my mind the thought/memory of Scarlett O’Hara’s other last names – Hamilton Kennedy Butler; and of course I didn’t think at that moment that there’s a chance I was that Butler from Titanic, and if so then why I couldn’t have been a Kennedy?

When I did remember that in the morning, I decided to just Google “Arnold Kennedy”. For some reason the search showed the connection between Kennedy and Schwarzenegger. It’s because his ex-wife, Maria Shriver, is a niece of the former U.S. President John F. Kennedy. I followed her on Twitter (I followed just a few and eventually found no use from Twitter).

It’s of interest that I had to have been presented with this name again. I think I want to just ask if I was a Kennedy and a Butler in my past lives between Emma and Vivien.

A note for other people who might read this: I have to search all people and I have no desire to be or not to be one or the other person. I care about the truth only.

Decided to search Kennedy family and found a name that may be of interest:

https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/86143316/patrick_joseph-kennedy

John Kennedy (1804–1864). Married Mary K. Gunnip (1816–1881). He was a local farmer.

From what I understand they lived in Ireland.

It’s not known if she had Kennedy surname after marriage.

https://simple.wikipedia.org/wiki/Patrick_Kennedy

Birth: 16 February 1823 Dunganstown, County Wexford, Ireland.

Death: 22 November 1858 (aged 35) East Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, USA.

He was 26 when left Ireland.

Died exactly 105 years before the death of JFK, his great-grandchild (as VL I wrote a letter to his wife Jackie Kennedy when that happened).

Russian Wiki says he died of cholera. English one says died from tuberculosis.

He had full hair.

Coopering. I remember there was an old wooden barrel just like he'd make in our village.

Was married to Bridget Murphy by John Williams in the Holy Redeemer Church on September 26, 1849.

First names of his five children are familiar.

August 15, 2024. Asked my HS to show blue in the dream if in my past lives between my Emma Hamilton and Vivien Leigh lives I was someone who had the last name of Kennedy and Butler. If I was Kennedy but not Butler in that period – green. If I was Butler but not Kennedy – yellow. Asked to draw my attention to the color I'd be seeing so that I remember that episode when I wake up.

Could not fall asleep due to constantly thinking/daydreaming of something.

In one of dreams I saw green cape. I woke up and recorded that fact on my phone app.

When I woke up in the morning, I remembered that portion of the dream. I even thought I had it recorded, but I also thought that it may have been a dream too (a dream in a dream). And it was because there was no recording on my phone… but I did make one.

August 16, 2024. I asked my HS this: if Frances Kidder's soul lived in 1985, then I'd like to hear what her name was in that life. No indicator, just please make my attention focused on the name. Red would mean she didn't live then.

Minutes later I realized I had to include another option in case her name can't be revealed to me for whatever reason. So I asked to show green if she knew me as Missy and my death affected her in some negative way.

There was a curious dream about me and someone else taking robbers hostage on the higher floor of my apartment building. Many of them, except one guy, had dark skin color. At one point they said they robbed hospitals and I realized we can't take their money [for ourselves] now.

Then a dream cut to another. Saw something written on the 'screen'. Then it was erased and the view zoomed in very close on the trees with green leaves to show how the photoshop guy filled in the blank white spots left from the written words. The camera panned a bit left and right and then again to show his work on this, as it looked to be, 3d image. I say this because the green leaves and the branches they grew on would turn along with the 'camera' as if I was looking at actual tree branches with green leaves.

'Jimmy Mitchell' (Randy irl) was beaten up and blamed for the murder [of Missy/me] he didn't do. He'd be the first one to check whether he was Frances Kidder in the past or not. It's possible the name was not spoken to me because I could find the answer on my own.

Now it makes more sense that I saw all those parallels with the particulars of my past lives. So Frances' soul is connected to me by that King's Bench Prison (just realized it contains the word "King") and by us probably knowing each other in my Missy's life. Since New Romney is one of the parallels, I can only wonder right now if Frances lived when I was Emma H. and if so what, if any, connection we had… I don't think I have any candidates given her cruelty to Louisa…

Possible prophetic dream. Girl walking a dog near the highway adjacent to the dirt road to our village, and I didn't say anything to her when I was in two steps away from her. Me encountering the blonde young woman working in Magnet store, whom I've noticed before, and I was in two steps away from her and said nothing (health was not great this day because of the same old song I put myself through).

In that particular dream I was changing the tires on my father's old dark green car. All four were missing and soon I'd realize there are no buts anymore to attach them to the car. Before the dream really wanted me to taste the whole experience of screwing them onto the bolt – no cuts – just me turning those nuts and turning till the end. During that day I finished reading Scotty's Full Service book when he said how Rita H. wouldn't buy her brother Eddie new wheels. He really needed them and she had all the money. Apparently, she did nothing because he never, according to her, did anything for her.

August 17, 2024. Asked HS how many children I had when I was Athnaton's consort. Yellow is indicator of the answer.

My neighbors up top were noisy again. Noise reducing headphones worked but they were also irritating me and I just wanted to take them off. Neighbors stopped being noisy after about 1 o'clock but I was no longer able to fall asleep. A loud company then was walking and singing to the loud music under the windows; someone dropped glass near them.

Anyway, I did fall asleep. When I woke up – the last time – I was very, very sleepy – basically, I was half asleep. I did think that due to the night's events I probably didn't get the answer. This is when I saw yellow mist in front of my still dreaming eyes, and then the number '33' appeared with a thought – I think it was so – 'addition' or something like that; the idea was the two numbers must be added together, which means 6.

Nefertiti had 6 children. Also, when I did a bit of research in the morning, I found out that all children were females, and the elder 3 of them were born in Thebes, and the other, younger, 3 were born in Akhetaton (Amarna).

August 18, 2024. Trying to get the answer if in my 4 lives in which I was a ruler of some sort I was 1 male and 3 females, 2 males and 2 females, seemingly got me no answer.

Maybe because I can find that life on my own (similarly how I found my Alex life).

August 19, 2024. Decided to ask about Cyrus the Great again to see if maybe there's some connection. If I was Cyrus the Great – blue; if I was one of his children – green; if I was someone who lived in his time and knew him personally (e.g. talked to him, or at least saw him with their own eyes) and wasn't his child – red. Music – if none of what I said is correct. Asked to draw my attention to whatever indicator would be shown to me.

At first I woke up early wondering if I saw green.

I fell asleep. At one point I remember yellow carpet or linoleum and human shapes were as if standing up and walking (or something like that). I think I must have heard Baltimora Tarzan Boy at some point in those dreams. Then I heard bells ring musically and I woke up still hearing the bells (we have a church not far away and they sometimes play their bell music).

I asked my HS again (it was ~6:10). If the music was my answer, I wanted to see yellow. Green if it wasn't. Before falling asleep I saw a woman in blue dress walk literally out of my view – I must have been falling asleep. The problem is I never said here that the last question is closed.

At one point I remember seeing a book in which I was reading about someone… maybe who met a tragic fate or end. Because after that I decided to see if the book has an entry about me in my Michele Avila's life. And it did – I saw my old name written in Russian (I think).

Basically, it's a mess again. If the green was my answer, then none of what I saw or heard after in the night relates to my question.

Blue is the opposite of yellow.

I feel like music was the answer because I remember it more clearly – but not too clearly. The bells are questionable. Technically I heard them while I was still asleep – so in a dream – and shortly after I woke up.

I read about his children and found no significant parallels with my lives.

August 20, 2024. Asked my HS, Thao, Biastra and Latoli (if the Universal Law would allow them to give me some hints) why I wasn't able to resurrect the dead pigeons during the 19-th and also on the other day before? What went wrong?

I saw a rather long dream. In one part I was considering painting the white door in my room (I did have the same idea irl). The corridor side of the door had several sheets of cardboards nailed to the frame. One of them was piling apart; the other was bent in one spot. I pained the small section at the bottom as a test it seemed like. Then the rest was shown painted. Maybe I painted some humanoid characters there. Then I was writing in my diary how they would change places (e.g. 'paranormal' stuff). Then it looked like I was dead and someone else, a skeptic (?), read my diary and said that basically it didn't happen. But then they turned their heads to the door and saw that the person in it did change the place it once was painted in. Then a head the size of the whole door appeared. They did know what the truth is now.

Then I was walking in a forest with 2 paths going pretty much in the same direction and destination it looked like. Suddenly (?) a human female (?) dark figure appeared on the right (?) path.

After waking up the idea was that maybe it's my karma/destiny to experience skepticism and have people not believing me; but then, after my death, they will slowly come to realizations I was not crazy and was telling the truth about my experiences and understandings.

Жёлтый если дело во мне. (Yellow if it's about me [failing to resurrect those dead birds]). At one point I was an electric guitar which I bought and it either had a painted patch of yellow or orangy color. I had a stream 'learning to play the guitar'. Then I had a party at the 2nd floor of my house. Some people played on a piano (or midi keyboard).

Before that in a scene which may have been taking place in my actual room a girl walked to my monitor and said something about an app or tool… I do remember I showed her where Bukhvostova street was. Mother lived near that street irl when she was a young girl.

Thoughts. Yesterday I didn't turn on the camera and birds still didn't come back to life. Skeptics would not believe me anyhow with no video proof.

Maybe it is about me and karma/destiny is one of the reasons. And maybe I still need to learn how to resurrect (e.g. play the guitar).

I want to continue asking about this topic. I'll probably ask to show – if they can – what they'd do if they had to resurrect a recently deceased animal.

It's not a big surprise that today (20.08) there was a drama from the tenant woman who didn't like the fact that I had to ask for a new price in a new contract, given how high the inflation is and what other people in the area are asking for similar apartments. I lowered my asking price by 7000 rubles due to the issues with my apartment.

It is true that – in retrospect – I could have checked the prices on July 21 when they said about doing some wallpaper works in the apartment. But then it was established that they knew how high the prices were in the area and they should have expected that the new contract would reflect that also. It's also became apparent that they on purpose didn't show me the checks before I wrote them how much to pay for August; on top of that I did tell them first to write me about the prices and that I'm okay with them. They didn't and just placed me with the fact they bought 30000+ worth of materials and the work would be 25000 (in their words which can be lies too). Nobody in the right mind does repairs at the end of the lease period unless they're skimming something. It's my fault I didn't recognize it and forgot the previous issue of her not telling me the people I registered in my apartment didn't live there and she knew I could be fined 500k for that or even go to jail; she never apologized and just said something about bribery to police who might check on them… great.

20 and 8 still remain as some misfortunate numbers in my life.

August 21, 2024. Asked my HS, Thao, Biastra and Latoli to show how to resurrect a dead animal. Yesterday there was a freshly run over pigeon and nothing.

Saw myself playing a video game on the old mobile phone with buttons. I died and then was spawned (resurrected) almost in the corner near the line of projectiles which I guess killed me again. Then the phone was black. Maybe it happened one more time, don't remember, and so I plugged the old charger into the phone so that it's on (resurrected) and charging while I'm playing and doesn't turn off. Guess it worked.

There was some other dream about two guys talking strangely on the phone and one of them undressing or something. Then one of them went to another or something. Don't know what's that was about… maybe Scotty's book was the reason for that dream. Also, I guess I went out near my house but the place looked different; it was overcast too.

I still don't think I have to touch a dead body to give it my energy or something. Besides, there's wireless transfer of energy. Maybe I'll need to mention that I'm willing to give some of my physical energy to resurrect? Because otherwise there's no escape death – as in the game – and so it's fruitless?

August 22, 2024. Asked my Higher Self: If I can't resurrect animals (birds, etc) because of my karma – some error(s) I might have made in the past – then I wanna see red. If I can resurrect but I need to learn something more first I wanted to see green. I wanted to see blue if it's something else. In all cases asked to draw my attention to the color so that I remember that section of the dream when I wake up.

At one point I was lying on mother's bed which for some reason stood near the wall with 2 doors (the bed used to be there and moved after I was 20). I was lying on my left side with my left check on the bed folded to the side near the wall. I was trying to fall asleep I guess, but for some reason the memory of IT would be present. Tried not to think of it, but the thought returned… until I saw the subtle and quite ghostly shape of IT with visible red hair (the color was there but kind of transparent; as if it was a ghostly shape).

I either woke up in reality or in another dream. I realized that I was lying on my left side with my left check on the pillow.

Then there was something about a charger. Maybe I plugged it in or out. Most importantly there was the cage in which my budgie parrot Katie was sitting (long dead irl). I saw her green feathery shape. Maybe she was chirping as if demanding some attention to something. The seeds were still there in her food dispenser. Somehow – maybe my mother had something to do with it – Katie got out of the cage. I was a bit concerned with Katie flying in the room until I closed the window. Now she won't fly away. But she did fly somewhere. "Кэ[й]ти?" – I'd ask where she is. No response. I look around the room. I walked gently at some point in case she's on the floor. There's a lot of places where she can be. "Katie!" – I cry out again in Russian. At this point I get concerned about her. What if she fly somewhere and got stuck and died while I was trying to find her?

This time I definitely wake up irl. But I am sleepy. I still remember how in the dream I'd cry out "Katie" – and this is when I realize that she had green feathers! And then I remember the dream with Pennywise.

Don't remember blues – at least as far as my attention clearly being drawn to that color.

There was another dream. Something about echo from the woods. Maybe I was near the river (Sheredar') flowing close to our village.

So it looks like I confirmed the hint from the other dream that due to karma I've had issues resurrecting those dead pigeons.

But there's also hope because green means if I learn how to resurrect properly maybe there's still a chance I'll be able to do in in this current life of mine.

There is something else I need to mention. It's the first time when I see 2 colors in one night as the answer to my question. Both colors/answers make sense and they don't really contradict one another. It is possible that due to karma/errors I have trouble bringing dead animals to life, but if I learn more about the topic, and if my karma regarding this topic will be no more or maybe some other situation allows it, then it's possible I could resurrect someone.

August 23, 2024. Asked my HS, Thao, Biastra and Latoli (if the law allows them to give a hint) to show somehow more of what I need to know about resurrection. I did verbally acknowledge the messages of the last dream(s). I said that I still don't think you need to physically touch a dead body (of an animal in this case) in order to resurrect it due to possibility of infection; and as far as the energy goes it's possible to transfer it wirelessly.

In a dream saw myself fishing. I was probably on the stern of a (painted white?) boat. I was high above the water, and perhaps the area was Cherkizovskiy lake near my house. At first I guess nothing was caught. Then the boat started moving. I caught something and pulled the fish out. It was a rather big fish, but not huge. It was somewhat larger than the gloved palm of my right hand with which I took hold of it. The glove was black it seems like and maybe it was like the medical glove and not the one you'd wear on the street. I held the fish firmly in my hand thanks to the glove I guess. I asked someone quickly if the edge of the metal backed with water is what needs to be done or something, and I smashed the head of the fish hard against its shiny edge. Then, to make sure the fish is dead, I quickly did the same action several more times. The idea was to quickly kill it, of course.

Maybe the touch is still required for resurrection but you could do it with a medical glove to protect yourself.

Additionally, the dream may have shown me the reason behind the karma that for now at least hasn't allowed me to resurrect dead pigeons.

Or it may be a reference to the cockroach which yesterday just happened to be sitting already in the toilet – when I went to the bathroom to ask my question on the record – and I flushed it (alive) down the sewage. I did ponder the idea if I need to kill them as humanly as possible or… because if their slow drowning or dying in the water pipes is a big error for me then I sure don't like to suffer for this nonsense by the name of cockroach infestation (I saw them on the walls of the corridor of our building…). What's worth the poison that they eat and then poison the rest of their lot will also be considered an error… If so — No wonder Thiaooubians have the force field as the walls of their buildings… I hope it's not a big error though given I tried to do my best so that those insects can't enter my apartment…

I will note that I did fishing in my current life and Sir William Hamilton used to fish.

August 24, 2024. Asked HS in how many days my soul was sent to live in a new physical body (embryo) after my death in Cleopatra's life. (M.D. said it's 49 days if you commit sude, so I decided to check). Green was the indicator of the answer.

In dreams: At one point I felt cold and thought it was -6 degrees. I went to the thermometer. It was dark and so I tried to use my phone to lit the numbers (irl the thermometer has blue, green and orange colors for different ranges of temps). Don't remember what exactly it said but I think it was larger than 3 and no more than 10 degrees. Then I went to the kitchen and found that there were items suggesting it's New Year (or Christmas?). Some food was defrosting in the sink. Maybe a green bottle of something was among the items. Maybe I thought that one item was a year old or something like that?

I woke up and told my HS that if it was an answer then I repeat my last question but this time orange is the indicator.

Could not fall asleep for a long time.

In the dream I saw before waking up I heard something about favorite (?) Hypatia, and Emma Hamilton was also compared that that life I think (?). It's possible orange was present. The idea in that dream sequence was that the age is the same.

But in Emma's life I died at 49. It's not clear how old I was when I was killed as Hypatia. Some researchers give 45-65 range.

It's interesting if the word 'favorite' was my HS' way to say that as Hypatia I didn't make it filter out a lot of things (but I guess errors were made since I'm still on the first category).

I'm reading Maria Dzielska's book about my past life and I'm reminded of how Thaora said when Michel was an ascetic he assisted many more individuals than in most of his other lives. My Hypatia's life shares some elements of that (remaining a virgin and living simply – in my own words – for example). Maybe that's [another?] reason this life seems to be my Higher Self's favorite.

August 25, 2024. Asked my HS this: I was asking directly this time how many days had gone between my death in Cleopatra's body and between my soul being implanted into a new physical body, which was the embryo at the time. If 21 days +/-1 day (-6 C to F is ~21) then I wanted to see синий (blue); if it was not I wanted to see orange. If it was 49 days +/- 1 day, then I wanted to see green. Here I realized that I didn't need to ask for orange.

Additionally, I asked this: If in my Hypatia's life I was 49 +/- ~1 year, then I wanted to see red. If not close to 49 – e.g. 45 or 65 – then I wanted to hear music.

I asked that my attention be drawn to any indicator I'd get.

Woke up early. Had subtle memory of maybe seeing green. I addressed my HS saying if it was the answer to please repeat it because I didn't remember a lot of details.

In another dream I 100% saw a Godzilla-like creature (hours before I saw Corridor Crew's video where that creature was shown) which had slightly dark-green scales. At one point the enormous thing opened its mouse to reveal the reddish insides and teeth. Then it spotted us – myself and a woman who walked along with me – and it's possible the laser beam that it's spitted at us had reds in it. We tried to escape from the creature in the direction we came from and then I just decided to wake up because it was a dream.

There was another dream in which a robot was chasing us – me and a guy. It's possible I had a female body in this sequence. It's chased us on the rooftops of buildings. At one point we were on a skyscraper. The guy jumped down from a great height (watched Silent Hill 2 on LIZZ's channel; where James was jumping into many holes). Somehow, he was ok and I was near him already (Maria ref. from SH2?). Then we went on a slope of a glass roof and he somehow clung to the edge which was probably ~135 degrees. Then we slid and the suspicions were correct – the robot punched a hole where we were a moment ago – it moving through the air ducts was our thought. I went back to the building and I saw how the robot gets on the human appearance – but it's still whitish rubber instead of human skin; someone chased after it? Next thing I remember clearly is how a green plant with long leaves (e.g. pineapple, etc.) was shown. At the end of its leaves was a substance of a more brighter shade of green. It was to be used to make a poison to get rid of that robot, I guess. A girl was to make it and I was covering her from the guard who decided to come to our table anyway and then I think her asked me a strange question.

In another dream my mother, myself and two twins (whom I think I introduced as Camille and Kennerly – The Harp Twins) wearing what I think was identical dark red cloths were walking from the highway to our village. We haven't yet reached the spot where two forests meet along the road. Mom decided to go around that small forest to the right (the dirt road actually used to be there circling around that forest). When we reached the road which can lead either to the main dirt road to out village, or to another village and to other places, ma stopped. I thought she'd go that other way to the right but no, she was just checking out the green forest. Small green trees (I think firs?) were happily growing up; I remembered in the dream how some time ago they were so little? (did the same thought happen to ever visit me irl?) Then I saw a young but already quite large acorn tree with little bright green acorns that it was nourishing. A loud thunder was heard. I looked up and saw only grey clouds showing no trace of the sky; the thunder was also not visible. We went to our village I guess (the area looked nothing I know/remember). There was a big snake. Mom for some reason threw a rock on top of it. We quickly(?) went on. I remember then only that one of the twins became a snake too – a bit smaller than the one we tried to avoid. The larger snake started to chase the small one in the other direction – where we came from. I dashed to help the little snake. I grabbed her eventually and ran in that other direction from the large snake that was still happily chasing us. I decided to just wake up because it was a dream.

It looks like 49 days did pass between my Cleopatra's death and when my soul was inserted into a new physical body. Maybe Michel Desmarquet was correct about that part. But here's the thing. He said that if we commit sude we have to live the time we had to live in that life in a new body. But it doesn't make sense currently because it was known already that a person would commit sude – something I might ask my HS just in case I'm wrong.

It's also possible I died at 49 as Hypatia. Unfortunately, the reds weren't as distinct as the greens.

*

I tried asking again to confirm the twins wore red and it was the answer, but some ##$@ with loud music outside made the whole house wake up I'm sure.

Of note is that I asked my HS to please repeat the answer and the chase theme replayed itself 3 times, and the theme of me deciding to wake up while running from Godzilla/snake in the direction I came from with someone else near me is another.

August 27, 2024. Asked my HS what my full name was in my past life in which my last name was Kennedy. No indicators as I wanted to focus my attention on the name: spoken and written.

Maybe I saw some names in the first dream before waking up. I have no memory of them.

I asked my HS to repeat the answer if I did get it and didn't remember it.

Nothing.

But there was a dream in which I was with my mother in my father's apartment. Tenants were not there as it was clear we had arrangements that they leave while we're there; apparently, they somehow managed to find a place to spend the night in. The apartment didn't look too good. Especially the bathroom which didn't have the plastic panels I installed there and the walls were covered by God knows what… several layers of some materials which became all crooked from the moisture I presume. I took two photos of the damage and then I started recording a video. What I noticed is my face in the reflection. I'm not sure if it was the face of my current physical body. I did have full dark hair on my head it seemed. Facial features were not exactly the same too… (it's possible I looked similar to how I looked on the old black and white photo I did for documents — img940.jpg) and it wasn't the face I saw in my lucid dream in which I was in my bathroom (Scatman and Anton ref.). Speaking of bathrooms, in the dream I had there was also a leak – but a lot more serious. In fact, the whole floor in the toilet was flooded. I used a pan to scoop the water from the floor and discharge it into the toilet. Then I tried to throw 2 pieces of twisted macaroni to pigeons from the small window in the kitchen. I missed somehow and the 2 pieces were on the floor. I tried again with more success. Sometime during all of that business pigeons tried to sit on the small window; and I did notice that tenants' pasta was in the sink.

It's possible I've already come across my past life's name (Kennedy) and I simply need to ask the question directly – was I that or that Kennedy or not.

The same case was with Alexander.

August 28, 2024. Asked my HS today shortly after midnight direct questions. If I was Patrick Kennedy (Feb. 6 1823 – Nov. 22 1858) then I wanted to see blue (синий). If I was Mary K. Gunnip (1816-1881) then I wanted to see yellow. If during the lives of those people I lived in another physical body I wanted to see red; there were some hiccups while I was doing that because I didn't know how to better pose my question. Asked to draw my attention to the color I'd be seeing. I had the wiki and other pages open about Mr. Kennedy and Mrs. Gunnip respectively to better identify them when asking my Higher Self the question.

In the last dream I saw a porridge. I was preparing it with someone. As I went to fetch the board and returned I saw that there was red jam in the porridge of 2 plates. Mine, which was rice, and which stood on the table (irl it has yellow cover on top but I either did not see it in my dream [e.g. it wasn't there] or didn't pay any attention to it) didn't have any jam.

Looks like I wasn't those people – and it's not surprising – and it looks like I lived at least one life during that period.

August 29, 2024. Asked my HS regarding the questions of 18.04.2024 & 30.04.2024 regarding Nefertiti. I learned later that researchers may not know the exact historic dates for the events taking place In 1300+ BC. So I asked if I got negative answer – that I was not THAT Nefertiti – because of 1350 BC; blue would mean yes. I also asked if I the answer would have been positive if I said 1340 BC instead of 1350 BC; red = yes.

A fly and a mosquito bothered me the whole night and don't remember having any dreams at all.

And it's possible I already know the answer and so I got no answers tonight.

August 30, 2024. Asked my HS if I was on board of Titanic which sank in 1912 on April 15. Violet – I was; Orange – I wasn't.

Woke up when it was around 4am. Couldn't fall asleep for long. When I did – falling in and out of sleep – there was a brief dream in which I saw violet urls covering the entirety of dark-grey background (like I have now in the Word program). This was clearly the answer.

I note that because later I saw a strange dream about Anton's messages with a female dentist who was later revealed to be desiring having s*x but she needed to cure teeth all day long or something in that nature. I thought if it was the same young blonde woman who was my dentist. I went to the hospital and put a poster on a wall there; the woman had dark hair and her hairstyle was clearly different; her name was also something like Masha (close to Maria); her last name was mentioned many times but I don't remember it; I think it started with M; an elderly couple saw the poster and said it's not the first time they see people asking about her. I started telling the story of why I was there but he wasn't interested and just went away. Now – during this sequence I saw – but not exactly in focus – letters on the hospital's wall (don't remember the color… reddish(?)), and then I saw the sun lighting up the brick walls of the house nearby… maybe the color was in the range from yellow to orange.

But the thing here it was part of the scene and it was not in focus. Violet urls were not a part of any scenes since I fell asleep -> saw them -> woke up and wrote that down on my phone.

It appears I was on Titanic and that means my past life's name should be on the list of people who died/survived the catastrophe.

I noticed that at least 3 people called 'Olay' have some negativity towards me but they also helped/advised me somehow.

Cousin Olay helped with saving the apartment and recently helped a bit with the scheming – to some degree – tenants. Sometimes she'd hang up without saying goodbye and it was clear the disconnect had nothing to do with our phones.

Olay from the 9-th floor tried to give me advise after it became clear she doesn't want to see me at all. She'd ignore me later.

Olay from village (Marina's relative) was the only one who at least wrote me after I unsuccessfully tried to asked Ira, Marina, Vova, about the 2 stones and clouds. While she never touched the very topic I tried to know her recollection of, she also mentioned the fact about needing to be strong (I told her about being ignored and thought of as crazy; that they could have at least said something.)

Bottom of wheel can be difficult to see myself when I was at the top. I wonder how I'll feel if I find my past lives being at the top of the wheel?

August 31, 2024. Asked my HS if in my past life in which I was on board of Titanic which sank in 1912 I survived the catastrophe – green, or if I died during it – синий (blue). In both cases asked to draw my attention to the color I'd see.

I saw dark shades of blue on an old CRT monitor. Apparently, I was in my father's apartment, and he returned – as me and my mother realized by hearing his muffled speech somewhere. So I turned off the PC – when I noticed the colors – and we went to the dark corridor. There were no lights. We couldn't find out street cloths. Suddenly father came out of the farthest room and I said about the lights, somehow managing to turn them on. There was only his white jacket with dark colors here and there hanging on the wall. Where are our cloths? He grabbed my mother's head and there was a wall's corner in several centimeters away… I screamed to get his hands off her or something and woke up due to the intensity of the scene.

I recorded that I saw blue and I said to my HS in another question that I think it was probably the answer.

If it wasn't I used sounds as indicators for the following question: Was I a male – music, or female – real voice of a real bird (no birds talking in human language) – in my life in which I was on board of the Titanic which sank in 1912.

I heard music once maybe, recorded the note on my phone, and when I fell asleep again I definitely heard the music in another dream when I was chasing after some bug the size of a human hand on some space ship. The music was similar to those playing during the intense moments or battles in the movies.

There were other dreams, the last of which was a strange one concerning criminals killing their buddies (?) just to throw them under their moving car out of the window.

Of note: I forgot the blue was supposed to be the indicator of death and thought it meant I survived the Titanic sinking. It got me thinking why then I have this phobia of frozen human body parts (dead or alive). Then I had that dream in which I was in the water looking up at the angled deck of a huge sinking ship. When I listened to my audio recording I realized my mistake and then all started to make sense again.

It's why it's important to record your questions to HS on audio.

Looks like in Titanic life I was a male who did not survive the catastrophe.

I'll note the person drowned in relation to my Cleo's life. Don't know if I was somehow responsible. IF I was then it may be the reason why I had to die in such a way.

September

September 1, 2024. I asked my Higher Self this. Was I a crew member on Titanic – orange; was I a passenger on Titanic – violet. Attention. (I asked the question again shortly after so that it was more clear what I'm asking; there's no ambiguity in it)

I woke up and wasn't sure if the thing I saw was yellow or towards the orange.

I asked another question. What was my 'hometown' in this list https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Passengers_of_the_Titanic . I thought it was the place of birth (but it's not). I wanted to hear music as indicator of the answer. Real voice of a real bird – if there's no such record in my row in that list. Green – in case I wasn't in that list. I didn't know then that there's another list for the crew members https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Crew_of_the_Titanic. Maybe I got the answer that I got because of all this confusion.

I saw orange bonfire under the silver car which I knew was the car I had in my Vivien's life. It was the answer to my first question

Then there was a scene of two women preparing for the court proceedings. One of them, called Ira, was carrying paperwork to the other woman and back. What happened is that I probably was also in the room and someone either sued me or attempted to take my apartment. The name of the accuser (?) definitely had 'Wyoming' written in it, and I said that word also – something like that company/person (?) from Wyoming… I need to note I don't remember hearing any music during this scene, or during this night.

There was another scene. I had to be in court for some reason and the only way to get there was to say/become a defense attorney. Somehow it worked and I was sitting at the desk behind which the accused is sitting (looking at the judge it's the desk on the right side). A paper said something about Jehovah's Witnesses having something for 13 years (? Or other period of time).

Based on the dream's answer I was a crew member on the Titanic.

I looked if any crew member had any connection to Wyoming and it's negative. But since there was no music it's possible it's not even my answer. And as I know now I messed up my second question anyway.

https://www.worldatlas.com/articles/us-states-by-jehovah-s-witness-population.html

Googling 'jehovah witness wyoming' brought me to those websites. Wyoming has the most % of those people – 3% — in the US. But! It's only because Wyoming has a small population. So the number of those people in that state isn't that high. If it's of any relation to my dream or question remains to be seen.

The only person who died and traveled to Wyoming. But he wasn't part of the crew. There are several facts about him that resonate with me. He got his ticket illegally (court theme in my dream). It's just a speculation but maybe – maybe – I was someone who came across him on Titanic and that's why I had this dream.

September 2, 2024. The question to my HS was regarding the body I saw in the dream from 26.10.2023.
Did I have that body in my life in which I was aboard Titanic which sank in 1912 – синий (blue).
Is that the body I had in the past life in which my last name was Kennedy; so the life between Emma Hamilton's and Vivien Leigh's – green.
If I did not have that body I wanted to see – red.
If I had that body in another life other than the ones I mentioned – yellow.
Asked to draw my attention to the indicators I'd see.
I had 4-5 dreams. Air conditioners of the spa below were left on during the whole night and that might have been the reason why I wasn't too focused today in my dreams.
In the first I remembered there was – I think – blue road I had to take to be on time. At one moment the car drove on some purple ridge… maybe it was like a roller coaster – where the 'road' is made into a ring (so your head is looking down at one point in that loop).
Then I remember two zombies and one was saying 'for we are many' (it's something I said irl earlier in the day). Maybe (!) the zombies were dark green but it was dark and so it's mostly my assumption. The details of all the today's dreams are not remembered very well. Maybe they wanted to show something to me…
I woke up, trying to remember if I got any answers. I decided to ask my HS to repeat the question I asked earlier. All the indicators are the same.
In another dream I needed to get somewhere and I think I had to take a pot with green plant and put it aside so that I can open the window and go out via it.
Finally, I got the dream I thought about – in which I have the body I had in my past life. In this long dream sequence I had my past body of Vivien Leigh (and so the voice was also that of my past life).

I need to note that I felt like myself (in my other body; self-identification, while being me, perhaps took some characteristic of the old life) – not someone else. It seemed all natural.

There was something about a court maybe. There were many people in the room. Maybe the scene was influenced by the fact I watched the scenes with myself in the Storm in a Teacup just hours before going to bed too. There was a balcony like area, and I was on it. I guess I decided to save a man – whom I knew – from something bad happening to him in that court. So I lowered a pole or something for him to grab on and somehow (again, I had my old female petite body) I managed to pull him up onto the balcony.

We went up and then up again up the ladder. Seemingly it was a dead end… but, somehow, the man had already a wingsuit on him. Maybe we quickly exchanged words and I put my arms around him as he jumped and flew away from that place. As we approached the ground I somehow was able to safely touch the ground with my feet and quickly stepping backwards we finally landed. Were my shoes red or not I can't say for certain now.

We went to some building in which I think I knew were other people. Now, there were trees and bushes that we were walking by, but I didn't exactly pay attention to their greenery. During this time I knew how I felt – serious and composed – and in my mind I thought something along the lines why Vivien Leigh and not Mary Magdalene. I guess for some reason Mary's life would fit the whole situation better.

There was another short dream. At one point I remember a question being made to me – do I want to repeat? And I said that yes, I do. I was having my past body of Vivien Leigh again and I was opening a door and going somewhere. But the dream got cut off – maybe because of the noise outside (I had to put on my noise reducing headphones at one point).

There was also a dream in which I married a girl and – dream logic – this allowed her to live in Anton father's apartment on the 7-th floor. But since she was my wife it was only natural (duh) that I live with her in there and Victor (Anton's dad) lived in my apartment.

There was a scene where I was in bed with her and the environment corresponded to the old one of Anton's apartment. I guess someone entered the apartment. At this moment the dream blurred out because I was walking up, I guess.

The only color I did not see was yellow.

I clearly saw blue road and then green plant. Maybe the shoes were red too.

It's the first time in a year that I see so many colors in one night and one might think the answers contradict each other and the method doesn't work. But there is an explanation; and I am trying to save the whole experience I've been through in this year; I want to believe – I want to know.

The fact is in case with the mirror dream in which, as I later learned, I saw my past body that was once called Cleopatra, I did ask in the dream to change my body to that which I had in my past life.

In the lucid dream I was referring to this night there was never such a question from me – both irl or in the dream. But, yes, generally I did long to see my past bodies in my dreams. And when I was stepping to the left I was expecting to see my own body, and I saw the one I described on that October's day.

The only reason I started thinking it was my past body is because I saw similarities in that body with 2 people I knew – Anton & Scatman. By that time I've already found out that in some episodes of my past lives I'd look like people I know in some periods of their lives. So it was a logical assumption.

If the 3 colors I saw today were the answers, then it all still may make sense.

It would mean that the body I saw in that dream was the mix of how I looked in my 2 lives I lived between Emma and Vivien's lives.

It is possible because in one dream I saw myself with black eyes and white skin. It was a hint about me being Cleopatra as it turned out. In that dream my face going through some transformations.

So, IF it is so and I'm not just grasping to straws here, then blue and green meant I had the hair in one of those lives, and facial features in another – don't know yet which in which. Red – if I did see it (but I need to note that I probably did; I also saw purple before which can look close enough to be called red) – would mean that I did not have that exact body in my past because it was – as I assume here – a mix of my two past bodies. I saw those 3 colors because the answers they represent are true in their own light.

I'll have to go with this theory for now if I want to continue my research into the reincarnation by using this method.

And it is a good idea to note that I did not see the yellow colors – that one color which would break the whole thing… and it wasn't a part of my dreams.

Yesterday I was looking at the photos of people who were a part of the crew on Titanic and died in the disaster. Asked my HS and Thiaooubians to create a knock somewhere in the room – which can't be explained by ordinary causes – if I was shown in one of the photos. There was a barely audible knock when I looked at one of the photos and one man caught my attention.

September 3, 2024. I asked my HS, and shortly after included Thao, Biastra and Latoli, what my name was in my past life in which I was onboard of Titanic that sank in 1912. I thought I had figured out enough to know that directly. I did not ask for any indicators because I wanted to focus only on the name.

I don't think I saw or heard any names.

Now, I heard Sarah Brightman – Here with Me in the dream in which I also saw Distortion2 streamer (and one of souls I share my HS with). It's possible the same white jacket with dark stripes/dots here and there that I saw in my other old PC dream (I saw blue colors and then my father grabbed mom's head) was shown by him or just shown. And it looked like I took upon myself to go abroad to visit Dist in 7 (or 14?) days; I thought how'd I make that trip given my health.

Googling for 'titanic Brightman' immediately led me to a video of Sarah Brightman singing the Italian version of My Heart will Go On from James Cameron's Titanic.

Sarah Brightman — Il Mio Cuore Va (My Heart Goes [On]). She sings it in Italian.

I really, really wanted to know my name and I almost thought it would be given to me. In a way it shows once more my wishes – whenever I may have them – do not impact the answers I get.

One thought that comes to mind is by not getting my identity right away I get to learn the things I might not have learnt otherwise. Right now I'm curious if Sarah B. lived during the Titanic's time and who she was if she did; did she have any connection to Titanic then? It's not the first time Sarah is a part of my dreams.

September 4, 2024. Yesterday before going to sleep I addressed two questions to Higher Self, Thao, Biastra, and Latoli – since it was almost anniversary since I had that fateful dream saying I was Vivien Leigh.

Regarding my past life in which I was aboard the Titanic that sank in 1912 I asked this: If I was this Angelo Mario Rotta (I had the below url open on my phone to identify whom I'm referring to), then I wanted to see red. If I was not, then I wanted to know the country I was born in that life; and, if possible, the city of my birth. Green would be the indicator of the answer.
https://www.encyclopedia-titanica.org/titanic-victim/angelo-mario-rotta.html

Then I asked the second less important question since I already knew the answer. I opened the webpages of https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Alexander_the_Great &

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nefertiti and basically asked if I was the people those articles are written about – acknowledging there could be errors in it and maybe people didn't call me, to give an example, 'Nefertiti' when I lived that life (the reason being I got negative answers before when I asked that question; later it turned out it was due to [historical] errors/inaccuracies). Music was to be the indicator that is correct – I was those 2 people in my past lives. If I was not either of them – I wanted to hear the real voice of a real bird or other animal (cat, dog, horse, etc.)

With all the indicators I asked to draw my attention to them so that I remember my answers when I wake up.

At first I woke up and had subtle memory/understanding that I heard music from 'That Hamilton Woman' (I rewatched that film several hours earlier). The music itself corresponded to that heard right after the 'dead face' monologue at 00:05:30 – before we (me and the actress playing my mother in Emma's life – got curious if she could have been Mrs. Cadogan too in her past life…) meet Sir William.

Then I woke up remembering making a note about a large red door – maybe double-sided. I remembered the door itself too. But there was no note on my phone – it was another instance of when I make a note of something inside of a dream.

I also remembered that I heard music again (don't remember if it was a known piece or something I never heard before).

September 5, 2024. Before going to bed I didn't feel like asking any questions this time. Thought to take a 'night' off. But then I was thinking of how St. Martin's Lane connects my two past lives – Angelo and Vivien – and I decided to read a bit about its history. I opened this webpage https://www.british-history.ac.uk/survey-london/vol20/pt3/pp115-122

There were many names, one of which was Abraham. I remembered then I read about him after I had a dream with that same name after I asked who I was if I lived during Queen Christina's time.

So, I did ask the question after all. I opened that link and read a bit from it (url and the headings) to identify it better. I said then to my HS that if in that article there is my name – the name I had in my past life – then I wanted to see red in my dream.

If there is no my name in that article, then I'd like to know the country – and if possible city too — I was born in my Kennedy life – which I lived between E.H. and V.L. Green – indicator.

As often I do it, I asked to draw my attention to the indicators and the main answer.

In a dream I was in a store which may have been in London, but the layout was like the one from 5-ka near my house. I was with someone – a woman. There was some narrative as I took a red pepper. I was looking at it because its texture got my attention. Then something weird happened to the woman. Maybe she was arrested or something.

I'm not sure if I walked and caught a glimpse of green cucumbers.

What I know is that I later saw another red pepper with white on top of it (it wasn't fully red).

It is possible I didn't ask the question the correct way, and I saw the red not because I – the person – was in that article, but that a name I had in some other time and place.

Имя (name) technically means the first name, not the last name.

Mary, Abraham, and Alexander appear in that page, for example (atm about 11 of my past lives' names are known).

The identical situation is with the green. It meant that if I had a name which is not in this article I see green – which I did. And there's no 'Cleopatra', 'Hypatia', 'Vivien', etc.

This is why I saw both red and green [in one dream].

There's still a chance I could be mentioned in that article, though. Maybe I'll ask again but properly.

It's a good practice. I didn't feel like asking any questions anyway, and I got to learn something still.

September 7, 2024. Yesterday I asked again about that article. This time I said if 'I' was mentioned in that article – I in one of my past lives, in which I must have lived on that St. Martien's lane (then I readjusted myself and said again that the importance here is in whether I in my past life was mentioned in that article). If yes, then I wanted to see red. If not, then green.

The dream was taking place in my village – Малые Горки. I saw a white dust being blown onto green leaves of trees. I guess it was summer.

As I was walking back I saw someone in red sitting on the bench or porch of the house located on the plot that used to belong to my father (near Vladik and Sergey).

I walked on towards my house and I saw there was a tall fence in front of Sergey's house. It surrounded his plants. The fence itself had several colors, one of which was red. Others, maybe, were white and blue(?)… in fact, color-wise it may have been identical fence that I saw around the house I used to live in Missy's life ('Apparently where MA Lived — info from an actual book read by many 4.png').

I walked on down the narrow dirt footpath near Vova's house. Sasha (little Sasha) drove on his bicycle near me up the path I'd just walked. I think he was wearing a dark red shirt.

I walked into my house and I think mother was sitting at the table (in the small house).

I recorded what I saw in the dream and since the night was young I asked another question – without recording it. It was a simple question. I basically referred to the article I was asking my HS about earlier and without saying a lot of unnecessary things I just asked if I in my past life was mentioned in it I wanted to see yellow. Blue if not.

It was night in the village. We were in the fields between our village and the spring – where the two fields touch each other (albeit, now the young trees grow there). Dima drove up on his scooter… only it was yellow in color… Just like mine… When the lights were turned off, the color reverted back to black… somehow in the dream's logic the light influenced the color of that scooter.

Then I was with my ex-friends I guess. There was something about group chat exclusion.

Most importantly, I recorded on my phone what I saw previously – blue shirt.

I don't remember what I meant when I recorded a quick note – 'Blue shirt. Erot on dream in village. Group chat exclude'

It was another dream after I woke up. It's not related to the Q&A I think.

I remember how I was in a pool with a bunch of other people who were completely naked. Seeing that I took my pants off, folded them, and placed them where there was an empty place near other people's underwear. The water was bluish.

Then I remember I was completely alone in that pool… it's important to note that I remembered something… the poster showing the classic aliens (large head, narrow neck, small bodies, large black eyes, no cloths… etc.). Those same aliens were staring at me through the ceiling's window. Now they were opening it and got inside. I wasn't exactly terrified, but it was a mater of concern for me. I didn't want to be there and maybe I slightly knew it was a dream. Maybe my thinking caused a change – now it was one huge alien wearing some armor (?) – at the very least the creature had some cloths on – who was in that window trying to get in.

3 times I've asked the question in different ways and 3 times I got the same answers. In all cases there's no contradiction because I both was mentioned in my past life (e.g. in one of my past life) and I also wasn't (e.g. in all the other past lives which were not mentioned in that article).

I think at this point it's safe to assume I was mentioned in that article (in one of my past life – maybe in several, who knows at this point). All I need to do now is to find out which name it is.

September 8, 2024. Again asked my Higher Self (HS) about my last 4-th life in which I was a ruler (other lives are: Nefertiti, Alexander III of Macedon, Cleopatra VII). I asked if in that life I was a ruler of Egypt – some sort of a leader… maybe I wasn't living there. Orange if yes. Green if not. Later and off the record I asked my HS to say/show the name of the country I was a leader of.

I woke up early and couldn't fall asleep. I was thinking about the fact how 3 Olays have similar dispositions to me; decided to read again the Olga of Kiev. Her husband Igor got killed by being torn in two by a couple of birch(?) trees he was tied to. Then I found it's possible in Alexander's life I did the same to people… what if I was…

Then erotic thoughts came in and I'd return to them instead of just relaxing and calming my mind. Had to M 3 times in several hours.

But I did fall asleep and maybe I finally got the answer. Maybe!

Maybe it was me whose hand got mutilated. What was left of the thumb was used to hold vinyl record which was spinning and playing a Beetles song. I realized something at that moment, remembering as Vivien I was near their drummer at one point in my life. I opened my file where I write all the notes about my past lives and went to Hypatia. Not sure why atm.

Then I remember that someone – Peter Santenello or someone pretty much like him – conducted an interview with the criminals who – I guess – killed me in that dream. They were looking like they're from Asian region. One of them casually boasted about the tasty food or drink… Peter did not care and remained serious… I'll note that the scene was taking place outdoors and there were – I'm almost sure – trees around; but I did not exactly look directly at them.

Around this time my attention was drawn to something two or more times… a writing… of someone from China.

I'll have to ask now if in that 4-th leader life I was the leader of China at some point.

September 9, 2024. Asked my HS 2 questions. If in my 4-th life, in which I was a leader and of which I – as far as I'm aware – I know not, I was the leader of China, then I wanted to see blue. Orange if not.

If in my past life of Kennedy I was born in London, then I wanted to hear music. If not a real voice of a real animal (bird, etc.).

If the answer was negative then I wished – if possible – show and tell me the countries. Asked to draw my attention whichever indicator I'd see.

In one dream I was in my apartment (?). Well, it was an apartment building and there was a gang there. There was some communication and I was about to get the heck out of there when I think I saw some options on paper appear in front of me. Maybe one of them was blue… or green… I don't remember.

After I woke up I thought if music was heard also at any point. I was sure I heard no animals or birds.

I asked my HS to please repeat the answers.

In another dream there was a yeti. I think its fur had bluish tint to it. White is also in my mind. Maybe white fur was lit by something blue.

I feel that there was a soft calm music playing too sometime in that dream.

Looks like I used to be some kind of a leader in China in that 4-th leader life.

And as Kennedy I seemingly was born in London, England.

September 10, 2024. Q to HS – Was I gladiator in one of my past lives. Yes – green, no – red.

In one dream I was in Lakibrovo. Felt as if I lived there. Maybe there was Olay (Marina's) and Denis together. Don't suppose my attention was really drawn to the trees around.

In another dream I had to escape from water with some liquid metal(?) or something. Then somebody pulled a control lever and it had red color lit up on it. The thing trapped or killed someone else.

I'll suppose that I probably was not a gladiator in my past lives.

September 11, 2024. My q to HS – was I Isis (who's considered a goddess now in mythology). I mentioned that some details, including the name, could be inaccurate; but if we knew all there is to know we'd realize that Cleopatra – I – was the person the legend of Isis is stemming from basically. Orange – yes, blue – not.

There was a dream in which I think there was https://www.twitch.tv/vika_karter and maybe her boyfriend. There was a journal – Сад и Огород (~Garden and Vegetable Garden). A video then was shown and there was an orangy little creature – maybe the size… and shape(?) of a scorpion(?) – running across the frame.

I woke up and asked HS to repeat the answer. I couldn't fall asleep for long and I don't remember the dreams very well.

What I will say in the first dreams I had I think there was something about my past life of Cleopatra.

I'll think that I probably was Isis. Ideally, I'd need to have more confirmations here.

And I have a lot more new questions now… like does it mean I resurrected someone in that life of Isis? If so it may be another instance when in this life I wanted to experience something which I did already in another life – the other experience has to do I was an actress already as Vivien Leigh. Of course, the question here is how did I know how to resurrect? I still wasn't able to resurrect a single dead pigeon (karma and lack of certain knowledge probably).

Then I'd need to find out when I lived that life… maybe it was before 2000 BC.

Why Vika was in my dream? That night I remembered how they play Minecraft and Vika was leading a cow to reproduce, so to say. Cows are connected to Isis. Maybe that's one of reasons.

September 12, 2024. Asked HS about my beaver dream in which I was walking with two females and had a spear (?). Was it showing my past life – assuming the details can be not precise, artistic; was that dream showing me true information to some extent. Yes – violet. No – red.

I didn't get any direct answers. And I think I got hint(s) as to why.

In one dream I was walking outside my house in Moscow and I saw Kolya with some other guy. I turned to walk on another path not wishing to talk to anyone. That other man looked at me as I passed him by. Kolya waited a streetcar with someone else. The car was approaching rapidly… and didn't stop; there was a sign "посадки нет" (meaning the car won't stop to pick up people).

Before that there was a man with ginger hair. I think I saw him a couple of times.

In another dream I was writing a message which I had to send to several people… maybe there were the people I knew from village (who at one point were considered childhood friends). I sent one to Marina and as I was writing some additional info, I realized I'd already sent her that question before.

I saw some colors in my dreams but they were never the ones I asked to be the indicators of the answers.

I remembered how I asked my HS before about the dreams with my throat being cut. Didn't look like those were my past lives (July 2 & 4, 2024).

The thing is what were those dreams about then? Why did I see them?

*

I'll note that in the first dreams I probably saw a narrative about Isis; that I'll find something new – a connection to my other lives – if I read about Isis more.

Of another note… some time ago I had a dream and I think there was something about me as Vivien. And I think I in that life was called or referred to as 'psychic'. Technically the word matches the certain prophecies I made in that life and also in Missy's.

September 13, 2024. Q to HS – did I resurrect someone (human, animal) in the past life of Isis? Green – yes. Red – no. Blue if I resurrected someone in other life other than Isis'.

The answer was probably red – no.

In one dream I, Kolya, Anton (and someone else maybe? Stas?) were in the corridor to my apartment. We had old laptop to play a game on and I decided to go to my room to get headphones and a mouse to plug into that old pc. I returned and saw how Kolya went to my room and was taking off my Vivien pictures from the wall…? He returned and he gave a plastic file in which there were black and white photos of a man who it seemed like was him; the photographs were torn in half evidentially removing someone else to leave just that man. We were then near the 20-th building and I was asking or telling something about my past life of Vivien; like I am who I am (in my past lives) and I wanted them to respect that or something. They silently went to the entrance of that house (near the kids' courtyard) and I knew they chose not to be with me. Then I imagined blowing the whole house to smithereens by cutting the gas pipe… I guess the gaslighting really took a toll on me…

The second dream is somewhat upsetting to tell… intelligence is important to me, I like learning something about life, and I don't like when someone or something calls me names because I've made foolish mistakes too throughout my existence.

I was in my school which was modernized – maybe even rebuilt. I went to my old class where Ekaterina V. used to be our head teacher. I was surprised to see small kids in the room and headed back out. I went downstairs. It was understood we had 2 more classes to attend. But which ones? It was the first time in school this year (?) and we still didn't know our schedule well. Maybe someone went to look at it but I decided to do it myself, going through the crowds of people of different ages and sizes. To my surprise we had 10(!) classes today and the last one was called «паяние» (soldering) (?) for some reason.

I went back where the physics class is nearby. Maybe there was an exit where the history class used to be. All the time now I was wondering why I'm in the 10th grade (again?). Did I have to repeat a year because I barely visited school the other year? I guess two of my previous classmates were there, so…

Then a book or something appeared or was in my hands. There were the options to choose from (like you're on an exam) and one read that maybe you're just a fool («просто дурак»)… and I thought then where's the option about basically all the difficulties I had to face and because of which I made my stupid decisions (daydreaming in particular)? The thing is I think that option showed someone in profile wearing red… it could have been even Isis (but that real picture also had blue in it which I don't think I saw.)

I woke up. It was after 6 a.m. All the negatives aside, I still asked my HS to repeat the last answer I asked if I'd fall asleep – I didn't need much sleep; just enough to know the answer. Indicators were the same, I said.

Somehow, I did manage to sleep for several minutes.

All I remember is seeing a black and white photo of someone with a trace of mustache. Was it the same person from the other dream I had today?

When I woke up… or was in the process of, I thought about that photo and for some reason I thought I remembered red associated with it… but all I remember clearly is that b&w photo.

Was he (Kolya) someone from the photo? The actor with whom I played in Vivien's life? (Robert Taylor, Bats actor, Laurence Olivier the ones who had mustache in photos). Bats actor is of interest here; I think I'd recognize the other two in that dream photo.

Basically, there's a potential that the dream could have been true and it hinted me about K.'s past life… but! I'd need to ask my HS later about that.

What I think about the negativity?

First of all, I'm not that person because I did realize many truths about life. And I do know I've made errors and willing to learn from them.

Secondly. Trying to be optimistic and I think it was an attempt to help me. Sadly, the daydreaming part of my life is quite silly and very destructive… I know how to get rid of it but…

People said I was intelligent in my previous lives of Vivien and Missy. And I've also made foolish decisions… smoking – specially while being ill – is one of them; leaving school because of Karen who later killed me is another. It's another instance of my duality – I'm smart in some areas of life, and yet I act like a total fool in others.

Walked today by that entrance of the 20-th building on my street. Never knew it was the 1-st entrance and the apartment's numbers there are in this range: 1-68. Of course, the number reminds me of my old Missy's birthday almost whenever I see it now.

September 18, 2024. I returned back to this dream to ask if Kolya – he in his past life — was someone I knew or at least worked with in my Vivien Leigh life. Green – yes. Red – no. But I did ask mainly to know the name he had; I later asked to see green just in case the name can't be given to me directly for some reason.

I saw a video of an old lady who asked how to pass an enemy in Dark Souls. There was something about her daughter maybe too.

I saw at first narrow pipes near brick wall. Don't suppose I saw the color of them too well. I was just wondering if red could have been it.

What I did see is the green landmasses surrounding the boss area on which Guit88man (a streamer) tried to jump. Before that he tried to get a lizard (which gives supplies when killed) on the boss arena and he had to parry the boss to do that. For some reason the lizard spawned when the boss fell off the arena. The lizard survived, I guess.

So that was the answer. We knew one another in my past life of VL. The dream was true.

But I still didn't know who he was then. So I asked again:

Laurence Olivier – blue; Robert Taylor – music; Michael Shepley from Bats in the Belfry – real voice of a real animal/bird that I could recognize. Later I added pink color in case he was neither.

Could not fall asleep for a long time and it was bright outside when I finally did.

I saw the house in which we – Larry and I – stayed during filming of Gone with the Wind. Davod O. Selznick rented for me that house on 520 NORTH CRESCENT DRIVE — BEVERLY HILLS. The house in the dream was as if mirrored though – at least that's how I see it now that I took a look at the real house again.

I walked inside, realizing that it was not a house now but something else… an exhibition or something.

A woman approached me and asked something. I asked if I can take pictures – yes, I could. I let her give me a bit of a tour; talk about something. There were some little statuettes on one stand.

There were also apples. Their dominant color of more to the white side. But they also had some lines which I think were red in color.. but it's possible that was a version of pink too (I made a mistake again of asking to show the color which can be the rainbow color also). I looked at those apples closely, saying something about them.

I proceeded to another room (the left one if the house is viewed from outside. 'My room' was to the right side of the house in the dream). I guess during the conversation I stated that I can't wait to get to my room or something like that.

Now, there was a tv screen. I looked at it and I also pointed my camera at it, recording something… was the screen blue is what I wonder now? It may have been but I'm note sure.

Then we were in my room. The woman asked if I could prove I was Vivien and I guess there was something about possible making love to her.

I don't remember music or animal voices. (Update: when I woke up it seemed like I could have heard music but I thought it could be music outside irl)

Larence Oliver is the closest one to look similar to the photo I saw on 13.09.2024. But I have to be sure.

I'll have to ask again and hope I get a clear answer.

Update of July 28, 2025. Kolya was born in 1986, Larry died in 1989. Had I known the first truth, then the answer would have been obvious.

September 19, 2024. If Kolya, whom I identified again, was Larence Olivier – blue. Robert Taylor – green. Jack Merivale – yellow. Someone else – red.

Throughout the night I'd have colorful dreams again. It's started ever since I started asking about Kolya's past life when I was Vivien. I asked withing a regular dream why this is happening, and the idea spoken out by me was that [maybe?] it's because the [part?] of the 19% of the electrons of those people (Robert Taylor it seems like) helped create Kolya's new body (however the process may work. It may be related more to the Astral than to the physical – just a thought).

I remember how I was underwater and there was a tiny space for me to breath. I then swam underwater and the door at the end closed just before I could get out. The perspective (or camera) changed, and now I was looking at the scene from behind several people who tried to open the door and I think succeeded in doing that.

Maybe here I got curious why I seemingly see so many colors which can be the answer. What's going on?

I definitely saw a person in green suit of some kind. I stared at him for a bit.

I woke up and I asked my HS to repeat the answer for the last question I asked – same indicators. I then asked to let me hear real voice of a real animal/bird if Kalya did not know me in my past life of Vivien Leigh. I don't remember hearing anything like that.

I also mentioned that I'd really like to please hear the name Kolya had in his past life when we knew each other in my Vivien Leigh life. This whole thing was taking way too much time already (given I seemingly could not get a direct answer and needed to clarify new information).

In the dream I saw a woman, who apparently was my gf. She was seemingly naked (at least her upper body) and she showed red marks on her skin near her left collarbone. I took a look at it, lighting it up with my light from several angles. So it really was in focus.

Then we sit with her on a bench, seemingly near the ex Mossovet cinema (Preobrazhenskaya Square, 12, Moscow. I watched a couple of movies in it irl when I was a ~teenager). The name of George Cukor was definitely mentioned – not once I believe. Somehow, he was responsible for her red marks, and she did not know what happened to her after (she passed out in George's presence what I can gather). I said to her crying that if she'd give birth to the child we test who the father is… because she did not remember what they (she and George) did. Whether she said it, or it was implied, the idea was she'd go on living without restrains for some time (e.g. sleeping with whoever). If I had the same wish – I don't know.

Next, I was riding on a police jet ski. As I was passing near the ship lying on its starboard side (same side which was hit on Titanic by the iceberg) and which had just finished taking in passengers onboard, I was thinking if I should turn on the lights and siren? (for the coolness of it I guess) I didn't.

I – or was it someone else already? – had to arrest or stop a man on another ship.

On that ship I saw green and red containers. I was chasing the guy among them. When I – or someone else (the camera here showed the scene from the 3-rd person) – caught him the fight ensued. This is where I knew my previous training would be of use. Turning around and hitting his head with the foot worked; but before that I think I/man grabbed his head and hit it against the metal column…

Then the 'bad' guy was thrown overboard into water. There were green seaweeds near his head.

Then there was something said about Hypatia – so about me. Maybe someone wanted to report or check on her/me but decided not to.

When in the other dream Kolya went into my room he took the images near the book cabinet. The middle picture shows Robet Taylor two times (from Waterloo Bridge).

It'd seem the answer was Robert Taylor, yet the name I heard was George Cukor. I'm inclined to think the later could be the one based on what little I know about K.

I'll have to ask if K. was G.C.

Then I'll have to ask if the seemingly contradicting answers – one person can't be two other people at the same time – happened because at least the part of the 19% of those other people (R.T., etc.) were used to create his new body.

I am reminded here of Jesus' saying #77:

'Jesus said, "I'm the light that's over all. I am the All. The All has come from me and unfolds toward me. "Split a log; I'm there. Lift the stone, and you'll find me there."'

Technically, as far as I understand it, we're all the one – the Spirit, the Superior Intelligence. So far I've been asking who I was in my past lives and got [right away or after probing the details] the answer. Here I was given that dream about Kolya going through my photos and of course I saw it as a sign to ask who he was in his past life when I was VL. It's not that surprising for me atm to see these unexpected answers I get from the dreams. I wanted to know all there is to know about life and maybe this is what life is giving me – at least the bits I'm allowed to be given atm – what Thao could not tell (due to time, for one reason) about the 19% of the electrons and their purpose and role in creating new bodies. But, it's just my theory for now. I'll have to ask my HS about it.

As for the picture I saw almost in front of me and which could well have been that of Larry? Who knows who that was and why I saw it. Technically it wasn't part of my question, so maybe I should not link it to this current case I'm trying to solve.

Anton said his birthday is in the first months of 1986 (I know the exact date). He could not have been Larry or Jack, but he sure could have been George.

In fact, I looked a bit about George and wanted to hear him speak. So I found his interview with Dick Cavett. Then I read Anton's message and saw that the date the show aired exactly matched the birthday; not the year of course. I want to watch that entire interview later.

Dick Cavett show with George Cukor.
The way he walked and abruptly turned to his right to greet the public immediately reminded me of very similar way Kolya greeted me when I and mom sat on the bench.

Cukor called Garbo stubborn.

28:56. Story about a man from Russia if I heard right.

September 22, 2024. Asked my HS and Thao, Biastra and Latoli (I thought the matter to be serious) if Kolya was George Cukor, the director whom I knew as VL; I identified them a bit, but mainly said it's the same people I asked about the previous nights. If yes – blue, no – yellow.

Then I asked if Robert Taylor's 19% of electrons – or some part of them – were used to create Kolya's body (and that's why it seemed like the answers said he was Robert). Green – yes, red – no.

After I first woke up I could not remember any details from my dream. I did have one though. Just in case I asked to repeat the answers to my last question I had recorded.

This time the dream was clear. I think there was snow outside, covering the grass and trees, as I walked past the corner of my house. There was music coming from the porch of some store that I knew was closed on weekends; I'm almost positive the signboard was mainly blue.

I turned right and walked to the other block of my long house and entered one of stores. (I'll note that throughout the dream I was walking all over that store and its layout was a mix of the real store which used to be where the blue signboard was – only the entrance was in front which I passed in the dream – and of the Magnet store I often go to. In reality that layout is not possible in the real building I was in.)

I wanted to buy pelmeni – packed in the usual red and transparent plastic bag I usually buy – but for some reason I could not buy them; but I did see that bag in the freezer.

Then I saw they were selling buns. The store clerk asked me which one I wanted. I did not expect that because there was another person to my left. So I went to point at the one with red berries; the other I pointed was of basic color similar to bread – but not yellow! I repeated the gesture then – maybe I was asked to. As the clerk was wrapping my two buns he started talking about his possible day off – will he get it or not. We exchanged glances and others were started to be engaged in the discussion too. Since I had time, I started browsing household items on the shelf to my right. I saw the knives with blue handles there – I've had one of those for a long time; they're quite good for their low price.

I went on and turned to the right and headed into the large square room split into two (the impossible layout for that house which exists irl in the Magnet store).

I looked at various trinkets and I spotted a small porcelain… clock(?) don't remember what it was, but I think it had reddish outlines. I did not take it.

I picked up a large ring there at some point. It had a large gem stone and there was a scene behind it. Something about people baptizing in the river. There was also 'devine' written on it. Later I thought the scene looked too brown, too dark and colorless for a stone I'd like to have for the rest of my life. I'm pretty sure I remembered – but did not see the color! – that yellow/gold would better represent my life (maybe the Heroes in WC3 leveling up and lighting up with gold-yellow was also in my mind). So I went back thinking to get another ring maybe.

The bookshelf now contained something entirely else! Books, CDs, or something like that. I asked a clerk something but don't know what it was or what the response was. I could not replace my ring – I could not get yellow color!

I went back and saw DVD and Blu-ray disks. One, I think, was titled Lord of the Rings… the color was maybe towards orange but I doubt it was yellow. Basically, it was probably the real title you can see on the real box. But I don't think it's yellow. For me it's orange. That box wasn't the point of any focus anyhow.

I asked my HS to repeat the answers and I saw several times blue and red, indicating Kolya was/is George Cukor, and that 19% of Robert Taylor's electrons were not used in creating his new body.

The last part was unexpected. So I asked another question off the record – why did the answers in my other dreams seemingly implied he was Robert when he wasn't?

When I finally fell asleep, I saw a dream.

My grandma – who died in 2003 – dropped a tailor's pin (I think that's how it's called; and it had metal round tip) on my bed. The bedclothes were all of the same color – purple (the one I actually have). She said she found it and showed me something different – black in color. I started to search for the pin. Then I had the idea to get my neodymium magnets to pick up the needle with in case I overlook it. I did that – testing the idea on another needle first; I could not find the pin. Grandma wanted to talk to people; she was sitting at my computer screen and there was a video or something on it. I spotted some dirt on my bedclothes… lots of it… I started throwing it on the floor being sure there's no pin on the bed cloths… but what about the floor? Now it was covered with that dirt of unknown origin and it was potentially covering the pin. The magnet was now covered with something – a cloth to protect the magnets?

The idea or message was that it was my error/mistake. Enigma's Mea Culpa is what I'd think of after waking up. Incidentally, it's a Latin phrase and Kolya told me long time ago he was learning Latin.

Initially, it was a simple task to find the pin. But I overcomplicated the whole situation and then it became difficult to find it.

I think it may be analogy to my situation with all the colors in those dreams. I may have asked for way too much.

Usually, I don't have colorful dreams and it's relatively easy for me to spot the answer.

The problem is I initially asked for the name but was just given the answer we knew each other when I was Vivien. Naturally, I was curious to know who he was exactly and so I asked to check several people. Part of me doesn't see where the error was, but I'll keep in mind not to overwhelm my HS and myself.

September 14, 2024. I asked my HS what name – first name – I had in my past life of Kennedy – as I understand it's the last name – and which I lived after my Emma Hamilton's life. I did not ask for any indicators; just asked to please repeat the name and maybe show it written too so that I remember it when I wake up.

In case for some reason I couldn't know the name I wanted to know at least the s*x – I asked to see green if female, red if male.

In the last dream I was on a train which was traveling through China – at least that was understood in the dream. The train slowed but never fully stopped at the station and people just had to disembark and get on the train as it was slowly moving – I think it's how it was. The train kept on going slowly as people were crossing the railroad almost just in front of it. I was sitting in front with someone; I think we had a completely open view – so no windows/glass – in front of us. Maybe I saw people wearing green getting off the way of the train (but maybe they had a different color – I don't remember).

Then the narrative switched to Kristen Stewart (an actress I had a bit of a crush on long time ago). I think she was to appear in her 6-th movie (a franchise) and that time she wanted to use her real name – Mary Jane is what I remember clearly. Maybe Kristen was used too before that, and I don't know for sure, but maybe Kettle or Kattle was used as the last name.

I'd assume Mary Jane was the answer. I think this is the name which was repeated.

But could Kristen Steward also be the answer?

Kettle?

In case with Jade there was a mention about the actor Will Smith. Smith has a relation to my Emma's life — "smith of Ness."

Maybe one of those names I saw today also bears some connection to my past life and is not the actual name I had as Kennedy.

September 15, 2024. Asked my HS 3 questions about my past life of Kennedy.

What city I died at? Name County/State/Oblast/etc. and country if possible.

Was I this https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/263850126/mary-jane-kennedy Green — yes. Red – no.

Also asked if I was related to this https://images.ourontario.ca/london/2292337/data . Music if yes.

Mosquitos were brutal this night and I had no repellant too. Also, young noisy people were shouting and playing loud music outside at some point into the night. I slept but didn't feel too great in the morning.

In one dream I was in my grandmother's apartment. Large room. I was uneasy and looked at the bed near the wall – as if feeling someone's presence (a ghost). I saw a tennis ball covered in white-grey dust – so no green was visible. I went to the small room, saying to my mother something about my sensations. Then we were outside and after some walking I was riding on the elevator, I think. This is where I saw that under my garment I had a red shiny cloth or dress of some sort.

So I was not that person who died at 6.

Music. I'm not sure if I heard music. I thought I might have – Sarah Brightman(?) in the first dreams. In another dream I think I was sitting behind my desk and maybe I hear something which could have been called music but I might have heard it outside too.

I'll need to try to find who that flower girl is – but maybe it won't be possible because yesterday I did just that and found no information.

I also asked my HS in the middle of the night to show me yellow if in my past life I was someone called Mary Jane Kennedy. Blue if not. I saw nothing and it could be because I already know the answer.

September 16, 2024. Asked my HS what year I was born in my past life of Kennedy that I lived after my Emma Hamilton life. Red – indicator. Asked to draw my attention on the number or what would be the indicator of the year. I asked the year to be in AD.

If it was to happen that I can't find any information about my past life of Kennedy, then I wanted to see blue (синий) in my dream.

Don't remember reds in this part of the night's dreams. But I saw blue.

I was in some building with rather large metal(?) stairs. I was saying about uploading a video in which I stammer when I could not do that – not upload it. It may help someone. Including myself in another life.

We went down. Entered a room with a pool. The blue water in it was as if emitting blue light.

There was a man who was wanting something. I didn't feel like it. I think I was also having a female body since at least we came to that room; or maybe I started seeing the scene from a distance I was not part of the scene. The man would change each time I looked at him back. His arms got thinner and his whole body was deformed. There was something about his face too. In a way he resembled a goblin. A ran away from him and he chased after me – I was looking at this scene from near the exist we came from. He screamed at some points 'diabolical being', 'get back!'

I left from the pitch-black door (e.g. portal or void instead of a door).

I asked – maybe mistakenly – another question to know what age I was in my life of Kennedy when I died in it. Yellow is indicator.

I saw my old pigeon who used to visit my window almost everyday several times a day. I gave him some food and I'm assuming it was millet seeds. So yellow. The problem is that part is a bit blurry.

IF it was the answer, then it might see for how long that pigeon visited me; also how long it was since he stopped visiting; and the total time passed since I first saw him.

https://www.timeanddate.com/date/durationresult.html?d1=22&m1=1&y1=2012&d2=13&m2=1&y2=2017

From and including: Sunday, 22 January 2012

To, but not including Friday, 13 January 2017

It is 1818 days from the start date to the end date, but not including the end date.

Or 4 years, 11 months, 22 days excluding the end date.

Or 59 months, 22 days excluding the end date.

~5 years given the pigeon in the video already has his gf and he used to be alone for a while when I started feeding him.

(it's 12 years, 7 months, 25 days excluding the end date, till 16.09.2024 since 22.01.2012)

(it's 7 years, 8 months, 3 days excluding the end date., till 16.09.2024 since 13.01.2017)

Since there were no ideas about how to calculate the age, I think the years the pigeon visited me look more logical here.

The last dream I remember had me seeing Madonna in red. It was about her music video which may have been Nothing Really Matters. (in La Isla Bonita she also wears red). The idea was I was away for 3(?) or something months and now I watch music videos again and it's like seeing them with new eyes because I don't remember all the details and as if see them for the first time in a way.

Sadly, I don't know how it relates to my birthday as Kennedy — if it was the answer. I did ask my HS to give me the answer regarding this question several times this night whenever I'd wake up.

There's a slight chance I need to look at how much time have passed since my Emma Hamilton's death till the end of August – the time when we in this life would come back to Moscow from village that we always used to go to each summer (since there are no pointers/hints in that dream it's logical to count from the day I died as E.H.). It's 7 months and 15 days since 15.01.1815 and 30.08.1815. If M.D. is right and it's 6 weeks (1.5 months) that the soul gets sent to live in the embryo then it's exactly 9 months (7.5 + 1.5) since my E.H. death.

There was a dream in which I was walking through woods with old village buddies and I'd ask Vova if they defriended me because they thought my account was highjacked? It's a weird thing to think…

*

Verdict: There is no information to be found about my past life of Mary Jane Kennedy.

If I was about 5 when I died then it's quite understandable.

The year of birth isn't known for now; but it may be the end of august or start of September of 1815.

September 17, 2024. Asked about my past life of Kennedy that I lived after EH. If I was born in 1815 then I wanted to see violet (фиолетовый). Yellow if not. Asked to draw my attention to the color.

If I was 5 +/- several months old when I died in that life, I wanted to hear the real voice of a real animal or bird.

Dream. I was near the body of water which resembled – and maybe was — the Cherkizovskiy lake. Tanay, mother's sister, said something to me in her manner and I tried to escape somewhere from her presence. I ended up swimming in the water. Then the water turned to white ice which was undulating like a wave. It was thick. I was ashore then. I started walking up the wooden stairs we have near our irl lake – closest to the bridge – and I heard how a dog behind me was barking at me. I turned to face it and it kept barking but didn't approach me. I guess someone took it away then.

There was something about the boats being broken in a way that an idi*t – if he/she'd use it – could end up in a bad spot (don't remember the exact word… was it 'die' or something else...). This is where I spotted that I have a purple (which is also violet) swimming board. It put in in a salaphane bag I had on me along with something else. The rain started, and I think I kept the board because I felt it could help me with getting home through the heavy rain. I went up the path (irl it would be the path to the park and stadium) and I felt like I'd get home that way. There was someone left behind and maybe the board I had could have helped them; but I did not turn back to give it to them.

When I woke up still in the middle of the night, I remembered the details of my dream I just wrote. The answer was clear.

I decided to ask my HS what was the cause of my death in that Kennedy life. No indicators. Just asked to repeat the answer maybe.

Could not fall asleep for a long time due to imagination.

When I did, I was with my mother and we were seemingly returning from my father's house in Moscow. (It's possible that I was of small height during the whole scene.) We had to catch a bus. For some reason the busses were going on the 'wrong' way – so on the left side of the road – to our house not far from the lake. We ran after one of the busses but it did not stop. On returning back I looked at the bus number on the sign and sure enough it clearly showed '49' (there's no such bus number in Moscow irl atm. And there was a second one which could have been 8.. 81? Not sure). I remember the number well because I mentioned that fact to the people who waited for the bus. A strange thing happened. They started saying bad things to me which was uncalled for. I also said something to them. 'Fk you!' was said by someone – maybe by me. When I was nearing the underground passage, I mentioned something to them in reference that I was kind to them and they started to behave like that.

Me and mother wanted to go to the 'right' side of the road where we'd definitely board a bus home. I went to the farthest end of the underpass and went up. There were houses near me and some construction was taking place – maybe I saw pipes cut in pieces along their lengths. I went a bit towards Chelkovskoye chose and realized there's no mother with me. I called her and said that I lost her. She was still underground. I told her something about which way to go, I guess.

I woke up and it was about 9 p.m. Usually I get out of bed but this time I wanted to sleep and that's what I did, waking up in one and a half hours later.

In the dream I had I was maybe in the woods and there were the ashes from the rather big campfire (30+/- centimeters in diameter?). The theme of the dream? Not sure if being lost or abandoned could have been it.

Irl in the schoolyard children were playing and screaming and maybe their voices had some influence on my dream.

After I woke up mother called me from the village several times. She mentioned someone named Tanya – I don't know who it is though. Maybe she meant Taya? But it is the name of her sister I saw in my dream tonight.

I did not find anything about 'Mary Jane Kennedy 1815-1820 London'. As it should have been based on my previous answer.

I read that the first decennial censuses in GB occurred in 1801, 1811, 1821, 1831. I was not alive as Mary Jane Kennedy then.

If I got indeed lost then, it would explain some things too. Like why I've been getting anxious whenever my mother was away longer than I thought was normal. In fact, she told me she – due to her issues (worries, etc., which affected her mind) – went away without me when I was a little child. She then realized I wasn't with her and returned. We were reunited and I myself have no memory of that incident.

There's no bus 49 in Moscow. I looked if there was in London. Not only there was such a bus, but its route at one spot is close to the Durham Cottage in Chelsea (The place where I lived as Vivien)

Update of July 28, 2025. Later I'd say the words 'F you!' to Gustavo. The details of that story are written below, and it's similar to what I saw in the dream. I was kind to people and they started to… if not cursing directly, but wanting me to do all the work while they'd be doing nothing (or way too little). Probably was a prophetic dream.

September 20, 2024. I asked my HS about whom the 19% of electrons which were used to create my body (my whole being; not sure which of 9 bodies it is exactly) belonged to. What was that person's name – how was that person called. Sadly, I did not say full name. It could prove an important oversight… Asked for no indicators since the last times I heard the name quite clearly. Asked to repeat the name if possible; also said then if I'd remember the name upon waking up that would also work.

Additionally, I asked to give more info/hints about that person. Who he was; his profession; country in which he lived; was he a relative, friend, etc.

'Elena Roneta' was the name which I heard after a series of dreams and I immediately woke up, still remembering the name well, and wrote it down. 'England'.

Before in dreams I felt like the narrative was about George Cukor. Given what I learned that day it's not surprising. Just in case I asked if his 19% of electrons were used to create my body. Blue – yes, red – no. I don't recall seeing any colors.

I don't believe I've ever heard the name 'Roneta' before. I did a search and found only 2 women with the name I heard:

https://www.myheritage.com/research/collection-11006/1950-united-states-federal-census?lang=RU&itemId=6386940-&groupId=92b8848ab4dad4011d6263075eb970a7&action=showRecord&recordTitl

Her daughter

+Elena+Roneta+Melina

The mother was born in around 1920. It's 68 years before my birthday in 1988.

I'll have to ask my HS if she or her daughter is the people whose 19% of electron were used to create my body. I need to know when the person lived and what life I had then.

Update: I may have been given a hint – when I was falling asleep – that those 19% can come from animals and plants too. So how would I know the name then?

Finished reading 'Hypatia of Alexandria' by Maria Dzielska about one of my past lives.

September 21, 2024. The question to my HS revealed – unless I imagined it in half dream – that Elena and Roneta were the names of two different people. (I asked for red in case of that and saw red cleaning tools for the house.)

September 23, 2024. I returned back to 1870 with my questions for my HS. I asked to know the full name I had in the life I lived in that year (first name, last name, etc.). If it was not possible to give me a whole answer right away, I asked to please give me hints who I was in that life. No indicators; just asked to repeat the name if possible.

In the first dream there was maybe a name written or mentioned. Don't remember it. There was something about learning Spanish language; I was struggling I think and I thought what happened? – I used to remember quite well a new language and its words and now…

Then remember talking to a man. I think from this point on I was having a young female body. I told him I like watching movies in English (or something in that nature). I was climbing on the roots growing from the high bank of a river underneath. He'd walk on top, I think. Eventually I turned back.

I and, I think, a couple or several males were walking near a lake or wide river. At one point I either dashed away or ran into the water as part of a play – would they keep up with me? Or something. I waded through the water of the lake – I was definitely a young female here because I was aware of having the bra on and I was mindful that the panties stay on me too (they were of some purple-like color and quite narrow – definitely women's).

Maybe one of the guys got too attached to me.

Establishing 'shot' of a house at night. There's another one standing nearby to the right. All lights seem to be on. I know that I'm (still as that girl) inside and there's another man with me in the house. I'm also aware that I'm kinda worried someone – that attached man? – may break into the house.

I woke up and recorded some details at 04:04 a.m. I asked to repeat the answer and I really wanted to hear the name too.

Finally fell asleep but the noisy neighbor returned that other day and started making loud noises in the morning to wake people up I'm sure. I put my noise reducing headphones on and fell asleep.

I was walking on the other side of the tram rails in front of my house. (If ever walked there irl it was probably in my childhood.) I thought of asking my HS if I was Frances who lived in southern states (?); maybe southern belle was in my mind too or in place of the states.

I'll say that the girl dream was quite immersive and I liked being her for some reason (If I was her in my past life then that'd explain it). It may be due to me, being a male, liking girls and also wishing to know more and more about reincarnation and how we feel ourselves in various bodies. Such dreams help with that a bit too.

The other night I woke up after a dream in which I was a young black beautiful woman who had s*x – doggy style – and I could feel what she felt momentarily. Some men would try to forget this ASAP, but it's actually a great insight into the topics I mentioned.

I was a female in 30 lives and I wonder if it helps knowing sometimes what the other s*x feels and experiences?

September 24, 2024. Q to my HS about the life I lived in 1870. I mentioned the answers of the past night and asked this: If my first name was Frances in that life, then I wanted to see green, and red if it wasn't.

Also, if I lived or was born in USA then I wanted to hear music, and real voice of a real animal or bird if not.

Dream was taking place in the village where the road from the end of Малые Горки is about to go up the hill to chapel. There were childhood friends nearby.

Eventually I was near Vovchik's house and around that time there was something red shown I think.

Then I remember being near Dima's house. It was dark and so leaves had no color to show. Vladik, strangely enough, asked something like if I needed condoms…

I went up the hill and I took the narrow path near houses, one of which – Ksenia's – was red.

We were sitting near the house I used to imagine in my childhood about (it did not exist then) and Ira and Olya exchanged a few words about their personal lives.

Down the hill I remember something about large bubbles being blown our way. Near Vladik's house Vova and I turned back. Coming up the gravel road near Yana's house we on purpose started making weird sounds and talk in funny voices.

I think Ira and someone else were chasing us and trying to get some tools from us… a hammer?

I woke up and I remembered that I must have heard a song that plays on https://www.twitch.tv/sofiko_sculpts when someone follows her.

Q to my HS: In my past life I lived in 1870, what first name – not last name, etc. – just the first name for now I had in that life? Blue as indicator. I asked to repeat the name several times so that I know it's my answer; same for blue.

I also said that I understood the answers were: in my past life I lived in 1870 I was not called Frances and I was born in USA – yellow if I understood wrong.

The part of this dream that I remember showed many people. I and my mother were there. There was also a corpse of Elizabeth (my long dead relative from the village) laying down the stairs of the school we all apparently were in (my irl school which looks a bit different). Mother went down to pay respects and I helped her along the stairs. I then circled around the dead Liza, whose name was mentioned several times I think, counterclockwise direction.

As we started to walk away, I noticed movement in the corpse. Was it alive? I thought. The hand dropped down from the resting position on the body. Then the skin started caving in inside… it wasn't a pleasant sight.

I woke up and asked my HS off the record to… sadly, I was too sleepy to remember well the details, but it was about the name Liza. I basically asked to hear that name again in my dream I'd hopefully have that night if I was called Liza in my past life I lived in 1870.

Loud neighbor was at it again, but I do remember that in one of the dreams I had I must have heard the name Liza because I do remember how I recorded – or was about to – that name on my phone (irl the entry was missing – so it was in a dream – but I did write it down and then fell asleep again).

So, I was born, or at the very least lived, in the USA an I was called Liza (Lisa) in 1870.

The meaning of the name may be of interest: A Hebrew name meaning "God's promise" or "God is my oath."

*

During one of the times I was awake this night I tried to ask my HS – excepting nothing – to produce a knock of unknown origin if I was called Liza in my past life I lived in 1870. At first there was silence, but then there were 3 knocks. I think the neighbors were the reason for them though.

*

Today mother decided to go to Николо Архангельское cemetery to try and find the grave of her grandmother and Koka. (Liza is buried in the cemetery near the Ovchinino village). I wonder now if the dream was prophetic in some way.

After waking up I started reading the news on my phone. Or just reading the headlines. I skipped the one about the African deserts – "The gigantic dunes rising up out of the world's oldest desert" https://edition.cnn.com/travel/africa-best-desert-experiences-namibia-sahara-tunisia/index.html I thought that I used to live in several lives in Africa, but did I want to read about the deserts?

As I was reading the title of the next news article, I heard a knock near me. The type of knock you can't explain with the current official scientific knowledge. I decided to read the article about deserts.

There were mentions of two of my past lives: Alexander the Great and Cleopatra. It said I as Alex went to consult the Oracle of Siwa in 332 B.C.E. He confirmed the divine status and the desire to become the pharaoh of Egypt. Cleopatra's Pool was also mentioned.

About the lake in the last night's dream. I remembered how the name 'Vivien' was used by Alfred Tennyson for the Lady of the Lake in his Arthurian epic Idylls of the King (1859). (I did not read it – not yet at least). But this is where I do realize I may be grasping at straws way too much.

https://www.behindthename.com/name/vivien-2

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Li%27l_Liza_Jane

Noting just in case it may have some connections to the dreams I saw in recent days. I was someone called Liza and [Mary] Jane in 1800s. The song, scholar Dan Gutstein says, is likely originated among the enslaved people.

September 25, 2024. Asked my HS what age I was when I died in my past life that I lived in 1870. No indicators. Just asked to repeat the answer, or draw my attention to the hint. (It's possible I don't need to overcomplicate things and I should not mention the hints. I should just ask for the age/year/ etc. and if it comes in the form of the riddle then so be it.)

Dream: A ship. We adjust the sails. I say something about Normandy to a person who'd be its leader if something happens. There are lights on the shore and soon I'll realize they must be electric and not torches – based on their steady unchanging glow. Then violet neon light strips show up near those lights. Now it's clear it's relatively modern era. There's a narrative about the film being reshot (was it Larry O.?) if he had a chance (the light got into the historic movie I guess).

The scene changed and there was a woman nearby. 'Philip, Philip, Philip' was said by a voice and it's also said that it either the answer to me or is about me.

I wake up and find Philip II's age at death – 46.

So I asked my HS this: If in my life (I did not say 'past life') I lived in 1870 I died at 46 – give or take a year (45-47), then I said 46 +- – then I wanna see blue. Green if not – outside of the '46 +- a year' range. (Again, I said way too many things and maybe it's the reason for what happened in the dream.)

Edit: I listened to my recording and I said things in a way which could have interfered with the answers I got. '46 plus minus' can be a wide range – e.g. 46 +- 5 years.

All the events, as it turned out after I woke up, took place in various dreams or in different scenes of one dream.

There was a giant frog (Like that one from Witcher 3?). I thought that I still don't have the answer. I went further and turned around to see something. It had blue color at the top which morphed into green color below and there was much more of green than blue.

I woke up (but actually didn't; it was a dream in a dream) and recorded that. Then I fell asleep.

I saw a movie from ER tv show about doctors. George Clooney was in it and I actually saw him. He seemed exhausted maybe. The idea was it was a long movie (2 hours?). The camera zoomed out slowly. Geroge was talking to someone; no smiles or anything. They were saving someone the whole time, I guess.

I'm afraid I'm a bit sad I have these ambiguities again. But I tried to make sense of them. After all it was proven over and over again I do get correct answers from this method.

And I will note that once more right after there's ambiguity, I get the possible answer as to why that is happening.

Here's my theory regarding this current case: Maybe in that life I got into a hospital – maybe I was even in coma – and the doctors tried to save me. It was before my birthday. I could not be saved and I died after my birthday. I do realize it's a weak theory… and the problem is I gave the range to be sure…

Also, I searched for Phillip II's age because there are no other Philips… there's that Russian singer but what connection he has to me? None as far as I know. Maybe 46 is wrong number. But why blue then on top of the green?

I'm gonna ask if some information can be found about this past life of mine I try to find. Then I'll ask for year of birth and death. Male or Female – just to be sure I get no ambiguities again (but then who's to say a male can't have the name Liza?). Once I have all the details – which I hope I will without me needing to do a research first – and I'll hope there's some information about that past life of mine, then I will try to search for it. If all it good then I will have to be able to find that exact person with all the matching details. For now I haven't dug too deep; doubt I ever noticed that life I'm searching – if there's info about it.

There was something else. Given my dreams and the resulting theory I googled this: "1800 people who died in coma". https://www.smithsonianmag.com/innovation/how-1800s-midwife-solved-poisionous-mystery-180982343/ was the third website in the search. I opened it.

Anna Pierce (Hobbs Bixby) was the doctor who discovered the reason — white snakeroot plant – behind the milk sickness. Coma may precede death.

Anna Pearce was the name I wrote for another account I made for testing on Facebook. It's been removed now, I think. The name isn't a direct match though. Just caught my attention.

The plant grows in North America; possibly where I lived as Liza https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ageratina_altissima September 26, 2024. My exact Q to HS was this:

"Если о моей прошлой жизни, которую я жил в 1870 году нашей эры, можно найти информацию в интернете, то сегодня ночью во сне я хочу увидеть красный цвет. Если информацию о той моей прошлой жизни найти в интернете нельзя, то сегодня ночью во сне я хочу увидеть синий цвет. Хочу, чтобы мое внимание было обращено на тот цвет индикатор, что я увижу в качестве ответа.”

(I asked to know if some info can be found online about my past life in 1870.)

I barely remember any details. But after I first woke up – or during my waking up – there was as if a message and image telling and showing me that I saw blue (I saw something dark blue). At first, I thought it meant I can find some info, and only shortly after remembered the blue means I can’t find anything.

I asked my HS to repeat the answer to my last question I recorded.

There was something about Intel’s new CPU, and Intel is blue.

Oh well. It is what it is.

There’s that St. Martin’s Lane life of mine I could try asking the same question about.

September 27, 2024. My question to my HS was this:

“Моё ВЯ, сегодня вопрос будет касаться данной статьи:

https://www.british-history.ac.uk/survey-london/vol20/pt3/pp115-122

Ранее я узнал благодаря твоим ответам, что я в моей прошлой жизни упоминаюсь в этой статье. Я не знаю кем я был из всех перечисленных людей. Есть лишь одно предположение.

Сегодня во сне я хочу услышать имя — first name по-английски — которое я имел в той жизни. В качестве индикатора ответа я бы хотел, чтобы имя было повторено несколько раз.”

(I asked to know what first name I had in my past life which I previously found is mentioned in that article.)

Again, I barely remember any details.

But in one of my dreams – I guess I was in my village near my house – the name of Billy from Scream (a 1996 movie) was mentioned.

There was a scene in which I tried to kill the Ancient Wyvern in the Archdragon Peak area of Dark Souls 3. I thought about Dist; how he killed that boss by jumping on its head from a ledge (where the ring is). I wasn’t quite successful in my endeavor. I made the jump but pressed the wrong button and did not attack.

I woke up when it was dawn. I thought about going back to sleep, but I started seeing in from on my closed eyes a dark siluette – a humanoid figure crawling on its legs and arms around the view. The sight made me want to go to the bathroom first, clear my mind from the vision, and then go to sleep.

I soon realized I had stomach ache. It’s been decades since I had one. I figured the meat I ate yesterday was the cause; I ate too much of it apparently. I drank considerable amount of water and tried to sleep. The pain went away in an hour or so – maybe more – and I never slept that morning again.

I think the vision helped me to realize something is wrong. If I didn't drink the water it's possible, I'd feel much worse.

Was I Billy in that life? Was it my answer? I'll need to find out later. For now, I'll try to learn more details about that life without doing prior research. So, for now I won't search for that name in the article to see if it's there.

Bill, William. These names did play their roles in my lives. I remembered 'Billa' stores we have in Moscow. When I worked as a merchandiser it was one of the stores I had to visit.

The movie 'Scream' itself has played a role in my life.

September 28, 2024. My Q to HS:

"Моё ВЯ, сегодня вопрос будет снова касаться статьи, на которую я ссылался вчера (link)

В этой статье упоминаюсь я в моей прошлой жизни, и сегодня во сне я хочу услышать фамилию которую я имел в той жизни. Ещё можно сделать так, чтобы я имел в своём сознании ту фамилию когда проснусь."

What was my last name in that past life mentioned in the article. Asked also to draw my attention to it and maybe show it written.

I'd wake up a lot of times this night and I'd see lots of dreams. Some people – males – were called by names but I don't remember any details.

There was a moment when I got almost lucid – and maybe that's why I didn't remember the name too – a man was shown and his id card(?) was also shown in front of me, and I heard his name being spoken. It's the closest one to be my answer.

One dream was about a parrot costing 250000 rubles, and Yana (from Gorki Park) – for some reason – was the seller. We were in the square near the 20-th building. I looked to see the prices and saw 80000 rubles pictures of parrots. I almost paid the money, which she counted I guess, but at the last moment I'd realize it took a long time to accumulate that money and now I'm buying a parrot with it? No! I took the round metal box with the money from her and told her about my decision. She went away and it seemed like the friendship is over.

I held the box in my hands and went back home where I realized I no longer have the box or the money.

Searching for it everywhere in the street yielded no results.

(I thought first it was about me not having any indicators for my answer. But then I thought the prices are way too close to new pc and the graphics tablet I thought about irl. There's also a possibility it may be a prophetic dream in case the ruble devaluates heavily and I did not buy anything useful for the money I've amassed. Or it may be something else entirely.)

Maybe it was a different dream. For some reason I decided to take the elevator to the 7-th floor because Anton's mother Yulia needed 7000(?) rubles. As I was going up I realized her family(?) can take care of that. This is where I remembered that I saw it in a dream – a prophetic dream about a dream; it was about pushing the buttons and some issue that could cause – like me getting stuck. I saw the buttons and maybe tried pushing my floor's one. Then I heard a distinct breathing to the left of me – I was alone there and I knew it's a ghost.

I think I might have received an answer but could not remember it.

September 30, 2024. Asking whether there's other information about that St. Martin's Lane life on the Internet (excluding the link I showed) yielded seemingly no answers.

Addition to September 12, 2024 entry about VL as psychic. I have stated something about the future and it would come to be in at least these instances:

I'm gonna become a great actress; That's the man I'm gonna marry (Larry); Playing Scarlett O'Hara; The death of Cecil Tennant.

October

October 1, 2024. Asked my HS at what age I died in my past life which is mentioned in the St. Martin's Lane article; how many years I lived in that life. I identified and showed the webpage. Фиолетовый – violet – was the indicator.

I think I woke up one or two times, and I was not fully awake because I'd fallen asleep each time.

After the first dream I remembered there was something violet. I was in metro, I think. I thought that I don't know what the answer is; what is the hint?

In another dream, taking place in a store on Bol'shaya Cherkizovskaya Street, a man who seemingly had nothing to lose anymore said what he thought to the face of a gang leader. I think they all went out and there were several green banknotes lying on the floor.

I collected them and for some reason I bought an ice-cream, which was of purple color that may also be considered violet depending on who you ask. I gave one banknote – which I'm quite positive was 100 – and I got back the change that had 50 (as a coin) for sure and also several more coins. I think I had to pay 30 for the ice-cream. In that case I got back 70.

I feel like 30 is the answer – provided it was 30; but, logically, it is somewhere around that mark since I got back fifty plus some more coins.

70? So far I've lived short lives… and it seems to me the answer is what I had to pay; and I still had other banknotes on me and seventy was a part of it – I could not have been several hundred years old.

Update of October 3, 2024. It may be plausible that the answer was given in the first dream when I was not sure what it was. If so, then the violet color was no longer reserved – so to say — and could have been used for whatever else unrelating to my question.

Another point is if the change was less than I needed to get? If it was 57? There's a chance of that.

Also, if the currency was Russian, then the only green banknote is 200 rubles. If it was in the dream and the ice-cream cost ~30, then, having noticed the 50 as a coin (which we do not have in circulation; only the banknote) could be the indicator I was given much less money)

October 2, 2024. St. Martin's Lande life again. Asked in what year I was born. Orange as indicator.

Daydreaming took over me again and it had the impact on my dreams.

I woke up thinking – still half asleep – about 39… the age of Vivien?

In the dream father came to my apartment. Took camera. He had parked his car someplace else so as not to be a hindrance to other cars.

I then remembered seeing black cat quickly change its color to orange hue. There was some narrative. I was watching the cat for a considerable time.

I also wrote in my note (I was barely awake and quickly wrote the keywords down and went back to sleep):

"Village

Grass"

I do not remember anymore what those dreams were about.

Tried to search about the cats and apparently some do change the color under the sun. Some even become orangy. But I don't know how I'm to come up with a year from this info.

Also, it's possible when the answer was given to me, I was awoken by my neighbors' noises – bed screaking. In fact, I think I saw orange bed while I was still half asleep. It happened during the 39-episode.

While I search for relevant keywords from my dream ('cat, orange, animal, 39' etc.) I stumbled across a name of William Alexander. Remembering the dreams of September 28, 2024 I got curious if that's me and if I heard the names in that dream because the [first] name was the last name in that life? For now I'm just speculating. Ideally, I'd like to learn something more before I ask my HS a direct question whether I was that or that person mentioned in that article.

October 3, 2024. St. Martin's Lane past life. Asking my HS to give any info that might help me yielded nothing that I can remember.

Based on the answer from July 7, 2024. I was someone by name of Abraham and who lived when Queen Christina lived (18 December [O.S. 8 December] 1626 — 19 April 1689 (aged 62))

Unfortunately, I'll be able to rule out only those who lived during her whole life.

Tried an experiment: I asked my HS, Thao, Biastra, & Latoli to make a knock in my room within 3 seconds after I read out loud the names (all Williams in the article). I closed the windows and turned off my laptop so that I was in as complete silence as possible.

Sir William Alexander – barely audible sound that can be reproduced by touching a paper.

Sir William Armine – a distinct knock on a hard surface under my table that I was holding my phone over and writing down the results on paper. Best candidate if it was the answer; and I usually don't hear any knocks there. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sir_William_Armine,_1st_Baronet (https://planetcalc.com/8434/ 1593 does produce 1953 in Ancient Egyptian calendar if you choose Artaxerxes III's era – the year in Gregorian calendar when I was 39 as Vivien Leigh. But the age of 57 does not align with the answers of 30 or 70.)

William Hewitt – barely audible movement and the neighbors up top were probably the reason.

October 4, 2024. I asked my HS, Thao, Biastra and Latoli if I was this William Armine in my past life https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sir_William_Armine,_1st_Baronet. Синий (blue) – yes, orange – no.

Sad to say, the dreams are in mess again.

First, I woke up and tried to remember the dream which I knew I had and I think it took place in my room. Did I see blue? Orange? Whenever I'd start remembering something I for the life of me could not zero in on any details; it's all so vague; and it felt like the dream might have been one of those which don't make a lot of sense once you wake up -, and it could have been the reason for my inability to remember anything of substance.

So, I asked to repeat the answer for my last recorded question. I did mention blue and orange again as indicators and I regretted it. Although I'm sure I used them for the same answers as before.

Деревня, задворки.

Я, Денис и кто-то ещё — Джус? Бегали до задней дороги с поля.

Был теперь Дист (Distortion2) и говорил что-то про спидраны. Был ли синий тут?? Странно...

Кто-то позвал меня домой. Была темень. Цвета не видны.

Калитка, которая открывалась хорошо — по механики напомнила синюю дверь, но тут цвета не помню.

У меня ультрафиолетовый фонарик. Он мог бы давать бледно синий цвет — зависит от кого спрашивать. Не уверен. Просто вопрос.

Я прошёл мимо туалета и к колодцу.

Мама просила подсветить путь. Я сказал, что у меня лишь такой фонарь. Была ли там Зина у двора?

Мама полезла за лампочкой на чердак. Остановил ее и сам решил лезть.

(There's a chance I woke up and then, still remembering the dream and being very sleepy, and maybe trying to remember if I saw any indicators/answers(?), fell asleep again to see this…)

Быть может, тут видел лампочку, которая тускло зажглась. Фитиль мог быть оранжевым. Проснулся.

Важно понять если я видел синий до него...

It's important to know if I saw blue before orange and if I did wake up. In the later case I could have seen anything if I did get my answer in my previous dream. (Update of July 28, 2025 – later answers showed the indicators still matter even if you had already seen/heard an indicator)

Later I turned on my ultraviolet flashlight to see how the colors would look. A lot of things in my room glowed blue under it. Orange had only the orange sponge in the bathroom.

Now, yesterday I searched for «синий цвет» on Google images and one image showed many shades of blue, several of which – the lighter ones – were pretty much what I probably saw in my dream under the UV light. It's the first time I saw things under UV light in my dream and so it was a bit unusual. Did I see things glow blue that I saw irl is the question – pale blue for sure. At one point I pointed my UV light at Igor's trees and the leaves were burgundy.

Basically, there are many shades of blue. In my previous experiences it is possible that the color-indicator won't be the canonical one – e.g. no sky blue. Pale blue is a thing and it does look like what I saw in my dream.

Later I asked again the question with the same indicators. I finally fell asleep and woke up at 10. No memory of any dreams.

I asked my HS to contact Thao, Biastra and Latoli whenever they weren't busy. Said in the night – after many hours – I'd ask them all again if I was William Armine. It is an important matter. I also said that I might contact them during the day to conduct a séance – me stating certain things, and asking my HS and them to move the candlelight if it is true.

I decided to ask something – asked to produce a knock in my room within 3 seconds after I finished asking if it would be okay for me to film the séance on video? There was a distinct and clear knock withing a second maybe coming from the kitchen (door was open to let the fresh air in) or from the desk standing near the kitchen door.

Made séance and – no surprise – there was no answers. When I was saying my plan the candlelight did move very sporadically at one moment, but I don't remember if I (e.g. my movements I didn't register) could have been the cause for it. The Universal Law (UL) prohibiting giving the answers in such a way is number 1 suspect for such results.

I asked then to say telepathically yes/no when I state something, or show a vision of light color and dark color for yes and no respectively. Nothing.

Nothing happened when I said «Меня зовут Женя» — 'my name is Evgeny'. It's clear there's some restriction in place (UL).

October 5, 2024. Finally success! When I woke up on Oct. 4-th I asked my HS to send Thao, Biastra and Latoli a message that I'd be contacting them before I'd go to bed. So I did.

I asked my HS and Thiaooubians again the same question, but with different color indicators. Green – I was that William Armine, red – I was not. So far these colors were neve ambiguous. I kind of implored to please give me the clear answer this time because the previous night's ambiguity, coupled with the results of the previous days and nights, did affect my psyche… I was even a bit upset for the first time since the last September 4.

When I first woke at around 1 o'clock I couldn't remember any details of the dream I definitely had. I stated the fact to my HS and said I'd expect to get the answer in another dream that night. In case I did get the answer, I asked to repeat it again too; indicators and details are the same.

This is the note I wrote on my phone after I woke up:

"Green plant. 2 words in Russian. Three (Edit of July 28, 2025: perhaps it was a 'tree) sided with spikes. Has a green round — but with the crater like углубление на верхушке. Прям как мой кактус имел. Я говорил об этом девушке соседке справа. Или Слева???
Поркупайн??? И я писал в сканворды два слова... Я писал поверх фото. Девушки были с обоих сторон. Слева была с которой мы встретились как типа свидание, но справа подходила по общению мне больше.

Просыпался? и видел потом снова зелень. Очень много зелени. Буквально словно на лес смотрел. Не зря попросил моля почти дать ответ.

[Another dream] Москва уже. Собираю документы в какой-то тетрадке с вырезанным куском листа, который лежал далле в ней. Было 4 пластиковых карты. Зелёные вроде. Полицейские рядом. Потом к девушке подошёл и был разговор что я Вивьен Ли. Один полицейский слышал это. Мы ушли прочь. Девушка смотрела на него, и они улыбались вроде. Как будто она делала это не потому, что она не верила. Просто отвечала взаимно не зная, что делать.

Красного не помню, чтобы видел. Но думал, что мог помнить его во сне с картами и тетрадкой — обложка, но не уверен уже. Растение и лес ну прям очень четкие Думаю, был у пруда в Москве. Но детали уже не помню. Да и бы ли такой сон?

Я очень хотел спать. В туалет не хотел т.к. рыбу ел и потом пиццу с беконом. Вода вся где-то ещё.
Все время зелёный напоминался мне в других снах — типа видел зелень в лесу."

I'd see green over and over again in my dreams today. The answer is clear. (the plant's stalk looked like Гилоцереус трехгранный / Hylocereus with quite distinct spikes. The rounded thing up top with an indentation on its peak was as if grafted on top of the plant – as they actually do with certain cacti.

It was ~after 3 o'clock that I woke up. I thanked my HS, Thao, Biastra and Latoli for their help (assuming Thiaooubians were involved, but regardless… and the green was highly in focus this night – as it was in my dream when I learnt I was/am Mary Magdalene) and apologized for any inconveniences I might have caused.

It's been a very important experiment. I'd ask question about that past life of mine – without making any research — and I did get the answers which in the end – when I decided it's time to research that life online – I did find that all those answers are relevant to the person whom I was in my past life and of whom I knew nothing before doing my research once I'd collected some data.

October 7, 2024. Asked my HS if in my past life in which I was a leader in China I was born before 1 AD – blue; if in the 1 AD or after then yellow.

Yellow on one of the coins — 10. For sure.

I don't remember the color of the conductor's cloth. It could have been blue. She asked to pay 1 (value) and I did. It was my stop – Открытое Шоссе riding from the Подбельское. For some reason I first wanted to exit from the other side — left not right.

. (I woke up, recorded what I saw in my dream and updated the question. Now it's before Jesus' birth — blue, or during the year of his birth or after – yellow.)

Yellow thread we climbed onto the tower?

Gregorian date to Ancient Egyptian date gives 1 in AE if I select Ptolemy III E. and 246 BC.

Artaxerxes III's era gives 1 if I choose 358 BC but it's too close to Alex's life.

Darius III gives 1 for 335 BC. I was Alex then.

All those dates or before 1 AD. Maybe the coins meant something else. Technically, I did not ask for the year of birth specifically. Or maybe I should find it via other means.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/List_of_Chinese_monarchs

Asked my HS to produce a knock in the room if I'd read my name in that past life – or if I'd read a name of some close relative in that life, including wife or husband.

(slight knock in the kitchen)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Emperor_An_of_Han

(click on clock (?) in the kitchen; but it happened when I repeated the name)

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ma_Xisheng

(barely audible knock maybe coming from mother) (the info has some interesting poins) (when I went to add urls to the names here and was opening this person's page heard a knock again; not too loud)
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Emperor_Guangzong_of_Song

(barely audible click maybe coming from mother) https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Yongle_Emperor

October 8, 2024. I watched Dist finishing up his 1-st playthrough of Silent Hill 2 Remake. Then, before going to bed I asked my HS this regarding the 4 people info about whom I copied above because I heard something after reading their names:

If I was this person in my past life https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Emperor_Guangzong_of_Song then I wanted to see yellow.

If I was not him, but I was one of other people then I wanted to see red.

If I was none of them, then I wanted to hear the real voice of a real animal/bird in case I was born in the life when I was a leader in China in or after 1 AD (When Jesus was born) and before 1000 AD.

Hear music if I was born in or after 1000 AD.

. (I woke up early and didn't remember any details. Just in case asked my HS repeat the answer in case I was given it already but could not remember it.)

This dream was one of the memorable ones. Not because of its clarity, but of the content.

I was in a body of a young female with blonde hair – at least I assume the hair bit. I was just reborn in this new body — so the girl died and her soul went to its Higher Self, but I was able to be reborn in her physical body to identify the people who killed me (it works similarly how Aarioc started living in his new body we know as Jesus; only in Aarioc's case that body was created by 7 Thaori). I returned and went to the killers with no defense – they could have killed me again (but maybe I did call for help off 'screen' as some further events may suggest).

The killers were 2 [mad] people, one of whom resembled my late father (of this life) quite well. He had ginger hair on his back, I think was bald too, and behaved somewhat similarly to my dad too.

He and the other(?) man were lighting up the matches and throwing them on top of the hay – which if someone'd ask me to name its color, I'd say yellow right away. The hay was on fire, which didn't spread too far. Basically, the fire would be around where the burning match landed. (The flame maybe also had yellow).

I think there was police now nearby. They didn't hurry to arrest the two men; and the one resembling dad kept lighting matches and throwing them to the hay. The ginger man would slowly move somewhere after throwing each lit match; it was clear he had a plan in mind. One of them said they burn the hay for entertainment (so, in dream's logic, it was legal I guess because they didn't do it to harm).

I saw then many more round haystacks stacked on top one another. There were about 3 rows and at least 5 hay rolls in each row. The color was again yellow if someone asked me to name it. (it means that the color wasn't bright, but it wasn't very pale yellow too). I wondered if the men would light them on fire too.

Then I went to the forest in which my dead body was lying. I knew that my mother had already checked on it, and she told me not to go there. As I approached the forest several people wearing black appeared from the far corner of another forest to the left of the road I was on; mine was in the forest to the right of the road. The forest resembled a patch of trees maybe a hundred meters wide (in some way it reminded me of a similar forest we have close to the river Шередарь near our village), growing in the wide field.

I went to the forest to see my body. I wasn't quite upset. But I was walking slowly; the experience was eerie to a degree. Then I saw it. Lying on the ground below the trees. I walked around the body I once 'wore' to look at my face from the top (the tip of the head was the closest to me, the feet were farthest). The face was a bit bloaty and in color maybe orangy, going to the red territory – but I'd not call it red. BUT! Technically, some people could call it red. From the angle I watched my old body it resembled my father to some degree.

I guess I went back or it was before I found my body. I knew about reincarnation and thought about the possibility that after death I might be reborn in a body of someone who died, keeping my material knowledge (memory). I guess I might have tried acting like I was a bit upset that I died, or something like that; Don't know why it was important.

The people came to the body. I guess I had concerns if maybe they'd arrest me or something but nothing of the sort happened.

We were on the road now and I think the body was also there because I'd refer to it later.

One of the women, wearing black, was Indian. Maybe we were riding on bicycles for a bit, and then there was a vision of an Indian woman up above us. The face covered at least 1/3 of the sky. It was looking down on us all and giving the message. Its main point was that people should start having knowledge instead of beliefs. I knew that Thiaooubians were behind the vision we all saw; they did it to help people Know the Truth. To bring people not to beliefs, but to the Truth.

Then a huge moon – the diameter maybe 10 times larger than a regular moon – appeared above the horizon (to the left of the left forest). It was another sign people should listen to the message.

At one point I started stating facts/truths (from Thiaoouba Prophecy I think; maybe something I understood too, but probably the first). Each time a new moon would appear near the other moon showing to people IT IS the truth. One time that happened the Indian woman pointed to the moon and it was clear it helped her understand that it is the truth what I had just said. Maybe one of the moons was yellowish in color (I think it's so, but not 100% sure).

At one point I referred to my dead body lying nearby, saying that I died and got reborn in this new [female] body I now had. I wished to ask as many questions – or state as many facts as possible so that people have a lot of proof and maybe we could learn something too by doing this.

I was recording on my phone the video of the first vision – face in the sky above us. But for some reason later I'd think that I should record the moons appearing too – it's important proof of Thiaooubian truths, etc. So at some point I stopped recording the video for some reason. (or maybe the scene changed and I was no longer recording in it).

Then I remember we were on a rusty old train, which could have come from 1800s or early 1900s. There was something about steam and old houses coming from the front of one of the cars, I guess. I woman was pulling on them carrying them to the back.

(I may have seen something yellow here – but don't know if it was so.)

Here I stated out loud to the people near me that we should state more facts so that the moon appears showing it's the truths. And we could also state our understandings to check if they're true or not (essentially, it's all me – ever since I realized I can ask my HS questions to possibly get the answer via dreams I started doing just that almost each night; I am very, very curious and desire to learn more and more about life.)

The details I wrote on my phone after recording the audio note:

"Сено в огне было разбавленным — копной.
Потом мой взор был обращён на множество стогов стоящих друг на друге. В ряду было не менее 5 и 3 ряда вроде. Тоже скал бы что они жёлтые. Я думал если 2 человека подожгут и их. С рыжими волосами куда то явно намеревался ... Двигался потихоньку посте поджигания очередной спички и бросания ее на сено которое ещё не было в огне.

Ещё. Я записывал на видео в телефоне(?) первое видение. Но когда я говорил истины и появлялась новая луна уже не записывал на видео почему то. Фактически я думал об этом во сне — не нужно ли записать доказательство?

И ещё. Я знал что это То иаубинцы делают их галлюцинацию. Я понимал зачем они это делают. Чтобы помочь людям Знать истину.

Люди бегущие из-за леса были в черном. (Траур?). Индийка тоже вроде в черном была."

I'd need to ask again if I was that person.

But - I did find a lot of parallels with that life and wrote it down in my files. I pretty much think it's me; just wanna make sure due to orange colors going in the red, and also the yellow wasn't that bright – which is okay. I've had pale blue before and then on my 2-nd question I saw bright green; the brightness and saturation of colors does not play a big role it seems.

Also, later, I'd need to see if my father was one of those people; If so, then I'd need to check if he killed me in that life.

As for Silent Hill 2 Remake, I did sport something of possible value in the study of spirituality and interconnections between various people and lives:

Dist and I both misread 'would be one short'. Thinking it's 6 instead of 8. Many others seemingly got it right. (Reference to us sharing one Higher Self)

October 9, 2024. Given the little ambiguity of the night before, I decided to ask again if I was the Emperor Guangzong of Song in my past life, showing the article about the person on Wikipedia. Real voice of a real animal or bird – yes, music – no.

I did make an error, introducing other possibility for ambiguity which did happen – I think it was a lesson to me to ask the questions the correct way without possibilities for ambiguities. I will need to ask again properly.

I woke up at around 2 in the morning. Saw a dream but didn't remember details. Later I'd remember that I asked long time ago to show me Thiaoouba accompanied with music – but was that a part of my dream? (reference to the entry from 10.04.2024)

Asked my HS to please repeat the answer.

In the dream I was collecting colorful cubes – some were clearly red in color. I was doing some puzzle where I had to place 3 cubes of the same color in a row from one wall to another (in size they were maybe several centimeters).

I think I remember a big black cat – like from Dark Souls 1 – there too, and maybe it produced a roar.

About before I woke up I clearly heard the singing by t.A.T.u. «Нас не догонят» were the words sang by them.

I should note here that the last time I heard that song was maybe when I was in the middle school. There was a music program in the mornings with charismatic man and some off-screen Natasha(?). Then I heard this song for sure.

I woke up and asked basically the same question only this time green would mean I was that person, and red would mean I was not.

Dream: I'm in the village. It's early spring and there are no [green] leaves on trees. I do look at the trees I planted years ago. I want to shove the remains of the snow somewhere on the backyard – under some plant, I guess. There was mother in the house who I think was unlocking the door of the small house.

Before I wake up, I clearly hear another singing, by Melanie C – "I Turn to You" words were sung.

There were no reds that I can remember.

And here's the ambiguity. For me music is something produced by the musical instrument created by people – piano, guitar, cello, drums, etc. I do not consider solo singing that has recognizable words to be music – it's singing for me. At best I may consider music singing of 'Ahh', 'Ohhhh' etc (vocalize).

I did not hear musical instruments during those two songs. In fact, I should ignore the second song by Melanie because I had already received the answer and asked another one. But! It's another slight error I made – just in case, before asking the question with colors, I should have stated that the previous answer is considered answered and I no longer wait to hear its indicators.

Lack of green usually meant the answer can't be given right now. It doesn't mean I was not that person. And I think that cat might have roared (was it a real animal? It looked like that, yes. Since I was among cubes I needed to collect, I can't say about the actual size of that cat; it appeared large but maybe it's because I was small.)

As it happens, I asked the question because of ambiguity, but still introduced ambiguity. Might have heard singing because of that mistake; so that I learn from it.

If I ever use music again as an indicator of an answer, I'll have to remember to exclude singing of any kind from it and give examples of what I expect to hear – musical instrument created by humans.

October 10, 2024. As I planned in the morning, I asked my HS and Thiaooubians to say the name I had in my past life in which I was a leader in China. Part of me thought I might not get the answer because I already know it; it did not mention that idea.

There was no answer. But there was something else:

Saw video about myself as Vivien Leigh. Watched it on YouTube which surprisingly worked without any 3-rd party apps needed to be turned on; it was a clue it's a dream (sigh…) and I could potentially become lucid in it.

Before 2 girls asked something about the back door in village (large) house. I was on the road near ex hospital – Mary Magdalene dream showed it too.

Then there was my plate I thought to wash in the Cherkizovskiy lake and then thought why I didn't go home for that when I was near it.

In the square near ex cinema there were new pathways. Strange ones; unfinished maybe ending up in squarish shapes with some square extrusions. All was overgrown. Men sitting and talking behind bushes where the plants were – I specifically looked at them to see how they are.

…And now I walk into village. I see our old large wooden house. I walk into the small house then.

Inside there's Lisa in the terrace. She brushes her hair while looking into the mirror(? I did not see it myself) on the wall above where the fridges used to be (irl there were never mirrors there in my time for sure)

I tell mom about 2 girls. They're not there. But then their cars parked outside in the gravel road — I see them through the small houses window.

Then I see video of Cher on my phone.

Cher 2 times shown with daughter(?) who 1st wore white and then — or was it another girl(?) — wore red. The first time she was as if grown and wanted to be like her mother(?) – at least in style(?) (maybe when I saw that scene I remembered the story of Cher having s with males which were brought for her after concerts(?))

Cher singer. Song? 2 songs heard the other night.

The other girl has black hair. It was a video I saw on phone. When Cher appeared, it was as if it was my reflection.

The girl looked like that rus p performer — no hc scenes. Also, after dream I thought about Natasha looks — Velozavodskaya 11/1. Me as Cleopatra sometimes portrayed with that hair style – front hair cut short to the eyebrows.

Yesterday I heard singing two times (not music). People sing songs (Emperor Guangzong of Song). Cher is a singer. And the dream daughter of hers has parallels with me also (see below).

(I noticed that Cherkizovskiy lake has ‘Cher’ in it)

It might have been a hint that yes, I was that person.

Also, I’ve noticed – and more evidence will some shortly – that sometimes the ideas are pulled from the Universe’s ‘database’ and presented in our dreams about topics, subjects, and people we might have thought, saw, interacted with, etc., during the day.

So, it might have been another mistake of mine to use music as an indicator for someone who has ‘Song’ in the title. It all got mixed up.

It’s also something to keep in mind for my future questions, because if a particular color may be of significance to the life I’m inquiring about it may cause some issues too.

Apparently, Cher played Cleopatra (me) in a sketch comedy, and maybe it's the reason why it was as if I was looking at myself in the reflection when her image was revealed on the screen. She also dressed as me (Cleopatra) for Halloween of 1988 – the year of my birth.

There was also a s story about Cher and 13-year-old Anthony Kiedis of RHCP.

The first video I watched while eating was Cher — Strong Enough. During the first seconds there's a 3d model of her shown and then it rotates around the Y-axis. Yesterday before going to bed I was working on a test 3d program to figure out how to make the camera orbit around 3d models; I've partially succeed and was able to rotate around my 3d model on Y-axis and then on X.

Melena Maria Rya is the name of the girl who the girl in the dream looked like (maybe it was her).

She had alias of Tara — the house in Gone with the Wind is called the same.

Maria clearly has a connection to me.

Another name she had is Lena and also Elena. It seems like someone named Elena (Lena) used to have the electrons (part(?) of 19%) I now have.

On Metart there's a set of her wearing red dress. There are many pictures of her wearing white ones too, of course.

October 11, 2024. I'll have to ask my HS if I lived a certain number of lives at various centuries in which I found out I lived in my past lives. Before that I decided it's wise to learn what happens when someone aborts pregnancy – does it count that the soul of the unborn child lived a life? Green – yes, red no. (I phrased the question in Russian and the wording was different).

At first, I was walking somewhere in the street. 2 men were walking in front and then one of them drew our attention to a white egg lying on the road.

Then I was in ex Cherkizovskiy store (between metro and Locomotive stadium entrance). That store was demolished several years ago.

I took shoes and then brought them back. I was looking to buy(?) some cloth and at first I thought it's not the store for that; there were huge shelves with sneakers, etc.

I found some cloths but they were not of the color I sought (purple, violet). Shades of blue is what I remember.

As I walked to another location, I saw a girl putting on some red bonnet. Now this was clear as day. Maybe other of her cloths were red too.

Then I checked out a cloth which might have had traces of pale green; it's like it could become more green if it was given a chance to evolve a bit.

Raining. Thunder. Returned back. Can I buy an umbrella? Someone offers to sell me it but I go further.

Check weather forecast. Will the rain stop soon?

I wanted to go to other store since this one had no colors I wanted. I think I was aware of red being related to that other store... Maybe its roof…

The scene changed suddenly.

I was in a bus which was in the waters of Telvyakovo lake (we used to drive there to swim; it's relatively not far away from my village). I saw blue sky and trees in the distance – it was summer; the shore was not that far away, but I'd have to swim if the bus would… I was aware that the bus was green – but I was never outside it.

Trees were green in summer. I did not exactly focus on them.

The bus started spinning and I think it was obviously sinking. I did think at one moment that the bus had to travel somehow on top of the water to be that far; I thought it was safe; but maybe it wasn't…

Before some dreams about clowns? Had one red hair?

Surprisingly, the answer seems to be if you, having being inserted already into an embryo, were never born then life does not count…

But there are several points to consider also since after seeing clear as day red color, I was gradually presented with various shades of green going from pale to a more mature saturation. The bus seemingly sinking in the water is probably related to abortion; you almost alive (green is outside) but then you die…

Maybe it depends on time. And it goes from red (first weeks/months of pregnancy) to green (latest weeks/months of pregnancy).

It's something I might ask my HS at a later date.

October 12, 2024. Asked my HS if in the 20-th century AD I lived 4 lives, including my own: Angelo Mario Rotta, Vivien Leigh, Michele Avila, Evgeny Meshkov. Purple — yes, yellow – if I lived more than 4.

. (Woke up and it was dawn at least. Could not remember the details of the dream; didn't feel like I saw colors. At one point the neighbor started yelling and watching tv, so I put my noise canceling headphones and fell asleep while trying to remember the dream.)

In the new final dream I saw 4 sausages being boiled in the blue ladle. I then was peeling one of the sausages and the idea was that I should remember to take just one. Then I removed the wrappings from the rest of the sausages.

I never thought about it, but the wrappings are of purple shade – a bit on the darkish side. The unwrapped sausage is of paler shade of purple.

October 13, 2024. Asked my HS regarding Venus (Roman goddess). In case the myth stems from a person who actually existed, I wanted to know if I was that person (I had difficulties phrasing my words, but eventually I think I got it right). Red – I was, blue – I was not.

In one scene I was near Sheredar river. Overflown.

Dima (I think it was him) showed something in it but my mood was off.

Then I remember giant... Elephants? Giant someone. In like bamboo forest or something.

Another dream or scene had a huge tunnel going down. I think motorbike was blue. It went down with Sergey. Vova and I jumped down to save him, sliding down the longest ramp and holding the railings on the right to slow us down.

I was curious if mother then wore red when I talked to her? But doubt.

When I woke up it was still dark outside. Being unsure if I saw red too I asked my HS to please repeat the answer for my last question I had recorded on audio.

In the dream I see Blue walls of Magdalene (college) in Oxford or Cambridge.

But there were walls of the pink going to possibly Red also. The view changed between them because I was unsure(?) where to go or something.

Asked my HS to hear music created with human instrument if I got 2 answers. Blue and red.

I also asked my HS at one point – thinking the answer is I was not — to explain me why I have synchronicities with Venus.

In another dream I thought Phombie was helping his wife play a game. Or he was just present while she was playing and they talked of something. Game like dlc to Elden Ring or the like.

Then I saw the name read Tey.

I listened to my audio question and I didn't see any reasons for getting 2 answers meaning I was not, but maybe in a way I also was Venus.

But I know what to do next regarding this question. I read again about Venus and it appears Romans borrowed ideas about her from Greek goddess Aphrodite – whom I've seen in my research of my past lives too.

I'll have to ask a similar question about Aphrodite now.

I'll add that in case of Heracles the answer was also that I was not [him] but maybe in some way I was (that one match of the color which would indicate I was). I'll hopefully have time to ask my HS again more questions about this too.

October 14, 2024. Yesterday I was reading about Aphrodite and then followed a link to read about Astarte. I saw that her equivalent is Isis (Egypt), Venus (Roman), Aphrodite (Greek), etc.
